IDYLLWILD, CA

THURS., MARCH 10, 2011

On Thursday, March 3, a rock tumbled down onto Highway 243 just before Saunders Meadow Road (as you enter Idyllwild). The obstacle was quickly removed, but reminded residents of the boulder that closed Hwy. 243 just past Alhanti and of our vulnerability during disasters. (See MDP story on page 15.)

Supervisor gives to Idyllwild

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Supervisor Jeff Stone

From Jan. 1, 2008 through March 7, 2011, Riverside County Third District Supervisor Jeff Stone has directed nearly $2 million in community improvement funds to Idyllwild. Since his first election as supervisor in 2004, Stone has come to Idyllwild each month to confer with constituents. He has referred to Idyllwild as the "jewel of Riverside County" and has expressed concern about and has substantially contributed to Idyllwild and its residents' health and economic well-being.

He championed creation of an Idyllwild Historic Preservation District as a means of adding tourist cache to the county's only alpine resort, as a way of preserving its unique early to mid-20th-century architectural character, and as a means of creating some flexibility in code compliance for Idyllwild's business and property owners. The district is likely to be approved and in place by this summer.

Stone supports a wide variety of community programs and projects, many associated with children or youths. For example, Stone supported the 2010 Summer Work Experience Program that provided summer work for 21 Idyllwild interns, paid by federal dollars. He has been

With an impasse over statewide tax extensions looming, the budget scenarios for Hemet Unified School District (HUSD) grow darker. As an indication of how the district is scrambling to raise funds, it was forced for legal reasons to rescind a plan to hire substitute teachers for a 1-month contract

ICC playground plans progress

By BETH NOTTLEY
STAFF REPORTER

It's just past the mid-point in planning for the new Idyllwild Community Center Playground and Park being built by Idyllwild Community Recreation Council (ICRC). Organizers are taking stock of where they are at and what's still to be accomplished.

At last week's Playground Committee meeting, Dawn Sonnier, ICRC vice president and Playground Committee chair, presented fellow organizers with a "Playground Project Critical Timeline" report detailing critical dates for the project. The timeline identifies major action items from the initial community brainstorming session held last October through the beginning of construction planned for June 22 to 26.

More than $70,000 has been raised for the project, which is expected to cost $100,000, exceeding the 50 percent mid-point fund-raising goal. Funds have been raised through ICRC-sponsored events, from community organizations and businesses, through grants and through donations from individuals and families.

Additionally, the 30

Welcome help for veterans

There are 30,000 veterans returning to California every year from deployments around the globe. Many of these men and women are returning from combat units and forward operations bases. Most return to a state with few job prospects, a difficult housing market, and to families that haven't seen them in a year or more. This transition is often very difficult for veterans. Many face significant personal, financial, and health challenges and most are uncertain about how or where to get the help they need to successfully move forward.

Operation Welcome Home is a program of the California Department of Veterans Affairs that contacts returning veterans, assesses their needs, and connects them with the employment, education, housing and health benefits they have earned. Operation Welcome Home refers veterans to existing federal, state, and county service providers and helps the veteran navigate the complicated and frustrating VA benefits system.

For more information about Operation Welcome Home, please contact Dan Nelan at (916) 826-5681 or Daniel.nelan@cdva.ca.gov.

OUTSIDE IDYLLWILD

BY BRUCE WATTS

Lonesome dove

As many of my readers already know from my previous columns, I am a bird lover. I did a whole series on local birds in the past and more recently, I've written articles about the eagles at Lake Hemet.

The truth is that I am a bird watcher even though I don't run around with binoculars and a checklist of bird species. If I had a better camera, I would probably take a lot of bird pictures. But I guess I will leave that to the experts because it is very hard to capture good photos of birds with a point and shoot camera.

Last week, I was sitting in my truck when I saw a small bird take a snow bath. At least, that's what it appeared to be doing.

The bird hopped into a depression in the snow and after much flapping of its wings, which lasted about 45 seconds, it hopped back out again — just as it would act in a birdbath.

