Comedy troupe forming

To play Friday nights at the Rustic

By Marshall Smith Assistant Editor

omedy improv night at the Rustic Theatre joins a busy summer schedule of festivals, concerts and an author series.

'What's the Worst that Could Happen," local entertainment entrepreneur Scott Foster's tip of the hat to famous improv progenitors Kentucky Fried Theatre and Saturday Night Live, will inaugurate what Foster and Rustic owner Phil Calderone plan as a monthly laugh fest beginning 10 p.m. Friday, May 3, and continuing the first Friday of each month through October. Producers hope the unscripted and unpredictable evenings of comedy will entice local audiences to return every month.

State changes tune on recycled water funding

IWD uncertain about grant funds

By J.P. Crumrine EDITOR

uring its evaluation of Idyllwild Water's District's application for grant funds to construct a proposed water recycling plant, the State's Water Resources Control Board determined that Idyllwild's population is too wealthy for a significant grant. Instead, the board is proposing a $973,000 loan coupled with about half the grant money.

Funding for the facility will not be denied, but more will be a loan to be repaid than grants or forgiven loans. The total funding tentatively being offered to Idyllwild is about $1.3 million, of which $324,000 is a grant and the balance a long-term loan.

The SWRCB has decided that Idyllwild's median household income was $55,500. This is 90 percent of the state's median income and to qualify as a disadvantaged community, the limit is 80 percent.

Secondly, the state agency compared the local district's water rates to the median income and decided the rates were too low, less than a half percent of median income and the SWRCB recommends 1.5 percent.

Fire fee 2012-13 billing delayed

By J.P. Crumrine EDITOR

ppeals of the state's fire prevention fee have been overwhelming. Nearly 10 percent of the bills mailed this fall have been appealed, according to Daniel Berlant, CAL FIRE's information officer.

Consequently, the bills for the 2012-13 fee have been delayed indefinitely, he said. The bills were scheduled to begin mailing April

More than 87,000 appeals were filed, of which 71 percent pertained to issues that CAL FIRE had no legal authority to decide, Berlant said Monday in an interview. Examples of these issues included objections to the fee's legality.

CAL FIRE wants to review all the other appeals before mailing a new set of bills. These include issues such as the number of structures or ownership changes before the original billing was sent.

'We're only about half way through the reviews," Berlant said, stressing that

Outside Idyllwild

By Bruce Watts

Spring forward ...

You can't cut a foot off one end of a blanket, sew it onto the other end and think you have a longer blanket. But that is what Daylight Saving Time tries to accomplish every spring.

Like it or not, you can watch the sunset after you have dinner in the summer months.

I remember as a kid when our bedtime was 8 p.m. My mom would try and force us to go to bed when it was still light out during the summer. "We can't go to sleep when it still light outside," we told her and she admited we had a point.

Nevertheless, it is officially spring and the mountains are showing the signs of the warmer weather. Daffodils are in full bloom, trees and lilacs are covered with leaf buds and fruit trees are beginning to show their blooms throughout Idyllwild.

In the last week, I have seen trees of many different flavors, such as apple, apricot, cherry and plum, covered a giraffe in Idyllwild, but there he was, calmly walking in flowers. Beehives sent out their squadrons and worker across the road.

bees are busily buzzing from flower to flower.

The pink flowers of the cherry and ornamental plum trees are particularly striking. The whitish flowers of the apple and apricot make up for their lack of color with their profusion of blooms covering every branch and twig.

Since my ankle sprain still hobbles me, I have been taking it easy. In search of interesting photographs, I have limited my walks to town and around my neighborhood. So far I have not been disappointed with the flowering season of willows and fruit trees.

I rode to Hemet yesterday and noticed that the wildflowers were in bloom at the bottom of the hill in Valle Vista. It can only mean that they will be making their way up the mountain in a month or so.

So my goals for April photograph shooting are to get to The Hub, down the road toward Halfway Spring and to Garner Valley for the goldfields bloom. Last year I got decent shots with my 8-megapixel point-and-shoot camera; so I should be able to get some great shots this year with my new rig.

On the hiking front, I got a call from my friend Joe who is now retired. I hope on Thursday that I will complete my hike (interrupted by my ankle sprain) from last week and be off and hobbling around the mountain again.

Finally, I had an unusual animal sighting on the road to the Nature Center. In fact it was so rare and unusual that I dare call it unique.

In my 37 years on the Hill I have never seen a giraffe before. I can say truthfully that I never expected to see

> Well, one thing led to another and I talked my giraffe friend into coming home with me. We are now inseparable and I take Shingo (Swahili for neck) with me everywhere I go. He fits comfortably in my pack and with his orange and black coloration, he is very photogenic. Add to that, I never have to feed him and he 1/3 cup water still for portraits.

Food and weight, the shame of it all ...

Tapenade is a palate-pleasing spread of Mediterranean origins, and a great start to a nice dinner.

Tapenade spreads make great appetizers and are primarily served with pita chips, fresh vegetables, crackers and baguette slices which have been brushed with olive oil and lightly toasted in the oven. Grapes on the side are a nice touch to finish the appetizer. Tapenade helps the busy cook since it can be prepared a day before and refrigerated. When ready to serve, just bring it to room temperature.

Most of the recipes call for the bitter kalamata olives, although other ingredients also have a pungent taste. Go ahead and pinch your nose together, some of the recipes call for anchovies or anchovy paste.

Tapenade is great paired with wine or beer. You knew would get to it sooner or later.

Try going online to see all the variations on these delicious spreads.

The first recipe I have tried is a very tasty appetizer. It came from the Press-Enterprise's February 1996 food section. I believe the recipe is originally from the Almond Board of California and Sonoma Dried Tomatoes.

Try it, you will love it.

Dried tomato-almond tapenade

Makes about 2 cups

2 cups (3 ounces) dried tomato halves hot water for reconstituting 2/3 cup whole raw almonds, toasted is always willing to stand 1 can (2-1/4-ounce) sliced ripe olives, drained

Obituary — William R. Van Cleave

William R. ("Bill") Van Cleave, professor and director of the Defense and Strategic Studies Program at the University of Southern California (USC) from 1967-1987, and emeritus professor, director and founder of Missouri State University's Department of Defense and Strategic Studies (DSS), passed away on March 15, 2013, at his family home in Idyllwild, Calif. He was 77 years old.

