Easter comes early; could be a chilly one

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Easter Sunday comes early this year, on April 16. For those attending the sunrise service at Inspiration Point, it could be chilly. The service, from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m., is jointly sponsored by the Community Presbyterian Church, Cross Road 243 and the Idyllwild Bible Church. It is held each year at one of the most beautiful places in Idyllwild — Inspiration Point at the end of Double View Drive. Everyone, regardless of denomination, is welcome to attend.

Attendees are advised to dress warmly and bring lawn chairs. In case of inclement weather, the service will not be held but Easter services will follow at local churches at the regular times. Check church websites and ads in this edition for Easter-week church service times.

Easter Sunday is the culmination of Lent and Holy Week, beginning with Palm Sunday on April 9 and continuing with Maundy or Holy Thursday, April 13. Holy Thursday commemorates the Last Supper or Christ's Passover Feast with his disciples. On Friday, April 14, local churches observe Good Friday, remembering Christ's crucifixion, passion and death, followed by Easter services celebrating Jesus' resurrection.

At 10 a.m. Saturday, April 15, Idyllwild's traditional Easter Egg Hunt will be held at the Idyllwild Community Center site. Hunts will be held for age categories toddler to 3 years old; 4 to 6 years old; 7 to 9 years old; 10 years and up; and anyone brave enough to admit to being "over the Hill." Those finding a "special" egg will receive a basketful of goodies. There also will be an Easter Bonnet contest, and all festivities will be overseen by the Easter Bunny. The annual Hunt is sponsored by ICC and local businesses: Candy Cupboard, Café Aroma, Ferro, Fratello's, Gastrognome, Idyllwild Bake Shop & Brew, Idyology, Idyllwild Pizza, La Casita, Lumber Mill and Red Kettle.

On Easter Sunday, the American Legion will welcome all who wish to attend to an Easter Brunch from noon to 2 p.m. Attendees are asked to bring a side dish. A kid's drawing for Easter baskets and gifts will be held at 2 p.m. and there also will be an adult basket raffle.

Fulfilling Idyllwild's reputation as a town of art and art happenings, galleries and art "hot spots" will be open as well as many local restaurants, wine bars and beer pubs. Each year, Idyllwild's reputation as a fine-dining destination grows.

For locals and tourists, there will be much to celebrate on this celebratory weekend.

Hemet now has a cardiac lab

Coronary operations expected to follow by end of year

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Wednesday, April 5, the Hemet Valley Medical Center dedicated its new cardiac catheterization lab. The cath lab is a room to examine how well your heart is functioning. With the new equipment, the hospital's doctors will be able to perform angioplasty, balloon septostomy electrophysiology studies and several other heart procedures.

"By the end of 2017, we will have a cardiac vascular operating room operating," said Dan McLaughlin, the hospital chief executive officer.

Procedures such as implanting a pacemaker or stenotic heart valves can now be done at the HVMC. Once the operation room is available, open heart surgeries can be done at the hospital, according to McLaughlin.

The cath lab cost $8.6 million and has been open for several weeks. Once the cardiac-vascular operation room is available, McLaughlin anticipates that HVMC will become a STEMI clinic capable of receiving serious heart attack victims.

"Residents will no longer travel out of town for any type of heart attack," McLaughlin told the crowd at the dedication ceremony.

Dr. Anil K. Rastogi, medical director of the Cardiac Catheterization Laboratory, reinforced McLaughlin's promise. "I'm happy to

State lifts drought emergency restrictions

State prepares long-term water conservation plan

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Friday, April 7, Gov. Jerry Brown rescinded the state of emergency caused by the statewide drought, which he declared in January 2014. The emergency conditions were lifted for all but four counties — Fresno, Kings, Tulare and Tuolumne.

In his press release, Brown said, "This drought emergency is over, but the next drought could be around the corner. Conservation must remain a way of life."

The Executive Order B-40-17 maintains water reporting requirements and prohibitions on wasteful practices, such as watering during or right after rainfall.

The State Water Resources Control Board will maintain urban water use reporting requirements and prohibitions on wasteful practices such as watering during or after rainfall, hosing off sidewalks and irrigating ornamental turf on public street medians, according to the release.

Also, the order maintains that the state will continue its work to develop a statewide response to the bark-beetle outbreak in drought-stressed forests that has killed millions of trees across California.

Brown's action had been anticipated after one of the wettest winters on record. Already, Pine Cove has received 37 inches of rain, nearly 50 percent more than the long-term annual average.

Besides the winter precipitation, Californians statewide have made significant water reduction. Last week, the SWRCB also reported that statewide water conservation was 25 percent in February, more than double the February 2016 savings.

The governor's decision will have some, but not a major, effect

One of the final speakers was Dr. Kali Chaudhuri, chairman and chief executive officer of the Physicians for Healthy Hospitals, which acquired both HVMC and the Menifee Hospital in 2010.

Describing his goal during the effort to acquire the hospitals, Chaudhuri said, “What I decided to do was not complain about what’s wrong in the community. I said, ‘Let’s do something.’”

While the cardiac center is the newest addition to the hospital, HVMC has been growing for several years. Chaudhuri is proud of the investment and the changes underway at HVMC. The new Day Surgery facility, radiation oncology, reopening of a Skilled Nursing Facility, and improvement to the laparoscopic and CT scanning equipment are all relatively new additions to the hospital’s services

A medical residency and post-graduate resident program was initiated two years ago. McLaughlin said he expects the establishment of a medical school associated with the hospital is a few years in the future.

Other new planned capabilities include a Level 3 trauma center, certified stroke center, wound care center, behavioral health unit and a senior housing community. The emergency department revamping also is in progress, along with the sub-acute unit expansion.

Snow group proposes government snow-play area

BY BECKY CLARK
EDITOR

Despite daffodils and lilacs blooming all over the Hill, some residents aren't willing to let go of winter — at least when it comes to talk of recreational snow visitors.

Marsha Kennedy is leading a group of grassroots volunteers, mostly residing in the area of Fern Valley Road which has been heavily impacted by off-Hill snow visitors over the past two winters. Residents have experienced “tons of safety issues,” as Kennedy put it at a public meeting before about 25 people Saturday at the Nature Center. These issues range from illegal parking to trespassing to rude and bullying behavior.

Over the past few months, the snow group has produced a mission statement and investigated solutions to the issue of Idyllwild and surrounding areas not having the resources to accommodate the hundreds of people who have now discovered the Hill during winter.

Emergency vehicles being able to get through to a residence, residents' liabilities if a snow visitor gets hurt on their property and possible violent confrontations with trespassers all were discussed at the meeting. “They can sue you if they get hurt, even if they are 99 percent responsible,” said Kennedy, after explaining California's Pure Comparative Negligence Standard. “So, we have a high motivation to get people off our property.”

“I guarantee I will sue if an emergency vehicle cannot get up if I have an emergency. I will,” said one man in the audience.

Kennedy said the California Highway Patrol commander in San Bernardino urges residents to not be confrontational with trespassers or illegal parkers. Instead, ask them to leave. If they do not, don't say, “I'm going to call the police.” Just go call 911. “Remember,” Kennedy said, “they may not do anything to you now but they know where you live.”

But even if you call 911, who will come? Idyllwild Fire Chief Patrick Reitz told the audience that CHP sent two extra officers up here one of the weekends. “They can't keep doing that unless someone pays for it,” he said.

So, what is the solution? Kennedy said her group is asking the U.S. Forest Service to change Humber Park's name to Humber Park Trailhead because the name “park” implies a place to park and play in the snow. And then post signs that say “Snow Parking and Snow Play Prohibited; Humber Park Closed.” But post them not only at the park but down on the highway and six places throughout Idyllwild. That way, visitors will not even venture up Fern Valley Road, they hope.

Kennedy said the belief that merchants weren't complaining because they were “making a killing” is a misconception. The snow group surveyed more than 25 percent of merchants and learned that the ones who did best were coffee shops, candy stores and convenience stores.

Restaurants had increases but not across the board. Many of the snow visitors came in large groups who could not be accommodated. Some ordered a cup of cocoa just so they could use the restroom.

