Laser show on Lily Rock aims to awe on Fourth

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Charles "Chic" Fojtik and wife Pamela were firework show devotees prior to moving to the Hill. Pamela, who died on Christmas Day 2016, missed the fireworks but loved living on the Hill after moving here from the South Bay in 2004.

Fojtik, along with friend, gallery owner and former Art Alliance President Gary Kuscher, hope to induce the same "oohs and aahs" that come with fireworks on the evening of July Fourth with a professional laser show to be shown on the face of Lily Rock. The show, created by Los Angeles-based Laserium Daystar, the leading name in laser-based entertainment, will be patriotic in theme and, in this first year, financed by Fojtik in honor of his wife and her love for the Fourth of July.

Said Fojtik, the show will only be using the face of Lily Rock as a screen and since no beams will extend upward, no aircraft will be impacted.

Laserium Daystar is obtaining all necessary permits "They [Laserium] do have a specific document regarding the aviation permit," said Fojtik. Also, Fojtik is attempting to consult with Native American tribes about the show. "Pamela was one-eighth Cree, so it's important to speak with the tribes."

The Fojtik had first seen a laser show in Egypt, when one was projected on the Great Pyramid. "We wondered why the same approach could not be done here," said Fojtik. "This all got started before Pamela died."

After her passing, Fojtik contacted Jon Robertson, associate creative director for Laserium Daystar. "After a visit to the Hill, Jon assured us that his team could indeed create a spectacular experience," said Fojtik.

"I'm certain that once it is seen, there will be a desire to make it a permanent element of the Idyllwild July Fourth celebration. It will also give day visitors a solid reason to extend their time in Idyllwild."

— Gary Kuscher

As with fireworks, the 30-minute inaugural laser show should begin around 9 p.m. for maximum effectiveness. Presenters are working to make a musical score meant to accompany the show available as audio on smart phones. Fojtik noted that Josh White, Idyllwild Inn, had donated a cabin for the Laserium crew.

The Idyllwild Rotary Club's annual Fourth of July parade begins at 10 a.m. Tuesday, July 4, at Fern Valley Corners.

County consultant confident of continuing budget savings from criminal justice agencies

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The consultant hired 18 months ago to help Riverside County gain control of its spiraling budget (projected initial deficits of $40 million) reported to the Board of Supervisors last week. And while KPMG has been working with many agencies and especially the county's internal costs, its major focus has been criminal-justice agencies, which consume nearly three-quarters of the discretionary income.

In his introduction, new County Executive Officer George Johnson, said "[KPMG] is to help us look at a county transformation and modernize our operations, look for efficiencies and effectiveness, and try to get our costs more in line with recurring revenues so we become more sustainable, more data-driven and more cost-conscious."

The criminal-justice agencies, the topic of the June 13 report, are the Sheriff's Department, the District Attorney, the Public Defender and the Probation offices. The sheriff's budget, which receives more than $650 annually from county revenues, is by far the largest of the four agencies.

For the coming fiscal year, the sheriff's budget is likely to be $30 million less than the current fiscal year and nearly $60 million less than the initial request, See County budget, page A8

IWD board works the issues prior to vote

Discusses agenda items for June 21 meeting

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Idyllwild Water District Board of Directors met in special session with Interim General Manager Jack Hoagland and Chief Financial Officer Hosny Shouman for the second time this month to discuss items on the agenda for the regular June 21 meeting.

Both meetings were called by the board to better familiarize themselves with issues and policies prior to voting at the June 21 regular meeting.

Directors will be called upon to vote on three agenda items: rules and regulations for water, water service rate structure and the budget for fiscal year 2017-18. Both special meetings were properly noticed and all directors except Vic Sirkin attended. Audience for both included press, and Sue Nash and Tom Paulek.

At the June 14 meeting, Hoagland suggested postponing discussion of water-rate structures associated with the district's water contingency plan and not calling a vote on that agenda item. "I don't think we're going to run into water emergencies," said Hoagland, noting last year's more than average rainfall, "and there are definitely policy issues that need more discussion [prior to a vote.]"

Board discussion then focused on water rules and regulations. Hoagland updated the board with a summary of proposed changes to existing regulations. "All rules and regulations were completely reviewed with changes See IWD, page A8

MAST agencies staffed for fire danger

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Mountain Area Safety Taskforce prepares, as it does each year, to be fully staffed and ready for the challenges of fire season — a season that is lengthening each year and fueled this year by heavier precipitation.

MAST is a multiagency taskforce organized to cooperate in fire response, educate the public about abatement and work together strategically to prevent wildfires. Part of that strategy is meeting on a regular basis on the Hill to receive project reports and updates.

At the Wednesday, June 14, meeting held at the Idyllwild County Park Nature Center, representatives noted that fire agencies are currently fully staffed and ready as summer heat and fire likelihood grow more intense. Attending agencies reported already having responded to 33 wildfires of varying size. U.S. Forest Service Division Chief Freddie Espinoza reported progress on fuelbreak and thinning projects that are part of ongoing wildfire defense preparation.

Hill residents were urged to have checklists for defensible space to update as the fire season progresses. For example, abating one's property early in the year raises the possibility of needing to remove more grass growth as the summer progresses.

Jerry Hagen, emergency services coordinator for Riverside County Fire, reported that 12 new Hill volunteers completed a Community Emergency Response Training workshop adding to the already large corps of CERT-trained Hill residents prepared to assist emergency responders when disaster strikes. Attendee Marge Muir said, "I took the course and kudos to all involved."

Hagen also recommended www.rivcoready.org, a new county emergency preparedness site with valuable information for Hill residents.

Riverside County Fire

Chief John Hawkins thanked the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council for its ongoing efforts in educating residents about abatement and obtaining grants to assist with that abatement. Noting Pat Boss's retirement from FSC as project manager, Hawkins recommended issuing a joint agency letter thanking Boss for his service.

Pine Cove Water District General Manager Jerry Holdber concurred. In speaking to FSC Executive Director Edwina Scott, he said, "The thank you go to you and Pat for helping to keep the community safe." Scott demurred. "The thanks go to all in the trenches who keep this mountain safe," she said.

Idyllwild Fire Protection District Chief Patrick Reitz announced there was a 30-percent rate fail for first-round abatement notices and that second-round notices went out on June 1.

The next MAST meeting is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 13, at the Nature Center.

'Ready for Wildfire' app

Jody Hagemann, Cal Fire public information officer, demonstrated a new Cal Fire "Ready for Wildfire" mobile phone app that includes checklists for wildfire preparation, including taking charge of defensible space, hardening your home, preparing for bark beetle tree damage, creating an evacuation and family communication plan, assembling emergency kits and evacuating when notified.

Important features of the app also include customized wildfire texts or push notifications based on a chosen zip code or within 30 miles of one's present location, fire incident pages and maps of current fires. To download the app, visit www.readyforwildfire.org/Ready-for-Wildfire-App/.

Mountain Emergency Services Committee educates residents about disaster

Once standing-room-only for meetings, now no one is interested

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Peter Lent, former deputy director of Riverside County's Office of Emergency Services, once noted that people begin to prepare for disasters after they happen — and then, of course, it's too late.

The Mountain Emergency Services Committee meets publicly in Idyllwild with one mission — to educate residents about real and present dangers confronting this community.

The challenges of living at the edge of a wilderness are far different from living in urban flatlands. Idyllwild is a wildland interface area with greater everyday risks new arrivals might not understand.

MEMSCOMM has historically brought together emergency responders, utility and water company representatives, volunteer disaster aid groups and the general public for interactive presentations and discussions.

There was a time when MEMSCOMM meetings were standing-room-only, as in 2011 when the community considered designating alternative Emergency Operations Centers because the present Idyllwild Fire Department building could suffer severe structural damage during a major quake. Also, when MEMSCOMM professional responders conducted real-time, table-top earthquake scenarios — where to go and what to do as the quake is happening, and after the quake — many people showed up.

Now, with the influx of many new residents with little or no knowledge of the unique demands of living on the Hill, the need for information about disaster readiness and post-disaster response is especially vital.

What would you do on a weekend crowded with tourists who do not know the Hill when a major earthquake hits or a major wildfire threatens evacuation routes?

If you don't know, MEMSCOMM is a meeting that could be critically helpful in saving your life and the lives of your family.

Last Thursday's MEMSCOMM meeting at the library had only one attendee — the press. Shane Reichardt, county emergency services coordinator, had made the trip up the Hill to coordinate the meeting. Said Reichardt, "With disaster readiness, people want to know, 'What's in it for me?' And people who are new to the Hill should be interested. It's not like being in the city."

The speaker, Idyllwild Fire Protection District Battalion Chief Mark LaMont, was prepared to discuss property abatement and fire readiness. With fire season year round, abatement becomes a year-round consideration. LaMont would have discussed latest regulations about defensible space and other protective measures for your home; protective measures for the forest to hinder the spread of wildfire (reduction of surface and ladder fuels); fire-fuel reduction projects (fuel-breaks and vegetation management).

Said LaMont, "Being a good steward of your property is your responsibility. In a city, with homeowner associations, much is taken care of for you. Here, that is not the case. There is no fire department on the planet that could mount a good defense to a fire if you have not been a good steward of your property."

