Some storm water compliance bills sent in error

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Idyllwild businesses are currently receiving storm water compliance fee deposit requests of $444 per business license. Some of these notices may have been sent in error, according to Program Administrator Chandra Thomas.

Federal and state National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System regulations mandate the county regularly inspect all licensed businesses to determine if any create substances or materials that could pollute area groundwater or off-Hill "receiving water sources" through runoff.

Thomas noted some system program updates over the last year may not have accurately recorded prior inspection data for a number of Idyllwild businesses. As a result, some businesses with no likelihood of creating groundwater contaminants may have been misclassified as "low" priority, requiring fee deposit and inspection every five years. Motorcyclist fatality Saturday

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

For the second consecutive weekend, a motorcycle fatality occurred on Highway 74. This collision was late Saturday morning, Feb. 21, just west of McCall Park Road.

The victim was Ashley Shinn, 29, of Moreno Valley. She was riding a red and black 2007 Honda CR6 westbound on Highway 74 at about 11:15 a.m.

Approaching in the eastbound lane was an Idyllwild Arts 2011 brown Chevrolet van. Shinn allowed her motorcycle to cross over the double-yellow lines, colliding head-on with the van. She was pronounced dead at the scene about 11:40 a.m. Alcohol or drugs have not been ruled out as a contributing factor in this collision. At the time of the collision, the roadway was dry.

The California Highway Patrol is investigating the incident, according to CHP Public Information Officer Darren Meyer. Meyer said Shinn was wearing a helmet.

The van's driver, Julia Countryman, 56, of Idyllwild, suffered minor injuries to her hands, and was transported to Hemet Valley Medical Center by American Medical Response.

J.P. Crumrine can be reached at jp@towncrier.com.

Jeep

was stolen between 1:30 and 5 a.m. but, Sunday being his and fiancé Kayla Anderson's day off, he didn't realize it was gone until that afternoon. The thief (or thieves) was determined, considering the vehicle was almost empty on gas.

"Whoever took it put it on a trailer or had a gas can," Brown said.

Brown's friend Paul White, who owns Idyllwild Bake Shop and Brew (where Anderson works) with wife Katie, hopped to action, posting photos of the Jeep on Facebook and asking for anyone with information to contact him.

"There were lots of shares from the community," White said of the post. He was impressed by how many locals spread the word and helped it go "viral" — at least regionally. His tactic worked. The following Tuesday, Feb. 10, he received a private message from an Aguanaga man who said he noticed his neighbors painting a similar-looking Jeep on their property just as he saw the post online.

"It just shows how much people out here watch out for each other," White said.

White got the location and told Brown, who headed out to see if he might be able to get his Jeep back.

He drove past the property, in the 47000 block of Buckhorn Road, and immediately recognized his Jeep, now painted a neon yellow-green and with some new dents and hollows to the driver's side. Officer Scott Van Gorder with the Sheriff's Department's auto-theft interdiction detail met Brown near the location. He drove with Brown to the property for visual confirmation before attempting a recovery. When Van Gorder returned to the property he found the gate locked, so he was forced to serve a search warrant. The process took four hours before Van Gorder and his team forced entry onto the property and into the home.

By then two helicopters were circling overhead.

Two people were detained, but were not considered suspects. After raiding the property, the officers also recovered a vintage Mustang — stolen that day — in the garage. They notified the owner, an Anza man, who had not yet even realized his car was gone.

Brown, who was allowed on the property to get his Jeep and look for any other property that belonged to him, said that just after the helicopters left the area, a red Honda CRX appeared from behind the home and raced off. An officer made chase, but was unable to find the car on Aguanaga's maze of dirt roads.

"The guy who owned the Mustang was yelling and cussing at the [Honda driver]," Brown said.

Brown, Anderson and White (who borrowed a trailer from local Jerry Johnson), loaded up the Jeep and brought it home that night. The Anza man drove his Mustang home. Brown was happy to have also recovered his pipe-bender, an important tool for his trade, among the junk heaps piled up to conceal the Jeep.

The Jeep's transmission is damaged, the 4-wheel-drive needs to be rebuilt, his license plates were swapped out and there is heavy damage to the driver's side. Brown believes his workhorse, with extensive off-road modifications, was targeted as a "grunt" to steal other higher-value vehicles.

The Sheriff's Department declined to make an official statement on the case because it is an ongoing investigation and the suspect is still at large, but did confirm the details of Brown's story.

Lt. Paul Bennett with the Sheriff's Special Investigations Bureau said the suspect is believed to be part of a large auto-theft ring that has stolen vehicles from Palm Desert to Temecula and everywhere in between.

Some rain, still drought

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

This weekend's rainfall was a welcomed event as between 1.3 inches and 2 inches fell on an arid Hill.

Historically, February is the second wettest month of the year. The long-term average rainfall is about 4.5 inches in February. However, the rain this Sunday was the only precipitation to fall on the Hill this year.

The U.S. Forest Service's Keenwild Ranger Station recorded 1.3 inches of rain, the Idyllwild Fire Station received 1.6 inches of rain and about 0.1 inch of snow, and Pine Cove received about 2 inches of rain and another 2 inches of snow, according to George Tate who officially records Pine Cove weather.

Consequently, we remain significantly below the long-term average for this point in the rainfall year (July 1 through June 30). Pine Cove is almost 4 inches, or 20 percent, below its average rainfall through February. In Idyllwild, the rainfall since July 1 has totaled 13.3 inches, which is nearly 5.3 inches below the long-term average.

On Thursday, Feb. 19, the National Weather Service modified its three-month precipitation forecast for Southern California from above average to average.

So the chances of catching up to the long-term average has declined. And the chance of an El Niño event in late spring is 50 to 60 percent.

SPRING IS COMING QUICKLY AND EVERYTHING'S WAKING UP!

Time to protect your trees from beetles and other pests ... Time to aerate the soil so that new roots will flourish ... Time to plant new trees ... Time to STOP pruning Pines ...

Time for weight reduction on those heavy Oak limbs ... Time to mulch!!

DID YOU KNOW...

- You can protect your Pines and Oaks from some beetles for as little as $20 per tree per year
- Breaking up compacted soil with forced air will stimulate new root growth
- Pruning Pines out of dormancy attracts bark beetles and other pests
- A trained eye can spot defects and weak points where trees are likely to fail
- Using climbing "spikes" on living trees can damage their vascular system for decades

OUT LOUD

A few weeks back, I wrote about the Art Alliance of Idyllwild board in this column, expressing concern about transparency issues several members brought up during the board's annual membership meeting.

In response to the members, AAI is offering public sessions after each board meeting. (AAI is not a public entity; its board meetings are not required to be open to the public.)

