The Riverside County Sheriff's Department would not release the identity of the victim or target of the terrorist threats. The arrest was made at the corner of Ridgeview and Village Center drives early Monday afternoon, April 7.

He was booked into the Larry D. Smith Correctional Facility in Banning.

Kellner already had an arraignment scheduled for Monday, April

Dean returns to Boston race

By J.P. Crumrine
News Editor

Mark Dean is nearly finished preparing for his second Boston Marathon, but the 51 weeks since his first Boston run have been depressing, discouraging and deceiving.

As many remember, the 2013 Boston Marathon was disrupted and damaged when bombs ignited near the finish line. Three people, including an 8-year-old boy, were killed and more than 200 injured, some severely and permanently.

Dean had already finished his race and was walking along a side street on his way to meet his wife when the explosions occurred.

Dean was uninjured, except for pulling his hamstrings during the race.

Despite the muscle cramping, Dean's finishing time still qualified him to return in 2014 for the 118th Boston Marathon to be run Monday, April 21.

Highway 74 temporarily closed Monday

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Highway 74 was temporarily closed in both directions Monday morning, April 7. A landslide was detected in the area where Caltrans has been working for the past several weeks just east of the Cranston Forest Service Station near Valle Vista.

As of Monday afternoon, no further closures of the highway were planned, said Chief Terri Kasinga, Caltrans District 8 Public and Legislative Affairs. The abutments constructed in recent weeks at the site "held up most of the slide," she said.

Caltrans was able to clean the portion of the slide on the roadway and reopen it to traffic. Emergency work will continue and a Caltrans geologist will assess the slope, Kasinga reported.

Traffic was disrupted for several hours Monday morning, with many people stopped and turned around finding a different route to Hemet or to Idyllwild. Idyllwild School Principal Matt Kraemer was the first Idyllwild-bound Hemet driver stopped and had to detour through Bautista to get to school.

Only one Hemet Unified School District bus was affected, according to Mike Fogerty, director of transportation. "The special-needs bus got down the Hill then had to turn around and go through to Anza," he said. "The driver did stop at the Anza school to give the kids a rest. We were lucky it was only one bus."

"The slope was damaged during the Cottonwood Fire last year," said Kasinga.

Free days in the forest

Because the National Park Service is kicking off its annual week Saturday and Sunday, April 19 and 20, an Adventure Pass is not required in the San Bernardino, Cleveland, Los Padres and Angeles national forests that Easter weekend.

An Adventure Pass normally is required to park only on certain lands within these four forests.

I-10 offramp closed in Banning

The Riverside County Transportation Department is doing work in Banning, closing the I-10 on- and off-ramps at Sunset Avenue until 8 p.m. Sunday, April 27.

The work involves relocating utilities, grading and repaving. The detours are: I-10 eastbound may exit at Sunset Avenue south to Lincoln and Westward; I-10 eastbound exit 22nd Street to Ramsey Street or Lincoln Street; and I-10 westbound exit 22nd Street to Ramsey Street or Lincoln Street.

Arsonist undergoes medical exam

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

A Riverside County Superior Court judge has ordered a battery of medical assessments for Steven Taylor Rutherford, 48, of Banning. The doctor's report is expected back for a May 1 hearing.

In February, Rutherford was charged with 13 felony counts of arson with enhancements, including use of a delayed ignition device and having a prior arson conviction. The arson counts include the Mill Fire of June 2013 and one along Highway 243 near Mt. Edna Road.

He was previously convicted of arson in 1989. Former Idyllwild resident Jennifer Adamson said her stepfather, Neil Ellis Nickel, who was with the Cal Fire and Riverside County Fire Department, initially arrested Rutherford in 1989.

Whitewater rest area now open

The Whitewater State Roadside Rest Area on Interstate 10 is open and ready to once again serve the public.

A $90,000, four-month project to replace an outdated pump system is complete. Also, more than 1,000 feet of new electrical lines and conduit were installed. Maintenance crews made general repairs to the two facilities and a fresh coat of paint was applied.

Also, because of the drought, Caltrans is cutting its irrigation by 50 percent as directed through the governor's emergency executive order.

OUT LOUD

You know those websites offering free samples with just a click and then, after you click once, you find endless requirements to click through offers until you get to the offer you sought in the beginning — or you've completely forgotten the dang offer?

They are appropriately called websites because I got caught like a fly in one of those "webs" recently trying to get free cat-food samples mailed and finally gave up. So I was surprised when I opened my P.O. box last week and found the samples.

Monday night, I tested a sample on my three hungry cats. I mixed the packet with 1/4 cup of warm water, per directions, set the bowl on the floor and watched two of them rush up to the bowl, sniff and then back away. I tried it on the third cat with the same result.

So I put the bowl outside to see if anything wild would eat it. Tuesday morning, the food was still on the porch, impressed with a small footprint. Even the wild things wouldn't eat it.

Why do some people believe their pets should eat like them? This product not only claims, "made out of love," but also 100-percent "human-grade" and "cage-free turkey, vegetables and fruits." The ingredients include pumpkin, potatoes, parsley, dandelion greens and cranberries.