LaMont observed that people have short memories. "We have lessons but we don't learn from them." Reichardt agreed. "Preparation seems to fall off the further you are in time from the event," he said. "It's the 'normalcy bias,'" said LaMont. "People can become numb to preparation because of the lack of incidents."

The next MEMSCOMM meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 17, at the Idyllwild Library Community Room.

Idyllwild Fire Battalion Chief Mark LaMont was the featured speaker at the Mountain Emergency Services Committee meeting last week. The once-popular meeting, held to inform residents about emergency preparation and response, is struggling to find an audience. LaMont spoke about fire abatement and hardening one's home. Caltrans working on sinkhole repair

(The following is from a Caltrans press release.)

On Monday, June 12, the California Department of Transportation began repairing a sinkhole on other damaged areas to Highway 243 near Idyllwild-Pine Cove and Poppet Flats. Water runoff from snow and rain this past winter damaged a culvert and eroded slopes along the highway. Caltrans' director issued a $1.5 million order to secure permits with local agencies to make repairs beginning earlier this year.

Work began between Franklin Drive and Alpine Way at milepost 6.2 (at the south end of the barrier around Dead Man's Curve) to repair a sinkhole that developed in early June after the Caltrans director's order already had been issued. The currently available schedule is as follows:

From 6 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, June 19, Caltrans had one-way traffic control (flagging) to saw-cut existing pavement, and mobilize equipment and material to the jobsite.

From 6 a.m. to midnight, Tuesday,

June 20 to Friday, June 23, and Monday, June 26 to Thursday, June 29, Caltrans will have 24 hours/day continuous flagging for various work to repair the sinkhole at milepost 6.2 between Franklin Drive and Alpine Way.

Work will continue at several other locations on Highway 243 once the sinkhole repairs are completed, and Caltrans will provide further updates with those locations.

Caltrans will continue to monitor traffic queues to avoid any major impacts to the traveling public. Caltrans urges motorists to plan ahead and, if possible, adjust schedules to avoid traffic delays. Reduce your speed in the construction zones and follow any commands given by California Highway Patrol or the road workers.

Weather permitting, the Highway 243 project is expected to be completed by this coming September. Follow Caltrans on Twitter @caltrans8 or go to caltrans8.info for road work alerts. Monitor traffic with Caltrans Quickmap at <http://quickmap.dot.ca.gov/>.

CSA 38 proud of new acquisitions to help community

Fuelbreak work should begin in fall

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The County Service Area 38 (Pine Cove) Advisory Committee was able, even briefly, to admire an accomplishment. The new Type 6 engine for Station 23 (Pine Cove) has arrived and is already in use.

Just a year ago, the committee agreed with the Riverside County Fire Department's proposal to acquire the vehicle for Pine Cove. In November, Bautista Division Chief Bill Weiser assured the committee that its acquisition should occur before summer. (See accompanying photograph.)

Also, David Alvarez of the county's Economic Development Agency confirmed that the acquisition of a chipper has been accomplished and it should shortly join the engine in Pine Cove.

The next major acquisition, a masticator, is now underway, Alvarez confirmed.

The recommendation of a budget for fiscal year 2017-18 was deferred a month until the committee receives the final cost figures for these purchases. The engine's cost was about $240,000 and the chipper cost about $36,000.

"We need to have 'hard' figures and have the masticator cost, too," Committee Chair Jerry Holldber told Alvarez, in order to propose a budget for next year.

The CSA 38 balance at the end of April was about $625,000. By the end of the fiscal year, another $25,000 of revenue should be credited to the CSA account, and the balance of engine and chipper costs will be deducted.

Beginning next year, the only revenue source for CSA 38 will be the portion of the county's property tax since the parcel fee for emergency services ends.

Besides purchasing the masticator, which will show up next fiscal year, the committee discussed sharing some of the cost with the county Fire Department for maintenance of the Pine Cove Fuelbreak and several other projects for Station 23.

The work on the fuelbreak will benefit the entire Pine Cove community. It will be big and wide, about 500 feet, including a road in the middle, and eventually, when finished, tie into the State Park Fuelbreak near Dark Canyon, according to Weiser.

"The chipper will be used on the Red Hill Truck portion," Weiser said. "That is why the chipper was essential to this project and future work on the fuelbreak."

After the meeting, Holldber said, "I'm really pleased and excited about the Type 6 patrol truck. I believe it will do great work for Pine Cove and the surrounding area."

In other business, the committee acknowledged the retirement last week of Capt. Mark Gilman.

Also, the ad-hoc committee reviewing the potential disposition of Squad 23 discussed its views, such as auctioning the unit and the proceeds returned to the CSA 38 coffers. As of last month, Riverside County had not expressed an interest in the vehicle, but the committee asked Weiser to verify the county's position, such as donating to another local government. No action regarding the squad was taken at this meeting.

Close budget oversight keeps IFPD running in the black

By KRIS KIRSCHBAUM
CORRESPONDENT

The Idyllwild Fire Protection District Finance Committee met Wednesday, June 14, but without a full quorum, the committee met as an ad-hoc committee to review the budgets for May 2016-17 and review the 2017-18 budget.

Chief Patrick Reitz was present for the first 15 minutes of the meeting and left for another meeting after praising Battalion Chief Mark Lamont's efforts to keep the budget in good shape. Reitz said that in the last five years, Lamont has projected budgets that match revenues and expenditures within a very small margin of difference. He left saying that he was confident the budget was in good hands.

After the chief left, the ad-hoc committee of three combed through the budget with line-by-line precision. Commissioner Jerry Buchanan and Community Committee Member Calvin Gogerty repeatedly asked Lamont about items listed in the 2016-17 budget that was accurate as of end of May 2017. The committee discussed variations between the budget projected for this year and current revenue and expenditures.

The three also reviewed items projected for 2017-18 compared to the current year. The fiscal year ends at the end of June, and as of June 14, the district is operating in the black. Grant money and changes in personnel (retirement and resignation) contributed to a positive balance of the budget.

Overall anticipated revenues for next year are expected to increase by 4 percent. The increased revenue matches the 4-percent expected increase for expenditures.

As discussed at the last full board meeting, the projected budget for 2017-18 includes a $17,000 line item to fund a communication firm as consultants help pass a new Measure W. In order to accommodate that budget item, the budget proposes that the emergency medial services coordinator position be cut, and the responsibilities spread over existing personnel.

Other changes between the current year and the next fiscal year include anticipated reduced cost to repair vehicles next year since a significant amount of over-due maintenance was conducted and paid for during the current fiscal year, and a large amount of grant money helped pay for new personal protection equipment that was matched with IFPD funds.

Two revenue sources were scrutinized during the meeting. Lamont explained that two sources of income, ambulance service and mutual aid fire assistance, account for roughly half of the revenue accumulated by IFPD. Both are "fee for service" items where money is received for assistance provided to individuals or agencies. Charges from ambulance services are one of the largest revenue items on both this year's budget and next year's.

Pine Cove Water approves record budget

Non-water revenue up

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The directors of the Pine Cove Water District held a busy meeting Wednesday, June 14. Besides adopting a new budget, they addressed issues ranging from tenants at the Rocky Point radio site to work with Riverside County and monthly water loss.

The fiscal year 2017-18 budget, which begins July 1, was unanimously adopted. The budget total is $912,000, a $12,000 increase from the draft budget presented last month and $62,000 more than the current-year budget.

About half of the $62,000 revenue growth is an expected $32,000 increase in water-sales revenue.

The revenue received from the communication leases at Rocky Point is anticipated to grow $18,000 to an annual total of $190,000. So about 20 percent of total revenue comes from a non-water source.

Contributing to the growth from this source will be a new tenant. The Hemet Unified School District has approached PCWD requesting to locate a radio tower on the water-district premises. The board approved a five-year lease, which starts at $12,000 annually and increases 4 percent.

The other major increase is a projection for more new meter sales growing at $7,000 to $15,100 next year.

During the meeting, Becky Smith, office manager, said PCWD had sold five new meters in the past two months.

The new meter sales have continued to aid the growth of assets, General Manager Jerry Holldber told the board. At the end of May, total assets were nearly $350,000, and he anticipates the carryover from this fiscal year to 2017-18 will approach $60,000, the largest ever.

On the expenditure side, the Improvements account increases $58,000, to a total of $158,000. This includes a $46,000 increase for main-line replacement and $15,000 of new funding for storage-tank improvements and a water shed or backflow program.

Funding for loans and liabilities will decrease nearly a third to $41,000. This fiscal year saw the final $27,000 payment for the tractor purchased two years ago.

In addition to approving the budget, the board also approved its annual $30 standby fee applied to vacant lots in the district. There are no changes in the rates, which have been $30 per acre for many years, Holldber said.

One other budget-related issue was approving a memorandum of understanding with Riverside County's Economic Development Agency. The agreement will reimburse PCWD for its costs to help construct shade cover for the jointly used fueling area behind Fire Station 23 and the district's maintenance office.

PCWD continues to work with the Mile High Radio Club to relocate its equipment at the site. PCWD's attorney drafted a new agreement that was shared with MHRC.

The club has made some suggested changes, which are being specifically identified. While the board was concerned about incurring more legal fees to review the changes if major, it gave Holldber authority with the committee to broker minor adjustments.