“Some shops closed,” she said. “Real estate tanked. Increased theft was noted.” At one grocery store, no one was buying but the restroom lines were long. Toilets backed up and someone even defecated on a restroom floor. “There were no grins on faces after they left us,” she added.

She called the situation “an endless and irreversible force.”

The group has approached Mountain Community Patrol to put warnings on people's windshields that they are illegally parked. But they are wary to get involved because of liability issues.

They approached Bill Tell of WNKI-1600 AM, who is working on ideas involving scrolling LED signs directing people to snow play areas. Idyllwild Community Center's Janice Lyle told the group that 145 parking spaces will be available at the site in June of 2018 on over 5 acres of property.

The group has talked to people in Big Bear, Julian and Forest Falls, which has an even bigger challenge in that it is in a cul-de-sac. The community of only 1,200 was able to get a sheriff's office in their town. But Reitz pointed out that Riverside County is planning cuts to law enforcement right now that will affect the rural areas. “Law enforcement is on the chopping block,” he said.

Reitz did not poo-poo the group's efforts, however. “Patience and persistence,” he said. He also suggested expanding one of the County Service Areas to include law enforcement or vote in a new CSA to fund increased law enforcement.

Kennedy's group is proposing a long-term solution of a snow play area at a 6,000-foot elevation on either county, state or federal land. It would have parking, bathrooms, trash cans and even food concessions.

She researched past Town Criers and discovered that in 1971, the Riverside County Board of Supervisors approved the Idyllwild County Park as a play area.

For the time being, she said the Mt. San Jacinto State Park superintendent has agreed to allow snow visitors to play at the park. The group is working to get signs directing snow visitors to Mt. San Jacinto State Park, Idyllwild County Park and the Nature Center.

Nature Center Park Interpreter Amanda Allen said she walked around the Nature Center during the snow weeks talking with visitors and handing out trash bags. She said she would welcome volunteers to help do the same. “I had luck walking around with an educational vs. enforcement approach and that helped,” she said.

“The alternative,” Kennedy said, “is to continue to tolerate the recreational snow visitor issue and prepare for far-reaching consequences.”

However, the populations in the surrounding areas are growing and will continue to grow. Hemet was predicted to grow 61 percent between 2005 and 2035; Riverside County, 72 percent. And Banning and Coachella Valley were not better, Kennedy pointed out in a PowerPoint display.

So, the group is not giving up. Future tasks include a law enforcement officer at the chains required sign at the bottom of the Hill; meeting of Idyllwild business owners; a media campaign telling off-Hill residents “we do not have what you want up here”; more signage.

During a question-and-answer session, Annamarie Padula of the Pine Cove Property Owners Association said their group is purchasing new trespassing signs with the Penal Code in English and Spanish for PCPOA members. But Marge Muir of Pine Cove said, “What is the image you're creating? Be careful. Too many people found us, that's the problem.”

One woman complained about her friends voting for Idyllwild as a Top 10 town. “Why do that? You're creating a problem,” she said.

At the back of the room, people signed up to volunteer in the group.

“We hope we can accomplish things,” said Kennedy. “The history of Idyllwild shows that we get things done by collaboration of many rather than the leadership of a few.”

Mission Statement

“Our purpose is to gain commitments from Federal, State, and County agencies to implement actions during snow events that foster Idyllwild area residents' property rights and safety.”

Funding campaign raises money for Julia Romero

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Julia Romero, 17, is an Idyllwild resident and an honor student at Hemet High School. She also has been a star runner on her school's girl's track team.

Julia was severely injured in a car crash on Friday, March 31 on Highway 243 just north of Franklin Drive. The collision is reported to have been caused by another driver who crossed over double-yellow lines and collided head-on with the car Julia was driving, according to a California Highway Patrol report. The suspected DUI incident is under investigation.

Both of Julia's legs were broken in the crash, and one leg has a fractured femur that will need extensive surgery. She has broken ribs on one side of her body, and initial CHP reports also listed a punctured lung.

Brianna Pena has started an online GoFundMe campaign (www.gofundme.com/getting-julia-back-on-track) to raise $6,000 to allow Julia's mother to be at her side in the hospital and help defray medical bills for Julia's major surgical procedures.

A Healthcare Heuristic ...

I am deviating from my plan to write more about the history of healthcare and the U.S. government because of Saturday's Campaign for Guaranteed Healthcare rallies, and offer this attempt to guide thinking about solving the problem of healthcare. I believe the conclusion follows logically from the statements, but you might reach a different conclusion if you don't agree with an item. If so, please write. We need to develop an informed electorate who communicates with our representatives; dialogue is one way to get there.

- No one can afford to be sick in America (well, almost no one).
- Therefore, if I get sick, someone who is healthy must pay for it (sorry, this means that men need to pay for maternity care, and women need to pay for prostate exams — we are not paying for our own care).
- The most cost-effective way for someone else to pay for it is for everyone else to pay for it.
- Insurance companies, even the so-called not-for-profit ones, make money by denying care, unlike Medicare, whose sole purpose is to pay for healthcare. Why should shareholders profit from illness?
- Although Americans do not like being told what to do by the government, why do we have less problem being told what to do by United Healthcare, Cigna, BC/BS and other companies we don't vote for. Nevertheless, Medicare is extremely popular (77 percent in a recent poll) and paying for healthcare with a payroll tax works well. (An estimate for Medicare-for-All puts that tax at 3.3 percent, much lower than the 7 to 12 percent businesses spend when they provide health insurance).
- Americans change jobs about every four years. Tying health insurance to employment no longer makes sense.
- Healthcare is too expensive and costs are rising too quickly so regulation of costs is necessary. Cutting out the middleman (there are almost twice as many health-insurance workers as physicians in the U.S.), negotiating drug and other prices, and shifting care away from the emergency rooms and hospitals will cut $243 billion from healthcare costs.
- Having a single system will improve data collection so we will have a better idea about what works, what doesn't and what it costs. Science-driven medicine is better medicine.
- Improved Medicare-for-All, the only rational solution, is not socialized medicine and it would not limit choice of physician, hospital or other provider. The government would not be in charge of your healthcare, just in charge of paying for it.

More history next time; imagine what President Nixon proposed!

Legislature ratifies road-repair revenue plan

Governor will sign bill

By JP CRUMRINE
News Editor

It only took one week, after announcing an agreement to finance major repair and maintenance of California's road and highway systems, for the Legislature to enact Senate Bill 1 on Thursday night.

Over the next 10 years, SB 1 will generate annually about $5.2 billion in new revenue. All these funds will be for road and highway-construction maintenance.

The sources of the new funds will be a combination of a 12-cent gasoline tax increase, a 20-cent increase in diesel excise tax, a 5.75-percent increase of the diesel sales taxes, a fee on a car's valuation and a $100 fee for zero-emission cars.

The gasoline tax will be effective Nov. 1, 2017. The zero-emission vehicle fee will start July 1, 2020.

These revenue increases required at least a two-thirds majority of both houses for the bill to pass. The Senate voted 27-11, and the Assembly passed the bill 54-26.

The new revenue measures are estimated to cost the average vehicle owner about $10 a month.

While Gov. Jerry Brown and legislative leaders were happy with the results, some who opposed the new taxes expressed disappointment with additional taxes. One of these was local Sen. Jeff Stone.

"Senate Bill 1 hurts the working poor and middle class families, the very people Democrats in the Legislature always say they are trying to protect," he said in a press release after the vote. "Yes, our roads are falling apart. Yes, our streets need repair.

If this Legislature simply had the courage to use money that we collect from our taxpayers to pay for the programs we promised the people that money would be spent on, we wouldn't be in this position."

Riverside County will be a beneficiary of the new road funds. Sen. Richard Roth, a Riverside Democrat, was unsure how he would vote on SB 1. But after several meetings with the governor and the bill's sponsors, Roth eventually supported the bill.

