Idyllwild Fire and San Jacinto proposing joint fire agency

Joint public meeting later this month

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Idyllwild Fire Department is in discussions with the city of San Jacinto to provide fire and emergency medical services to the city. Currently, Riverside County Fire Department provides these services to San Jacinto.

In a press release late Monday afternoon, Idyllwild Fire Chief Patrick Reitz said, "... joint discussions are currently taking place with the administrations of the district and city to form a Joint Powers Authority for the purpose of providing fire protection and EMS services to the citizens of San Jacinto."

"This is a big deal, very big," Reitz said Tuesday. And he stressed that neither the San Jacinto city nor the IFPD commission has yet endorsed nor approved the idea. "The two boards will discuss its formation and make changes to the draft document."

"Earlier in the year, it started with a casual comment and evolved into more detailed discussions later this year," he stated.

San Jacinto and the Idyllwild Fire Protection District will schedule a joint meeting later this month to discuss this idea, according to Reitz, who has been in private discussions with San Jacinto City Manager Tim Hults.

Job descriptions for fire captains, engineers and firefighters for the JPA, as well as job application forms, are already posted on the IFPD web site. None of these documents inform the applicants assert that the joint powers

Driver in death of child arrested

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The driver of the Porsche that went over the side of Highway 74 Sunday morning and resulted in the death of a 5-month-old child was arrested and booked at the Robert Presley Detention Center, Thursday, May 5.

Marcus Novell Green, 51, of Thermal, was charged by the district attorney with murder with malice aforethought and willful child cruelty. The California Highway Patrol arrested him on Wednesday and booked him Thursday. Green's bail was set at more than $1.8 million. His initial hearing was Friday, May 6, and there is one scheduled for May 17.

With him in the car was Kristen Lauer, 22, of Rancho Mirage and a 5-month-old girl, identified by the Riverside County coroner as Armani Green, who died at the scene. His 2015 Porsche 911 coupe went over the side of Highway 74 near Vista Point above Palm Desert.

He and Lauer suffered injuries and were transported to a local hospital. The Porsche was two-seater, and it is not clear where the child was located before the car went off the road and down 200 feet.

According to the California Highway Patrol, a solo-vehicle traffic collision occurred on Highway 74 near mile marker 52 about 5:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 3. The single occupant was driving eastbound when for an unknown reason, lost control of the silver Chrysler, smashing into the mountain on the westbound side of the highway. Highway 74 was closed in both directions for about one hour as Riverside County Fire used the jaws of life to extract the driver. The victim was transported by American Medical Response to a local hospital with unknown injuries. PHOTO BY JENNY KIRCHNER

Mountain Center Market burglar sentenced to state prison

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Nickolas Melendez, 27, of Cabazon, one of two men who pleaded guilty to burglary of the Mountain Center Market in September, was sentenced to two years and eight months in state prison.

Judge Mark Mandio dispensed the sentence Friday, May 6, nearly a week after Melendez missed the original sentencing hearing.

Melendez had a prior conviction that Mandio said qualified as a strike; however, he imposed a lower-term sentence.

Ryan Mason, 25, of Hemet, who also pleaded guilty, has undergone an evaluation for possible residential substance-abuse treatment prior to the felony settlement conference. Mandio requested the Riverside County Sheriff's Department Corrections Division to conduct the assessment. As a result of the report, Mason's sentencing is scheduled for Sept. 26 while he completes a program.

9th century California trademarks

California Secretary of State Alex Padilla announced the release of nearly 4,000 digitized California trademark images and applications filed with the secretary of state between 1861 and 1900. These images and documents are the largest digital collection ever assembled by the State Archives, a division of the secretary of state's office.

"This is our history and it should be shared," said Padilla. "I encourage Californians to explore these images, which for the first time are easily accessible to the public online."

The collection may be viewed at www.sos.ca.gov/archives/trademarks.

Late spring rains beating average and forecast

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The promised historic El Niño rainstorms may not have appeared in Southern California, but the recent spring rains are trying to overcome the image of a totally weak or missing El Niño.

During April and May, the U.S. Forest Service's Keenwild Station has had nearly 3.5 inches of rain and Pine Cove has recorded about 3.25 inches of rain and a quarter inch of snow. Historically, the Hill has received about 2.75 inches of rain during these two months. Although most of May could bring more rain, the forecast for the remainder of the month is dry.

Nevertheless, total rain at Keenwild has been 21.3 inches, the most precipitation on the Hill since 2011. And Pine Cove has reported nearly 25.25 inches, which is less than half an inch less than the long-term annual rainfall.

Public Information Officer Darren Meyer, California Highway Patrol, said (regarding Hill roads), "Caltrans had their plows out because of debris on the highways carried by fast flowing water."

During the year ending June 30, 2011, the Hill recorded more than 29 inches of rain, the only year in the past decade that has exceeded the annual historic average of 25.7 inches.

2.8 magnitude quake Thursday night

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

A second in the past two weeks of a near-3.0-magnitude earthquake occurred at about 11:20 Thursday night.

The tremor was about 7.5 miles west of Idyllwild and 4 miles southeast of Valle Vista. It was located on the San Jacinto Fault on Rouse Ridge.

Initially, the quake's magnitude was estimated to be 3.2. While no damage has been reported, it was felt in Idyllwild and as far south as Carlsbad and east to Sun City.

On Monday, May 9, another quake, magnitude 2.5, occurred only miles northwest of the larger quake.

Advice from a past CSA 36 member

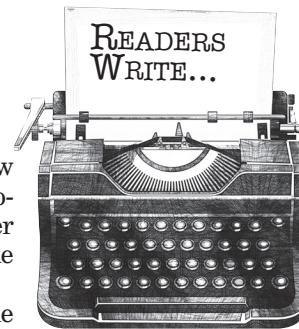

EDITOR:

I was reading the new County Service Area Advisory Council profile of Ginger Dagnall and she sounds like the right person for the job.

After all these years, the advisory is back and hopes to do many good things.

One thing I noticed was she said it was a constant struggle with the county to get a full approval for a full menu of sports offerings. She had many ideas of what she would like to see happen.

I was on the committee for about 10 years and unless things have changed, I would like to tell you a few things. When you have your meetings, somehow you need to get people to come to them. When one or two (or maybe five) people show up meeting after meeting, they start to become the eyes and ears of the committee instead of the community.

And don't forget that's all you are — the eyes and ears and to check how much money was spent.

Back where you said it was a struggle with the county? Nothing will change because you are on the CSA council. You decide nothing. Everything is decided by the county.

So, if you hope to get anymore than what you already have, your only chance is maybe to fill up your meetings and that may give you more of an edge than we had.

I don't know who is in charge from the county now. At the time it was Mr. Brown. I liked him a lot because he was very fair, but he can only do what his boss will allow.

If you work with him, you'd better know your stuff because he really knows his. Have a plan and know it inside and out before you take it to him.

Voting for Supervisor Washington

June 7, 2016, I will be voting to re-elect Supervisor Washington.

During the April 28, 2016, CSA 60 meeting at Fire Station 30 (after about 10 years of the continued appropriation and expenditure of CSA 60 Special Assessments in violation of California Proposition 218), Mike Franklin, Riverside County EDA, stated that the Special Assessment is "... to be used only for purposes of providing equipment and supplies for the voluntary firefighters services, as approved by the voters."

Resolution 2002-205, had been reset to "0."

Go, Supervisor Washington, a breath of fresh air.

How to get a letter published

The Town Crier welcomes letters reflecting all opinions. Letters should be concise and to the point. They should be no longer than 400 words. Letters must be typewritten, double-spaced and in upper/lower case (not in all caps). Letters must be identified with the author's name, address and weekday phone number.