Born and reared in Kansas City, Mo., Van Cleave enlisted in the Marine Corps a month shy of his 18th birthday and was deployed to Vienna, Austria, as an American embassy guard during the Four Powers Occupation of the city. He transferred to the Marine Reserves in 1957 and moved to California where he earned a B.A. in political science at California State University Long Beach (1961) and a M.A. (1965) and Ph.D. (1967) in government and international relations at the Claremont Graduate School. Upon graduation, he joined the faculty of the School of International Relations at USC and two years later was recruited to serve as a special assistant to the Secretary of Defense and a member of the U.S. delegation to the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT). He was the sole witness called to testify before the Senate in opposition to the SALT and ABM Treaties in 1972 (from which the United States subsequently withdrew).

Van Cleave was a member of the precedent-setting "B-Team," commissioned in 1976 by then Director of Central Intelligence George H.W. Bush to review intelligence community estimates of Soviet military capabilities and strategy. He was the senior defense advisor to candidate Ronald Reagan in both the 1976 and 1980 presidential campaigns, during which time he was also a founding member of the Committee on the Present Danger. Upon Reagan's election in 1980, Van Cleave headed the Pentagon Transition Team, later serving as a member of President Reagan's General Advisory Committee on Arms Control. He was a senior research fellow at Stanford University's Hoover Institution, a member of the Board of Editors of several defense-related journals, and a consultant and advisor to numerous government boards and commissions.

Professor Van Cleave is best known for his work as an educator in defense and strategic studies, first at USC where he was thrice honored as Outstanding Professor of the Year and later at Missouri State University where the department he founded now resides. Van Cleave-trained students have served in some of the most prominent positions of government including senior members of the National Security Council staff, Secretary of the Air Force, Assistant and Deputy Assistant Secretaries of Defense and State and key leaders of the U.S. intelligence community, as well as distinguished positions in industry and academia.

He is survived by his daughter, Cynthia K. Van Cleave; three grandchildren, Amber D. Van Cleave-Misa, Monica K. Gibson, and Christopher R. Gibson; and three sisters, Linda Schooler, Pat Lamport and Marcia Donnelly. He had two other children who predeceased his passing: Monica K. Van Cleave and William R. Van Cleave II. A William R. Van Cleave scholarship fund has been established to support worthy graduate and undergraduate students; donations may be made payable to the National Institute for Public Policy, 9302 Lee Highway, Suite 750, Fairfax, VA 22031.

Ponds and Waterfalls for Idyllwild

Nationally-recognized Carl Petite, pond and waterfall expert from Columbia Water Gardens in Hemet, will be speaking on building ponds, streams and waterfalls at the Tuesday, April 2, Idyllwild Garden Club meeting.

Carl has an inspiring slide show on both tiny and ambitious garden water projects. He'll explain the right approaches to building one yourself, how to avoid costly mistakes, pass around pond equipment parts and help you determine if you want fish in your pond or just want the relaxing sound of falling water.

A pot-luck buffet lunch will be served at noon, and Carl will begin speaking around 12:30 p.m. at the Community Presbyterian Church, 54400 N. Circle Dr., in the meeting room off the back parking lot.

Following Carl's presentation, he will conduct a short walking tour on Cedar Street. We'll visit both a small homeowner-built pond and an enormous show-case pond with cascading streams and koi at the Silver Pines Lodge.

For the remainder of the afternoon, Carl is offering complimentary site consultations for anyone thinking of adding a water feature to an entrance, deck, garden or even inside. If you would like Carl to visit your garden, call Elizabeth Miller, program chair, at (951) 659-0550. Absolutely no charge.

No membership is needed to attend, but donations are greatly appreciated. The Idyllwild Garden Club welcomes new members to its lively, fun group.

INITIAL THOUGHTS

Public involvement ...

According to some in Washington, the Forest Service's inability to share with the public the potential consequences of the sequestration law is the lack of an operating plan, which must first be shared and approved by an Appropriations Committee. But it is likely the initially sequestration reductions will result in 500 fewer firefighters nationwide.

According to unconfirmed reports in a national newspaper, the Forest Service's wildfire funding may be reduced an additional $500 million.

So I still cannot provide you with fully accurate information regarding the Forest Service's plans for the coming fire season.

The Federal Aviation Administration is able to identify which air traffic control towers will be closed. Two in Riverside County — Riverside Municipal and Ramona — will be affected.

The airports will not be closed, but coordination of flights will be the responsibility of the pilots.

Now shouldn't we know how much help the Forest Service will be able to provide the Hill this summer in case of a fire?

Shouldn't their local partners — Idyllwild Fire and Riverside County Fire — have some idea, just as the pilots do, what they will have to do alone?

I'll keep you posted.

Speaking of fires, which are typically emergencies, I want to congratulate and thank Bill Baker for the work he has done for R.A.C.E.S. during past fires and to prepare for potential future emergencies.

The county Office of Emergency Services wanted to present Bill with a plaque at a MEMSCOMM meeting, but it didn't happen. This week, Bill received the recognition at the weekly Woodies project. See his photo on page 5.

Environmental act helps

The California Environmental Quality Act is needed now more than ever. When widespread fracking is on the horizon, global warming and its impacts are ever more real, water supplies are diminishing; huge and costly infrastructure projects are under consideration at the state and local level, this is not the time to weaken the California Environmental Ouality Act.

The California Environ-

four important things.

First, it makes the government agencies at all levels stop and think before they act. For instance, high-speed trains, Delta tunnels and desert energy projects. The California Environmental Quality Act makes government agencies fully analyze the pros and cons of any proposed project that might have a significant adverse impact on the environment, even if it appears to be a "good" project.

Second, the California

mental Quality Act does Environmental Quality Act impact, the governmental gives ordinary members of the public real power in the project approval process by requiring the public agency to respond substantively to all comments that members of the public make on the legally mandated draft environmental impact report before the government takes action.

> Third, the California Environmental Quality Act includes a substantive mandate. If an environmental impact report identifies a measure that could eliminate or lessen a negative agency proposing the project is required to implement that measure.

Fourth, the California http://ceres.ca.gov/ceqa/ Environmental Quality Act even makes environmental activists stop and think that if we need a process that makes government stop and think, require full analysis, and that full mitigation for impacts should be required if it is feasible to implement such mitigations, then we need to be willing to have our own projects measured by the same yardstick.