After its passage, he and Assembly member Sabrina Cervantes (D-Corona), released the following statement, "For too long, Sacramento has failed to provide Inland Southern California with the resources we deserve. Though this was a difficult vote, the cost of our region not getting its fair share is too high. That is why we went to the table to ensure Inland Southern California's needs are represented with the vigor and dedication they deserve."

The negotiations resulted in an agreement of funding for the following Riverside County highway projects:

- Highway 91/Interstate 15 North Connector: $180 million
- I-15/Limonite Interchange: $48 million
- McKinley Grade Separation: $84.45 million

Also, the governor will support legislation to reimburse the cities of Eastvale, Jurupa Valley, Menifee and Wildomar for the vehicle license fee funding, which has been denied them for several years.

Workshops for caregivers

Good news for family and friends who are caring for older adults with Alzheimer's and other chronic conditions: support is on the way.

A new series of the Riverside County Office on Aging's Care Pathways program begins in October in Murrieta, Hemet, Corona, and multiple locations throughout the Coachella Valley.

The series of 12 weekly workshops offers information and support to family caregivers who face challenges managing their care giving responsibilities for a family member, 60 years of age or older. Classes are offered in both English and Spanish.

Workshops cover Living with Dementia, Preventing Caregiver Burnout, Managing Medications, Talking to the Doctor, Understanding Legal Issues, Stress Prevention, Communicating in Challenging Situations and more.

To register for the free workshops, call the office at 951-867-3800 or 800-510-2020.

Home care can be arranged for the care recipient; request respite assistance at the time of registration.

Protect yourself from fraud

The Riverside County Code Enforcement Department offers several tips to protect yourself from fraud.

Verify any employee of a government agency or public utility before providing them with personal information or access to your property.

Code Enforcement Officers:

- always wear uniforms
- always carry a photo identification card
- always drive a clearly marked vehicle
- always allow you to verify their identity
- never request or accept money

The best practice for verifying the identity of an employee of a government agency or public utility is to find the phone number of the agency by using a telephone directory or web site and call that number to verify the employee. You should not ask the employee what number to call. Make sure you are calling a published number for that agency.

To verify a Riverside County Code Enforcement officer, visit www.rctlma.org/ce or call 951-955-2004 to obtain the telephone number for your local office.

ment resources are on the road, the fire communication dispatcher will then ask a series of questions related to the specific emergency you are experiencing. This questioning allows the dispatcher to give life-saving directions to help the patient and update the paramedics on the way to your emergency. In time-critical emergencies, these seconds and minutes can save a life. It is important to stay calm, answer all questions and follow all directions given by the dispatcher.

Several years ago, California adopted the Enhanced 911 or E911, which automatically provides geolocation information from your phone line. Wireless or cellular services also are required to provide emergency dispatch services with geolocation information from a cellular device. As such, the emergency dispatchers can closely determine the exact location of a reported problem. Still, we must also ask reporting parties to confirm their address.

Please make sure you know how to use 911. If you even suspect you are having or an emergency exists, immediately phone 911. We want to help you as soon as is possible. Knowing what to expect and understanding the 911 system eliminates "siren anxiety".

Since the first 911 call placed in 1968, developers have been researching the most efficient and effective format to assist the public in saving life, property and the environment. The Riverside County Fire ECC takes pride in assisting our community by using these strategies and techniques developed to get help to where you are quickly.

Much credit for this article is due to the personnel of the ECC at Perris. They make us proud every day.

Single-vehicle crash last week

A San Jacinto man crashed his vehicle into a guard-rail last week.

According to the California Highway Patrol, at 5:05 a.m. Friday, April 7, Shane White, 36, of San Jacinto, was driving his black 2011 Ford Fiesta westbound on Highway 74, two-tenths of a mile east of South Fork Trail, when he made an unsafe turning movement.

The responding CHP officer’s report noted that White related he had reached over to get food from his passenger. When he realized he had run onto the shoulder and was about to hit a guardrail, White said he swerved to the left, crossed to the other side of the highway and collided with the guardrail on the left.

Neither White nor his passenger were injured in the crash and no other vehicles were involved.

Daniel Ellis pleads guilty to possessing stolen property

32-month state prison sentence imposed

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Daniel Ellis, 24, of Mountain Center, pleaded guilty to a felony charge of receiving a stolen Kawasaki motorcycle. He was sentenced to two years and eight months in state prison.

Ellis was arrested in October and had several subsequent arrests, including one Jan. 9, also for possession of a stolen Kawasaki Ninja motorcycle, before pleading guilty on Monday, April 3.

Besides the August charge, Ellis also pleaded guilty to two other separate felony arrests and charges, including the January arrest, and a December misdemeanor for vandalism.

For the original arrest, Judge Mark Mandio sentenced Ellis to state prison for 32 months. For the other convictions, he was sentenced to two separate 16-month terms, which are to be served concurrently with the longer term. For the vandalism conviction, Mandio imposed a 32-day sentence; but Ellis was credited for the time he spent in jail awaiting trial and no additional incarceration was necessary.

Checking for ID theft of a child

The Federal Trade Commission advises: Any parent or guardian of a child knows the milestones that come with turning 16 – learning to drive, maybe dating, or thinking about college. But now, there’s one more: checking their credit report.

But my kids don’t have a credit card, house or car. Why should I check their credit report?

Because somebody else could be using your child’s personal information. Once a child’s — or anyone’s — Social Security number is stolen, it can be used by identity thieves.

Checking to see if your child has a credit history, and then thoroughly reviewing it when they turn 16, can help you spot signs of identity theft. If you find false or inaccurate information, you’ll have time to correct it before your child applies for a job, a loan for college or a car, or tries to get a credit card or a place to live.

Generally, children won’t have credit reports unless someone is using their information for fraud.

What if my child has a credit report with incorrect or false information? Visit IdentityTheft.gov/child to report the problem and follow the steps outlined to resolve it.

McKinney pleads guilty to one felony drug charge

Also, two misdemeanor guilty pleas

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Since the beginning of February, Dwight McKinney, 53, of Mountain Center has been arrested four times. Each arrest was based on drug-related charges, both misdemeanors and felonies.

On Tuesday, April 4, he pleaded guilty to three separate charges. Two were misdemeanors and the sentence was equal to the time he has already served in jail.

The guilty plea for the felony charge — transporting or selling a narcotic or controlled substance — resulted in a 365-day sentence in county jail. This total was reduced to 320 days because of the time already served. Of the balance, Judge Mark Mandio ruled McKinney will have to serve 140 days in jail, and 180 more can be served in work release.

Radio club seeks help from town

The Mile High Radio Club is trying to improve WNKI 1610 AM station, Idyllwild emergency radio station, in the near future. WNKI has received some grant funding and MHRC has raised a fair amount of funds recently, too.

A condition of the grants is that MHRC record and document any form of improvements. It is asking for help from the community to tune into 1610 AM in and around the Idyllwild area.

Of most interest is the capability of WNKI to be heard on car radios north of Pine Cove, and east and west of Mountain Center. Providing field reports would be the best by describing the signal quality, time of day or night, and, more specifically, the locations, street and cross street as to when the signal was lost.

Share reports with Bill Tell at wtell@surfcity.net.

Free flu vaccines nearby

No appointments are necessary for free flu vaccines at Riverside County Family Care centers. Donations are accepted and clinic hours are from 8 to 11 a.m., and from 1 to 2 p.m. Monday to Friday.

These are the closest to Idyllwild in the county:

- Banning Family Care Center, 3055 W. Ramsey St.
- Hemet Family Care Center, 880 N. State St.
- Palm Springs Family Care Center, 1515 N. Sunrise Way

For more information, call 1-888-246-1215 or visit rivco-familycarecenters.org.

Walk a dog for ARF

Animal Rescue Friends of Idyllwild is seeking a few kind-hearted individuals to donate only one hour on a Saturday or Sunday to walk dogs for adoption in town. The dogs have “adopt me” leashes so people out and about know they are looking for forever homes.

This is an easy way for community members to help a nonprofit while getting a little exercise and building some good karma. If interested, call ARF at 951-659-1122.

Mahjong Club at library

Open to anyone interested in the game, the Mahjong Club meets from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursdays at the Idyllwild Library.