Besides this half-hour of openness to its membership, AAI is embracing the public by also inviting non-members to this meeting. And that shows good faith to a community AAI has reached out to in recent years, especially nonprofits.

The symbiotic relationships AAI fosters with our local charitable organizations boosts the entire community. I'm so pleased to know this new board continues in that spirit.

In this issue, we begin coverage of the state water bond that passed in November. The drought was a hot topic in Sacramento when I was there two weeks ago for a conference.

The Republican and Democratic leaders of both houses spoke, emphasizing this third year of a drought. I met with Chris Norden, Sen. Jeff Stone's legislative director, in Stone's office in the Capitol building.

Norden said the drought brings no easy solutions. We may build reservoirs and dams all over the state but without water — without rain — they serve little purpose.

However, the hope is that rain will come, of course, and maybe over the next 10 years or longer the infrastructures built will give Californians long-term, sustainable solutions for future water shortages.

The Department of Water Resources has a huge task ahead but it will be well worth it.

EDITOR:

What a happy face I had when opening my last issue of the Crier and seeing the photo from so long ago — 1955 in Skunk Cabbage Meadows ["Past tense," Feb. 12, 2015]. Golly, it seems like yesterday I was 14 years old and now at nearly 74 the memories are still so vivid.

I remember being so cold that Ernie [Maxwell] had to pile pine needles on my sleeping bag to try and keep us warm. In all the years I lived on the Hill, 56, I think I only made that hike that one time. How fun.

Seeing the photo of the kids — one now a pastor, one a principal of a high school and Ronnie [Wilson], a physician — oh, the good old days when life was just an adventure waiting to happen.

The Hill has changed. We had so much more for kids then: the pool, bowling alley, arcade, miniature golf and on and on. Idyllwild will always be my home, even though I now reside in beautiful St. George, Utah.

Whenever I come for a visit, I look at the trees in the front of the elementary school and remember planting them in 1953, like yesterday again. I remember trick or treating way out to Sophie McConnell's house on Doubleview Drive just for her popcorn balls.

Dale Bischof, also in the photo, was my first boyfriend in seventh grade. Carol Michelsen was my gal pal and every Saturday, after chores, we would make tuna sandwiches and hike up to Eagle Rock. There are now many beautiful homes at that location taking advantage of the breathtaking view.

Oh, I could go on and on but know I had better stop this before you get bored.

Please know that I am and always will be one of your favorite fans and getting my hands on the weekly Town Crier is one of my favorite things.

Motorcycle collisions

EDITOR:

I was very close when the fatal crash near McCall Park occurred on Saturday. Two riders on Suzuki or similar bikes had passed me at high speed across the double yellow on a blind curve. Then they swerved from side to side to see how close to horizontal they could get.

Once I stopped to wait for the clean-up, several other drivers shared similar stories. The mangled bike looked very familiar. I did not really want a closer look at the body covered by a yellow tarp.

This is not the road's fault. It is egos and poor judgment by immature riders. An "oops" when performing stunts on our roads can be and often is fatal.

Message from me: Gamble on an official course so you don't put my life and that of my friends in danger.

I appreciate the alert pair of drivers who exited their cars and warned us as we came upon the scene. Otherwise, there could have been a huge chain reaction.

Just compensation

EDITOR:

I attended a meeting of the Fire Code Committee on Feb. 11, 2015, sponsored by the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council. The purpose was to hear how the San Bernardino County Mountain Defensible Space Guidelines work. It has three rules: within 15, 30 and 100 feet of a structure.

The illustration they presented showed a typical suburban home with attached garage and four well-spaced deciduous trees on about a 1/3-acre lot. There were no shrubbery screens and no foundation plantings.

Under the Defensible Space Guideline rule 15 feet of structure, I would be required to remove from my lot the following: four manzanitas, three yews, three dwarf spruce, three viburnum, nine Sequoias, one 18-inch-diameter oak tree, one 10-inch-diameter live oak (in my deck), one 11-inch-diameter pine, one 5-inch-diameter pine, one 14-inch-diameter sequoia, two smaller live oaks and some scrub oaks.

My woodpile could not be moved the requisite 30 feet because it would be on my neighbor's property. The result would be a naked home with a greatly reduced property value.

Under the U.S. Constitution, Amendment V, if my "property" is taken from me for "public use" (the safety of the community), then I am entitled to "just compensation."

If the entire community of Idyllwild is made fire safe according to Defensible Space Guidelines, then the entire community is entitled to just compensation. In my opinion, the San Bernardino County Mountain Defensible Space Guidelines are not applicable to the mountain community of Idyllwild. Many of us moved to Idyllwild because it is not an urbanized community.

Spring into fitness ...

BY BRYAN ASCH
REPS TRAINING CENTERS

We are going to be hit with cheesy advertising slogans soon enough targeted at those of us who view fitness as a struggle between our yin and yang. The warmer weather reminds us once again that we will need to peel off layers, forcing us to expose our insecurities. Oh, boy, are we reminded — with every magazine cover clad with flawless creatures of touched-up perfection.

I am here to tell you this is exactly what the big-box fitness industry wants us to feel. And that it is complete baloney. They want to shame us into vanity and distract us from the real reason exercise was created.

I inform my clients on a daily basis how the value of what we do is felt on the floor playing with our kids or dog. It is felt in the ease of climbing the 37 steps to the 6,200-foot-elevation cabin on a 20-degree day, and when we grab the gallon of milk out of the fridge with one hand pouring a glass while talking on the phone with the other. The everyday challenges of life are plenty without imposing our own set of limitations upon them.

I am reminded of a story often told within the Shaolin Martial Arts Schools. A man from India traveled across the Himalayas to China and came upon a Shaolin monastery.

He noticed that the monks spent most of the day meditating and with very limited motion throughout their day they often would fall asleep while doing so. They also appeared to be lethargic, having difficulty with simple tasks like carrying water or tending the garden.

The entrance to the courtyard of the temple had two wooden pillars each about 3 feet tall. The man asked for two stone bowls and proceeded to fill them with water. He then placed a bowl on each pillar and set a small wooden stick next to the one to his left. The man invited the monks to join him in a series of movements he had developed and perfected during his travels.

Each morning, the man would lead his troop of monks out into the courtyard to practice these movements, yet before doing so and also on the way back into the main building, the man would pause at the entrance. He would purposely look at both bowls, however, would only stir the one bowl while doing nothing to the other.

No words were spoken by either the man or the monks until one day the man asked a question. "Have you learned anything from our time together thus far?" The monks had very insightful answers having to do with the movements yet none mentioned the water. The man asked the monks to come and look at both bowls and decide which to drink from. The decision was unanimous. All chose the bowl of water that had been consistently stirred. "Why?" asked the man.