While visiting a friend a couple of days later, someone stopped and pulled a wire cage out of their car. After the person left the cage on the floor, I asked my friend what he was going to do with an injured band-tailed pigeon since he was in the process of moving. It seemed like a difficult time for him to take on the responsibility of dealing with a pigeon with a broken wing.

One thing led to another and I ended up trying to find someone who could help and care for the injured bird. Since I have two cats and a studio apartment, bringing the pigeon home was not an option.

My first lead was to look for Frank over at the Red Kettle. After a couple of tries, I found him out front sitting in the sun. He said there was nothing he could do. He suggested I inquire at ARF where he knew of a woman who took in birds; but he could not remember her name.

At ARF, the nice lady working there pointed to a name and number on the bulletin board. She was kind enough to dial the number for me and the woman I talked to had just got out of the hospital. Since she could not help, she recommended I take the bird to The Living Desert in Palm Desert.

I visited The Living Desert website and found they only care for native species. Then I did more research.

I discovered the ring-tailed pigeon, Columba fasciata, was indeed a native species. I called and left a message. When they returned my call, they said it was not a native species; therefore, they would not take the bird.

The Living Desert said I should call Wild Wings in "The first blue birds means that spring is on its way," wrote Vi Hallacy. She captured this pair in her backyard.

*If any roses ever deserved the label "easy," surely it is the hybrid rugosa roses. The ancestor of this class is a central Asian species, Rosa rugosa. They are one of the hardiest and easiest roses to grow not only in cold climates, but in nearly every American growing zone. They are drought resistant, tolerant of poor soil conditions and very disease resistant. They are nearly immune to black spot and mildew, and actually don't like being sprayed with chemicals.* PHOTO COURTESY OF HAROLD VOORHEIS

Historical commission hears Idyllwild application

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

On Thursday, March 17, the Riverside County Historical Commission will review an application to create an Idyllwild Historic Preservation District. Keith Herron, chief preservation officer, Riverside County Parks and Open Space District, will present the completed application to the commission. Parks and Open Space is the petitioner.

Herron noted the 11-member Historical Commission has been kept apprised of all steps to date in the over two year process leading up to presentation of the Idyllwild application. Those steps included the county's hiring of LSA Associates to survey Idyllwild's central business core to determine existence of buildings of historical significance; completion of the survey with a determination of the existence of significant historical resources within the proposed district; a series of informational meetings held in Idyllwild with residents and land-owners in the proposed district; and drafting by County Planning, Parks and Open Space and County Counsel, and passage by the Board of Supervisors of revised Historic District Ordinance 578.

Herron said the Historical Commission would meet in open session at the San Gorgonio Pass Historical Society at 1:30 p.m. on March 17. "I'll be presenting the application with a recommendation to the commission to approve because the application for the proposed Idyllwild district meets the criteria outlined in Ordinance 578," said Herron.

Landowners within the proposed Idyllwild district may attend to raise questions or voice opposition. This is the penultimate opportunity for landowners within the proposed district to lodge opposition. The last opportunity will be a Board of Supervisors hearing and vote on district formation, which Herron hopes will occur in April. Barring significant opposition, the Board of Supervisors will likely vote to approve creation of an Idyllwild Historic Preservation District. The district is an idea Third District Supervisor Jeff Stone has championed to ensure preservation of Idyllwild's unique character and appearance and carve out some code compliance flexibility for its business core of mainly older commercial buildings.

The San Gorgonio Pass Historical Society meets at the Beaumont Women's Club building, 306 E. Sixth Street in Beaumont.

ONLY IN IDYLLWILD

Recently, I walked to town to enjoy the snow. I was loaded with books and I headed to the Gastrognome for breakfast and to catch up on my reading. I sat down, but when I opened my glass's case, I found I had forgotten to put my reading glasses inside. How dumb and frustrating. The waitress came over and asked me what was wrong. I explained the silly thing I had done. She left and returned in a few minutes with a box full of reading glasses. I found a pair that worked and enjoyed my reading and my meal ... only in Idyllwild.