The Town Crier will not publish "thank-you" letters, consumer complaints, form letters, clippings from other publications or poetry. Political letters during election season cost 10 cents per word but are not accepted the week before an election.

We reserve the right to reject or edit letters for length, taste, clarity or frequency of submission. Only one letter per author within a 28-day period. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinions of Town Crier staff. Letters may be submitted in person, by mail, by fax (659-2071) or by e-mail (becky@towncrier.com).

Deadline is 10 a.m. Monday.

By all indications, I believe that Idyllwild Fire commissioners and the San Jacinto City Council knew about and condoned the Joint Powers Authority to provide fire protection service to a population about 20 times larger than Idyllwild. The IFPD chief claims he and the SJ city manager put their heads together on this thing on a casual basis, but what's happening now is anything but casual. According to documentation on IFPD's website, the JPA already appears in place.

These two staff members cannot set up a JPA without authority from the public's elected officials in both communities.

We know this: Top heads, including Supervisor Washington and the county PIO, know about this deal.

We know at least two commissioners knew about the deal but won't discuss it. Another commissioner won't return a phone call or email.

But neither government agency shows anything about a JPA on any of their agendas.

It takes a great deal of work to create a JPA. So you're telling me that both boards are just getting the news like we did through a press release? That's difficult to believe.

Are they going to say next month to their boards, "Hey, here's this great idea we've already put in place. We just need you to rubber stamp it and we're on our way." No, they must have had board authority outside of an open hearing before the public, we think.

Next month you, too, are invited to come down to a meeting, perhaps in San Jacinto, to hear all about something that's been behind closed doors and looks like a done deal. So are the San Jacinto citizens.

To us, this implies that both boards violated at least the spirit of the Brown Act, the state's open meeting law, by not fully disclosing this was in the works.

Washington wants to keep county board seat

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Editor's note: The seat for Riverside County's 3rd District supervisor is on the June 7 primary ballot. Three candidates are seeking the seat Chuck Washington currently holds. The two challengers are Randon Lane of Murrieta and Shellie Milne of Hemet. The top two vote getters will compete on the November ballot and the winner will be the next supervisor.

The Town Crier has interviewed each candidate. (See next three pages.)

In March 2015, Gov. Jerry Brown appointed Washington to fill the remainder of former Supv. Jeff Stone's term after he was elected to the state Senate. All three have city council experience. Washington served on the Murrieta and then the Temecula city councils. Lane is on the Murrieta City Council and serving his second term as mayor. Milne is currently on the Hemet City Council.

Although Chuck Washington has been Riverside County 3rd District supervisor for 14 months, he is no stranger to elections and politics. From 1995 to 2000, he served on the Murrieta City Council and from 2003 to 2015, when he was appointed to replace 3rd District Supervisor Jeff Stone, he served on the Temecula City Council. During his time on both councils, he also served as mayor of the cities.

Riverside County 3rd District Supervisor Chuck Washington

Serving as supervisor has been an education, according to Washington. Not only has he had to learn about the issues confronting the district, but the special challenges to each part of the district, as well as the broader issues confounding the entire county.

This opportunity to see and to wrestle with both the comprehensive and the specific issues has been hugely beneficial, Washington said. "Neither challenger has had the chance yet."

Washington, a Democrat, describes himself as a fiscal conservative and believes achieving a balanced budget is the biggest issue facing the board. "We need to keep tight reins on the purse strings," he stressed. "The Board of Supervisors controls the purse strings and we need to manage the purse strings better."

"The 3rd District is part of the whole county and there is no way the 3rd District survives when the county sinks," Washington emphasized. "We need to stop the bleeding."

The growth of county staff salaries is a result of agreements between the board and unions prior to him joining the board, going back to 2012, according to Washington.

But Washington is not single-minded. New spending may be necessary and productive if it originates from the same thinking as occurred at the county medical center in the past two years. The center has eliminated its consistent annual deficits and looks for programs or equipment that will ultimately save money. "We're at same place if we need to reorganize. We should see more efficient spending of public funds if that will provide a return on investment," he added.

Washington is looking forward to the results of KP-MC's study of the county's criminal justice system. "In 18 to 24 months, we should find significant savings," he said.

He also stressed his time on the Temecula City Council that prepared him for the budget analysis and work on the board. "It is not just cutting red ink," he said. "Those challenges created a difference between me and Lane and Milne. I've supported job creation and economic development."

Washington pointed to the core values he supports. They begin with creating a safe community and helping the economy thrive, which is what he will promote for Idyllwild — economic development and quality of life.

Law enforcement and fire safety are also important components that define the Hill's quality of life, he noted. But transportation and roads are critical and need to be maintained. The local infrastructure is stressed more than other areas in the county because of the seasons felt here.

Then he stressed, "It is not just roads which are the challenge. We need to help water districts maintain enough water to support economic development."

"Idyllwild is probably one of the most interesting places in the entire district," he observed. "Families, children, baby boomers, business owners all like their independent spirits but are looking to just do something useful in the community. They are happy to be there. And when they see things to do they step up and do it. Very few have their hands out."

Milne unworried about Washington's and Lane's campaign coffers

She has as much as she needs

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Randon Lane of Murrieta and Shellie Milne of Hemet, who are challenging Riverside County 3rd District Supv. Chuck Washington in the June 7 primary election, have taken diametrically different paths to financing their campaigns. The top two vote-getters will face off in the November general election.

Washington has raised a total of $325,000 in contributions, of which $77,000 (or about a quarter) has been received since Jan. 1. While Lane trails in dollar amounts, his pattern is similar to Washington's. Lane has received about $207,000 in total contributions and also about 25 percent or $48,000 between Jan. 1 and April 23.

But Milne has taken a very different approach, unlike the traditional politicians. She developed a budget for her campaign shortly after deciding to enter the race. She figured out the cost of signs, ads and other campaign essentials. She sought donors who could help finance this budget and manages the campaign with only these resources.

By Dec. 31, she had raised about $150,000, which still significantly trailed Washington but was about equal to Lane's pre-2016 contributions of $160,000. Since Jan. 1, Milne has reported total contributions of $5,350.

"That is all I expect I'll need," she said. "If I go on to the November election, I'll be developing another budget the morning of June 8."

Also, she emphasized her skepticism about campaign finance legislation. In general, she sees political contributions as a form of free speech and abridging it should be done carefully and thoughtfully.

Consequently, she has no interest in collecting more money than she needs. She does not desire to carry surplus contributions forward for another race, another year or another purpose. To her, that is another form of abusing the system.

If she were to need more money, Milne is confident she could raise it. And she also noted that with less than a month before the election, new contributions would not be secret since they have to be reported within 24 hours.

At this point in the campaign, Milne has outspent her opponents through the first four months of 2016. Her total expenses were $77,000, compared to $60,000 from Washington's campaign and $46,000 from Lane's.

They appear to be saving money for the final weeks. Washington has $166,000 in cash available to promote his election. Lane has about $120,000 and Milne trails both opponents with only $65,000 remaining available.

Lane had made a $25,000 personal loan to his campaign and has subsequently repaid $10,000 of it this quarter. Washington has loaned his campaign $4,000. Milne has not made a loan to her campaign.

Contributors

Washington has received many more total contributions than either Lane or Milne, as his total amount demonstrates. But each candidate also appears to have support from different groups.

Washington has received two donations of more than $10,000 and two other gifts greater than $8,000. The largest single donor is LIUNA Local 777, which contributed $32,000, and is one of Riverside County's larger bargaining units. Global Investments and Development, through various subsidiaries in Riverside County, has given more than $30,000. Rancon, a Temecula developer, also has provided more than $20,000 to Washington's campaign.

As the incumbent, Washington has received contributions from groups with business with the county such as Albert A. Webb Associates and CR&R, the manager of the local transfer station, and Bellacap LLC.