Again, the answer was unanimous: The water stirred is cleaner than the one not, which has collected sentiment and looks dirty and not very appetizing. Once again the man asks, "Why?": One monk steps forward: "Stirring the water made it difficult for infectious material to collect. The same effect is being achieved by stirring the water of our bodies."

This is really what it is all about. Moving ourselves daily enough to stir the lymph, the blood, the water of our bodies in such a way to avoid bad things collecting,

And the award goes to: mathematicians ...

If you are like me, then you're a big movie buff who watched the 87th-annual Academy Awards from start to finish.

What probably caught your eye this year were the number of recognitions that science or science-related films received from the academy. For example, "Interstellar" won best visual effects (just as "Gravity" did last year). Eddie Redmayne, star of "The Theory of Everything," was selected the best actor for his performance as Stephen Hawking. "The Imitation Game" won best adaptive screenplay.

So, have you heard of the Enigma machine? Even if the answer is "no" I recommend you see "The Imitation Game." The Enigma was a code machine the Germans used during World War II to send messages the allies could not break.

Depending on your source, it took cryptologists and mathematicians (the most famous of whom was British mathematician Alan Turing) several years to break the Enigma code. Why so long?

The Enigma had several levels of coding for each of the 26 letters in the German alphabet. Each time the sender pressed the same letter the receiver would get a different letter. The first time you send the letter R you could get any letter in the alphabet (the letter W for example) but it would never be the letter R.

However, the second time you send the letter R you could get any of the other 25 letters except the letter W and the letter R. The other thing that made Enigma almost unbreakable was its design.

Despite looking like a 1940s typewriter, it comprised three separate rotors moving at different speeds with wires inside the rotors. So every time you pressed a letter, the wires would reconnect to a different letter. In total, there were about 159 quintillion ways you could set the Enigma machine.

Despite all this, Turing and his team were able to figure it out. Remember how if you sent the same letter you stagnating and damaging our internal mechanisms.

The vanity side of the equation is just a side effect. The fighter practices to build their skills, not to build their body. The benefit — or should I say "side effect" — is a visually pleasing piece of artwork in its own right. But it is just that — a side effect. If you want to look good, stop trying and start going for the "feeling good" objective instead. Feeling good involves developing a permanent lifestyle, including a solid eating regiment, proper water intake, establishing appropriate rest cycles, and, of course, participating in a strength training program that breaks down the muscles forcing them to react defensively to recover, restore and perform.

So reach out and ask the trainer. Any and all questions about health and fitness are welcome. We promise to give you no baloney, just honest answers. To get things kicked off, I would like to pose a question to our readers.

What is stopping you from physically doing the things you used to do or have always wanted to?

We are very interested in your thoughts and questions. Please send them to bryanandbrandy@gmail.com.

Grants available for nonprofits

The Community Foundation of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties is accepting online grant applications from nonprofits for capacity building projects through April 6.

Nonprofits must provide services in Riverside and San Bernardino counties to be eligible. Funding for these grants comes from the Community Impact Fund.

Eligible nonprofits may apply for one of two types of capacity building grants. Grants are available for a one-year responsive grant, up to $10,000, or for a multi-year grant, which can award as much as $60,000 over three years.

Because this is a change to the CIF grant process, a technical workshop is being offered from 10 a.m. to noon Friday, March 6, at The Community Foundation Office, 3700 Sixth Street, Suite 200, Riverside.

RSVP to dshackelford@thecommunityfoundation.net.

Capacity building support enables an organization to carry out its mission by strengthening capacity, effectiveness and sustainability. These funds should provide an opportunity for nonprofits to reflect, learn and take action in developing short- and/or long-term, sustainable solutions to the challenges they face in addressing critical community needs.

Organizations interested in applying should visit www.thecommunityfoundation.net and navigate to the Grants Schedule for more information, including eligibility.

Applications will be reviewed and grants awarded by June 30, 2015.

not receive the same letter (you send R the first time and receive W but the second time receive T, for example)? This flaw provided a clue — even if just a small one — of what a code could not be.

If sending R could not be received as the letter R and instead turns into the letter W, then the second time R is sent you already know what letter it can't be.

The other flaw (more of a systematic one) was that all senders and receivers needed to start from the same point. Since the starting settings for Enigma would be changed periodically they needed to be written down. As the war progressed and more German communications officers were captured, more and more of these paper trails were collected.

I know one column can't do the task of breaking Enigma justice, so feel free to watch "The Imitation Game." (I bet fellow Benedict Cumberbatch fans already have).

Or watch "U-571" if you like a little more action, the one with Matthew McConaughey. I promise, he wasn't horrible in this one.

How to get a letter published

The Town Crier welcomes letters reflecting all opinions. Letters should be concise and to the point. They should be no longer than 400 words. Letters must be typewritten, double-spaced and in upper/lower case (not in all caps). Letters must be identified with the author's name, address and weekday phone number.

The Town Crier will not publish "thank-you" letters, consumer complaints, form letters, clippings from other publications or poetry. Political letters during election season cost 10 cents per word but are not accepted the week before an election.

We reserve the right to reject or edit letters for length, taste, clarity or frequency of submission. Only one letter per author within a 28-day period. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinions of Town Crier staff. Letters may be submitted in person, by mail, by fax (659-2071) or by e-mail (becky@towncrier.com).

Deadline is 10 a.m. Monday.

Legislature may eliminate parental choice for vaccines

Flu takes first county resident

As of Friday, Feb. 20, California health officials reported 123 confirmed cases of measles since December 2014. That is 50 more cases in a month and twice the total cases in 2014. A week ago, the total cases in the U.S. were 141.

As a result of the expanding measles outbreak, state senators Dr. Richard Pan and Ben Allen, along with Assemblymember Lorena Gonzalez, introduced legislation to repeal California's option for parents to choose not to vaccinate their children.

Existing law requires students at any public or private elementary or secondary school (including child care center, day nursery, nursery school, family day care home or development center) to be fully immunized against various diseases, including measles, mumps and pertussis (whooping cough).

However, it does provide an exemption from those provisions for medical reasons or because of personal beliefs, if specified forms are submitted to the governing authority.

Senate Bill 277 would eliminate the exemption from immunization based upon personal beliefs. If enacted, only children who have been immunized for various diseases, including measles and pertussis, may be admitted to a California school. The bill also will require schools to notify parents of immunization rates at their child's school.

"It is our duty and responsibility to protect all children who attend schools in California," said Pan, a pediatrician representing Sacramento. "SB 277 was introduced because parents are speaking up and letting us know that current laws are not enough to protect their kids. As a pediatrician I have personally witnessed the suffering caused by diseases that are preventable, and I am very grateful to all those parents who are speaking up as a result of the recent measles outbreak."