Retrocausality: How the past, present, and future are connected ...

I don't know why, but recently I have been waking up to the sound of beautiful music in my head. While it sure beats a noisy alarm clock it got me thinking, why do I find this music so beautiful?

If I were to hear this music during the day, but with each note seperated by minutes instead of connected to each other, would I still find it beautiful? Would I even consider it music? So let me introduce you to the idea of retrocausality.

Retrocausality (aka backwards causation) is an idea which has gathered much attention in the field of theoretical physics. It poses the question, "Can the future affect the present and can the present affect the past?"

If you have been keeping up with my columns and Youtube links, you probably came across the one that postulates how, if all of space exists in the universe, then all of time must also exist (since time and space are part of the same fabric).

Some famous scientists, such as Richard Feynman, even proposed that the positron is simply an electron moving backwards in time.

So back to my music example, I find this music beautiful because each note I hear actually changes the meaning of the note that preceded it and so on for each note that follows. This applies to all music, not just the piece that my brain uses to wake me up.

If heard each note separately, it would just be a series of random sounds. Collectively, they transform the essence of each, regardless of which note came first or which came

Believe it or not, there have been experiments using photons that provide tantalizing evidence to support the idea of retrocausality. But even if proven true, don't get in your DeLorean so you can go back to the 1950s.

Retrocausation does not mean time travel, it simply means that our perception of cause and effect is relative to our sense of time during which an event unfolds, if even just for an instant.

SPEAKING FOR THE

ANIMALS

By Shela Boynton, Idyllwild

The dreadful decision ...

Anyone reading this column knows the pain associated with having to make the decision to spare a sick or older animal further suffering. And, yet, as responsible pet parents, it comes with the territory.

If ever there was a time to speak for your dog or cat, this is it. They depend on us to use our good judgment on their behalf.

Websites offer checklists to guide us through the process of figuring out when it's time to let go. A helpful one is found at www.allpetsmacomb.com.

It asks you to rate areas related to pain that can't be controlled, warning that animals will often hide their pain. Appetite is another important area to consider, as is hydration. Healthy animals will eat and drink what they need. Lack of hygiene can be an indicator. Activity and mobility should be observed and rated, along with mental status and happiness.

Review changes in general behavior. Does your pet have more bad days than good? Finally, honestly face your own perceptions and feelings. Are your needs interfering with making the best decision for your pet?

If you have a vet you trust and who knows the animal, he or she can be a helpful resource.

But really, no one can make that moral and very personal decision but you. And no one feels the pain and guilt the way you will, wondering if you have made the right choice, whatever that might be.

We all handle this situation differently. Others who are uncomfortable with strong emotions and don't understand what you are experiencing might say such things as, "Oh, it's only a dog." Or "You can always get another cat."

Please know that it's never foolish to strongly grieve such a loss. Our relationships with animals are often the purest and most satisfying of any we have in a world that is increasingly complex and cruel.

Roy dismisses lawsuit against Chamber

By Marshall Smith ASSISTANT EDITOR

The Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce directors are apparently free of the restraints on their time and finances from the two lawsuits local tree carver David Roy, creator of "Harmony," the town monument, filed against them.

Chamber President Chris Titus confirmed Roy signed the release of the second suit on Monday, March 11. The first suit was dismissed in January and the second was filed shortly after. Superior Court records show Chamber had reneged on a the dismissal was filed on Friday, March 15.

Titus said Roy attached no conditions to the release. This time the release was granted "with prejudice," meaning Roy cannot file another suit against the Chamber on the same cause of action and set of facts.

Almost immediately after Roy accepted the Chamber carving commission, disagreements arose between him and the Chamber over aspects of the contract and promise to supply a useable tree for the carving and that was the chief cause of delay. The Chamber contract contained no agreement to supply a tree for carving and previous boards disputed Roy's claim. Roy claimed the agreement to supply a useful and appropriate tree was verbal. Those disagreements served to delay delivery of the carving by almost four

Roy contended in the lawsuits he filed against the the process. Roy claimed the Chamber in late 2012 and ber had verbally agreed to pay him to refurbish the monument in July, 2012. The Chamber disputed that allegation but indicated a willingness to sit down with Roy to discuss his claim. That discussion never occurred.

The Chamber's answer to Roy's claim, upon which the dismissal was in part based, contended the lawsuit was "frivolous and in bad faith," and that any purported damages that Roy may have sustained, were "the result of negligence, recklessness,

Quik Stop opens

Jim and Sandi Fulcher, owners of Country Farms on Highway 243, recently opened their second Idyllwild store, the Country Farms Quik Stop near the Rustic Theatre.

"We opened on the 15th [Friday, March 15]," said Jim, proudly showing off his lighted menu board. Although small in square footage, there are many edible delights to choose from at Quik Stop.

In addition to a broad selection of sandwiches, soups, and gelatos, Sandi was enthusiastic about a dessert item she found at a food trade show that she hopes will appeal to Idyllwild customers with certain food allergies — a whey based soft serve,

Customers understand, says Pine Cove Water GM

By Marshall Smith Assistant Editor

Although all Hill water districts have been plagued by leaks from this year's unseasonably cold winter, Pine Cove suffered the fewest water losses of the three. General Manager Jerry Holldber credited district customers' from the freezing winter. cold weather preparations.

In the first two months of 2013, PCWD water production was up 17 percent, Fern Valley had a 24-percent increase, and Idyllwild's water production grew nearly 40 percent. All three districts saw burst and leaking pipes

"I believe the people of Pine Cove are listening," Holldber told his board of directors at its Wednesday, March 13, meeting. "I'm happy with customer efforts," he said, commenting on customer winterizing preparations and their response to the district's water education programs.

"We've had few water issues," said Holldber, citing few district leaks on the customers' side since January, with only one of those leaks being major. "As cold as it was for as long as it was, we only had 12 leaks. I really think we're making headway on customer education." Holldber also credited the district's $25 restaurant gift certificate for reporting leaks as helping raise customer awareness about leak awareness and detection.

A district website advisory reminds customers, "Please remember that all water that passes though the meter is the homeowner's responsibility, even water lost due to frozen/broken pipes."