I have seen cats eat grass to help with hairballs and get drunk on catnip herbs but I've never seen a cat reach up on its hind legs and pick berries. Maybe your cats do, but my cats don't seem to need vegetables and fruit in order to be healthy and happy.

So You Think You Know the Hill?

BY JACK CLARK
CONTEST JUDGE

This week you are again challenged to identify the particular spot depicted in this Hill photograph. It might be the exterior of a building or surrounding grounds of a commercial, governmental or nonprofit premises, or a public place in Idyllwild, Pine Cove, Fern Valley or Mountain Center. The prize is tickets to the Rustic Theatre, your picture in the Town Crier, and life membership in the No. 1 Hillbilly Detective Agency. If there is no winner during a week, the ticket prizes will accumulate.

Open to all ages. Only one entry per household. It doesn't matter how you submit your entry, as long as it's in writing, delivered by noon Monday (or Tuesday if the Town Crier office is not open Monday) to the Town Crier, attn: Jack, and you convince the judge that you found the exact spot. Just saying something like, "The wall around _____ restaurant" is not enough. You must describe the actual spot by pacing off or some other specific description.

Taking your own photograph of the spot would be ideal, but is not necessary to win as long as you persuade the judge that you have found the exact spot depicted in the contest photo. The decision of the judge is final. If there is no winner, clues will be given and the weekly prizes will accumulate. This is not a race.

If there is more than one person with a correct answer, a drawing will determine the winner, so keep your answer to yourself. Check out this week's new photo.

Jeff Smith submitted this photo as his contest entry this week. Except for the shadows, it's nearly identical to the contest photo itself, so the Smith family again wins a gift card worth two tickets to the Rustic Theatre. This is a view of the top of The Fort taken from Idyllwild Chevron looking toward Jo'An's. The Smith family members are all Hall of Fame photo contest participants. How about some more folk giving them a challenge this week?

FIRE & FOREST

By MIKE ESNARD,
MOUNTAIN COMMUNITIES
FIRE SAFE COUNCIL
PRESIDENT

Fire muster April 26, climate changing daily ...

On Saturday, April 26, the public is invited to a festive and informative gathering in Idyllwild of people connected to fire prevention and firefighting. At no admission charge, we hope everyone will come and enjoy the activities.

The Fire Safety Muster is from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Idyllwild Community Center site in the center of town. There will be representatives and booths from all the agencies and related groups, along with demonstrations and lots of equipment. This event is designed as family friendly with lots of ways to interest and engage kids.

The last muster was two years ago. They are not easy to put together since they require so many different people and agencies and because spring is a time for firefighters to begin their training prior to fire season. But this year worked, and we will have what I am sure will be a great gathering.

If you attended the last one, you might remember that the U.S. Forest Service's K9 demonstration stole the show (a dog immobilizing the "bad" guy). That will be back. Given that Idyllwild is a town with a canine mayor, I am sure the dogs will be as popular as they were last time.

Another popular event is Idyllwild Fire extricating an "injured" person from a damaged vehicle.

Cal Fire and the Bureau of Land Management exhibits will be there, and the Forest Service will not only bring the K9 unit and Smokey Bear, but its many clever ways to engage kids with water and hoses.

The event's goal is to get everyone's attention regarding fire prevention. Residents and people who know the area are quite aware of the threat of wild-fire and what we need to do, but people new to the Hill are usually not, and some of us forget. More information about this event will be released as the time approaches.

Moving on to another topic, climate change is not going to make our fire prevention and suppression efforts any easier. A recent report from the California Natural Resources Agency entitled "Safeguarding California," an update on climate adaptation plans, states the widely held position that warmer temperatures bring more frequent large fires.

Climate changes currently affecting forests are "longer, hotter summers, changing water availability, the spread of invasive species, and more tree mortality due to the spread of pests that were previously kept in check by colder, longer winters."

Climate change for our mountains is very likely to produce higher-average temperatures, less snow and moisture in general, and more extreme weather events, which can be anything from exceptionally hot days to powerful thunderstorms.

Our recent winter, with a virtual absence of snow at the height of the season, fits this pattern. We have also seen two pests spread in our local forests this past decade. The Goldspotted oak borer is the invasive pest, while the Pine bark beetle is the native that has flourished in the warmer, drier seasons. We can expect dead trees to add to the dry fuel in the forest, increasing the severity of fire.

As we consider our own plans for fire safety, it seems prudent to expect the overall climate to increase risk, rather than diminish it.

Last Wednesday, Idyllwild residents awoke to a light blanket of snow. A few inches of white precipitation covered the multitude of local wildlife art stationed in the center of town. Through April 3, Idyllwild has received a total of 12.5 inches of rain, only 55 percent of the long-term average through March.

Wild cubs killed near sanctuary

BY JAY PENTRACK
STAFF REPORTER

A bobcat cub was killed on Highway 74 recently at the entrance to Living Free Animal Sanctuary, apparently struck by a car. Just a few days later at almost the same location, a mountain lion cub was discovered, also apparently struck by a car.