His senate colleague, Allen, a former board president of the Santa Monica-Malibu Unified School District, said in the same press release, "It is easy to forget what it was like before we had broad-based vaccinations and there was a lot of suffering and even death from serious infectious diseases. We cannot risk returning to those days. Parents should not have to live in fear of their child contracting a potentially fatal disease at school or in the grocery store because of another parent's choice not to vaccinate their child."

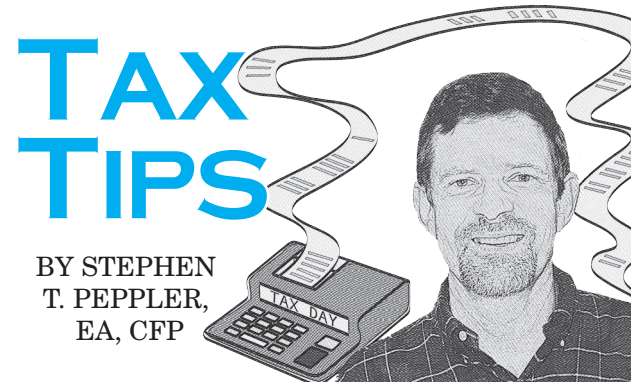

Influenza

Although California has experienced a later flu season, which is still widespread, Dr. Cameron Kaiser, Riverside County public health officer, in a press release last week, confirmed the first flu-related death in the county this year. Other flu-related activities were normal in Riverside County for the week ending Feb. 14.

"A 33-year-old man from western Riverside County who recently died has tested positive for influenza ... The man tested positive and died last week after being hospitalized ... Officials say the patient had other underlying health issues that contributed to his death," according to Kaiser.

While overall influenza activity in California continues to be high, according to the State Department of Public Health, outpatient visits and hospitalization data fell that week compared to the week ending Feb. 7.

Common tax myths

BY STEPHEN T. PEPPLER, EA CFP

As our tax law becomes ever more complex, misconceptions regarding the law and its interpretation increase.

Many people think that by filing an extension they can postpone paying the tax owed.

An extension only extends the time to file, not to pay.

You should pay the estimated amount owed with your extension to lessen penalties and interest.

Some taxpayers think if they had a big loss in the stock market they will owe little tax.

Capital losses are capable of offsetting capital gains and then just $3,000 of ordinary income.

Capital losses not taken in a given year are carried over to future years.

I'm not sure where this one got started but some taxpayers think that once you reach a certain age you don't have to pay taxes.

If your income is over the filing requirements, yes, you do have to file and pay tax.

Others feel they are too young to have to pay taxes. Even dependents working part-time in high school must file a tax return if they earned more than $6,200 in 2014, if their unearned income is more than $1,200 or if they want to receive a refund for income tax withheld.

A common myth is that if you are paid in cash you don't have to report it.

If it's income you must report it, regardless of whether it's cash, tips, bonuses, prizes or payment in-kind.

Income earned in a foreign country is likewise reportable on your Form 1040, plus, additional forms and reporting requirements need to be investigated.

I'm often asked whether home improvements are deductible on your return.

They are a personal expense, which is not deductible, however, records should be kept so you can add it to the cost basis of your house when you sell it.

I've heard of married taxpayers filing separate returns as head-of-household in order to receive large refunds, including potential earned income credits.

To file as head of household while married, you must pay more than half the cost of keeping up your home, which was the main home of your child for more than half of the year plus your spouse did not live in the home during the last six months of the year (even for one day).

Review of 'top two' primary process yields few conclusions

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

In June 2010, California voters approved Proposition 14 establishing that the top two vote getters in a primary would advance to the general election regardless of their party affiliation. So two Democrats or two Republicans might face-off in the general election, and this has happened several times in 2012 and 2014 elections.

The January edition of the "California Journal of Politics and Policy" at the University of California, Berkeley, contained several articles and commentaries on the "top two" process.

The most common thought was that two primary elections were not sufficient to make strong, long-term judgments. Nevertheless, academics, reporters and the author of the proposition did not hesitate to share their thoughts.

The proponents of Prop. 14 felt it would open up primary elections, thus attracting more voters, give independent votes a voice in primaries, and force candidates or office holders to choose pragmatic action rather than ideological inertia.

According to Jonathan Nagler of New York University, in the June 2012 primary election, the first in which the "top two" was applied, voters appeared to behave similarly to the past with minimal influence of the new law.

"I find that surprisingly few voters crossed party lines, and relatively few who did so did so for strategic reasons. If such low levels of crossover continue, the impact of the top-two primary on candidate ideology will likely be small," Nagler concluded after studying the actual election results.

Only 6.4 percent of all voters switched parties and

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild is reserving a half-hour at the end of its monthly board meetings for public sessions, an opportunity for members and the community to ask questions or to discuss issues of importance to them, announced Marc Kassouf, president of the non-profit organization.

those were more likely to be moderate members of either major party. He could only speculate on why such a low number of voters were willing to cross over to the other party. And one reason, which he mentioned, was the newness of the opportunity.

Thad Kousser of the University of California, San Diego, studied the 2014 primary. He believes the "top two" process did help shape the field of candidates seeking statewide office and their tactics employed during the campaign.

However, he, just as did Nagler for 2012, found little evidence that "... the new rules did not, in the end, discernibly alter the outcomes of the 2014 primaries."

Voter turnout for the primary was one issue on which Kousser focused. The June 2014 primary saw 4.4 million ballots cast, which was 25.2 percent of registered voters. The last time fewer voters came to the polls was the June 1960 primary. However, that year actual voters represented 62.8 percent of registered voters.

But turnout was below historical standards throughout the country and even the November general election saw voters express great disinterest. The last time fewer voters cast ballots in a regular general election was 1978 and again they represented 70 percent of registered voters.

Kousser did not attribute low turnout to the "top-two" process. Rather, the lack of competition in the major races probably got the attention of fewer voters. Also, he reasoned that when Gov. Jerry Brown signed legislation in October 2011 limiting citizen initiatives to the general election ballot, that also decreased attention in the primary elections.

"The move had the effect of stripping primary ballots of one of their prime attractions: the high-stakes fights over controversial citizen initiatives, and thus exacerbating the turnout differential between November and June," Kousser wrote.

While no-party-preference candidate Daniel Schur did run for secretary of state, Kousser predicts that the major parties will begin endorsing candidates during primary campaigns as a way to focus their partisanship on one candidate and avoid the possibility that multiple candidates will split the vote, thus enabling two candidates from the other party claiming the top-two positions.

This nearly happened to the Democrats in the controller's race. Betty Yee, a member of the State Board of Equalization, nearly edged former Assembly Leader John Perez by less than 500 votes. But Ashley Swearengen, Fresno mayor and Republican, was the leading voter getter. Fellow Republican David Evans was only 22,000 votes behind the two Democrats and might have out-pollled them with more visibility.

