Ordinance revision may prevent some new garages

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

First, a quick history: Riverside County's land use and zoning ordinance (348) dates to 1948. In the past 66 years, various Boards of Supervisors have approved nearly 5,500 amendments to the ordinance.

"Late last year, the board asked the development staff to undertake a comprehensive re-work of the ordinance," said Planner David Mares. The changes are intended to make the county more business friendly and encourage economic activity.

The Planning staff has organized the revisions into three phases. The first phase includes changes to Section 18.18, which addresses "Detached Accessory Buildings" and has a significant effect on Hill properties, according to local designers and real estate agents.

The current language of this section allows detached buildings, for instance garages, to be built close to the property line. A June draft of the changes to Section 18.18 would have eliminated the provision. The county Transportation Department is concerned about vehicles backing directly onto roadways and recommended its deletion, according to Mares. But that proposal was revised.

At the Sept. 17 meeting of the county Planning Commission, Mares drafted a revision that allows a garage to be built to the front or side property lines. However, the lot must have a slope of 1 foot rise or fall in 7 feet, or the lot's frontage must be more than 4 feet above or below the street elevation and if the building prevents vehicles from directly exiting to the street.

Despite the effort to find a compromise, both architect Jim Marsh and Chris Davis, head of the Idyllwild Association of Realtors, See Ordinance, page 24

Santa Ana Threat Index available

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

As October arrives, the expectation of Santa Ana winds — powerful, hot, dry winds that can turn a spark into a wildfire — rises throughout Southern California and especially on the Hill.

Beginning this month, the public will not only be alerted of impending Santa Ana or Red Flag events, but a collaboration among the U.S. Forest Service, San Diego Gas and Electric, and UCLA has produced an index to classify the potential fire threat of these winds.

The Santa Ana Wildfire Threat Index is available on line at psgeodata.fs.fed.us/sawti/#. This website provides Santa Ana wind information for four Southern California areas — LA-Ventura, Orange-Inland Empire, San Diego and Santa Barbara — for the next six days.

Four threat classifications levels — marginal, moderate, high, and extreme — will be employed to help fire agencies, other first-responders and the public to understand what may happen. They can take appropriate actions based on the likelihood of a catastrophic wildfire fueled by high winds.

Proposition 45 supporters/opposition

By Marshall Smith
Correspondent

Proposition 45 proposes to give the California insurance commissioner the right to approve changes to health insurance rates or “anything else affecting the charges associated with health insurance,” according to the proposition. It provides for public notice, disclosure and hearings on health insurance rate changes as well as subsequent judicial review. It also requires sworn statements by health insurers as to the accuracy of information submitted to the insurance commissioner to justify rate changes.

Consumer Watchdog, the driving force behind 45, forged a revolution in auto and homeowner insurance in 1988 with Prop 103, which created an elected insurance commissioner with the power to review and reject auto and homeowner rate hikes if those hikes were found to be onerous. Twenty-six years later the group seeks to give the commissioner the same review-and-reject power over the rapidly expanding health insurance market.

CW estimates annual savings to state health insurance consumers of up to $1 billion a year or $612 per family if the state insurance commissioner is given regulatory power to control rate hikes.

The problem, say opponents, is that Prop 45 proposes what they call unnecessary new regulation and costs — unnecessary because the Affordable Care Act, which went into effect nationally on Jan. 1, 2014, already provides health insurance rate oversight. Covered California, the state insurance exchange, is designed to implement the act’s provisions and provide new rules and regulations to protect state health care consumers.

The choice, says Dan Schnur of the Unruh Institute of Politics at the University of Southern California, is not between oversight and no oversight but of who and how that oversight is implemented.

Prop 45’s path to the ballot, as an initiative qualified through gathered signatures, was originally targeted for the November 2012 election. Sponsors submitted 800,000 signatures on May 18, 2012, but election officials said they would not have enough time prior to the November election to verify the signatures. As a result, the initiative was moved to the November 2014 ballot.

That move, arriving after the U.S. Supreme Court’s upholding of the provisions of ACA on June 28, 2012, and full implementation of the act in January 2014, may have come at an inauspicious time for passage by voters. Some groups that might have traditionally supported strict regulation of health insurance by a state commissioner now oppose Prop 45. They warn it could impede further rollout of CC and its ability to negotiate rate hikes within the marketplace.

Opponents cite CC’s independent commission’s authority to negotiate rates with health insurance plans and reject them if too expensive. They argue for giving CC’s commission a chance to work and more time to prove its effective advocacy for consumers within the marketplace.

Jamie Court, CW president, notes that Californians’ health insurance premiums have grown five times faster than the rate of inflation over the last decade and that regulation by a commissioner is necessary.

Prop 45 supporters include: California Democratic Party, California National Organization for Women, California Nurses Association, California Federation of Teachers, Insurance Commissioner Dave Jones, Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Torlakson and U.S. Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer.

Opponents include: California Republican Party, California Chamber of Commerce, California Medical Association, California Association of Health Plans, William Jefferson Clinton Democrats and the NAACP California.

Susan Kennedy, a CC board member, said the initiative could damage health-care reform in California “permanently, perhaps fatally. Even under the best-case scenario, enactment of this measure significantly complicates Covered California’s ability to enact health-care reform. I just think it’s the wrong time to add an entire layer of complication and risk to what we are attempting to achieve.”

Proponents say the state insurance commissioner has proven effective in regulating auto and home insurance rates and needs to be given the ability to do so in the health-care marketplace.

Open seat for Secretary of State

By Marshall Smith
Correspondent

The office of California Secretary of State oversees state elections, keeps the state's key documents and the state archives, and implements electronic filing and Internet disclosure of campaign and lobbyist financial information. Current Secretary of State, Democrat Debra Bowen, is term limited and thus no incumbent is running.

Competing for the office are longtime state officeholder, Democrat Alex Padilla, and political novice, Republican Pete Peterson. Peterson, in his campaign statements, said he views the office of SOS as non-partisan and his background seems to verify that posture. Peterson was first executive director of Common Sense California, a bipartisan non-profit dedicated to improving civic participation throughout the state.

In 2010, Common Sense California joined with the Davenport Institute of the School of Public Policy at Pepperdine University to become the Davenport Institute for Public Engagement and Civic Leadership. As current executive director of the Davenport Institute, Peterson is recognized as a trainer, speaker and advisor on topics relating to increasing public participation in government decision making and explaining how technology can and is changing the citizen/government relationship.

Peterson received his bachelor's degree in history from George Washington University and his master's in public policy from Pepperdine. He currently serves on the advisory committees to the League of California Cities, the California Civic Innovation Project and the University Network. He is endorsed by most of the state's major newspapers, including the Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles Daily News, the San Francisco Chronicle, the San Jose Mercury News and the San Diego Union Tribune.

Alex Padilla, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is seen as a rising star in the Democratic Party and is a California state senator, first elected in 2006. Prior to that, Padilla served on the Los Angeles City Council representing the 7th District from 1999 until 2006. He was elected council president in July 2001 and remained president through the end of 2005.

He is endorsed by the state's Democratic leadership, the Sacramento Bee and most of the state unions, including firefighters and police officers. He states in his election papers that he is experienced in governance and in reaching across party lines to craft meaningful legislation.

Padilla said he will expedite new business online filings to ensure their prompt commencement of business operations. He said he also will work to modernize voting procedures in the state.

Peterson said he will "lead the fight to make California's government more transparent, less corrupt and more accountable to voters and small businesses ... I will bring my background in civic engagement and private sector experience to Sacramento to increase informed participation while protecting the integrity of the ballot box," he stated.

Kashkari endorses Garcia for SD 28

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Nov. 4 is the general election and one of the tightest races pits Republicans Bonnie Garcia and Jeff Stone against each other for the state Senate District 28 seat.

In the middle of last month, Republican gubernatorial candidate Neel Kashkari endorsed Garcia in the local race.

"I'm honored to have Neel's support and from day one, I'll be ready to work with him in an effort to keep jobs in California and ensure every child receives a quality education," said Garcia. "Neel understands that the American Dream has faded in California and he has offered a plan to bring it back."

Asked how much this endorsement might mean and how effective it will be, she said, "I think endorsements send a message to the community. It's not that you're 100 percent in agreement [with the endorser], but you're like-minded about certain issues. He and I agree on education. He has the right vision on education. It's a simple message, 'Education, that's it.' We can't rebuild our economy without better education."

Ruiz and Nestande to face off

U.S. Rep. Raul Ruiz and Assemblyman Brian Nestande have agreed to a televised debate.

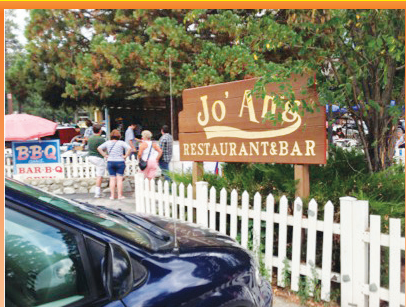

The one-hour event will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 5, the night before the first votes will be cast in the 36th Congressional race.

Because of the television studio size, there will be no live audience. Instead, the political gunfight will be broadcast live on KESQ News Channel 3, its sister station, CBS Local 2, DesertSun.com and the television stations' websites.

The event is co-sponsored by the Desert Sun Media Group, Gulf-California Broadcast Co., and the NewsPress and Gazette Co.

Mail voting for the November election starts on Oct. 6.

OUT LOUD

Robin Williams' suicide has opened the door for more of us to open up about a dark subject.

California Secretary of State Debra Bowen's revelation that she suffers from depression is admirable, though running a department that large and important from home while she deals with this challenge is not doable.

As I said, I admire her for speaking out about this issue that is not uncommon. I suffer off and on from it also, as do some of my friends. And when it hits, running the newspaper from home is not possible. By golly, running anything — from the dishwasher to the TV — isn't.

William Styron, Pulitzer Prize winner and author of such great novels as "Sophie's Choice," wrote the best small book about fighting his own 1985 bout with depression and gave the book's name the perfect description of what it feels like to be in that black hole — "Darkness Visible." Coming out of that visible darkness for me feels as though a cloud lifts and that painful weight is gone.

What brings it on, though? Everyone who suffers from this describes their own factors. It may be one thing — divorce, moving, loss of a home or loved one — or it may not be anything tangible to grasp.

I cannot always point to what sets it off with me. One thing I can point to is gluten. Yes, as strange as that may seem, eating a crumb of gluten will drag me into that deep well in a heart beat and keep me there for about 24 hours (and serious intestinal pain accompanies the depression).

Who knows what drags Bowen into her dark place. I've heard her speak more than once in Sacramento. She is a brilliant person who has much to contribute. I hope she beats this thing.

Dr Know It All answers back to his critics

EDITOR:

Dr Know It All doesn't mind being in the middle of a controversy. He is used to people with a contradictory sense of humor. It should be clear that the Dr abhors violence. When he says avoid "maiming" tourists and resist "smacking annoying children," he means it.

What the Dr does mind is having his opinions and his humor edited and censored by individuals who find said humor offensive, to the point of even threatening subscriber cancellation. It's sad that individuals can't allow opposing ideas, attitudes, even jokes to appear in public.

This is the 21st century and it's time for people to thicken their skins and realize that the world is changing and — sorry, folk — getting younger. It's the age thing that usually trips everyone's trigger. Deal with it. If you don't like a "stand up" joke, then get over it.

But then again, who doesn't like a little conflict. It's just that Dr Know It All doesn't like censorship, at any level.

Love to All,

DR KNOW IT ALL
AKA MIKE AHERN
IDYLLWILD

Editor's note: Dr Know It All's column will run the second Thursday of each month.

Loves Dr Know It All

EDITOR:

First I want to tell you what a great job you are doing with the paper. I do still come up there several times a month, love it and hope my kids do the same as the grandkids get old enough to hike.

I also watch golf with friends every Sunday and I'm pleased to see how well Brendan Steele is doing.

I got my Sept. 18 paper today, and want to put in my 2 cents about Dr Know It All's column. I love it.

I am sorry so many locals are lacking a sense of humor and are unable to laugh at themselves because that is one of the greatest pleasures in life.

Why not just alternate the column with "Bad Advice in the Morning?" You know, reading humor pieces is not a requirement, and those who do not enjoy it do not have to pass a test on the contents.

As John Lydgate said "... but you can't please all of the people all of the time." So full speed ahead.

I have often been struck by the similarities between fire protection — prevention and suppression — and public health.

Both fields are tasked with preventing or containing catastrophes — wildfires and epidemics — that can overwhelm the normal protections of daily life. Both deal with an enemy that is a part of the natural world but wild and sometimes uncontrollable.

Professionals in both fields know through experience how terrible wildfires and epidemics can be, and they put a great deal of effort into preventing them from happening in the first place. People in both fields deal with emergencies and crises, yet they know that despite their momentary victories, neither threat will ever be completely eliminated.

FIRE & FOREST

Some concepts used in public health, like susceptibility and transmission, apply easily to fire prevention. Susceptibility refers to the likelihood that a person, or population, will contract a certain disease. Smokers are more susceptible to lung cancer than are non-smokers.

Communities also are more or less susceptible to wildfire. A community where people have thick brush and forest for privacy will be more susceptible to wildfire than one that keeps brush and forest well-spaced and thinned.