In water business, Holldber had some bad news for the board. May water consumption was 3.3-million gallons, nearly 400,000 gallons more than last month and an increase of nearly a million gallons from May 2016.

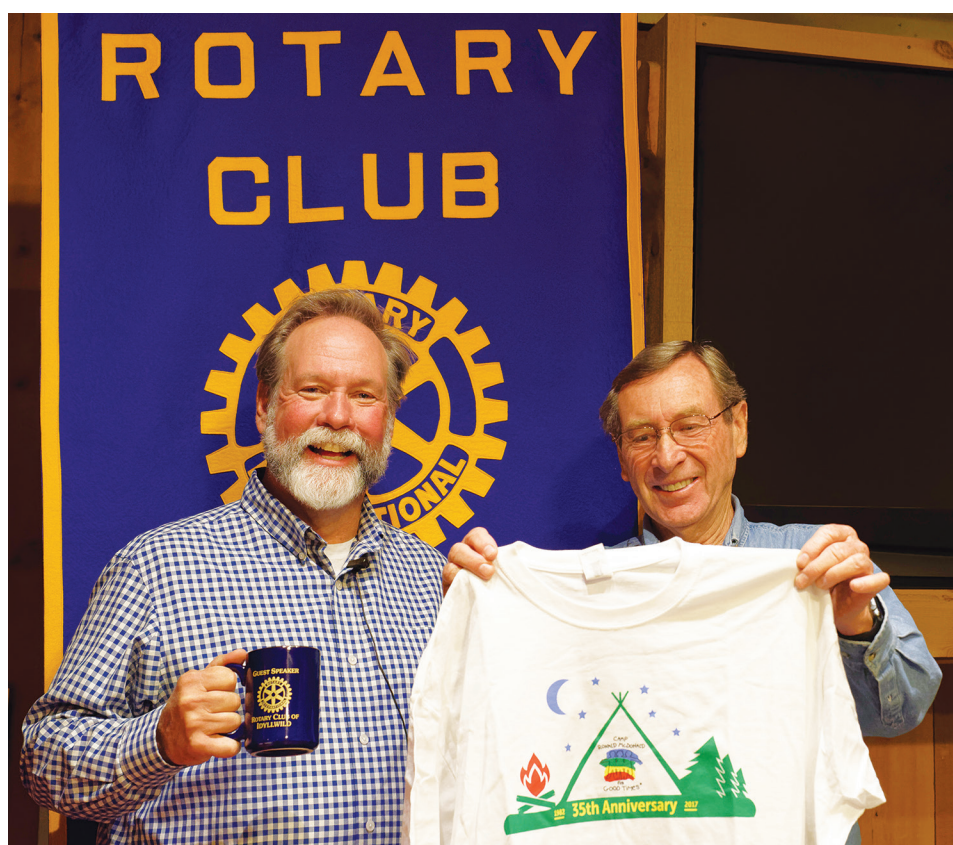

Since January, PCWD water consumption has totaled 13.2-million gallons. Since 2012, the average PCWD production for the five months from January through May has been 11.3 million. This year's water production is 17 percent more than the five-year average.

"It's up for reasons that are not good," Holldber reported. "It's very discouraging." The water loss was 18 percent, a continuing increase since January. In December, unaccounted-for water loss was 5.7 percent of total production and 10 percent for all of 2016.

Two significant leaks were found on Sylvan Way and Norwood. He estimated that the first might have contributed more than half a million gallons to the loss.

Holldber described several actions he has taken to attempt to curb or identify the source of the leaks. These include replacement of old meters and plans to acquire new leak-detection equipment. Several vendors were to demonstrate their equipment to the district this week, he stated.

OUT LOUD

Like most local homes, ours only cools down during the night when we have these serious hot spells. Otherwise, we start melting inside about noon. I keep considering a swamp cooler for our house because it can become unbearable at times.

Saturday, after my son and I cooked breakfast for the family and cleaned up the kitchen, we contemplated something fun to do as a group. We considered going to the Idyllwild Arts pool, Lake Hemet to either swim or fish, or Thousand Trails to swim.

Instead, for some crazy reason and after too much time in discussion, we decided to take a hike on Sawmill Flat Road across from our house. We popped into our shoes, grabbed some water bottles and sunscreen, then headed across the highway. By then, it was after 1 p.m. Stone Creek flowed gently, producing cool air and overhead trees shaded the walk the first quarter of a mile or so.

After crossing the creek, the shaded areas became sparser. The sun beat down monstrosly. Jack, Zac and grandson Carter were able to keep a good pace but granddaughter Evey and I fell behind — more and more. The trail is moderate to difficult at times, and other times, it is easy. Some hills are treacherous from their long, steep grades and years of erosion.

One in particular evokes thoughts of mules or horses and wagons ascending those steep inclines to collect timber in the early 1900s and the perilous descent back down.

Luckily for me and Evey, Zac and Carter found many reasons to stop along the way so we could rest in shade and sip water. Dad and son love to boulder and discovered a large boulder field along the trail to try another time. Snow plants boldly spotted the hillsides and a rusty old can, possibly left over from logging days, gave rise to the kids' curiosities.

We continued climbing as the afternoon continued heating up. Our goal was Sawmill Flats as I had not seen it since my own kids were young. But then, we made a smart decision. Considering how overheated we looked to each other and how little water was left, unanimously, we all turned around and headed back home, deciding to return another day with better planning, such as bringing our Camelback packs full of water and energy food, and launching out in the morning vs. the afternoon.

All-in-all, we managed 4 miles round-trip, coming within 1/3 of a mile from the flat. My legs are still sore.

The following day, after breakfast, no one questioned that while Jack watched the U.S. Open, Zac, I and the kids threw on our swimsuits, grabbed towels and sunscreen and headed to the Idyllwild Arts pool after stopping at the Transfer Station to unload trash.

The car's outside temperature read 90°. We arrived at the pool expecting most of Idyllwild and campus campers to be cooling off inside. But, very few folk were there in the afternoon. Two lifeguards for four people. Carter practiced his swimming and Evey practiced learning to swim. We soaked our achy legs in the cool water until we became prunes, then left, bought food and came home to barbecue outside while that hot sun set.

BECKY CLARK, EDITOR

Opposed to anti-Christian rhetoric

EDITOR:

I enjoy my weekly edition of the Town Crier immensely. But although I enjoy the paper, I have been offended consistently by your "Dr Tom" column. It seems to only be focused mainly on two things: insulting our president and skewering Christians.

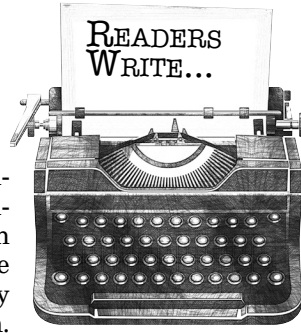

In his most recent offering, he states he is 'torn' regarding Sanders' comments to Russel Vought and how it relates to the U.S. Constitution. Keeping with his week-by-week theme of belittling religion, he makes the obnoxious statement that if you don't believe in Jesus, then Christians will be unlikely to give you "respect and dignity," and that this attitude is "destructive of your soul."

All religions have their beliefs regarding the salvation of the soul. Each of them believes they have the true answer. I am sure that Dr. Tom and Sanders are aware of this fact, but they have still chosen to try to single out Christianity as a hateful religion that is bad for society.

Somehow it is OK to declare Vought guilty of "Islamophobia" but the term "Christianophobia" doesn't even exist. But it applies to you, Dr. Tom. You have made it your mission to try to tear down Christian belief in every column you write.

Although it is accurate to say that I feel your salvation is in danger because you don't believe in Jesus Christ, this doesn't mean I will not treat you with dignity and respect. I don't want to belittle you like you belittle us. I view you as an opportunity to share Christ's love and word. I don't hate you; I pity you. I pray for you.

My support of the Constitution doesn't leave me "torn." The Constitution is clear: You have a right to peddle your anti-Christian propaganda. It is just disheartening to me that a paper like the Crier would choose to print your glorified opinion letter every week.

Although it is your constitutional right to speak how you feel, I am surprised that there is a sustainable market for this hate speech here on the Hill. I hope other religious folk who have undoubtedly taken offense to some of your statements also will write in and maybe your column will be as short-lived as Sanders' presidency hopes. I don't mind saying that I am praying for this, too.

Please, no laser lights

EDITOR:

Tahquitz Rock was sacred to the local Native Americans who took care of our beautiful valley and mountain. According to legend, they promised their spirits would always protect our mountain.

To shine laser lights on their sacred rock and disturb Chief Tahquitz would be sacrilegious. Please, no laser lights.

Idyllwild has been known and desired by many for its tranquility and peaceful atmosphere. Over the years, so many have visited here and not Big Bear or other mountains because of the lack of commercialism.

It's not about the legality, safety or lack of patriotism or love of country. This is about respecting Mother Nature and the sacred land of which we are responsible, and the lack of ethics of many.

John Muir wrote: "The view from San Jacinto is the most sublime spectacle to be found anywhere on this earth!"

I don't think he was thinking laser light shows.

ANOTHER POINT OF VIEW

SB 30 – Putting Politics Ahead of Jobs The Truth about Senate Bill 30

BY STATE SEN. JEFF STONE

Here we go again... California Senate Democrats are once again attempting to circumvent the president of the United States through means of reckless political grandstanding.

