SCOTT CARLSON MEMORIAL

Several hundred friends, fellow firefighters and residents joined family members at a memorial service for Firefighter Scott Carlson on Saturday at the Idyllwild Pines Camp, Emerson Field. Scott first came to work at the Idyllwild Protection District in 1998. Scott lived most of his life in Idyllwild. La Niña: a drier winter!

By J.P. Crumrine Editor

limatologists generally over estimated the effects of last winter's El Niño. Now immediately in its shadow, the National Weather Service is predicting a strengthened La Niña forming in the Pacific Ocean. This weather pattern will impose its will on our winter and perhaps continue through spring 2011.

"What we do know is that La Niña is here already and will continue into winter. Second, La Niña is strongly (but not absolutely 'always') associated with drier than usual winters in Southern coming winter's weather and California and the South- climate. While most models

A configuration of weather data, including ocean temperatures and subsurface heat content, have convinced the weather modelers that La Niña is strengthening.

'This La Niña has strengthened for the past four months, is strong now and is still building," said Climatologist Bill Patzert of NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif. "It will surely impact this through early 2011, they disagree on the eventual strength of La Niña."

As fall arrives, weather analysts expect the developing La Niña will begin to exert an increasing influence on the weather and climate of the United States. The Southwest is likely to endure below-average precipitation - a continuation of decadelong drought.

After more than a decade of mostly dry years on the Colorado River watershed and in the American Southwest, and only one normal rain year in the past five years in Southern California, water supplies

Perils of buying oak

t a Sept. 15 workshop, biologists and entomologists studying the threat of the goldspotted oak borer (GSOB), which could affect 39 million acres of California Oak, warned of its imminent spread. The projected costs of dead tree removal could be enormous and the public is a direct agent for spreading infestation through transportation of infested firewood. "This is the first of many workshops," said Dr. Tom Scott, one of the speakers and organizers, noting that it is important to get the message about the GSOB threat out to the public.

GSOB is relatively new to California. First detected in 2004 and linked to elevated levels of oak mortality in 2008, GSOB infestation is currently localized in San Diego County. Spread occurs through beetle flight and importation of infested oak firewood. "It's an agile flyer," said Dr. Tom Coleman, Forest Service entomologist. "And it does not look as if it [GSOB spread] is slowing down."

In areas of San Diego County where infestation is heaviest (for example, Descanso in the Cleveland National Forest), oak mortality is already at 85 percent and is certain to reach 100 percent. Most threatened are California black oak, coast See Oak, page 14

Early morning blaze destroys historic log cabin

By Beth Nottley STAFF REPORTER

piece of Idyllwild history was lost in the early morning hours of Wednesday, Sept. 15. A fierce blaze destroyed a Pine Cove log cabin built by Charles "Selden" Belden, the Idvllwild creator of the now highly collectible pinecraft furniture.

The fire was reported at 1:24 a.m. Although six fire engines responded and about 20 firefighters battled the See La Niña, page 15 blaze, the cabin had burned to the ground less than an hour later at 2:19 a.m.

The home was unoccupied at the time of the fire. Owned by Lou and Irene Brahm of San Diego for more than 40 years, the cabin was used by the family as a vacation home, which they visited often. The Brahms' grandson, Lee Nichols of Hemet, made the trip up the Hill to assess the damage for his grandparents who first learned of the fire when a building contractor called them at about 7 a.m.

Graffiti expands to hate crime

By Marshall Smith STAFF REPORTER

An individual or individuals defaced personal and real property with anti-Semitic and racist epithets and symbols at two Idyllwild homes on two different dates — one during the night of Sept. 8, and one on the night of Sept. 10 or early in the morning of Sept. 11, both on Pine Crest Ave.

These odious incidents have occurred intermittently since spring, when a racist and anti-Semitic attack was made on Idyllwild School buildings. During the summer, numerous graffiti attacks occurred on public and private buildings throughout in the recent damage to two residential properties.

The actions of individuals who deface property with hate messages and symbols directed at a protected group are not covered by the First Amendment's freedom of speech. However hateful and ugly, speech is protected, unless it advocates violence.

Under California civil penalties, those convicted of hate crimes can be forced to pay civil penalties of up to $25,000, serve one or more years in jail, and serve up to 400 hours of community service. Additionally, civil remedies afforded to victims of hate violence include three times the actual damages suf-

Under California's Penal Code, those who deface public or private property, and are motivated by bigotry against a protected group, can be convicted of a felony and have that conviction activate sentencing enhancements, including one to three years of jail time for certain bias-motivated felonies, two to four years additional time if the felony hate crime was

The 5th-annual 10 essentials column

With fall rapidly approaching, having your 10 essentials for hiking becomes even more essential, if that's possible. What I mean to say is that having an emergency blanket, warm clothing and rain gear becomes even

With the sudden weather changes that fall and winter bring, you really have to have your act together if you want to be prepared for any contingency.

I find it troubling when a tourist asks, "Do you have a (fill in the blank) chain store up here?" Why people think that having a Starbucks, Henry's, Vons or Cocos would be a good idea in a small town like Idyllwild is beyond me.