Besides LIUNA Local 777, other union or labor groups giving to his campaign include the International Union of Operating Engineers ($2,500), Service Employees International Union Local 721 ($2,250) and Cal Fire Local 2881, which is Riverside County, ($1,000).

Milne's support comes from a few very large donors. She has received five contributions greater than $20,000, including two from local vineyards — Ponte and Callaway — and the Hemet Community Medical Group.

Three land developers have given at least $25,000 and another two have donated $10,000 each.

Since Jan. 1, Michael Lumary of Home Energy Solutions has given nearly $25,000 to Lane. The Soboba Band of Luiseño Indians gave $15,000 and CR&R and Global Investments have also contributed to his campaign.

Murrieta Mayor Randon Lane is candidate for 3rd District supervisor

Runs on 'three pillars' of infrastructure, public safety and economic development

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

When Murrieta Mayor Randon Lane and family first moved to the Inland Empire from Santa Monica, they bought a new house in Murrieta. Lane said he had several flat tires in the first few weeks because of the bad condition of local roads. "When we moved here there were no good roads," he related. His focused questioning of the city Planning Commission regarding the city's poor infrastructure led to an appointment to the Planning Commission.

While on the commission, Lane focused on infrastructure improvement as the key to bringing in new businesses, increasing employment opportunities and improving quality of life for city residents. He championed improving roads, interchanges and facilitating better freeway access. In campaigning for mayor, Lane ran on an "infrastructure first" platform. He cites Murrieta's low unemployment and FBI rating as one of the safest cities in the U.S. as evidence of what infrastructure improvement can do to improve quality of life for residents.

Lane, a Republican, is now running for Riverside County 3rd District supervisor, an office currently held by Democrat Chuck Washington. "Riverside County will have a million more people by 2025," said Lane. "For District 3 cities to prosper there need to be better highways, interchanges and E-W and N-S corridors." Lane proposes local control, from a combination of affected cities and Riverside County management, of Highway 74, from interstates 15 and 215 into Hemet and San Jacinto. "There also needs to be better access from Interstate 10 for these communities to grow," he noted. In addition to road improvements, Lane supports water reclamation projects as the county grows its population. "We need to be able to capture and retain water that is currently lost in runoff," he said. "Similarly, we need to look at all forms of energy savings, including solar and natural gas."

With regard to spending priorities, Lane feels the Riverside County budget has not been well managed. "It's all about spending priorities," said Lane. "I would make public safety a 110-percent spending priority. The first thing I would do, if elected, would be to request a full third-party audit of the budget from top to bottom. It's not necessarily to focus on negatives but to better see and understand what we are doing right and what we could do better. I want to look at an audit and comprehensive review before addressing budget cuts."

Lane also espouses measures that would make it easier to fast-track permits for new business and residential construction in the 3rd District. "That's what we did in Murrieta and that helped us get the Loma Linda University Medical Center — we fast tracked the process," he said. "I'd also move to do away with the deposit base [construction] permit process in Riverside County. People should know how much they're going to be spending on a specific project like building a garage. It should be a stated fee, not a requirement to deposit $30,000 against which county inspectors and administrators charge time."

To prioritize business growth in the county, Lane believes in opening doors. "[Supervisor] Washington believes we can get there by raising taxes," he noted. "I believe in opening [regulatory] doors for economic development to make it easier for small and large businesses to relocate here and function here."

When asked to address unemployment in much of the district, compared to the relatively low unemployment in Murrieta, Lane said, "The safer the communities are, the better the infrastructure, the easier it is to get from one place to another, and the more fast tracking there is for new development, the more businesses will thrive and employ people."

With regard to growth of homeless populations in the district, Lane proposed a joint power authority between cities and county. "No single jurisdiction can solve the problem on its own," he said. "A JPA would allow everyone to have some 'skin in the game.' The issues are twofold — lack of finances and resources and growing mental health issues within the homeless population. This can't be solved just by building facilities. The mental health problems must also be addressed."

Asked how Idyllwild/Pine Cove fits into his priorities for the district, Lane demurred. "This is not a one-size-fits-all district," he noted. "The issues in Idyllwild are different from those in other parts of the district. My job is to listen to what residents in the unincorporated areas have to say."

Asked why he is running for this office, Lane said, "I enjoy local politics. I never had the ambition to run for office before moving here." Lane has a business background, having worked for Nextel, Media-One, AT&T Broadband, Telecommunications Inc. and Sprint in the Los Angeles area. He currently serves as public affairs manager for SoCal Gas for Southern California.

Lane, married and the father of three, became interested in working in the public sector after moving to the Inland Empire. Beginning in 2006, he served as field representative for California State Assemblyman Kevin Jeffries. In 2009, he became political director for Meg Whitman's campaign for California governor. In 2011, he was elected chair of the Republican Party in Riverside County and held that position until this year, when he stepped down to run for supervisor. He was elected to the Murietta City Council in 2008, elected mayor in 2011 and re-elected in 2012. He serves on the League of California Cities Board of Directors, its Riverside County board of directors, the Western Riverside Council of Governments, the Animal Control JPA and the Riverside Transit Agency board of directors.

Lane holds a bachelor's degree in interdisciplinary studies from the University of Texas at Arlington.

Seeking Emax award nominees

For the sixth consecutive year, the Idyllwild Town Crier is requesting nominations for the annual Ernie Maxwell Community Spirit Award. Bring your nomination to the Town Crier office at 54405 N. Circle Dr., mail it to P.O. Box 157, Idyllwild, CA 92549, or send by email to becky@towncrier.com by May 13.

The honor is given to an individual or group who represents EMax's spirit of community and volunteerism. Prior awardees took actions that created a spark sufficient to bring others into the fray just as Maxwell did with his activities involving the environment.

The nomination information should provide the reason why the individual or group has been nominated. They should have demonstrated a tangible, perhaps physical, effect on the community. The Ernie Maxwell Scenic Trail is an example of accomplishment.

How long has your nominee been active in the community?

Provide a description of their volunteer contributions and accomplishments for the community.

And finally, can you show how these efforts have been adopted or expanded by the community?

The five previous awardees were the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council in 2011, Dawn Sonnier in 2012, Robert Priefer in 2013, Annamarie Padula in 2014 and Wendy Read in 2015. A plaque in the Town Crier office lists the awardees' names.

Later, you will have an opportunity to vote for the top three 2016 nominees.

Shellie Milne seeks to become only woman on Board of Supervisors

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

While Shellie Milne trails her two opponents in fundraising, she remains confident she will be one of the top two vote-getters by the end of vote counting for the primary on June 7.

"I'm always confident," she said. "My message is getting out and resonates with more and more voters."

And her message begins with zoning and construction, and their effect on the county's revenues and budget. For Milne, a Republican, county policies and attitudes toward new construction affect businesses and growth. The county's budget depends upon this growth, otherwise there are financial problems, just as the county is currently experiencing.

"We need business owners, homeowners and their property values [in order] to deal with the county budget problems," she stated. "Jamba Juice just announced it's moving to Texas. We don't need exits from Riverside County because of hostile government policies or attitudes."

While Milne is not confident that KPMG, the consultant the county executive hired to review the public safety agencies' budget and then the entire county budget, will have adequate solutions, she is patiently awaiting its recommendations.

However, she is cautious about the budget direction. "The public employee unions are already saying the recession is over and time for raises," she noted. "We're not there yet; the budget is not there yet."

After recommending that the Board of Supervisors has to hold the line when it comes to collective bargaining, Milne observed that incumbent Washington has received considerable financial support from the county's bargaining units.

"The unions have his back," she opined.

The 3rd District begins just above and west of Palm Desert and goes west to include Murrieta and Temecula, and north to embrace Hemet and San Jacinto. Idyllwild is near the district's center and Milne recognizes its uniqueness. She and her husband spent their honeymoon here and have a family cabin now.