Recently, the Senate passed SB 30. If enacted, this bill will prevent private companies that work on a southern border wall from doing any other state construction work.

For a moment, put aside the arguments for or against a southern border wall. It is a very controversial topic, and there are legitimate arguments on both sides as to whether or not the proposal is appropriate or even doable.

What is clear, though, is that our small businesses that already face some of the toughest and most punitive regulations in the nation are struggling to stay in business. It makes zero sense to have California companies looking to hire employees to work on big construction projects be penalized for bidding on a federally approved and government-sanctioned project for purely political purposes.

It's bad enough that California is becoming more and more of a nanny state, but now we're going to tell companies who they can do business with? Like it or not, the Border Wall is a project that is in the planning stages, and it would be better to have California companies be the winning bidders. Instead, Senate Democrats have chosen to pursue this dangerous legislation just because they are having a temper tantrum about everything President Trump is doing.

SB 30 will be used as a tool for political intimidation. It would allow the government to openly discriminate against companies that conduct legal business with the federal government. These companies have not committed any wrongdoing and are within the full scope of the law.

What should happen if a major contractor who bids on the Border Wall wants to bid on the governor's $100 billion choo-choo-train-to-nowhere?

SB 30 will kill jobs. With so many jobs and companies leaving California, we need more people working, not fewer.

We need more families who know they can feed their children and afford to live in a safe community, not fewer.

Our people deserve to have government decision makers and legislators act in the best interests of our state instead of trying to score cheap political points against a president who was duly and legitimately elected. Like it or not, he is our president, and he will be president for at least the next three years.

Senate Democrats, however, can't seem to accept that fact. That's one reason I suggested to the Senate that we allocate time at the beginning of every week to allow Democrat legislators from San Francisco and Los Angeles to vent about the president and to allow them to get it out of their system so we can focus on the real issues affecting Californians.

Jeff Stone represents California's 28th Senate District. The district, which is entirely in Riverside County, stretches from the vineyards of the Temecula Valley to the Colorado River and includes the cities of Blythe, Canyon Lake, Cathedral City, Coachella, Desert Hot Springs, Indian Wells, Indio, Lake Elsinore, La Quinta, Murrieta, Temecula, Palm Desert, Palm Springs, Rancho Mirage and Wildomar.

What does the incident commander do at an emergency wildland fire?

BY JOHN R. HAWKINS
FIRE CHIEF & OPERATIONAL
AREA FIRE & RESCUE COORDINATOR
CAL FIRE/RIVERSIDE COUNTY FIRE DEPARTMENT

Editor's note: Chief Hawkins uses an imaginary, but realistic, scenario to describe the thought process and actions of an incident commander during a fire on the Hill.

This will be the first of four articles explaining how a fire officer assesses, strategizes and tactically implements an incident action plan to combat a rapidly escalating, life-threatening wildland fire. We will take you into the strategic mind of a fire officer as we develop the story. A follow-up article will further explain what happens at a major wildland fire.

Canyon Fire and the most recent 2013 Mountain Fire and let's unfold the fire story ...

"911, what is your emergency?" the Cal Fire/Riverside County Fire Department dispatcher asks the reporting party. Frantically, the reporting party states, "I live on the west side of Idyllwild. I can smell smoke, lots of smoke. Wait a minute. I can now see flames at the base of the mountain. Please, hurry. Don't let us burn. Save my house." The dispatcher asks, "Please confirm your address." The reporting party screams, "Double View Drive, almost to the Overlook. Hurry." "We are on the way sir, 1230 hours," the dispatcher concludes the 911 call. Using Enhanced 911 and a state-of-the-art, computer-assisted dispatch program, the dispatcher determines the street address, cross street, nearest response resources (ground and air) and much more.

The first alarm dispatch goes out, "Beep, beep, beep; Brush fire Highway 74 near the Strawberry Creek Bridge; San Bernardino National Forest (BDF); Battalion 11, Idyllwild Chief 6200; Idyllwild Brush (engine) 621, engines 72, 26, 23, 3172, 53, 3161 and 3162; Dozers 3140 and 3141; Bautista Crews 2 and 4; BDF Copter 535; Hemet-Ryan Air Attack with all aircraft (Air Attack 310, Copter 301, Air Tankers 72 and 73); time out 1232 hours."

The Cal Fire/RCF Perris dispatcher confirms that dispatched units are now responding and directly communicates with the San Bernardino National Forest to ensure common communications, resources dispatched, unified ordering point, etc.

Throughout the U.S. and particularly California where it was originated following the September 1970 Fire Siege, the Incident Command System is used as the common operating platform for the command and control of all emergencies. The ICS is composed of these key management concepts: unity of command, common terminology, management by objective, flexible and modular organization, span of control, comprehensive resource management and integrated communications. ICS is to emergency management much like Windows or iOS operating systems are to computers.

The San Bernardino National Forest San Jacinto Ranger District Battalion 51, along with BDF engines 54 and 56, would arrive first at the fire near the Strawberry Creek Bridge. After a brief assessment or size-up, Battalion 51 determines that the fire is starting on the north side of Highway 74 just east of the Strawberry Creek Bridge in jurisdiction of the local ranger district. Although 5 acres in size, it could be a threat to Idyllwild in one to two hours.

The battalion chief confirms the initial dispatch and shifts the unified ordering point to the BDF Emergency Command Center because the jurisdiction is BDF. After mentally balancing the initial dispatched resources versus what he deems necessary, Battalion 51 orders the nearest two Type 3 engine strike teams (10 engines and two leaders) to a staging area near Oak Cliffs at Highway 74 below Strawberry Creek, orders the nearest four more Type 1 engine strike teams into Idyllwild to a staging area near Marion View Drive and Highway 243, and further orders the nearest eight more Type 1 fire crews. The BDF ECC names the fire the "Strawberry Incident" and the IC "Strawberry IC."

Now, the strategic thought process with attendant tactical execution begins. The IC completes his/her assessment and determines fire priorities. First comes development and communication to all firefighters of the incident objectives. (Place an imaginary strategic containment box over the fire): 1) protect life and the communities; 2) hold the fire out of Idyllwild; 3) keep the fire west of highways 74 and 243, and Mountain Center, 4) secure the left- or down-canyon flank; and 5) don't let the fire cross Highway 74 to the south. He creates Division A on the left flank, Division Z on the right flank, and Division F on the top or on the Idyllwild rim.

Resources arrive and are assigned to the divisions with immediate attention to objectives 1 and 2. Since wildland fire control is all about perimeter control along with structural defense woven into perimeter control, tactical containment actions are initiated on both flanks. These actions mean laying fire hose and cutting fire line (clear away the flammable vegetation) while working a pincer attack from Highway 74 up both flanks (divisions A and Z). Engines are deployed into the Marion View area of Idyllwild to begin the process of structure defense.

(To be continued next week.)

John Hawkins is the fire chief for the Cal Fire Riverside Unit and Riverside County Fire Department. He is entering his 54th year with Cal Fire and has served as the fire chief for going on 11 years. Chief Hawkins values leadership, fire and life safety and community involvement. He has been involved with the Riverside County Mountain Area Fire Safety Task Force since 2004.

Sunnylands subject of talk

The Friends of the Idyllwild Library invite the public to a free presentation on "Sunnylands Retreat — The Camp David of the West" at 4 p.m. Tuesday, June 27, featuring Janice Lyle as presenter.

The 200-acre former estate of Walter and Leonore Annenberg in Rancho Mirage, built in 1963 and envisioned by Annenberg as a meeting place for both political and entertainment personalities, has been host to virtually every American president since the 1970s, when Richard M. Nixon completed his 1974 State of the Union speech on the premises, as well as the grounds for official state visits and summit meetings, and get-togethers for such locally based entertainers as Bob Hope, Gregory Peck and Frank Sinatra.

Lyle's illustrated presentation will focus on both the popular (and sometimes unpopular) and the significant world-important visitors and surrounding events.

Light refreshments will be available.

WINTER IS COMING

BY MARSHA KENNEDY
IDYLLWILD SNOW GROUP

Idyllwilders are, for the most part, an independent and resourceful sort. Residents have born the demands of snow-play visitors for many years. It's just that in recent winters, the numbers have become so large and the behavior so undesirable that it's time to rethink our responses. We win no prizes for silently enduring disrespect and abuse.

When there are trespassers on your property, call the sheriff's office and report it. Here are four reasons why:

- 1) California's "pure" comparative negligence standard for liability;
- 2) The potential for property damage;
- 3) The possibility that your yard will be littered or used as an outhouse;
- 4) The likelihood that a squeaky hinge will be oiled.

The squeaky hinge adage holds true because calls to the sheriff's station are logged and, more importantly, counted. Few calls indicate few problems. On the other hand, a high-call volume with reports of trespassing, theft, threatening behavior and so on alerts the sheriff's department of serious issues. This advice comes from Riverside County Sheriff's Capt. Leonard Purvis.

If Idyllwilders build a call record that spikes during snow-play visitor events, it can affect future resource allocation. For everyone's safety and well-being during snow events, we need sheriff's deputies on the Hill helping us. To get more, call more.

In addition to 911, the sheriff's non-emergency number is 951-776-1099.