Holldber said customers could benefit from more district education about their shutoff valves. "This spring, we're going to do a [shutoff]

A final decision will not be needed for four to six months according to IWD General manager Terry Lyons. The state still has to make an official offer and IWD must take several perfunctory steps before its application is complete, such as enacting a recycling ordinance. Nevertheless, the board was disappointed with the recent news.

At the March 20 meeting, the IWD board decided to continue to take actions to complete its application for state funding while investigating other sources of money in order to reduce the borrowed amount.

Other sources of possible

Water Association and the Department of Agriculture Rural Development funds, as well as a local bond issue, according to Lyons. In response to a director's question, he stated his belief that the interest rate from the state would be at a substantially less than one for a bond issuance.

"The current exposure is minimal now," said Director Jim Billman, in favor of moving forward until a final offer and decision is needed in the fall. "Technically it buys time to do research on better funding."

At this point, IWD is completing its SWRCB recycled water application and will investigate other possible funding sources.

funds include the Rural a decision to construct the facility. Without additional funding, some directors were concerned about the cost to the district of the project.

We do need additional grant funding to do the project," said Director John Cook. "It's an important project if funding can be found." Director Michael Freitas was more succinct, "Would we do it without additional money?"

During the discussion, the board expressed surprise that the previously optimistic and encouraging attitude from the state had suddenly seemed to change.

Anders Wistroms, IWD's water consultant, said "It's important to understand, California has been in a recession for years. The gover-Wednesday's vote was not nor [Jerry Brown] has been

The board also plans to research the state's assessment of the local median income figure. If it represents the entire 92549 ZIP code, the board thinks it may be high compared to just the IWD jurisdiction.

In other water business, Wistrom discussed his model of water supply and demand for the Tollgate Zone. He assessed the carrying capacity of the pipeline and the constraints on fire flow to Idyllwild Arts Academy.

The results of his work indicated that IWD could supply 700 to 900 gallons per minute to meet the school's fire flow needs, he reported to the board. He and Lyons agreed that some modifications of the infrastructure would protect customers in front of the school's pipe-

The next day, Laura Sherman, Idyllwild Arts' project manager, expressed optimism about the future resolution of the school's request for will-serve letters. This specific topic had been pulled from the IWD agenda at Idyllwild Arts' request. Sherman indicated the school may resubmit the application after they gain more clarity about the new

The district is continuing to work with Riverside County's Parks and Openspace district to lease a site west of Delano Road for the location of a new storage tank to supply the Tollgate feet last month.

In water business, Lyons continued to express concern about water levels for the district's wells and especially Foster Lake, which was at 7.5

"That's down from the past two years," he told the board. "Several wells are also already dropping." Despite the recent snowfall, Lyons was concerned that stream levels were not higher and that the recent high temperatures were melting the snow, which was passing through the community without percolating into the ground

We were able to move about two-thirds of the water to the lake compared to what we actually use," he said. If IWD cannot fill Foster Lake before summer, Lyons is worried about the water supply through fall. "We need to get the lake ready before summer. Half-full doesn't get us there. We have a limited supply of water — all rainfall or snow pack."

Fire lookout volunteers needed for the 2013 fire season

The Fire Lookout Host Program, one of the six programs of the Southern California Mountains Foundation (formerly the National Forest Association), is recruiting volunteers to staff fire lookouts for the 2013 fire season.

Lookout volunteers help to protect the forest and local mountains communities as well as the communities along the outside of the forest boundary from the threat of fire. They also act as hosts to the many visitors that frequent the lookout towers.

New lookout volunteer training begins April 6. To be a fire lookout host, volunteers are required to work eight hours a month, mostly between the months of May through November.

To be a lookout, participants must complete several hours and four sessions of training:

- 1. Orientation: two-hour introduction to the pro-
- 2. Interpretation/Natural History: three-hour class.
- 3. Operations: all day seven-hour class.
- 4. In-Tower Training: eight hours, hands-on training that takes place in the lookout with an experienced

The dates and locations for new volunteer orientation are below:

- · Keenwild Fire Station (28500 Highway 243, approximately 1/2 mile north of Highway 74, Idyllwild), April 6 from 10 a.m. to noon and April 11 from 6:30 to 8:30
- Lake Arrowhead County Fire Station 91 (301 S Hwy 173, Lake Arrowhead), April 9 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.
- Del Rosa Training Center (4121 Quail Canyon Road, San Bernardino), April 13 from 10 a.m. to noon and April 15 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Dates and additional information can be found on the Southern California Mountains Foundation website, mountainsfoundation.org/fire-lookouts/fire-lookout-hosts/

Strange but true

Before the June 1944 invasion of Normandy, a crossword puzzle that was printed in the London Daily Telegraph contained the words "mulberry," "Neptune," "Omaha," "overlord" and "Utah." That may not seem to be a fact of much interest, but it turns out that those were all secret code words used by the Allied military in planning the upcoming offensive. The puzzle's author, a schoolteacher, was tracked down and interrogated, but the puzzle's content was ultimately chalked up to coincidence.

Foster, with a high profile background as a performer in stage, film and television, envisions 90 minutes of humorous commentary on whatever is going on in the world on that particular day or week.

"Improv to the actor is what scat is to the jazz singer," he said, an in-themoment unscripted riff on contemporary themes, some of which will be suggested by audience members.

When asked why improv is something both actors and audience enjoy, Foster said it's because, as Forrest Gump said, you never know what you're going to get. For an audience member, the unpredictability of the evening, the fact that there is no script, means that each improv session will offer new and different zany skits and moments. For the actor, it keeps them in the moment, Foster said. "It keeps you honest. And it doesn't always have to be funny. You deal with the problems and the scenarios that are in the room."

For non-actors (and Foster hopes some audience members will participate in some of the skits) improv spontaneity, growth and

State stores emergency mobile hospitals

No funds available

By I.P. Crumrine EDITOR

During the California Senate Budget and Fiscal Review Subcommittee on Health and Human Services hearing earlier this month, Dr. Howard Backer, director of the state's Emergency Medical Services Authority, indicated that the administration currently has no plan to maintain three emergency mobile field hospitals in the next fiscal year.

These field hospitals can be deployed anywhere around the state in response to disasters, such as earthquakes, floods, fires or other public health emergencies. In addition, EMSA reported that it removed the sole mobile field hospital from Southern California in an effort to reduce costs.

