Another superb weekend of music — mostly jazz — ended early Sunday evening with the silence of the final melodies and last dancers departing the French Quarter. This year, it seemed very fitting to close the festival at this venue because of the frequent references to the fifth anniversary of Hurricane Katrina nearly washing New Orleans away. Labor Day weekend fun

By BETH NOTTLEY
STAFF REPORTER

In addition to the traditional Labor Day weekend yard sales that Idyllwild is known for, there are many other activities — arts and entertainment events — that promise good end-of-summer fun and lots of good food prepared by local service organizations.

Bargain hunters and collectors won't want to miss the Labor Day yard sales happening all over the Hill. Of note is the Mountain Community Patrol's Labor Day Yard Sale. For 15 years, this group's sale was held over the Memorial Day weekend. They changed the sale to Labor Day after frustration with late spring snowstorms that threatened their sale in recent years. Their "new" Labor Day weekend sale will be held from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Sept. 3 and 4 at 54185 South Circle Drive.

Check out the "Classifieds" section of this issue for listings of other Labor Day weekend yard sales and use the specially marked map to easily find each sale.

Over the weekend, on Friday through Sunday evening, Isis Theatre Company will present "The Clean House," Sarah Ruhl's award-winning play that, through a cast of complex and unconventional characters, examines the jokes that life plays on people. The play, which is produced by Isis Theatre Company Artistic Director Suzanne Avalon, and directed by Idyllwild Arts Theatre Department chair Howard Shangraw, stars a cast with impressive stage credits. The curtain goes up at 7:30 p.m. each evening at the Caine Learning Center. A 7 p.m. reception precedes the performance with wine and other refreshments served.

Children, their families, and animal lovers of all ages will want to check out the Labor Day Family Fun events at the Idyllwild Nature Center being held from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday through Monday. On Saturday, Living Free Sanctuary and Idyllwild Animal Rescue Friends will host a pet viewing where furry, playful friends who See Labor Day, page 16

$1 million for Idyllwild library

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

At its Tuesday, Aug. 31 meeting, the Riverside County Board of Supervisors approved an initial $1 million funding grant for the Idyllwild Library Project. Verne Lauritzen, Third District Supervisor Jeff Stone's chief of staff, said that the county is examining a number of options for relocating the library. The grant will be used for the design and construction of a 3,000- to 4,000-square-foot library and community room to serve the Idyllwild and Pine Cove area. The new facility will replace the current library as part of a community revitalization campaign in the Idyllwild business core.

The resolution amended the county's 2010-2011 One Year Action Plan, part of the 2009-2014 Five Year Consolidated Plan, to add the Idyllwild Library Project.

Regarding the grant, Lauritzen said, "This gets us started and gets us going toward our goal." Stone had promised to announce his decision regarding location and plans for the project to the Friends of the Idyllwild Library (FOL) on or before Sept. 1.

When told of the grant, FOL member Adele Voell said, "It's wonderful that this See Library, page 8

Fire restrictions begin Thursday

Moderate to severe drought conditions, hot weather and lower fuel moisture have prompted the San Bernardino National Forest (SBNF) to increase fire restrictions effective Thursday, Sept. 2. Most SBNF wildfires are human-caused and increased restrictions are designed to reduce the chance of a wildland fire during the high risk periods.

Forest visitors are reminded to exercise caution when visiting the National Forest and maintain a higher level of awareness. Travelers through the Forest should remain on designated roads and never park on dry brush or grass.

The newly imposed fire restrictions and guidelines include the following:

- Wood and charcoal fires are permitted only in campgrounds and picnic grounds and within agency-provided fire rings or camp stoves. Under extreme fire conditions, rangers may further restrict campfires from campgrounds.

- Wood and charcoal fires are not permitted at Yellow Post campsites due to high fire danger. Only propane and gas stoves are permitted at Yellow Post sites.

- Campfires are not permitted at walk-in or hike-in camps on the Mountaintop Ranger District.

- Campfire permits are required for propane and gas stoves used outside of developed recreation sites.

- Recreational shooting is limited to Public Shooting Ranges operated by concessionaires or with special use permits, except those engaged in legal hunting.

- An approved spark arrester is required for any internal combustion engine operated on designated forest routes. These include chainsaws, generators, motorcycles, and off-highway vehicles.

- Smoking is limited to enclosed buildings, vehicles and developed recreation sites.

- Fireworks are always prohibited on the SBNF. Tracer, armor piercing, steel core, and Teflon ammunition are also prohibited, as is discharging a firearm at any exploding target.

The US Forest Service will aggressively cite those who do not comply with the posted restrictions. Violation of these prohibitions is subject to punishment by a fine of not more than $10,000 or imprisonment for not more than six months or both, as Class B misdemeanors under federal law. Persons may also be responsible for resource damage, suppression costs and any injuries that occur if they are found liable for causing a wildfire.

OUTSIDE IDYLLWILD

By BRUCE WATTS

Forty-two degrees!

As I write this on Monday morning, it is 42 degrees outside, which is probably 20 degrees lower than about two days ago.

Every morning since the beginning of July, we have had to put a fan outside the open doorway at work to blow in some cooler air. Now I have the door and windows closed and it feels just about right. Of course, I am wearing my summer season "uniform" of shorts and a short-sleeve sport shirt and I will continue to wear the same style until the temps dip below freezing or it rains or snows.

The weather forecast says that it will warm up again this week, but it is only a matter of time before we say goodbye to summer's warm days. Then we have to cope with the seasonal changes. If you have lived on the Hill, you already know how to handle the situation, but newcomers are often caught off guard by the rapid temperature swings.

If you have friends in town, you can ask for advice on getting ready for our seven to eight month cold spell. Things that come naturally to us long-time hillbillies such as weatherproofing your house, making arrangements for someone to plow your driveway (or buying a snow shovel), stocking up on wood and propane and having an emergency kit with provisions may not be so obvious to the hill newbie.

Luckily, if you make it through your first winter in Idyllwild, you will have learned from your mistakes. However, even yours truly has been known to take an Idyllwild ice slide on occasion. It's a short trip with a bad landing for those who have not experienced the black ice slide.

On Saturday, I sold a pair of Yaktrax to a new Hill resident. Her friend told her she would need them this winter. I had to dig the Yaktrax box out of storage because she was bound and determined to be ready for winter. I commend her for doing her homework on winter survival in Idyllwild.

Hiking in the winter months also presents new challenges. In the past, I have talked about being prepared for the trails in winter.

This week, I just want to mention a new type of footwear protection from Yaktrax called the Yaktrax Extreme YTR). The XTR model has been beefed up for trail hiking in ice and snow conditions.

It looks to be a great addition to the lightweight ice protection gear category. The manufacturer has eliminated the rubber parts on the sole section of the shoe and gone with all metal. This should prove to be much more aggressive and durable than the previous Yaktrax models.