Taxing work

If you are receiving Social Security and have extra income, you may wind up having to pay taxes on a portion of your benefits, according to the Association of Mature American Citizens. AMAC says that you can work with your tax preparer to determine the exact amount of taxes you must pay using your Social Security Benefit Statement (Form SSA-1099/1042S). The Social Security Administration automatically sends that statement out to all benefit recipients each year.

CDC recommends fewer shots

The Center for Disease Control now recommends that 11- to 12-year-olds receive two doses of human papillomavirus vaccine at least six months apart rather than the previously recommended three doses to protect against cancers caused by HPV infections. Teens and young adults who start the series later, at ages 15 to 26, will continue to need three doses of HPV vaccine.

CDC Director Tom Frieden said, “This recommendation will make it simpler for parents to get their children protected in time.”

Generally, preteens receive HPV vaccine at the same time as whooping cough and meningitis vaccines. Adolescents ages 13 to 14 also are able to receive an HPV vaccination on the new two-dose schedule.

Quail help needed in Idyllwild

The James Reserve is conducting a research project in Idyllwild that is focused on quail. If you are interested in contributing to this project, the James is searching for assistance from town residents.

“The main contribution we hope to get from Idyllwilders is access to your private property to trap, band and release quail,” said James Director Dr. Jennifer Gee. “Your help is especially valuable if you are already feeding birds/quail and if you see banded quail in your yard already. If you’d like to be a citizen scientist, we also appreciate if you could record your observations of banded quail.”

Participants will be provided with bird seed and if you wish to be involved further, data collection sheets. Participation by children is welcome.

Call 951-827-6835 or email Team Quail at dmzonana@gmail.com.

Physician speaks out for single-payer healthcare

Insurers not salvation for private-sector health services

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Dr. Thomas Kluzak, a retired physician from Wichita and former head of the University of Kansas Medical School's Pathology Department, spoke Saturday at the Idyllwild Library about a single-payer health insurance system. Kluzak is passionately in favor of a single-payer system.

A single-payer system is often referred to a "Medicare for All." A single public or quasi-public agency organizes healthcare financing but the delivery of the care remains largely in private hands, according to the Physicians for a National Health Program.

"Practicing medicine and seeing what happens to people, the current system makes no sense," he stated. "We need 'Medicare for All.'"

He questions why the public accepts a "single-payer" system for police and fire protection, but opposes the concept for healthcare.

Hospitals with emergency rooms must accept, as a patient, someone with complaints regardless of whether they have insurance. In this limited instance, we are already paying for everyone's care, Kluzak noted.

A single-payer system will benefit not only individuals, with or without insurance, but doctors, too, in Kluzak's opinion. His strong feelings about this topic evolved over 30 years of looking through a microscope at the healthcare system.

"Essentially, we remove the intermediary — insurance companies — and create a savings," he said. Administrative costs for Medicare are about 2 percent. For most insurance companies, administrative expenses approach or exceed 30 percent. These include advertising and sales staff. In addition, doctors and hospitals maintain administrative staff to submit bills and respond to insurance inquiries.

"Drug companies pay more on marketing and administration than research," Kluzak said.

Besides the substantial financial savings, which Kluzak foresees, the quality of medical care will improve, too. No longer will insurance administrative staff have approval over your physician's recommendations and actions caring for your health.

Not only will it eliminate the time insurance staff need to review and advise on the doctor's orders, but will likely lead to elimination of excessive tests needed to justify a doctor's decision.

Kluzak's opinion is not an aberrant view among the medical professions. He is a PNHP member. A nonprofit research and education organization, PNHP is composed of more than 20,000 physicians who advocate a single-payer health system.

He and PNHP stress that a single-payer system is not "socialized medicine." The doctors and hospitals remain private. They receive their compensation from the single-payer. Currently, payments come from a multitude of sources, including Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance companies.

Rep. John Conyers (D-MI) has authored House of Representatives 676, a bill to establish a single-payer system for the U.S. It authorizes a privately delivered, but publicly funded, universal healthcare system. He argues that the U.S. healthcare costs are double the costs in other countries with single-payer systems such as France, Germany and Canada.

Kluzak and his wife, Kathy, have been Idyllwild residents since January 2016. The uprooted Kansans followed their son and grandchildren to California. They found Idyllwild and are only a few hours from their family.

Stone seeking nominations

Nominations are being accepted from individuals and groups for the 2017 Veterans Service Awards presented by state Sen. Jeff Stone (R-Riverside County). The deadline is April 17.

The awards are given annually to 10 military veterans from the 28th Senate District who have gone above and beyond the call of duty to help their fellow veterans and community members.

Stone will present the awards at separate ceremonies in Southwest Riverside County and the Coachella Valley in late May.

"We owe our veterans a debt that can never be repaid," Stone said a press release. "This award is just a small token of our thanks and appreciation for what they have done, not only during their time in uniform, but after they returned home."

Veterans groups, such as the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, are encouraged to nominate a member of their organization for the award. Individuals may nominate worthy veterans.

Applications and more information are available on the senator's website (www.Senate.Ca.Gov/Stone) and by calling one of the senator's offices at 1-760-398-6442 or 951-894-3530.

Mental health urgent care center

A mental health urgent care center opened its doors in October to provide around-the-clock assessment, psychiatric support, medication management and customized services to adults voluntarily seeking assistance in crisis situations.

Desert Crisis Walk-In Center is located in a remodeled storefront at 2500 North Palm Canyon Drive, Suite A4, Palm Springs. The center will remain open 24 hours a day throughout the year. RI International, a private provider of behavioral health programs, is operating the center under a contract with Riverside University Health System.

Guests also may be referred to the walk-in center by mobile crisis teams or law enforcement. All visits and stays are voluntary. Length of stays cannot exceed 23 hours.

During that time, guests will participate in the development of individualized care plans that include recovery education, peer-to-peer support, mental health services, nutritional counseling, coordination and referral to community-based services.

Steve Steinberg, the director of RUHS Behavioral Health, said the center will help relieve pressure on local emergency departments that get overwhelmed by individuals brought in by law enforcement on involuntary psychiatric admissions known as a 5150.

Matching savings program

Riverside County's Community Action Partnership offers Individual Development Accounts, a matched savings incentive program for low-income county residents.

Participants must have earned income from a job or self-employment to be eligible for the program.

Participants attend a series of both mandatory and elective workshops to increase financial knowledge, as well as to become better prepared for their goal.

They open a savings account and contribute to reach the goal of $1,000 savings to be matched.

They attend a series of workshops that assist in financial 4-1 match of $4,000 to purchase any of the following:

- First home
- Education
- Start or expand a small business

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF PATRICIA JEANNE ABBOTT AKA PATRICIA JEANNE Case No. INP1700197
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of PATRICIA JEANNE ABBOTT aka PATRICIA JEANNE
A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Anthony A. Abbott in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.
THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Anthony A. Abbott be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.
THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.
A HEARING on the petition will be held on May 2, 2017 at 8:45 AM in Dept. No. 1A located at 46-200 OASIS ST, INDIO CA 92201.
IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.
IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.
Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.
YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Drought

on local water districts since most of the state conservation regulations applied to the 400 large urban districts. Generally, they plan to continue the movement toward a less restrictive emergency stage.

"[There will be] no immediate effect; but I anticipate more pressure to get all the other items in line and back to stage 0 [zero]," wrote Jack Hoagland, general manager for the Idyllwild Water District.

Victor Jimenez, general manager of Fern Valley Water District, wrote, "I wish it would have come a couple of weeks ago, we could have gone to Stage 1, but I will present it to the Board this month to go to Stage 1."

"Effective [April 12], I will inform the Board of Directors that the [Pine Cove Water] District will return to water conservation level Stage 1, voluntary compliance," replied PCWD General Manager Jerry Holldber. "Also, there is no reduction in water rates, as we did not increase the rates when we entered into Stage II, mandatory restrictions."

Holldber intends to continue with the district's conservation plan, including rebates for low-flow fixtures, free water-saver kits, free compost and wood chips."