Warning: Consumption of game meat shot with lead ammo may be hazardous to your health

By TOM PAULEK

Editor’s note: Tom Paulek of Idyllwild was a California Department of Fish and Game wildlife biologist for 28 years. During that time for 17 years, he was the San Jacinto Wildlife Area manager. He retired in 2006. This article is from the Friends of the San Jacinto Valley September 2014 newsletter.

Last October, Gov. Jerry Brown signed into law AB 711 — the ban on the use of lead ammunition for hunting in California.

The lead ban will not go into effect until July 2019. In the interim, California upland game hunters can continue to use lead shot for hunting dove, pheasant, snipe and other small game species.

The adverse impact of spent lead ammunition on wildlife populations has been well documented over many years. More recent research indicates the discharge of lead ammunition may be a significant public health concern. The Wildlife Society’s 2009 Position Statement on lead ammunition reports: “When lead that is imbedded in game meat becomes exposed to acid in the human stomach, lead may be absorbed into the system. Even if a lead pellet completely passes through an animal, a small amount of lead may be left in the tissue and may be absorbed by a person consuming the meat.”

The Sept. 28, 2009, Scientific American article “Wild Meat Raises Lead Exposure” notes: “The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention tested 736 people, mostly adults, in six North Dakota cities and found that those who ate wild game had 50 percent more lead in their blood than those who did not eat it. The lead exposure was highest among people who consumed not only venison, but also birds and other game, according to the study published last month in the journal Environmental Research.”

“What was most troubling is that as wild game consumption increases, blood-lead levels increase,” said study co-author Many Jean Brown, chief of the CDC’s lead prevention branch. “The strong recommendation we would make is that pregnant women should not consume this meat.”

The article continued with “... recent research has reported that children’s mental abilities are reduced by lead at levels far below the CDC guideline. Brown and others say there is no threshold below which lead does not cause harm, particularly with children.”

The Friends participated in the California Fish and Game Commission adoption of this year’s Upland Game hunting regulations. We presented the Friends’ May 21, 2014, comment letter and testified at the Aug. 6, 2014, public hearing adopting the hunting regulations. Our testimony presented the science-based lead hazard information and once again requested the commission include public health advisory in the upcoming Upland Hunting Regulation booklet advising California hunters of the hazards of the consumption of game meat shot with lead ammunition.

The commission ignored the May 21 letter as well as our testimony at the Aug. 6 public hearing, which they summarily dismissed.

Looking forward, the Friends may ultimately be stymied again by commission misfeasance. AB 711 requires the commission to promulgate regulations to fully implement the ban on lead ammunition by July 1, 2015.

The commission is now taking public input on regulations necessary to implement the 2019 lead ban. We plan to again raise the issue/impact of the need for a public health advisory warning hunters of the hazard of the consumption of game meat shot with lead ammunition.

Given the Fish and Game Commission’s poor record of implementing its CEQA duties, we are not confident this obvious environmental impact will receive the consideration required by law.

Election and voter registration info

By J.P. Crumrine
News Editor

On Sept. 25, the Riverside County Registrar of Voters began mailing about 876,000 sample ballots and information pamphlets. Voters will have these in advance of the general election on Nov. 4.

If voters do not receive an informational guide in the mail, it is available at www.voteinfo.net. Voters also may call the registrar’s office at (951) 486-7200 or 1-800-773-

8683 to request a mailed copy.

Voters may mark their choices on the sample ballot and use it as a guide to help them complete their official ballot at the polls.

Voter polling place locations are printed on the back cover of the information pamphlet, which includes an application to request a vote-by-mail ballot. A Spanish-language version of the pamphlet also is available at www.voteinfo.net and a copy can be mailed upon request.

goes into understanding disease transmission. Similarly, understanding how fire is transmitted, or carried, is important in prevention and mitigation. Fire will burn in a direct chain of available fuel, such as leaves or brush going right up to a house, or it will be carried by wind in the form of embers up to a mile ahead of the fire front. Embers can start fires on susceptible houses (wooden roofs, lots of close vegetation), but fail to ignite on well-abated properties.

There are simple but effective actions suggested in both worlds. Public health’s advice to stop disease transmission is to frequently wash one’s hands. The equivalent in the fire world is to abate one’s property.

Public health also provides useful ways of thinking about fire prevention. Disease epidemics can have many causes — genetics, the environment, personal behavior or economics — and all can play a part.

This makes prevention complicated. Fire prevention, too, must account for many factors: the health and type of the surrounding forest, whether a community is abated or not, how careful people are with ignition sources, the vulnerability of existing structures.

Prevention in both cases requires effective action by both individuals and government. Individuals must wash their hands, but it takes large government projects to make sure that the water they use is clean. The success of city life in ancient Rome had much to do with their extraordinary aqueducts designed to bring fresh water to city residents, and to their extensive system of public baths and toilets to properly dispose of sewage.

It takes government action for large-scale efforts to maintain forests and fuelbreaks, to create organizations that can fight and suppress fire, and to create appropriate codes to lessen the chance of fire. Individuals must do what they can to make their homes safe and be careful not to start fires that could spread.

One of the great achievements of the modern world has been mass vaccination, which, aside from clean water, is perhaps the greatest shield against disease ever discovered. Vaccinations are amazingly effective in helping individual immune systems build resistance to infectious disease.

Hardening and abating homes build resistance to fire. Flu shots and fire abatement are both important contributions to health and safety.

Perhaps some drought relief in sight

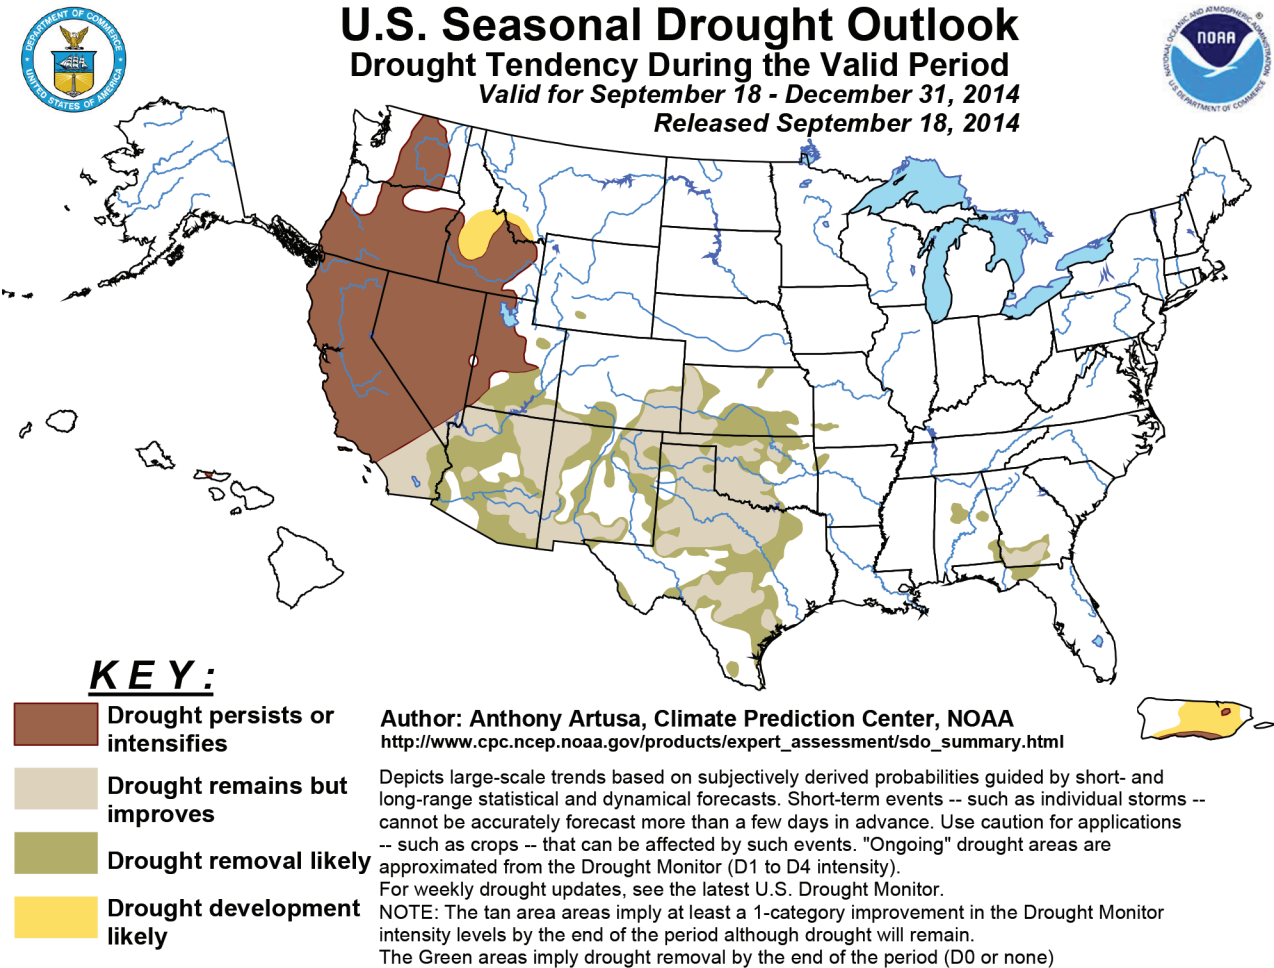

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The summer's rainstorms had little effect on drought conditions and current weather is unlikely to end the drought conditions this fall, although some relief may occur. The National Weather Service's latest forecast places a 60- to 65-percent chance of an El Niño weather pattern developing during fall or winter. If an El Niño were to occur, its rain pattern is more likely to benefit Southern California than the rest of the state, according to NWS' Climate Prediction Center forecast this month. On Sept. 18, NWS indicated a 33-percent chance of above-average amount of rainfall this fall. During the past 30 days, portions of the far south of Southern California have received significant amounts of precipitation. Northern and Central California typically receive 30- to 40-percent of their annual precipitation between October and December, while remaining portions of the state receive between 20 to 30 percent. For October, there are enhanced odds of above-median precipitation in the southeast portion of California. For the fall, CPC's precipitation outlook favors above-median precipitation over the far south of western Southern California. The U.S. Seasonal Drought Outlook favors drought persistence or intensification across all but far southern sections of both California and Nevada, and much of western Utah.

Forest Service plans to restore burned areas

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

In July 2013, the Mountain Fire, which started on private land across Highway 243 from the Forest Service's Keenwild Station, burned more than 27,500 acres. Most of this burned acreage was in the San Jacinto Wilderness Area.

Last week, the Forest Service announced it has formulated a plan to reforest a portion of the burned land not within the wilderness area.

The agency is proposing to plant Jeffrey and Coulter pines seedlings on more than 300 acres. Chaparral occupied much of the other burned area outside the wilderness area. If the proposal is approved, work will begin during the winter and early spring of 2015, according to Kayanna Warren, San Jacinto Ranger District forester.

The Jeffrey and Coulter seedlings will only be planted in areas where they had formerly dominated. The seedlings will come from the Forest Service's Placerville nursery, which collected seed stock from this elevation in both the San Jacinto and Santa Rosa mountains, Warren said. The project is estimated to cost about $250,000.

The Forest Service plans to plant about 200 seedlings per acre and hopes to have 37 trees per acre survive after five years. The goal is no fewer than 10.1 trees per acre.

While much of the work will be done through a contract, Warren added, "Volunteers will be involved. The community has expressed an interest in restoring the area and helping."

The proposal says no new access roads will be needed, nor fertilizer or herbicide will be applied as part of this project. As the seedlings grow, they will be monitored and protected from encroaching competition during the first four years.

The proposal and a map may be found on the San Bernardino National Forest website at: http://data.eco-system-management.org/nepaweb/nepa_project_exp.php?project=43430.

SBNF is requesting written comments on the scope of this proposed action by Oct. 24. The responsible official is District Ranger Arturo Delgado.

Comments may be submitted via email text or in readable format (.doc, .pdf, .txt, .rtf) to comments-pacific-southwest-san-bernardino-san-jacinto@fs.fed.us, with "Scoping - Reforestation NEPA" in the subject line, or by mail to Kayanna Warren, project lead, at U.S. Forest Service, San Jacinto Ranger District, Attn: Kayanna Warren, P.O. Box 518, Idyllwild, CA 92549.

IDYLLWILD WATER DISTRICT SEPTEMBER 2014 NEWSLETTER

IWD Mission Statement: To provide reliable water & sewer service in a safe, cost effective & environmentally sound manner in accordance with the community needs

NEW RATES GOING INTO EFFECT – New water use allocations and sewer rates are going into effect which will show up on your October billing. With our lingering drought conditions, the empty Foster Lake, a necessity to pump from deeper well levels, and an increase in utility costs, we are unfortunately forced to decrease the amount of water included in our base rate and increase sewer rates. We want to thank our customers for all their continued conservation efforts. Previously, all properties received a liberal amount of water before we applied a consumption charge. We have reduced this amount of water due to a diminished amount of water resources. Our infrastructure is very old, and we are in need of repairing and replacing some of our deteriorated equipment. A priority is a sewer effluent line that extends from our sewer plant over one mile to our settling ponds. Below are pictures illustrating the deteriorated effluent pipe.