The Yaktrax Extreme also has anti-snow pack plates that keep the snow from balling up under your shoes. This is important because after hiking for a while in snow, your shoe often starts to pick up snow and eventually you are walking with a hard ball of ice under your shoe. Needless to say, that is not going to be very safe when you are out hiking on steep trails.

Until next week, have fun, be safe.

Common Snowberry (Symphoricarpos albus laevigatus), a chin-high, deciduous shrub, is native to coastal ranges from San Luis Obispo to Alaska. Its rhizomes, or underground stems, gradually form a thicket. This shrub produces edible, white berries. (But they taste like bitter Ivory soap, which birds don't seem to mind too much!) Snowberry likes sun to shade and some summer water. Hummingbirds visit it in summer when the small, pinkish flowers are on it. In our mountains where there is snow, it can be an effective large-scale groundcover. Its root system is vigorous and deep enough to hold most banks. Soils do not seem to matter as long as the drainage is fair.

THANK YOU

As they say in the Town Crier, "Only in Idyllwild" ... and we know that only in Idyllwild could we find the incredible people who all pitched in and donated money, food, supplies, and their time to make sure that our best friend, Cathy Vail, had a wonderful memorial service following her untimely death from cancer. The love that was shown to Cathy, and to her husband, Gary, really touched us and made us grateful that we live in a town where people still do care about helping each other.

There are so many people and organizations that helped us with the service and the celebration of Cathy's life, and we would like to acknowledge them here. Our sincerest thank you goes to:

There are so many other people that volunteered and helped that we can't mention everyone, but you know who you are and that you have our deepest appreciation. Once again, it's only in Idyllwild that so many people will come together to show their love and respect when we sadly lose one of our neighbors and friends.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

"At the Lisa Haley and the Zydecats concert, I was looking around to see where to place my chair. Doug Austin came over and asked if I knew anyone. When I said 'no,' he took my chair and put it where he thought it should be. Then, I went to the dance lessons and met some lovely ladies. Another one came over and hugged her friends and me, too, so I wouldn't 'feel left out.'

"The concert and the dancing were great. People-watching was a pleasure. From the toddlers to the tottering, much joy was evident. I tried my hand (feet) at dancing. It felt good but I'm not sure how it looked! But, I bet I win the prize for being the oldest person on the dance floor! I don't remember ever being in a situation where so much warmth, goodwill and pure pleasure were expressed. If Lisa and the Zydecats come back next year, I will too."

Mr. Keller was born Nov. 14, 1946 in Compton, Calif. to Lou Mae Webster and Boydston Arthur Keller. He grew up in Fullerton, Calif. and attended Fullerton College where he majored in drafting. He served in the U.S. Army Engineer Corps from 1965 to 1968. He worked throughout his lifetime as a cabinet detailer and shop manager. He was a member of St. Hugh's Episcopal Church in Idyllwild.

Lilac project takes root

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Gary Parton, Reva Ballreich's lineal lilac heir, takes the first steps to implement his vision of lilac promenades throughout Idyllwild's commercial core. On Sept. 10, 11, and 12, Parton and 22 volunteers will dig established lilac roots and suckers from participating private gardens and collections. "These are established plants, many of which Reva planted," said Parton. "She planted an entire lilac garden at the Fern Valley Inn," one of the locations from which Parton and crew will harvest lilacs to plant in October 2011. The cuttings will be tagged and put into 5-gallon containers to stabilize them for a year prior to their 2011 planting.

On Oct. 23 and 30 this year, Parton and volunteers will plant 100 lilacs from his nursery garden stock at four town locations: the Gastrog-nome, BBVA Compass Bank, Jo'An's and the Idyllwild Inn. "For the first planting, I wanted to concentrate the 100 in one area," he said. "The Gastrognome and the bank already have gardeners or watering systems in place. Both Jo'An's and the Idyllwild Inn have agreed to put in drip systems in March," at a time when the plants will be coming out of winter hibernation and needing water in order to flower. "Everywhere I've gone, people are in favor of the project. This [planting of the first 100] gives me a test period to see what I'm into."

Parton will supply lilacs free to town businesses in exchange for their agreement to provide adequate watering for up to three years, by which time the young plants will have sufficiently matured so that they require little water and care.

Each year, beginning in 2011, Parton and volunteers will plant 300 lilacs — 150 from his own collection and 150 germinated from mature plant cuttings of other property owners. Parton's goal is 1,000 lilacs planted in town locations.

Parton anticipated a problem in planting lilacs at certain town locations, particularly Jo'An's. "The land, especially around Jo'An's, will be too hard and difficult to use a manual post hole digger," he said. But Jerry Holldber, general manager of the Pine Cove Water District, came to Parton's aid and supplied a gasoline powered post hole digger. Parton welcomes volunteers who can contact him at (951) 659-9711.

PLEASE HELP! Two gold bracelets were taken from my art studio on Monday, Aug. 23. Unfortunately the door to my studio was unlocked. Somebody must have kept an eye on our home and noticed that my husband and I left before 10 a.m. every day. I have radiation treatment in Hemet and we return home at noon or later, depending on shopping. If somebody hears about a person bragging of having bracelets in his or her possession, please call me. I am heartbroken. My parents gave me these two beautiful gold bracelets a long time ago.

INITIAL THOUGHTS

The sound of jazz ...

As the calendar turns to September and August's final weekend drifts like music into the ether, I experience a loss and frustration knowing it is now 12 months, 52 weeks or more than 350 days until the sun rises on a cool August morning and I again feel the excitement and energy of another Jazz in the Pines Festival.

I admit I love these two days of the year. They are Idyllwild's equivalent of "Brigadoon." Fortunately, we only wait one year, not one century. I know for some the pleasure is limited because of jobs or other conflicts.

The one requisite of working at the Town Crier is covering this local event. So writing a story and taking hundreds of photos may be my job, but I anticipate these 36 hours from Labor Day to the "dog days" of summer.

Whom do I thank? Is it former publisher/editor, Becky Clark, who hired me? Could it be Anne Finch, the Jazz committee maven, who has built a superb group of volunteers, lead by the tireless Associates? Again, the roster of performers spanned the jazz world and kept the aficionado's attention for two consecutive days.

I'm also grateful for Marsha Lytle, Ms. 2010 Volunteer of the Year, who champions jazz and helped solicit the assistance of this year's benefactor, Bubba Jackson, from jazz station KJAZZ. His knowledge of new and fresh jazz artists attracted vocalist Kenny Washington to the festival.

As clarinetist Evan Christopher said, "There's no smooth in jazz." So thanks to the indefatigable sage, Marshall Hawkins, for keeping much of it straight?

But he is only one musician, a bassist yet. What about that cadre of students who keep returning and pleasing? On clarinet, we have Christopher and on trombone, Jason Jackson, both accomplished and world-renowned. Now Jackson introduces us to the mellifluous voice of Rosena Hill, his spouse, and virtual alumnae. Oh my, she stunned the amphitheatre crowd and then immobilized the Seahawk fans in the Idyllwild Arts Foundation Theatre with her talent.