Water Plan

In another water-related action, the state released a long-term plan to better prepare for future droughts and make conservation a California way of life.

The governor's May 2016 mandate directed state agencies — the Department of Water Resources and the SWRCB — to develop the plan, which was to address issues such as using water wisely, eliminating water waste, strengthening drought resilience, and improving agricultural water efficiency and drought planning.

"This framework is about converting Californians' response to the drought into an abiding ethic," said California Department of Water Resources Acting Director Bill Croyle. "Technically, the drought is over, but this framework extends and expands our dry-year habits. Careful, sparing use of water from backyards to businesses and farm fields will help us endure the next inevitable drought."

The press release announcing the plan's availability (see the Town Crier web site) emphasized that the plan will require "... the state's 410 urban water suppliers to meet new water use targets. Suppliers would calculate their unique water efficiency targets based on a common methodology that takes into account the diverse climatic, demographic and land-use characteristics of each agency's service area. Urban water suppliers would set new targets by 2021 with a full compliance deadline of 2025."

Implementing the plan will require executive orders from the governor and several pieces of new legislation. The proposed legislation will strengthen local drought resilience through improved planning and annual assessments, according to the report's authors.

New rulemaking actions will be initiated. The proposed legislation will address issues such as deadlines for setting new long-term standards for urban water use and requirements for water-shortage contingency plans and drought-risk assessments.

Bans on wasteful use of water, such as hosing sidewalks or driveways or watering during rain storms, will be continued.

Do you know whom Marion Mountain was named for?

By BECKY CLARK
EDITOR

Dave Hunt, a regular participant in "So you think you know the Hill" was the first to answer, followed by two more correct answers.

"Marion Mountain was named after Marion Kelly by Edmund Perkins Jr. who surveyed and mapped the San Jacinto Mountains in the 1890s. Marion was a teacher from Michigan who taught at the Morongo Indian Reservation. They met while she was camping and fell in love :)," wrote Hunt.

Mark Dean wrote, "Found this on Wikipedia." These peaks were named in 1897 by USGS topographer Edmund Taylor Perkins, Jr. Perkins named Jean Peak for his sweetheart and future bride, Jean Waters of Plumas County, whom he married in 1903. He named Marion Mountain after Marion Kelly, his girlfriend, a teacher for the Indian Bureau at the Morongo Valley Reservation. According to a local legend, Perkins spent the summer of 1897 deciding which woman to marry while he conducted his topographical survey of San Jacinto Peak and its environs.[6]

The reference refers to "The San Jacintos," a masterful history book of our area by John W. Robinson and Bruce D. Risher.

And finally, our local renowned historian Bob Smith gave us even more information: "According to John Robinson, topographer Edmund Perkins, who directed the first careful survey of the San Jacintos in 1897-98, named Marion Mountain 'for Marion Kelly of White Cloud, Michigan, a young school teacher employed at the Morongo Indian Reservation. Perkins met her when she was camped with friends in Strawberry Valley. The story goes that Miss Kelly fell deeply in love with Perkins, who was described as tall and good-looking, but he kept putting her off by saying he was married to his work. But he did think enough of the young woman to place her name on the mountain.' He goes on to say that Marion Mountain's neighboring summit, Jean Peak, Perkins named for Jean Waters, whom he married in 1903.

"P.S. Perhaps somebody could convince the county (?) to correct the spelling of 'Marian View Drive?'"

It's time to go fishing

California Department of Fish and Wildlife stocked trout in lakes Hemet and Fulmor, and Strawberry Creek Sunday, April 9.

Tax day this year is April 18

People have until Tuesday, April 18, to file their 2016 returns and pay any taxes due. The deadline is later this year due to several factors. The usual April 15 deadline falls on Saturday this year, which would normally give taxpayers until at least the following Monday.

However, Emancipation Day, a D.C. holiday, is observed on Monday, April 17, giving taxpayers nationwide another day to file. By law, D.C. holidays impact tax deadlines for everyone in the same way federal holidays do. Taxpayers requesting an extension will have until Monday, Oct. 16, 2017, to file.

Hazardous waste collection

The Riverside County Department of Waste Resources has scheduled a free household hazardous-waste collection event on in Idyllwild from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, April 29, at the County Road Yard. The collection is open to all Riverside County residents.

The event will accept residentially generated household hazardous wastes. Waste from businesses or non-profits will not be accepted.

Typical wastes include used motor oil, paint, anti-freeze, household and automotive batteries, pesticides, cleaning products, sharps (needles/syringes or lancets), unused medication (except controlled substances), fluorescent lamps, and electronic wastes such as televisions, computers, VCRs and telephones. Limit the amount of waste transported to no more than 15 gallons, or 125 pounds maximum per vehicle. Individual containers should be no larger than five gallons nor weigh more than 50 pounds.

The collection will not accept explosives, radioactive material, ammunition, asbestos, compressed-gas cylinders over 40 pounds, or infectious or medical waste other than sharps.

The event is subject to cancellation during inclement weather or for other hazardous conditions as determined by the county.

Student artist memberships

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild has 10 student artist memberships available for local Idyllwild students or children of registered AAI artists or gallery owners. Eligible youth must be between the ages of 11 and 18. The standard $20 membership fee has been waived because of the generosity of several community members. The membership allows eligible youth to participate as an active AAI artist for one year. In addition to receiving a customized AAI online gallery page to showcase their artwork, students may compete and sell their creations in AAI-sponsored art shows. A great opportunity for the next generation of artists, youth who meet the criteria are encouraged to submit an email of interest to artinidyllwild@gmail.com. Include name, age, mailing address and school. Visit www.artinidyllwild.org for more information about the Art Alliance of Idyllwild.

Lady & her puppies

Whiskers: Who’s coming, where are they going?
Bobbie: Calm down, Whiskers. First of all, Sheba already found a forever family. She’s gone to San Diego. And there’s a story behind this puppy announcement.
Audrey: What is it? How many puppies? What kind? Who’s the mom?
Bobbie: Take a breath, Audrey. Here’s the story: A few weeks ago, a really, really sweet little pit bull, Lady, ended up at ARF. A very nice hiker found her on Black Mountain Trail. She hiked with him and his dogs for two days. Then he brought her here.
Pepper: I heard the ARF humans talking about her. Everyone fell in love with her. She’s not very big, and she likes dogs, cats and kids. And I heard she walks like a perfect lady when on a leash. As a matter of fact, they named her Lady.
Bobbie: That’s right. The humans thought maybe she had just had a litter, but within a week they realized she was pregnant! Her foster parents were absolutely in love with her, and when a really nice Idyllwild woman met her, she fell in love, too. And she adopted her!
Sheba: The puppies, too?
Bobbie: No, not the puppies, but she is taking care of all of them for now. When the puppies are 8 weeks old, they can be adopted, or they’ll go to other foster families.
Alice: How many puppies?
Bobbie: There were five. Three girls, two boys.
Sheba: I can’t wait to meet puppies.
Bobbie: I know the humans will want to meet them. They love puppy breath!

Pet owners beware

Every pet owner will tell you about the benefits of bonding with a dog or a cat, says the Association of Mature American Citizens. It’s good for the heart and for the soul. But the Centers for Disease Control reports that there’s a downside to pet ownership. A CDC study indicates that tens of thousands of Americans wind up in the emergency room each year with injuries resulting from trip and fall accidents involving dogs and cats.

IAA senior among 10 percent admitted to Swarthmore

IAA curriculum demands both talent and brains

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

There is a shared anxiety for high school seniors as they wait to hear whether they're been admitted to the college or colleges of their choice.

There is a once-in-a-lifetime moment when they receive their first acceptance. And for a few, there is the added thrill when that acceptance comes from their first choice.

Idyllwild Arts Academy senior Sumi Onoe received early acceptance from her first choice, Swarthmore College. Swarthmore admitted only 10 percent of applying freshmen this year and has long been known as one of the most prestigious and demanding liberal arts colleges in the United States.

