Fire destroys local home

By MARSHALL SMITH Staff Reporter

round 2:20 a.m., Tuesday, Aug. 10, David Salk smelled smoke and saw flames leaping from his neighbor's fully engulfed home at the end of Foster Lake Road. The two-story home, in a neighborhood of mostly full-time residents, belongs to Michael and Barbara Hynes.

Salk called CalFire Station 23 in Pine Cove. Crews were on scene within 5 minutes of their dispatch at 2:30 a.m. according to Incident Com-mander Engineer John Riley. "When we got there the fire was throwing up flames 300 to 500 feet in the air," said Riley. Within minutes, engines from Idyllwild Fire Protection District (IFPD) and the Forest Service were also on the scene and engaged in combatting the Lake Fire.

"I can carve [a new monument] in three months' time maximum, although it could be completed in a month and a half," said LaBenne. He proposes a new carving that will stand 20 feet (about two stories) taller than the first monument. LaBenne had wanted to be included in the Chamber's 2007 competition to replace his original work but found out about the competition after design submission deadlines had passed.

County offers historic district ordinance

iverside County representatives came to Idyllwild to discuss the proposed Idyllwild Historic Preservation District (District). They brought along draft revisions to county ordinance 578, designed to update the process for District designation, formation, management and operation.

Property owners within the proposed District have until Aug. 24 to ask questions of and lodge comments with the county See LaBenne, page 18 about the proposed draft. It

New law to protect Caltrans workers

The new law, Senate Bill 240, adds Caltrans vehicles displaying flashing amber warning lights to the list of vehicles for which motorists must slow down and, if safe, move over to a lane not immediately adjacent to the stationary vehicle. Since 1924, 174 Caltrans workers have lost their lives in the line of duty.

Violation of the new provision is punishable by a fine of not more than $50. The new law also makes the safety protections permanent by removing the sunset date (Jan. 1, 2010) from existing law.

Aug. 8 — Two-vehicle traffic (motorcycle and SUV) collision with major injury, Highway 371 west of Bahrman Road. Driver of motorcycle was airlifted to Desert Regional Medical Center with major head trauma.

BY BRUCE WATTS

Enjoy climbing from the couch ...

On Friday, Aug. 6, a new documentary about George Mallory titled, "The Wildest Dream: Conquest of Everest," was released. For those of you unaware of Mallory, he and his partner, Sandy Irvine, disappeared on the upper slopes of Mt. Everest in June, 1924.

Seventy-five years later, in 1999, Conrad Anker found Mallory's frozen remains on Everest. The fate of Mallory and Irvine is the focus of this documentary. In particular, the question remains: did Mallory reach Everest's summit and perish on the descent or did he fail in his attempt to reach the summit? Although there is no way to ever know for sure, this is a question that has been asked for more than eight decades.

From what I have read, the film has Conrad Anker following in the footsteps of George Mallory. Since National Geographic Entertainment is distributing the film, I am sure this is going to be a beautifully shot and thought-provoking film. I will be looking for it as soon as it comes out on DVD.

Next up is a film called, "180 degrees South: Conquerors of the Useless," which claims to be "inspired by the legendary 1968 expedition of Yvon Chouinard and Doug Tompkins." It was the name Chouinard that attracted my attention, as he is one of the legendary climbers and a contemporary of Royal Robbins, who pioneered many climbing skills on Tahquitz. Chouinard is famous both as a rock climber and businessman. He was one of the first to make climbing gear in America and he is the owner of the outdoor clothing company Patagonia.

The film follows Jim Johnson as he supposedly retraces Chouinard's journey to Patagonia. Instead of driving the Pan American Highway like Chouinard, Mr. Johnson decides to hitch a ride on a sail boat. The boat loses its mast in rough seas and they end up on Easter Island.

It doesn't take long before the viewer begins to see that not much is going as planned. In fact, it seems that the people making this movie really do not have a plan at all. The "action" moves between surfing and Johnson's weak attempt to reach the summit Corcovado Cerro.

Because the delays have left the summit free of ice and turned it into a rotten slag heap that is unprotectable, the climbers are forced to turn back.

The only redeeming sections of this movie are the scenery once they reach Patagonia and the interviews with Chouinard and Tompkins about their attempts to buy large parcels of land in Patagonia in order to save it from development. All other parts seem to drag on without purpose.

A third documentary — "Blindsight" — has my attention, but I have yet to finish watching it. It's a documentary about Eric Weihenmayer, the first blind man to reach the summit of Mt. Everest, and his effort to help six blind Tibetan teenagers on an expedition to climb a 23,000-foot-plus peak on the slopes of Everest.

The film starts with Mr. Weihenmayer summiting Everest and then moves to the story of his work with the Tibetans.

Although I did not get a chance to see the actual climbing, the backstory of the teenagers living in Tibet and Mr. Weihenmayer and others showing the kids that they can rise above their handicaps was very inspiring. Even without seeing the ending, I highly recommend "Blindsight" to my readers.

Left, the California or Chilean Aster (Aster chiliensis), is native along the California roadsides, but adapts well to our mountains with minimal moisture. Leafy green shoots are topped with 1-1/2-inch-wide pale lavender flowers with yellow centers in summer. It is a quick-spreading plant, a good soil stabilizer and a bit invasive. It attracts butterflies and beneficial insects. If you plant along with California Goldenrod (Solidago californica) and Narrowleaf California Fuchsia (Zauschneria cana) the flower bed will come alive in late summer and thrive through the first frosts. Bob Deeble dies at age 80

Idyllwild resident and Forest Service staff member and volunteer, died on Thursday, Aug. 5 at the age of 80. In his honor, the Town Crier is reprinting, with minor edits, a 2007 message that Forest Service staff members sent to Bob when he moved into the Devonshire Care Center in Hemet.