One question really bothers me more than all the others. When I talk to newbie hikers about the 10 essentials, I'm often asked, "Why do I need all this stuff if I am only hiking a few miles?"

The answer is simple; you can get your cue in the title of this column. They call them the 10 essentials for a reason. Sooner or later, you will want to have all of them in your pack. Then you will also have peace of mind if and when something goes wrong.

To make things simple, I will separate them into groups starting with food and water.

You need energy to hike and you need water to stay hydrated. That's a fact, Jack!

Hiking burns calories. In case you are delayed somehow, you should always have a little more food than you expect to need. I recommend at least two liters of water for even short hikes and up to one gallon for long hikes in the summer months.

Next are direction and location aids. A map and compass are very important if you should lose your way or lose the trail. A GPS works great most of the time, but there are places were there is no signal reception. Same goes for a cell phone, which is great to have but should not be relied on as a sure-fire way to summon help.

Of course if you have a compass, you need to know how to use it properly. If you think that hiking is something you want to pursue, I would recommend that you take an orienteering class.

The safety essentials begin with a first aid kit, including a whistle, which is essential in an emergency. I don't need to explain about first aid but a whistle makes a lot of noise and carries a long way. Enough said.

Finally, you have to be prepared for foul weather and the possibility that you may have to spend the night in the open if you are injured. Emergency rain gear or a jacket, a space blanket and some type of headlamp or flashlight rounds out our top ten list.

Chamber debuts new ideas

By Marshall Smith STAFF REPORTER

At its Monday, Sept. 20 board meeting, the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce (Chamber) previewed its new website (www.idyllwildchamber.com), the latest sign of rebirth of this once nearly moribund organization. Designers Shawna Gustin and Melissa Carver researched 70 sites to create Idyllwild's new

In another indication of Chamber resurrection, Second Vice President and Membership Chair Nick Todd proudly reported membership has grown from 36 to 79 in the three months since the new board began its work.

The Chamber is also using technology to improve its income and to advertise local businesses. The business donates a service or good to the Chamber, which auctions it on eBay. The first auction, which closed Sunday, produced $500 for the Chamber. A cord of wood fetched nearly $300, with about 30 people bidding for that item. The Chamber plans to hold an auction weekly.

In other business, Heather Love, staff for state Senator Bill Emmerson, announced his first official trip to Idyllwild on Oct. 29 to familiarize himself with this part of his

Finally, Brent Miller, volunteer with the Idyllwild Business Roundtable (IBRT), reported that ongoing conversations with Tree Monument carver David Roy have opened up certain additional possibilities. Miller said that Roy understands the monument must be moved and has said it can be moved within the next two weeks.

Roy prefers locations other than the Village Center site, but is resigned to that location if another one with natural shade and prominence cannot be negotiated.

site, pending a possible move to Idyllwild School in the future.

Town & Country Magazine has honored Mountain Center resident Valerie Sobel at the second annual "Women Who Make a Difference." Founder of the Andre Sobel River of Life Foundation, Sobel was recognized for her inspirational and visionary work aiming to provide urgent financial assistance to single parents of catastrophically ill children. Financial relief is provided within 24 hours, making it possible for the parent to remain by the child's bed-

After the death of her son, who suffered a brain tumor, Sobel created a foundation that would help "when compasssion can't wait and single parent families are in despair."

The prestigious awards dinner was Sept. 1 at the Hearst Tower in New York City.

Only in Idyllwild

We are vacationing here in Idyllwild for four months this summer. This past Tuesday, while walking in the Idyllwild County Park, my wife fell and injured herself. We quickly needed to buy, rent or borrow a wheelchair to use while she recovered from her injury.

After making many calls to see what our options were, we found no immediate solution until we called the Idyllwild Fire Department. Rhonda said they had a wheelchair we could borrow until we found a permanent solution.

When I picked up the loaner, I asked what kind of security deposit she wanted or what kind of I.D. I could give her, and her response was: "Nothing is required, just bring it back when you don't need it anymore, so someone else can use it"

Only in Idyllwild will you get that 'people helping people attitude,' which is why we love vacationing here.

A few days after we returned the wheelchair, I went to cash a check because one of the doctor's accountants had sent a refund. One of the bank tellers asked if I had an account, which I did not, and she proceeded to tell me that I couldn't cash a check if I didn't have an account.

It was then that the guy behind me said, "Just put it on my account."

INITIAL THOUGHTS

It takes a village to correct an idiot ...

David Roy has named his wood sculpture tree monument "Harmony." He says, "Harmony also represents Idyllwild, its wilderness, trails, art, theater, music and film." Roy's version of harmony in these mountains reflects the unique diversity present here. Whether or not you see the contrast between the arts and nature or the bucolic spirit located in proximity to metropolitan areas, Idyllwild effervesces with melody and harmony.

This emotion engulfed the attendees at Scott Carlson's memorial on Saturday. Sitting in the warm sunlight and feeling the breeze through the trees was a comforting and safe moment. Each speaker had something original and special to say about Scott's life. Their words created the intimacy that united various and disparate individuals into a single presence on the field. I'm sure many people were touched and moved by the service.