The Snow Group appreciates the many who've expressed their support for our project. Riverside County Supervisor Chuck Washington recently contacted us by email with encouraging words: "Marsha, this is an amazing effort put forth that will benefit the entire Hill — thank you! I will share your info with my entire staff."

Gooch granted probation subject to future terms

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Shawn Gooch, 39, of Idyllwild, was arrested in October and in November pleaded guilty to the charge of inflicting corporal injury with a prior conviction within seven years. Sentencing was deferred until Gooch enrolled and completed a residential substance abuse treatment program.

Earlier this month, the Riverside County Probation Department reported to the Superior Court that Gooch had completed the program and sentencing could go forward.

On Friday, June 16, Judge Elaine Kiefer gave Gooch four years probation subject to meeting certain terms recommended by the Probation Department. No further jail time was imposed.

The conditions include attending and completing an outpatient substance abuse treatment program within six months of release. Also, he must attend a minimum of three substance abuse self-help and support group Narcotics and Alcohol anonymous meetings per week for the first 90 days after release. Proof of attendance must be provided to the Probation Department.

Other terms include payment of certain fines, as well as performing 20 hours of community service by November 2018 through the Alternative Sentencing Program. Also, Gooch must enroll in a 52-week domestic violence program and provide proof of enrollment to the court/probation by August of this year and completion by October 2018.

The incident occurred Sept. 30, 2016, and involved a woman. Gooch pleaded guilty in court on Nov. 22. The guilty plea included admission that he violated a court order to prevent domestic violence and was awaiting sentencing from a similar charge in May.

Wilderness classes this summer

The Mt. San Jacinto Natural History Association is offering free summer classes in the Mt. San Jacinto State Wilderness.

"Spring Wildflowers and The Changing Environment" in the Long Valley area is the next class.

This year, like the desert below, promises to be a "superbloom" in the Mt. San Jacinto Wilderness. While appreciating the beauty of the blooms learn about the adaptations which permit them to survive and indeed thrive at this high altitude, with seasonally reliably harsh environments. How will they adapt to climate change: warmer and drier? Learn about special and subtle environmental niches that serve as perfect habitat surrounded by an otherwise inhospitable habitat. Whatever it takes to survive and reproduce!

The class is from 9 a.m. to about noon Saturday, June 24. Meet at The Nichols Room off the ground floor terrace of the mountain station.

Colin Barton, Northern Arizona University Conservation coordinator with Friends of The Desert Mountains, researches effects of climate change on mountain flora, especially Pinyon Pines.

The hike is considered easy, about three hours, and class size is 15.

Registration is required at <http://msjnha.org/events-overview/> where more information also is available.

Take precautions against high heat

With temperatures reaching triple-digits in parts of Riverside County, health officials are urging the community to take precautions against the heat and remind residents about the availability of cool centers located throughout the county.

Idyllwild does not have a cool center, however.

"High temperatures always present challenges, but the first heat wave of the year can be particularly dangerous since people may have forgotten the danger high temperatures can present," said Sarah Mack, director of Riverside University Health System-Public Health. "There are some simple precautions that people can take to protect themselves."

Among the precautions, officials suggest residents drink water to prevent dehydration; avoid direct sunlight and stay indoors when possible; close blinds or curtains to minimize the heat; visit a mall, library or restaurant to stay cool; and make sure not to leave children, elderly, disabled individuals or pets inside unattended vehicles.

Some of the signs of symptoms of heat-related illness are headache, dizziness, muscle weakness or cramps, and nausea and vomiting.

Steele T13 at U.S. Open

BY JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele carded a 6-under-par 71-69-69-73 — 282 last week in the 117th U.S. Open at Erin Hills, Wisconsin, to garner a tie for 13th place. This was his best finish in a PGA Tour major since the PGA Championship in 2015, when he tied for 12th. It also was his eighth top-20 finish on the PGA Tour this season.

The native Idyllwilder posted 22 birdies over the four rounds of the tournament — more birdies than any other player, including the tournament winner. Also, he added two eagles to tie for first in that category.

Brendan hit 75 percent of the fairways last week with drives averaging 310 yards. He found 67 percent of the greens in regulation and gained a whopping 7 strokes on the field putting for the tournament. He now stands 13th on the FedEx-

Cup list and has moved up to 52nd on the Official World Golf Ranking.

Brendan is off this week. Look for him next week in the $6.8 million Travelers Championship at the TPC River Highlands course in Cromwell, Connecticut. B's Montreal Superfans, André Pilon and wife Pierrette Filion, will be in attendance and will be communicating with the Town Crier.

Governor and legislators have budget for 2017-18

Some changes from May proposal

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

State legislators approved a fiscal year 2017-18 budget last Thursday, the deadline before they would have to forfeit their salaries. The budget follows closely the outlines of Gov. Jerry Brown's May revision, but several major changes to the $125 billion budget were enacted, including a few items that do not directly affect state expenditures.

In announcing the agreement, Brown said in a press release, "This budget keeps California on a sound fiscal path and continues to support struggling families and make investments in our schools."

Support for the budget was bipartisan, although Republicans expressed concerns about some portions of the budget. For example, Sen. Jeff Stone's statement after its passage characterized the party's mixed feelings.

"While there are some things to like in this budget, including adding to the state's 'Rainy Day Reserve' and restoring the middle-class scholarships the governor had proposed cutting, overall the people of California deserve better."

Then he added, "Once again, this year's budget includes hefty pay raises for state workers. Meanwhile, Legislative Democrats have passed an onerous gas and car tax that will hurt the poor and working families. This new tax, signed by the same governor who vowed not to increase taxes without a vote of the people, is supposed to fix California's crumbling roads."

Among the budget bill's highlights is the expansion of the earned income tax credit to help the self-employed and workers earning up to $22,300 a year, which could increase the take-home pay of 1 million more people in the state.

Funding for the state's schools will increase $3.1 billion. Also, funding for higher education will expand capacity for California students and hold the University of California more accountable for implementing changes.

Funds from Proposition 56, which was approved in November and raises the tax on cigarettes, will be used to increase payments to doctors and dentists who see Medi-Cal enrollees. However, this provision is subject to both the Trump administration approving the provision and not reducing Medicaid payments to California.

As the governor has stressed since his election, the state must prepare for another economic downturn. This budget adds $1.8 million to the "Rainy Day Fund," which brings its total to $8.5 billion. Also, the Legislature is going forward with the governor's proposal to double the state's CalPERS payment this year in order to lower future contributions.

Several non-budgetary issues also are included in the legislative package. These include modifications to the laws overseeing recall of elected officials. This was done in response to the effort to recall Sen. Josh Newman (D-Fullerton), who voted for the gasoline tax increases.

The recall papers seeking signature support suggest it would place repeal of the tax on the ballot, which his supporters argue is misleading.

Also, the state will abandon the Board of Equalization and create two new tax agencies, one which must be ready to operate on July 1. The new departments — one to collect taxes and the other to hear disputes from taxpayers — would report to the governor's office instead of to an elected board.

State Controller Betty Yee, who is an ex officio member of the BOE, said in a release, "Without equivocation, the need to fundamentally overhaul the Board of Equalization is dire. The sweeping reform passed today takes the duties of BOE down to the studs and structurally remodels to ensure more consistent, fair, transparent, and efficient administration of California's tax laws and appeals."

Fern Valley Water District adopts summer 4/10 schedule

Office remains open five days a week

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

A contentious item on the Fern Valley Water District board's action agenda last Friday was approved by a vote of three to one. At issue was an original proposal to adopt a 4/10 schedule for the district (four days a week, 10 hours a day, Monday through Thursday).

General Manager Victor Jimenez revised the original proposal, last discussed at the April board meeting, and removed the suggested closure of the district office on Friday — an item of concern to the board.

The board voted to approve Jimenez's revised proposal, leaving the office open on Fridays from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., with the GM and office manager adjusting their work schedules to be able to cover Friday. One would work Monday to Thursday and the other Tuesday to Friday. Field operators would work 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. four days a week, also with alternating schedules of Monday to Thursday and Tuesday to Friday. Jimenez explained that larger-scale projects requiring both field operators would take place on Tuesday to Thursday.

"The longer workdays during summer months will help greatly toward completing larger projects in one day instead of stretching them over two days, necessitating shutting down, securing and then reopening the project to complete it the next day," said Jimenez. Also, by alternating field personnel's four-day schedules, Friday would still be covered as part of a regular workweek rather than as overtime.

President Jim Rees noted he liked Jimenez's revised proposal better than the original but still questioned the productivity of 10-day schedules for field personnel. He was the only director to vote against the proposal.

Jimenez stressed that the 4/10 summer schedule is a pilot project for a discreet period of time, April to end of September. In October, the schedule returns to a regular five days a week.

Remaining action items approved unanimously were: approval of Teaman, Ramirez and Smith's proposal for a 2017-18 audit; approval of Kristin Bloomer, Desert Water Agency, as a candidate for the California Special District Association; a resolution adopting local guidelines for implementing the California Environmental Quality Act; annually fixing the ongoing Saunders Meadow assessment charges for 2017-18; establishing a policy for investing district reserve funds; and adopting the 2017-18 budget.