We plan on taking a very frugal approach to the repair of our infrastructure, first tackling the equipment that is in immediate risk of failure. Since we plan to minimize the rate impact to our customers, it will take several years to complete necessary repairs and upgrades to our water and sewer infrastructure. What does this mean for a typical single family home? You will see a modest hike in water bills, of approximately 5% to 10% per month depending on consumption. Those customers on sewer will see an increase of $12.75 in their monthly charge. Our goal is to keep the water delivery system and sewer service in good condition and capital expenses in balance.

WATER METERS – There has been recent concern expressed regarding the accuracy of water meters. We want to assure all our customers that our meters are in fact very accurate. We have recently validated this accuracy by both bench testing and having an independent laboratory calibrate each meter that has been tested. The laboratory has certified that all tested meters have been at least 99.7% accurate. If any customer remains concerned about meter accuracy, we want to invite them to our next Board meeting scheduled for October 15, 2014 @ 6:00 pm. A representative of the meter manufacturer will be available to make a presentation and answer any questions.

WATER CONSERVATION – Again, we want to remind our customers to do their best in conserving water. The Governor has asked all households to reduce their water consumption by 20%. Here in Idyllwild most customers have complied, and we hope continued efforts will help get us through this extended drought period.

Please join us at the October 15th Board meeting at 6:00 p.m.

Hemet theatre students to perform 'Goodnight Moon'

BY MARSHALL SMITH
CORRESPONDENT

"Goodnight stars, goodnight air, goodnight noises everywhere."

Margaret Wise-Brown's tiny and tender children's book "Goodnight Moon" is familiar to generations of children and parents. In seven stanzas, Wise-Brown introduced entranced readers to the great Green Room inhabited by bears, kittens, mittens, a toy house, a mouse, a comb and a brush, a bowlful of mush and a quiet old lady whispering, "Hush."

And since 2007, when premiered by the Seattle Children's Theatre, "Goodnight Moon" the musical has captivated audiences by giving three-dimensional form to the room, its inhabitants and features, and its interlocutor, a bemused bunny, courtesy of Wise-Brown's other book, "The Runaway Bunny."

Under the direction of Hemet High School Theatre Faculty Bret Cherland, "Goodnight Moon" the musical, written and scored by Chad Henry, comes to life at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9 and Friday, Oct. 10 with a Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

Cherland's Children's Theatre production features Idyllwild residents Daniel Phillips as an actor in the ensemble and Ian Strunk, Kayleb Hembree and Bret Hem-

bree as tech theater production crew.

"We've been able to incorporate so many great technical elements," said Cherland, noting HHS's new and expanded theater facilities. He gave particular credit to HHS junior Mercedes Evans who designed the set. "She's a genius," he said.

"We're pretty proud of what we're doing here," said Cherland, citing HHS's long tradition of theater excellence. "We're especially glad to have the kids from Idyllwild who are so talented and have added so much over the years they have been part of our productions.

We're creating a theater family. It's all about building ensemble."

As part of its effort to bring theater to more children in the greater Hemet/San Jacinto area, HHS Children's Theatre sent out 170 golden tickets (think Willy Wonka) to school district and valley librarians to be distributed to outstanding readers. The golden tickets are valid for free admission to one show for the winning student and their accompanying adult.

Visit hemethigh.com/apps/pages/index.jsp?uREC_ID=327395&type=u for ticket information.

Monarch caterpillars feed on the milkweed plants at the Pine Cove Water District building. Monarch butterflies go through four stages during one life cycle and through four generations or life cycles in one year. The four stages of the monarch butterfly life cycle are the egg, the larvae (caterpillar), the pupa (chrysalis) and the adult butterfly. The Monarch can produce four generations, or four different butterflies, which each pass through these four stages during one year. The fourth generation of monarch butterflies does not die after two to six weeks; instead, this generation migrates to warmer climates such as Mexico and California. This generation will live for six to eight months until it is time to start the whole process over again.

After about two weeks, the caterpillar attaches itself to a stem or a leaf using silk and transforms into a chrysalis (left). The chrysalis transforms or metamorphoses to become an adult butterfly that emerges in about 10 days.

CONTEST JUDGE

Five regulars, Maurie Bousquet, David Curl, Kathy Nielson, Dorothy Silliman, the Josh and Emily White family, and a newcomer, Effie Trinket, all correctly identified last week's photo location as being a detail of the stone wall and lantern from a particular spot at Lannie and Jane Wagstaff's Restaurant Gastrognome. Dolores Sizer pulled out Bousquet's name — yet again — so he gets the two-ticket gift card to Shane Stewart's Rustic Theater this week. Please come in to the Town Crier to claim it.

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

Before Our Time

BEFORE THE CREEKSTONE INN? FOOD ...

BY ROBERT B. SMITH

The Creekstone Inn has dominated the four-way stop called Fern Valley Corners since 1947; but its current identity, as Chris Singer's elegant, 20-year-old tourist lodging, is a recent development. Instead, for 47 years Hill dwellers associated the building strictly with food.

In 1946, as the country recovered from World War II, Michael and Dorothy Michelsen discovered Idyllwild. They were searching for a drier climate than the coast to assuage a daughter's asthma.

Their original idea of running a motel evaporated once they saw the lot available at Pine Crest and Circle Drive, which seemed strategically located for a grocery store.

Fern Valley was blossoming with new homes and cabins, and the area's developers, Strong and Dickinson, hoped to see a commercial center there rivaling Jerry Johnson's enterprises in downtown Idyllwild.

The Michelsens planned their building with upstairs living quarters and meeting facilities, but the required lumber would bust their budget. In those days river rock was there for the taking. So twice a day for three months they gathered and hauled truckloads up the Hill.

Their Fern Valley Market's huge fireplace anchored a space to hang out, play pinochle or catch up on village happenings. The soda fountain seemed like a good idea during planning, but on opening day Dot suddenly faced a brutal on-the-job training regimen requiring more arms than any human possesses. Fortunately, this being Idyllwild, customers gladly offered instruction and dish-washing help.

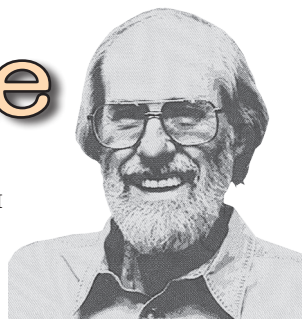

Mike was an innovator. He offered regular customers what amounted to prepaid debit cards for discounted grocery purchases.

He created a persona, Jose Gottgrub, for Town Crier ads; "Your Day with J.G." episodes combined weekly specials with humorous advice, all embedded in Ernie Maxwell cartoons.

In 1951 the Michelsens decided to sell, but reconsidered and leased the market to Leigh and Margaret Dutton. Dutton's Corner Store operated for five years until the Duttons elected to concentrate on their downtown enterprises, which included Village Market. Bill and Emma Fletcher took over, restoring the Fern Valley Market name.

In 1958 the Fletchers

departed, and for a time the market was operated by the Braughton brothers, owners of the neighboring Fern Valley Bakery. Space was set aside, perhaps tentatively, for a restaurant, Margaret Voie's Nottoosure Café.

After the building got its 15 minutes of fame in November 1961 as a filming location for Elvis Presley's "Kid Galahad," the Michelsen family sold it to Robert and Janice Oates.

That winter, Oates' construction and real estate businesses moved in; a memorable alpine-style remodel paved the way for Scotty and Elena Ellison's Alpine Market. And Kitty Thomas and Mary Blackburn relaunched the restaurant as the Alpine Pantry (where Marge Muir waited tables).

The Fern Valley-Idyllwild rivalry had long since been resolved in downtown's favor, and even long-lived uptown businesses endured rough times. In 1972 the Alpine Pantry moved to the former Pinecraft

Something new for bulb sale

The Idyllwild Garden Club is trying something new this year for its popular bulb sale. Members will offer an assortment of bulbs, prepackaged with detailed instructions, in three locations, over a three-day period: From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 10 and Saturday, Oct. 11, as well as from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12.

The displays will be at the Idyllwild Post Office, Harmony Monument and Lily Rock Native Nursery.

Toni Berthelotte, chair of this event, said come early to get the best selection. These bulbs may be planted any time between now and early December in our region and the sales staff can answer any questions regarding planting, protecting and enjoying these drought-tolerant and beautiful flowers, year after year.

furniture showroom next to the Idyllwild School (now Mile High Cafe). It was replaced in 1976 by a popular Italian restaurant, Michelli's, which enjoyed a 10-year run before similarly relocating to Highway 243 in 1986.

Meanwhile, in 1981, the Alpine Market closed its doors and,

consequently, Fern Valley residents would then have no choice but the downtown grocery stores.

of Idyllwild's art galleries and at AAI's booth in front of Idyllwild Realty (across from the Rustic Theatre) starting at 11 a.m. the day of the event.

"This is our organization's largest fundraising event of the year," explained Gary Kuschner, president of the non-profit group. "Net proceeds provide AAI's annual operating funds and enable us to arrange special events for local artists to display and sell their work throughout the year, donate funds to other community organizations, and support local art education for Idyllwild young people."

Some of the participating wineries include event sponsor Middle Ridge Winery, as well as Baily Vineyard and Winery, Renzoni Winery, Hart Family Winery and La Serenissima Winery. Featured venues include Idyllwild's 2nd Saturday Art Fair at the Idyllwild Community Park, The Spruce Moose, Artspresso Gallery, Acorn Gallery and several others.

"We encourage visitors to stay overnight and sample our many restaurants and inns before making their way down the mountain roads," Kuschner concluded.

For questions about your eligibility to vote, contact the registrar's office at (951) 486-7200. To check your registration, visit www.voteinfo.net/AmIRegistered/ or call the registrar's office.

The last day to register for the Nov. 4 election is Oct. 20. To register online go to <http://registertovote.ca.gov/> or contact the registrar's office.

Election day help

The county is recruiting poll workers to be assigned to voting locations for the Nov. 4 consolidated general election. No experience is required and training will be provided by the Registrar of Voters office. Poll workers may earn up to $125 as precinct inspectors or $90 as precinct officers.

Poll workers must attend a special two-and-a-half hour training class to familiarize themselves with election procedures and prepare to assist voters when the polls open at 7 a.m. on election day. Workers in both posts also receive $20 for attending the training class.

The registrar also seeks individuals who speak proficiently in English and at least one of the following languages: Chinese, Korean, Spanish, Tagalog or Vietnamese.

Anyone who wishes to participate as a poll worker may call the Registrar of Voters office at (951) 486-7341 or 1-877-663-9906.

J.P. Crumrine can be reached at jp@towncrier.com.

Below is a list of important deadlines for the November 4 election

- Oct. 6 - First day of early voting in the Registrar of Voters office and first day the registrar is allowed to mail vote-by-mail ballots to voters.
- Oct. 20 - Last day to register to vote for the Nov. 4 election.
- Oct. 28 - Last day the registrar may accept mailed requests for vote-by-mail ballots.
- Oct. 29 - Voters must go to the registrar's office to request and pick up a vote-by-mail ballot. Voters who have requested but not received a vote-by-mail ballot by Oct. 28 should contact the registrar's office at 951-486-7200.
- Oct. 29 - Recommended as last day to mail a ballot locally with high likelihood the registrar will receive it in time to be counted in the Nov. 4 election.
- Nov. 4 - Election day polling places open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Vote-by-mail ballots must be in the possession of the Registrar of Voters no later than 8 p.m. By law, ballots that are not in the registrar's possession before 8 p.m. cannot be counted, even if they are postmarked before the deadline.

BUSINESS CHANGES

In an effort to grow their market share in the vacation and retirement home arenas, Town Real Estate of Palm Springs has opened a new office in Idyllwild. To lead the staff in its new Idyllwild location, Rick Martinez has been named managing broker.

With two offices and eight agents serving Riverside County, their portfolio of services has expanded to provide residential and commercial real estate, vacation rental and long-term property management.

"Town Real Estate is an independent boutique brokerage specializing in Palm Springs and neighboring resort communities. Our team felt that there was a strong marketplace in Idyllwild and it greatly compliments the demand of Southern California residents seeking weekend getaways. Our focus will also be on snowbirds flocking in from the northern interior states and Canada looking for a retirement home or a beautiful retreat away from the hustle and bustle of the cities they come from," said Kevin Stern, president/broker, Town Real Estate.

The new office is at 54710 North Circle Drive, Unit 3.

SPORTS

Town Hall Soccer

Sports Coordinator Richard Mozeleski gave this report on this season's soccer games.

Well, soccer is off and running on the Hill for 2014. This year's season is dedicated to Idyllwild's American Legion Post 800. A big thank you for their quiet, steady support of all the sports, year in and year out, and through all of thick and thin.

All of the youth teams are outfitted in assorted "camo" colors. A bonus of money donated to injured vet homes by our uniform supplier was icing on the cake.