"Idyllwild will always be a destination," she said. "It's important for Idyllwild to remain Idyllwild and attract people from all over the world. People go up the Hill to get away and this has to be maintained." Which brought her back to the original issue of land use. She is concerned that the government intervention is "creeping up the Hill."

She wants to protect the town's integrity and not change it.

As supervisor, she would work with churches and non-profit groups to reach out to the homeless in the district and those who spend time on the Hill. She recognizes this is a county issue and wants to find more ways to alleviate it.

"Hemet was a dumping ground. The county needs to focus on this issue," she said. "We need to help our neighbors. The government is not the answer to everything. This is an issue we should partner with the private sector."

In closing, Milne stressed that she has been active in government for years. She has worked with municipalities and grass-root organizations to enact term limits and control pay scales.

"I got on the Hemet City Council to stand up to special interests," she emphasized. She did not just attend meetings; she made proposals that were enacted. "These things didn't just happen while I was a member," she said. "There is a discernable difference between me and my opponents. I back change."

John Metroka Jr. appointed to CSA 36 Advisory Council

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

John Metroka Jr., one of five recently appointed members of the County Service Area 36 Advisory Council, has clear priorities for the kinds of recreational activities that could benefit all residents of the district.

Metroka, a recently retired lieutenant with the Riverside County Sheriff's Department, believes recreation benefits all age groups. "I strongly believe physical activity and all forms of recreation are vital to physical health, mental sharpness and an overall positive disposition by those who participate," he said. "I support all forms of recreation for the young to the young at heart."

In clarification, he cited the value of team sports for youth and young adults. "Team sports for the young promote overall health and introduce young minds to the dynamics of team spirit and good sportsmanship," he noted. "Healthy recreation and the continuation of sporting activities are equally vital for young adults who are reaching a time in life when the lack of positive influences can be detrimental."

"Having worked in the Idyllwild area as an officer, I saw first-hand what young adults might revert to as diversions when positive activities are not available. I support lighted skate parks and other after-hour activities that would give the kids places to go and burn off energy."

Metroka emphasized the importance of serving Idyllwild's senior population. "It is very appropriate that activities for more mature individuals be supported and encouraged," he said. As examples of such activities, Metroka proposed organized hikes, gardening, photography classes with excursions and low-impact strength training. "These are just a small example of what could be provided," he said. "Community programs like the ever-popular Bingo are not out of the question." Metroka emphasized that the council's job is to listen to residents of all ages about the programs and activities they would like to see offered as part of CSA 36 tax-funded recreation.

Born in coal-country Pennsylvania to a coal-mining father, Metroka grew up in the Riverside area from the age of 7. "As a family, we did not have much and came to appreciate the simple things in life. Our idea of a vacation was fishing in Lake Hemet and hiking in Idyllwild," he said. "The entire family felt blessed to be in the great outdoors. I believe this is where I developed such a strong affinity for outdoor life. I have continued to consider the San Jacinto Mountains, Lake Hemet and Idyllwild as places of adventure, solitude and rejuvenation throughout my life, and now I live here."

In college, Metroka studied political science and pre-law with the objective of becoming a lawyer. But over time, he realized his calling was to serve as a police officer. "For me, it was a good fit," he said. "I wanted to make a difference where it mattered most — at the ground level."

CSA 38 to meet Wednesday

The County Service Area 38 (Pine Cove fire/ambulance service) Advisory Council will meet at 2 p.m. this Wednesday at the Pine Cove Water District office.

New agenda items include a flagpole and volunteer bell/plaque, and the proposed 2016-17 budget.

Other agenda items include reviewing the revenue and expense report; purchases and repairs budget; CSA boundaries/

Foster Lake area; the ongoing parcel fee discussion and what the council might recommend to the county; shade cover and deck on the Pine Cove Fire Station's backyard, as well as a concrete project there; an address and street number program; and WNKI, the Hill's emergency radio station.

The council is governed by the Ralph M. Brown Act body, the state's open meeting law.

Metroka worked for the Riverside County Sheriff's Department for 32 years. He worked in corrections, on the street and in criminal investigations, and became an expert in disaster management. "I have managed the law enforcement branch of operations at several disaster scenes, including the Bee Canyon Fire. My involvement in local, state and federal disaster management transitioned to Homeland Security and Defense around the year 2000. I am a state and federally recognized expert in this field." Metroka also commanded RCSD's patrol, traffic and special tactics divisions, and served as commander of a large contract city.

"The most rewarding part of my career has been my involvement in the creation of partnerships with business interests, civic groups, advisory committees, volunteers, clergy and Native Americans in efforts to better serve the community," he noted.

Metroka and fiancée Terri Miller have a home in Fern Valley. "Now, driving up the Hill it's a joy because I know I'm going home," he said. "I just want to contribute and see that the needs of the community are being met. I encourage the public to share with the council what they need and want."

Metroka has a master's degree in public administration from California State University, San Bernardino, a bachelor's degree in political science from the University of California, Riverside, and a series of federal state and CSU teaching certifications in Homeland Security and catastrophic event management.

Pet owners beware

Every pet owner will tell you about the benefits of bonding with a dog or a cat, says the Association of Mature American Citizens. It's good for the heart and for the soul.

But the Centers for Disease Control reports that there's a downside to pet ownership. A CDC study indicates that tens of thousands of Americans wind up in the emergency room each year with injuries resulting from trip and fall accidents involving dogs and cats.

Taxing work

If you are receiving Social Security and have extra income, you may wind up having to pay taxes on a portion of your benefits, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens. AMAC says that you can work with your tax preparer to determine the exact amount of taxes you must pay using your Social Security Benefit Statement (Form SSA-1099/1042S). The Social Security Administration automatically sends that statement out to all benefit recipients each year.

Idyllwild Arts students help produce Idyllwild School musical

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Idyllwild Arts Academy seniors Miguel Soto (music) and Caroline "Cari" Quigley (theater) are helping Idyllwild School students produce the Disney musical "Alice in Wonderland." They are assisting Production Director Heather Reba, wife of IAA Music Chair Chris Reba, current musical theater instructor at IAA, and former theater instructor at the University of New Haven in mounting the musical "from scratch" — making all costumes, constructing all scenery and spending virtually no money to produce the show.

Reba has performed with Sacramento's Music Circus, with San Diego's Starlight Musical Theatre and will perform this summer in the musical "Titanic" with Moonlight Stage Productions in Vista. "I wanted to offer the children of Idyllwild a quality theatrical experience and with Buzz's [Holmes] help, along with Miguel and Cari, we have been able to make that happen," she said. "It's been a great experience, which will hopefully continue next year."

Said Soto, "We're doing this to show that art can be made available without spending [large amounts] of money — putting on this musical with the intention of keeping it inexpensive and available to all."

Soto and Quigley, with highly demanding academic and art schedules at IAA, are volunteering each week with Idyllwild School students to fulfill their "Art in Society Capstone Project," a recently added credential distinction for graduating seniors. The Art in Society program seeks to educate IAA students about their responsibilities to use their art careers to make positive contributions to society. It is driven by the students and the school administration who believe that art has transformative power to create beneficial social change. Students are encouraged to complete projects that cultivate cross-cultural understanding, focus on social justice issues, or address how art relates to the human condition and society.

To work with young elementary and middle school students was a good fit for both Soto and Quigley. Said Soto, "I love to work with younger children. I'm the oldest of my siblings and all my cousins. I produce our family Christmas show, with everyone involved. I like the idea of making art available to kids."

Quigley began volunteering with the IS smARTS program in her sophomore year. "Public schools have defunded art education," she said. "That's why I wanted to share my training and passion for art in assisting in the smARTS program at Idyllwild School. I believe arts education is so important for everyone. I wanted to do something with kids and make sure they get that nourishment that art education gives."