"Perhaps more ironically, a reform designed to 'lessen the influence of the major parties' and 'open up primary elections,' has put a premium on the role that party leaders must play to restrict the number of choices that their members have in the primary, or court the sort of disaster that nearly befell Democrats in the controller's race," Kousser predicted.

Fern Valley water supplies more than adequate

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Fern Valley Water District board received correspondence from its legal firm, Best, Best and Krieger, of Riverside, that it will represent the district when necessary as general counsel.

However, FVWD President Robert Krieger said at the meeting last week he would respond to confirm that BBK was continuing as general counsel rather than becoming general counsel.

"Our letter characterizes what we believe their role has been — general counsel," Krieger said. He stressed that FVWD has considered and used BBK as general counsel since its establishment in 1958.

"They never told us before October [2014] that they weren't being our general counsel, so I think this is an important point," he concluded.

FVWD's water supplies continue to be sufficient to meet its current demand, according to General Manager Steve Erler. Although the minimal flow in Strawberry Creek has not been adequate to divert, Erler said, "Tahquitz Creek is running between 35 to 40 gallons per minute."

During most of February, Erler augmented the stream flow with water from the well no. 3. Then he added, "Today, we started to use well no. 2 for augmentation, too."

Static well levels, except for the district's office well, rose slightly this month, Erler reported and described it as "promising," although they are all between 0 and 4 feet below their levels in February 2014.

CONTEST JUDGE

A record 11 entries last week. Theresa Christy, Kathryn Gorzny, Chris Morse, Kathy Nielson, Linda Otterbeck, Holly Owens, Warren and Diane Rabe, Dorothy Silliman, the Jeff Smith family, the Josh White family and Jim Wise all correctly identified the roofline at Strawberry Creek Bunkhouse about a quarter mile north of the stop sign on Highway 243. Dolores Sizer pulled Otterbeck's name from the hat, so she gets this week's gift card to Shane Stewart's Rustic Theatre. This week's photo should be fairly easy, too.

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

Keep your eye on the artists

Idyllwild's biggest art party is coming up

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild continues its full calendar of public events with this year's iteration of its popular "Eye of the Artist" art show and social gathering. The event mixes delights for the senses — art in a variety of media by local AAI artists, auctions, drawings, wine, hors d'oeuvres and music in a relaxed and convivial setting.

The Saturday, March 7, event features a judged art show, a silent auction of donated art from local artists, and opportunity drawings for other art, giving lucky attendees the chance to win something beautiful. Net proceeds from the silent auction and drawings help fund AAI events, public art workshops and scholarships for local youth interested in creating art.

Ongoing sales of popular AAI merchandise — Deer Sighting mugs and calendars — are dedicated to underwriting AAI's mission of keeping arts education alive in Idyllwild.

AAI spokesperson Lesly Martin said the first art scholarships to local youth will be awarded at the end of this year. "We'll look for input from AAI members regarding criteria for scholarships and then the board will formalize the award process and the date for the awards," said Martin.

Crest. Donations from the public are welcome. Only artists submitting work are asked to register for the event.

For more information, and for artist registration guidelines and submission categories, see www.artinidyllwild.org.

Marshall Smith can be reached at marshall@towncrier.com.

Each Eye event is based on a theme, giving submitting artists a challenge and framework within which to create and have fun. Previous themes included "Sensuality" and "Whimsical." This year's theme is "Mountain Mystery," suggesting many textures, shades and hues as inspiration for participating artists.

Eye of the Artist is one the original AAI events, first created by founders Chris Trout and Grace Songolo. The premise for the event was an invitation to artists and art aficionados to see the world through particular-themed prisms, all the while connecting artists and art collectors in a social setting with food and drink.

There is no charge for the event that begins at 6 p.m. Saturday, March 7, at the Caine Learning Center, 54385 Upper Pine Attendees admire the submissions.

New rep at Juvenile Court

Voices for Children will now oversee the recruiting, training, and supervising of volunteers who are appointed by the juvenile court to advocate and speak up for abused and/or neglected children living in Riverside County's foster care system.

Founded in 1980, Voices for Children has been the court-appointed special advocate program for San Diego County since 1983. Voices for Children has entered into agreements with both the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside and the Judicial Council of California to provide CASA services to foster children in Riverside County. The agreements extend to Sept. 30, 2015, and are renewable annually.

California law allows the Juvenile Court to designate an organization as its official CASA program. This designated CASA program gives volunteer advocates the ability to investigate an abused and/or neglected child's circumstances, develop a relationship with the child and make best interest recommendations to the Juvenile Court.

Volunteer Reserve Program

Riverside County Fire Department is accepting applications for Volunteer Reserve positions with Riverside County Fire Department.

Positions available are firefighter, photographer, water tender operator, chaplain and Mobile Emergency Operations Center dispatchers.

Health care for local uninsured

A Riverside County Mobile Health Clinic brings free health care services to Idyllwild at Town Hall, usually the second Wednesday of every month. The next event is from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, March 11.

Services include general medical exams, sick-child visits and health screenings for blood pressure, diabetes and vision. These services are offered to people who do not have health insurance.

For more information, call 951-486-5765.

Job, College and Resources Fair

Cucamonga Christian Fellowship Church is sponsoring The Inland Empire Job, College and Resources Fair with 40 local employers on Thursday, Feb. 26 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Register online at <http://ccflive.org/job-fair>.

Full- and part-time positions are available in: administration, clerical, transportation, customer service, education, financial services, healthcare, nursing, law enforcement, management, manufacturing, nonprofit, retail, sales and more.

The unemployment rate in the Riverside-San Bernardino-Ontario MSA fell to 7.2 percent in December 2014, down from a revised 8.0 percent in November 2014, and below the year-ago estimate of 8.7 percent. This compares with an unadjusted unemployment rate of 6.7 percent for California and 5.4 percent for the nation during the same period. The unemployment rate was 7.4 percent for Riverside County and 7.0 percent in San Bernardino County.

Ken Luber book talk

Author and local Ken Luber will give a talk and poetry reading at the Idyllwild Library from 3 to 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 27.

He is the author of "Everybody's Shadow," a collection of poems, the novel "Match to the Heart," and "Esperanza: The Musical of Hope."

Desert hikes offered

Friends of the Desert Mountains sponsors Thursday and Saturday morning hikes throughout February in Palm Desert from 9 to 11:30 a.m. The Randall Henderson Trail is an easy to moderate, 2.5- to 3-mile loop. Elevation gain is about 300 feet. See desert tortoise habitat and other wildlife, a cactus garden and possibly wildflowers, depending on rainfall. It has great views of Coachella Valley and surrounding mountains.