Well, now for a sports report. The tone for this season was set right from the start with the 4- and 5-year-old kindergartners. They came out kickin'. The Awesome Rockets and Red Cheetahs fiercely battled to a 0-0 tie. The competition was so tough, one of the coaches commented, "I've never seen two bloody noses in one kindergarten game before." The defense was so tough that league authorities (that would be me) have stepped in to change goals from the little-guys' goals to big-kid goals to help enhance scoring. This huge change to soccer in Idyllwild is reminiscent of when the N.B.A. stepped in during the Wilt Chamberlain era and widened the key.

Anyway, 6-8, 9-11, teens adults — no matter — the play is fast and furious. Kids are playing Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Teens play Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. And intense adult action takes place on Wednesday and Saturday after 5 p.m. Got nothin' to do? Bring a chair and a jacket — you won't be disappointed. See you there.

Golf

Jim Crandall, Palms to Pines Golf Association handicap chair, provided this report about the Friday, Sept. 19, golf tournament in conjunction with the semi-final round of playoffs for the club championship. Play was at the Temecula Creek Golf Club on the Creek to Stonehouse courses.

It was a beautiful day and the course was in excellent shape.

In the semi-final playoffs, Pete Capparelli, the second seed, (course handicap 22) shot a net 72 to beat Jayden Emerson of Idyllwild and a Hemet High School senior ran in the Bulldog Invitational run Saturday at the Diamond Valley Lake cross country course. Jayden's time was 15:29.6. He was second in a field of 137 runners. Teammates Tanner Torrez (behind Jayden in photo), former Idyllwild resident, was fourth and Chad Schelly of Idyllwild was 30th. The Hemet High team was second out of 15 teams in the boys race.

John LoGiudice, the fifth seed, (20) who shot a net 81. And top seed John Brower (10) shot a 72 to beat Bill Ragland (15), the third seed, who shot a 78.

So the two top seeds of the 2013-14 season meet later this month. The winner of Brower vs. Capparelli will be the club champion.

The club champ will represent Palms to Pines Golf in the Southern California Tournament of Club Championships in December.

In this month's regular tourney, Lee Lanfried (24) shot a net 69 to take first place; second was a three-way tie between Brower (10), Capparelli (22) and Barry Wallace (13), all with net 72s, and Don DePalma (41) was alone in fifth place with a net 73.

The closest-to-the-pin winners on the four par 3s were Les Widerynski, Ragland, Lanfried and Brower.

The year-to-date point standings of the 2014-15 season, which runs from August 2014 through July 2015 are:

Place	Golfer	Points
1	Lee Lanfried	12
2	Bill Ragland	6

Idyllwild School Instructional Aide Joni VanderWende chose Mya Morreo, (above) first grade, and Ethan Sheppard, (right) second grade, as students of the week because they are very respectful and kind to other students as well as staff, and they are great role models for our school.

Points are awarded at each tournament as follows: first place, 6 points; second place, 4 points; third place, 3 points; fourth place, 2 points; fifth place, 1 point. In addition, one-half point is awarded to everyone who participates.

The top eight-point finishers of the year go into match-play playoffs for the club championship in August, September and October. A member has to compete in at least five regular-season tournaments and have a handicap no greater than 24.4 in order to qualify for the playoffs.

The club is a member of the Southern California Golf Association and is sanctioned to establish SCGA handicaps for members.

If interested in joining the club or playing as a guest, contact Crandall at jim.crandall@verizon.net or 951-265-5732, or Capparelli at pete@capparelli.com or 951-452-5552.

Helping kids be better students

As a supporter of the National PTA, Sylvan Learning Centers are encouraging all parents to commit to be the best Chief Education Officers they can be this school year by taking the Sylvan Learning CEO Pledge on Facebook (www.Facebook.com/SylvanLearning).

Sylvan Learning and PTA are both committed to encouraging parents to play an active role in their child's education and inspiring them to take on the coveted role of CEO this year is the first step. The pledge also helps parents support their local PTA. The five PTAs with the most CEO pledges by Oct. 24 will receive a $1,000 grant from Sylvan Learning for the 2014-15 school-year initiatives.

Sylvan Learning Center offer the following ways CEOs can help their children succeed academically:

- Establish a line of communication with teachers.
- Talk to kids often about academics.
- Know where children stand academically.
- Track progress.
- Set a good example.
- Check homework daily.
- Help kids develop strong study skills.
- Get involved in your local PTA.

CREATURE CORNER

By MIMI AND HOOTCH

Three little kittens have lost their mittens and they began to cry. "Oh, Mother dear, we sadly fear, our mittens we have lost."

Mama Lizzie, a kitten herself, replied, "Oh, do not fear, for we are at ARF, and our mittens and a home we will surely find." Lizzie and her babies were left on the ARF porch one morning. Mama is about 1, and the babies are about 5 months old. Poppy is a black male, Meatball is a black female and Tigger is a male tiger-stripe. Please open your heart and home.

This young guy is absolutely ready for some snow. Archie is a miniature Alaskan Eskimo with maybe some Schipperke thrown in. He loves to walk, go for rides in the car and be near his forever human. Archie needs a balanced, quiet home with someone who will love him throughout all the seasons.

We still have Tammy, the min-pin, and Lola, the Chihuahua-mix looking for that special human, too. You can always look on our website and facebook for current pictures.

We have several adult cats in our cattery too.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. There is also a link for Facebook, too. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sundays.

This week, Creature Corner is sponsored by Lynda Salmond. To sponsor the column, call Lisa Streeter at the Town Crier, 951-659-2145.

HOROSCOPES
October 2014 — Week 1

March 21 – April 19

Emotions run high at an event. Don't bother playing peacemaker, Aries. Some things are meant to be. A last moment trip uncovers quite the find.

April 20 – May 20

Time to yourself is rare these days, Taurus. Steal moments where you can. A loved one makes an unusual request. Honor it only if you can.

May 21 – June 21

Memories of another time and place haunt you. Relax, Gemini. It is not an omen, just a chance for you to revisit some fun. A secret is revealed.

June 22 – July 22

Watch it, Cancer. You're playing with fire. A superior sends out a memo. Read between the lines. There is much more to the situation than stated.

July 23– August 22

Fess up, Leo. You were in on it the whole time and you know it. A special event goes off without a hitch. It may be time for a little getaway.

August 23– September 22

Are you in or out, Virgo? This is not the time to be wishy-washy. Revenue increases, and a promotion may be in order. Someone needs a favor.

September 23– October 22

Press on, Libra. You team is counting on you, and remember, no matter how bad it gets, it could always be worse. Persevere, and you will be rewarded.

October 23– November 21

One man's trash is another's treasure. Remember that as you begin to sort through the clutter, Scorpio. Donate or sell whatever you can.

November 22– December 21

Sagittarians don't always get their way. Learn to compromise, or prepare to face the consequences. A message is received loud and clear at home.

December 22 – January 19

Come on, Capricorn. The obstacles are not as insurmountable as you think. Dig deep, and you will succeed. Changes are brewing at work. Don't fight them.

January 20 – February 18

Doing more than your fair share of the work, Aquarius? Perhaps it's time you got help outside of the family. Just make sure you split the costs.

February 19 – March 20

Lunacy surrounds you this week, Pisces. Don't let it drive you batty. Find something lucrative to focus on. A service is expanded. Enjoy the perks.

On Tuesday, Sept. 30, the index predicted a marginal Santa Ana wildfire threat for Thursday, Oct. 2 in the Inland Empire. As the threat possibility heightens, individuals should take actions to help remove themselves from danger areas. For example, they might want to ensure that their car has a full tank of gas and cell phones are charged. As the wildfire threat increases, being aware of possible escape routes is another helpful action.

"We beta-tested the tool for more than a year," said Forest Service Meteorologist Tom Rolinski. "It was very successful in 2013 during the Springs Fire in Camarillo, and performed well with fires in April and San Diego County in May."

Since the 2007 wildfires in San Diego County, San Diego Gas and Electric has hired in-house meteorologists and installed 150 weather stations across its service area to gather real-time information about the impact of weather on utility equipment — all to improve situational awareness during emergencies.

SDG&E's Dave Geier, vice president of electric transmission and system engineering asked his team "... to come up with something similar to the categories to rate hurricanes that could be used to classify Santa Ana wind events based on their potential to spread a major fire, which would help us in making operational decisions to protect our system and our customers."

The utility reached out to regional fire agencies, including the Forest Service and Cal Fire, along with universities in Southern California, to partner in the development of the index. SDG&E also provided funding for state-of-the-art computing hardware and software to help turn the raw data into a manageable tool.

Rolinski had begun to develop a Santa Ana index more than five years ago. Its intent, he said, was to advise fire managers on the severity of the potential fire threat if the Santa Ana event occurred, allowing them to deploy extra resources within the region. "This is much more sophisticated," Rolinski affirmed.

UCLA atmospheric scientists got involved and were instrumental in the actual "number crunching." Dr. Robert Fovell, chair of the university's Department of Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences, along with two other researchers, conducted modeling for a past Santa Ana wind events.

"This effort has led to an enhanced understanding of the evolution of the Santa Ana winds, their potential for sparking and spreading fires, and their spatial and temporal variation," said Fovell in a separate press release.

The National Weather Service is the agency that issues a Red Flag Warning when weather conditions indicate the development of a strong Santa Ana. The Forest Service "owns" the Santa Ana Wildfire tool and is the agency responsible for determining and issuing the alerts.

"The index is designed to complement the Red Flag Warning," Rolinski said. "In the future, we hope the National Weather Service will include the current threat index when they announce a Red Flag Warning."

Riverside and San Bernardino county supervisors meet

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Tuesday, Sept. 16, the Boards of Supervisors for Riverside and San Bernardino counties held a joint meeting to discuss several issues affecting both counties. During the session, they heard from staff on health-care issues, implementation of AB 10, which addresses the shift of prisoners from the state to counties, and Ontario Airport.

Before the session ended, they agreed to work together on more issues in an effort to improve their effectiveness in Sacramento — both with the governor's office and the state legislature.

"We have things in common and I believe by putting our voices and citizens together, we can make the Inland Empire economy more vibrant," said Janice Rutherford, San Bernardino board chair.

"We have things in common and I believe by putting our voices and citizens together, we can make the Inland Empire economy more vibrant," said Janice Rutherford, San Bernardino board chair.

dents of both counties and its chief executive, Dr. Brad Gilbert, described the affect of the Affordable Care Act on the two counties. Since 1996, the number of IEHP members has grown from 62,000 to more than 900,000. Since ACA was implemented, Medi-Cal enrollment has grown by 200,000 to a total of 300,000. By December 2015, Gilbert expects the health exchange enrollment (non-Medi-Cal) to increase another 50,000, to a total of 175,000 to 180,000 members.

Despite the growth of insured individuals, the Inland Empire has "... an inadequate supply of physicians," Gilbert lamented. "We are the lowest ratio of primary care physicians to population of any area in the state." Compounding the current shortage is the fact that the existing supply of physicians is an aging work force. In response to a question from Riverside County Board Chair Jeff Stone about how to improve the supply of doctors, Gilbert said, the recent opening of a medical school at the University of California, Riverside is positive. Then he stressed that it is more important where physicians do their residency than where they attend school.

Jail realignment

"Nearly 17 percent of the inmates released from state prisons back to local jurisdiction have fallen within our two counties," reported Mark Hake, the Riverside county probation officer.

"If you want to drive down recidivism, we have to continue to pursue split sentences," stressed San Bernardino Sheriff John McMahon. Split sentences include both jail time and monitored probation, he stated, and they now represent about 40 percent of convictions. "We have to do something different or we'll have overcrowding for years," he told the boards.

Ontario Airport

"Ontario Airport is important to San Bernardino and Riverside counties," Stone said. "We like to refer to it as 'our airport' as many of our constituents use it."

The supervisors heard from Ontario Councilman Alan Wapner that airport passengers were about 3.9 million in 2013. The peak was more than 7 million passengers in 2007 and has been declining since.

object to this language.

"[Regarding] the new phrase that you are considering adding ... Of the garages where I have utilized this section (and the hundred plus I have seen in Idyllwild), there is not even one where it would have been allowed under the new wording," Marsh told the Planning Commission in a September correspondence. "This new wording renders Section 18.18.B.2 useless."

The Planning Commission asked for these proposals to be carried over to its Oct. 15 meeting. As of Friday, Mares expects no changes in the language before this meeting, although that is still possible, he said.

When the initial proposal to simply delete the option appeared, both David Lilieholm, an Idyllwild building designer, and Marsh, an architect, contacted the commission with objections.

"I've been a home designer in the Idyllwild area for 25 years and have many times had to rely on this provision as the only way to allow construction of a garage on certain properties," Lilieholm wrote Mares in July. "Given how common these steep properties are and coupled with the often-difficult snow conditions up here, I think (and obviously the code originally agreed) that the zero setback in certain conditions is a very reasonable allowance."

Lilieholm explained that the slope on many properties prevents building a garage except near the property line and street. He also believes there is a misconception that many garages are right on the street. "This should be looked at on a case-by-case basis to see if traffic is an issue," Lilieholm recommended and noted. "This really would have an impact on a lot of properties up here."

Both men support the existing provision and were skeptical of the public safety issue as a reason for deleting it. "I have been working in Idyllwild for 30 years and I have seen over a hundred garages that are on, or close to, the front property line. I do not know of one accident or safety concern due to any of these agencies," Marsh wrote the Planning Commission in August.