"It's surprising to me that there's no proposal in the budget to make sure these hospitals remain available for when disaster strikes," said Sen. Bill Emmerson, vice chair of the Senate Budget and Fiscal Review Committee. "And it's incredible that Southern California's only mobile field hospital was removed, considering the region's history of earthquakes, floods and fires."

According to Emmerson, state funding for the program was about $1.7 million. General Fund money had been removed two years ago, according to Backer.

has been piecemeal, but was transferred to Northern going to disappear in June at the end of fiscal 2012-13. "We've been scraping together funds to maintain the program for the past two years," he acknowledged. "As of June 2013, we can't continue the current arrangement."

However, Backer said that the agency has evaluated several alternatives, including reducing costs, which is why the Southern California Since then the funding mobile hospital has been preparation."

California.

EMSA recently received approval to use some federal grant funding to keep the assets and physical equipment. One hospital would be deployed rapidly in event of an emergency and the other two would follow, according to Backer.

"This is a short-term solution to sustain the assets," Backer stressed. "Long-term we need higher levels of

"I fully support the governor's commitment to keep California on a sound fiscal footing, and I don't believe that funding these mobile hospitals undermines that commitment," Senator Emmerson added. "When the governor updates his budget proposal in May, I hope that he reconsiders the need to prepare for emergencies."

Easter: An Idyllwild weekend | Annual Easter Egg Hunt Saturday

Publisher

With the last winter storm remnants still melting away, we welcome the warm afternoon sunshine and the friendly reminders of spring all around.

Easter reminds us of rebirth, renewal and rejuvenation. We need to remind ourselves that not only is Easter spiritually present in our lives, but physically as well. We need to get out and celebrate life with the nature that is ever-present in our lovely town.

As we feed our spirituality and psyche, let's look at what going on in Idyllwild this coming weekend.

Easter in Idyllwild begins with a traditional sunrise or "Son" rise service at 6:30 a.m. Sunday, March 31, at Inspiration Point at the west end of Double View Drive. Idvllwild Community Presbyterian Church, Chapel in the Pines and Idyllwild Bible Church jointly host the service. Bring a lawn chair, dress warmly and come to commune and celebrate Christ's Resurrection as dawn breaks gently over the mountain.

Scheduled Easter services:

- Queen of Angels Catholic Church — Good Friday Mass, 3 p.m.; Easter Vigil Easter Sunday Masses at 8 and 10 a.m.
- Good Friday service, 6-7:15 p.m.; Easter Sunday service, 9 and 10:45 a.m.
- St Hughes Episcopal Church — Good Friday service, noon; Easter Sunday service, 10 a.m.
- Idyllwild Community Presbyterian Church, 9:30
- Idyllwild Religious Science Easter service, 10 a.m. followed by the Easter Bonnet Parade
- Chapel in the Pines Christian Fellowship — Good Friday service, 5:30 p.m.; Easter Sunday service, 10 a.m.
- Shiloh Christian Ministries — Easter service, 10 observe the holiday.

· First Church of Christ Scientist — Easter service, 10 a.m.

For the children, the 20th Annual Idyllwild Egg Hunt begins at 10 a.m. Saturday, March 30, at the Idyllwild Community Center site on Mass, Saturday,7:30 p.m.; Highway 243. Also on Saturday, the Spring Festival at Town Hall will offer games, • Idyllwild Bible Church crafts, booths and much more. The fun begins at 11

> Sunday afternoon, at 1 p.m., the American Legion will hold its Easter Egg Hunt.

And finally, for the palate, area restaurants will be serving up Easter brunches and dinners. Check your • Spiritual Living Center, restaurant of choice for what they are serving: the Gastrognome serves Easter Brunch beginning at 10 a.m. with lunch items also available; Jo'An's lunch and dinner served from 11:30 a.m. until 8 p.m.; Arriba's brunch will be served from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m.; and La Casita will be closed to

After a one-year hiatus, the 20th annual Idyllwild Easter Egg Hunt is back in private hands. The San Jacinto Mountain Community Center Programs and Activities Committee (formerly the Idyllwild Community Recreation Council) will be presenting the event. It will be held at the Idyllwild Community Center property beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday, March

"There are over 2,000 eggs that will be hidden by the Easter Bunny and his volunteers," Dawn Sonnier said. "There are five age groups and hunts will stagger and begin by age group, with the youngest starting first."

The five age groups are toddlers up to three years, 4- to 6-year-olds, 7- to 9year-olds, 10 years and up and a senior "Over the Hill" category (55 and up, primarily intended for grandparents and grandchildren.) Sonnier noted the youngest attendees would be given a head start in the hunt for eggs, as had been done in the past.

Two golden eggs are among those hidden, and when found, will yield special prizes to the lucky finders — an Easter basket for the young and for the "Over the Hill," a dinner out. "The Easter Bunny will be there for photo-ops," Sonnier re-alike.

Last year, the county's Town Hall recreation program produced the event. This year, the county offered to return the event to the prior organizers.

An Easter Bonnet contest will also be held with prizes awarded for the best chapeau.

There is no charge for the event.

Jim Crandall, Palms to Pines Golf Association handicap chair, provided this report about the Friday, March 15, golf tournament.

The club held its regular monthly tournament at the Temecula Creek Inn Golf Course on the Creeks to Oaks links. The day was sunny and clear, and the course was in excellent shape. The front nine features trees and water hazards while the back nine adds hilly fairways to the mix.

Gary Brown (course handicap 15), took first place with a net 71, Bruce Marley (11) and Les Widerynski (14) tied for second with net 74s, and Chuck Alkire (12) and Robert Priefer (25) tied for fourth with net 75s.

The four closest-to-the-pin contests were won by Brown on Creek hole no. 2, Alkire on Creek hole no. 7, Jim Crandall Bruce Marley teeing off on the fifth hole of the Creeks links on Oaks hole no. 3, and Pete Capparelli on Oaks hole no. at the Temecula Creek Inn Golf Course.

Strange but true

The Baltimore Orioles had a pretty bad season in 1988. After the team lost its first 10 games, Bob Rivers, a deejay at Baltimore radio station WIYY, announced that he would stay on the air until the home team won a game. He kept his word, sleeping only between songs, for 10 days. When the Orioles finally defeated the Chicago White Sox, Rivers played "I'm Free" by The Who, and finally left.