Nineteen Marines and support personnel from Camp Pendleton's Combat Logistics Regiment 15 rode motorcycles to Idyllwild's American Legion Post 800 last Friday. While here, they enjoyed a hamburger and hot dog lunch hosted by Legion members. According to Legion Commander Traci Phillipi and House Committee Chairman Danny Richardson, several of the Marines decided to become members of the local post.

INITIAL THOUGHTS

Let the sun shine ...

Sunshine Week begins Sunday, as does daylight saving time (yes, at 2 a.m.). So remember Spring forward (we lose an hour) and Fall back.

Sunshine Week is not a reference to "Mr. Sunshine" with one of my "Friends," Matthew Perry, nor do I mean "Little Miss Sunshine" or one of my favorites, "Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind." Or even, "Good Morning Sunshine," but as the weather changes we can "take a walk in the sun" but it's no "Daydream."

Sunshine Week is the geek term for encouraging more open government. Just as legislators have deemed it appropriate to approve a sunset limit on legislation so that it does not advance into eternity without periodic review of its relevance. The second week of March is now called Sunshine Week (perhaps its an unconscious desire for Spring weather to return).

Let the sun shine on the acts of governments — national, state, county or local. Allow people access to the information that is theirs because they are citizens, residents and taxpayers of these jurisdictions.

Sunshine Week is the antithesis of Bell, Calif., and its supposed public servants. Rather than concealing actions and obfuscating the truth, Sunshine would allow you to see and know what those guys (or sometimes gals) are doing.

As a result of Bell's city management, John Chiang, California's Controller, is posting employee expenses, which are now available online (sco.ca.gov/compensation_search.html) anytime of the day. The Town Crier has published the data for the four Hill special districts — Fern Valley, Idyllwild and Pine Cove water districts and Idyllwild Fire Protection District.

While you may have some specific questions and other problems related to costs, I think there a general pattern of consistency among these agencies' salary rates.

On the other hand, I suggest you review the Lake Hemet Municipal Water District data on page 24. Some notable outliers can be seen there. For example, one director receives more health, dental, vision or other insurance than any employee. Hope his health improves.

I'd like to remind you that one of the directors — Larry Minor — recently pleaded guilty to campaign finance violations. He was charged with perjury, but that charge was dropped as part of the plea bargain.

By the way, one of the conditions of the bargain was that he make no campaign contributions for three years. Hmm! The state attorney was really playing hard ball with that condition. Minor's term expires in four years, guess he can self-finance that.

I am not suggesting he is the director with the insurance benefits, but I know that after we wrote our story, both the Press Enterprise and the Valley Chronicle asked him to resign.

Maybe a little more sunshine, and its concomitant heat, are necessary to aid the public process. But there are local issues that more light and sunshine might help us residents understand.

For example, whatever happened to the 2007 complaint filed with the State Water Resources Control Board over Idyllwild Water District's claim to the full flow of Strawberry Creek? The SWRCB had someone visit the district and review the physical situation that summer. Maybe it got filed in the warehouse with the "Lost Ark."

What about IFPD's closed session last month? One of the reasons was the chief's evaluation — a legal reason for conducting a closed session. But his contract states his salary can be adjusted after six months on the job.

Since he was sworn into office on Aug. 1, the closed session might be connected to this contract clause. But interestingly, the agenda for last night's IFPD meeting did not mention the chief's compensation. Or those captains who claim former Chief Steve Kunkle had given them raises without consulting the commission. It's been on the agenda several times in the past year, but always deferred. The commission even tried to use a closed session, but fortunately some sunshine revealed the possible clandestine action.

Finally, what about the most egregious closet on the Hill — the San Jacinto Mountain Community Center, Inc. — otherwise known to the public as the Idyllwild Community Recreation Council? This is a private, self-appointed group who have no accountability to the public.

In the coming weeks, we'll shine some light on the actions that have not resulted in the promised community center. The donor's good will, we hope, will be extended, beyond the original 3-year deadline, which is nearly up.

Agree with
Mr. Berezky*EDITOR:

I was quite disappointed in your "Initial thoughts" column titled, "How do we pay for state parks?" [in the March 3 issue].