"This is what I want to do — passing it on to kids, whether through performing or teaching. Working with these kids, I see them giving all their effort and focus to being part of this show. They jump in and work together. It's all so collaborative."

Said Soto, "The students have been so helpful with some really great ideas." Asked about what's important, the rehearsal and production phase or the performance itself, he said, "I've always said it's the journey, not the destination. Yes, it's been tight with our own school schedules, but it has been a wonderful experience."

To successfully complete the IAA Arts and Society program and graduate with a distinction in global arts, action and social entrepreneurship, students are required to complete a senior Capstone Project, have a 3.0 GPA at time of graduation, have demonstrated leadership, attend at least 75 percent of all Art in Society seminars at IAA, complete 10 hours of qualifying service or social action oriented activity over the summer and complete at least one community service activity.

"Alice in Wonderland" plays at 6 p.m. Friday, May 13, and 1 p.m. Saturday, May 14, in the Idyllwild School gymnasium. Tickets are available at the door, cash only, at $10 for adults, $5 for students and $15 for adults for both performances.

James Reserve director talk at next Nature Center lecture

Dr. Jennifer Gee to speak about the geologic, biologic and social history

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The next and final speaker for the 2016 Nature of Nature Lecture Series will be Dr. Jennifer Gee, director of the James San Jacinto Mountains Reserve. The University of California operates 39 reserves, of which four, including the James, are associated with the Riverside campus' Department of Biology.

In 1966, Harry and Grace James sold the land to the university. The formal educational property will celebrate its 50th anniversary next month; but its biological significance has roots much deeper in history.

Gee, who assumed the directorship in 2012, will speak about the noteworthy history of the reserve, and the research ideas and products that have germinated on the Hill. She describes the reserve, as well as the entire San Jacinto Mountains, as "ecologically rich."

Its value derives from its unique location. The Sonoran desert essentially surrounds the mountain. Geologically distinct from the Peninsular Range, the San Jacinto Mountains are unlike the coastal ridges and mountains to the west and north, for example, the San Bernardino Mountains.

Species such as the spotted owl or black bear can make their way to the Hill, but they don't establish robust and lasting populations since it is not their natural habitat.

"Essentially, we are a 'Sky Island,'" Gee said. "We're isolated here and it's attracted biologists for a long time."

The James has been the site and sponsor of many UC retreats. And many current thoughts and ideas about biology and evolution and other scientific topics began to grow and sprout here. The early leaders were Jarod Diamond, author of the 1997 Pulitzer Prize winning book

"Guns, Germs, and Steel," Martin Cody and Chuck Taylor. All were at one time members of the UCLA faculty.

These retreats led to the development of the Center of Embedded Networked Sensing that was funded with grants from the National Science Foundation. One of the important leaders of this movement is former James Reserve Director Dr. Michael Hamilton.

"While these were scholarly retreats, it's amazing the ideas that start informally around campfire discussions," she said. "To have the time and space to gather with other people with similar questions is a rare opportunity."

Gee is not sure what attracted her to the James and the Hill. She did not know about the geology, except for her quail research. Gee has learned about the mountain since arriving here. "It's nothing in geologic time," she said.

Gee's presentation will be 6:30 p.m. Saturday, May 21, at the Idyllwild Nature Center. Admission is $4 for adults, $3 for children and free for members of the Friends of the San Jacinto Mountains County Parks. The James Reserve and the Nature Center co-sponsored the four lectures this year.

Health Fair at Sky Island Organics

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Idyllwild's own organic and health-centric emporium, Sky Island Natural Foods, is hosting a health fair.

Owner Michael Wangler urged residents, "Come to Sky Island to meet local health and wellness practitioners from a wide variety of disciplines. Enjoy networking, bodywork, massage, health testing, lifestyle coaching and free samples classes in yoga, martial arts and more."

In addition to the above, practitioners of acupuncture, ayurveda and energy medicine will be available to talk with attendees.

The fair takes place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, May 14, at Sky Island, 54423 Village Center Dr., in the Strawberry Plaza shopping center.

Wangler said private offerings of health service will be provided in the back patio area on a complimentary or donation basis. The first 100 people in the door also will receive a free organic reusable shopping bag. Throughout the day, there will be raffles for hundreds of dollars in prizes.

Oneness Center's grand opening

Shelly Downes created the Spiritual Oneness Center to ensure that all Idyllwildians had a nondenominational and nonjudgmental space that nurtured safe and supportive conversations. It has become a popular place for small workshops and anonymous groups.

As a way of celebrating its success, and to increase awareness of the various programs, workshops and healing modalities being offered, a grand opening celebration is being held from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday, May 15. The free event includes music and finger-foods. The Spiritual Oneness Center is located at 151 Cedar, across from Ferro.

AAI annual judged art show is 'Front and Center'

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild continues its mission of keeping art vitally alive in Idyllwild with its annual judged art show from Friday, May 20, to Sunday, May 22. Appropriately titled "Front and Center," the show features adjudicated art in four categories — 2D, Wearable Art, Photography and Digital Art, and 3D.

Judging the show is Canton, China, native Zimou Tan, art program director at Olivet University in Anza. Internationally acknowledged as a master artist and by the Chinese government as one of the top 50 contemporary Chinese artists, Tan has exhibited widely in the United States. He is skilled in oil, etching, sculpture, print making, bronze jewelry, charcoal and watercolor. Tan said, "Judging [art] is like teaching. Learning is like teaching. They are mutually interacting and no one can know everything about all mediums."

Continuing AAI's partnership with Melody and Chris Johnston's Middle Ridge Winery Tasting Gallery, the "Front and Center" exhibition begins at noon Friday, May 20, and runs until 6 p.m. Saturday. The show is open from noon to 8 p.m. with a reception open to all from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. On closing day, Sunday, May 22, doors are open at the gallery at 54301 North Circle Drive (across from the Rustic) from noon to 6 p.m. The Saturday reception features light appetizers and a no-host bar with Middle Ridge wines. There is no charge for admission to the exhibition and reception, and all displayed art is available for purchase.

On Saturday, AAI promotes Idyllwild's expanding art venue scene with a Gallery and Art Hot Spot tour. Maps leading to 13 unique galleries and art "hot spots" will be available at a kiosk in front of the Middle Ridge host venue from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

As part of the three-day show, there is a second-floor display of "Hidden Gems" of AAI-member art priced between $100 and $150, on the gallery's second floor.

Cartoonist John Marshall exhibit at IAHS

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Cartoonist and Idyllwild character John Marshall eschewed what was politically or socially correct. His book, "Nobody Loves a Fly," featured a label on the front cover: "Warning: Contains Filth!" Some of his iconic cartoons, including many from "Nobody Loves a Fly," are featured in a current exhibit at the Idyllwild Area Historical Society Museum.

Marshall, who died in July 2007, was the featured cartoonist at the Town Crier from 1996 until early 2007. His strip, "For the Hill of It," was devilishly provocative, wickedly funny and absolutely devoid of political correctness.

Marshall contributed cartoons to such disparate publications as Penthouse Magazine and the Los Angeles Times Book Review section.

"I never had an art lesson," said Marshall in a 1996 interview. "I used to get into arguments with teachers all the time about the things I'd draw. I kind of rebelled against them."

Marshall's drawings and sense of humor were quirky. In his book "Chickensh," detectives are seen roughing up a distressed chicken, with the caption reading, "Talk! Why does a chicken cross the road?"

As an example of John Marshall's irreverent sense of humor, his cartoon from his book "Nobody Loves a Fly" shows a man walking into an entomology convention carrying a fly while the hatcheck girl asks, "May I check your fly, sweetie?" PHOTO BY MARSHALL SMITH

Sometimes, well yes, even often, Marshall's work featured characters and situations that were both risqué and ribald.