Davis stressed his view that prohibiting garages on some properties because of their proximity to the street would affect the ability of some residents to access their cars during bad weather. "This is a quality-of-life issue," he told the commission.

The next Planning Commission meeting, where the proposed changes to Ordinance 348 will be on the agenda, is 9 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, in the Board Chambers on the first floor of the county's Administrative Center in Riverside.

County gets extension for fuel abatement grant funds

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The U.S. Forest Service has extended the State Forestry Grant to Riverside County, Gregg Bratcher, Cal Fire unit forester for Riverside County, announced last week.

The grant was scheduled to expire Sept. 30, but Cal Fire requested a one-year extension.

About $450,000 will be available for fire protection on the Hill during the next year.

The grant funds can be used for four different purposes, according to Bratcher. The first is a cooperative agreement with the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council to help with fire abatement projects.

Property owners concerned about dead, dying or diseased trees, such as pines dying from bark beetle infestation or the drought and oaks targeted by the goldspotted oak borer, should contact Riverside County Fire's local forestry unit at 951-659-3337.

If property owners suspect that an oak tree may be infected, they should first visit the University of California, Riverside's GSOB site, <http://ucanr.edu/sites/>

gsobinfo/, then call Cal Fire's GSOB hotline at 951-659-8328.

The third program is for fuel modification on large parcels. In addition, Bratcher indicated that time-and-materials-type contracts are available for fuel reduction projects that cost less than $25,000.

Proposition 45 supporters/opposition

By Marshall Smith
Correspondent

Proposition 45 proposes to give the California insurance commissioner the right to approve changes to health insurance rates or “anything else affecting the charges associated with health insurance,” according to the proposition. It provides for public notice, disclosure and hearings on health insurance rate changes as well as subsequent judicial review. It also requires sworn statements by health insurers as to the accuracy of information submitted to the insurance commissioner to justify rate changes.

Consumer Watchdog, the driving force behind 45, forged a revolution in auto and homeowner insurance in 1988 with Prop 103, which created an elected insurance commissioner with the power to review and reject auto and homeowner rate hikes if those hikes were found to be onerous. Twenty-six years later the group seeks to give the commissioner the same review-and-reject power over the rapidly expanding health insurance market.

CW estimates annual savings to state health insurance consumers of up to $1 billion a year or $612 per family if the state insurance commissioner is given regulatory power to control rate hikes.

The problem, say opponents, is that Prop 45 proposes what they call unnecessary new regulation and costs — unnecessary because the Affordable Care Act, which went into effect nationally on Jan. 1, 2014, already provides health insurance rate oversight. Covered California, the state insurance exchange, is designed to implement the act’s provisions and provide new rules and regulations to protect state health care consumers.

The choice, says Dan Schnur of the Unruh Institute of Politics at the University of Southern California, is not between oversight and no oversight but of who and how that oversight is implemented.

Prop 45’s path to the ballot, as an initiative qualified through gathered signatures, was originally targeted for the November 2012 election. Sponsors submitted 800,000 signatures on May 18, 2012, but election officials said they would not have enough time prior to the November election to verify the signatures. As a result, the initiative was moved to the November 2014 ballot.

That move, arriving after the U.S. Supreme Court’s upholding of the provisions of ACA on June 28, 2012, and full implementation of the act in January 2014, may have come at an inauspicious time for passage by voters. Some groups that might have traditionally supported strict regulation of health insurance by a state commissioner now oppose Prop 45. They warn it could impede further rollout of CC and its ability to negotiate rate hikes within the marketplace.

Opponents cite CC’s independent commission’s authority to negotiate rates with health insurance plans and reject them if too expensive. They argue for giving CC’s commission a chance to work and more time to prove its effective advocacy for consumers within the marketplace.

Jamie Court, CW president, notes that Californians’ health insurance premiums have grown five times faster than the rate of inflation over the last decade and that regulation by a commissioner is necessary.

Prop 45 supporters include: California Democratic Party, California National Organization for Women, California Nurses Association, California Federation of Teachers, Insurance Commissioner Dave Jones, Superintendent of Public Instruction Tom Torlakson and U.S. Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer.

Opponents include: California Republican Party, California Chamber of Commerce, California Medical Association, California Association of Health Plans, William Jefferson Clinton Democrats and the NAACP California.

Susan Kennedy, a CC board member, said the initiative could damage health-care reform in California “permanently, perhaps fatally. Even under the best-case scenario, enactment of this measure significantly complicates Covered California’s ability to enact health-care reform. I just think it’s the wrong time to add an entire layer of complication and risk to what we are attempting to achieve.”

Proponents say the state insurance commissioner has proven effective in regulating auto and home insurance rates and needs to be given the ability to do so in the health-care marketplace.

Mike Yount, an Idyllwild firefighter engineer, retired last week after 23 years with Idyllwild Fire Department and 30 years total first-responder experience. Idyllwild Fire Protection District Commissioner Rhonda Andrewson (right) was one of many people who celebrated his retirement last Thursday.

Open seat for Secretary of State

By Marshall Smith
Correspondent

The office of California Secretary of State oversees state elections, keeps the state's key documents and the state archives, and implements electronic filing and Internet disclosure of campaign and lobbyist financial information. Current Secretary of State, Democrat Debra Bowen, is term limited and thus no incumbent is running.

Competing for the office are longtime state officeholder, Democrat Alex Padilla, and political novice, Republican Pete Peterson. Peterson, in his campaign statements, said he views the office of SOS as non-partisan and his background seems to verify that posture. Peterson was first executive director of Common Sense California, a bipartisan non-profit dedicated to improving civic participation throughout the state.

In 2010, Common Sense California joined with the Davenport Institute of the School of Public Policy at Pepperdine University to become the Davenport Institute for Public Engagement and Civic Leadership. As current executive director of the Davenport Institute, Peterson is recognized as a trainer, speaker and advisor on topics relating to increasing public participation in government decision making and explaining how technology can and is changing the citizen/government relationship.

Peterson received his bachelor's degree in history from George Washington University and his master's in public policy from Pepperdine. He currently serves on the advisory committees to the League of California Cities, the California Civic Innovation Project and the University Network. He is endorsed by most of the state's major newspapers, including the Los Angeles Times, Los Angeles Daily News, the San Francisco Chronicle, the San Jose Mercury News and the San Diego Union Tribune.

Alex Padilla, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is seen as a rising star in the Democratic Party and is a California state senator, first elected in 2006. Prior to that, Padilla served on the Los Angeles City Council representing the 7th District from 1999 until 2006. He was elected council president in July 2001 and remained president through the end of 2005.

He is endorsed by the state's Democratic leadership, the Sacramento Bee and most of the state unions, including firefighters and police officers. He states in his election papers that he is experienced in governance and in reaching across party lines to craft meaningful legislation.

Padilla said he will expedite new business online filings to ensure their prompt commencement of business operations. He said he also will work to modernize voting procedures in the state.

Peterson said he will "lead the fight to make California's government more transparent, less corrupt and more accountable to voters and small businesses ... I will bring my background in civic engagement and private sector experience to Sacramento to increase informed participation while protecting the integrity of the ballot box," he stated.

Kashkari endorses Garcia for SD 28

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Nov. 4 is the general election and one of the tightest races pits Republicans Bonnie Garcia and Jeff Stone against each other for the state Senate District 28 seat.

In the middle of last month, Republican gubernatorial candidate Neel Kashkari endorsed Garcia in the local race.

"I'm honored to have Neel's support and from day one, I'll be ready to work with him in an effort to keep jobs in California and ensure every child receives a quality education," said Garcia. "Neel understands that the American Dream has faded in California and he has offered a plan to bring it back."

Asked how much this endorsement might mean and how effective it will be, she said, "I think endorsements send a message to the community. It's not that you're 100 percent in agreement [with the endorser], but you're like-minded about certain issues. He and I agree on education. He has the right vision on education. It's a simple message, 'Education, that's it.' We can't rebuild our economy without better education."

Ruiz and Nestande to face off

U.S. Rep. Raul Ruiz and Assemblyman Brian Nestande have agreed to a televised debate.

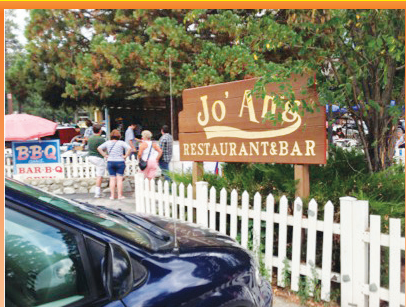

The one-hour event will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 5, the night before the first votes will be cast in the 36th Congressional race.

Because of the television studio size, there will be no live audience. Instead, the political gunfight will be broadcast live on KESQ News Channel 3, its sister station, CBS Local 2, DesertSun.com and the television stations' websites.

The event is co-sponsored by the Desert Sun Media Group, Gulf-California Broadcast Co., and the NewsPress and Gazette Co.

Mail voting for the November election starts on Oct. 6.

OUT LOUD

Robin Williams' suicide has opened the door for more of us to open up about a dark subject.

California Secretary of State Debra Bowen's revelation that she suffers from depression is admirable, though running a department that large and important from home while she deals with this challenge is not doable.

As I said, I admire her for speaking out about this issue that is not uncommon. I suffer off and on from it also, as do some of my friends. And when it hits, running the newspaper from home is not possible. By golly, running anything — from the dishwasher to the TV — isn't.

William Styron, Pulitzer Prize winner and author of such great novels as "Sophie's Choice," wrote the best small book about fighting his own 1985 bout with depression and gave the book's name the perfect description of what it feels like to be in that black hole — "Darkness Visible." Coming out of that visible darkness for me feels as though a cloud lifts and that painful weight is gone.

What brings it on, though? Everyone who suffers from this describes their own factors. It may be one thing — divorce, moving, loss of a home or loved one — or it may not be anything tangible to grasp.

I cannot always point to what sets it off with me. One thing I can point to is gluten. Yes, as strange as that may seem, eating a crumb of gluten will drag me into that deep well in a heart beat and keep me there for about 24 hours (and serious intestinal pain accompanies the depression).

Who knows what drags Bowen into her dark place. I've heard her speak more than once in Sacramento. She is a brilliant person who has much to contribute. I hope she beats this thing.

Dr Know It All answers back to his critics

EDITOR:

Dr Know It All doesn't mind being in the middle of a controversy. He is used to people with a contradictory sense of humor. It should be clear that the Dr abhors violence. When he says avoid "maiming" tourists and resist "smacking annoying children," he means it.

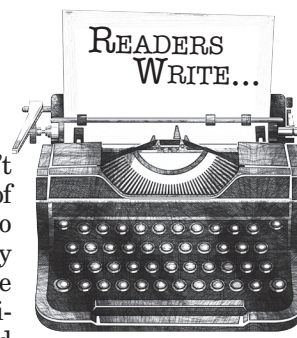

What the Dr does mind is having his opinions and his humor edited and censored by individuals who find said humor offensive, to the point of even threatening subscriber cancellation. It's sad that individuals can't allow opposing ideas, attitudes, even jokes to appear in public.

This is the 21st century and it's time for people to thicken their skins and realize that the world is changing and — sorry, folk — getting younger. It's the age thing that usually trips everyone's trigger. Deal with it. If you don't like a "stand up" joke, then get over it.

But then again, who doesn't like a little conflict. It's just that Dr Know It All doesn't like censorship, at any level.

Love to All,

Editor's note: Dr Know It All's column will run the second Thursday of each month.

Loves Dr Know It All

EDITOR:

First I want to tell you what a great job you are doing with the paper. I do still come up there several times a month, love it and hope my kids do the same as the grandkids get old enough to hike.

I also watch golf with friends every Sunday and I'm pleased to see how well Brendan Steele is doing.

I got my Sept. 18 paper today, and want to put in my 2 cents about Dr Know It All's column. I love it.

I am sorry so many locals are lacking a sense of humor and are unable to laugh at themselves because that is one of the greatest pleasures in life.

Why not just alternate the column with "Bad Advice in the Morning?" You know, reading humor pieces is not a requirement, and those who do not enjoy it do not have to pass a test on the contents.

As John Lydgate said "... but you can't please all of the people all of the time." So full speed ahead.

I have often been struck by the similarities between fire protection — prevention and suppression — and public health.

Both fields are tasked with preventing or containing catastrophes — wildfires and epidemics — that can overwhelm the normal protections of daily life. Both deal with an enemy that is a part of the natural world but wild and sometimes uncontrollable.

Professionals in both fields know through experience how terrible wildfires and epidemics can be, and they put a great deal of effort into preventing them from happening in the first place. People in both fields deal with emergencies and crises, yet they know that despite their momentary victories, neither threat will ever be completely eliminated.

FIRE & FOREST

Some concepts used in public health, like susceptibility and transmission, apply easily to fire prevention. Susceptibility refers to the likelihood that a person, or population, will contract a certain disease. Smokers are more susceptible to lung cancer than are non-smokers.

Communities also are more or less susceptible to wildfire. A community where people have thick brush and forest for privacy will be more susceptible to wildfire than one that keeps brush and forest well-spaced and thinned.