Rudolph Nuñez, senior groundskeeper at the sanctuary, was heartbroken at the discovery. "For animal lovers, this is really sad," Nuñez said, shaking his head. "We just want to get the message out to folks to slow down and be observant of animals coming across the highway."

According to Nuñez, this is the time of year for new babies. "This is a sanctuary and this is where the animals feel safe. It's a no-kill zone and all of the animals know it is a safe haven here," he said. "There are many people who have been up here for years and they have never seen a bobcat or mountain lion, but this is the season for Bambis and all the other little critters."

Nuñez hopes people will be more careful when traveling near the sanctuary. "Slow it down, take in the beauty and watch out for the critters," he said. Jay Pentrack can be reached at jay@towncrier.com.

April 19 Lilac Walk and Tea

Idyllwild Garden Club is sponsoring the Lilac Walk and Tea from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, April 19, at Alpenglow Lilac Gardens, 25024 Fern Valley Road.

The Victorian tea that ends at 2 p.m. is $20, served in the patio overlooking the gardens, and includes a guided walk. To take the guided walk costs only $5. Tickets are for sale at the entrance.

The event brings back an old Idyllwild tradition when hundreds of visitors came here in early May to experience a unique Southern California event, the Reva Ballreich Lilac Gardens in full bloom. While Ballreich and those original gardens are now gone, they have been recreated at the Alpenglow Lilac Gardens. More than an acre of rare and unique lilac species from Europe and Asia are in cultivation. A special selection of hybrids and species were brought to Alpenglow from Ballreich's gardens prior to its closing. Many species are available for sale.

Garcia seeks state Senate seat

BY J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

California State Senate District 28 is currently vacant and Idyllwild voters will see five names on the June 3 primary ballot. Democratic candidates are Philip Drucker of La Quinta and Anna Nevenic of Palm Springs.

On the other side are three Republicans — Bonnie Garcia of Cathedral City, Glenn Miller of Indio and Jeff Stone of Temecula — vying for their party's nomination.

During the weeks leading up to the election, the Town Crier will introduce each candidate to the community and conclude with a story illuminating their priorities and policy differences.

Garcia is the former Assembly member from District 80 in the Coachella Valley. She served in former Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger's administration and has worked for former state Sen. and Assemblyman Jim Battin.

Since leaving the Assembly in 2008, she has "... missed [that] the high-level policy discussions of what we're doing have effects over the entire state, not just impacts in Palm Desert, but impacts in Eureka, too."

Since leaving her administrative post, Garcia has been teaching public policy at Chapman University. "This is an opportunity to work with adults who go back to school like I did," she said.

Consequently, she is anxious to get back into public service. She has plans to focus on economic development and education.

"Jobs drive the economy. People can't be retrained or grow without the right type of job. And our economy can't be competitive unless the workforce is educated," she professed.

Her experiences with individuals seeking a better education worry her about the future. "I've seen too many people surviving on two or three part-time jobs," she lamented. "That takes a toll on them and their families."

She stressed that her previous experience in the Assembly as a member of the minority party taught her to work with all members. "You have to check your ego at the door," she advised, "or victories are only in your eyes. I'm part of a team that wants to move policy."

Bonnie Garcia

She enumerated several bills, which she initiated, but were passed under the name of a member of the opposition party. "Your minority doesn't mean you can't work successfully," she stressed.

While there are three Republicans and two Democrats seeking their parties' nomination for the state Senate seat, the state's "top two" law only advances the two candidates receiving the most votes (regardless of party) to the November general election.

"I think the 'top two' is good. It creates a threshold where only two candidates can spar over policy reasons," Garcia said.

Artist Millie Shaw finds peace in Garner Valley

BY JAY PENTRACK
STAFF REPORTER

Artist Millie Shaw and husband Larry live in a beautiful, ranch-style home in Garner Valley and have spent 25 years making it their perfect slice of heaven.

The couple's warm welcome and Millie's easy Southern drawl typifies the kind of hospitality found deep in the South; it's like a big, warm hug. The view from virtually every window is breathtaking as is the Western art collection the couple continues to grow.

"We lived in Los Angeles in the early '80s and we started going to art shows like the San Dimas Art Show. Some famous artists used to participate in that show, people like Joe Biehler and Neil Boyle, so we started collecting art and it's like a snowball; it's very addictive," said Millie last week. "This weekend we're going to Scottsdale to a big auction. It's so much fun and it seems like the people in the art world are so nice, so down to earth. You rarely meet anybody who is even slightly pretentious. They are just ordinary folks."

In addition to the extensive art collection the couple has amassed, Millie has quite a body of work herself, having spent a large part of her life painting. Her love of art was born early, inspired and encouraged by her mother, who painted in oils. "She was a big influence in my life because by the time I was 13 or 14 I got really interested in painting and although money was scarce she was always willing to buy paint brushes, canvases," Millie said. "She loved music, she loved travel, she loved art and she loved to read. Even though she grew up on a farm in North Georgia, she loved Hemingway and all of these great writers. She lived to be 92. Naturally, I hope that I can do the same," Millie said with a smile.