I previously read the two columns ["Off the leash" by Conor O'Farrell and "Initial thoughts" in the Feb. 17 issue] written in the Town Crier on this issue. While I did not agree with those columns, I respect the paper's right to publish those opinions.

Mr. Berezky's letter to the editor [in the March 3 issue] expressed my views on this issue very well and I am disappointed that you thought it was necessary to rebut and disagree with his opinion.

Mostly I am surprised that you elected to call Mr. Berezky a "free rider" in the last paragraph of your column.

Is our local newspaper editor's column to be used to berate and label our citizens when their opinion does not agree with the paper's opinion? I expect better from professional journalists.

Daylight saving time begins

Daylight saving time begins at 2 a.m. March 13, 2011. Change your clocks ahead one hour.

And remember, it is also a good time to change the batteries in your smoke and carbon monoxide detectors. Doing so helps ensure they will function properly.

Matter of fact

In the March 3 edition of the Town Crier, a photo of a truck without wheels at the Pine Cove Garage was published. The owner of the truck and operator of the garage, Tim Rood, says he is restoring the vehicle. He said its condition is not the result of vandalism of the truck as the photo caption stated.

How to get a letter published

The Town Crier welcomes letters reflecting all opinions. Letters should be concise and to the point. They should be no longer than 400 words. Letters must be typewritten, double-spaced and in upper/lower case (not in all caps). Letters must be signed (unless e-mailed) and must be identified with the writer's name, address and weekday phone number.

Exceptions: Anonymous letters will not be accepted. Letters of thanks are not accepted. A special advertising rate is available for thank-you letters. Political letters cost 10 cents per word.

We reserve the right to reject or edit letters for length, taste, clarity or frequency of submission. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinions of Town Crier staff. Letters may be submitted in person, by mail, by fax (659-2071) or by e-mail (itc@towncrier.com).

Responsibility for the cost of rescues ...

Should those saved by search-and-rescue teams be billed for the cost of their rescue?

The issue has long been debated within the outdoor community — both here in Idyllwild and across the world. Organizations that respond to search and rescues have long opposed the concept of charging for their efforts.

The press release issued last week by National Association for Search and Rescue (NASAR), the Mountain Rescue Association and the National Park Service reiterated the stance of those groups. Consistently, they either oppose billing or do not bill people after a search-and-rescue operation.

"Although it remains a local decision, billing for search-and-rescue operations is a dangerous practice that should be avoided," said NASAR President Dan Hourihan.

Having been on both sides of the rescue, I have been giving serious thought to this debate. And, I feel the sooner the search-and-rescue team is notified and dispatched, the better the outcome will be for the endangered hiker, skier, boater or whomever needs rescuing.

Calling the team out as quickly as possible is essential. For every hour that passes, an injured subject's condition deteriorates. For example, a hypothermic subject can slip into unconsciousness or a lost subject can stumble away or slip over a cliff. An hour can make a dramatic difference in a rescue situation. Each minute of delay increases the possible search area.

We don't want anybody delaying their call to 9-1-1, hoping that little Johnny will finally make his way out the mountains on his own, simply because of the fear of possibly being charged for the rescue.

For the missing person's sake, we need to be called as soon as possible. Hiding from rescuers is a bad idea. We need to avoid the situation where the subject hides

RENATE'S THOUGHTS

DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT, NATURAL LEARNING RESEARCH INSTITUTE, IDYLLWILD

A different and effective teaching style (Part I) ...

I don't know how many people know that I grew up in northern (West) Germany after the war. For many Germans, this was definitely the worst of times. Individuals struggled to survive physically, but I wonder how many are aware of the tremendous number of individuals who were emotionally devastated. Many were in and out of mental institutions, and there were many teachers among them.

In the midst of this chaos, I had the great fortune to end up with a very exceptional teacher. She was young, gifted and talented and had grown up in a little town that had never been bombed. Although the Allies had actually scheduled to bomb it, the end of the war intervened.

What made this teacher and this time so unusual was that everyone had so much freedom. New regulations had not been established for schools and education. Also, there was little money to pay teachers so we only went to school two or three hours a day and from 8 to 10 a.m. on Saturdays.