Warning: Consumption of game meat shot with lead ammo may be hazardous to your health

By TOM PAULEK

Editor’s note: Tom Paulek of Idyllwild was a California Department of Fish and Game wildlife biologist for 28 years. During that time for 17 years, he was the San Jacinto Wildlife Area manager. He retired in 2006. This article is from the Friends of the San Jacinto Valley September 2014 newsletter.

Last October, Gov. Jerry Brown signed into law AB 711 — the ban on the use of lead ammunition for hunting in California.

The lead ban will not go into effect until July 2019. In the interim, California upland game hunters can continue to use lead shot for hunting dove, pheasant, snipe and other small game species.

The adverse impact of spent lead ammunition on wildlife populations has been well documented over many years. More recent research indicates the discharge of lead ammunition may be a significant public health concern. The Wildlife Society’s 2009 Position Statement on lead ammunition reports: “When lead that is imbedded in game meat becomes exposed to acid in the human stomach, lead may be absorbed into the system. Even if a lead pellet completely passes through an animal, a small amount of lead may be left in the tissue and may be absorbed by a person consuming the meat.”

The Sept. 28, 2009, Scientific American article “Wild Meat Raises Lead Exposure” notes: “The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention tested 736 people, mostly adults, in six North Dakota cities and found that those who ate wild game had 50 percent more lead in their blood than those who did not eat it. The lead exposure was highest among people who consumed not only venison, but also birds and other game, according to the study published last month in the journal Environmental Research.”

“What was most troubling is that as wild game consumption increases, blood-lead levels increase,” said study co-author Many Jean Brown, chief of the CDC’s lead prevention branch. “The strong recommendation we would make is that pregnant women should not consume this meat.”

The article continued with “... recent research has reported that children’s mental abilities are reduced by lead at levels far below the CDC guideline. Brown and others say there is no threshold below which lead does not cause harm, particularly with children.”

The Friends participated in the California Fish and Game Commission adoption of this year’s Upland Game hunting regulations. We presented the Friends’ May 21, 2014, comment letter and testified at the Aug. 6, 2014, public hearing adopting the hunting regulations. Our testimony presented the science-based lead hazard information and once again requested the commission include public health advisory in the upcoming Upland Hunting Regulation booklet advising California hunters of the hazards of the consumption of game meat shot with lead ammunition.

The commission ignored the May 21 letter as well as our testimony at the Aug. 6 public hearing, which they summarily dismissed.

Looking forward, the Friends may ultimately be stymied again by commission misfeasance. AB 711 requires the commission to promulgate regulations to fully implement the ban on lead ammunition by July 1, 2015.

The commission is now taking public input on regulations necessary to implement the 2019 lead ban. We plan to again raise the issue/impact of the need for a public health advisory warning hunters of the hazard of the consumption of game meat shot with lead ammunition.

Given the Fish and Game Commission’s poor record of implementing its CEQA duties, we are not confident this obvious environmental impact will receive the consideration required by law.

Election and voter registration info

By J.P. Crumrine
News Editor

On Sept. 25, the Riverside County Registrar of Voters began mailing about 876,000 sample ballots and information pamphlets. Voters will have these in advance of the general election on Nov. 4.

If voters do not receive an informational guide in the mail, it is available at www.voteinfo.net. Voters also may call the registrar’s office at (951) 486-7200 or 1-800-773-

8683 to request a mailed copy.

Voters may mark their choices on the sample ballot and use it as a guide to help them complete their official ballot at the polls.

Voter polling place locations are printed on the back cover of the information pamphlet, which includes an application to request a vote-by-mail ballot. A Spanish-language version of the pamphlet also is available at www.voteinfo.net and a copy can be mailed upon request.

goes into understanding disease transmission. Similarly, understanding how fire is transmitted, or carried, is important in prevention and mitigation. Fire will burn in a direct chain of available fuel, such as leaves or brush going right up to a house, or it will be carried by wind in the form of embers up to a mile ahead of the fire front. Embers can start fires on susceptible houses (wooden roofs, lots of close vegetation), but fail to ignite on well-abated properties.

There are simple but effective actions suggested in both worlds. Public health’s advice to stop disease transmission is to frequently wash one’s hands. The equivalent in the fire world is to abate one’s property.

Public health also provides useful ways of thinking about fire prevention. Disease epidemics can have many causes — genetics, the environment, personal behavior or economics — and all can play a part.

This makes prevention complicated. Fire prevention, too, must account for many factors: the health and type of the surrounding forest, whether a community is abated or not, how careful people are with ignition sources, the vulnerability of existing structures.

Prevention in both cases requires effective action by both individuals and government. Individuals must wash their hands, but it takes large government projects to make sure that the water they use is clean. The success of city life in ancient Rome had much to do with their extraordinary aqueducts designed to bring fresh water to city residents, and to their extensive system of public baths and toilets to properly dispose of sewage.

It takes government action for large-scale efforts to maintain forests and fuelbreaks, to create organizations that can fight and suppress fire, and to create appropriate codes to lessen the chance of fire. Individuals must do what they can to make their homes safe and be careful not to start fires that could spread.

One of the great achievements of the modern world has been mass vaccination, which, aside from clean water, is perhaps the greatest shield against disease ever discovered. Vaccinations are amazingly effective in helping individual immune systems build resistance to infectious disease.

Hardening and abating homes build resistance to fire. Flu shots and fire abatement are both important contributions to health and safety.

Perhaps some drought relief in sight

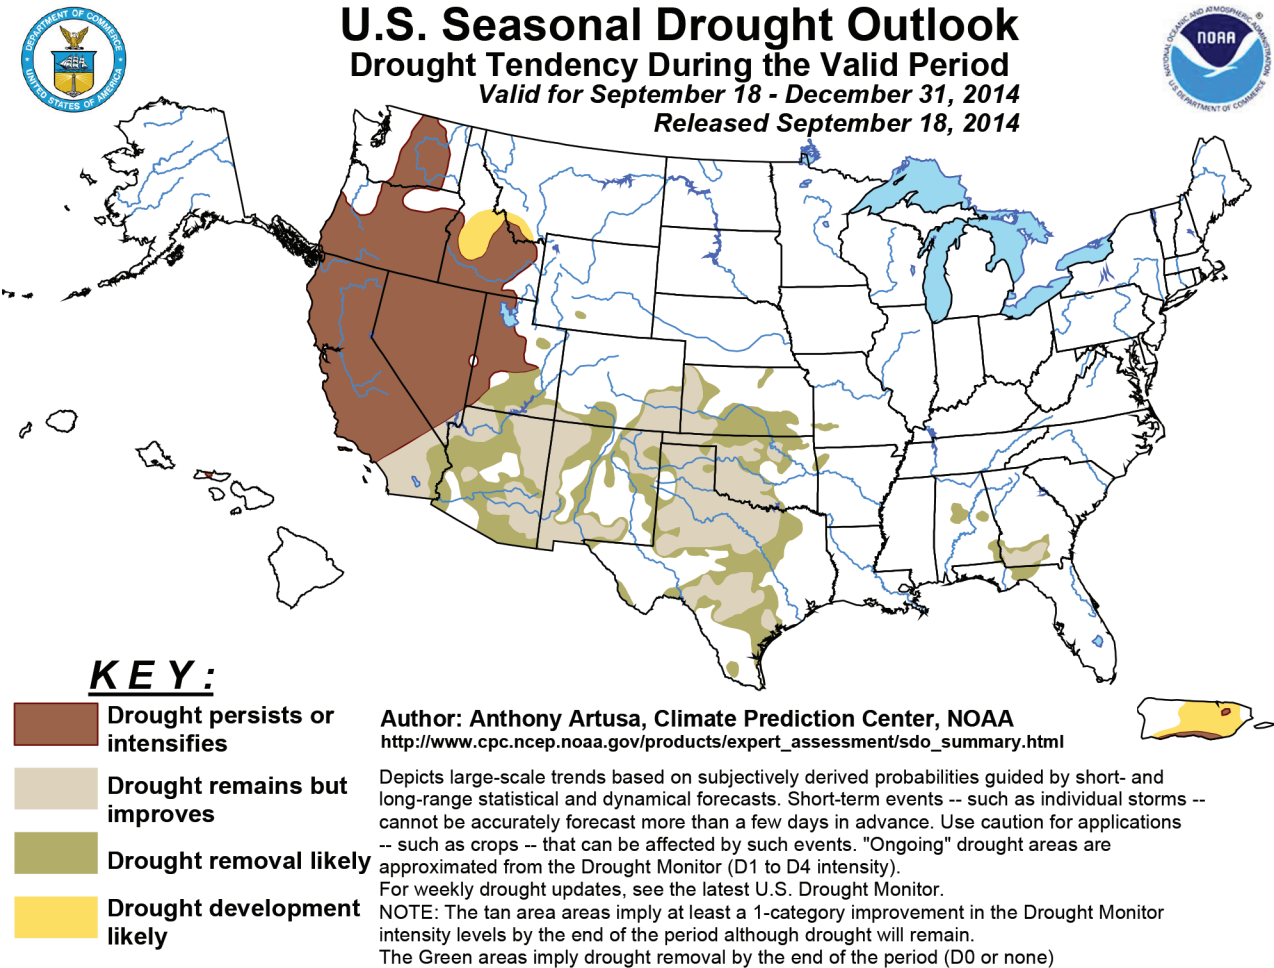

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The summer's rainstorms had little effect on drought conditions and current weather is unlikely to end the drought conditions this fall, although some relief may occur. The National Weather Service's latest forecast places a 60- to 65-percent chance of an El Niño weather pattern developing during fall or winter. If an El Niño were to occur, its rain pattern is more likely to benefit Southern California than the rest of the state, according to NWS' Climate Prediction Center forecast this month. On Sept. 18, NWS indicated a 33-percent chance of above-average amount of rainfall this fall. During the past 30 days, portions of the far south of Southern California have received significant amounts of precipitation. Northern and Central California typically receive 30- to 40-percent of their annual precipitation between October and December, while remaining portions of the state receive between 20 to 30 percent. For October, there are enhanced odds of above-median precipitation in the southeast portion of California. For the fall, CPC's precipitation outlook favors above-median precipitation over the far south of Southern California. The U.S. Seasonal Drought Outlook favors drought persistence or intensification across all but far southern sections of both California and Nevada, and much of western Utah.

Forest Service plans to restore burned areas

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

In July 2013, the Mountain Fire, which started on private land across Highway 243 from the Forest Service's Keenwild Station, burned more than 27,500 acres. Most of this burned acreage was in the San Jacinto Wilderness Area.

Last week, the Forest Service announced it has formulated a plan to reforest a portion of the burned land not within the wilderness area.

The agency is proposing to plant Jeffrey and Coulter pines seedlings on more than 300 acres. Chaparral occupied much of the other burned area outside the wilderness area. If the proposal is approved, work will begin during the winter and early spring of 2015, according to Kayanna Warren, San Jacinto Ranger District forester.

The Jeffrey and Coulter seedlings will only be planted in areas where they had formerly dominated. The seedlings will come from the Forest Service's Placerville nursery, which collected seed stock from this elevation in both the San Jacinto and Santa Rosa mountains, Warren said. The project is estimated to cost about $250,000.

The Forest Service plans to plant about 200 seedlings per acre and hopes to have 37 trees per acre survive after five years. The goal is no fewer than 10.1 trees per acre.

While much of the work will be done through a contract, Warren added, "Volunteers will be involved. The community has expressed an interest in restoring the area and helping."

The proposal says no new access roads will be needed, nor fertilizer or herbicide will be applied as part of this project. As the seedlings grow, they will be monitored and protected from encroaching competition during the first four years.

The proposal and a map may be found on the San Bernardino National Forest website at: http://data.eco-system-management.org/nepaweb/nepa_project_exp.php?project=43430.

SBNF is requesting written comments on the scope of this proposed action by Oct. 24. The responsible official is District Ranger Arturo Delgado.

Comments may be submitted via email text or in readable format (.doc, .pdf, .txt, .rtf) to comments-pacific-southwest-san-bernardino-san-jacinto@fs.fed.us, with "Scoping - Reforestation NEPA" in the subject line, or by mail to Kayanna Warren, project lead, at U.S. Forest Service, San Jacinto Ranger District, Attn: Kayanna Warren, P.O. IDYLLWILD WATER DISTRICT SEPTEMBER 2014 NEWSLETTER

IWD Mission Statement: To provide reliable water & sewer service in a safe, cost effective & environmentally sound manner in accordance with the community needs

NEW RATES GOING INTO EFFECT – New water use allocations and sewer rates are going into effect which will show up on your October billing. With our lingering drought conditions, the empty Foster Lake, a necessity to pump from deeper well levels, and an increase in utility costs, we are unfortunately forced to decrease the amount of water included in our base rate and increase sewer rates. We want to thank our customers for all their continued conservation efforts. Previously, all properties received a liberal amount of water before we applied a consumption charge. We have reduced this amount of water due to a diminished amount of water resources. Our infrastructure is very old, and we are in need of repairing and replacing some of our deteriorated equipment. A priority is a sewer effluent line that extends from our sewer plant over one mile to our settling ponds. Below are pictures illustrating the deteriorated effluent pipe.