Then, on guitar is that Billboard newbie, Graham Dechter. His first album soared to the top 15 and he has decades more to entertain and create. Will Snyder, Mike Barnett and Daniel Sazer-Krebbers also joined the string section. But just so nobody thinks Hawkins favors the string pluckers, we met pianist Joshua White.

He was handed a sheet of music, stared at (or studied) it for less than 30 seconds, set it aside and then played the whole piece with six other musicians. Perhaps Hawkins forgot to teach him how to read music!

Then just as he promised, Hawkins' newest students — Caleb Hessinger and Jacob Scesny — were introduced to jazz patrons this weekend. Caleb, the taller, plays a vibrant trumpet and Scesny's sax tones clearly echo his teacher Paul Carman. Of course, I noticed he had to stand on his toes to hit the highest notes.

Hawkins must be building his own Jazz Orchestra from Idyllwild Arts alumni. Now he wants the Seahawk Modern Jazz Orchestra to visit elementary schools. If that happens, will there be a hall large enough for the new orchestra to fit?

Thanks to everybody — the Associates, IFPD, the food vendors, the art and craft vendors, the volunteers, the sound and stage people, especially Alex Vargas, and without doubt all the musicians — that contributed to such a beautiful weekend.

Weather note: Despite the unseasonably cool weather, Idyllwild set some record high temperatures last week. On Tuesday, Aug. 24, we reached 93 degrees during the day, equaling the previous high record on that date in 1985. That night, the minimum temperature was 62 degrees, breaking the previous minimum for Aug. 24 of 60 degrees just seven years ago in 2003.

A generous act

Editor's note: While the following is a letter to the chamber, the Hochberg's were willing to have it published in the hope it would encourage additional generous acts.

DEAR MIMI:

As promised, enclosed is a $1,000 check made out to The Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce, earmarked to help defray the cost of moving the new monument to the site of the previous monument in the town square.

We believe David's masterpiece, in the middle of town, will bring a great deal of positive attention to Idyllwild, increase tourism and money spent there and demonstrate how a small community can come together and produce, with the invaluable help of an amazing artist, an incredible work of public art. It will not only commemorate Idyllwild's heritage, but it is also a bold, imaginative and confident step into the future.

Idyllwild has many excellent features that appeal to people, but the new monument will provide a focus and a symbol of the town that will become etched in people's minds. From what I understand, it already is the single most popular attraction in the town and there is no question its popularity will increase in the move to the town center.

My wife and I can understand the frustration of the supporters and many residents regarding how long the process has taken. We believe many of those people will realize the results were worth the wait. Idyllwild very much needs a symbol, a signature "attraction." The "Harmony" monument is exactly that. It will attract visitors and bring dollars into the restaurants, stores and lodgings.

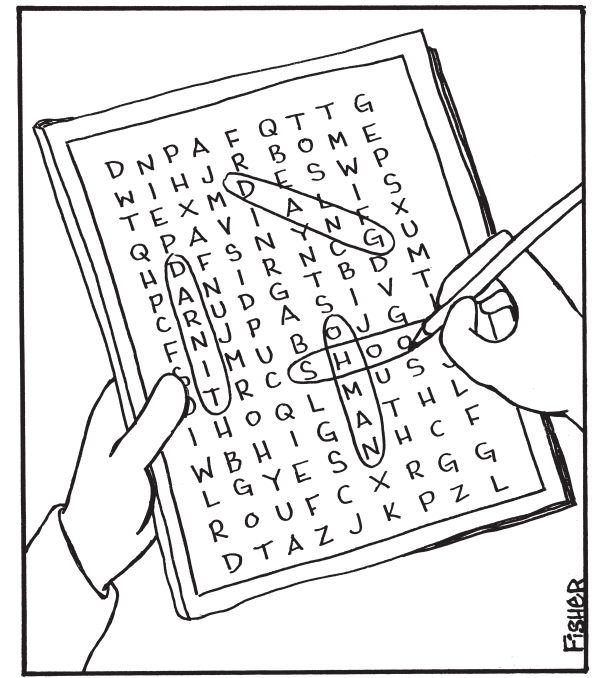

Congratulations again on bringing all parties together last night [the Aug. 16 Chamber meeting] around what seems to be a very workable solution.

BEFORE OUR TIME

By ROBERT B. SMITH

The first Idyllwilder ... ?

One of the most common questions I hear from museum visitors is some variation on "When did Idyllwild get started?"

One easy but meaningless answer is 1901, when the name was first given to the local post office. As is often the case with unincorporated communities, however, a real answer depends on how far back you want to delve.

Idyllwild as we know it today can best be dated to 1946. During that one remarkable year, the village arose from the doldrums of economic depression and world war. A new hotel replaced the destroyed Idyllwild Inn. Most of central Idyllwild — including the hotel, Rustic Tavern and movie theatre, water company, market and riding stables — returned to local ownership.

Foster Lake was created to stabilize the water supply. Max and Bea Krone and their colleagues created the Idyllwild Arts Foundation and bought land that would become the campus for the Idyllwild School of Music & the Arts. Ernie and Betty Maxwell launched the Town Crier newspaper. And everyone turned out to start building the new Town Hall community center.

By then, of course, a village called Idyllwild had already existed for decades. So let's go back to 1917, when Claudius Emerson's group from San Jacinto bought the old Idyllwild Inn and 1,000 acres of surrounding land. Emerson soon bought out his partners and began to realize his vision of a stable residential community.

Through the 1920s, Emerson subdivided and sold lots for vacation cabins, gave away land for public, church and scout camps and developed his inn into a full-scale resort. He thus created a working local economy, and his success enticed competitors to develop Fern Valley and Pine Cove.

But Emerson was hardly the first on the scene. "Idyllwild Among the Pines" had already been a popular destination since 1901, when marketing whiz Walter Lindley and his California Health Resort Company opened the ill-fated Idyllwild Sanatorium. The launch of this large-scale tourist facility in what had been known simply as Strawberry Valley marked the beginning of a new era and lent the settlement its new name.

Even then, Strawberry Valley had already seen more than a decade of tourist traffic. Beginning in 1888, when the San Diego County Board of Supervisors revoked the toll franchise for the treacherous wagon road up from Hemet, a flood of summer campers arrived. Campgrounds and small lodgings proliferated, dominated by the Keen House, which resembled a small motel of the 1940s. In 1893, George Hannahs opened the first post office, called Rayneta.

What those campers and lodgers discovered in Strawberry Valley was a forest in the process of being denuded by logging. From 1876 onward, the valley amounted to a floating logging camp, with competing sawmills grinding out lumber for Southern California's booming population. As mills exhausted the commercially valuable timber in one locale, they relocated to virgin territory. But, taken as a group, they were the closest thing to an original settlement here.