This letter to "Ranger Bob" is a fitting tribute to a beloved community member who loved these mountains deeply. Former Wilderness Ranger Gail Heveron, with help from other Forest Service staff and volunteers, authored the letter:

"Bob worked here as a FS Wilderness Ranger many moons ago, and then came back in the 1990s as front desk staff. Bob has a love for the Wilderness and the Forest Service that is amazing. He has had MS (multiple sclerosis) for 44 years, but that would not keep him down. Until he left the FS in about 2002, Bob would hike with his specially made arm crutches up and down the Wilderness trails, just like a mountain goat, sometimes swaying in the breeze due to the MS, and never falling down. Nothing could keep him out of the Wilderness.

'Ranger Bob [was] a good friend of Candy, a 1980's FS ranger for whom Bob named Candy's Creek, and he made and put up the sign that stands today ...

"We want you to know, Bob, that you are ever in our thoughts as we go about our hearts, Bob."

Bob Deeble, longtime daily business here at your beloved Idyllwild Ranger Station. We recall the fresh flower bouquets that you often brought in to brighten our days, and our noses. We recall seeing you with your two beautiful golden retrievers loving their ride in the back of your truck on your way to walk them on the Ernie Maxwell Scenic Trail ...

"You will be happy to know, Bob, that the San Jacinto Wilderness has not changed. The same junction signs are still up, the same lupines bloom on the way to Tahquitz Valley, the same ferns grow five feet tall then yellow out for the autumn months in the meadows, the same wind whispers through the tops of the pines ...

We hope for good, fragrant August and September rains, and look forward to the usual day of a light snowfall at the end of October at the elevation of Saddle Junction and above.

We have several wonderful and dedicated Volunteer Wilderness Rangers, Bob, who continue to care for the Wilderness and the public up there, whether they are lost without a map or didn't bring enough water with them, those things will never change. The volunteers will continue on, Bob, where we can't any longer, and enjoy every granite rock slab view, every pine cone, and every rain drop up there for us.

"You left a great legacy in the Wilderness and in our

This newspaper is printed on recycled paper.

Once again we have a very full paper. Many of the stories exist only because of people and residents whom we casually call 'volunteers."

Idyllwild and our neighbors are part of the unincorporated region of Riverside County. "Unincorporated," I guess that means you're on your own mostly. Sometimes we feel that during an emergency, just ask the Mountain Disaster Preparedness group. There is some help; county Supervisor, Jeff Stone, tries to look out for us in a variety of ways. Nevertheless, unlike Hemet or Palm Springs, we have no true local government. There is no Idyllwild Waste Management department vigilantly cleaning local streets and trails. That's the point, Mario Marchiaro, co-owner of Kenario Gallery, and friend Elliot Taylor are making in Marshall's story about "The Cleanest Forest." There is no curbside pickup, no green lattice baskets every 50 feet, we have to do it ourselves.

The gist of this story is not why Idyllwild deserves this designation, rather Marchiaro and Taylor are asking neighbors to join them in the struggle to keep the title. We can see and intuitively judge whether our town and environs are clean.

I've been on hikes with friends who stop and collect discarded water or soft drink bottles that were apparently too heavy after emptying for the original owner to carry back to camp or the car.

Contributing muscle and motor is not the only way to help. Richard Montaño, owner of Mountain Footwear, suggests that we make it more difficult for thoughtless visitors and perhaps residents to litter.

He recommends placing receptacles around the retail areas. These might attract more of the plastic bottles we see squashed on the roadside. I'm sure there are other suggestions that would significantly reduce the load of trash that we have to collect ourselves.

We have no chief of police or head of economic development. The Chamber for decades and now the Idyllwild Business Roundtable, both composed of volunteers, are trying to uncover options for helping local businesses survive and possibly expand.

But one of those options — a historic preservation district - that could have a significant impact seems to attract few retail historians. Twenty people attended last week's meeting, four represented one gestating business yet born.

If the Board of Supervisors establishes a local district, five people will be needed for the local commission. Who is interested? Who has working knowledge of county codes and can interpret the consequences of creating locally unique regulations?

No local risk management plan exists. There is no head of public safety. Consequently, the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council has again stepped to the forefront to help develop a Community Wildfire Protection Plan. The CWPP isn't a Visa card, but it has helped the FSC and county to garner some fire protection grant money.

Mountain Disaster Preparedness is constantly organizing and planning for an event which none of us wants to see.

And even though the community's largest event, the Idyllwild Jazz in the Pines Festival, is only weeks away, people such as Gary Parton are already conceiving of future events such as a Lilac Festival. See his letter on page 7.

One person called me this week in response to my plea for several to step forward and help find a solution to the Tree Monument debate. I'm not advocating how to solve it, simply that we need to be creative in order to avoid division. Strong feelings, good and bad ideas populate both sides of this brewing controversy.

The Tree Monument, Historic District, Lilac Festival, Lemon Lily Festival, Idyllwild Film Fest, MDP, softball tourneys and perhaps, in the future, a community center are all opportunities awaiting whose success is only a few volunteers shy of victory.

Big earthquake

is coming

Editor:

A big earthquake is coming sometime to Anza, Idyllwild, San Jacinto and points in between.

People will be in varying states of readiness and preparedness when it happens. Worst case scenario, some people will wish they were in another state altogether!

Propane tanks will shake off their foundations, roll downhill spewing gas, until they find flame and light the whole mountain on fire. Seismic cutoff valves should be mandatory on every tank.

The mention in last week's paper, of our unique situation, was vague. From Borrego up through Coyote Canyon (Terwilliger) comes the Coyote Canyon Fault, it meanders over toward Thomas Mountain and buddies up with the San Jacinto Fault. This runs on the Anza side of Thomas Mountain and curves into the Lake Hemet Dam area and then on toward the busy town of San Jacinto. There is a little fault on the Garner Valley side of Thomas Mountain appropriately called the Thomas Mountain Fault. It is fairly short, running from a little past Paradise Corners along Thomas Mountain and ending untraceably around Lake Hemet Dam.