Steele misses first cut of 2013

PROFESSIONAL GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele's streak of eight consecutive cuts made on the PGA Tour ended last week on the Bay Hill course in Orlando, Fla.

The Idyllwild native finished the first two rounds of the Arnold Palmer Invitational at five-over-par (76-73, 149), missing the cut by two strokes. Steele now has missed only one cut on the PGA tour this season.

He found himself in good company, however, since Photo by Les Widerynski Phil Mickelson missed the cut by five.

> Of the 468 holes he's played in official competition this year, he played only two holes worse than bogey — one double bogey and one triple — the latter coming in the first round last week and resulting in the missed cut.

> Steele will compete this week in the $6.2 million Shell Houston Open on another challenging course — the Redstone Golf Club Tournament Course in Humble, Texas.

Whitman fifth overall in Triathlon

Wins age group

Bill Whitman of Idyllwild participated in the Pasadena Triathlon (all three legs of the race were held at the Rose Bowl) this weekend. He finished fifth in the event of 800 participants and first in his age group (50 to 54).

The course was a five-kilometer run, 15-kilometer bike, and 150-meter swim. Since the swimming leg was last, this was a reverse triathlon. Whitman's total time was 50 minutes and 52 seconds.

"I had a good race," Whitman said.

Here they are, Idyllwild ... your 'A' team

By Chris Trout SJMCC spokesperson

Your team of professional advisers has been selected.

"These qualified professionals bring a knowledgeable perspective to this project. They ensure that the right questions are asked and that the right answers are given," said Janice Lyle, chairperson of the San Jacinto Mountain Community Center (SJMCC) board.

work in the mountain areas, this soft-spoken and astute design professional will be responsible for bringing to life the vision of the Butterfields and the residents of the Idyllwild area.

Jim's recent Idyllwild ence and 75 percent of his projects have included the

Idyllwild Area Historical Society archive building, several buildings at the Alhatti Resort in Pine Cove and a while ago, the remodel of the Creekstone

At least 20 homes in Idyllwild give credence to his understanding of what he calls "Mountain Style," which incorporates natural materials and traditional architecture, a perfect fit for the majestic setting of the property. The addition of glass in the entry lobby and other areas will permit visitors to enjoy the beautiful surroundings uninterrupted by walls and structural elements.

The Idyllwild Community Center property is a spectacular site, according to Jim. It has natural slopes, a creekside presence, and lots of statuesque trees and will actually be his greatest challenge.

Preserving the ambiance of the property will require retaining walls, terracing, and even some negotiating with the Army Corps of Engineers because Strawberry Creek, which is called a blue line stream, requires flood control measures.

When told of his selection, Jim said, "I am awed by the people involved in the project. This is going to happen and the opportunity, for me, will be a peak career experience."

"A" is for Accountant and our accountant, Lorna Quincey Houck, started coming to Idyllwild in 1999. Lorna and her husband enjoyed the small town and many hiking trails so much that they bought a cabin in 2008.

Lorna looks forward to assisting with this project. She states "SJMCC has a responsibility to its donors and the community to develop a process for financial accountability that is easy to understand and transparent to follow.

"The next few months will be spent outlining organizational and reporting requirements for structuring a workable financial and accounting system for today and for the future," she said.

And finally, "A" is for Attorney and, with Chuck Rettig, there is assurance that all the "i's" will be dotted and every "t" crossed as required by county, state, and federal agencies.

With a specialization in tax, business, charitable and estate planning, Chuck is a frequent lecturer and author at the local, state and national level. For more than 20 years he has served as chair and president of the PADI Foundation, a California nonprofit public benefit corporation.

reputation and has been widely acknowledged for his contributions.

When asked to describe his role in the development of the project, he said, "I look forward to having the Idyllwild Community Center and the Butterfield Family Center enhance the opportunities for interaction among members of the Idyllwild community. These facilities are intended to provide a place for people to get together and enjoy all that Idyllwild has to offer. I welcome the ideas and assistance of others as we move forward.'

Anza quake felt over large area

Normal for the Anza area says earthquake expert

By Marshall Smith Assistant Editor

The March 11 Anza earthquake, at magnitude 4.7, was classified as "moderate," and was felt over a wide area as far as Los Angeles, San Diego and Orange County.

Kate Hutton, Caltech seismologist, said the granite composition around the Anza area epicenter slows down or attenuates seismic waves less than other materials, thereby enabling those waves to travel greater distances.

leave the Peninsula Range distance is the key factor. more rolling." [and the granite features Palomar, Aguanga, Volcan and Cuyamaca mountains], the attenuation is more normal for the wider region," she noted. Having said that, Hutton added, "Most quakes in this magnitude range are felt over approximately the same distance."

who experienced the quake as more rolling than the sharp single jolts that may be have been dispersed and more familiar in Idyllwild as a result of San Jacinto Fault "Once the seismic waves zone activity, Hudson noted out, so the quake appears

"Whether a quake seems characteristic of that range's sharp or rolling depends more on where you are than any other factor," she said. She explained the closer one is to the epicenter, the more likely the effect is a sharp jolt or jolts.

'Generally, if you are very close to the quake, it appears as one or two sharp jolts [the For those in Idyllwild P, primary and S, secondary waves]," Hutton said. "At a greater distance, the waves some of the high-frequency energy has been attenuated

Hutton noted the num-Anza quake was greater than for other similar magnitude events, but the aftershocks registered as very small quakes and were not uncharacteristic of San Jacinto Fault zone activity.

She stated that a determination has not yet been made as to whether the quake occurred on the San Jacinto Fault or on one of the smaller lateral faults that magnitude 6.4; and 1987, cross the San Jacinto Fault and are part of its overall network.

As to future quakes and whether the magnitude-4.7 ber of aftershocks from the temblor indicates something larger in the near future, Hutton said one has to look at the zone's history of large quakes. Large quakes occurred in 1899 and 1918, each magnitude 6.6, and caused major destruction in Hemet and San Jacinto. Additional large quakes followed in 1923, magnitude 6; 1937, magnitude 5.9; 1954, magnitude 6.2; 1968, magnitude 6.2 and 6.6, one 11 hours after the previous. Looking back over that history, the intervals between major quakes on the San Jacinto Fault zone, beginning in 1899, were 18, 5, 14, 17, 14 and 13 years. It has now been 26 years since the last major quake in the San Jacinto Fault zone, almost twice the average interval between major quakes over the past century.