Born in West Virginia and raised in Dalton, Ga., Millie is a true coal miner's daughter. Her father did everything — working in cotton mills and construction — "he was just kind of a jack of all trades." And while art was not his forte, he did love nature and took the family on frequent hiking and camping trips. Millie loved her life in the country growing up on Bear Creek Road, but the big city would beckon.

Marriage would take her to Los Angeles where her relationship failed but her career flourished. A job with O'Melveny & Myers, the largest law firm on the West Coast, would take up 15 years of Millie's life and move her art to the background. "I would try to paint on weekends and I was in a real bad car accident in 1974. I had a broken neck so I was off work for a long time," Millie offered. "I would try to paint then and when I had a sick day or something I would sneak in some art, but you can't turn creativity on and off like a factory; you've got to have time to calm down."

An artist in a law firm? "I think that art, kind of, is logic. You're not born knowing how to be an artist regardless of what anyone says; you're not born knowing how to do math, it's an acquired skill," Millie explains. "With art, you may have the desire to do it but it takes so much concentration. Working in the legal field, you've got to be precise; you're not allowed to make too many mistakes. In some ways it's similar to painting animals. When you paint an animal you've got to get the anatomy right."

Larry and Millie met on a ski trip after Millie joined a ski club and the two have been together since then. In addition to being a talented artist, she also enjoys writing. "I published a newsletter for the ski club. I did some creative writing; I took college courses in creative writing," she said. Millie also attended a writing class every Tuesday with the late June Shillabeer, a retired NBC writer, who lived in Pine Cove. "In fact, it was in that writing class that I met a lady who introduced me to the [Idyllwild Master] Chorale," Millie said. (Yes, she sings, too.)

Living in Los Angeles, the couple renovated an 1880 Victorian house that Millie loved, but the weather aggravated her arthritis. "I would go down to the desert and I felt better," said Millie.

"So we started looking in the desert and bought a house there."

But all was not well. "Larry hated the desert, he hates the heat." A drive to Temecula to pick Larry up from a fishing trip would change the course of the couples' lives. "On the way, I said, 'I'm going to show you this valley, you've got to see this valley.' So we're driving up to Idyllwild and we come back and he says, 'Pull in that real estate office.'" The home they purchased 25 years ago is a perfect reflection of the love and care they have invested in it.

Millie loves animals, the subject of most of her art. "I did still life, I did landscapes. When we started collecting Western art and traveling around, I started noticing the wildlife art and I kept looking at it and thinking, 'You know, I might be able to do that.' So little by little I got to know some of the wildlife artists so that helped; they were a big influence, especially the teachers," she said. "We started going to animal parks, Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons, and you see the elk and the moose and I just connect with them. They are nicer than most people," Millie said laughing. "My favorite is the wolves."

With some encouragement from an artist friend, Millie ventured out of her comfort zone and submitted her art to prestigious Phippen Museum Western Art Show and Sale which takes place in Prescott, Ariz., over Memorial Day Weekend. "I said, 'I'm just setting myself up for rejection, I'm not going to do that.' Anyway, [the friend] got the application and I filled it out," Millie laughed. "It took about three months and then one day I got this letter, [that said] 'Congratulations.' I said, 'You've got to be kidding,' because they have really good artists. I was so taken aback. I couldn't believe I was going to get in that show because a lot of very famous artists got their start there."

The show, in its 40th year, is held outside at the Prescott courthouse square situated in the middle of town. The show features 30 to 40 artists that must be juried in each year. "We had to go buy an EZ-UP tent and you should have seen us trying to put it together. My arm is still hurting from pulling that thing apart. We had the instructions and all of these pieces and parts all over the place," she said laughing. "It's not easy-up." Millie plans to take 25 to 30 paintings with her to display. "I'll have to see how many we can get in the truck with the tent and our luggage."

No matter where Millie and Larry travel, their favorite part is coming back home. "We come home and especially in the summertime, you go down to the desert and go shopping and we come back and sit out here on the patio and put our feet up and say, 'Ah, thank God,'" Millie said. "I love the quiet. I missed the snow this year. I love it when it snows; it's so quiet and the view is so pretty. When we go away, especially if we go into LA, I think, 'This is not even living. How can anybody do this?'"

Workshops are still part of Millie's routine; currently she is taking classes in the desert with artist Elaine Matthews. Her advice to young artists, "I would say just don't let anybody discourage you. Just keep-a-going because it's out there. You can do it. But you can't be lazy. If you're lazy you're in the wrong field. You've got to work hard to make it work."

'The Children's Hour' requires adult time

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Lillian Hellman's "The Children's Hour" will be the next production of the Idyllwild Arts Academy's Theater Department. Written in 1934, Hellman's play addresses a subject that still occupies news pages 80 years later.

Homosexuality, in this case lesbianism, is at the center of the plot just as same-sex marriage and gay rights are often found on page one of today's newspapers.

The two headmistresses of a girls' boarding school are accused of being lovers. A runaway student tells her grandmother this tale to avoid being returned to school.

The play focuses on how the falsehood ruins the women's lives.