Thomas Mountain is a giant lump sandwiched by two faults. When the earthquake happens, Lake Hemet will burst and the water will inundate Valle Vista and San Jacinto. The scientologists are obviously prepared [since they have] a bunch of huge greyhound type buses to make their getaway.

Here comes the unique part, the San Jacinto Fault as it runs through Anza is said to be a "seismic gap." This means it is a loaded gun with a finger on the trigger. All the seismologists at Caltech and elsewhere are studying it like crazy.

Last week's paper [July 29 edition] mentioned whether seismologists were able to forecast quakes. I believe the answer was "they wish they could". Editorials, letters to the editor, guest editorials and cartoons reflect the opinions of the authors and not necessarily the Town Crier or Tindle Publications.

by Chris Fisher

With the Anza gap situation, I have positively found the only prediction made by any seismolgists anywhere both magnitude and "when".

Here is the quote and the web address of the Caltech website that made the prediciton: http://projects.crustal.ucsb.edu/observatories/gvda/. Better hurry! They might take the prediction off the page after the attention I have drawn to it.

Click on "seismotectonic background," [there you'll read,] "The San Jacinto fault system is historically the most active strike-slip fault system in Southern California. The slip rate of 10 mm/y (Sharp, 1967; Rockwell, 1990) and the absence of a large earthquake since at least 1890 on a 40 km zone of the Anza segment leads to a relatively high probability for a magnitude 6.0 or larger event in the near future."

about our health and wellbeing. How curious that the same bureaucratic network has not capped off the tobacco industry. Or the beef industry.

As indicated by the Town Crier articles about the Tree Monument, words describing a fiasco do not accomplish anything concrete (or wood for that matter). Like the Tree Monument, Bay Tree Spring has become a monumental controversy rather than monumental resource. (Journalists are not supposed to tell you what to do.)

The arguments on all sides of the controversy are, to some extent, reasonable. They include: water quality, safe accessibility, liability, responsibility and liberty.

If you examine all the 'problems," you may agree with me that it all comes down to a problem created by an over-litigious society which is overstocked with politically distracted bureaucrats.

For a bureaucrat to say "No" just requires a memo. A "Yes" requires committees, funds, studies, planning, etc. You can easily see the bureaucratic path of least resistance always points to "No."

So, now that my or our word-fix has been satisfied ... here is my suggestion.

Form a not-for-profit corporation, called Bay Tree Spring (corporation). The corporation can be comprised of concerned individuals who are capable of negotiating a transfer of responsibility for Bay Tree Spring out of the hands of the various acronyms and into the hands of "Bay Tree Spring" (n.p. corporation).

From that point on, it will become a creative project for Idyllwildians to address and resolve all the issues and problems associated with reopening the spring and recovering this resource.

The concrete over Bay Tree Spring was actually applied with hands and tools and funds. Any future change in that condition must also be accomplished with hands and tools and funds and the words plainly printed on a sign: "Natural Spring, Use water at your own discretion, contact Bay Tree Spring Corporation for more information."

Dedicated to a Lilac Festival

EDITOR:

Idyllwild has been a touchstone in my life for over 50 years and it's time for me to give something back to this mountain paradise. I would like to donate 1,000 lilacs over three years to the downtown area. Lilacs have long been a part of gardens on the Hill, doing well with little maintenance or care.

I am seeking a small group of volunteers willing to help one or two Saturdays a year for two or three years to help plant them. With a little work and care, lilacs could become a rich part of our lives. Idyllwild could be a floral show place during the month of May each year, an Alpine village unique in California.

During 2013, the last year of planting in the downtown area, several hundred lilacs will be made available to residents at $10 each. In 2015, we could look forward to Idyllwild's first lilac festival. The fragrance and color of lilacs will forever make May one of the most memorable months on the Hill.

I hope my dream for lilacs on the Hill is shared by others willing to help. GARY PARTON Idyliwild Hiking, teaching and preparing ... I hike quite a bit with my younger daughters, Riley and Brooke. As I spend more time with them in the high country, hiking at their pace, I have come to appreciate the wilderness in a different way.

If I am in the high country by myself, I move at a pretty quick pace, concentrating on the task at hand if it be search or rescue, or thinking about getting to my destination if it's a day hike. When I am with my kids, I have come to notice that the final destination is not as important as the journey of getting there.

The hike from Humber Park to Saddle Junction has three creek crossings along the way. I have passed by these crossings at least a thousand times in the last 30 years without giving them much notice. This time of year, they are flowing strong with snow melt and I now take advantage of them as being great places to stop and rest. My daughters splash around for awhile, while I actually sit, relax and take in the sights. Then, it's on to the next one and before you know it, we are at the Saddle.

Another aspect I consider when hiking with my kids is what they would do if something were to happen to me and they had to go for help. I am always pointing

EDITOR:

Who authorized Mike Pearson to negotiate a deal for a new monument without the community's say? Who is this backdoor Charlie? If memory serves [me right], Pearson was adamant and hell-bent on cutting down the original monument.

At the time, David Roy stated he could save the monument, repair cracks and thousands of woodpecker holes like only he knows how.

Pearson, the monument's steward, failed in his duty to stay on top of the maintenance of the monument. But Pearson and the Chamber refused to listen. Mr. Roy should have been given that chance.

The Chamber listened to a logger and not a man who have any questions at all has dedicated his life to creating, caring [for], and preserving the beauty of wood. Listen to David Roy ... What a shame, the monument mess could have been avoided. Oh, one other thing, I thought at one time LaBenne would carve the new monument for nothing.

It should also be noted that while LaBenne was carving the original monument, he also sold his own small carvings to make money. Roy is selling T-shirts to make ends meet. What's the difference?

Back-to-school supplies needed

On July 20, the Idyllwild HELP Center kicked off the Back to School Supplies Drive for local K-8 students. The "school bus" and "stop sign" will be at BBVA Compass through Aug. 16. On the bus and stop sign will be tags with a child's age, gender and grade and their back-to school-needs. Our children need just the basics: pencils, paper, backpacks, lunchboxes, rulers and erasers. For further information about the drive, call the HELP Center at 659-2110.