Although a music major at an arts academy, trained in classical and jazz piano, and jazz guitar, Sumi chose to attend a liberal arts college known for its broad-based curricula and rigorous academic standards rather than follow a music conservatory or arts-centered university program.

Her choice highlights a common misperception about the IAA curriculum. Although admitted based on demonstrated ability in one or several arts disciplines, IAA students must also excel in strict academic curricula. If accepted to arts programs at major universities, IAA students also must qualify academically in order to be admitted.

IAA academic classes occupy students' mornings and arts classes their afternoons. If they are performers, evenings often involve rehearsals. If they are visual artists, students spend their evenings in studios, working on their art. It is not unusual for a typical IAA school day to begin with classes at 8:30 a.m. and conclude with rehearsals finishing before a 10 p.m. in-dorm curfew.

What makes Sumi's Swarthmore choice even more extraordinary is that when she came to IAA from Japan, her conversational English was rudimentary. "I had studied English grammar in Japan beginning in first grade, but there was not much training in conversation." Sumi related that her parents had at first wanted her to come to the U.S. to study English for a year. Since she had studied classical piano from the age of 6 and guitar from the age of 14, Sumi told her parents she would prefer to study at a U.S. school that had a strong music program. She started at IAA in jazz guitar, then began studying classical piano with faculty member Dr. Jeannette Louise Yaryan. One year at IAA turned into three.

Sumi is finishing her senior year with a flourish. Not only was she a key part of the winning Idyllwild Arts septet at the Berklee High School Jazz Festival, she also received a coveted acknowledgement for Outstanding Musicianship at the festival, one of two top individual awards.

She played George Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" with full orchestra, exhibiting strength, style and elegance at the recent Black History Concert at the academy's new William M. Lowman Concert Hall.

Sumi is modest, graceful and articulate. "I'm interested in engineering," she said. "I've always liked math and science. And the school [Swarthmore], founded by Quakers, has Quaker values of community and equality."

Sumi related that after visiting the school last summer, she felt an immediate connection when she saw Swarthmore's outdoor amphitheater, which looked very much like the one on the IAA campus. "All the concerts on campus are free, just as they are at Idyllwild Arts."

Sumi noted that in their freshman year, students are graded "pass/fail," allowing them to try a variety of courses to better choose areas of concentration. "They do have a music program and great practice rooms with Steinway pianos," she said. "Also, you can audition for the music faculty to help find and pay for private teachers in New York City or elsewhere. I'm hoping to do a double major incorporating music and something else," she said. "That's really possible at Swarthmore."

Sumi had also applied to Stanford, Northwestern, University of Michigan and Carnegie Mellon University but committed early to Swarthmore, her first choice. She is graduating from IAA with a 4.19 GPA.

Film fest planners hope to escape snow shadow with new dates

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The ninth Idyllwild International Festival Cinema is in the early stages of planning, and although it is only three months since patrons left the awards ceremony happy and excited, some changes have already been decided for the 2018 event.

For the first time, the fest will be in March instead of early January. The official dates are March 6 to 11.

Director and Founder Stephen Savage said several reasons drove this change. "After eight years, taking place at the same time as the Palm Springs Film Festival, we are moving officially to March 2018," he stated.

The weather and proximity to the Christmas and New Years holidays also were important reasons for the festival shift.

"The last three years, the weather has been 'iffy,'" Savage stressed. "March is a much calmer month."

The March timing also will give local businesses and innkeepers a brief respite after the holiday surges, he added.

Besides the traditional venues — the Rustic Theatre and Silver Pines Lodge — Savage expects to expand to Town Hall and the new IIFC facility. He plans to open an editing and audio studio at North Circle Drive and Oakwood. This also will serve as the festival headquarters.

The period for submitting films for the 2018 festival will begin July 1 and run through Dec. 1. Savage expects that the festival will still feature at least 120 films — shorts, features and documentaries.

"We're going into year nine. I once thought two years would be fortunate," Savage said smiling.

Soroptimists ask for donations

Soroptimist International of Idyllwild (www.siidyllwild.org) is encouraging the community to collect regular size soap, toothpaste, shampoo/conditioner, body wash, deodorant and lotion. Collected items will support the Soroptimists in assisting the Idyllwild HELP Center, which currently serves the needs of more than 600 people in our mountain community.

In addition to these basic needs, as sponsors of the "Soroptimist Women's Cabinet" located at the HELP Center, local Soroptimists also emphasize that donations of feminine products, including sanitary napkins, tampons, razors and panty liners, as well as toilet paper, are desperately needed. Contact Theresa Teel at thursa@gmail.com or Karen Doshier at 951-452-4599 to donate items mentioned.

'Eye Candy' at Middle Ridge Winery

Middle Ridge Winery Tasting Gallery is once again rotating its 4,000-square-foot art gallery with art that aims to tempt the senses. "The Idyllwild Collection: Eye Candy," features more than 150 works by 24 local artists from the Art Alliance of Idyllwild.

"We are so fortunate to be part of such an incredible community of talented artists," said Melody Johnston who, along with her husband and winemaker Chris, opened Middle Ridge Winery Tasting Gallery to create a space where their love of wine and love of art could come together. "Eye Candy is sure to tempt the art lover with striking works and visuals treats."

The public is invited to attend Middle Ridge's Afternoon with the Artists from 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 29. Local musician David Jerome will perform.

American impressionist Robert Ferguson opens studio in Pinyon Pines

‘My paintings are windows into a place in time’

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

Robert Ferguson is a contemporary impressionist painter in the mode of Claude Monet, Edgar Degas and Paul Cézanne. He is opening a studio in Pinyon Pines that backs onto national forest land with an unobstructed view of the mountains and a light-enriched environment.

Ferguson’s paintings are rich with color, as were those of the old impressionist masters. “It’s about the color of the air and the light,” said Ferguson, noting that working outdoors in his new Pinyon Pines studio environment (“en plein air” in painter parlance) is a tonic for the soul.

Ferguson recalled that often, when showing at art fairs, he overhears potential patrons saying, “Let’s go into the ‘gallery,’” meaning into his booth of impressionist oil paintings. They ask who did them and when he answers that he is the painter, they respond, “Oh, you’re alive?”

It’s an amusing story but indicative of the fact that Ferguson’s more than 2,000 career paintings do recall a style reminiscent of another time — from the late 19th century to early 20th century.

Said Ferguson of his work, “If it is a true impressionist painting, the eye will gravitate to the light. My paintings are windows into a place in time. Two hundred years from now I want people to view my works and experience what I experienced while creating them.”

Schooled at Parsons School of Design in New York, La Mesa (San Diego) native Ferguson quickly became a noted graphic designer and art director in Manhattan. But after a visit to the Metropolitan Museum on Fifth Avenue in Manhattan, Ferguson saw a brochure he had created, and was especially proud of, lying in the gutter, having been rained on and repeatedly stomped on. “It was an epiphany,” he said, and at that moment, he decided to move back to the West Coast and commit himself to a career in fine art.

“It was a five-year transition,” he said, noting that it took a while to become financially successful in fine art after leaving his high-end and secure NYC art director career. “I painted my first plein-air painting in Blue Sky Canyon in Rancho Bernardo,” he remembered. “It was a tree and a path. It was too green with not enough color,” he said. But from then on, it was an upward career arc.

“People like my work and want to own it,” he said. “My paintings only have value based on how much joy they can bring to others. I’ve done over 2,000 paintings. I number each of them on the back and write where I was when I painted them.”

Ferguson has researched his ancestry and found he was related to Winston Churchill and Jane Austin, among others. “Knowing my ancestry explained my work to me,” said Ferguson. “I’m always the most traditional and conservative painter at art shows.” And echoing a statement of Churchill who was a prolific painter and believed success came from creating a body of work, Ferguson joked, “I am prolific enough to be important.”

Ferguson’s studio opening is from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, April 22 and 23, at 69250 Indio Avenue in Pinyon Pines. Flamenco guitarist Milton Merlos plays from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. There is a $5 admission charge that entitles entrants to win one of three signed prints and one of Ferguson’s paintings. Twenty percent of proceeds from art sales at the opening will be given to the California Desert Arts Council to fund its education mission. To view Ferguson’s work, visit www.fergusonart.com.