When the play debuted, it received critical success; yet the public was appalled, not only at the subject, but the use of a child who knew about and understood the sexual relationship.

The Idyllwild Arts Academy's theater production of "The Children's Hour" next weekend was rehearsed on Sunday. The performance will be held at the IAF Theater on Friday and Saturday, April 11 and 12 at 7:30 p.m. and again on Sunday, April 13 at 2 p.m.

"Calling it 'indecent,' Boston Mayor Frederick Mansfield banned Lillian Hellman's first play from being staged in a decree issued on Dec. 14, 1935," wrote Theatre Department Head Howard Shangraw.

Yet the play reveals the destructive nature of malicious lies. Shangraw added, "The meaning of the play has been debated endlessly over the years. Was Hellman writing about the intolerant society of the time with respect to what was then termed sexual misconduct, or was she writing a play about the consequences of telling a lie?

"We discussed this in rehearsal and it was the consensus of the cast that the second interpretation loomed larger in all our minds," concluded Shangraw. "In this play, a little girl tells a lie and the impact on those around her and on the community is horrendous. Within one day, lives are turned upside down, plans go awry, dreams wither and die, and eventually relationships are permanently shattered."

"The meaning of the play has been debated endlessly over the years."

The director for this production is Margo Regan, an actress, director, teacher, coach and most recently a playwright. In the past 25 years she has been involved in more than 60 theatrical productions in one or more of these capacities.

"The Children's Hour" will be performed at 7:30 p.m. both Friday and Saturday, April 11 and 12. A third performance is at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, April 13. All will be at the IAF Theatre on the Idyllwild Arts campus.

Spring Break a time for Town Hall festivities

By WENDY HAWKINS
SPECIAL TO THE TOWN
CRIER

Town Hall hosted a Spring Break festival last week, and, with the help of other local organizations, was able to provide fun events for the children of our community.

Monday, David Jerome from the Idyll Beast Research Center came to show the Town Hall kids sightings of the Idyll Beast, only to have the actual Idyll Beast appear and surprise them with "Beaster Eggs." The Idyll Beast also brought them a treat. They were given the option of crickets — I'm guessing a favorite of his — or peanut butter ice cream. I'm sure you can guess which one was chosen.

Tuesday, the Idyllwild Fire Department gave the kids a tour of the fire trucks and ambulance. Capt. Alan Lott talked to the kids about 9-1-1 procedures, and, with the help of the Volunteer Fire Department, let the kids try on the fire safety gear. Then Susie Carlson from the U.S. Forest Service discussed fire prevention, and, with the help of Huey, introduced Smokey Bear who was met with big bear hugs from the kids.

Wednesday, Deputy Waters and Deputy Kurtz from the Riverside County Sheriff's Department came to visit with the kids and gave them a tour of their patrol cars. They discussed with the kids the importance of "Stranger Danger" and how to call 9-11. The officers brought coloring books and sticker badges. The children asked questions and got to see all the equipment a police officer will use on patrol.

Thursday, Susan Righetti from the Idyllwild Library hosted storytime. Along with her helper, Miss LuAnn, they guided the kids in crafts like windsocks. See Spring, next page and kites. It was National Rainbow Day on April 3 so they also made rainbow-colored paper chains complete with a cloud at the end. Miss Susan also taught the kids about rain clouds and condensation with several fun stories.

Friday, we ended the week with a potluck. The families then were treated to a performance from the Town Hall's Kids Modern Dance Class. The performed a ballet-styled number to "Somewhere Over the Rainbow." The show starred Ruby McKellar, Ashenara Pilkington, Sammi Hoggan, Bobbi Ann Mayberry and Kylie Piche. Then the evening ended with quite the excitement. With the Easter Bunny stuck down the Hill, he called upon his special helper to save the day. The kids got pictures taken and an egg treat.

After the Friday potluck, the Easter Bunny's helper handed out candy to the kids. Town Hall ended Spring Break week with a potluck Friday evening. Above left, the fire department taught kids about fire safety and some lucky youngsters got to explore a fire engine.

New director Terri Sena guiding Spirit Mountain Retreat

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

A long search for an executive director to replace Esther Kennedy has ended with Spirit Mountain Retreat landing in the good hands of Terri Sena. The path leading to her arrival seems spiritual itself to Sena. While she has been to Idyllwild many times to visit friends — Debbie and Bill Shepherd — in less than a year life has returned her here to guide the local retreat.

Licensed in spiritual counseling, she has an extensive background in marketing and sales. But even in college at the University of Missouri, she studied and pursued public service.

Eventually she wound her way to California, marriage and two daughters — 22 and 23 years old. “They’re my joy,” she said brimming with a smile. “They’ll call and ask if I’d like to do something. I’m thrilled they still want to be with me.”

And Sena is thrilled to be in Idyllwild at Spirit Mountain. “I like helping people. And I felt called by God to be here,” she explained. “There were so many synchronicities connecting me. I couldn’t ignore the spirit. It felt right.”

While visiting her friend Debbie last summer, Sena thought about taking a class or workshop at the retreat. When she visited the website, the first screen she saw was the job description and announcement of a vacancy.