Before loggers, the valley saw only a smattering of homesteaders, a few seasonal cattle and sheepherders and an occasional prospector left over from the Gold Rush. Still earlier, of course, Cahuilla Indians camped here during the warm seasons while gathering food for winters down below.

So when did Idyllwild get its start? 1946 or 1917 or 1901 or 1888 or 1876 or ??? Take your pick. It all depends on which Idyllwild you're asking about.

At the Aug. 25 Rotary meeting, Idyllwild Rotary President Danny Richardson presents a gift to Brenda Scherlis MSN FNP of the Idyllwild Health Center, for her talk at the meeting.

Border Patrol sweeps Idyllwild

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

On Thursday, Aug. 26, a contingent of San Diego Sector U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CPB) agents swept through Idyllwild and arrested an El Salvadoran national, who was in the U.S. illegally, according to CPB Public Information Officer Agent Michael Jimenez.

When questioned about whether CPB agents were in pursuit of an individual or individuals in Idyllwild, Jimenez said they were not. "It was just normal work," he said. "We were not looking for anyone in particular. But we did happen to apprehend an El Salvadoran who was in the country illegally."

When asked why CPB committed such a large contingent to an Idyllwild sweep if they were not in pursuit or had not been notified of the presence of illegal aliens in Idyllwild, Jimenez demurred. "This was a routine patrol in an area part of our jurisdiction," he said. "We don't just patrol the normal checkpoints. If we were looking for a particular person, we would have notified local law enforcement."

Jimenez said that agents, out of the CPB Temecula station, also arrested 11 reported illegal aliens in Hemet — nine Mexican nationals and two from Guatemala.

In a precautionary measure, Idyllwild School Principal Matt Kraemer, having been notified by his safety officer Lucy Reebuck that some CPB activity was occurring in Mountain Center and Idyllwild, implemented partial lockdown of the campus. "I was not at the point where we'd do an official lockdown," said Kraemer. "I talked to all my teachers [to inform them of the activity in progress]." Gates into the school were closed and entry doors locked. Parents or visitors could still come to the front door and, with identification and clearance, be admitted during the partial lockdown.

When queried about whether CPB's jurisdiction is limited to 100 miles from a border, Jimenez stated that was not his understanding and that searches farther from borders, into areas like Idyllwild, are fully authorized as part of CPB's mission. "The entire country is within our jurisdiction," replied Jimenez. "That's why

I can fly armed."

Incorporated into Homeland Security after the September 11 attacks, CPB has beefed up its staffing to meet its expanded mission of stopping potential terrorists crossing into the United States from northern, southern and coastal borders, as well as maintaining its traditional role of preventing overall illegal entry into the U.S.

is moving forward. I'm very pleased with way things are going."

Recently, the county provided transportation to 11 members of the FOL to the newly rehabilitated Sun City Library in Menifee, where they toured the "green" and high tech facility. Voell described the facility as roomy, light and very airy. "It's a beautiful library," she recounted. "They [the county] did a wonderful job."

The new Menifee library had previously been a bank, which the county remodeled using the latest design techniques and technology, according to Lauritzen.

Lauritzen noted that there is the potential for the initial grant to be increased substantially. The authorizing resolution cites the source of the funds as Community Block Development Grants, designed to improve the Idyllwild business core.

County explains its BID role

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Idyllwild Business Roundtable (IBRT) presented its last public forum to consider forming an Idyllwild Business Improvement District (BID) on Wednesday, Aug. 25 at the Caine Learning Center. Teresa Gallavan, marketing and museum and cultural services manager for Riverside County's Economic Development Agency (EDA), the agency that would help administer a local BID, spoke about the county's role leading up to, during and after creation of a local BID.

If approved, an Idyllwild

BID would be the second one the county oversees — the first being the Palm Springs Desert Resorts Convention and Visitors Authority (CVA). Gallavan explained that the county acts as a partner with and a facilitator for a BID, an organizational structure that is publicly formed and privately directed. "With a BID, private businesses agree to assess themselves in exchange for the authority to use assessment funds to promote destination tourism," said Gallavan. Gallavan explained that BID assessments are not subject to Proposition 218, and, as a result, require no voter approval.

Assessments can take various forms from a surcharge on an annual business license to pass-through charges to end consumers — for instance, a percentage increase on a lodger's overnight stay. "The county (EDA) acts to facilitate process, flow of information and collected assessments from county departments with which the BID interacts including the Board of Supervisors, county counsel and the treasurer and tax collector," she noted.

Gallavan also discussed county benchmarks and dates by which the BID must complete required processes and reporting.

In determining whether to approve a BID proposal, Gallavan stressed that the county would be evaluating if the assessment mechanism and other BID proposal components were structured in a fair and equitable manner. Gallavan also explained the public comment periods at hearings before the Board of Supervisors during which BID proponents and opponents can lodge their opinions. "There is no formal vote," she said. "The Board of Supervisors will consider public comments before making its decision. Fifty-one percent of affected businesses within the proposed district must object [in order to scuttle BID formation]."

The Board of Supervisors would adopt a resolution to form a BID and then introduce and adopt an ordinance that implements it.

Once formed, the county deducts any administrative charges from assessment monies forwarded to the BID. "We [the county departments involved] track our time and expenses and deduct [those expenses] from checks sent out to the BID," she said. "Those charges can fluctuate quarterly."

IBRT facilitator Doug Yagaloff said as part of the BID submission to the county, BID proponents will request that the county not charge administrative fees during the first year. He said there is precedent in other California BIDs for the authorizing governmental agency to waive fees during the initial year.

Although IBRT, in increased cooperation with the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce, hoped initially to submit its proposal to the Board of Supervisors in October, the submission date may depend on how best to drop into existing county timeline tracks that are already in place for BID administration.

Only three comment on historic district ordinance

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Keith Herron, chief preservation officer, Riverside County Park and Open Space District, said he had received only three comments by the Aug. 24 deadline for receipt of comments on the draft county Historic Preservation District Ordinance (no. 578). "I received several e-mails and one phone call," he related. "The phone call was from a business owner who wanted to get more information on the positives and negatives to property owners [of being in a historic district]," Herron said. "The individual wanted to weigh the benefits against the added layer of more regulation."

"Out of the e-mails, one wanted to know how to opt out [of inclusion in the district] and one had three properties, two that were nonconforming and therefore not subject to district regulation," Herron shared.

The owner of the three properties said the third had been moved onto its present site and had undergone substantial alteration. For a property to qualify for historic district designation as a contributing resource, it should have the majority of its original exterior character preserved. Significant architectural modification, if verified, would take that particular property off the list of contributing resources and therefore out of district regulation.

"I'd like to get up there to take a look at it," Herron said. "It's a process we will probably go through. I'll talk to the owners about alterations, and then make a determination if it is contributing or not."

At the Aug. 3 meeting at Town Hall, at which the county presented the draft ordinance, most of the questions came from people owning noncontributing structures that, by ordinance, are excluded from district regulation.