The Art Smith Trail is moderate to strenuous and 3 to 4 miles round trip. Elevation gain is about 500 feet. Possibly see bighorn sheep and other wildlife, and wildflowers depending on rainfall. It has excellent views of Coachella Valley and surrounding mountains.

Registration begins at 8:45 a.m. Bring snacks and 2 liters of water per person. Wear closed-toed shoes, hat and sunscreen. Minors must be accompanied by parent or guardian.

Meet at the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto Mountains National Monument Visitor Center, 51500 Highway 74 in Palm Desert.

smARTs instructors needed

The Idyllwild School smARTs Committee is looking for people who are fun, creative and self-motivated, love to develop the artist brain in kids and want to make a difference.

Whether you are an experienced teaching artist or new to this, the committee invites you to join the smARTs team of artists.

Instruction for elementary students are two hour-long classes (10:15 a.m. and 11:15 a.m.) Friday, Feb. 27. All new artists and/or volunteers need to complete an orientation before teaching or assisting with their first class. Small stipends are awarded for their time.

Email Ginger Dagnall (ginger.dagnall@gmail.com) or Catherine Smith (catchatfield@hotmail.com) with the dates and times you are available to teach.

BUSINESS CHANGES

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

With spring comes change. And Fern Valley Corners, already buzzing with new businesses, will have a new addition in about a year, according to June Rockwell, Idyllwild Property Management. The lot opposite Drs. Dunn and Dunn that runs between North Circle and Upper Pine Crest is the planned location for Idyllwild

Storage, a self-storage facility currently planned to be stacked units in two stories.

Rockwell said architectural plans are currently being drafted, so the exact configuration may change. "What it will be is a facility that will blend in with the surrounding buildings and compliment the area," said Rockwell.

She noted there is a need for additional storage space in Idyllwild and that is why IPM is moving forward with this project.

She estimated it would take a year to get plans through the county, permits obtained and the facility built.

New construction is not required to be reviewed by the Idyllwild Historic Preservation District Review Board.

Send your business updates to marshall@towncrier.com.

Idyllwild Property Management is planning to construct a self-storage facility in Fern Valley Corners on the vacant lot across from Drs. Dunn and Dunn dental office. Completion is estimated to be in about a year.

History buffs face off in first ever Hillbilly Games

Last Thursday, Feb. 19, the "Hillbilly Games" were held at the Idyllwild Library. The first event pitted two teams in a game of Idyllwild Jeopardy. Here, members of Team One — Barbara Hunt, Bud Hunt and Gina Genis — prepare to answer the first question, "Who was named homecoming queen the same year her brother, David, came home from the Air Force?" All the questions were based on archived copies of the Idyllwild Town Crier, available at the Idyllwild Library or online, from 1949 through 1956.

After Idyllwild's Millionaire Acorns, the two hillbilly teams competed in Idyllwild Jeopardy at the library. Here, Team Two (from left) Richie Garcia, Kathy Gorzny and Michael Kellner, ponder the answer to "Jiggs and Maggie escaped from their cage and ran off. What was so unusual about these two being loose in the woods?"

Nest-box walk in Lakeview

Friends of the Northern San Jacinto Valley is hosting a bird-nesting boxes hike from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday, March 14, at the San Jacinto Wildlife Area, 17050 Davis Road, Lakeview. Meet at the parking lot where Samantha Dempster, naturalist and bird-nesting box specialist, will take visitors to some of the 45 nesting boxes in the area and show them how to inspect, clean and survey the boxes.

Information will be provided on how to install and maintain nesting boxes and attract a variety of cavity-nesting birds to your yards. For more information, call Sue Nash at 909-228-6710.

'Living in Earthquake Country'

"Living in Earthquake Country: Understanding Earthquakes" is a free presentation from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 28, at the San Jacinto and Santa Rosa Mountains National Monument Visitors Center, 51500 Highway 74, Palm Desert.

The Friends of the Desert Mountains is sponsoring the lecture illustrated with slides and animations on the creation of the San Andreas Fault and the topography of the West, with animations explaining earthquake shaking to better understand why and how we must be prepared for the next "big one."

Reserve a seat by calling 760-862-9984. The meeting is in the conference room.

Free CPR class

A free American Heart Association CPR class is offered on Wednesday, Feb. 25 at the Mountain Resource Center.

The class is open to the public, but registration is required as class size is limited to 15 people. The training is sponsored by CAL FIRE and Riverside County Fire Department.

The class goes from 6-9:30 p.m. at the Mountain Resource Center: 25380 Franklin Dr. Mountain region residents will have priority registration; a waiting list will be initiated on a first-come, first-serve basis for non-residents. Contact Edwina Scott to register: (951) 659-6208 or email exec-dir@mcfsc.org.

Golf

Jim Crandall, Palms to Pines Golf Association handicap chair, provided this report about the Friday, Feb. 20, regular monthly golf tournament held at Menifee Lakes Golf Club on the Palms Course.

The early morning fog burned off to reveal a beautiful sunny day with mild temperatures, and the course was in good shape.

Crandall (course handicap 12) shot a gross 77, net 65 to win the tourney by 8 strokes. John Brower (11) came in second with a net 73; Pete Holzman (14) took third with a net 75; and finishing tied for fourth were Pete Capparelli (22) and Lev Sanford (23) with net 76's to round out the top five.

The closest-to-the-pin winners on the four par 3s were Holzman on number 4, Brower on 7, John LoGiudice on 12 and Capparelli on 15.

Crandall won the low gross pot with his 77.

The year-to-date point standings of the 2014-15 season, which runs from August 2014 through July 2015, are:

Place	Golfer	Points
1	John Brower	18
2	Lee Lanfried	14.5
3	Dave Robb	14
4	Jim Crandall	12.5
tied	Pete Holzman	12.5
6	Barry Wallace	11
7	Pete Capparelli	10.5
8	Gary Brown	10
9	Bill Ragland	9.5
tied	Lev Sanford	9.5
11	Robert Priefer	7.5
12	Scott Schroeder	6.5
13	Jerry Daquila	5.5
14	John King	4.5
15	John LoGiudice	4
16	Don DePalma	3.5
17	Ken Garelick	3
tied	Chris Kramer	3
19	David Heimenz	2.5
20	Chuck Alkire	2
21	Les Widerynski	1.5
tied	Barry Zander	1.5
23	Mike Feyder	.5

Points are awarded at each tournament as follows: first place, 6 points; second place, 4 points; third place, 3 points; fourth place, 2 points; fifth place, 1 point. Also, one-half point is awarded to everyone who participates.

The top 8-point finishers of the year go into match-play playoffs for the club championship in August, September and October. A member has to compete in at least five regular-season tournaments to qualify for the playoffs.