On many days, too lovely to stay indoors, we would go on hikes to different places, which she felt to be educational. Most vivid in my memory are visits to the local "Schloss" or castle. Unlike many of today's museums, the various rooms were still as if the people lived there rather than rooms filled with isolated pieces that are grouped and labeled.

Rooms had been largely left intact. This allowed my imagination to run free as I saw myself living in this kind of environment. Our teacher didn't work with us from a prepared "lesson," instead she often pointed things out, linked items to historical events or told stories.

Lt. Geoff Raya joins Hemet Station

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

New Hemet Station Lt. Geoff Raya is a self-described fitness buff and marathon runner who understands the importance of disciplined preparation prior to beginning any contest. That combination of fitness, preparation and endurance will be helpful given the station's large physical jurisdiction, expanding needs and budget challenges.

"I'm often in a sprint," he acknowledged, having covered much of his 890-square-mile territory since becoming the station's sole lieutenant on Jan. 27.

On how he intends to interact with the constituents he serves, Raya said, "I'll be a human being who tries to best represent your [constituent] interests as well as the interests of the Sheriff's Department." Raya affirmed that current community policing policies that maintain two deputies on the Hill at all times would remain station policy.

Raya is a poised and articulate communicator, reminiscent of a likeable and accessible young college professor. He credits two stints as an administrator at the Sheriff's Academy, structuring coursework and implementing training programs with helping his communication skills. He noted that during his academy assignment he was, for all intents and purposes, an educator.

Raya also tips his hat to his first important job at Disneyland as another venue where he developed the ability to communicate with people of many different cultures. "It was hard to leave that job," said Raya, a self-acknowledged "railroad buff." When first hired, Raya worked the parking lot but was happy to find it was part of the same department as the Disneyland Railroad. And, typical of how Raya's career has accelerated on his chosen career tracks, the railroad was his next assignment.

While working at Disneyland, Raya took a course in law enforcement at Fullerton College and that experience moved him into his current profession. Just before graduating from the Sheriff's Academy in San Bernardino County, Raya was hired by Riverside County Sheriff's Department (RCSD). As a bright man in a hurry, he moved through a variety of RCSO assignments, including the county jail and Perris, Jurupa Valley and Moreno Valley stations.

Season's last eagle count Saturday

BY BETH NOTTLEY
STAFF REPORTER

Volunteers are still being sought to help the Forest Service count bald eagles at Lake Hemet and four other locations in the San Jacinto and San Bernardino Mountains on Saturday, March 12.

Although the bald eagle's population in the mountains of Riverside and San Bernardino counties has been declining over the past decade, there has been a permanent breeding pair observed at Lake Hemet since 2003, a turning point for local representatives of the national symbol when the pair successfully fledged two chicks — the first hatching of bald eagles in the wild in Southern California in 50 years.

A new female arrived at Lake Hemet in 2004 and mated with the same male. Since bald eagles mate for life, scientists speculate that his previous mate had died.

This pair has been observed at Lake Hemet most years since and has produced chicks in many of those years. Although they were not seen in January's count this season, they were spotted in February. This year is the Forest Service's 32nd year counting the area's bald eagle population.

Volunteers for this Saturday's count, the final one of the season, should meet at the Lake Hemet Market at 8:30 a.m. No experience is needed. They are advised to dress warmly and bring binoculars and a watch, if possible.

For more information about the Lake Hemet count, contact Forest Service District Wildlife Biologist Ann Poopatanapong at (909) 382-2935.

one of the regular sponsors for the Jazz in the Pines festival that benefits Idyllwild Arts student scholarships.

Marsha Lytle, this year's committee chair for Jazz in the Pines, said, "Stone has been one of our largest supporters financially. We really appreciate his support and hope to continue the relationship into the future."

Stone has, from 2004 to 2008, regularly gifted the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce from discretionary funds at his disposal.

The last gift, through the Economic Development Agency, was for $20,000 in 2008. Nick Todd, current president of the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce acknowledged that, given the county's current economic plight, the Chamber can't rely on future large gifts. Nevertheless, Todd noted the value of Stone's ongoing assistance. "Supervisor Stone has always asked how he can be of help, and has provided resources to help us bring visitors and businesses up the Hill," said Todd. "He and his staff have never failed to answer questions, provide information and assist us, as he could, when asked."