The loss of a public servant in a small community is a significant moment. It's not just one of hundreds of deaths in the city; no, it's the loss of Scott. We knew him.

Unfortunately, this idyllic sentiment was ephemeral. Its meaning voided when we learned about the vandalism and hate crimes perpetrated on another friend and family.

As the story on page 2 reports, these anti-Semitic acts appear to be part of a pattern which began with an attack on Idyllwild School last March. I wish I could announce that these acts end the trend, but until the cowardly vandals are apprehended that wish must be held in abeyance.

Our school, where our children congregate, has been violated. The Idyllwild Community Recreation Council's par course has been attacked more than once, graffiti applied to several village buildings. Now, there has been personal and individual attacks.

(Kudos to ICRC for repairing the badly damaged sign at the Dog Park.) $\,$

These reprehensible acts are unacceptable. In a community as small and harmonious as Idyllwild, there is no room for an individual or group to impose these vile thoughts on any of us or our guests.

Do not mistake this vandalism as free speech. These scoundrels are not standing in the village center and expressing their personal opinions. Even if these statements were vile, odious slurs, the first amendment protects our right to speak in public.

But this person or pack is a coward, not really a believer, because he committed the crime at night. They're afraid to admit their deeds. It is fear they seek to evoke, not the triumph of thought.

In our community, somebody must have some idea about who committed these acts. No legitimate reason can be used to protect them.

Not only are they threatening local families, but if the community ignores these acts, we establish a reputation for condoning actions that will only damage our tourist and real estate businesses.

As a community, we must stand up and proclaim how much we detest the attempt to intimidate. We must demonstrate our Hill's harmony to those who wish to destroy it.

Collectively we must reject this behavior and find ways to help these souls — help them understand their mean-spirited acts, find constructive alternatives and find positive ways to express themselves.

Some community leaders are trying to formulate a response. If you care, consider writing a letter to the editor. If you know who the vandals are or who they may be, call the Sheriff's Department (see Marshall's story for details).

On a separate and positive note, later this week, the Town Crier's Web political page should be live. We will post published stories and stories which didn't get into print. For example, there are a set of questions and answers about voter registration which accompany the story on page 14. Find out the names and parties of all candidates for all offices on the November 2 ballot.

WRITE

Off the Leash: Wrong!

EDITOR

I'm writing in response to Conor O'Farrell's latest "Off the Leash" column.

I was shocked and saddened by the biased assumptions O'Farrell makes regarding the professional dreams of a struggling student from South-Central L.A., who'd been a student of his friend.

O'Farrell, from what he writes, seems to assume that because this student has hitherto achieved only a "C" average, doing so with difficulties in reading and writing, that this will always be the case for him. He further assumes that this young man has "no clue what it takes to make dreams like that come true."

How does O'Farrell know this? How is he able to predict what influences may change this boy's circumstances and situation?

Then comes the kicker of his argument — the basis he sets up for comparing this inner city L.A. student with another student struggling to get an education. The difference is that this student lives in India and studies by candlelight. Of the first student, O'Farrell says "he seemed to have no clue what it takes to make dreams like (his) come true. Was it naïveté? Or just his sense of entitlement?"

What does O'Farrell mean by his "sense of entitlement?" Does he mean that because he's from an inner city school, has learning difficulties, and struggles to maintain a "C" average, he has no right to dream of something better for himself?

Just what exactly are the unexamined assumptions being made in this brief column? What is the point in juxtaposing one student against another, with not a word about the inner city child's background and his personal struggles?

Interestingly enough, we encountered a person whose sense of entitlement allowed them to dent our left front fender and leave no note, while we were parked in front of the post office the same day the Town Crier came out with O'Farrell's

Education must not be complacent!

EDITOR:

Some thoughts responding to "It takes more than desire," by Conor O'Farrell in the Sept. 16 edition of the Town Crier.

As an educator for almost as long as Conor has been alive, I agree with his point that some American students, maybe a lot, do not see the obvious — that education is the key to a better and successful life.

In the sixties, the Indian girl [referenced in O'Farrell's column] might have been Japanese, then Korean, then Chinese, and then Vietnamese and so on, since each successive nationality saw clearly that education was the ladder to success. But you had to climb it.

Recently, my wife and I had lunch with another couple (I am too old for dinner parties), one of whom is a principal of an elementary school in the Coachella Valley. She said something very interesting: parents who are migrant field workers are the strongest supporters of educational excellence at her school. It is obvious to them that education is the key to a better life.

Complacency is an insidious disease.

How to get a letter published

The Town Crier welcomes letters reflecting all opinions. Letters should be concise and to the point. They should be no longer than 400 words. Letters must be typewritten, double-spaced and in upper/lower case (not in all caps). Letters must be signed (unless e-mailed) and must be identified with the writer's name, address and weekday phone number.

Exceptions: Anonymous letters will not be accepted. Letters of thanks are not accepted. A special advertising rate is available for thank-you letters. Political letters cost 10 cents per word.