IAA sophomore Alex Bishop wins national poetry award

She is next speaker at Idy Talks

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Idyllwild Arts Academy sophomore Alex Bishop, creative writing major, is the next speaker at the academy-sponsored Idy Talks. The series is part of IAA's "Art in Society" program designed to foster students' commitment to using their art to contribute to society. Alex's talk is timely. She just won a prestigious national award from the Poetry Society of America, the nation's oldest literary organization devoted to poetry. Founded in 1910 in New York City, past members of PSA have included Robert Frost, Langston Hughes, Edna St. Vincent Millay, Marianne Moore and Wallace Stevens. Alex won PSA's annual Louise Louis/Emily F. Bourne Student Award for best student poem of 2017. The PSA's annual awards are among the most prestigious honors available to poets. They offer emerging and established poets recognition at all stages of their careers. Alex is thoughtful and gracious. She answers questions about herself and her art clearly and articulately. She noted that, as a child emerging from her parents' difficult divorce, her writing, always in poetry, was personal and self-revealing. "Writing has helped me with so many issues in my life," she said. "Then, as I moved beyond the divorce, I began to be comfortable in my own issues of coming out and transgender identity."

Alex said she had originally planned to attend a traditional prep school such as Cate [in Carpinteria] or Thatcher [in Ojai] but that she felt an immediate "click" and connection when she toured the IAA campus. "I had this gut feeling, a 'click' in the sense that this is where I belong," she confided. Now in her second year at IAA, Alex said her gut instinct has proven to be correct. "It's fantastic here," she said. "This is not a polarized environment. The students are very accepting, of gay, transgender, anything. It's easy for students to be here, without having to be defensive, and simply concentrate on their art." Alex won for her poem "Ever Met a Human Spork?" For those who don't know what a spork is, it is a hybrid eating utensil combining the elements of both spoon and fork. In her poem, Alex opens a window into how it is to feel duality of identity.

She states in her poem's opening lines who she was, is and is becoming. "It's having short hair after private school; it's hiding tubes of mascara atop bathroom cupboards; it's two dollar razors; it's not singing happy birthday when you turn thirteen because of thicker vocal chords; it's waiting for people to walk out of the restroom before walking in and then rushing through your makeup; it's the fear of gaining weight; it's the fear of losing weight; it's gaining five pounds on your stomach not your hips; it's dressing androgynous because you can't fill out the tops, and then claiming it's that you just have an avant-garde fashion sense..." But it's at the end of her poem that Alex, who appears to have a studied and assured poise and sense of self, shows the emotional cost of her brave journey: "... it's always being the big spoon; it's wearing crop tops because your stomach is the only part of yourself you like, and yet still feel bloated; it's deleting Instagram comments from people who think you're disgusting; it's associating duct tape with pain; it's having a life expectancy of twenty-eight." Asked about poetry as her medium of choice, Alex said, "It's because poetry [compared to other literary forms] does not have any guidelines. When you begin to impose guidelines you realize they don't apply." She talked of an IAA course last year, "Poetry Experiments" taught by Alice Bolin, in which she realized how many different types of poems there are and can be. "Now I have a catalogue of references," she said. "With all that has been done before, why don't I try something new?" As to what comes next, after graduation from IAA, she deferred, saying she has not decided. "Idyllwild Arts provides such a strong foundation you can later choose the direction you want to go," Alex noted. "I'm also interested in photography. I'm interested, too, in finance. Whatever I'm doing, I will continue to write." At the "Art in Society, Idy Talks" event, Alex will discuss her craft and her evolution as an artist — her then, her now and her future. Her presentation begins at 6 p.m. Thursday, April 20, at Silver Pines Lodge. There is a wine and cheese reception preceding her talk at 5:30 p.m. Admission is open to all and there is no charge to attend. # HOROSCOPES

April 2017 — Week 2

ARIES

March 21 – April 19

Victory will be yours this week, as a decision is made in your favor. Don't gloat, Aries. You might not be so lucky next time. Reservations are made.

TAURUS

April 20 – May 20

By George, Taurus, you've got it! Months of diligence finally pay off, and you have the solution everyone has been seeking. Celebrate with a night out.

GEMINI

May 21 – June 21

Your finances have taken a real beating as of late, but that is all about to change with a new source of revenue. Feel the stress ease away, Gemini.

CANCER

June 22 – July 22

Conservation is never a bad idea, so when given the chance, do it, Cancer. Trade some bad habits for new ones, and set up a recycling center at home.

LEO

July 23 – August 22

You can run, but you can't hide. Confront the situation head on, Leo. A loved one makes a grave error at an event. Do what you can to patch things up.

VIRGO

August 23 – September 22

Love it or leave it, Virgo. There is no middle ground on this one. You're either in, or you're out. A persistent money matter is cleared up.

LIBRA

September 23 – October 22

No, no, no! You must not take on other people's problems. You have neither the resources nor the time. You can't be a crutch forever, Libra.

SCORPIO

October 23 – November 21

Choose, Scorpio, just choose. Your indecision is creating frustration at all levels. Review the pros and the cons again if you must and then choose.

SAGITTARIUS

November 22 – December 21

Squirrely describes someone near and dear to your heart this week. Give them a break, Sagittarius. They've been through hard times lately.

CAPRICORN

December 22 – January 19

Some people never learn, Capricorn. Save your breath for what you can change. The nest egg grows with a windfall and careful spending.

AQUARIUS

January 20 – February 18

Get ready to mix it up, Aquarius. There will be a lot of different things on the agenda this week. A friend refuses to compromise, halting progress.

PISCES

February 19 – March 20

Wait a minute, Pisces. You've been through this before. Why are you taking the same approach when clearly there is a better choice? Why indeed?

Grief support group meets

A grief support group meets at 6:30 p.m. every Friday at Cross Road 243 Christian Fellowship.

The group, GriefShare, helps and gives encouragement after the death of a spouse, child, family member or friend.

For more information, call 951-659-0097.

Grants for groups visiting

Friends of the San Jacinto Mountain County Parks are presenting a mini-grant field program.

Eligible educational groups will receive grants to help offset the costs of visiting the Idyllwild Nature Center.

Formal and non-formal educators, schools, youth organizations, adult continuing education programs, scout groups and community outreach groups are eligible.

For more information and to apply, contact Park Interpreter Amanda Allen at AmaAllen@rivcoparks.org or 951-659-3850.

Continuing the recent tradition of sponsoring talks by chairs of the departments at Idyllwild Arts Academy, the Associates of the Idyllwild Arts Foundation welcomed Chris Reba, chair of the Music Department, to their monthly meeting on Monday, April 10. Reba (at lectern), in his second year at Idyllwild Arts, discussed his wide range of musical interests, including audio processing and technology.

Golf

Jim Crandall, Palms to Pines Golf Association handicap chair, provided this report.

Four Idyllwild golfers won the Marty Finn Memorial Golf Tournament fundraiser for Grandfathers For Golf Saturday, April 8. The tournament was played at the Golden Era Golf Course in San Jacinto.

Pete Capparelli, Crandall, Lee Lanfried and Dave Robb teamed up in the four-man scramble format to shoot a 14-under-par 58 to win the tourney by one stroke.

In a four-man scramble, each team’s players hit from the tee box, then the team members choose the best of the four shots for the next shot. All team members then play the second shot from that location and again choose the best shot. Play continues in this manner until the ball is holed.

Sixty-eight golfers (17 foursomes) played the 9-hole Golden Era Golf course twice. The second-place team of

Dennis Chavez, Dave Herrera, Louie Lara and Ran Mendez shot a 59. The third place team of Jack Conrad, Brad Haskell, Jim Lauterbach and Chip Wilson shot a 60.

The Marty Finn fundraiser is named after the late Grandfathers For Golf founder and Press-Enterprise columnist Marty Finn. The program, now in its second decade, has grown to offer free golf equipment and instruction to more than 200 kids on three golf courses in three eight-week sessions per year in the Hemet-San Jacinto area. The program is composed of all volunteers, with more than 50 volunteer “Grandfathers” teaching the kids to play.