"We'll be making our final edits on the ordinance and then meeting on Sept. 9 with county counsel and planning," he said. "We'd like to get it [the ordinance] on the Planning Commission calendar in November to discuss the rationales for why we're doing this." The Planning Commission meeting will provide contributing resource property owners within the proposed Idyllwild district an additional public hearing and comment opportunity. After receiving public comments, the Planning Commission will make its recommendation whether or not to move forward on formation of an Idyllwild Historic Preservation District. If the Planning Commission decides in the affirmative, Supervisor Stone will then ask the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors to place it on their agenda.

Herron hopes to have the district ordinance and documents for formation of an Idyllwild District on the Board's calendar in January, at which time affected Idyllwild property owners will have one more public hearing opportunity. "At the January meeting the Board of Supervisors could either vote to approve district formation or take a vote to continue [until a later date]. At this point, the process is moving along the lines we forecast," he said.

New HUSD superintendent: part 2

BY J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR
AND MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Editor's note: Dr. Steven Lowder is the new superintendent of Hemet Unified School District (HUSD). He was selected this past June to replace Dr. Philip Pendley, who retired after eight years at the helm. He and HUSD Trustee Bill Sanborn met with the Town Crier staff on Friday, Aug. 20. This is the second of several articles introducing Lowder to the Hill.

The Hemet Unified School District (HUSD) board of trustees invites the entire Idyllwild community to come out and meet Dr. Lowder for themselves. At 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 7, the board will host a "Meet and Greet" with Lowder at Idyllwild School.

The Idyllwild School "Back to School Night" is scheduled for 6 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 9.

Town Crier staff posed questions to Dr. Lowder.

If the state funding stays the same, what can we expect at HUSD regarding salaries or staff levels?

Lowder specifically noted that the state Legislature's time frame does not coincide with the school districts' fiscal years. "By September, I have already spent 85 percent of the budget," he stressed. By that he meant nearly five-sixths of HUSD's budget is for salaries and benefits. Teachers are offered contracts and begin work in August for the new school year.

If the expected funds from the Legislature are too small, the district has a crisis trying to balance the remaining year's spending with the funds available.

If funding continues at current levels, HUSD will continue to be squeezed because teachers' salaries increase with experience and educational levels. With a reduced turnover and more teachers with considerable years of service, these costs continue to increase.

"The best guess is we don't know what the state is going to do," he lamented. "It forces us to go forward but we're never sure what will happen.

"There is also more oversight every year," he said.

Similar to many citizens, school administrators also object to the intensive state role. While its purpose is often student safety and achievement, its application can be restrictive and uneven.

For example, Lowder explained that private schools, even charter schools, have more flexibility about the condition of the buildings they use than public school districts; yet both education providers serve students — children.

"They don't have to be Field Act [state law requiring public buildings to use earthquake resistance construction] compliant," he stated.

"I don't see the economy improving, so we'll have to do with less rather than more."

How do you perceive relations between the district and the Teachers' Association?

"The rank and file are just like you and me." But he was cautious to make a distinction between the teaching staff and Association officials.

And Sanborn added that the local teachers' association was reluctant to negotiate salary reductions; consequently, 15 teachers were lost this year and next year.

Propositions 20 and 27 battle over redistricting

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Propositions 20 and 27 establish conflicting redistricting procedures. Only the Proposition with the most votes will become law.

Background

In 2008, California voters narrowly approved Proposition 11, to take effect after the 2010 census. The law withdrew the Legislature's authority for redrawing Assembly, Senate and Board of Equalization district boundaries as part of post-census redistricting. That authority was transferred to a Citizens Redistricting Commission (CRC) selected by a panel of state auditors with input from the Legislature.

Proposition 11 established criteria to ensure commission member competence, balance in political affiliation and diversity and to create a firewall preventing commission members or their families from having served as lobbyists or prior elected officials. When the commission sets district boundaries, it must meet the requirements of federal law and other requirements such as not favoring or discriminating against political parties, incumbents, or political candidates. And, should voters object to district maps drawn by the CRC, they can challenge a final map in the same referendum process they currently use to challenge the Legislature's statutes.

The stated purpose of Proposition 11 was to remove serving legislators' ability to draw districts principally designed to keep them or their parties in power. Over $6 million has already been allocated since its passage to set up systems, including the application process, for implementing the CRC.

Proposition 20

To the CRC's current portfolio, Proposition 20 adds the responsibility for re-establishing the boundaries for California's congressional districts. Currently, the governor and the state Legislature control those decisions.

The ways in which CRC members are selected and balanced remains the same as under Proposition 11, as do the rationales and reasons for transferring redistricting authority away from the governor and Legislature.

Proposition 20 also adds a definition of "a community of interest," that is missing in Proposition 11. The CRC is supposed to design districts that are geographically contiguous and drawn as much as possible to reflect the identities of "communities of interest." Proposition 20 further defines a "community of interest" as "a contiguous population which shares common social and economic interests that should be included within a single district for purposes of its effective and fair representation. Examples of such shared interests are those common to an urban area, a rural area, an industrial area, or an agricultural area, and those common to areas in which the people share similar living standards, use the same transportation facilities, have similar work opportunities, or have access to the same media of communication relevant to the election process."

The Legislative Analyst's Office estimates, contrary to claims made by Proposition 20 opponents, that passage would have no significant fiscal impact on the state.

Proposition 27

Proposition 27 repeals Proposition 11, abolishes the CRC, and restores authority for drawing of all districts to the governor and the Legislature. Whichever of Proposition 20 or 27 receives the most votes becomes law and the other is knocked out of contention.

Proposition 20 supporters and opponents

Opponents claim there is a lack of CRC member "accountability" since members are appointed as opposed to being elected. Further, they feel that drawing districts to reflect communities of interest, as newly defined in Proposition 20, enshrines a "Jim Crow" type district boundary defined by race, income, or language. Said past Chairman Emeritus of the NAACP Julian Bond, "Proposition 20 is insulting to all Californians. Jim Crow districts are a thing of the past." Signing in opposition to Proposition 20 are Daniel Lowenstein, founding chairman, California Fair Political Practices Commission; Aubry L. Stone, president, California Black Chamber of Commerce; and Carl Pope, chairman, Sierra Club. Even some who supported passage of Proposition 11 are now questioning the complexity of the application process to become a commissioner. This has reduced the number of applicants who submitted complete applications, thus affecting the commission's diversity.

Arguing for passage are Alice Huffman, president, California NAACP; Julian Canete, California Hispanic Chambers of Commerce; Ruben Guerra, Latin Business Association; Joni Low, Asian Business Association of San Diego; Kathay Feng, executive director, California Common Cause; and David Pacheco, California president AARP.

Summer concert series scores

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

By all objective indicators, the eleventh iteration of promoter Ken Dahleen's Thursday night Idyllwild Summer Concert Series (ISCS) was a hit.