“I wasn’t looking for a job, but in reading it I felt that’s almost as if I wrote a job description of my life,” Sena said, wide-eyed.

The next moment occurred in the fall. She was looking for an apartment when she got a call from Bill telling her the executive director’s job was being re-announced and she should apply soon.

Then, when she was talking with Kathy Halkin and Debbie about the retreat, she started crying. “I surprised myself. It felt like my soul was crying. I was finally where I was supposed to be,” Sena said.

Now that she is here, she wants to be sure the community is aware of Spirit Mountain’s presence and opportunity. “I have been coming up here for eight or nine years and didn’t know what was here,” she added.

Seminars and new programs will be gradually coming, she said, of the retreat across the road from the Idyllwild Area Historical Society off of North Circle Drive. “The space is underutilized, but I want to keep the charm and peaceful feeling that’s here,” she said. “But there is potential for growth and more interaction with the community.”

“I want the community to know it’s available. People can come and sit and rest in the gardens,” she entreated. “They can meditate or read with nature. It’s here for a purpose. People need to get quiet and find their center. This is what it’s here for.”

Sena plans to conduct some workshops in the future. Their goal will be to help people find a balance in order to connect with their belief systems.

“Some beliefs limit us. So discussing them opens up possibilities for a better life,” she said with assurance.

Besides the opportunity for workshops or seminars, Sena pointed out that the retreat has several rooms available for individuals who want to come and spend more time. They meditate, study and try to connect their consciousness with the earth and planet.

For example, a recent visitor spent four days in total silence. This person wanted to quiet the many conversations and debates going through their head, Sena said.

Writers may use the solitude and setting to connect with their creative processes, Sena added.

The classes and learning, which helped her change her life over the years, were such a vital experience that she knew “it was possible to change and she wanted to help others change their lives. It’s very rewarding.”

As director of Spirit Mountain Retreat, Sena hopes to be the counselor that opens up opportunities for improvement and growth to both the community and retreat visitors.

CREATURE CORNER

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

Hey ... it's Ethel with a big smile. But where's Fred? Oh, Fred was adopted? Yea and high five to you, Fred, for being on your best behavior. He is now in the best forever and ever home. Ethel was absolutely fine with it all, even though she didn't get to go, too.

Ethel is ready to move on as long as she has a very active family or a young canine playmate to grow up with. This young girl is under age 1, and loves to play and run. She is a quick learner, as she has already mastered sit and stay. Leash training was a piece of cake (or bone). Ethel is not a barker unless she sees a feline. So no cats, please. Oh, and doggy door and house trained, too. Grab your leash and start walking!

Here we have Lord Archibald (Archie) in white and Lady Arabella (Bella) in black. Lost, abandoned, dumped. That's a question mark. They came in to ARF together and are very friendly. They are between 3 and 5 years old. Since they are so attached to each other, we believe they would love to stay together when adopted. We believe that Archie is an American Eskimo and that Bella is a sheltie mix. Please call ARF if interested in these two — 951-659-1122.

Boomer just can't believe he has lived at ARF for more than a year now. His birthday was Feb. 27, yet he still is a playful, mischievous kitty. He has bravely said goodbye to his brothers and sisters, and being the youngest of the cattery, has had to take matters into his own paws. So flipping the cat toys up in the air, scrambling to catch them and tossing them across the room keeps him busy. Let's give Boomer his wish to have a forever home.

We have several pets on our website in assisted adoption, also. Be sure to look us up on Facebook, too.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots. ARF is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sundays.

Creature corner is sponsored by Harmony Ridge this week. To sponsor the column, call Lisa Streeter at the Town Crier, 951-659-2145.

HOROSCOPES

April 2014 — Week 2

December 22 – January 19

Stop dragging your feet, Capricorn. An issue needs to be addressed, and you're the one to do it. Amazing opportunities are headed your way at work.

January 20 – February 18

Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Take a break from a hobby for a while, Aquarius, and you're sure to return to it with zeal. A fitness goal is revised.

February 19 – March 20

Bargains are right up your alley, and lucky for you, Pisces, there are plenty to be had this week. A new do provides a senior with a much-needed lift.

March 21 – April 19

Uh-huh, Aries. You have far too much on your plate to take on another commitment. Learn to say no rather than spread yourself too thin.

April 20 – May 20

Brevity is not your style, but it is a requirement for an upcoming meeting. Keep it short, Taurus, and others will listen. A financial endeavor pays off.

May 21 – June 21

No news is good news, Gemini. Embrace the break in the action. The purpose of a plan at work will soon be revealed. Hear it out before you form an opinion.

June 22 – July 22

Stop, Cancer, stop. Throwing money at a situation is not the answer. You need to get to the root of the problem. Look to a loved one for help.

July 23– August 22

Quiet, Leo. Your questions are valid, but there are no answers at the present time. Leave it be. An engagement goes off without a hitch.

August 23–September 22

Yes, Virgo. Your plan has mass appeal, but some details need to be fine-tuned before you present it. An announcement is made, and not everyone is pleased.