We reserve the right to reject or edit letters for length, taste, clarity or frequency of submission. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinions of Town Crier staff. Letters may be submitted in person, by mail, by fax (659-2071) or by e-mail (itc@towncrier.com).

FIRE AND FOREST

By Mike Esnard, Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council president

Prepare for fire behavior

September and October are when we have our worst fires, so it is a good time to review what science tells us about protecting our homes.

One thing we need to know is a wildfire does not move like an avalanche with a momentum that envelops everything in its path.

Fire is a chemical process that takes place only when conditions for combustion are present. Fire requires the right amount of oxygen, heat and fuel. Reduce any of these three significantly and the fire will slow or stop. This is why some houses on the same street will burn and others will not. Some are more vulnerable, or more ignitable, than others.

We should know that the terrifying "crown fire," which races through the canopy of the forest with huge flame lengths, has its limits. Scientists conducted experiments in a Canadian forest to see from what distance the radiant heat from a crown fire could ignite the wood that is found on many house exterior walls. The answer was encouraging — fire has to be fairly close to wooden siding to set it on fire, generally closer than 66 feet. Wood that ignites when the fire is closer than 66 feet could not sustain the fire when the flame front passed and self-extinguished. It is unlikely that a crown fire over a hundred feet away from a house will ignite it from radiant heat.

U.S. Forest Service scientist Jack D. Cohen created a model to show how ignitions take place across open space, given a 66-foot wall of flame. His model shows, for instance, that it would take 10 minutes of continuous heat to set wood on fire at a distance of 131 feet. The good news is that most wildfire flame fronts pass in about a minute. (This flame front is lethal to humans, so we should still evacuate. Our skin and lungs would be damaged long before the wood ignites.)

If the flame front does not burn most houses, what does? Case studies of actual home losses from western fires have shown that most homes are destroyed by flying embers or surface fuels (duff) igniting the house.

Fires can throw hot embers over a mile ahead of their fronts. Even after the front passes, these embers can lie on ignitable portions of a house and slowly set it on fire. Wood shingle roofs are extremely vulnerable to this attack.

Another problem is called "ember intrusion," where winds whip embers into attics, crawl spaces, or open windows. In the 2008 Freeway Fire that started in the bed of the Santa Ana River and raced into Orange County, many houses were lost when winds threw embers underneath otherwise excellent fire-resistant tile roofs. The solution to both of these problems are "bird stops" that plug the ends of tile runs, smaller vent (1/8") screens, and newly designed ember-catching vents.

Still another common cause of home loss was staggeringly simple: low intensity flames just crept up to the house along a path of needles and leaves, setting it on fire. We all know the solution to this (a rake), but we should never forget how dangerous lowly needles can be.

If you want to learn more about making your house less ignitable, our project managers (659-6208) will be happy to discuss it with you.

Where do you get your firewood? Are you aware of the danger that the goldspotted oak borer is bringing to our oak trees?

Idyllwild Vote 2010

IFPD approves new budget

By J.P. Crumrine EDITOR

At their Sept. 21 meeting, the Idyllwild Fire Protection District (IFPD) commissioners adopted a budget for fiscal year 2010-11 (which started on July 1, 2010). Budgeted expenses are $1.76 million. Projected revenues are nearly $1.78 million.

The adopted budget is $78,000 more than the preliminary budget. Revenues are about $3,000 less than last year's. Expenditures are projected to be $26,000 less than 2009-10, but $17,500 will be set aside for general and capital reserves.

"Budget is less than last year. We actually decreased the budget which is commendable," noted Commissioner Dr. Charles "Chip" Schelly. "Especially when we can set aside some money for reserves."

Most of the newfound revenues, $40,000, are attributable to a growth in ambulance income due to the recently enacted ambulance fee increases. The Riverside County Board of Supervisors must still approve the new rate struc-

IFPD Treasurer Ben Killingsworth considers this a conservative increase.

Total salaries and benefits are about the same as last year. Career staff salaries have increased $16,000. Most of this is offset by the expectation that the reserve emergency medical technician costs will be $38,000, $12,000 less than the actual cost in 2009-10. Total funding (training, fire and ambulance pay) for the local paid-call firefighters remains about $19,000.

Administrative and operating expenses are essentially the same as the July projections. The principal difference is the additional $14,000 for portable radio acquisitions, which the county will reimburse from a Homeland Security

The only other major changes from July are the two reserves set aside and $8,000 added to the department's contingency account, which Killingsworth described as a token amount because of the agency's possible capital equipment needs.

Trailer park owners face deadlines

By Marshall Smith STAFF REPORTER

James Murdock of La Cumbre Management of Santa Barbara, Calif., one of the owners of the Idvllwild Trailer Park (ITP), received a notice from Riverside County Code Enforcement (CE) dated Sept. 3. The owners are required to remove or disconnect substandard electrical installations on 58 rental spaces and to obtain a permit to reconnect code compliant connections on or before Sept. 20.