Marshall also felt passionately about certain issues. He was a peace activist in the late 1960s. He created a one-minute short, "Peace," that protested the protracted Vietnam War. Set against a background of an American flag while a boy whistles "Yankee Doodle Dandy," a baby grows to manhood until gunfire abruptly ends his life, and while blood begins to pool, these words are said, "Eager to be a man, he looks ahead, then war comes and he is dead. Stop it!" The short caught the attention of comedian and anti-war activist Pat Paulsen who wanted to feature it in his tours of college campuses. Paulsen wanted to change the last words from "Stop it!" to "Why?" Marshall refused.

The exhibit is up indefinitely.

The personal touch is just about gone from stores of all kinds these days. One store in Hemet hasn't forgotten what personal service and friendly smiles are all about, though, and we're talking about the GROCERY OUTLET!

Located at 1470 E. Florida Ave., phone 951-766-8819, this "neighborhood grocer" has been helping local people with their food needs for many years, and they've built a business based on personalized service and quality.

SAVE 25% to 40% on Groceries, Deli Items, Frozen Foods, Snacks, Health and Beauty Aids. They also carry fresh produce and milk. Senior Days are the 2nd and 4th Tuesday each month with $3.00 off $25.00 minimum purchase. The frozen food department at the GROCERY OUTLET is regarded as one of the very finest in town, with frozen entrees, vegetables, juices and other frozen food items, especially ice cream!

Darrell and Barbara would like to thank their valued customers for your business and invite you to stop in soon.

Steele takes 14th in Charlotte

BY JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele posted an even-par 72 Sunday in the Wells Fargo Championship at Quail Hollow Country Club in Charlotte, North Carolina, to finish the tournament 3 under par in a tie for 14th place. His round scores were 71-70-72-72 — 285.

It was his sixth top-20 finish in 14 starts this season.

The Idyllwild native now has 530 FedExCup points. He moved up from 59th to 53rd on that list as a result of this tournament and already has virtually assured his playing card for next season.

By virtue of last season's success, Brendan qualified to play in this week's The Players Championship.

often referred to as “the 5th Major,” on the TPC Sawgrass course in Ponte Vedra Beach, Florida. B tees off Thursday at 6:16 a.m. PDT and Friday at 11:21 a.m. PDT. Follow him live, shot-for-shot, on pgatour.com or check with The Town Crier website or app each evening for a summary of Brendan’s rounds.

Quake talk at library

The Friends of the Idyllwild Library will present Kerry Berman, certified interpretive guide, who has extensive knowledge about the geology of the San Jacinto Mountains. Berman will share about the history and geology of the San Andreas, and other California earthquake faults.

Berman was born and raised in Southern California. He spent most of his time after school exploring the San Fernando Arroyo (which has now become Interstate 5) for lizards, snakes, turtles, fossils and anything else of interest.

After a three-year tour in the U.S. Marine Corps (1966-1969), 13 months of which was spent in Vietnam as a radio operator and tunnel rat, he was honorably discharged.

In 2006, Kerry retired and moved to Palm Desert to pursue his passion for exploring nature and offering guided tours to locals and visitors.

The event is from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 18, at the library.

Mental Calculators

Are you good at calculating numbers? Some people are so good they are called mental calculators. They can solve difficult math problems quickly and easily.

Many mental calculators show their talents at a young age, some as early as age 3 and 4. Imagine being able to multiply 653 by 396 in your head in seconds at the age of 4!

Some young mental calculators go on to use their special skills as mathematicians and scientists. Others choose jobs that have nothing to do with math.

Phyllis Curington Brown crafts, creates and presents what is beautiful

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

Phyllis Curington Brown, owner of The Prairie Dove, a perennially popular Idyllwild ladies' boutique, creates what is beautiful and has done so in many forms and iterations.

She has a nuanced and sophisticated perspective, having flown internationally as a flight attendant for TWA for many years and having graduated first in her class from Le Cordon Bleu, Institut d'Arts Culinaires (cooking school), in Paris, France.

Brown is a longtime Idyllwild resident with a business history spanning both fine-apparel boutiques and culinary arts and management.

"My parents owned Soboba Hot Springs in San Jacinto in the '70s but came to Idyllwild after they sold it," she said. "They came because they thought it was so beautiful here. I visited and decided I wanted to raise my daughter Jenny [Kirchner] in this small and beautiful community." Brown was born in Long Beach, grew up in Northridge and lived in New York City for many years.

In 1989, she and her mother opened O'Sullivan's Restaurant (presently Jo-An's Restaurant and Bar). Brown managed it for more than seven years until the family sold it in 1996.

Then, attracted by the idea and the romance, Brown did what many with an artistic bent and disposition do. She went to Paris to attend Cordon Bleu. "I thought, I have to do something, and I loved it," she said. Brown said she lived the Parisian lifestyle — had an apartment, walked to cooking school, and enjoyed the art and cafes that are quintessentially French. "I also studied wine as well as cooking," she recalled. "I liked putting together a creative menu and fashioning a beautiful tablescape — making the dining experience graceful and beautiful, with taste and presentation from a bygone era."

Artist of the boutique and in life, Phyllis Curington Brown is seen here with her much-beloved co-proprietor Dawson. Brown said she creates whimsy and color at her shop, The Prairie Dove.

It is the dream of many to experience the style and sophistication that is uniquely Parisian. Brown said it definitely influenced her taste in fashion.

"After Cordon Bleu, when I returned to Idyllwild, my intention had been to open a French restaurant here," she said. "But I could not find a space."

Instead, using her eye for style and color and her appreciation for beauty, Brown opened her first boutique in The Fort, starting small in a small space. When her current location on North Circle became available, she jumped. "It used to be Kathy's Pastries," said Brown. "My mother, Jenny and I would always dine on this patio in front of the shop. This was the place I really had wanted to have as a restaurant but an intervening owner had removed all the kitchen equipment and had made it into a retail shop.

"The look here at Prairie Dove has evolved over 20 years. I call it whimsical, artistic, playful, comfortable and fashion forward. Sometimes I'm ahead of trends. I bring in things that wind up being trendy two years later."

Brown said she attends Market Week in Los Angeles every three months, staying two or three days to attend shows of fashion lines and to shop for Prairie Dove.

"Something will catch my eye and I'll go into a show I've never attended before," she related. "I'm always looking for something to excite the ladies."

Her shop is colorful with touches of whimsy in how things are displayed. "My display philosophy is almost like painting a picture," she said. "It's like entertaining, creating an attractive and appealing experience. I use Jenny's Steiff collection (Teddy bears and stuffed animals) and antique dolls in building displays," she said. "It's romantic, fun and playful — it's me!"

Brown also is a mainstay of the Idyllwild Master Chorale, having first joined the chorale after auditioning for the summer musical "Nunsense." Actually, she didn't intend to audition for the musical. She just accompanied Jenny who was there to take pictures for the Town Crier. "They asked me to sing, I did and I got the part," said Brown.

Of all she does, grounded in the love of beauty, what is a keystone of her life is her spiritual practice. "I found the Church of Religious Science, took classes and went all the way through ministerial training to become a practitioner. It's what I did in my spare time," she said as she smiled.

"This Idyllwild is our beautiful island. There needs to be more sharing of the beauty we have here."

--Jeff, Jamul

A. Keep it long and tuck it into your undershirt. That way you can kind of blouse it out as long as you want for any occasion.

Q. I'm retirement age. I bought a bunch of cheap shirts on sale, about two dozen of them. But the first time I washed them they shrunk up so much I can't tuck them in my pants anymore. What can I do?