"I did grid counts," said Dahleen, "and our [average Thursday night] attendance ranged from 800 to 1,200 [individuals]. Lisa Haley and the Zydecats and the Marine Band drew the largest audiences, with attendance in the 1,200 [audience] range. One count seemed to indicate possibly 1,400. This was certainly the best year based on attendance."

Dahleen said he had heard from many attendees that this season also provided the best selection of bands. As to the audience's favorite band playing for the first time at ISCS, Dahleen said most people expressed appreciation for City Beat, a horn-heavy, high-energy ensemble with great charts.

Noting what has become a drawing card for the concerts, the cement floor in front of the stage that fills with dancers, Dahleen observed, "The greatest [audience] energy seems to come with bands that play danceable music."

Dahleen acknowledged the valuable contribution made by local opening acts to the success of the series. "We try to offer the series a cross section of the past most popular groups and always provide an opportunity for new groups," he said. "Of course each local group gets the normal excited response from their followers. We're proud to be able to offer local groups the opportunity to be part of this homegrown series. Most other summer concert series only present a single group each concert night."

Dahleen emphasized the importance of the Idyllwild Community Center (ICC) venue site as a reason for increasing attendance. "The current venue of the Idyllwild Community Center is very popular and is without question the best place we've held the concerts in the 11 years we've been doing this," he said.

Lastly, Dahleen said that once again, a series that begins each season on faith with only partial funding and a belief that donors will by season's end fund the budget balance, broke even. "In this hard year it really came down to the final note played, and the extremely generous support of Manny and Linda Rider. Without their support we would have been very short. Our sponsors have dwindled in the past couple years. A sign of the times I suspect. We do really appreciate the ones that have stayed with us. This concert series has been embraced by the mountain communities and its summer visitors," he said in overview. "I'm proud of what we've accomplished here and hope that it continues long past those of us who do this are too old to do it any longer. That of course is some years away."

COLONEL BO'S LATE SUMMER

Garden Club members got an Urgent from Toni Berthelotte last week that is so good and implies such a "Universal," I have to pass it on (slightly modified). Toni sorta' says: "A family's success is not based on how much money they make. Rather, it is based on how they work and play together within the community; how they support with money and service their community causes (those their village, state and nation decide are dear)." I don't know about you, but when I reflect on the Simple Truths that make America Great -- Jefferson's "We hold these truths ...," Romans 13:8-10, the Boy Scout Oath & Laws and this 'Toni,' I'm put back 90 years to our frontier, Montana, Sunday dinnertable and quite often, my Pop reminding his seven sons how it works. Have you visited B's MOUNTAIN of BOOKS at its new Opening? Across the street from the RUSTIC and up a ways. Come, pick up a book, pull up a chair, relax and enjoy.

need love and homes will be available for adoption. On Sunday, live snakes will be featured in a program called "Characteristics of Southern Pacific Rattlesnakes" by Loma Linda University professor Dr. Bill Hayes. On Monday, Dr. Kirk Olsen, also known as "Dr. Bug Guy," will present his program on "What makes a bug a bug?" Kids will get a magnified look at bugs. There will also be children's crafts all three days.

Another event good for young and old alike is the free Ice Cream Social hosted by the Idyllwild Area Historical Society (IAHS) from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the IAHS Museum. The museum, a 1920s cabin housing historical artifacts from Idyllwild and the San Jacinto Mountain area will be open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday through Monday. Admission is also free, although donations are welcome.

For those who like to relax under the pines, reading a good book, the Idyllwild Library's annual Labor Day Book Sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. A wide range of collectible and children's books, as well as CDs and DVDs, will be for sale at great prices.

No end-of-summer celebration would be complete without an old-fashioned barbecue and there are two planned this weekend. On Saturday, the American Legion Post 800's Annual Deep Pit Barbecue — choice of beef or pork with all the fixings — will be served from 2 to 8 p.m.

At Town Hall from 2 to 7 p.m. Sunday, the Idyllwild Rotary Club will serve a dinner of beef or pork, homemade barbecue beans, corn on the cob and watermelon.

For a delicious alfresco breakfast, the "Nutty Ladies" will be serving up a breakfast to raise funds for educational scholarships awarded to women by the Philanthropic Educational Organization. The menu will include nutty and traditional pancakes, eggs, turkey sausage, fresh fruit, granola and yogurt. Finally, from 10:04 a.m.

to 4:11 p.m. Sunday is the End of Summer Art Fair at Dore's Mountain Art Garden in Mountain Center, three miles south of Idyllwild. In addition to viewing the unique art by artist Dore Capitani, fairgoers can peruse booths by local artists and listen to music by local musicians. Admission to the fair is free and a portion of all sales will be donated to the future Idyllwild Community Center.

Many Idyllwild restaurants will feature live performances by local musicians throughout the weekend. Be sure to check the Arts and Entertainment calendar in this issue for these and other local events.

Children's books sought for school library

Idyllwild Pharmacy offers new service

Idyllwild Pharmacy now offers a service for patients called "Autofill." The pharmacy will generate a daily report telling which medications should be refilled for a patient on the Autofill program. Only maintenance medications will be refilled. Once the prescription is filled, the patient will be contacted, thus eliminating the need for patients calling in refill orders.

According to Pharmacist Barry Shapiro, this program, in addition to providing customer convenience, will lead to better medication adherence. In the United States, medication nonadherence can lead to significant morbidity, mortality and expense. Among patients with hypertension, for example, taking less than 80 percent of anti-hypertension doses increases the risk of a cardiac event four-fold.

Stop in the pharmacy or call him at (951) 659-2135 to learn more about the Autofill program.

Jazz

But Saturday and Sunday again demonstrated the unifying grace of jazz music and the musicians who play it. Festival emcee Bubba Jackson said, “[Jazz in the Pines] is very special. You can come out and hear Graham Dechter to Marshall Hawkins and then David Benoit to Oscar Hernández, all in one place. Idyllwild is what it’s about.”

The weather, the music and the setting all produced an inspirational weekend. Besides the dancers in the French Quarter who stayed until the last moment, the audience in Holmes Amphitheatre stayed at grassy knoll until Hernández finished his Latin tones. The Barn, Stephens Recital Hall, was also filled until Henry Franklin and his quartet rested.

Not only did people stay late to enjoy the talented performers, but they came early. On Saturday, Nick Martinez of Palm Springs was at the head of the line waiting to get his favorite spot. He arrived at 7 a.m. to ensure priority. “The first ten or so all know each other from previous years,” he said. “We only see each other once a year at the Jazz Festival.”

Right behind him were Pat and Amy from Garner Valley with their friend, Caroline, from Texas. They also have favorite spots and despite getting up early on Sunday, were again second in line. This time, Aletrice and Mauri Flora were first. But on Sunday, attendees sleep later. The Floras only had to arrive at 8:30 a.m. to be first. They had a slight edge, having left their chairs and blanket overnight, in case they weren’t first.