According to CE's Hector Viray, Murdock did meet with both CE (on Friday, Sept. 17) and Building and Safety (on Monday, Sept. 20), but did not get the required permit because the plans Murdock submitted to Building and Safety were either incomplete or did not meet county code requirements.

Murdock has said he submitted plans to upgrade the electrical systems at ITP more than a year ago, but the county did not approve them at that time. Viray does not know if these are the same plans that were previously submitted. "We are more than willing to work with him [Murdock]," said Viray. "Our goal is to get voluntary compliance, but at some point if that compliance is not forthcomlegal action." Viray noted that Murdock's meeting with the aforementioned county departments was a good first step.

CE informed Murdock that owners must also comply with current conditions for the park's conditional use permit or receive county Planning Department approval to revise those conditions on or before Nov. 22,

And in a third requirement, CE informed Murdock that all units within the park must show evidence of permits conforming to current codes for all unpermitted construction by Nov. 22. Park residents who rent space at ITP have not been notified in writing of any violations they are required to correct. In that respect, the November compliance date is unrealistic, a point Viray acknowledged. "Ultimately, the park owners are responsible for everything," said Viray. "We'll [county agencies] want to take the next steps after the electrical issues are handled. We'll approach each resident's issues on a case-by-case basis and we will address those issues compassionately."

While promising compassion, Viray also referenced the strict requirements of of Regulations, that governs mobile home parks. Title 25 expressly forbids construction on any recreational vehicles and park units. It ted construction. In the Sept. 3 notice, allows construction, with

Albert Einstein is coming to Idyllwild

By Roz Tilson Friends of the Idyllwild Library

The Friends of the Idyllwild Library will present a portrayal of renowned physicist Albert Einstein on Oct. 2. Duffy Hudson will travel to Idyllwild to portray Einstein, whose insights changed the way physicists and philosophers viewed the world.

Hudson, an accomplished performer, director, writer and filmmaker, will have Doctor Einstein "tell" his life story. During his presentation, Einstein will explain his theory of relacan understand it.

Hudson will share the story of the scientist's accomplishments in the first person and will describe many aspects of his personal life in such a way that Einstein will seem to be alive in the room.

Spiritual Living Center has moved

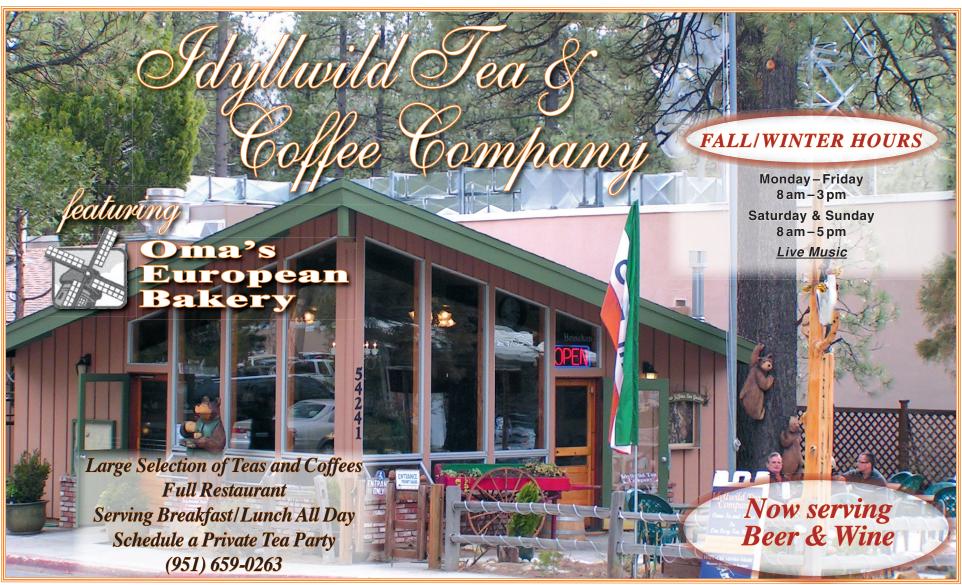

The Spiritual Living Center — Idyllwild Church of Religious Science — has moved locations. It is now in the Courtyard Building, 26120 Ridgeview Drive, next to the Fort. Due to an increase in the congregation and a need for a bigger bookstore, the church decided to expand. Rev. Dr. Betty Jandl believes this growth is due to the comprehensiveness and truth of the religion's philosophy, which is said to embrace all churches, all ministers, and all religions. The new facility is in a stage of renovation, but will be finished soon.

Last weekend, nine ladies gathered at Idyllwild's Spirit Mountain Retreat for a seminar exploring women's creativity and leadership not only in the corporate world but also as individual entrepreneurs. Briefly posing for a moment during their workshop are, left to right, Janice Fast, Deda Roubideaux, $\textbf{Kathleen\,McCabe}, \textbf{Celeste\,Mann}\,(\textit{sitting\,onfloor}), \textbf{Aneesah}$ McNamee (on chair) Patty Afsar (sitting on floor), Esther Kennedy, director of Spirit Mountain, Bronwyn Jones, Cynthia Thompson and Nancy Iwaniuk.