Allstate Insurance tests fire retardant for homeowners

By Beth Nottley STAFF REPORTER

Hill residents who have homeowners insurance through Allstate Insurance Company were recently notified that their homes would be part of a pilot test. If a wildfire were to approach the mountain communities, the structures and surrounding landscape of Allstate's clients could be sprayed with a fire retardant as part of the company's new Wildfire Protection Program.

As the main feature of the program, Allstate is running the remainder of the fire season in two geographical areas deemed to be at high wildfire risk — a 90-mile radius from Fallbrook and from Simi Valley. During the test period, Allstate's partner in the program, Firebreak Spray Systems, LLC, will attempt to reach the insured's property in advance of an approaching wildfire. They may choose to spray the property with Phos-Chek, the same fire retardant that the U.S. Forest Service uses when fighting wildfires. Phos-Chek renders fuel needles and woody material nonflammable. As heat increases from an approaching fire, the product decomposes and gives off water vapor to cool the flames. A nonflammable carbon coating remains to insulate the fuel source, virtually starving the fire of fuel. It is a long-term fire retardant, designed to work until it is washed off with rain or sprayed water.

According to Jim Klapthor, Allstate corporate relations, the Wildfire Protection Program is a "test run of a fire suppression system to holders and, if called upon, actually works." Policyholders in the test area were automatically enrolled in the program at no cost, and were notified that if they wanted to opt out, it had to be done in writing within 14 days of July 15, the date of Allstate's letter notifying policyholders of the program.

In its notification to policyholders, Allstate made it clear that although the goal of the program is to protect homes in the proximity of an active wildfire, there is no guarantee that one of the

Idyllwild Fire Chief Norm Walker said he approves of Allstate's cautiousness. "I like their approach; in the face of a big wildfire when we're evacuating residents they may not be able to get in to the area."

He did say, however, that if homes were able to be sprayed with the fire retardant, "it could save some houses." He said Phos-Chek is a "good product" and added, "It's a fertilizer, so the long-term effect on plants is good."

Walker did express reservations about employees of a private company being on the scene of a wildfire, possibly getting in the way of firefighting crews or creating a situation where the See Allstate, page 23

Propane bills reduced at Hummingbird

By Marshall Smith STAFF REPORTER

According to Pine Cove's Hummingbird Mobile Home Park resident Brandi Selkirk, the Riverside County Agricultural (AG) Commissioner's Office, division of Weights and Measures, significantly reduced propane bills for a majority of the Park's affected residents.

The problem arose from inaccurate meter readings. An employee of park owner Focus Management was responsible and residents were surprised by bills for eight months to a year ranging from $1,000 to $3,000.

In last week's edition, we reported that Focus Management asked residents to pay past due propane bills by Aug. 4 or they would be given three days to pay or vacate. Jon Zorn, Focus Management president, contacted the Crier to clarify that only residents that had

> "Residents were served a notice to pay or quit only if they did not pay their current rent and utility charges, or did not set up a payment plan," he said. "When Weights and Measures told me the adjusted amounts were incorrect, I served notices only for the current charges that were past due. I have honestly worked with Weights and Measures to make sure that the residents' bills were adjusted correctly, and always tried to work with as little disruption to their budgets as possible," said Zorn. "When any resident called me to ask for a payment plan, I said, 'What can you afford?' and I did not charge interest."

Zorn indicated that Focus has yet to collect on what he terms the "vast majority" of propane used last winter by residents and is waiting till the matter is resolved by Weights and Measures. 'We still expect residents to make prompt payment on all charges that are not in dispute," he said.

COLONEL BO'S COMPLAINT

What a Day! What a Gorgeous Day!" Coupled with a joyful smile, this greeting is one we hear a dozen times a day around the Post Office. The flatlanders call complaining about the heat or the humidity or the governor or just the flatland. But here on the 'Hill', we smile and enjoy the cool, clean, clear breeze, just enough to keep the flag unfurled. Reminds us, 'This is America; not Heaven.'

"Need Rain!" A Long Beach biker yells back to Charlie Wix's cheery greeting. My thoughts flashed back to 1950, Korea. My jet fighter squadron was flying out of K-28 — south of In'chon on the Yellow Sea. It rained steadily for three months. Cold, steady rain. We were in squad tents and mud. Even the mosquitoes were grounded. All our GI trucks and jeeps were stuck in the goo. Nothing was flying. There was no beer, no booze, no ice cream. Just dry eggs and Spam and a nonstop poker game from February 'til June. One night I heard the chaplain, "Gents, I swear to you, I'll never pray for rain again, ever." I've seen that chaplain around our Post Office. Suppose he's responsible for this glorious weather? Stop by B's MOUNTAIN of BOOKS — read or listen to my DIS-HONORED GLORY and enjoy the weather.

Mountain Disaster Preparedness (MDP) is offering a CERT training class from Aug. 13-15 and anyone 18 years or older is invited to attend. There is no cost for the class. To become certified, participants must attend all three days of the class, which will be held at the IFPD training room. The Friday, Aug. 13 session meets from 5 to 9 p.m.; the Saturday and Sunday sessions meet from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Individuals who are already CERT trained and want to take the class as a refresher are welcome to attend this class.

Volunteers are sought to act as the victims and help at the Sunday session's exercise test.

Preregistration is required to attend the CERT class so that training material will be available for each participant. Please send us your name, address, and email for the initial registration to Rick Foster at rick. foster@verizon.net. Foster can also be reached at (951) 659-1938.

Lora Steere celebration a success

By CAREY POWERS NEWS INTERN

As was apparent and overflowing from her letters that were read aloud at last Saturday's Retrospective Celebration, Lora Steere lived thoroughly and without reservation, thirsting after "impossible dreams" and innovative thinking in the arts.