Doug Yagaloff, business owner and Idyllwild Business Roundtable facilitator, said this of Stone's support: "As our business community has become more focused and unified, we have reached out to Supervisor Stone for support and leadership. Through financial and agency assistance, he has never said no when we needed the support of our county government."

And even as an economic recession began to affect Stone's ability to use his discretionary funds for constituent programs or projects, he continued to promote the economic viability of this community with contributions that totaled more than $400,000.

In addition, Stone led the fight for a new Idyllwild Library and managed to secure commitment of over $1.5 million in Community Development Funds for a remodel of the Cornet Building in Strawberry Creek Plaza. Construction begins this May.

district's positions regarding agreements on teacher layoffs for academic year 2011-12.

HTA representatives claimed the district had agreed to limit next year's teacher layoffs to 13 (rather than 86 certificated teaching, counseling, psychologist and nursing staff announced by HUSD on Feb. 1).

As a result, HTA felt the district had violated its agreement and lambasted board members for "lack of integrity." Trustee and attorney Joe Wojcik stated the board was unaware of any such agreement and, in fact, the agreement on 13 layoffs is nowhere reflected in the 2010 Tentative Agreement between HTA and HUSD that serves as the template for the upcoming year.

In a Tuesday, March 8 telephone interview, HTA President Jim Brigham acknowledged the layoff limit of 13 teachers had been a "gentlemen's agreement," and one that was never written. Brigham said the agreement moved forward last year with the blessing and participation of previous HUSD Superintendent Dr. Phillip Pendley and previous HTA President Jerry Hall. Brigham said that Platter had led the administration's negotiating team.

Brigham also acknowledged that a condition of the verbal agreement was that more teachers might face the ax should budget conditions worsen. However, Brigham and HTA don't agree that budget conditions have worsened, notwithstanding the looming failure of Governor Brown's tax extensions. "There's enough surplus, $23 million, in the district's budget, that we realized [on March 1] the 13 target layoffs were never put in the collective bargaining agreement and brought to the board," he noted. "Our job is to represent the community's interests. The union has a 2-year agreement for salaries that they don't want to change. We deal with what we've got."

Sanborn also posited that HTA does not want to reduce tenured salary levels because teachers want to retire at their highest pay grade, for reasons of retirement benefits. Brigham, when asked about that, replied, "We do not endorse layoffs of any kind, but if they have to happen, it's better to keep experienced teachers with multiple credentials."

Salter 9th in nationals

At the U.S. Skeleton National Championships this past weekend, Lauren Salter of Idyllwild finished ninth in the women's division. She competed against sliders with all different experience ranges, including Olympian (Katie Uhlaender), the World Cup team, and the developmental team experience.

"I'm a little disappointed in my performance, but I know that the experience gained from that race will help me into the next season," Salter said.

Her skeleton season is not over yet. She will also be one of four female sliders representing the U.S. in the upcoming FIBT (Federation Internationale de Bobsleigh et de Tobogganing) driving school and in the final America's Cup race of the season on April 2 and 3. This is an international race, and will feature athletes from several different countries.

Steele and many over par in Florida

BY JACK CLARK
PROFESSIONAL GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele returned to playing weekend golf at last week's Honda Classic in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. While his 291 — 74-71-76-70 was 11 over par, at this course, where only 13 golfers were under par and three more held par for the four days, he still earned a paycheck — a little over $12,000.

Steele found himself in good company with some familiar names, including David Duval (also +11), Ernie Els (+16), this year's hottest young rookie, Jhonattan Vegas of Venezuela (+16) and Trevor Immelman (+18).

With total winnings of $113,220 so far this year, Steele is positioned 120th on the all-important PGA Tour money list. He needs to finish the year in the top 125 in order to assure keeping his PGA Tour card for next year.

This week Steele plays in the $3.5-million Puerto Rico Open, played on the Trump International Golf Club course in Rio Grande, Puerto Rico. The winner's share is $630,000.