The return of Ted Cummings may have prevented fires, ticket scalping and other problems. And if Cummings only made the weekend free of smaller problems so that the audience could enjoy food, beverages and sweet jazz, he was successful.

The new policy, which limited people from bringing food and beverages into the festival, produced a good weekend for food vendors. Chillier than normal temperatures also contributed to the desire to consume calories, preferably in heated form. Several food vendors felt that their Saturday business equaled the weekend totals from previous years.

But the promenade from Stephens to Holmes was a constant parade of visitors moving between venues and seeking out different performers for their listening enjoyment.

Before the final chord wafted into the evening sky, people were asking who was returning, would we hear them next year and making their annual date with strangers to share a growing Idyllwild tradition.

J.P. Crumrine can be reached at jp@towncrier.com.

A swath of sunlight on Sunday morning at the main entrance to the Holmes Amphitheatre seemed to beckon jazz lovers to come and rest in the grassy bowl under the colorful parachutes.

SPORTS

Golf

Idyllwild's Palms to Pines Golf Association played its regular monthly tournament in conjunction with the first round of playoffs for the Club Championship.

This week, play was at The Golf Club at Rancho California (formerly the SCGA course) in Murietta on Friday, Aug. 20. Despite the hot weather, the course was in excellent shape.

In the regular tourney, Gary Leong (course handicap 16) was on fire, shooting a net 64 to come in first place. Les Widerynski (16) took second with a net 69. Mike Feyder (23) took third with a net 72, Herk McClellan (30) took fourth with a net 73, and Greg Piersol (17) rounded out the top five with a net 74.

Leong won for closest to the pin on the front nine, and John LoGiudice took the KP on the back nine. Piersol won for longest drive.

In the first round of playoffs for the club championship, Pete Capparelli came from behind to beat Feyder. Widerynski held the lead for his entire match against Gary Brown. Robert Priefer defeated Bob Stearns in a match the two played on the course at an earlier date.

Current Club Champion Bill Ragland and Jim Crandall held their 18-hole battle at Diamond Valley Golf Club. The pair tied, and in a magnanimous gesture, Ragland decided to concede the match to Crandall.

Here's the breakdown for the second round of match-play playoffs for next month, set for the Lakes Course at Menifee Lakes Country Club on Friday, Sept. 17:

Capparelli vs Priefer
Crandall vs Widerynski

The two winners of these matches will face off for the club championship title in October.

The Club Champion will then go on to play in the Southern California Golf Association's Tournament of Club Champions in December.

The August tourney marks the beginning of the 2010-11 season, with points garnered toward next year's playoffs.

The current standings are: first place: Leong with 6.5 points; second place: Widerynski with 4.5 points; third place: Feyder with 3.5 points; fourth place: Herk McClellan with 2.5 points; and in fifth place: Greg Piersol with 1.5 points. There is a four-way tie for sixth place between Brown, Capparelli, John LoGiudice and Dan Slattery.

Points are awarded at each tournament as follows: first place, 6 points; second place, 4 points; third place, 3 points; fourth place, 2 points; fifth place, 1 point. In addition, one-half point is awarded to everyone who participates.

Palms to Pines Golf Association plays a tournament off the Hill once a month at a different golf course. The games are usually played on the third Friday of the month, but may be adjusted for holidays and other reasons. Tournament fees range from about $45 to usually no more than $60, and the fees include green fees, tournament entry fees, golf cart and range balls. Guests usually pay $10 less, since they don't compete in the tournament.

The club is a member of the Southern California Golf Association and is sanctioned to establish SCGA handicaps for members.

If you are interested in joining the club or playing as a guest, please contact Jim Crandall at jim@towncrier.com (951) 415-5790 or Pete Capparelli at pete@capparelli.com (951) 452-5552.

Town Hall sports

Town Hall Recreation Director Bob Lewis gave this report on Adult Co-ed Softball.

On Tuesday, Aug. 24, Pacific Slope and Ajax began the first game of the 2010 Town Hall Adult Softball Championship series. In a back and forth game, this one went down to the final two innings. Pacific Slope led 5-4 entering the bottom of the sixth. Ben Nysse's and Becky Pierce's timely hitting produced the one-run lead. But in the fateful sixth inning, Ajax, the defending champs, re-established their position. With two outs and a runner at third, Ajax's Courtney Sakaria ripped a ball to deep left center field. Nysse raced over and leapt high. He got to the ball, but couldn't catch it. The ball glanced off his glove and sailed over the fence. A game-winning homer for Sakaria. Ajax held the one-run lead in the top of the seventh and won the first game 6-5.

The second game of the 2010 championship series between Ajax and Pacific Slope was Thursday, Aug. 26. It started closely, but Ajax continued to build an early lead. Shauna Friemoth had a good game for Pacific Slope with a couple base hits, but Ajax's hitters had little problem with Ryan Righetti's pitches on this night. Led by Janey Espinoza, extra base drives, and Charlie Clayton's multiple hit game, Ajax beat Pacific Slope 16-4 to win the 2010 Town Hall Adult Softball Championship for the fifth consecutive year.

Steele's streak ends

BY JACK CLARK
PROFESSIONAL GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Last week, Brendan Steele's string of eight consecutive cuts made on the Nationwide Tour ended at the Knoxville News Sentinel Open in Tennessee. He played even par golf over the first two days of the tournament, but it was not enough to advance him to weekend play.

This week he's entered in the $600,000 Mylan Classic at the Southpointe Golf Club in Canonsburg, Pennsylvania where the winning share is $108,000.

At the end of the month, he will play the Soboba Golf Classic in nearby San Jacinto.

Strange but true

Pop star Prince may be best known for his hit "1999." After playing the song at a New Year's Eve party in 1999, he vowed he would never perform it again. Seven years later, however, unable to escape its perennial popularity, he started including the song in his performances once again.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Careful, Lamb. Taking on too many tasks at one time can cause you to create more snarls each time you try to work your way through the tangled mass. Best to handle one job at a time.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Making bold moves is what Bovines do. But the best moves are made with lots of data to provide backup just in case you charge into an unexpected complication. A new relationship shows promise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Sharing credit for a job well done is easy for you to do, but not necessarily for your partner. But fair is fair. Don't let yourself be denied the right to have your contributions recognized.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Communication is important to help bridge a gap that can lead to problems at home and/or at the workplace. Find a way to get your points across before the breach becomes a chasm.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Relationships, whether business or personal, need to be watched carefully for signs of trouble. Any negative indications should be dealt with before they become too burdensome.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Congratulations. A more positive aspect highlights much of the Virgo's week. You should find others more receptive to your suggestions, and also more likely to act on them.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) All work and little play could wear the Libra's usually positive attitude down. Take some much-needed time off. Perhaps a short jaunt with someone special is the way to go.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to expand your view from the known to the unfamiliar. Confronting new situations could be challenging, but ultimately also could be extremely satisfying.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Giving advice to those who just want validation for what they're doing can be unsettling. So back off and save your counsel for those who really appreciate it.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Cultivating a more positive attitude not only makes you feel better about yourself, but also has an upbeat effect on those around you, especially that certain someone.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Keeping the lines of communication open and accessible is the key to establishing the right foundation on which to build an important and meaningful relationship. Stay with it.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Before agreeing to act on a request, consider using your perceptive Piscean talents to see what might lie hidden beneath its surface and could possibly cause problems later on.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're a friend who, if you err at all, does so on the side of concern for those you care about.