Grandfathers also has a weekly men’s club tourney fundraiser on Thursday mornings at the Golden Era Golf Course in San Jacinto which is open to all golfers of any skill level. The cost to play is $25 ($30 for first-timers) and all proceeds go to funding the program for the kids.

If interested in joining the club or playing as a guest, contact Crandall at jim.crandall@verizon.net or 951-265-5732, or Capparelli at pete@capparelli.com or 951-452-5552.

Drop & Shop reuse stores open

The Riverside County Department of Waste Resources will make good, reusable household products available for free to residents and businesses through the new Drop & Shop stores at the Lamb Canyon Landfill in Beaumont and Badlands Landfill in Moreno Valley.

Many products collected through the Household Hazardous Waste Collection program are in good or unused condition and can be reused instead of processed for disposal. The Drop & Shop program is open from 6 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturdays at both landfills.

Shoppers may take home used household, yard- and car-care products for free. Availability varies but may include: paint, cleaners, pool-, spa-, lawn-care and automotive products. Residents also may drop off common wastes like antifreeze, batteries, paint and used motor oil, and shop for free products at the same location. The program is funded by a grant from the Department of Resources Recycling and Recovery.

Electrified

April is National Kite Month, and while you may fly your kite for fun, there are others who use their kite for more practical purposes. One such person was Benjamin Franklin, who on a stormy night in June 1752 proved that lightning was a natural electrical current by flying his kite.

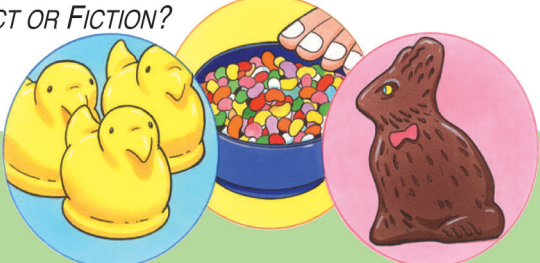

Franklin had been experimenting with electricity for a while and suspected that lighting and electricity were one and the same. To know for sure, he decided to see if lightning would act like electricity and pass through a metal key. In order to get to the lightning, Franklin made a kite and attached a metal key near the bottom of the string. Eventually lightning struck the kite and passed through the metal key, proving that it was a natural electrical current.

Franklin continued to experiment with electricity and invented the lightning rod. He also created many of the electrical terms used today, like "battery," "conductor" and "electric shock."

FACT OR FICTION?

Easter Candy Challenge

Did you know that Easter is the second top-selling candy holiday of the year in the United States? According to the National Confectioner's Association, Americans buy billions of pounds of candy every Easter. Here are some questions about Easter candy. How many can you answer correctly?

- 1) Americans buy more candy at Christmas than they do at Easter. Fact or Fiction?
- 2) Americans favor dark chocolate over milk chocolate. Fact or Fiction?
- 3) Americans give more chocolate eggs at Easter than any other type of chocolate candy. Fact or Fiction?
- 4) Americans buy 10 million chocolate Easter bunnies each year. Fact or Fiction?
- 5) Americans tend to eat the tails of their chocolate bunnies first. Fact or Fiction?
- 6) Americans eat so many jellybeans at Easter that if they were all lined up, they would circle the world three times. Fact or Fiction?
- 7) Americans favor grape jellybeans above all other flavors. Fact or Fiction?
- 8) Americans buy over 700 million Marshmallow Peeps every Easter. Fact or Fiction?
- 9) Americans favor white Peeps above all others. Fact or Fiction?
- 10) Americans often add items to their Easter baskets besides candy. Fact or Fiction?

Answers: 1) Fiction. Christmas comes in third on the list of top-selling candy holidays. Halloween ranks first, followed by Easter. 2) Fact. Most Americans prefer milk to dark chocolate. 3) Fact. First created in Europe in the early 1800s, chocolate eggs are the most popular non-chocolate Easter candy. 4) Fact. Marshmallow Peeps are the most popular jellybeans at Easter. 5) Fiction. Most Americans eat 16 billion jellybeans at Easter. 6) Fact. Americans buy way more bunnies than that. 90 million to be exact. 7) Fact. Americans favor cherry, cherry and strawberry jellybeans and then grape. 8) Fact. Marshmallow Peeps are the most popular non-chocolate Easter candy. It takes just six minutes today to make a Peep, compared to 27 hours in 1953. 9) Fact. Americans prefer to eat the tails of their chocolate bunnies first. 10) Fact. Although candy is a big part of most Easter baskets, many Americans add other items to them like art supplies, books, toys and videos to prevent children from eating too much candy and getting a stomachache.

Steele finishes strong at Masters

By JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele finished with a fine 3-under-par 69 in the Masters on Sunday. The Idyllwild native opened birdie-birdie-birdie in his last round, eventually posting seven birdies on the day. Unfortunately, they were blunted by two double bogeys, one on each nine. For the tournament, he posted a 3-over-par 74-73-75-69 — 291 to earn a tie for 27th place.

He now has 960 FedExCup points and stands 10th on that list, and he remains in 56th position on the Official World Golf Ranking. It is important that Brendan be in the top 30 on the FedExCup list and the top 50 on the OWGR for entry into post-season tournaments, as well as major and other high-level tournaments during each season.

Brendan did a very cool thing for his fans this last week. He kept a Masters Diary in the form of videos, one each day beginning with his Monday arrival. He made seven diary entries, only a few minutes each, which really capture the flavor of his experience at Masters week. If you like following Brendan, or even just love golf, you'll enjoy taking 20 minutes to click on each of his seven short videos at https://twitter.com/brendan\_steele.

In his video diary, Brendan speaks of the special feeling on arriving at the Masters, intentionally skipping balls across the water at no. 16, dealing with his right elbow that "popped" on the range Tuesday morning, getting in a few holes in the Par 3 Contest with wife Anastasia on his bag Wednesday, meeting again and hitting balls with Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player Thursday morning, the pleasure in sharing the Masters experience with his family and friends, the difficulty in earning birdies at the Masters this year, and the thrill of collecting seven of them on Sunday, including at the 72nd hole. He says he learned a lot this past week.

Brendan is a self-described "huge momentum player," and we're hoping he'll carry some of that into his next tour appearance, which will be not this week but next week at the Valero Texas Open, which he won in 2011.

Birds and hope at the library

The Friends of the Idyllwild Library announce two upcoming sponsored events in the week following Easter Sunday to be held in the library's Community Room.

From 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, April 18, Robin Roberts will present an illustrated lecture on "The Birds of the San Jacinto Mountains: Migrants and Summer Residents." This presentation should be of interest not only to Idyllwild birders, but also to community newcomers and Pacific Crest Trail hikers, whether ecologically minded or with passing inquisitiveness in local and non-local avian species.

And from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 19, author and counselor Dr. Jacqueline Bussie presents her lecture "Cultivating Hope in Troubled Times." This noted researcher of world religions is sure to uplift her audience in the spirit of the season, as well as to give an enlightening view of the state of the nations with respect to that optimistic outlook.

Admission to both of these events is free of charge as is usual, and light refreshments will also be provided.

Attempting a clucking world record

Silly as it may sound, Soboba Casino is very serious about breaking the Guinness World Record for the world's "Largest Rubber Chicken Toss" on Saturday, April 29.

The current world record is held by a group in Ontario, Canada, at 999 chickens tossed. But Soboba has hatched a plan to scramble the current record with an astounding 2,000 participants, and 2,000 rubber chickens to be tossed.

On the event day, participants will flock to the Soboba Event Arena, where organizers will be handing out the chickens in hopes of claiming the record. According to Guinness, to break the world record, at least 1,000 chickens must be tossed toward the target at the sound of a buzzer. However, if any rubber chickens are not thrown at the sound of the buzzer, or there is any fowl play, those participants will be disqualified and their chicken will not be counted toward the world record total.

Soboba is egging on the competition by giving participants the chance to win a share of $200,000 in cash and prizes. The event begins at 3 p.m.