Idyllwild Triathletes begin 2011 well

Idyllwild's triathletes — Brad Rechtfertig and Bill Whitman — competed this weekend in the Desert Triathlon held at Lake Cahuilla in La Quinta.

The race's components were a 500 meter swim, 14 mile bike race and a three mile run. Rechtfertig finished fifth overall and was second in the men's 35 to 39-years-old group. Whitman was twentieth overall and sixth in his age group (men's 45 to 49 years-old).

"This is way earlier than I usually race but a few of my buddies from San Diego talked me into doing it," Rechtfertig said. "My first race is usually in June or so. It went pretty well though, especially for this early in the season ... It was a super close race, only 30 seconds of separation between first and fifth overall."

"It's early in the season for both of us, but we expect good things this year," Rechtfertig added.

Girls soccer season ends sadly

By J.P. CRUMRINE

On a sunny Tuesday afternoon, the Hemet High School girls soccer team lost to San Dimas High School 3-1. The afternoon's play was definitely not a delight and ended the team's extended season in the California Interscholastic Federation's Southern Section Soccer tournament.

Despite many scoring opportunities, including a long leading pass from defender Savanah Loutzenhiser to Rosie Robinson, the team was not able to finish the plays with a score. Hemet's Bree Cambra's goal came late in the game after San Dimas had forged a 3-0 lead.

On Friday, San Dimas played St. Margaret's High School, from Orange County, in the Division 6 championship. St. Margaret's, who had lost in the semifinals for three consecutive years, won 2-0.

Despite losing several seniors from the team, Hemet returns most of its starters including Loutzenhiser and Robinson Megan Read. Idyllwild sophomore Danika Hitchcock may move up to the varsity.

On Friday, March 4, the first place Suburban Propane Wildcats met the second place Rotary Buckeyes. The first half was back and forth and ended tied 5-5 at halftime. Allyah Bride played a good game for the Wildcats with good passing and dribbling. Reese Whitney also had a good game for the Buckeyes, scoring two points and playing tough defense. In the second half, the Buckeyes pulled away and won 13-9. Both teams are now 6-2 and tied for first place.

In the second game, the Rainbow Inn Ducks battled the Idyllwild Arts Wolverines. Zach Gray played a very good game for the Ducks with good passing and scored 2 points. Aiden McLean played well for the Wolverines with his hustle and teamwork, but it wasn't quite enough as the Ducks beat the Wolverines 15-6.

On Monday, Feb. 28, the Forest Lumber Warriors played the Town Hall Hornets for first place and produced an exciting game throughout the contest. The Hornets jumped to an early lead thanks to Chance Vladika's good shooting, which netted five points. The Warriors responded and captured the lead for good in the third quarter when Zach Fogle scored four of his eight points as the Warriors beat the Hornets 14-12 and took sole possession of first place.

The second game between the American Legion Timberwolves and the Fairway Market Lakers went into overtime. The Lakers built a comfortable lead behind Amara Wilson's tenacious defense and great hustle. But the Timberwolves came roaring back in the final quarter to send the game

Viewers voted Casey Abrams one of the top five male finalists in American Idol's season 10.

Julie Zorrilla, who spent her freshman year at Idyllwild Arts, is out. Viewers did not vote her in and judges did not choose her to sing for redemption and a chance to join the finalists.

A sixth male finalist, Stephano Langone, was saved by judges after a "sing for your life" showdown among six contestants not tapped by viewer voting. Judges also chose two additional women, Naima Adedapo and Ashton Jones, taking the number of season 10 finalists to 13 — six men and seven women.

Bloggers quickly affirmed viewer voting as, by and large, the right picks, but divided on the judges' saves. Abrams, tellingly, is prominent in an official American Idol photo of the 13 finalists. And, in the blogosphere, many are picking Abrams to win.

The men finalists are: Abrams; Scotty McCreery, James Durbin, Paul McDonald, Jacob Lusk and Langone. Idol reviewers note that none of the male finalists, with the possible exception of Langone, fit the mold of past male Idol winners; each is just different enough from the traditional Idol cookie-cutter pop singer mold that the contest among the men should shape up to be very interesting according to online commentators.