The adopted budget includes $419,875 in capital improvements. Major allocations were $125,000 for first year of meter replacements and $195,000 for hydrant replacements systemwide. New smart meters are forecast to capture more low flow, enable monthly billing and perform data logging that will assist in explaining water usage to customers. Meter replacement work will be performed in house. Hydrant upgrades of 39 4-inch hydrants to 6-inch commercial grade will aid in fire protection.

Work also will be performed in-house, saving the district about $200,000. The board agreed to postpone a $35,000 office expansion project until next fiscal year.

In water business, Jimenez reported that district water production during the March and April billing period was 4.4 million gallons, which was 500,000 gallons less than the January and February period, and about 100,000 less than the same period in 2016. Total production since January has been 9.4 million gallons, the most since 2013 and about 1 million gallons more than the first four months of 2016. Jimenez suggested new meters will help the district with evaluating ongoing water loss. "With a program for testing all production meters, we'll have a better idea where we are regarding water loss," he said.

In his director's report, Jimenez noted Tahquitz Creek production has decreased to about 412 gallons per minute in April and Strawberry Creek produced 260 gpm. Overall district water consumption has decreased by 25.8 percent from July 2016 and 6 percent from April 2017.

The board and GM discussed contracting with a firm to provide telemetry system monitoring of district equipment. Jimenez noted that a firm, which he will research, supplies the costly hardware, and the district would pay a monthly fee, avoiding any large capital outlay for equipment purchase.

Director Richard Schnetzer suggested the district consider holding a customer open house and tour of district facilities.

The next board meeting is scheduled at 9 a.m. Friday, July 21.

made mostly in updating wording," he noted. He then handed the board a list of significant changes, most salient of which are: District will not determine the size of water service for any customer but will follow determination of appropriate regulatory authorities (county building and safety, and fire departments); late charge period reduced from 30 to 25 days (consistent with revolving charge-cards' policies); will-serve letters will expire 18 months after issuance, if not used; and liability for water use and/or loss restated as property owner's responsibility, but once every four years, property owner may seek relief through reduction of usage rates to second-lowest tier after an extraordinary water loss.

Regarding reliance on regulatory agency determination of size of water service for any particular customer, Hoagland said, "The county regulates on-site usage. We try not to be involved on the customer's side of the meter. If it looks good [to the county or other regulatory agency], then the user is going to pay for a lot of water. We're not in the position of telling customers how many bathrooms they can have." President Chip Schelly noted, "If the county were to approve something the board thinks is way out of line, the board could intervene." "That's part of the will-serve process," Hoagland agreed.

Hoagland noted that the district's infrastructure system is sized for fire flow. "We as a district have to be prepared every single minute for maximum [fire] demand."

Regarding budget proposals for fiscal year 2017-18, Hoagland noted in a summary provided to the board that water operation base-rate revenues for both residential and commercial customers will stay consistent but that water base-rate and water sales revenues may increase due to selling of new water meters.

Proposed rate structures make residential base rates proportional to meter size with the first 300 units charged at base rate. (Units are cubic feet with 1 cubic foot equal to 7.48 gallons). Most district residential customers have 5/8-inch meters with a base rate of $29.70 (1,439 out of 1460 customers). For the first 300 units of water used (tier 1) customers will be charged $29.70; from 301 to 600 (tier 2) another 6 cents per unit or $18.93 will be added to the bill; from 601 to 1,500 units (tier 3), another 10 cents a unit or $89.90 will be added.

For commercial users, for the first 1,000 units of water used, $33.30 will be added to base rates; from 1,001 to 4,000 units (tier 2), $189.84 will be added; and from 4,001 to 8,000 units (tier 3) another $399.90 will be added.

The board packet, agenda and supporting materials for the June 14 special meeting are available on the district website, as is the agenda for the June 21 meeting. Visit www.idyllwildwater.com to view.

County budget

according to Paul MacDonald, county chief financial officer.

"We are deep into the KPMG study and are confident we should be able to achieve these reductions in funding without compromising current operations," he told the board.

But a statement from the Sheriff's Department after the meeting stressed that these savings were achieved through difficult staffing reductions, not streamlined or modified operations.

"But that savings was created this year by sharply reducing the number of staff on the payroll through personnel attrition of our unincorporated patrol staffing levels, and our countywide regional teams/task forces, to meet those board-directed budget target reductions," the statement noted. "KPMG played no role in that particular $40 million 'cost-savings,' and emergency first-responder staffing levels in our countywide unincorporated areas are increasingly 'thin' and will bottom out this summer, accompanied by obvious decreased patrol-unit visibility and longer response times to calls for service by our citizens."

Ian McPherson, the KPMG principal overseeing the work with Riverside County, touted the efforts of the four local agencies. He mentioned several pilot studies begun or planned for later this year.

One study with the Sheriff's Department Hemet Station began two weeks ago, and McPherson said "... the initial indication is very positive."

Jessica Gore, legislative assistant to Sheriff Stan Sniff, acknowledged the field tests, but added that no savings or improved efficiencies have been demonstrated to the department at this early point.

KPMG staff plan to identify future budget savings and how these can be sustained in future years. McPherson said that in July they will provide a report on the work and results of their work with other county agencies, especially the Planning Department.

Board Chair John Tavaglione was pleased with the progress and optimistic that the final results will yield significant budget savings and improved customer service throughout the county.

"Culture change is very difficult," he noted and thanked the staff of these agencies for their cooperation and efforts to achieve improvements.

3.5 preliminary magnitude

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

A shallow earthquake jolted Idyllwild at 8:14 a.m. Sunday June 18. The quake was centered 5 miles south-southwest of Idyllwild at a depth of 9.3 miles.

This is the third "minor" earthquake to shake Idyllwild in 12 days, since Wednesday, June 7. Both earlier quakes were 3.2 magnitude, one the early morning of June 7, the second in the early morning of June 9. The first was 3.1 miles SSW of Cabazon and the second 8 miles south of Idyllwild.

The June 18 quake occurred in the same general area as the June 9 quake.

Idyllwild Arts Native American Arts Festival Week a highlight

This year's theme is 'Native American Art and Activism'

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The annual Native American Arts Festival Week is a cultural gemstone in the Idyllwild Arts Summer Program offerings. This year's theme is "Native American Art and Activism." Tribal artists and speakers examine ways to foster change and raise awareness about social and political issues of particular importance to Native Americans.

Program Director Heather Companiott spoke glowingly about the wide diversity of offerings this summer. Each day, visiting guests will examine a range of topics on this theme — environmental, health, social and women's issues that are in the process of changing in Native American communities.

"Activism is not about yelling," said Companiott. "There are many ways artists can effect substantive change using their art and that is what this week is about. It's about using art within your communities to educate those within and without about ways to make their lives better."

One of the most interesting events is the one that opens the festival week on Sunday, June 25. "Ackia" is a 13-hour Homeric epic performance poem that begins at 9 a.m. and concludes at 10 p.m. Written by Lannie Hill and directed by Ivan Wong, the performance takes place in Bowman/IAF Theatre as an avant-garde sound and sight-immersive experience. Set in the Chickasaw War of 1736, "Ackia" pits the agendas of French and English settlers against Native American society. It is an epic drama poem in five books, replete with phantoms rising from the past in a legend of gods and heroes, blood and glory, pride and folly, lust and absolute devotion. It is written in the tradition of Homer's "Iliad" and Spenser's "The Faerie Queene," and features music and sound by Ivan Wong's Plastic Products company, along with actors Kimberly Guerrero, Shyla Marlin, Ivan Wong and Lannie Hill.

Guerrero is an Oklahoma-born, Los Angeles-based actor who has been featured off Broadway, with Stephenwolf in Chicago and at the Old Globe in San Diego. Said Companiott about the "Ackia" piece, "We have a special connection to the Chickasaw. Ataloo, who is Chickasaw, was the first Native American teacher the Krones brought here to teach in 1950."

On Monday, June 26, "Louder than Words: Indigenous American Art and Activism," opens at the campus. See Native arts, page B8

Summer Concerts remain at the ICC site for 2017

Lisa Haley and her Zydekats open the season Thursday, July 6

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Ken Dahleen confirmed today, Wednesday, June 14, that the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series would remain on the Idyllwild Community Center site for 2017. ICC representatives notified the press that the two bids submitted for construction were over the "current budget" for the designated components of Phase 1.

ICC's design team will now review the bids for "appropriateness" for the project. But that process will require time and analysis. In its press release, the ICC board said, "Because that process [of review] must be thorough and the time required can be lengthy, the board has determined that Butterfield Commons on Strawberry Creek will remain open and be available for regular summer activities."

Those summer activities include the popular concert series, now in its 18th season. And, for the dancers in Idyllwild, having the series remaining on the ICC site also means having a dedicated dance floor for dancers to strut their stuff.

That dance floor will be put to especially good use because wildly popular Lisa Haley and her Zydekats open the season at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 6.

Electricity will crackle, thunder will rumble and feet will stop when Haley and her Kats create bayou musical heat. Their brand of dance contagion is called Zydecosis — the beat intensifies, humidity grows, and the pulse surrounds listeners and drives them to the dance floor. It is very difficult to sit still when Haley bows, sings and struts. There is a musical charge that moves from dancer to dancer, causing smiles, giggling and an irresistible urge to gyrate, dance and celebrate.