September 23– October 22

Lovable Libra. You're so nice that people just naturally gravitate toward you. This week that will be a blessing as you meet a childhood idol.

October 23– November 21

Get ready to meet your match this week, Scorpio. Someone has been biding their time just like you, waiting for the right opportunity to present itself. Preparation is key.

November 22– December 21

Unbelievable, Sagittarius. Just when you thought you had ironed out all of the wrinkles, another one appears. Don't worry. It will be the last.

Guidelines for local food distribution

BY MERRIE VONSEGGERN AND GAY REEVES
SPECIAL TO THE TOWN CRIER

Over time, the Idyllwild Food distribution program has evolved. Here is a current description of the program.

Idyllwild monthly food distribution serves low-income and senior households. Currently, more than 200 Idyllwild households receive a box of food each month, and more than 25 volunteers prepare the food for distribution.

Food distribution is the first Tuesday of each month in the parking lot of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on Tollgate Road near its intersection with Highway 243.

Cars may line up on the south side of Tollgate Road (facing Highway 243) as coming from the direction of Idyllwild Arts campus. Distribution starts before 11 a.m., depending on when the truck arrives, and the gate closes at noon. If Monday is a holiday or it rains or snows, delivery is usually moved to the following Friday.

The two programs, USDA Commodities and Senior Food Share, are household-based. One household receives one box of food. Both are administered at the county level by the Second Harvest Food Bank serving Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

The USDA Commodities program (also now called the Emergency Food Assistance Program) is for households that fall within its income guidelines, posted at the Idyllwild distribution site. They are currently set at 150 percent of the federal poverty line depending on household size. For a single household, the threshold is $17,505.

No verification of income is required. It is strictly a self-certify program. No donations are solicited or collected for this program.

Senior Food Share is for households with at least one member aged 60 or older. No income criteria are applied for this program. Seniors fill out an application available at the Idyllwild distribution site and are requested to donate a minimum of $6 per year to defray the cost of gas for the delivery truck.

Many seniors are eligible for both programs and will now sign paperwork for both.

Recipients may have their food picked up by someone else if proper paperwork is filled out. The recipient must fill out an Alternate Pick-up Request form (EFA 15) to be turned in each month. On this form, the recipient self-certifies they meet the income guidelines for the program. This form is online at www.cdss.ca.gov/cdssweb/entres/forms/English/EFA15.pdf.

No one may pick up more than four orders, including their own.

While the Idyllwild distribution is at a church, the program is not faith-based and strictly prohibits discrimination of any kind.

State governmental agencies involved in making this food distribution possible include the California Department of Social Services and California Department of Aging. At the federal level, it is part of The Emergency Food Assistance Program administered by the US Department of Agriculture.

The local coordinator for this program is Joe Neu, who can be reached at 951-392-5519.

Ghost Town needs townspeople

BY J.P. CRUMRINE
News Editor

After 10 years and lots of scary nights, Idyllwild's Halloween Ghost Town may truly become a ghost town. Without more help, founder and organizer Kathy Wilson may have to shut the doors to the October weekend adventure.

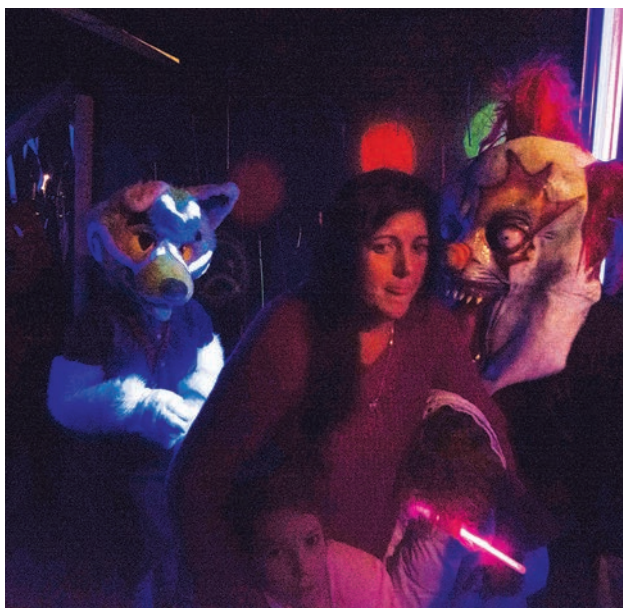

"The Ghost Town has grown, and the core group of people who actually build from start to finish has dwindled to about four of us," Wilson said in an email. "The core group ... who provide the majority of the physical labor, and those few who help with makeup and tech for the Ghost Town, called it quits last year. We just cannot continue as we are."

The October weekend event has grown beyond the bounds of a handful of volunteers, and some of the stalwarts have grown up and left the Hill.

Ghost Town's continuation may depend upon the willingness of others to help produce the event. Proceeds from the annual Halloween scare go to Idyllwild School.

"If the community and parents do not jump in to help, the Ghost Town will become a thing of the past," Wilson lamented. Several dozen were willing to give time for the First Zombie Run last November, but Wilson hopes just as many will volunteer time to keep the event available for future scare seekers.