Hutton also noted that the nascent earthquake early warning system currently under development in California did provide advance warning in Pasadena, by 40 seconds, of the effects of the Anza quake.

Even though the science of earthquake prediction is growing in sophistication, all experts stress preparation for a major quake before, not after, the quake occurs. See www.earthquake.usgs. gov/prepare for earthquake preparation tips.

- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 tablespoon dried basil
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 2 large garlic cloves, coarsely chopped salt, to taste

In a bowl, cover the tomatoes with hot water and set aside at least 15 minutes. Meanwhile, place the almonds in bowl of a food processor fitted with steel blade. Process them, pulsing on and off until coarsely chopped. Remove almonds; and also set aside.

Drain the tomatoes. Add them with remaining ingredients except almonds and salt to the food processor bowl. Process until almost smooth, pulsing on and off, scraping down sides of bowl, as needed.

Now add the almonds; pulse on and off to blend thoroughly. Season with salt.

Serve with baguette slices, crackers and raw vegetables, or use as a sandwich spread.

Cover and refrigerate up to two weeks. Bring to room temperature before serving.

This recipe I admit I haven't tried yet, although I will be having a dinner party around April 1 and will be serving this as an appetizer spread. From allrecipes.

Fig and olive tapenade

Serves 6

- 1 cup dried figs 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 2 tablespoons balsamic vinegar

1 teaspoon dried rosemary 1 teaspoon dried thyme 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper 2/3 cup chopped kalamata olives 2 cloves garlic, minced

1/3 cup chopped toasted walnuts 1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese

Combine the figs and water in a saucepan over medium heat. Bring them to a boil, cook until tender and liquid has reduced. Remove from heat, and stir in olive oil, balsamic vinegar, rosemary, thyme, and cayenne.

Add olives and garlic, mix well. Season with salt and pepper to taste. Cover and refrigerate four hours or overnight to allow flavors to meld together.

Unwrap the cream cheese block, place it on a serving platter. Spoon tapenade over cheese and sprinkle with toasted walnuts.

Serve with slices of baguette or crackers.

Note: I would not put a block of cream cheese on a platter. First let cheese come to room temperature, then fill a pastry bag with the cheese. Squeeze out a pleasing presentation on the serving platter.

Good dining everyone.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Rumors of a change in the workplace could make you a mite uneasy about going ahead with implementing your ideas. Best advice: Ignore the talk and proceed as planned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Everyone has an opinion on how to handle a recent business suggestion. Thank them for their advice. Then go ahead and follow your own fine instincts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) While home is your main focus this week, new issues in the workplace need your attention as well. Take things step by step. Pressures ease in time for weekend fun.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be less rigid when handling a relationship problem. You might believe you're in the right, but try to open your mind to the possibilities of facts you're currently not aware of.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Leos and Leonas run at a hectic pace throughout much of the week. But by the weekend, the Lions' Dens become a purrrfect place for you Fine Felines to relax in.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Change is favored early in the week. This should make it easier for you to reassess your plans for handling a troubling professional relationship. Good luck.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A suggestion from a colleague could give your professional project that long-needed boost. Meanwhile, someone close to you still needs your emotional support.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Before complying with a colleague's request, check to see that the action benefits all, not just one person's agenda. Continue firming up those travel plans.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your social life is on the upswing, and the only problem is deciding which invitations to accept. Enjoy yourself before settling down for some serious work next CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) With your creative aspects on high, you might want to restart your work on that novel or painting you put aside. Your efforts will bring a surge in your self-es-

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) While you're generous with others, be sure you're not overlooking your own needs. Take time to assess your situation and make adjustments where necessary.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Being applauded for your achievement is great. But watch out that you don't start acting like a star. It could lose your valuable support with your next project.

of water soluble vitamins? Do you have family heredity issues? How about medications? Many increase the need for supplements and some prevent certain foods being consumed.

The video stated there are 13 known essential vitamins. What? They lump all the B vitamins together, what about the five plus E vitamins, then D3 being so different as exciting new research is revealing.

I am sure this video was created because so many supplements are on the market that do nothing!

Things to consider when researching supplement

Ask the manufacturer for their clinical studies. These studies should show the combination of ingredients does what it is designed to do with no side effects, only side benefits. The studies should be published for peer

Are the ingredients natural or synthetic? Vitamin A can have severe side effects at high dosage, but the natural beta carotene that your body converts to vitamin A when needed has no problems.

What tests are done for contaminants and how many tests? For example, Shaklee triple-distills their fish oil to ensure no contaminants.

Do they test for potency? If the vitamin isn't in the raw material, it won't be in the supplement.

Is the manufacturing done using standardized extractions and to FDA-approved good manufacturing process?

each batch to ensure the product contains what is on the label?

I sell and use one manufacturer's supplements because of the quality and

Thank you for pointing out clinical studies are expensive. That is why these supplements are higher priced than most.

I spend a lot of money on supplements to achieve optimum health. My husband's triglycerides went from 335 to 135 using their omegaguard fish oil supplement. He doesn't eat fish.

His cost of the supple-Is there a final test on ment is far less than the medication his parents are on and his cholesterol has never been lower. He doesn't have the horrible nonreversing side effects of the cholesterol medications.

for allergies. I don't have the side effects of dry mouth, or drowsiness taking over-thecounter or prescription. The side benefit is extra calcium for my bones and helps with arthritis if I had any.

My dog is enjoying alfalfa and being off Benadryl. These are our personal results, the supplements are not made nor approved for animals.

Other benefits we experienced are leg cramps solved with vitamin E or bleeding gums solved with timereleased vitamin C. Each person's body is different. We take a supplement and

I take a lot of their alfalfa let our body choose what it needs. If an adverse reaction occurs, stop. This goes for medication or supplements or any product.

One easy test on a multivitamin, drop it in a glass of water and see how long it takes to dissolve, if ever. Quality ones dissolve in less than 15 minutes.

Or you can check your septic tank and see if your synthetic, useless supplements are floating on the top. Do your research before spending your hard-earned money on supplements, that are needed.