Long a favorite of Idyllwild audiences, Grammy-nominated Haley returns with Cameron "Cam" Tyler on drums, percussion and vocals, David Fraser on accordion, keyboards and harmonica, and Kats veteran Andy Anders on electric bass and vocals.

Electricity! That's what emanates from Haley's blue violin. Dressed in her signature homespun, and singing and dancing with joyous intensity, Haley is a force of nature.

Opening act Erik Lingren and Friends takes the stage at 6:15 p.m. As they do each year, Dahleen and his board contract for acts and produce the series without sufficient cash to fund it. Dahleen produces the series for the benefit and pleasure of locals. That is why it takes place on Thursday. And locals reciprocate by donating at the concerts and agreeing to become sponsors. Potential sponsors may contact Dahleen at 951-659-2229.

Dahleen wanted especially to thank Jay Johnson and family for offering the Johnson property across from ICC for this season. "Without Jay's offer, it looked likely that there would be no series this year," said Dahleen. "His offer was a huge help to us and to the community."

What makes an entertainer? Ask Chic Fojtik

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

What is it that causes your eye to go to one person on stage rather than a host of others? Why do you want to watch that person instead of all the rest?

Although the recent Idyllwild's Got Talent spectacular delighted many, there was one person who everyone talked about afterward. Was this person an experienced actor, dancer, singer, impersonator and seasoned entertainer who could hold an audience's attention and double them over with belly laughs? Well, in a way.

Charles "Chic" Fojtik, who sashayed, gyrated, pranced, sang and danced his way through guffaw-inducing performances as Mick Jagger, David Bowie and Joe Cocker, has that quality some call "it." "It" is indefinable. But whoever has "it" as a performer, is the one onstage who always catches your eye.

So how is it that Fojtik has "it?" Maybe he gained career experience in a performance-related job. Well, in a way.

Wisconsin-native Fojtik attended Northwestern University, known for its acting program. Maybe that was where he honed his chops. Well, actually no. "I cycled through a number of majors while at Northwestern," said Fojtik. "First physics, then math, then sociology and finally I graduated in physics."

Well, maybe then he became an actor in graduate school? Not in Fojtik's case. He attended the University of Southern California as a marketing major in the masters in business administration program. After obtaining his master's degree, he stayed at USC in its business doctoral studies program. While still a doctoral student, Fojtik began teaching at Pepperdine University. He retired in 2008 as emeritus professor of marketing. Hmmm?

Fojtik has a merry spirit and that prompted him, in teaching night students in Pepperdine's Graziadio School of Business and Management, to invent ways to make night courses interesting, innovative and interactive. "It was such validation to see the faces of business people who had been working all day, the energy we were generating together. That was so satisfying," said Fojtik. "Other professors lectured. In my class, we did projects, taking the reading materials and applying those concepts to real com-engaged and often amused. "My courses were geared to their experience levels. I would say to my students, 'Here are some tools, now go and apply them.'"

After moving to the Hill, Fojtik began exploring his acting chops appearing in the musicals "The Wizard of Oz," "Into the Woods" and "Clue, the Musical." He appeared in comedies including "Calendar Girls," the "Little Grimley Sagas," "Legal Ethics" and multiple Christmas shows for the Stratford Players. And, of course, his recent turn as multiple rock singing idols will continue to define him.

"Pamela [his late wife] encouraged my acting," said Fojtik. "She was a harsh critic but saw how much the acting pulled me into the community. She always wanted me to be happy. I love that I can make people really laugh."

Fojtik is currently working on a George Carlin show. "I'm writing and putting it together as a one-man show."

From an entertainer in a classroom devoted to serious business, to a strutting rock star does not seem such an odd and uncharacteristic transition for Fojtik. That's because he has "it."

11-year-old with Idyllwild connection wins competition

SPECIAL TO THE TOWN CRIER

Solange Signoret and her sister Juliette have performed in Idyllwild Arts Summer Program musicals and drama productions for the past several years, thanks to scholarship funding by Idyllwild resident David Martin. Last summer, Solange was the Wicked Witch in the "Wizard of Oz," and her sister has performed in Shakespeare and song and dance skits at the Summer Program.

But it was a big jump for the sisters to audition this spring for the first "Desert's Got Talent" showcase competition in Palm Springs presented by the nonprofit organization Boo2Bullying. Most of the contestants were older and had extensive performing experience. Solange and Juliette were understandably thrilled to both be selected to perform at the Anenberg Theater on May 6. That evening, 15 finalists ranging in age from 11 to 73 performed a wide variety of musical genres for a supportive audience of more than 300 who chose the winners by texting votes on their cell phones.

Solange, 11, won the audience's heart and the first-place prize with her stirring rendition of a Whitney Houston classic. The diminutive young star commanded the stage with confidence, energy, emotion and a powerful voice that elicited non-stop applause and admiration, much like her performances at Idyllwild Arts and in Raymond Cree Middle School in Palm Springs.

But that is only the beginning of this story about how participation in an arts talent show advanced the missions of two local nonprofit organizations dedicated to helping children and teenagers overcome adversity and fulfill their potential.

"Desert's Got Talent" is a new signature event to raise awareness and funds for Boo2Bullying, the Palm Springs- and Los Angeles-based nonprofit founded in 2011 by photographer Dimitri Halkidis. The purpose of the talent competition is to give performers the opportunity to self-express and promote unity against bullying and all forms of discrimination that victimize young people in schools, neighborhoods, online and at home. The organization conducts anti-bullying assemblies and programs, reaches out to bullied youth at community events and festivals, and produces videos and testimonials that reach 10s of thousands of young people online.

Solange and Juliette were brought into the world by parents with severe drug problems and adopted at very young age by Silvia Signoret and her husband Tony. Silvia founded For the Children, a Nonprofit

Foster Parent Association for the Coachella Valley in 2003. Since then, the Signorets have literally opened their home and hearts to children in desperate need and enlisted other families to do the same for youngsters touched by turmoil and strife. She and Tony, an assistant superintendent for Human Resources in the Palm Springs and Desert Sands unified school districts, have nine children, seven of whom are adopted.

The payoff for fostering and adopting children like Solange and Juliette can be dramatic. In addition to her musical talents, Solange is a self-proclaimed social activist. Influenced at age 7 by civil rights and LGBT activist George Zander, she wrote her own speech and spoke at a rally in support of gay marriage in 2013. Solange has continued to write and speak out against injustice, most recently at the Rainbow Summit and at the Women's March in Palm Springs. This fearless and self-directed dynamo has also achieved a Brown Belt in karate and won a national championship.

Juliette, 15, fell in love with the performing arts at age 5 and has performed widely, including most recently with the Palm Springs Madrigal singers at Carnegie Hall in New York City and in the high school's production of "Annie." Juliette is a Brown Belt in karate with two national championships and one world championship on her résumé. She's also excited about securing an audition slot this fall for the TV hit "The Voice."

But first things first: Both sisters will be defending their titles at the Karate World Championships in Arizona this July. Meanwhile, their adoptive mother has found another worthy cause to support on behalf of children and teens. Inspired by "Desert's Got Talent," Silvia has volunteered to help Halkidis bring Boo2Bullying assemblies to middle schools throughout Riverside County.

For more information about Boo2Bullying and "Desert's Got Talent," call 310-435-8528 or visit www.boo2bullying.org. To contact Silvia Signoret and learn more about For The Children, A Nonprofit Foster Parent Association, call 760-567-7954 or write to P.O. Box 4352, Palm Springs, CA 92263.

HOROSCOPES

June 2017 — Week 4

March 21 – April 19
The sun is shining, the days are growing longer, and there is so much to see and do. Make a day of it, Aries. You deserve some fun before the storm sets in.

April 20 – May 20
You mean well, Taurus, but make sure you are not overstepping your bounds this week. You will be dealing with some highly sensitive matters.

May 21 – June 21
Are you feeling blessed, Gemini? You should be as everything in your world will be rosy pink this week. Enjoy and don't forget to share your joy with others.

June 22 – July 22
It cannot be helped, Cancer. You cannot be everywhere at once. Focus your efforts on where you will make the most impact. A travel issue is resolved.

July 23 – August 22
Listen and learn, Leo. Too much is unfolding around you not to. A friend breaks a promise, and you must scramble to get all in order for an event.

August 23 – September 22
Please, Virgo. Haven't you had enough? Give in now while there is still time. A senior's demands escalate. Time to set them straight. They created the situation, not you.

September 23 – October 22
Come on, Libra. You've sidestepped the issue long enough. Confront your loved one and make your stance clear. A deadline is extended at work.

October 23 – November 21
Get ready, Scorpio. There's about to be a new development in a recurring situation, and it's going to be a game-changer for sure.

November 22 – December 21
Oh yeah, Sagittarius. You've got this one. Give it your all! A friend's revolutionary idea begins to bring in the bucks. If you aren't inspired, you should be.

December 22 – January 19
At long last, you reach a fitness goal. Bravo, Capricorn! A last-ditch effort to save a project at the office works. Time to celebrate like you never have before.

January 20 – February 18
Itching to get away from it all, Aquarius? Your wish is about to be granted. An announcement takes you by surprise, but only for a moment.

February 19 – March 20
Get ready, Pisces. A great week is in store. Money woes will soon come to an end with some clever budgeting, while your love life will heat up.