"I've just had no dull moments," she wrote in Idvllwild in 1954, after a long summer teaching sculpture not only to her ISOMATA students, but also to her grandchildren, who were with her continuously throughout the duration of the summer program. A lot can be said about a woman who treasured her extended family as learners, as mentees, and as people who had dreams and curiosities of their own that she guided into maturity.

The celebration at The Rustic Theatre was filled with memories, letter readings, music, and a contagious appreciation of a woman whose influence was far-reaching both in Idyllwild and at Idyllwild Arts. Many thanks were given to event coordinator, cobolus for the 1932 Olympics. Helms Bakery commissioned five statues from Steere.

The speakers' voices emanated great fondness as well as an ever-growing respect and warmth for their friend, teacher, and grandmother. Many of Steere's grandchildren made an appearance and spoke for their recently deceased father, James, whose memories of Steere were sadly illuminating and humorous.

Slowly over the course of the celebration, Lora Steere became not just a name or an accomplished artist persona, but a true character, a human being, whose love of life, high regard for the people of Idyllwild, and long history of personal struggle and artistic liberation inspired the full house who attended.

Speaking about the central traits of a mentor, a position he felt was dwindling in the world, Evan turned into a very special Mills offered words like "challenging," "enigmatic," and "fun" to describe the singular way she taught and nurtured. But she was more than just a distant figure of respect. Her heart didn't just inform her work; her work was an outpouring of the ally, the young film student heart.

One could say she was unimaginably strong. From her frequent treks up to A Tribute to Lora Steere," Tahquitz Peak later in her seemed thankful and happy

On Monday, Aug, 2, Pacific Slope played the Café Aroma Meatballs for second place. It was a tight contest throughout. Pacific Slope took an early lead with Shaunna Friemoth getting a base hit and driving in a run which wasn't enough. The mighty Meatballs came back to win the game 8-6. Kathy Lewis' three base hits and Chris Fogle's grand slam turned the game around.

On Tuesday, Creekstone Inn creamed the Whitman Physical Therapy More Cowbells. Chad Marler's good game including a couple base hits and stellar play at third base were not enough for the More Cowbells. Creekstone's offense, led by Brian Kretsinger's single and double, was too much to stop. Creekstone won 15-1.

On Wednesday, Ajax hosted Forest Lumber for fourth place. After the first inning, the game was tied 4-4. Forest Lumber's Marty Prevosto collected three hits during the game. But Ajax pulled away behind Raymond Maras' double and driving in two runs. Ajax took over fourth place beating Forest Lumber 16-11.

On Thursday, Forest Lumber played Creekstone Inn. Jeremy Potter had a good game for Forest Lumber with a couple of base hits, but Creekstone was just too much for Forest Lumber as Josh White had three base hits as Creekstone hanber 19-2.

America's cleanest forest isn't

By MARSHALL SMITH Staff Reporter

Lake Arrowhead calls itself "The Alps of California." Someone honored Idyllwild with the sobriquet "America's Cleanest Forest." But is it? And if it is or was, who's responsible for keeping it clean?

The troubling pictures of trash and discarded appliances up and down gullies just off of Highway 243 and in and around Humber Park challenge the "Cleanest Forest" moniker.

Idyllwild has no local government and consequently, no cleaning crews on its payroll. Responsible hikers have an ethic of carrying out what they bring in. So when mega-trash of the "too big to put in your pocket variety" starts turning up in the "cleanest" forest environs, what is a viable recourse to get it removed?

Local Mario Marchiaro, co-owner of Kenario Gallery, and friend Elliot Taylor, have taken matters into their own hands, and sometimes hands are not enough. "Some of the trash, downhill on the left side off of Highway 243 when coming into Idyllwild, was too big for two people to carry," said Marchiaro, mentioning a refrigerator and a steel futon mattress frame. "It's trash that has been there a long time - paint containers, toilets, everything conceivable," he noted.

Idyllwild depends on volunteerism for its quality of life. Just off the beaten tracks and main hiking trails, generally near areas with parking in the winter, careless individuals are shattering that quality of life by discarding junk and waste of all sorts tucked in and under bushes. "McDonald's bags and drink cups," said Marchiaro, "they didn't even buy their food here." So to keep the "Cleanest Forest in America" clean, once again, volunteers are needed.

Not only are they needed for cleaning discarded trash, but opportunities to avoid the initial and inappropriate deposit are also important. For example, Richard Montaño, owner of Mountain Footwear, cites the lack, in the downtown corridor, of recycling containers for bottles and cans. "We should offer visitors and residents that option," he said.

Marchiaro and Taylor routinely make monthly cleanup trips with bags and mechanical arms to pick up refuse used diapers, underclothing, IV bags, bottles, truck tires that visitors have left with no regard for the beauty and gift of this mountain environment.

"They go to the most beautiful places to discard their trash, it's bizarre," said Marchiaro, who takes daily walks and collects an average of three bags of trash. Steve Moulton, who collects trash from Chamber of Commerce containers, notes that many civic-minded locals regularly pick up trash and that effort is part of living somewhere where employed cleanup crews are not available.

For Marchiaro, a native of Italy, the need to keep natural environments clean, is deeply rooted. "I want my environment to be clean wherever I go," he said. He recounted visiting his home village in Italy and returning from a walk along a beautiful path linking his village with another. "My mother was shocked I picked up trash belonging to someone else," he remembered. "But if I don't, who will?" he explained. "If everyone would take a trash bag and gloves with them on walks and just pick up the trash they see, we could make a difference," he said. "It's your backyard."

New community wildfire plan beginning

By J.P. Crumrine EDITOR

Preparation of a new San Jacinto Mountains Community Wildfire Protection Plan (CWPP) has begun. The Board of Supervisors adopted the current plan in July 2006.

In 2005, the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council (FSC), under the leadership of former President Blair Ceniceros, took responsibility for initiating the work in the San Jacinto Mountains CWPP. This plan, the product of several community meetings, covered the Hill from Poppet Flat to Pinyon.