Home: Finding Peace When Pets Die." He offers comforting thoughts, concrete suggestions and wise guidance for making a decision, preparing before taking action, dealing with guilt, honoring your pet, and how to make the most of your time with an animal whose time seems near.

That last part has been particularly helpful to me as I watch my 14-year-old companion creep closer to that stage. I don't leave her as often. I am more patient on our walks as she stops to sniff her diminishing world every few inches. There are more special treats added to her meals, more consciously loving words, more tosses of the tennis ball.

Eat, sleep and create art as a family at Idyllwild Arts Summer Program Family Camp

By Marshall Smith Assistant Editor

Idyllwild Arts Summer Program, which began in 1950, returns June 16 for its annual eight-week session. The very successful summer of courses in the arts attracts 1,700 students aged 5 to adult. Offered are over 100 hands-on workshops in creative writing, dance, music, theater, visual arts and Native American arts.

One of the little known staples of the Summer Program is the hugely popular Family Camp.

Family Camp

Family Camp offers families a one-week immersion in the arts - eating, sleeping and creating art together as a family unit.

Summer Program Director Steve Fraider created the program in 1992. He said he was inspired by UCLA's and Stanford's popular summer family camps that focused more on sports and competitive events.

"Why not have the same kind of family camp but one centered on the arts and not have it be competitive?" thought Fraider 21 years ago. Recalling how popular both the UCLA and Stanford summer programs were, Fraider said, "I stole the best of both programs."

Limited to 25 to 30 families, the Family Camp program was successful from its inception. "This program attracts a different type of family from the sporty types," Fraider said. "Because of the kind of families who come, who are interested in and supportive of the arts, the classes as individuals. But he noted, "Almost every family atmosphere at camp is magical. What unites them is the love of the arts.'

The unifying concept of Family Camp is to house participating families and their summer course instructors together in campus dorms, have them take their meals together at the campus dining hall and bond, not just within one's own family unit, but with teachers and the other participating families as well.

"It's 125 people living, eating, playing and taking courses together so that everyone gets to know each other. You do your classes and activities together," Fraider said.

Family Camp children's musical, a highlight of the family

Flexibility is the key, allowing families to find their way through course offerings, both as a family unit and as individuals. "There are some classes geared to younger children, like making a stuffed bear, that require using a sewing machine," Faider said. "That's the kind of course younger children would take with a parent, because of the sewing machine. Other classes, like stone carving classes for older kids, also need a parent because of the equipment used."

The program is set up so that families can take takes some classes together.

"Family Camp is a boarding and bonding experience first," said Fraider, that families come back year after year to experience. "It's not typical of the rest of our summer program," he noted. Besides families in tune with the arts, a special type of faculty member is needed who wants to integrate and share the creative and living experiences with participating families," Fraider explained.

"We do have some of the most interesting people come to Family Camp — educators, architects, artists, Silicon Valley entrepreneurs," he continued. "The atmosphere is so warm and contagious. For the right kind of family that values the arts, it is an experience like no other — very safe, noncompetitive with the highest level of instruction in the arts."

The final weekend of Family Camp features a family talent and art show and a children's musical. "It's a wondrous experience," enthused Fraider, who himself came to the program as a summer camper in 1965. Twenty years later, Fraider joined Bill Lowman and Bruce McMenamin in founding the Idyllwild Arts Academy and rejuvenating the summer program.

This year, Family Camp is from Saturday, June 22 through Friday, June 28. Fees, room, board, course fees and materials are based on how many are in the family and how many dorm rooms they occupy.

Summer Program Courses

Heather Companiott, director of the Summer Program's adult arts center and the Native American Program and Festival noted an important change designed for full-time Idyllwild residents. Companiott said full-time residents would receive, this year for the first time, 10 percent discounts on all courses offered.

The theme of this year's Native American Arts Festival is "Continuum." The week runs from Sunday, June 30, through Saturday, July 6, and invites participants to view current social and creative actions as contemporary manifestations of ancient rituals and traditions, a continuum rather than old versus new.

The weeklong festival includes hands-on workshops, performances, lecture series, art exhibits and informal discussions with visiting artists, tribal elders and scholars. One lecture element of the festival examines contemporary fashion takes on traditional Native American clothing. From Monday, July 1 through Friday, July 5, there will be a "pop-up" boutique with some of these designs available for sale. Native American food tasting is available every day of the festival.

Companiott called attention to one class in particular of interest to Idyllwild's quilting population — the acrylic ink quilting adventure. Offered from Sunday, June 30, through Tuesday, July 3, the three-day class explores fabric surface design using acrylic inks. Ultimately the fabrics that have been designed are incorporated, using free motion quilting.

CREATURE CORNER

By Mimi and Hootch

Welcome back to Sandy, our sun goddess.

Things don't always work out the first time, so she's back to share the sun with Oreo at ARF. Such a confident little girl, she prefers to soak up the rays, while Oreo and Shannon have playtime. Sandy is a young Chihuahua mix. She is good with other canines and felines. And she will always greet you with her favorite stuffed toy in her mouth.

Oreo is a young male Boston terrier-Chihuahua mix that loves to twirl and dance. He is good with other dogs, and doesn't even mind the feline crowd. Oreo was abandoned in his front yard as his people moved away. That's all in the past. though. He absolutely will love to sit in your lap, or be in your arms. Favorite treat: Pepperoni sticks.

Shannon is a middle-aged female Chihuahua. She was found wandering in Hemet, and after searching, we couldn't find her owner. She also loves the sun, and to have fun. She is playful with Oreo and Sandy. Not a fan of the feline crowd. though. She will sit for hours in your lap. Bring your purse, cause she will fit right in.

She's the diva of the cattery, Miss Jezabelle. Imagine that sitting in your window, curling up around a sun ray.

Add Heidi, Meow Meow and Clarence and you have a roomful of purrs and fur-love. March is two-for-one month. Yes, double the love. Adopt one furball and you get another as a friend. Senior Fun Day is noon to 2 p.m. March 27. Come on in to enjoy treats for humans and four-leggeds, and get your furry fix. ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www. arfidyllwild.weebly.

com and click on Petfinder. All pets are spayed, neutered, and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sundays. Call (951) 659-1122 or email info@idyllwildarf.org for appointment on any other day.