HUSD scores well on API

By Marshall Smith STAFF REPORTER

Hemet Unified School District (HUSD) performed well on 2009-10 Academic Performance Index (API) scores. All middle schools and all but two elementary schools reached or bettered their growth targets. Idyllwild School (IS) continues its growth pattern, besting its growth target by 4 points, from 840 to 844. "We're the highest we've ever been," said IS Principal Matt Kraemer. "We've got some programs that are working," Kraemer said in understatement.

Kraemer also proudly noted how many of his middle school students performed at proficient or advanced levels. Our middle school program did very well," said Kraemer. "Seventy-five percent of our middle school students scored at proficient or advanced levels in language arts and 90 percent of 8th-graders (7th-graders are not tested in science) scored proficient or advanced in science." Kraemer noted that 62 percent of middle school students scored at proficient or advanced levels in social studies.

District wide, HUSD exceeded its 2009 growth target by 11 points, from 742 to API scores are single numbers ranging from a low of 200 to a high of 1,000 that reflect a school or subgroup's performance level, based on the results of statewide testing. Its purpose is to measure the academic performance and growth of schools. API scores were established in 1999 in a landmark state law that created a new academic accountability system for K-12 public education in California.

Reflections

By Carey Powers News Intern

I have written steadily, and with ineffable love, for most of my adolescence. Battalions of dreams, illuminations, and extremities of thought were my fanciful occupation, and even more than that, my narrowminded self-definition.

When I applied for an internship through the Summer Work Experience Program, my intention was direct and simple: to know the avenues and boundaries of my working capabilities and to become more fully rounded. At that point, I was not writing and suffering the hesitations of withdrawal, the confusion of halted growth (or so I thought).

The newspaper business was admittedly new to me — and frankly, all I had was a hidden love of words and communication — but it was also collaborative, always changing, and yet with the pleasure of routine, all things I understood from various genres of writing.

In short, the writing I have done called journalism has kept me concise, sane, and more importantly, still writing. It is more challenging in its limitations to fact and more engaging, as it requires outside correspondence and research.

The involved mentorship I received and the compassion of the staff was inimitable and heartening. Finding, through hardship, that I can still surprise myself is an excitement beyond words. The variety and newness of my daily tasks made me see that a person is manifold and changeable.

What I lost when I could not write creatively was the luxury of childhood, the single-minded romanticism of knowing I could do nothing else but try to write. This job has given me a lacked abundance of life experience and the assurance that the unexplored and the untried are not foreign; they're simply new.

Actor Harry Shearer in IA production

Actor and comedian Harry Shearer ("Spinal Tap," "The Simpsons," "A Mighty Wind") will join the renowned Idyllwild Arts Academy Orchestra for a production of the classic favorite "Peter and the Wolf" by Sergei Prokofiev. COLONEL BO'S GRASS-IS-ALWAYS-GREENER

This week, Penny and I put our RV on the beach at Marine Corps San Onofre, a couple hundred miles due west of the 'Hill.' If you've never been there you should go. San Onofre and its State Beach companion form a stretch of the most gorgeous surf on planet Earth. The massive breakers crash white about a mile out toward Hawaii, then roar all the way in to your feet. At either end — north and south — points of land come down to the water. There (at either end), two of the world's best

'surfing' waters are dotted with hundreds of wetsuited surfers day and night. A curious thing!
Along the beach in front of us, a constant parade of surfers carrying their surfboards, keep passing. Half are going from the south point to the north. The others are going north to south. When you ask either group why they do the two-mile hike, the answer is always the same. Holding up a cellphone, a big smile and pointing: "They say the surf is way better over there." Stop by B's MOUNTAIN OF BOOKS and read about the surf I found on the South China Sea.

SPORTS

Golf

Idyllwild's Palms to Pines Golf Association played its regular monthly tournament in conjunction with the second round of playoffs for the Club Championship. On Sept. 17, playing the Palms Course at Menifee Lakes Country Club, Les Widerynski and Robert Priefer moved into the championship.

That Friday was clear and hot, and the course was in fair shape, except for some grassless patches on some of the fairways. Because of the rough spots, the club decided to allow players to improve their lie in the fairways.

The semi-final match play pitted Jim Crandall (course handicap 12) against Widerynski (15) and Pete Capparelli (19) squared off against Priefer (21).

Widerynski and Crandall, who are pretty evenly matched, battled hole for hole throughout the day. Often their drives would land just feet apart, followed by near-identical second shots to the green. Even mistakes seemed matched. One would chip into the water; the other would follow.

Through the back nine, Wideryski held a consistent 2-hole lead. Crandall prevented a 3-up lead by chipping in for par on hole 15. He then cut the lead to 1 by winning the 16th hole. The pair pushed on the 17th and 18th holes. Crandall shot a bogey 5 on the 18th, and Widerynski shot a double bogey 6. This would have resulted in a tie except for Widerynski's good fortune. Crandall had to give him a stroke on that hole. So Widerynski won the match 1 hole up with no holes left to play.