The biggest change in the revision will be its breadth. The initial intent, according to Cal Fire Capt. Mark Barr and current FSC President Mike Esnard, is to expand the coverage to include all San Jacinto Mountain communities from Cabazon south to the San Diego County border (see map). Essentially, this version will include the mountain communities, the foothills and all approaches to the Hill.

"We're hoping this will keep things simple in the county," Esnard said explaining the CWPP expansion. "One large CWPP rather than many smaller ones is our aim."

The geographical enlargement also engenders some strategic planning adjustments, too. The original plan focused largely on the removal of dead or dying trees, according to Kevin Turner, Cal Fire.

"Fire protection of the Hill is more than just trees," he said. "Anza and Sage have significant fire hazards due to brush and we don't want to limit ourselves geographically."

The local FSC, which prepared the original CWPP, is continuing in the forefront of the project, according to Esnard. "We have representation on our board from Pinyon and Anza. We need a local representative or contact for the plan to be successful. We are still working on selecting or finding them [for the southern communities]."

The first organization meeting in Anza, which Esnard felt was decently attended, was held in June. Others are to be scheduled, according to Barr.

The Healthy Forest Restoration Act of 2003 authorized CWPPs. Communities that have completed a CWPP will have a higher priority for monetary assistance for hazardous fuels reduction projects.

Completion of the 2006 plan was facilitated with the help of Dave Kehrlein, ESRI of Redlands. Esnard and Turner said ESRI will also be involved in this version.

The 2006 CWPP set three goals intended to reduce the threat of fire on the mountain. The first is to facilitate and assist the removal of dangerous fuels to achieve optimal protection of people, property and habitat. The second goal is to continue and expand education of residents and interest groups to assist in creating greater safety for fire.

The third and final goal is to continue to support the work of federal, state and fire protection agency resources in creating a safer environment in the San Jacinto Mountains.

Bill Sanborn unopposed for fifth term

By J.P. Crumrine EDITOR

The selection of several local candidates for education and water agency boards has been determined. The June 8 primary was only two months ago and the November election is still three months away; nevertheless, Friday, Aug. 6 was a decisive day for several local campaigns.

Incumbent and Idyllwild resident Bill Sanborn is unopposed for his seat on the Hemet Unified School Board. Sanborn was appointed to the board in 1991. He and five other candidates applied to fill the term of Dwight Holmes, who resigned. Sanborn took office in September 1991.

mer Idyllwild resident John Holt, who lost to Sanborn in 1994. In the three elections since 1998, Sanborn ran unopposed.

Three other HUSD trustee seats will be filled in November. Phyllis Petri's area 2 (Anza south to Aguanga) challenger is Paul Bakkom, husband of Idyllwild School teacher Holly Guntermann. Petri was first elected to the HUSD board in 1990.

Area 3, which is Hemet, has two trustee seats on the ballot. Board President and incumbent Joe Wojcik is seeking reelection. He was first elected to the board in 2006. Dr. Glenn Figgins, also elected in 2006, died this spring and his appointed the board. Candidates may still file.

As of Monday, four candidates have filed to join the race with Wojcik for two seats. The new candidates are Clarence R. Holliday, James Little, Jayson D. Sandoval and Horacio "Ross" Valenzuela.

Terms for Lake Hemet Municipal Water District seats for District Divisions 1, 3 and 4 expire this year. All three incumbents — Patrick Searl, Frank D. Marshall, and Larry Minor - are seeking reelection and none will be opposed.

Neighbors feared the Hynes were still inside. Prior to the arrival of fire crews, Roland Perales, whose home overlooks the Hynes', had trained his garden hoses on their propane tanks to help prevent an explosion and worried for the lives of his neighbors. "We couldn't get to the tank to turn it off, he said. "We thought they were inside the home all this time. We just assumed the worst."

Fire crews found the Hynes, a couple in their 70s, in their yard backed against a chain-link fence, about 200 feet from the burning structure. Crews moved the Hynes to the safety of a CalFire vehicle. Late Tuesday morning, after the immediate danger had passed, Hynes said, "We're physically O.K. but everything else is down the tubes."

The fire was under control by early morning. "We [the combined crews] got it pretty much knocked down within the better part of an hour," said IFPD

Chief Norm Walker. CalFire Mountain Battalion Chief Dan Johnson estimated that crews would have all hot spots extinguished by 1 or 2 p.m. "Hand crews are carefully going though the timbers of the house to see if we can save personal belongings," said Johnson. 'The problem is that it's a two-story structure and it will take us a while to peel out the structural pieces [to find personal items]." Chief Johnson recalled talking with Barbara Hynes. "When she woke up [they were in a loft or upstairs bedroom], the fire was all downstairs," he remembered her saying. "She said there was a lot of noise."

The Hynes managed to exit the house before the top story collapsed onto the foundation, but not before trying to save a caged pet cockatoo, according to Nancy Layton, who along with Rick Foster responded in Red Cross capacity. "The cockatoo inflicted pretty severe bites on Mr. Hynes," said Layton. "On-scene paramedics thought he might need stitches." The pet did not survive the blaze.

Pursuant to Red Cross ity of neighboring homes, make them [the firefighters] procedure, Layton and Foster ensured the Hynes will be able to purchase emergency food and clothing. The Hynes will stay at a friend's house for the time being. Layton noted the Hynes' home was fully insured and the couple would likely be covered for expenses of temporary stay.

Looking out over five engines and 20 firefighters from three different agencies working the fire scene, and noting the close proxim-

Chief Johnson remarked on how fortunate the Hill is to have interagency cooperative agreements in place, and how that cooperation ensures rapid response and effective manpower to battle fire emergencies such as this one. "This could have been so much worse," said Incident Commander Riley.