CREATURE CORNER

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," the ARF cats talked about the new Bengal cat, Patrick.

Patrick: (Saunters into the cattery) Well, well, well. What have we here?

Bobbie: What we have here, Patrick, are awesome ARF cats, that's what.

Anabel: (Aside to Tinkerbell) Uh, oh. Is this gonna be a showdown?

George: (Stepping in between Patrick and Bobbie) Bobbie's right, you know. We are pretty awesome. Welcome to the Patrick cattery, Patrick.

Patrick cattery, Patrick.

Bobbie

Patrick: Thank you. Glad to be here. So, why is everyone gathered?

Bobbie: I have adoption news!

George: My favorite kind of news.

Bobbie: Last week was a great adoption week. All four of the Big Bang puppies found forever homes. That's Sheldon, Leonard, Penny and Raj. AND our German Shepherd Baron found his perfect home.

Tinkerbell: Yippee! Where is our dear Baron?

Bobbie: Baron is in a very quiet, calm home in Garner Valley. It's just what he needs to recover and begin a new chapter in his life. Man, he deserves it after what he's been through.

Crue: That is so wonderful. I hope Jet and I find a forever home, together.

Jet: Who wouldn't want us? We bark only to alert, we're very calm and cuddly, and we are housetrained. What could be better?

George: A cat?

Crue: Ha, ha, ha.

Patrick: Some humans don't realize how we cats can be just as trainable and just as much fun as you canines.

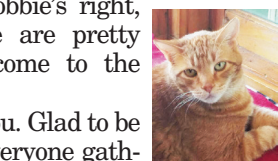

Pepper: Got that right, Pat.

Patrick: Thank you, Pepper, and it's Patrick

George: Take it easy, you two. We are all very special. We just need the special forever home.

Will Patrick and Bobbie become friends? Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243 on Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appointment M-F by calling 951-659-1122.

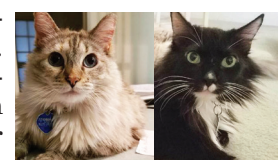

Creature Corner is sponsored in memory of all the beloved pets.

Changing lives for 44 years

Local Soroptimists celebrate anniversary

BY SHANNA ROBB
SPECIAL TO THE TOWN CRIER

Forty-four years ago, 38 local women came together with the mission to change the lives of girls and women in Idyllwild and internationally. Their decision to charter the International Soroptimist of Idyllwild would, unbeknownst to them, become one of the longest running nonprofits in Idyllwild.

Jeanette Schultejan, Idyllwild resident for the past 50 years, was one of the founding members. The late Ann Lay, owner of Idyllwild Institute Fiesta, was the driving force behind creating the club. While taking a short hiatus to focus on family, as a life member, Jeanette continues to attend monthly membership meetings.

Some of the membership guidelines have changed over the years, but the mission has never wavered. As Jeanette explained, "This is a service group whose mission has been and is focused on what is best for women."

Jump forward 44 years: While the economy has impacted the membership numbers in the past, the club currently has 30 active members. Helping lead the mission of transforming the lives of women through education, empowerment and enabling opportunities is Theresa Teel, current president and second-generation member.

One of the club's founding members, Jeanette Schultejan, reflects on 44 years with Soroptimist with current President Theresa Teel. They hold a certificate of recognition for the anniversary from Soroptimist's Golden West Region. PHOTO BY HALIE WILSON

In addition to stopping human trafficking, which includes shutting down two major corridors in Riverside, the Soroptimists fund several scholarships. Teel, while pursuing her master's degree, had received a $1,000 college scholarship from Soroptimists. After receiving her degree, she sought a way to give back and Soroptimists was a natural fit.

When asked what she would say to the next generation of members, including her 5-year-old daughter, Theresa shared, "We have the opportunity to improve the lives of women and in doing so, improve the lives of their family and community. Who wouldn't want to be a part of it?"

In addition to supporting the HELP Center and funding a number of scholarships totaling $5,600 in 2016, the club funds a "Live Your Dream Award." The award is for women going back to school who are heads of households. Teel encourages local women who may qualify to submit an application starting July 1 that can be found at www.liveyourdream.org.

The last fundraiser, a comedy night, was Tuesday, June 20, at the Idyllwild Brewpub and raised funds to fight human trafficking.

The local Idyllwild club is part of an international force originally founded in Oakland in 1921. Ninety-six years old, the global network includes more than 75,000 members in 120 countries.

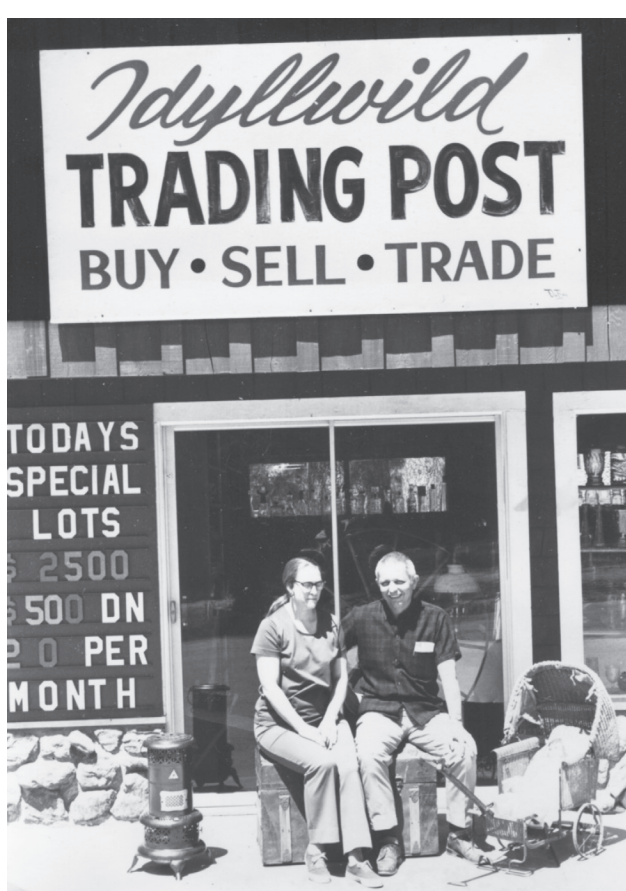

70 years ago - 1947
Fred Patton revealed he was smuggled into this area. "Back in 1895," he recalled, "a man stole me from my folks up in Sonoma County. He was interested in gold mining over by Kenworthy and he hijacked me along to help him." The mining experience didn't amount to much, but Fred stayed on.

65 years ago - 1952
The new Rustic Theatre finally opened. First attraction was "Red Mountain," starring Alan Ladd and Elizabeth Scott. "Skirts Ahoy," with Esther Williams, was to follow.

Lois Roy experimented with some manzanita pie. It turned out OK. Tasted a little like gooseberry.

60 years ago - 1957
Deputies were investigating a mysterious dynamiting incident that occurred at 3:30 a.m. Evidence showed that someone set off some dynamite among boulders in Strawberry Creek near Peak and Pine Camp. It shook up the town.

55 years ago - 1962
The county asked local residents to place numbers on their houses.

Mr. and Mrs. Rod Welch announced the opening of the first unit of their Alandale Pines subdivision.

50 years ago - 1967
Celia Bonney was chosen Miss Idyllwild.

45 years ago - 1972
Gene Price had the fullest beard and Dennis Veazie the sparsest in the Bear Flag Festival contest.

40 years ago - 1977
Five graduating high-school students received a record $2,400 in awards from the Idyllwild Scholarship Fund at a Hemet High School awards assembly. The awards went to Marcus Clark, Steve Friemoth, Jeff Jones, Brett Miller and Anne Weverka.

The Idyllwild Lions Club and the whole town were gearing up for the third-annual Timber Fest.

20 years ago - 1997
Major construction was going on at Idyllwild Arts Academy. The school broke ground for the Rena and George Pierson Hall. The dormitory was designed to hold 80 students.

15 years ago - 2002
Locals carried signs around the village center calling the Adventure Pass a "Fee-Asco" as part of the National Day of Protest Rally Against the U.S. Forest Service's Adventure Pass.

5 years ago - 2012
The playground opened after volunteers came together for five days to build it, on a scale of effort, integration and cooperation not seen since the community built Town Hall in 1946, in old-fashioned barn-raising fashion.

1 year ago - 2016
Winemaker Chris Johnston and his wife Melody celebrated the grand opening of their new winery's tasting room and art gallery, called Middle Ridge Winery Tasting Gallery.

So You Think You Know the Hill?

BY JACK CLARK
CONTEST JUDGE

I thought I'd beat you all with last week's toughie, which was a detail from the painted sign in front of the Highway 243 entrance to Mile High Café. But Rochelle Ainsworth and Chris Morse spotted it. Only two slips in the hat, and Carter Johnson fumbled around and pulled out Chris' name — again! (Hey, it's a random drawing, so that happens — about the third time now, I think.)

So, Chris, come to the Town Crier to get your $25 Visa gift card, provided to us through the continuing generosity of June Rockwell and JoAn's Restaurant & Bar in the center of town.

OK, everybody, squint hard at this next one: Trees carved on a sign, this time. Maybe you spotted this one while you were looking for the subject of last week's photo? Wherewuzzit?

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.