Border action?

EDITOR:

My family has been privileged to share a portion of this mountain paradise, Idyllwild, for more than a third of a century. During that time we have observed that citizens of this community have accepted responsibility for protecting their natural environment, and have demonstrated a remarkable caring for each other.

It was distressing to learn that the border patrol came to this community and, as was reported to me, "chased a man down like you would chase an animal, put him in handcuffs, and sent him to be incarcerated."

I didn't observe this. I wasn't there at the time. But if I had been stopped and asked to prove my citizenship, I would not have been able to do so. This was clearly a case of racial profiling.

Our immigration system is broken. For decades, the executive branch of the government has not enforced the law that exists, nor has Congress funded the department that is supposed to enforce the law — and one of the reasons is that the law, as written, does not meet the economic or social needs of our nation.

Current law says that if an individual meets the requirements, they may get a visa and enter through a border crossing. De facto law says, "come on across the border where you can, we have a job waiting for you. We welcome you with open arms."

There is a mismatch between available visas and needs for workers. The League of Women Voters, of which I am proud to be a member, did a thorough study of the issue in 2008-2009 and recommended changes in the law that would reflect the needs of our nation. In the interim, the League's recommendation was that those individuals already in our nation not be targeted for removal.

When citizens of a community stand up for justice, they are usually heard. Let ICE [Immigration and Custom Enforcement] and the border patrol know our border should be protected from illegal entry and the exchange of guns and narcotics — but that racial profiling is wrong. Not in our town! Not in Idyllwild!

Target shooting is dangerous

EDITOR:

It seems ludicrous to me that with the extreme dry weather, target shooting and deer hunting (in October) are still allowed in the San Jacinto Mountains.

A sign posted in Garner Valley indicates that target shooting is not allowed after 7 p.m. Target shooting is still going at the Boy Scout Camp up to 7:45 p.m. This rule must not apply to the BSA.

When I hear shooting, it brings back memories of the Bee Fire, which was devastating to the community. I am not anti-gun nor am I anti-hunting, but it is dangerous enough living in the mountains without worrying about fires.

I would hope that these activities could be curtailed, especially during the high fire season before another tragedy occurs.

DON RYAN

Editor's note: While shooting can clearly be heard in the Tollgate neighborhood, Camp Emerson officials say it is not coming from the Boy Scout Camp. In fact, camping ended on Aug. 7.

Driving bad mixer for alcohol

EDITOR:

Hey, let's not have a drink.

All in favor of drinking and driving, please email me at js@johnsiroky.com. Let's be real, no one is in favor of that. Big surprise. OK, then, why are there bars?

Seriously, why are there bars? Why is alcohol ever served in a public place? Here we have a place, away from your home with a real nice parking lot (Code Enforcement will make sure there is ample parking). Inside we find a fantastic assortment of intoxicants. Now we're talking.

That's OK, I'll only have one. That way I won't be breaking the law. That's typical...? Anyone with any grip on sarcastic reality knows exactly where I'm going with this. I have never in my life found a more absurd idea, anywhere, than a bar.

Let's drive to the bar and not drink. That sounds like a real night out. Designated driver? Every sober person loves to hang out with a bunch of drunks, repeating themselves, puking on your car's interior friends. Of course, the bartenders know that sending someone out on the streets after you have served them more than one drink would be dangerous as well as against the law.

That's why they always cut you off after one drink. (Sorry, since the death of George Carlin I feel the need.) If a bartender had to bring a couple kids with them, let's say his or her kids, to ride with the people they served, would it make a difference?

Alcohol kills more people every year in the U.S. than anything else. Yet, we still have bars. By the way, walking home, great idea! California is in debt up to its kiester so, please, go to the bar and walk home — you can contribute by paying the fines on your public intoxication offense.

JOHN SIROKY
IDYLLWILD

Yea, David!

EDITOR:

In response to Gary Wall: Bravo!

Gary, we totally agree with your letter. David Roy is by far the best carver anyone will ever meet.

The rest of our letter is for Mike Pearson and Josh and Emily White.

No disrespect to Jonathan LaBenne, but he states he could have the monument done in a month, and we're sure it would look like a month of work. If you want to compare their work, it is like LaBenne is in elementary school and David Roy's in college.

The people of Idyllwild should have the last say, not the Idyllwild citizens committee or Marshall Smith. Who elected them?

You listened to a logger, not David who dedicated his life to creating and preserving the natural beauty of wood. David Roy is right, the monument should not be in the full sun. He knows what will happen to the wood. You should trust a man who has made hundreds of pieces of artwork for the people of Idyllwild and around the world, and even motion picture studios.

Leave the fabulous monument where it is. People stop to take pictures of his masterpiece. Nowhere else will you have work like David's. It's in Idyllwild — it doesn't have to be in the center of town.

Shame on all of you who have treated David Roy the way you have, and you all know who you are.

If you allow LaBenne to do this, then he has no respect for David Roy. One artist is Dore Capitani. He once said his metal statue is there until David Roy's monument is completed. Two great artists.

I could go on and on, but Gary Wall said David is the most honest man you will ever meet. Talk to him. He has lived in Idyllwild for over 30 years, much longer than people who want to run everything.

We love you, David!

CREATURE CORNER

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

Adopt rather than shop! Give one of ARF's cats or dogs a 2nd chance at life. Have you ever wished for that certain pet, but just can't find it? ARF has a Pet Wish List! Stop by ARF today and we'll help you find your new four-legged friend.

Nakona is a male, 1-year-old pure bred chocolate lab with special needs. Call 951-208-0492 for further info, or stop by ARF on Saturday to meet Nakona.

Wanna go for a ride? Riley is a young shepherd mix training on the leash, learning the basics, and full of energy for the ride, outdoor play, and the walk. At the end of his day, he'll be right there on the couch with you.

And let's not forget Penelope and Polly.

Calli and Kumar.

Or Marlena and Magu

All ready for adoption today for their new warm winter home. ARF has several cats and kittens available for adoption, fostering or sponsoring. Go to www.idyllwildarf.org and click on Petfinders. All pets are spayed, neutered, and current on shots.

ARF will only be open on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. until further notice due to minimal staffing. Or call for appointment (951) 659-1122. Email and donation opportunities are at www.idyllwildarf.org or email arf@greencafe.com.

Creature corner is sponsored this week by Trill, Bête, Sandy and Chauncy. To sponsor the column, call Shane Fender at the Town Crier, 659-2145.