The club is a member of the Southern California Golf Association and is sanctioned to establish SCGA handicaps for members.

If interested in joining or playing as a guest, contact Crandall at jim.crandall@verizon.net or 951-265-5732, or Capparelli at pete@capparelli.com or 951-452-5552.

BY JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele closed on Saturday and Sunday at Riviera with a pair of 69s to post a 2-under-par 74-70-69-69 — 282, placing him tied for 14th, only four strokes off the winning score. He posted an eagle and 12 birdies against 12 bogeys.

The pros spoke of the course as playing U.S. Open tough with kikuyu grass primary rough that grabs club heads, making finding the fairway with drives imperative. The greens were hard and fast, so approach shots often did not hold, and downhill putts were often treacherous.

Overall, Steele found 50 percent of the fairways with drives averaging 309 yards, his longest being 338 yards. He hit 63.89 percent of the greens in regulation.

The Idyllwild native gained a whopping 7.451 strokes on the field tee-to-green, while gaining another 0.497 putting — or 0.124 putting, depending upon which page of the PGA Tour website you read. He needed 1.826 putts per green, which works out to about 33 putts per round. If just one more putt per round dropped for him, Steele would have tied for the lead and joined the playoff.

Steele also notched his 12th consecutive cut, by far the longest streak of his PGA Tour career. He picked up 54.5 FedExCup points and now has 409 for the season, ranking 25th on the points list. He may already have the points he'll need to obtain his card for next season, but you sense that that is not a concern anymore.

This is not the player I once saw 7-putt the 18th green at Riviera during his early years on the tour. Steele is now a veteran pro who can shrug off a couple of bogeys and play one shot at a time without looking back because he knows a string of birdies is still out there.

Steele and the PGA Tour now head for the Florida Swing, where he'll play next week in the $6.1 million Honda Classic on the PGA National (Champion) course in Palm Beach Gardens. For those following Steele's play by computer or cell phone, he will tee off Thursday morning at 5:15 a.m., our time. The Town Crier will provide updates on our website, towncrier.com, after each round.

INDOOR TRACK: At his first indoor track meet, a statewide competition in Fresno, Jayden Emerson, of Hemet High School and Idyllwild, finished second in his heat and ninth overall in the 2-mile race.

CREATURE CORNER

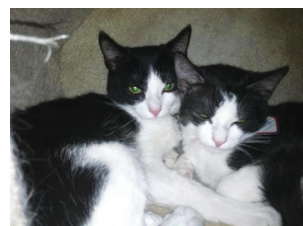

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

Paws up to Poppy the black kitten. He's in his forever home with his new little canine buddy.

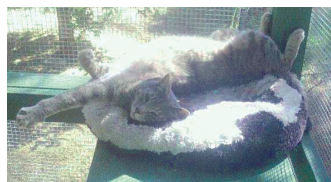

Furball Bill is a 3-year-old male with gorgeous champagne color. He's a bit shy, and even though he's 3, he still loves to play. He is good with other felines, and loves to watch the birds or just lie around and look stunning.

Buddy's family is giving him up because they're moving and can't take all of their dogs. He's a sweet boy. Buddy needs people attention, and loves walking, playing and kids. He likes to shake hands for a cookie, play tug rope with you and gives kisses. He is up-to-date on his shots, neutered, chipped and licensed. He's 3 years and 3 months old. A joy! Needs a home or foster by March 1, 2015.

Carly (right) and Sadie are twin sisters about 2 years old. Sadie loves attention, especially around feeding time. Carly, on the other hand, is very shy. She only shows love to her sister. They can be adopted together or separately.

Tommy is in his favorite spot, lounging in the sun in the outdoor cattery. Yes, he's a big boy, but so gentle. He often can be found napping with one eye open, always checking out the birds. He is about 3 years old, very mellow with other felines and OK with dogs, and loves humans.

We also have Mr. Grey, Mrs. Magoo, Whiskers and Pepper.

We have several dogs on our website available through assisted adoption.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. There is also a link for Facebook. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sundays.

Storm water

for those businesses should have been "none," meaning no further fee deposits or inspections, as long as the nature of the business operation or business owner does not change. If business owners feel their businesses fall into this category, and they have, nevertheless, received a fee deposit request, they can call Thomas at (951) 955-5996. "If there's any way we can lower a priority classification to help local businesses, we will," said Thomas.

Thomas was the original administrator for the compliance program when it was established in 2009 and has recently returned to her position supervising business license compliance. Groundwater inspections attach to Riverside County business licenses, not property ownership, and are mandated under County Ordinance 857, "Business Registration and Licensing Program."

Businesses requiring continuing inspections are classified from low to high priority ranked on likelihood of producing effluents that could contaminate groundwater.

Thomas is in the process of reviewing listed Idyllwild businesses to make certain they are properly classified:

- None, based on prior storm water compliance inspections (no fee, no further inspection; home-based businesses are included in this category);
- Low (deposit and inspection every five years);
- Medium (deposit and inspection every two years; and
- High (deposit and inspection every year).

Records currently show 13 high-priority Idyllwild businesses, 25 medium, 53 low, 55 classified as N/A or none and 33 home-based businesses.

As are most inspection fees in Riverside County, storm water compliance fees are "deposit" based, meaning refunds could be issued depending on the amount of time it takes inspectors to conduct the inspection as well as drive time from Riverside. The $444 fee represents a three-hour estimate.

If an inspection takes less time, a business owner could receive a refund. Thomas said refunds average between $120 and $150, based on inspection and drive time. Thomas noted drive time is aggregated so that all businesses inspected during a day by the same inspector, both in Idyllwild and near Idyllwild, divide the total day's drive time.

Each year, the county Board of Supervisors sets hourly billing rates for county inspectors. Storm water discharge inspections are conducted by certified inspectors, who, like water agency field personnel, must take continuing education courses to either keep their certifications current or advance them to higher levels.

Building and Safety Compliance Division officials recommend local business operators evaluate their premises prior to county inspection to take note of and correct possible contaminants, such as oil, grease, cement, sediment, chemicals and food waste that could affect groundwater.

Thomas cautioned that businesses cited for improper disposal of potential pollutants would require additional deposits and future follow-up inspections to determine if infractions have been corrected.

Conversely, if an inspector determines after several years of inspections that a high-priority business has had no infractions, the inspector has the authority to reclassify the business to a lower priority, necessitating less frequent inspections and fee deposits.

Certain high-priority businesses, such as gas stations, car washes or lumber yards, with much of their operation either conducted outside or affecting outdoor areas, cannot be reclassified even if there are no infractions. Businesses such as these fall within standard industrial classification codes that can't be altered, according to state mandates, said Thomas.