Capparelli and Priefer's battle was also very close. Neither man ever led by more than 1 hole through the front nine and the first couple holes on the back. Then on hole 12, Priefer went 1 up, on 13 he went 2 up, on 14 he went 3 up, and on 15 he went 4 up to cinch the win with three holes to play.

Priefer and Widerynski will face off for the title of Club Champion during October's regular tournament, which will be played at Oak Valley Golf Course in Beaumont.

The Club Champion will then go on to play in the Southern California Golf Association's Tournament of Club Champions in December.

In the regular tourney, Greg Piersol (17) shot a net 71 to take first place. Gary Leong (15) and Gary Brown (12) tied for second with net 72s. Priefer came in fourth with a net 74, and Widerynski took fifth with a net 78.

Widerynski won for closest to the pin on the front nine, and Chuck Alkire won the KP on the back nine. Alkire also won for the longest driver.

This was the second regular tournament of the 2010-11 season, with points garnered toward next year's playoffs.

Steele finishes 9th in Idaho

By Jack Clark Professional golf correspondent

Brendan Steele jumped up the money list last week on the Nationwide Tour. In the Albertsons Boise Open at the Hillcrest Country Club in Boise, Idaho, he fired a 15-underpar (71-65-67-66) for a total 269. He finished tied for 9th place and earned $18,850 in prize money. This is his best finish and largest paycheck of this season. For the year, he has won more than $119,000.

This finish jumped him 10 places to 35th in money winnings on this year's Nationwide Tour. He is about $21,000 behind the player currently holding down 25th place. If he can continue to climb and finish the year in the top 25 money winners, he would earn advancement to the PGA Tour next season.

With only four more scheduled tournament opportunities this year, it will be tough to improve his position on the money list. But 35th place standing does qualify him for a fifth tournament, the Tour Championship, at the end of the year. It also entitles him to advance directly to the final stage of the Q School tournament, which would give him a further opportunity for promotion to the PGA Tour in 2011.

Steele is in Midland/Odessa, Texas, this week to compete in the $525,000 WNB Golf Classic on the Midland Country Club course. The winner will bag $94,500.

His best opportunity occurs when the Soboba Classic in San Jacinto begins on Sept. 30. With a million dollars in prize money, it is one of the two richest purses on the entire tour.

The current standings are: 1st place: Leong with 10.5 points; 2nd place: Piersol with 8 points; 3rd place: Widerynski with 6 points; 4th place: Brown with 4.5 points; 5th place: Mike Feyder with 3.5 points; 6th place: Herk McClellan with 3 points; 7th place: Priefer with 2.5 points; and there is a twoway tie for 8th place between Dan Slattery and Capparelli, both with 1 point.

Points are awarded at each tournament as follows: first place, 6 points; second place, 4 points; third place, 3 points; fourth place, 2 points; fifth place, 1 point. In addition, one-half point is awarded to everyone who participates.

Palms to Pines Golf Association plays a tournament off the Hill once a month at different golf courses. The games are usually played on the third Friday of the month, but may be adjusted for holidays and such. Tournament fees range from about $45 to usually no more than $60, and the fees include green fees, tournament entry fees, golf cart and range balls. Guests usually pay $10 less, since they don't compete in the tournament.

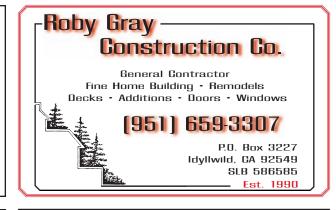

The club is a member of the Southern California Golf Association and is sanctioned to establish SCGA handicaps for members

Anyone interested in joining the club or playing as a guest should contact Jim Crandall at jim@towncrier.com (951) 415-5790 or Pete Capparelli at pete@capparelli.com (951) 452-5552.

Bono Mack speaks about CD 45 campaign

By J.P. Crumrine EDITOR

Last month, the Town Crier met with Congresswoman Mary Bono Mack. The following is a summary of our conversation about national and local issues reverberating in Congressional District 45.

While expressing confidence in her re-election, the Congresswoman did not assume the campaign would be easy. Through June 30, she had raised nearly $1.7 million to support her re-election

You have been assailed from both the right and left. Is that discouraging?

"That means I'm doing it right. You can't please all the public all the time," she said. 'Depending on the issue, I am and will be independent."

What's your drive, motivation, energy source?

"It's the opportunity to meet and to talk with people like Bill Harrison. He's been through so much and is still so positive on the future," she replied.

Harrison was the grand marshal of the Idyllwild Fourth of July Parade this year. He is the author of "Six Days on a Raft," which relates his story of being stranded with other seamen in the South Pacific after their ship was sunk during WWII.

"With respect to same sex marriage, I have long felt it is best left to states to decide. I recognize that people are very passionate about it," she averred. "Now Judge [Vaughn] Walker has ruled, and Proposition 8 is in the courts. Eventually, it will go to and be decided by the [U.S.] Supreme Court. When that day occurs, we will all remember where we were."

In terms of scientific tools in the stop-GSOB toolbox, applying insecticide on the boles and large branches of high value trees is the only preventive option currently available. Applications however are both expensive and protection is temporary.