We plan on taking a very frugal approach to the repair of our infrastructure, first tackling the equipment that is in immediate risk of failure. Since we plan to minimize the rate impact to our customers, it will take several years to complete necessary repairs and upgrades to our water and sewer infrastructure. What does this mean for a typical single family home? You will see a modest hike in water bills, of approximately 5% to 10% per month depending on consumption. Those customers on sewer will see an increase of $12.75 in their monthly charge. Our goal is to keep the water delivery system and sewer service in good condition and capital expenses in balance.

WATER METERS – There has been recent concern expressed regarding the accuracy of water meters. We want to assure all our customers that our meters are in fact very accurate. We have recently validated this accuracy by both bench testing and having an independent laboratory calibrate each meter that has been tested. The laboratory has certified that all tested meters have been at least 99.7% accurate. If any customer remains concerned about meter accuracy, we want to invite them to our next Board meeting scheduled for October 15, 2014 @ 6:00 pm. A representative of the meter manufacturer will be available to make a presentation and answer any questions.

WATER CONSERVATION – Again, we want to remind our customers to do their best in conserving water. The Governor has asked all households to reduce their water consumption by 20%. Here in Idyllwild most customers have complied, and we hope continued efforts will help get us through this extended drought period.

Please join us at the October 15th Board meeting at 6:00 p.m.

DROUGHT:

The drought effect is apparent at Diamond Valley Lake in Hemet. The lake level is about 30 feet lower than normal.

Hemet theatre students to perform 'Goodnight Moon'

BY MARSHALL SMITH
CORRESPONDENT

"Goodnight stars, goodnight air, goodnight noises everywhere."

Margaret Wise-Brown's tiny and tender children's book "Goodnight Moon" is familiar to generations of children and parents. In seven stanzas, Wise-Brown introduced entranced readers to the great Green Room inhabited by bears, kittens, mittens, a toy house, a mouse, a comb and a brush, a bowlful of mush and a quiet old lady whispering, "Hush."

And since 2007, when premiered by the Seattle Children's Theatre, "Goodnight Moon" the musical has captivated audiences by giving three-dimensional form to the room, its inhabitants and features, and its interlocutor, a bemused bunny, courtesy of Wise-Brown's other book, "The Runaway Bunny."

Under the direction of Hemet High School Theatre Faculty Bret Cherland, "Goodnight Moon" the musical, written and scored by Chad Henry, comes to life at 6 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9 and Friday, Oct. 10 with a Saturday matinee at 2 p.m.

Cherland's Children's Theatre production features Idyllwild residents Daniel Phillips as an actor in the ensemble and Ian Strunk, Kayleb Hembree and Bret Hem-

bree as tech theater production crew.

"We've been able to incorporate so many great technical elements," said Cherland, noting HHS's new and expanded theater facilities. He gave particular credit to HHS junior Mercedes Evans who designed the set. "She's a genius," he said.

"We're pretty proud of what we're doing here," said Cherland, citing HHS's long tradition of theater excellence. "We're especially glad to have the kids from Idyllwild who are so talented and have added so much over the years they have been part of our productions.

We're creating a theater family. It's all about building ensemble."

As part of its effort to bring theater to more children in the greater Hemet/San Jacinto area, HHS Children's Theatre sent out 170 golden tickets (think Willy Wonka) to school district and valley librarians to be distributed to outstanding readers. The golden tickets are valid for free admission to one show for the winning student and their accompanying adult.

Visit hemethigh.com/apps/pages/index.jsp?uREC_ID=327395&type=u for ticket information.

Monarch caterpillars feed on the milkweed plants at the Pine Cove Water District building. Monarch butterflies go through four stages during one life cycle and through four generations or life cycles in one year. The four stages of the monarch butterfly life cycle are the egg, the larvae (caterpillar), the pupa (chrysalis) and the adult butterfly. The Monarch can produce four generations, or four different butterflies, which each pass through these four stages during one year. The fourth generation of monarch butterflies does not die after two to six weeks; instead, this generation migrates to warmer climates such as Mexico and California. This generation will live for six to eight months until it is time to start the whole process over again.

CONTEST JUDGE

Five regulars, Maurie Bousquet, David Curl, Kathy Nielson, Dorothy Silliman, the Josh and Emily White family, and a newcomer, Effie Trinket, all correctly identified last week's photo location as being a detail of the stone wall and lantern from a particular spot at Lannie and Jane Wagstaff's Restaurant Gastrognome. Dolores Sizer pulled out Bousquet's name — yet again — so he gets the two-ticket gift card to Shane Stewart's Rustic Theater this week. Before Our Time

BEFORE THE CREEKSTONE INN? FOOD ...

The Creekstone Inn has dominated the four-way stop called Fern Valley Corners since 1947; but its current identity, as Chris Singer's elegant, 20-year-old tourist lodging, is a recent development. Instead, for 47 years Hill dwellers associated the building strictly with food.

In 1946, as the country recovered from World War II, Michael and Dorothy Michelsen discovered Idyllwild. They were searching for a drier climate than the coast to assuage a daughter's asthma.

Their original idea of running a motel evaporated once they saw the lot available at Pine Crest and Circle Drive, which seemed strategically located for a grocery store.

Fern Valley was blossoming with new homes and cabins, and the area's developers, Strong and Dickinson, hoped to see a commercial center there rivaling Jerry Johnson's enterprises in downtown Idyllwild.

The Michelsens planned their building with upstairs living quarters and meeting facilities, but the required lumber would bust their budget. In those days river rock was there for the taking. So twice a day for three months they gathered and hauled truckloads up the Hill.

Their Fern Valley Market's huge fireplace anchored a space to hang out, play pinochle or catch up on village happenings. The soda fountain seemed like a good idea during planning, but on opening day Dot suddenly faced a brutal on-the-job training regimen requiring more arms than any human possesses. Fortunately, this being Idyllwild, customers gladly offered instruction and dish-washing help.

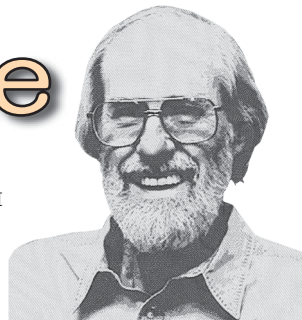

Mike was an innovator. He offered regular customers what amounted to prepaid debit cards for discounted grocery purchases.

He created a persona, Jose Gottgrub, for Town Crier ads; "Your Day with J.G." episodes combined weekly specials with humorous advice, all embedded in Ernie Maxwell cartoons.

In 1951 the Michelsens decided to sell, but reconsidered and leased the market to Leigh and Margaret Dutton. Dutton's Corner Store operated for five years until the Duttons elected to concentrate on their downtown enterprises, which included Village Market. Bill and Emma Fletcher took over, restoring the Fern Valley Market name.

In 1958 the Fletchers

departed, and for a time the market was operated by the Braughton brothers, owners of the neighboring Fern Valley Bakery. Space was set aside, perhaps tentatively, for a restaurant, Margaret Voie's Nottoosure Café.

After the building got its 15 minutes of fame in November 1961 as a filming location for Elvis Presley's "Kid Galahad," the Michelsen family sold it to Robert and Janice Oates.

That winter, Oates' construction and real estate businesses moved in; a memorable alpine-style remodel paved the way for Scotty and Elena Ellison's Alpine Market. And Kitty Thomas and Mary Blackburn relaunched the restaurant as the Alpine Pantry (where Marge Muir waited tables).

The Fern Valley-Idyllwild rivalry had long since been resolved in downtown's favor, and even long-lived uptown businesses endured rough times. In 1972 the Alpine Pantry moved to the former Pinecraft

Something new for bulb sale

The Idyllwild Garden Club is trying something new this year for its popular bulb sale. Members will offer an assortment of bulbs, prepackaged with detailed instructions, in three locations, over a three-day period: From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 10 and Saturday, Oct. 11, as well as from noon to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 12.

The displays will be at the Idyllwild Post Office, Harmony Monument and Lily Rock Native Nursery.

Toni Berthelotte, chair of this event, said come early to get the best selection. These bulbs may be planted any time between now and early December in our region and the sales staff can answer any questions regarding planting, protecting and enjoying these drought-tolerant and beautiful flowers, year after year.

furniture showroom next to the Idyllwild School (now Mile High Cafe). It was replaced in 1976 by a popular Italian restaurant, Michelli's, which enjoyed a 10-year run before similarly relocating to Highway 243 in 1986.

Meanwhile, in 1981, the Alpine Market closed its doors and,

consequently, Fern Valley residents would then have no choice but the downtown grocery stores.

of Idyllwild's art galleries and at AAI's booth in front of Idyllwild Realty (across from the Rustic Theatre) starting at 11 a.m. the day of the event.

"This is our organization's largest fundraising event of the year," explained Gary Kuschner, president of the non-profit group. "Net proceeds provide AAI's annual operating funds and enable us to arrange special events for local artists to display and sell their work throughout the year, donate funds to other community organizations, and support local art education for Idyllwild young people."

Some of the participating wineries include event sponsor Middle Ridge Winery, as well as Baily Vineyard and Winery, Renzoni Winery, Hart Family Winery and La Serenissima Winery. Featured venues include Idyllwild's 2nd Saturday Art Fair at the Idyllwild Community Park, The Spruce Moose, Artspresso Gallery, Acorn Gallery and several others.

"We encourage visitors to stay overnight and sample our many restaurants and inns before making their way down the mountain roads," Kuschner concluded.

Poll workers must attend a special two-and-a-half hour training class to familiarize themselves with election procedures and prepare to assist voters when the polls open at 7 a.m. on election day. Workers in both posts also receive $20 for attending the training class.

The registrar also seeks individuals who speak proficiently in English and at least one of the following languages: Chinese, Korean, Spanish, Tagalog or Vietnamese.

Anyone who wishes to participate as a poll worker may call the Registrar of Voters office at (951) 486-7341 or 1-877-663-9906.

J.P. Crumrine can be reached at jp@towncrier.com.

BUSINESS CHANGES

In an effort to grow their market share in the vacation and retirement home arenas, Town Real Estate of Palm Springs has opened a new office in Idyllwild. To lead the staff in its new Idyllwild location, Rick Martinez has been named managing broker.

With two offices and eight agents serving Riverside County, their portfolio of services has expanded to provide residential and commercial real estate, vacation rental and long-term property management.

"Town Real Estate is an independent boutique brokerage specializing in Palm Springs and neighboring resort communities. Our team felt that there was a strong marketplace in Idyllwild and it greatly compliments the demand of Southern California residents seeking weekend getaways. Our focus will also be on snowbirds flocking in from the northern interior states and Canada looking for a retirement home or a beautiful retreat away from the hustle and bustle of the cities they come from," said Kevin Stern, president/broker, Town Real Estate.

The new office is at 54710 North Circle Drive, Unit 3.

SPORTS

Town Hall Soccer

Sports Coordinator Richard Mozeleski gave this report on this season's soccer games.

Well, soccer is off and running on the Hill for 2014. This year's season is dedicated to Idyllwild's American Legion Post 800. A big thank you for their quiet, steady support of all the sports, year in and year out, and through all of thick and thin.

All of the youth teams are outfitted in assorted "camo" colors. A bonus of money donated to injured vet homes by our uniform supplier was icing on the cake.

Well, now for a sports report. The tone for this season was set right from the start with the 4- and 5-year-old kindergartners. They came out kickin'. The Awesome Rockets and Red Cheetahs fiercely battled to a 0-0 tie. The competition was so tough, one of the coaches commented, "I've never seen two bloody noses in one kindergarten game before." The defense was so tough that league authorities (that would be me) have stepped in to change goals from the little-guys' goals to big-kid goals to help enhance scoring. This huge change to soccer in Idyllwild is reminiscent of when the N.B.A. stepped in during the Wilt Chamberlain era and widened the key.

Anyway, 6-8, 9-11, teens adults — no matter — the play is fast and furious. Kids are playing Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Teens play Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. And intense adult action takes place on Wednesday and Saturday after 5 p.m. Got nothin' to do? Bring a chair and a jacket — you won't be disappointed. See you there.

Golf

Jim Crandall, Palms to Pines Golf Association handicap chair, provided this report about the Friday, Sept. 19, golf tournament in conjunction with the semi-final round of playoffs for the club championship. Play was at the Temecula Creek Golf Club on the Creek to Stonehouse courses.

It was a beautiful day and the course was in excellent shape.

In the semi-final playoffs, Pete Capparelli, the second seed, (course handicap 22) shot a net 72 to beat

Jayden Emerson of Idyllwild and a Hemet High School senior ran in the Bulldog Invitational run Saturday at the Diamond Valley Lake cross country course. Jayden's time was 15:29.6. He was second in a field of 137 runners. Teammates Tanner Torrez (behind Jayden in photo), former Idyllwild resident, was fourth and Chad Schelly of Idyllwild was 30th. The Hemet High team was second out of 15 teams in the boys race.

John LoGiudice, the fifth seed, (20) who shot a net 81. And top seed John Brower (10) shot a 72 to beat Bill Ragland (15), the third seed, who shot a 78.

So the two top seeds of the 2013-14 season meet later this month. The winner of Brower vs. Capparelli will be the club champion.

The club champ will represent Palms to Pines Golf in the Southern California Tournament of Club Championships in December.