Muscles with the strength to lift and move walls for the building to and from storage, as well as a flatbed truck, are examples of the type of help she is seeking. Then the structure has to be erected, wired and then razed, all within about six to eight weeks.

Other types of help include guides, acting teachers, security and computer techs.

With enough assistance, Wilson envisions a Zombie Weekend, including the participation of local businesses and inns, a Zombie-after Party and more activities or runs.

is that he has run only three previous marathons — including last year’s Boston Marathon. The other two were San Diego’s Rock and Roll Marathon, normally run in June each year.

In 2006, he ran his first Rock and Roll, which convinced him that he had the capability to run long distance. About a week after the 2006 Rock and Roll Marathon, Dean’s friend and trainer, John Hajovski, told him, “... had you been a year older your time would have been good enough to qualify you for the Boston.”

“But the seed had been planted; I could conceivably qualify for Boston. That was the first time I seriously considered the idea,” Dean said. He began training, but running was never his passionate goal. His long-time favorite sport has been soccer. Then in June 2012, he ran the Rock and Roll Marathon again. This time his time qualified him for the next Boston Marathon on April 15, 2013.

After the bombings and back in California, he began participating in his favorite sporting event — soccer games. But things went downhill at this point. His love of soccer has almost derailed his opportunity to run again in Boston. Last June while playing soccer, he tore his Achilles heel. His ankle still does not feel the same, but he’ll depart for Boston and another 26-mile run in a week.

“Soccer is great training for running, but running is lousy training for soccer,” he noted. In soccer, the quick stops and sudden direction changes use different muscles that runners can normally ignore. He’s running in pain, he confirmed.

But the bombings and Achilles damage paled compared to the September news that his older brother, Mike, had died unexpectedly in a nighttime car crash. Dean describes his brother as a 21st Century Wyatt Earp.

Mike was on the San Diego police force before retiring and he loved the job. Dean was anxious to attend the funeral, because, as he said, “you hear stories about people that you could never imagine.” He didn’t resume marathon training until December and strenuous running didn’t begin until February.

In 2013, before Mike died, Dean’s goal was to

Laces

By MARK DEAN

They lace up their shoes, they’re ready to race, 26 miles, they all know their pace.
The wind in their hair, their bodies are hard,
But you won’t see the training that got them this far.

Some run to raise money, some run for the joy,
Some for the memory of one little boy.
They come from all over, descend on this place,
Where history’s written, their great Boston race.

They all run together, they all will run strong,
Through streets lined with people, these roads hard and long.
Most of them finish, some will fall short,
But the cheers of the people will be their report.

In their hearts, they’re all victors, they’ve sacrificed all,
To make it to Hopkinton, they’re all standing tall.
They’ll pick up their medals, collect all their gear,
And some will look forward to running next year.

And when all of the crazy festivities end,
And all’s put away, there’s a message they’ll send,
That courage was here and will be once more,
When they all run together, just like before.

the explosions occurred. This year, Dean is better prepared for hamstring problems. He has a calf-sleeve to keep his leg tight and warm. He has plenty of GU energy gel for nourishment and energy and plans to consume more water during the run.

Born in Boston but raised in Southern California, Dean views the Boston Marathon as a return home. He connects with family. This year, a cousin, whom he hasn’t seen in 30 years, will travel from Atlanta to Boston to join the family event. It’s scheduled for the day before the race, Easter Sunday, April 20.

Only days before the 2014 Boston Marathon, Dean can be seen running the streets and roads of Idyllwild.

This may be his last marathon, Dean said, but didn’t promise. He finds that he prefers middle distance runs such as 15 kilometers or half marathons. He is even considering entering some triathlon events once he improves his swimming ability.

Scam

Federal Trade Commission issued on April 7 warning the public about the fake IRS scam, taxpayers are advised that the IRS contacts people with unpaid taxes via mail only. Some scammers may even know the last four digits of the Social Security number of the person contacted. Giving a fake name and badge number, they will demand payment by prepaid debit card or wire transfer — something the IRS does not do. Fake emails, rigged caller ID information and callbacks claiming to be the police department or Department of Motor Vehicles are all employed in this scam.

To avoid falling victim to this scam, never give personal information or account numbers over the phone. To confirm your tax status, contact the IRS directly or visit its website. If contact is initiated via email, forward it to phishing@irs.gov. To file a complaint, contact the FTC at www.ftc.gov/complaint and include “IRS Telephone Scam” in the complaint.

MATTER OF FACT

In the March 27 issue on page 13 regarding Chris Trout, she was mistakenly reported to have a doctorate in technology and strategic planning. Trout said she completed the studies but did not do the dissertation to earn the degree.

In last week’s story about the Art Alliance of Idyllwild’s community social potluck on page 12, the online address to sign up included a computerized hyphen to break the sentence but resulted in a bad address. A better address is www.artinidyllwild.org.

Town Crier regrets the errors.

Strange but true

In 2009, Japanese scientists revealed that the human body emits a very slight, yet perceptible, glow. After using a special camera to study a sample of men in their 20s, they found that intensity of the glow varies, with the lowest point at around 10 a.m. and the brightest at 4 a.m.