Standing with neighbors gathered to watch the crews family members and said, "Let's go back inside and some more coffee." Reached at their friend's home, Hynes speculated that a recent spraying of the underside of a redwood deck with a sealant might have contributed to the fire. Something may have ignited that still wet undercoat," said Hynes. "The crew that did the spraying had only done the bottom and had not yet gotten to the top." at work, Perales turned to The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Hynes noted he and his wife got out so quickly that they had no time to get car keys, wallets and purses, so right now they have no transportation. "We're working with Steve at Idvllwild Garage and AAA to get keys made," he said. "We're sort of in limbo right now. We're not sure if we'll rebuild. The house was so beautiful, both inside and out, with the best view. That's why we bought it" confer, Idyllwild would be subject to meeting county codes drafted primarily for parts of the county with newer buildings and more spaces for parking than are available in Idyllwild. Stone also expressed concern that Idyllwild could be hit by Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) suits that recently affected Julian, in San Diego County. District status carves out exceptions for ADA compliance and allows timeline flexibility, a word oft used by county presenters, for county code compliance.

"I had my start there [in Idyllwild] and it means a lot to me," he said. "It would be a homecoming type of experience to return and [create something new for] that little spot [the original monument site]."

LaBenne and Pearson both acknowledged they have learned much from the truncated life of the original monument. "First, we had a tree that had been dead for some time," said LaBenne. "Second, it was a pine, not a cedar. And because cedars have tannins, a natural oil that acts as a preservative, a cedar monument will weather far better than the previous pine one." LaBenne said that technology of wood preservation has changed dramatically in the 21 years since he carved the first monument and that he would use the latest and most effective sealants on a new carving.

"Probably the biggest mistake we made was putting it [the original 1989 carving] in the ground and planting a garden around it. There should have been a seal placed around the base [to insulate it from moisture moving up into the base]."

"With a new monument, sculptor Dore Capitani to we'll place it on a foundation, install the metal straps that much like a foundation for a house," he said.

LaBenne said he would also consult with local Cahuilla tribal elders to make certain his depiction of the early residents of the San Jacintos is accurate.

Pearson is investigating all the logistical considerations, including working with the Forest Service to locate a minimum 70-foot green cedar tree in the San Jacinto or San Bernardino mountains and retrofitting the present monument area for installation of the larger carving. Pearson said he had gotten agreement from metal sculptor Dore Capitani to install the metal straps that will anchor the monument to its new base.

"We're looking for sponsors," said Pearson, who will approach county and congressional representatives for funding.

The Town Crier welcomes community input on this issue.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A relaxed mood early in the week could give way to hightemperature disputes. The Aries Lamb should resist being pulled into heated quarrels that could really singe your wool.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Satisfy that practical obligation first, then you can feel free to indulge in your creative endeavors. Also, check for hidden or overlooked areas where repairs might be long overdue.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Home is still the Twins' major focus this week. But outside matters begin to take on added importance, especially those involving possible career moves. Stay alert for signs of change.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A travel plan might need to undergo some considerable adjustment because of unexpected changes. Keep an open mind and let the facts guide you on how you want to handle this.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Playing cat and mouse with a matter you don't really want to tackle wastes time, energy and, most important, an opportunity. Ask someone with experience to help you get started.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A shift in policy might not please you, but before you put up a "No Go" wall of resistance, examine the circumstances. You might be quite pleasantly surprised by what you find.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Yesterday's critiques about your methods might have already evolved into today's praise for your achievements. Good for you. Now go on and continue to build on your credibility.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An occasional temperamental flare-up might occur as you continue to help get things back to normal. Stay with it. You should soon get some idea of where to take things next.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A negative reaction to what you believe was a well-deserved request might mean that you need to reconsider your position and make changes accordingly.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) There's always room for someone new at the Sea Goat's table. And the someone new this week could bring a message you've been waiting a long time to hear.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A pile-on of personal matters this week might seem too overwhelming to deal with. But handling them on a one-by-one basis could have you out from under it by the weekend.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A friend might need your good advice regarding a matter. Be supportive. But unless you can be absolutely sure you have all the facts, be careful about any suggestions you might be asked to offer.

BORN THIS WEEK: Few things make you happier than bringing people together and helping to forge new friendships.

IWD's recycling report available

By J.P. Crumrine Editor

Idyllwild Water District (IWD) has completed its environmental assessment for a proposed water recycling facility. The document is available at the district office. A public hearing on the proposed adoption of the draft negative declaration is scheduled for the district's regular meeting at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 21.

IWD General Manager Terry Lyons has found that the construction and use of the proposed recycling facility "could not have a significant effect on the [local] environment and a negative declaration will be prepared."

for a conditional use permit to install and to operate a tertiary water recycling system. The facility would be located at the existing treatment area.

Currently wastewater (sewerage) is discharged into a sludge pond and then eventually into percolation ponds. The water seeps into the subsoil and gradually migrates off the mountain.

Treating and recycling the water will allow for its reuse for irrigation and landscaping. IWD has plans to transport the water via pipelines to Foster Lake, which serves as basin for ground water recharge. IWD has several wells surrounding the lake from which

The district has applied water is pumped into its system.

> The initial recycling plant will be a pilot effort and, therefore, its capacity will be limited to about 20 percent of the currently discharged wastewater. However, construction will allow for future expansion if the pilot results are successful, according to the report.

> The tertiary treatment plant will be located at the current IWD sewerage facility southwest of the Idyllwild Arts campus. Treatment will include two stages of filtration devices and chlorination. The first filter will remove suspended solids and the second will remove harmful bacteria See IWD, page 26

This [District] provides a little bit of protection for the county as well as for the property owner in Idvllwild." Jolliffe concurred. "It is better to have some flexibility than none when it comes to code issues," he said.

When an audience member raised a question about existing business signage code, Jolliffe noted the good thing about having design guidelines as part of a historic district is that they would provide businesses with examples of permissible signage drawn up by a local review board. "One of the neat things about having design guidelines is that the requirements would be separate from other areas of the county," he said. "And those District guidelines should be vastly different from the rest of the county [to perpetuate Idyllwild's idiosyncratic identity]. Idyllwild is eclectic to begin with, so there has to be a lot of flexibility with regard to signage, parking, and local direction."