In this month's regular tourney, Lee Lanfried (24) shot a net 69 to take first place; second was a three-way tie between Brower (10), Capparelli (22) and Barry Wallace (13), all with net 72s, and Don DePalma (41) was alone in fifth place with a net 73.

The closest-to-the-pin winners on the four par 3s were Les Widerynski, Ragland, Lanfried and Brower.

The year-to-date point standings of the 2014-15 season, which runs from August 2014 through July 2015 are:

Place	Golfer	Points
1	Lee Lanfried	12
2	Bill Ragland	6

Idyllwild School Instructional Aide Joni VanderWende chose Mya Morreo, (above) first grade, and Ethan Sheppard, (right) second grade, as students of the week because they are very respectful and kind to other students as well as staff, and they are great role models for our school.

Points are awarded at each tournament as follows: first place, 6 points; second place, 4 points; third place, 3 points; fourth place, 2 points; fifth place, 1 point. In addition, one-half point is awarded to everyone who participates.

The top eight-point finishers of the year go into match-play playoffs for the club championship in August, September and October. A member has to compete in at least five regular-season tournaments and have a handicap no greater than 24.4 in order to qualify for the playoffs.

The club is a member of the Southern California Golf Association and is sanctioned to establish SCGA handicaps for members.

If interested in joining the club or playing as a guest, contact Crandall at jim.crandall@verizon.net or 951-265-5732, or Capparelli at pete@capparelli.com or 951-452-5552.

Helping kids be better students

As a supporter of the National PTA, Sylvan Learning Centers are encouraging all parents to commit to be the best Chief Education Officers they can be this school year by taking the Sylvan Learning CEO Pledge on Facebook (www.Facebook.com/SylvanLearning).

Sylvan Learning and PTA are both committed to encouraging parents to play an active role in their child's education and inspiring them to take on the coveted role of CEO this year is the first step. The pledge also helps parents support their local PTA. The five PTAs with the most CEO pledges by Oct. 24 will receive a $1,000 grant from Sylvan Learning for the 2014-15 school-year initiatives.

Sylvan Learning Center offer the following ways CEOs can help their children succeed academically:

- Establish a line of communication with teachers.
- Talk to kids often about academics.
- Know where children stand academically.
- Track progress.
- Set a good example.
- Check homework daily.
- Help kids develop strong study skills.
- Get involved in your local PTA.

CREATURE CORNER

By MIMI AND HOOTCH

Mama Lizzie, a kitten herself, replied, "Oh, do not fear, for we are at ARF, and our mittens and a home we will surely find." Lizzie and her babies were left on the ARF porch one morning. Mama is about 1, and the babies are about 5 months old. Poppy is a black male, Meatball is a black female and Tigger is a male tiger-stripe. Please open your heart and home.

This young guy is absolutely ready for some snow. Archie is a miniature Alaskan Eskimo with maybe some Schipperke thrown in. He loves to walk, go for rides in the car and be near his forever human. Archie needs a balanced, quiet home with someone who will love him throughout all the seasons.

We still have Tammy, the min-pin, and Lola, the Chihuahua-mix looking for that special human, too. You can always look on our website and facebook for current pictures.

We have several adult cats in our cattery too.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. There is also a link for Facebook, too. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sundays.

This week, Creature Corner is sponsored by Lynda Salmond. To sponsor the column, call Lisa Streeter at the Town Crier, 951-659-2145.

HOROSCOPES
October 2014 — Week 1

March 21 – April 19

Emotions run high at an event. Don't bother playing peacemaker, Aries. Some things are meant to be. A last moment trip uncovers quite the find.

April 20 – May 20

Time to yourself is rare these days, Taurus. Steal moments where you can. A loved one makes an unusual request. Honor it only if you can.

May 21 – June 21

Memories of another time and place haunt you. Relax, Gemini. It is not an omen, just a chance for you to revisit some fun. A secret is revealed.

June 22 – July 22

Watch it, Cancer. You're playing with fire. A superior sends out a memo. Read between the lines. There is much more to the situation than stated.

July 23– August 22

Fess up, Leo. You were in on it the whole time and you know it. A special event goes off without a hitch. It may be time for a little getaway.

August 23– September 22

Are you in or out, Virgo? This is not the time to be wishy-washy. Revenue increases, and a promotion may be in order. Someone needs a favor.

September 23– October 22

Press on, Libra. You team is counting on you, and remember, no matter how bad it gets, it could always be worse. Persevere, and you will be rewarded.

October 23– November 21

One man's trash is another's treasure. Remember that as you begin to sort through the clutter, Scorpio. Donate or sell whatever you can.

November 22– December 21

Sagittarians don't always get their way. Learn to compromise, or prepare to face the consequences. A message is received loud and clear at home.

December 22 – January 19

Come on, Capricorn. The obstacles are not as insurmountable as you think. Dig deep, and you will succeed. Changes are brewing at work. Don't fight them.

January 20 – February 18

Doing more than your fair share of the work, Aquarius? Perhaps it's time you got help outside of the family. Just make sure you split the costs.

February 19 – March 20

Lunacy surrounds you this week, Pisces. Don't let it drive you batty. Find something lucrative to focus on. A service is expanded. Enjoy the perks.

On Tuesday, Sept. 30, the index predicted a marginal Santa Ana wildfire threat for Thursday, Oct. 2 in the Inland Empire. As the threat possibility heightens, individuals should take actions to help remove themselves from danger areas. For example, they might want to ensure that their car has a full tank of gas and cell phones are charged. As the wildfire threat increases, being aware of possible escape routes is another helpful action.

"We beta-tested the tool for more than a year," said Forest Service Meteorologist Tom Rolinski. "It was very successful in 2013 during the Springs Fire in Camarillo, and performed well with fires in April and San Diego County in May."

Since the 2007 wildfires in San Diego County, San Diego Gas and Electric has hired in-house meteorologists and installed 150 weather stations across its service area to gather real-time information about the impact of weather on utility equipment — all to improve situational awareness during emergencies.

SDG&E's Dave Geier, vice president of electric transmission and system engineering asked his team "... to come up with something similar to the categories to rate hurricanes that could be used to classify Santa Ana wind events based on their potential to spread a major fire, which would help us in making operational decisions to protect our system and our customers."

The utility reached out to regional fire agencies, including the Forest Service and Cal Fire, along with universities in Southern California, to partner in the development of the index. SDG&E also provided funding for state-of-the-art computing hardware and software to help turn the raw data into a manageable tool.

Rolinski had begun to develop a Santa Ana index more than five years ago. Its intent, he said, was to advise fire managers on the severity of the potential fire threat if the Santa Ana event occurred, allowing them to deploy extra resources within the region. "This is much more sophisticated," Rolinski affirmed.

UCLA atmospheric scientists got involved and were instrumental in the actual "number crunching." Dr. Robert Fovell, chair of the university's Department of Atmospheric and Oceanic Sciences, along with two other researchers, conducted modeling for a past Santa Ana wind events.

"This effort has led to an enhanced understanding of the evolution of the Santa Ana winds, their potential for sparking and spreading fires, and their spatial and temporal variation," said Fovell in a separate press release.

The National Weather Service is the agency that issues a Red Flag Warning when weather conditions indicate the development of a strong Santa Ana. The Forest Service "owns" the Santa Ana Wildfire tool and is the agency responsible for determining and issuing the alerts.

"The index is designed to complement the Red Flag Warning," Rolinski said. "In the future, we hope the National Weather Service will include the current threat index when they announce a Red Flag Warning."

Riverside and San Bernardino county supervisors meet

By J.P. CRUMRINE

On Tuesday, Sept. 16, the Boards of Supervisors for Riverside and San Bernardino counties held a joint meeting to discuss several issues affecting both counties. During the session, they heard from staff on health-care issues, implementation of AB 10, which addresses the shift of prisoners from the state to counties, and Ontario Airport.

Before the session ended, they agreed to work together on more issues in an effort to improve their effectiveness in Sacramento — both with the governor's office and the state legislature.

"We have things in common and I believe by putting our voices and citizens together, we can make the Inland Empire economy more vibrant," said Janice Rutherford, San Bernardino board chair.

"We have things in common and I believe by putting our voices and citizens together, we can make the Inland Empire economy more vibrant," said Janice Rutherford, San Bernardino board chair.

dents of both counties and its chief executive, Dr. Brad Gilbert, described the affect of the Affordable Care Act on the two counties. Since 1996, the number of IEHP members has grown from 62,000 to more than 900,000. Since ACA was implemented, Medi-Cal enrollment has grown by 200,000 to a total of 300,000. By December 2015, Gilbert expects the health exchange enrollment (non-Medi-Cal) to increase another 50,000, to a total of 175,000 to 180,000 members.

Despite the growth of insured individuals, the Inland Empire has "... an inadequate supply of physicians," Gilbert lamented. "We are the lowest ratio of primary care physicians to population of any area in the state." Compounding the current shortage is the fact that the existing supply of physicians is an aging work force. In response to a question from Riverside County Board Chair Jeff Stone about how to improve the supply of doctors, Gilbert said, the recent opening of a medical school at the University of California, Riverside is positive. Then he stressed that it is more important where physicians do their residency than where they attend school.

Jail realignment

"Nearly 17 percent of the inmates released from state prisons back to local jurisdiction have fallen within our two counties," reported Mark Hake, the Riverside county probation officer.

"If you want to drive down recidivism, we have to continue to pursue split sentences," stressed San Bernardino Sheriff John McMahon. Split sentences include both jail time and monitored probation, he stated, and they now represent about 40 percent of convictions. "We have to do something different or we'll have overcrowding for years," he told the boards.

Ontario Airport

"Ontario Airport is important to San Bernardino and Riverside counties," Stone said. "We like to refer to it as 'our airport' as many of our constituents use it."

The supervisors heard from Ontario Councilman Alan Wapner that airport passengers were about 3.9 million in 2013. The peak was more than 7 million passengers in 2007 and has been declining since.

object to this language.

"[Regarding] the new phrase that you are considering adding ... Of the garages where I have utilized this section (and the hundred plus I have seen in Idyllwild), there is not even one where it would have been allowed under the new wording," Marsh told the Planning Commission in a September correspondence. "This new wording renders Section 18.18.B.2 useless."

The Planning Commission asked for these proposals to be carried over to its Oct. 15 meeting. As of Friday, Mares expects no changes in the language before this meeting, although that is still possible, he said.

When the initial proposal to simply delete the option appeared, both David Lilieholm, an Idyllwild building designer, and Marsh, an architect, contacted the commission with objections.

"I've been a home designer in the Idyllwild area for 25 years and have many times had to rely on this provision as the only way to allow construction of a garage on certain properties," Lilieholm wrote Mares in July. "Given how common these steep properties are and coupled with the often-difficult snow conditions up here, I think (and obviously the code originally agreed) that the zero setback in certain conditions is a very reasonable allowance."

Lilieholm explained that the slope on many properties prevents building a garage except near the property line and street. He also believes there is a misconception that many garages are right on the street. "This should be looked at on a case-by-case basis to see if traffic is an issue," Lilieholm recommended and noted. "This really would have an impact on a lot of properties up here."

Both men support the existing provision and were skeptical of the public safety issue as a reason for deleting it. "I have been working in Idyllwild for 30 years and I have seen over a hundred garages that are on, or close to, the front property line. I do not know of one accident or safety concern due to any of these agencies," Marsh wrote the Planning Commission in August.

Davis stressed his view that prohibiting garages on some properties because of their proximity to the street would affect the ability of some residents to access their cars during bad weather. "This is a quality-of-life issue," he told the commission.

The next Planning Commission meeting, where the proposed changes to Ordinance 348 will be on the agenda, is 9 a.m. Wednesday, Oct. 15, in the Board Chambers on the first floor of the county's Administrative Center in Riverside.

County gets extension for fuel abatement grant funds

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The U.S. Forest Service has extended the State Forestry Grant to Riverside County, Gregg Bratcher, Cal Fire unit forester for Riverside County, announced last week.

The grant was scheduled to expire Sept. 30, but Cal Fire requested a one-year extension.

About $450,000 will be available for fire protection on the Hill during the next year.

The grant funds can be used for four different purposes, according to Bratcher. The first is a cooperative agreement with the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council to help with fire abatement projects.

Property owners concerned about dead, dying or diseased trees, such as pines dying from bark beetle infestation or the drought and oaks targeted by the goldspotted oak borer, should contact Riverside County Fire's local forestry unit at 951-659-3337.

If property owners suspect that an oak tree may be infected, they should first visit the University of California, Riverside's GSOB site, <http://ucanr.edu/sites/>

gsobinfo/, then call Cal Fire's GSOB hotline at 951-659-8328.

The third program is for fuel modification on large parcels. In addition, Bratcher indicated that time-and-materials-type contracts are available for fuel reduction projects that cost less than $25,000.

NEWSPAPERS! Unbelievable? Not if you're one of the 131 million Americans who have read a newspaper in the past week. In print and online, newspapers deliver more customers in seven days than Google does in a month (126 million), according to Scarborough Research, 2013 R1.

If you're not reading newspapers yet, remember it's never too late to get in on a great thing. And if you're in business and want to reach the masses, there's no better way to reach a large fan base than through California's daily and weekly newspapers.