Attendees were pessimistic about stopping the inevitable GSOB northward migration because of the infant state of the science to combat spread, and about no governmental plan to prevent transport of infected oak and no existing plan or mechanism to "certify" firewood as GSOBfree. The public can choose to buy firewood other than oak. That, according to offering to rebuild the home. 'My grandparents are devastated," said Nichols. "This house represents all of our family memories." Nichols said the entire family, from his grandparents to his own three children, have gathered together regularly at the cabin for holidays and vacations.

According the Brahms' son, Rob, who spoke for the grief-stricken couple via telephone Wednesday afternoon, the Brahm family knew the Belden family. Over the vears, Selden Belden's son, Ted, has given them history about the home.

According to Rob Brahm, Selden Belden started building the cabin in 1929 and finished in 1932. The downstairs room was used to house the first workshop where Belden built the pinecraft furniture for which he became famous. Brahm said that, at the time of the fire, the house was furnished with original pinecraft furniture built by Selden Belden. Belden's initials were even carved into the fireplace.

On Wednesday, the fireplace and its chimney were all that remained of the historic home.

The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Joke of the Week

One day, Mrs. Peachtree was talking to her first-grade class about whales when Sally asked, "Do whales swallow people?

"No, even though they are much bigger than a person, they have small throats that filter their food," said Mrs. Peachtree

"But my Sunday school teacher says Jonah was swallowed by a whale," said Sally.

"I assure, you," said Mrs. Peachtree huffily, "Blue whales cannot swallow people!

"Well," said Sally, "when I get to heaven I'll just ask Jonah if he was really swallowed by a whale."

The teacher, red with anger, said, "What if Jonah went to hell?"

"Well, then you can ask him." said Sally.

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A workplace change doesn't seem to have turned out quite as you'd hoped. Never mind: Just treat yourself to a healthy dollop of that Aries self-confidence, and you'll soon view things differently.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Some of the support you might have hoped for in a difficult situation might not be there. But you have the strength to rely on your own capabilities if you must. Good luck.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A disagreement with a longtime friend can be painful, but it also can be a learning lesson. Insist on a full and complete airing of views. You'll both come away the better for it.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A stalled relationship can be restarted with some give and take on both sides. And while it could take more time than you expect, don't rush it. Be patient, and let it happen naturally.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) An opportunity to move a longstalled project from concept to construction might be opening up for the Big Cat. Meanwhile, be prepared to spend more time dealing with family matters.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Use your Virgo organizational skills to line up support to help you deal with a sticky workplace problem. A personal matter also might be helped with friendly intervention.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Trying to resolve a workplace problem with a longtime associate can be difficult. Consider bringing in an impartial third party to help you both reach a mutually acceptable so-

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to assess your current career situation. Consider whether you have a chance to move up where you are now, or if you should look elsewhere.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) With education being a dominant part of this week's aspect, one of the things you might want to think about is taking courses to enhance your career opportuni-

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You might have a problem trying to stay focused on a matter you'd rather not deal with. But the sooner you do, the sooner it will be resolved and out of the way.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) An unforeseen complication creates a difficult problem. But things get resolved once you use your ability to turn negative situations into positive experiences.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) The Pisces penchant for doing the right thing at the right time helps you deal with a particularly troublesome situation. Consider your best option, and act accordingly.

BORN THIS WEEK: Although you might sometimes seem rigid in your views, your love of justice makes you a trusted friend everyone can rely on.

Every day throughout the United States, newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals families, neighborhoods and businesses.
Public notices cover many topics, including business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, local government finances and state and local elections. Public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

Creature corner

By Mimi and Hootch

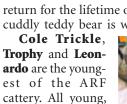

Nellie, a young, female pit bull, was found wandering in Idyllwild when an angel rescued her. She has all the promise of being a loyal, protective and playful addition to the right home. Nellie is looking for a home that will not be frightened by the fact she is a pit bull and that will be patient with her puppy curiosity. One throw of the tennis ball, and her smile will touch your heart.

Maddie May is our mastiff/golden mix looking for an energetic owner. Although very obedient, she will require a strong hand for the walk, as she is big and strong. A gentle heart and attention is all that is required in return for the lifetime of love this big, cuddly teddy bear is willing to give.

male kittens, these guys will bring a lifetime of laughter and love to your home.

Kitty is our oldest ARF resident still searching for just the right home. Iust back from the beauty parlor, she is ready for her favorite pillow and a few gentle pets.

Rosi is still in need of medical surgeries for injuries to her back legs. Her big smile, loving brown eyes, and Rosi dance will melt your heart. Please assist us in returning health to Rosi.

ARF has several cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www. idyllwildarf.org and click ARF is open on Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Call for appointment on any other day at (951) 659-1122. E-mail and donation opportunities are at www. idyllwildarf.org or e-mail arf@greencafe.com.

Creature corner is sponsored this week by Charolette Cowan in loving memory of little Josiah who recently left this world to be with his Creator. To sponsor the column, call Shane Fender at the Town Crier, 659-2145.