Lauritzen said he understood town anxiety about the county coming in to tures (2 water tanks, water trough, and associated pipe) and corral will be removed within the Jim Burn Unit. The project occurs within portions of Township 7 South, Range 4 East, Sections 8 and 16. There is a need to assess grazing on the Paradise allotment at this time; incorporate new species information; and develop an AMP that incorporates standards and guidelines found ir the 2006 San Bernardino National Forest Land nent Plan. The Forest Plan provide primary direction for all management activities on the San Bernardino National Forest. The Forest Plan provides Forest-wide management direction in the form of design criteria, includ-ing specific guidance for livestock grazing and rangeland health. This project incorporates direction from the Forest Plan by analyzing rangeland capability and suitability guidelines ensuring compliance with biological opinions and sustainable rangeland management; and considering wildlife protection measures of structural improvements and rangeland management practices. A draft Environmental Assessment detailing the proposal is available for review at: http://data.ecosystem-management. org/nepaweb/project_list.php?forest=110512. do something in the community, but stressed the many opportunities for citizen and property owner input leading up to District formation, and especially after formation, should that come to pass.

Jolliffe and Herron stressed that the District would be locally directed, with a five-member board. all of whom must reside within three miles of the District and three of whom must own property within the District. The local review board, appointed by the county Board of Supervisors, would be responsible for drafting District design guidelines (for exteriors only). Consequently, at least one member should be familiar with architecture and construction techniques. "This should be your District, well-crafted from the community for the community," said Jolliffe. "Everybody needs to clearly understand what they are getting out of this."

Of concern to some attendees was whether residences within the District would be affected. Presenters made clear that only buildings designated 'contributing resources' would be affected by District guidelines and that

NOTICE OF INTENT TO ADOPT A NEGATIVE DECLARATION Project Title: Design and Build a Treatment Plant for POTW Effluent For Recycling and Recharging Fractured Bedrocks using Dual Filtration Technology Project Location: Idyllwild, California

Lead Agency: Idyllwild Water District

County: Riverside Notice is hereby given that Idyllwild Water istrict has completed a CEQA (California Environmental Quality Act) checklist of the above mentioned project located in Idyllwild, California. Maps showing the Project Site and its vicinity are available for review at the Water District's office. This checklist was completed in accordance with the District's guidelines implementing the California Environmental Quality Act. This checklist was undertaken for the purpose of deciding whether the project may have a significant effect on the environment. On the basis of such checklist, the District's staff has concluded that the project will not have a significant effect on the environment, and has therefore prepared a Draft Negative Declaration. The checklist reflects the independent judgment of the District. The project site is not on a list compiled pursuant to government Code section 65962.5. Copies of the checklist and the Draft Negative Declaration are on file at the District's office, 25945 Idvllwild Road (State Highway 243), Idyllwild, CA 92549 and are available for public review. Comments

no residences within the proposed District were designated "contributing resources."

This draft ordinance 578 greatly revises a previous 1979 ordinance created when Old Town Temecula was considering historic district status. One of the stipulations this draft removes is the opportunity for a specified percentage of property owners within the proposed District to prevent its formation. The present draft gives two opportunities for public comments on District formation (in addition to the comment period on the draft itself which ends Aug. 24). These official public comment periods are when Planning Commission reviews the proposal and a second when the Board of Supervisors (BOS) considers it. The decision to establish a historic district in Idvllwild will rest with the BOS after reviewing all public comments.

Jolliffe and Lauritzen estimated the draft ordinance could be passed by end of September and the District's creation placed before the BOS in the first quarter of 2011.

will be received until September 15, 2010. Any person wishing to comment on this matter must submit such comments, in writing, to the District prior to this date. Comments of all responsible encies are also requested. At its meeting at 7:00 p.m. on September 1, 2010 at the Idyllwild Water District Office, the Board of Directors will consider the project and the Draft Negative Declaration. If the Board and the Dran regarive Declaration. It the board of Directors finds that the project will not have a significant effect on the environment, it may adopt the Negative Declaration. This means that the Board of Directors may proceed to and the board of Directors may proceed to consider the project without the preparation of an Environmental Impact Report. Pub. CREATURE CORNER

By Mimi and Hootch

ARF "angels" have been busy the last two weeks! Ready to rescue, reunite and, if need be, give their homes and hearts to those that are lost. Amazingly, after 30 days being under the care of an ARF angel, who relentlessly searched, Sam the German Shepherd was reunited with his pack. Another angel helped reunite the Siberian husky with his worried pack

Now we have a beautiful tabby/calico mix found at Inspiration Point Saturday night. Sweetie," a pseudo name because she is so sweet, has found shelter with an animal lover who never tires of extending her wings to facilitate the "happy ending." Join the ARF angels in our effort to make every animal safe, loved and in good homes. Please join for the animals.

A huge hurrah for Chance, our parade dog, who went to his forever home, and for Phoenix, our sunshine orange, who now has a family to call her own.

Rosi will still need extensive medical treatment to be able to continue her "happy dance" that she is so fond of doing. She is so lucky to have found her angel who goes above and beyond to make Rose comfortable in the interim.

And then we have Mrs. Dash, the dachshund, who literally dashed in and out of ARF, and was able to connect with unconditional love at first sight with her new mister.

Beth Ann has returned to ARF, after being an angel herself to someone in need. She is ready for her new assignment to administer some purring medicine to anyone in need, even if only for a short time.

Remember all those baby kitties? They will be available for adoption on Aug. 21! Marlena, Buddha, P.K. and the whole gang are meowing ... Yay!

ARF will only be open on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. until further notice due to minimal staffing. Phone is (951) 659-1122. Email at www.idyllwildarf.org, where you will fund Petfinders and donation opportunities. Or, email at arf@greencafe.com.