CREATURE CORNER

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "The Days of Our Nine Lives," MJ the Chihuahua was telling the cats about her perfect-pet qualities.

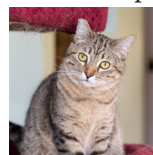

Olivia: MJ, we all agree that you are adorable, but you just might be knocked off your pedestal very soon.

Olivia

tain Sunday.

Olivia: I hope it works out for Mishka.

Bobbie

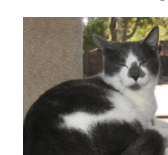

He's an awesome husky.

Heavenly Whiskers: The kittens are coming! The kittens are coming!

Bobbie: Oh, terrific. There goes my peace and

MJ

Heavenly Whiskers

quiet.

MJ: Ah, so that's who you think will knock me off of my perfect pedestal.

Olivia: Yep. Five adorable kittens will be showing up this week, and they're pretty spoiled.

London: How are they spoiled? Aren't all ARF cats spoiled? We're all treated very well, you know.

Heavenly Whiskers: For weeks they have been bottle-fed by some very dedicated ARF volunteers, namely Janet and Bonnie.

Bobbie: Even better: spoiled kittens. Kittens always get the attention, but these have demanded more attention than any of us have.

London

London: Bobbie, it's not their fault. They had no mommy to feed them. It's a good thing ARF was here to help.

MJ: I guess now ARF will have to get them ready to join forever families.

Heavenly Whiskers: They'll probably be adopted pretty quickly, once they're ready. They're super cute.

Olivia: Once again, do I need to remind people how cute I am? Kittens-schmittens. I'm not even a year old.

MJ: And how about this Chihuahua? I will keep a lap warm just as well as any cat.

Will Bobbie learn to love the kittens? Will Mishka leave ARF this weekend with a forever family? Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "The Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243, Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appointment M-F by calling 951-659-1122.

Creature Corner is sponsored by Idyllwild Vacation Rentals and Nugget the office dog.

Donate blood in May

During Trauma Awareness Month in May, the American Red Cross urges eligible donors to give blood and help ensure a sufficient supply for patient emergencies.

Donors of all blood types are needed. Every day, the Red Cross must collect about 14,000 blood donations to meet the needs of trauma patients and others with serious medical conditions.

Schedule your appointment to give blood by downloading the free Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting redcrossblood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). Donors may then also visit redcrossblood.org/cedarfair to enter to win one of two grand-prize packages for four to Knott's Berry Farm in California or Cedar Point in Ohio.

A blood drive is happening from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Monday, May 16, in Anza at Hamilton High School, 57430 Mitchell Road.

Past Tense

65 years ago - 1951

The Lions Club was making plans to construct a children's playground adjacent to Town Hall.

60 years ago - 1956

It was Civil Defense Week on the Hill. Local stores were displaying emergency supplies and residents were asked to learn about being prepared for an emergency.

55 years ago - 1961

Rodney Welch revealed plans for a major development on the Banning-Idyllwild Highway. He owned about 1,000 acres in the Stone Creek area. The "town" was to be known as Alandale Pines (now called Stone Creek).

50 years ago - 1966

State game manager Bonnar Blong reported the local deer population was making a slow gain after the severe 1960-61 drought, which claimed about 75 percent of the animals.

45 years ago - 1971

David Hunt Sr. assumed management of the Rustic Theatre. Admission prices were $1.50 for adults, $1 for students and 75 cents for children.

In June 1976, Idyllwild Elementary School awarded Hillbilly certificates to students who had attended the school from kindergarten through seventh grade. Recipients that year were (back row, from left) Shelly Rondeau, Cynthia Peters, Jeni McCaghren and Teri Leih; (front row, from left) Lino Gonzalez, Steve Grewe, Brian Benson and David Arnaiz. Bruce Adams, school board representative from this area, is shown in the back row at far right.

40 years ago - 1976

Demolition of Idyllwild's landmark Carriage Inn began.

35 years ago - 1981

Hillcrest Market in Strawberry Creek Square was advertising avocados for 25 cents each, bananas for 29 cents a pound and frozen meat pies at four for $1.

30 years ago - 1986

Founded by part-time Pine Cove resident Judi Sheppard Missett, Jazzercise classes were started in Idyllwild.

25 years ago - 1991

About 100 Garner Valley residents attended a meeting with developer Jeff Dennis at the proposed construction site of a 156-room lodge and a 200-space recreational vehicle park at the southern end of Garner Valley.

20 years ago - 1996

It was announced that the Idyllwild Arts Academy was offering a film-making major through a new department called the Department of Moving Pictures.

15 years ago - 2001

A new grass-roots organization was created on the Hill — the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council.

10 years ago - 2006

At a packed Chamber meeting, community members voiced heated opinions about whether the Chamber should continue managing Town Hall recreation. The Idyllwild Community Recreation Council was vying for the opportunity.

5 years ago - 2011

The ICRC Playground was placed on hold due to lack of a Conditional Use Permit. Special permits requiring a certain distance from the highway and the use of the playground caused some difficulty for ICRC staff.

1 year ago - 2015

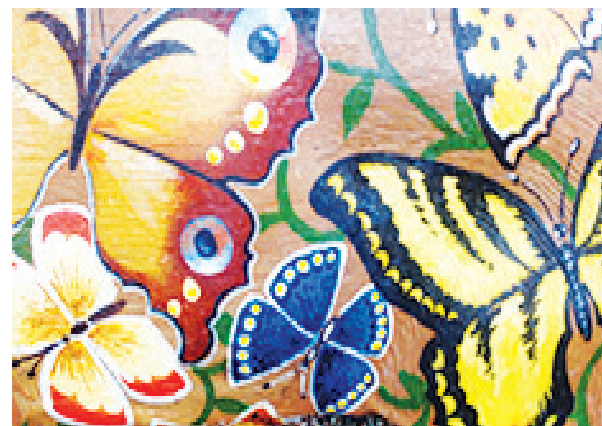

A spring snowstorm surprised residents of the Hill as 3 inches of snow covered the mountain near town, and more for those residents living at higher elevations. Pine Cove received 5 inches of snow, bringing on historic averages of rainfall and snow to the Hill for the first time in decades.

So You Think You Know the Hill?

BY JACK CLARK
CONTEST JUDGE

Three entrants correctly identified the entrance to Woodland Park Manor on South Circle Drive in last week's photo: Marsha Kennedy, Chris Morse and Merrie VonSeggern. Katy Kirkpatrick pulled Chris' name out of the hat, so he wins two tickets to the Rustic Theatre. Please come get 'em at the Town Crier office. This week's photo is gorgeous. Where have you seen this?

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

HOROSCOPES
May 2016 — Week 2

March 21 – April 19

Sheesh, Aries. How many times must you say it? A lot. Keep talking until someone finally listens. A letter provides clarification on a legal matter.

April 20 – May 20

You can't win, Taurus. Shift your efforts elsewhere. A home improvement project could use input from a pro. A contract is renewed.

May 21 – June 21

Stop it, Gemini. You're splitting hairs, and you know it. Focus on the big picture and be grateful for all that has been done. A review is completed.

June 22 – July 22

The terms of a deal change, making you question your participation. Hang in there, Cancer. The rewards are coming. A crude joke breaks the tension at work.

July 23 – August 22

Leniency is sometimes to be admired. Give a little, Leo. A new do provides a much- needed lift for a senior. Questions at home remain unanswered.

August 23 – September 22

A friend is in a fix, and you have the means to help. But, do you want to, Virgo? Go with what your heart tells you. A deadline is extended.

September 23 – October 22

Creativity is at an all- time high, and you have no choice but to finish up some projects at home. The pieces begin to come together at work. Who knew, Libra?

October 23 – November 21

The chase is on at work. Come on, Scorpio. You can do it! A new face brings a fresh perspective to an old problem. The solution is at hand.