The gray areas in classifications occur when any business, regardless of coding, conducts outdoor washing down of business components, creating the possibility of soap runoff into the groundwater system. Similarly, if a restaurant serves patrons outdoors and fluids

Every day throughout the United States, newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals, families, neighborhoods and businesses. Public notices cover many topics, including business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, local government finances and state and local elections. Public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

HOROSCOPES

February 2015 — Week 4

March 21 – April 19

Try as you might, Aries, little will come to completion this week. Don't let it get to you. Keep plodding along, and progress will come. An idea is sound.

April 20 – May 20

Money matters come to the forefront with a small windfall. Save some for a rainy day, Taurus. A party is transformed with a novel idea. Enjoy!

May 21 – June 21

Golden Gemini. There is nothing out of your reach this week. Dreams come true and friendships are built. A project at home is in need of reevaluation.

June 22 – July 22

Affairs of the heart take precedence this week, Cancer. Attend to matters at home, and then you will be able to tackle tasks at work with ease.

July 23– August 22

Stranger things have happened, Leo. Don't get bogged down in the details. Accept the situation for what it is and move on. A buddy makes an offer.

August 23– September 22

Victorious Virgo. The competition heats up and you, the underdog, will emerge the winner. Celebrate with a night on the town. A text is received.

September 23– October 22

Spruce-ups at home make for a quick week, Libra. Coworkers begin to lose steam. Plan something fun to break up the monotony and boost spirits.

October 23– November 21

A change in weather leads to a flurry of activity at home. Join the fun, Scorpio. A news piece motivates you to help out with a worthy cause.

November 22– December 21

Seniors prove to be a good source of inspiration this week. Look, listen and learn. So many amazing opportunities are in store, Sagittarius.

December 22 – January 19

Ugh, Capricorn. You despise drama, yet it seems to follow you wherever you go. Remove yourself from the picture completely and see if that doesn't help.

January 20 – February 18

A dear friend has good days and bad. While there is nothing you can do to improve the situation, Aquarius, you can be there to offer your support.

February 19 – March 20

Want to be closer to someone? Make the effort, Pisces. Take the time to visit with them and listen to what they have to say. There is so much to learn.

Obituary Sharon Selby Mahoney 1963-2015

Sharon Selby Mahoney, 51, was born Sept. 20, 1963, and raised in Poway, spending most of her life in the North County area. She died Friday, Jan. 9.

She raised her children in North County, as well as took care of her niece and nephew when they were young. She studied nursing at Palomar College, becoming an LVN.

She loved riding her Harley-Davidson motorcycle and spending time with her family as much as possible. She was an avid dog lover and guardian of four dogs.

She leaves behind her father, Gerald Selby of Pinon Pines, and her mother, Pat Selby, of Oneonta, Alabama; her brother, Jim (Gayle) and sister Carolyn (Lewis); three nieces, three nephews, five children and three grandchildren. She will be missed by all.

In lieu of flowers, any donations to the care of her dogs Sasha and Whuppie can be made to the Hope Ranch Animal Sanctuary, P.O. Box 391988, Anza, CA 92539.

Postal Service to honor Angelou

The U.S. Postal Service will honor Maya Angelou — the beloved author, poet, actress and champion of equality — with a Forever Stamp.

"Maya Angelou inspired our nation through a life of advocacy and through her many contributions to the written and spoken word," said Postmaster General Megan J. Brennan. "Her wide-ranging achievements as a playwright, poet, memoirist, educator and advocate for justice and equality enhanced our culture."

The Postal Service will preview the stamp and provide details on the date and location of the first-day-of-issuance ceremony at a later date.

The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

Free community healing offered

Christina Nordella offers free, 15-minute healing sessions from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. the first Tuesday of the month at St. Hugh's Episcopal Church. The next date is March 3.

She is a 15-year Jin Shin Jyutsu practitioner, Reiki master and Shaman. The sessions are on a first-come, first-serve basis.

County crash database created King of the Cage returns to Soboba

Identifying where and why vehicle crashes occur in Riverside County — and finding ways to prevent them — is the goal of a new state grant to the county. The grant will help the county and local agencies share traffic collision data and analyze it more quickly and easily than ever before.

The $340,000 grant, which was awarded by the California Office of Traffic Safety (OTS) to the County Transportation Department in October 2014, will aid in developing a countywide system that allows the county and participating cities to collect and share data about collisions on local roads, excluding state highways. The information will help local agencies decide which improvements could make roads safer, and how to prioritize use of limited funding.

Currently, the county and most cities each use their own collision databases. The project goal is to have at least 90 percent of all collision reports that are taken countywide input into the system within 60 days. Having countywide data for all agencies in one database, with access available to all agencies in the county, enables cities and the county to compare regional issues and trends, and to consider possible safety measures that require coordination between agencies.

The grant will pay for new and updated software with analytical tools that can help local agencies to analyze high-collision locations and identify prevention measures. The countywide database will be placed on a remote server so that the state Office of Traffic Safety also has access.

A number of cities within Riverside County support the project. After presentations are made by the county, each city will have an opportunity to participate. The Board of Supervisors officially accepted the award Feb. 3 and authorized implementation.

Funding for this program was provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

King of the Cage, an internationally broadcast Mixed Martial Arts company, is returning to Soboba Casino in San Jacinto on Sunday, March 15. In a broadcast event in the 10,000-seat Soboba Arena.

In 2008, after 43 events and eight years of watching both Soboba Casino and King of the Cage grow as companies together, it was over as quick as it began as both entities parted ways. KOTC is coming home to Soboba where the first major events in California were held.

"It's like marrying your high-school girlfriend six years later," said Terry Trebilcock, CEO and founder of KOTC. "It just doesn't get any better. Many historical moments in MMA were born in San Jacinto CA, and many of the biggest stars in modern-day MMA spent integral parts of their careers at Soboba. Numerous articles in the past show the history of how MMA survived its toughest years, much because of the investment of Soboba Casino and the hard work of so many involved."

"We are so excited about bringing King of the Cage back to our casino," said Scott Sirois, general manager of Soboba. "With us celebrating our 20th anniversary in 2015, it couldn't be a better time to re-unite with the finest MMA organization and hosting a world-class nationally televised event for our guests."

March 15 is the first of what could be rumored of as many as 25 events over the next five years.

After performing more than 500 events since its inception in 1998, KOTC has promoted hundreds of shows globally, including in the United States and far-reaching countries such as England, Singapore, South Africa, Canada, Japan, Australia and Philippines.

KOTC has been a career staple for countless stars, including Forrest Griffin, Quinton Rampage Jackson, Rashad Evans, Ronda Rousey, Krazy Horse, Keith Jardine, Mac Danzig, Urijah Faber, Joe Stevenson and Diego Sanchez.

Details of the March 15 event will be posted at www.kingofthecage.com when available.