November 22 – December 21

Ooh-la-la, Sagittarius. Someone pays you a compliment and gets the home fires burning. A milestone is reached at work. Let the celebration begin!

December 22 – January 19

Spring brings loads of things to do outside. Take your pick, Capricorn. A teen challenges you. Don't back down. A health crisis is resolved with a new treatment.

January 20 – February 18

Mind over matter, Aquarius. Push through, and success will be yours. A glaring error is corrected in your favor. Show your appreciation with a homemade treat.

February 19 – March 20

You wish, Pisces. You know the person in question is unreliable, so why trust them with something so important? Look to an acquaintance instead.

Public Notices

Legals • Doing Business As

For questions about Public Notices call the Town Crier
(951) 659-2145 or Email: Katy@towncrier.com

Every day throughout the United States, newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals, families, neighborhoods and businesses. Public notices cover many topics, including business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, local government finances and state and local elections. Public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

Obituary Philip "Scott" Scheid 1946-2016

Philip Scott "Scott" Scheid, 69, went to heaven on Sunday, April 24, 2016, after battling pancreatic cancer for 22 months.

He was born to Philip and B.J. Scheid on June 24, 1946, in Madison, Wisconsin.

He is survived by his loving wife of 33 years, Hazel Burnside Scheid, and five siblings: sisters Suzie, Pam and Barb, and brothers Rick and Bruce.

He was an avid reader who loved to write and play songs on his guitars, care for his wife and watch college basketball. He had several jobs after being honorably discharged from the Army in March 1969.

His last job for several years was at South Bay Cable Company as shipping manager in Idyllwild. Services were held Monday, May 9 at Riverside National Cemetery.

40th Wedding Anniversary Carol & David Jones

A surprise 40th wedding anniversary party was held for long-time Idyllwild residents David and Carol Jones.

David and Carol were married on May 1, 1976, in a beautiful meadow at Idyllwild Arts.

The party was put on by their five children. Mike and Shana VanZee, Jeff and Stacey VanZee, Justin and Denise Jones, Meghan and Hal Carey, Jenny and Ben Lozano and their 11-1/2 grandchildren, who all wanted to celebrate this amazing accomplishment.

Thank you to all who came to this special occasion.

authority has yet to be established.

Not only do the job applications have to be submitted by the deadline of May 20, but applicants must meet "minimum requirements of the Idyllwild San Jacinto Regional Fire Authority Rules and Regulations," which do not yet exist.

Reitz explained that the plan is being drafted so that it can be implemented if the city and district approve. "Once they accept it, we have to flip the switch," he said.

Currently, he anticipates that one station will immediately be staffed. Over time, the JPA staff will work with the JPA board to provide a larger fire service to San Jacinto, whose population is more than 45,000 people.

The release specifically said the fire and EMS services would be provided to San Jacinto and did not identify what benefits would accrue to Idyllwild.

"Idyllwild will get cost savings from the shared administration costs," Reitz said. For example, his salary as the likely chief of the JPA would be shared between IFPD and the JPA.

California's smoking age 21 in June

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Gov. Jerry Brown signed legislation raising the legal age to smoke in California from 18 to 21 years. The exception is active-duty military personnel who may smoke at age 18.

On Wednesday, May 4, Brown signed five new bills that all affect smoking within the state and become effective June 9. Other bills address regulation of e-cigarettes, smoke-free workplaces, school properties and licensing fees for distributing tobacco products.

Brown did veto the bill authorizing cities and counties to impose their own tobacco tax. In his veto message, Brown wrote, "Although California has one of the lowest cigarette tax rates in the nation, I am reluctant to approve this measure in view of all the taxes being proposed for the 2016 ballot."

"Tobacco companies know that people are more likely to become addicted to smoking if they start at a young age," said Sen. Dr. Ed Hernandez, who sponsored the bill to raise the age for legal smoking. "We can no longer afford to sit on the sidelines while big tobacco markets to our kids and gets another generation of young people hooked on a product that will ultimately kill them."

Nine in 10 smokers take up the habit by age 18, according to the American Lung Association in California, and 36,000 California kids start smoking each year.

The bill raising the age to legally purchase tobacco products also establishes a $75 fine or 30 hours of community service for persons under age 18 who purchase, receive or possess tobacco products.

The workplace smoking prohibitions are now extended to owner-operated businesses. The owner must be the only employee with no independent contractors or volunteers.

Also, the current provision, which allows smoking in 65 percent of guest rooms in hotels, motels or similar lodging, has been reduced to 20 percent of rooms in which smoking maybe permitted.

A state Department of Public Health report stated e-cigarette aerosol contains at least 10 chemicals on California's Proposition 65 list of chemicals known to cause cancer, birth defects or other reproductive harm. Consequently, DPH recommended that "[e]xisting laws that currently protect minors and the general public from traditional tobacco products should be extended to cover e-cigarettes." SBX2 5 will do exactly this by including e-cigarettes within California's smoke-free laws.

"The e-cigarette is nothing more than a new delivery system for toxic and addictive nicotine," said Sen. Mark Leno, (D-San Francisco), who authored the e-cigarette bill. "Ensuring that e-cigarettes fall under California's comprehensive smoke-free laws is critical to protecting public health, especially given the alarming rate at which young people are picking up these devices."

Hurkey Creek Bridge replacement completed

Only landscaping remains unfinished

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

In 2012, Caltrans announced plans to replace the Hurkey Creek Bridge, a 1930s-era relic deemed too narrow for today's larger and higher-speed vehicles.

The $2.5 million project widened the bridge from 23 to 43.5 feet and lengthened the span from 34.1 to 50 feet. One-way traffic, controlled by traffic lights in both directions, was in effect during construction that began in April of last year and wrapped last month with completion of the bridge structure.

According to Caltrans Public Information Officer Joy Schneider, all that remains to be completed is landscaping, final striping and removing all construction fencing and signs in the area. Schneider noted the landscaping portion of the project should be completed in May 2017.

on a common problem, fund a project or act as a representative body for a specific activity, "joint powers" are being exercised.

When contacted by the Town Crier for comment, attorney Niki Moore, an attorney for the California Newspaper Publishers Association, opined that for two existing public entities simply to come together at a joint meeting with an already fully-formed concept of a joint powers authority, without having held open public meetings of their own to broach the matter to their public, "files in the face of the Brown Act."

Moore said that a reasonable interpretation of the Brown Act would require that each agency hold a separate public meeting, allowing for citizen comments, before holding a joint meeting to finalize the formation of the new joint powers authority.

Grand jury reports on registrar's operation of polling sites

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Late last month, a Riverside County grand jury report raised concerns over the how the county's Registrar of Voters manages polling places. After observing operations at several polling places during the November 2015 election and reviewing voting material, the grand jury released its report at the end of April. The Registrar of Voters has until July 26 to respond to the report.

Concerns include the accuracy of the polling sites' addresses. For three out of seven sites, the material distributed with their location had an incorrect address.

The grand jury also felt the training for poll workers was occasionally inadequate and inconsistent.

Other issues the grand jury referred to the registrar for comment and correction included the accessibility kit, security seals and accessible voting units.

For example, in one precinct the accessible voting unit, which provides audio for voters with visual problems, was still in storage.

The report recommended that the poll workers assigned to sites have different levels of experience to ensure that not all the workers at some sites are inexperienced. It also recommended improved training for configuring polling equipment.

Moore also said that she cannot fathom that the administrative heads (Chief Reitz and City Attorney Hults) could have come together to formalize job requirements, applications, and application deadlines, without advanced approval from their respective boards, which would require open meetings. And to obtain board approval for their joint powers authority negotiations outside of open meetings would itself constitute a violation of the Brown Act.