Reviewers have characterized the female field as being "generic" — not particularly distinguished or interesting. The remaining women are: Pia Toscano, Lauren Alaina, Karen Rodriguez, Thia Megla, Haley Reinhart, Adedapo and Jones.

Idol airs on Wednesday and Thursday, March 9 and 10 at 8 p.m. Contestants sing live and 1 of the 13 finalists will be voted off, with the eliminated contestant announced on March 10.

MDP conducts earthquake exercise

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

On Sunday, March 6, Mountain Disaster Preparedness (MDP) conducted a planned, but previously unannounced, post-earthquake field exercise. The scenario posited a 7.1 earthquake that left major damage in Pine Cove and Fern Valley. At 3:40 p.m. MDP Director David Alt issued a radio call to more than 80 local volunteer emergency responders.

Alt, also the Disaster Aid Station's (DAS) coordinator, asked members to report to the Pine Cove DAS (A) and DAS (C) in Fern Valley. Out of 90 called out, about 24 showed up, and the majority of them were the volunteers who regularly turn out for drills.

Alt fretted that in a real earthquake, in which most volunteers would have substantially more difficulty getting to DAS units, a disappointing proportional showing like this could cost lives. Peter Lent, deputy director of Riverside County's Office of Emergency Services (OES), notes that volunteers are plentiful after a disaster occurs, but often scarce during valuable and essential training missions such as MDP's Sunday simulation.

The well-planned exercise featured eight houses, four at each DAS unit, to which teams were dispatched after reporting to their respective DAS locations. Volunteers found sealed envelopes at each house describing four to six emergencies for which respondents had to radio medical staff, headed by Dr. Dick Goldberg at IFPD's treatment room, for directives and triage advice. They also had to radio Incident Command (IC) regarding dangerous physical conditions on the ground.

In one medical emergency scenario, one Fern Valley team radioed seeing a man walk out of a badly damaged house and collapse. They reported he subsequently had no visible pulse. Medical radioed back, "If no pulse, you must leave him and just go on." In triage, the rule is you leave those who most likely cannot be saved and move on to others who can.

In another test of guidelines that put safety of team members first, one Pine Cove team reported a fire in a residence and the sound of a small child crying inside. Team members asked if they could enter, as required by safety protocol. Volunteers also reported additional dangerous physical conditions including an arcing power line down in a driveway laying across melting snow, a strong smell of propane coming from a house's interior and a power line fallen on top of a building.

Preparation is an integral part of MDP's name and training regimen. Lent regularly advises Hill residents to be prepared to be isolated from outside help for a minimum of seven to 10 days, and possibly longer. Even local fire engines may not be able to get to fires in the community because of road blockages. And recently, IFPD Chief Norm Walker stated that the Fire Department building might collapse in a major quake and called for community groups to work together to be prepared.

Neighborhood disaster preparedness groups such as MDP, trained in search and report, and armed with radio communication and stocked DAS and medical units, will be functioning if a disaster occurs here. Alt reiterated that training missions are crucial to developing and maintaining emergency rescue skill sets, and hopes for larger volunteer turnout for future drills.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)

The week promises a calmer aspect. Although there might be some lingering effects of a recent job problem, things should continue to ease up. Also expect a change in a home-based situation.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) If you feel uneasy about a colleague's suggestion, it might be that your wise inner Taurean guide is alerting you to a potential problem. Stepping away could turn out to be the right thing to do.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A family get-together opens up new opportunities for renewing ties. It can be especially effective in dealing with disagreements that should have been, but never were, fully resolved.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might be surprised at the response you get to a recent decision. You might be even more surprised by the reasons behind it. In any event, you'll learn something important.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Your aspects favor resolving any tensions left over from a recent incident. You might want to consider having a "clear the air" talk as soon as you can. A call can lead to a change of plans.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Avoid repeating yourself. If your first few efforts fail to connect, maybe it's because you haven't found the right way to get your message across. Try changing your approach.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Good intentions plus a strong resolve to succeed can take you where you want to go. Don't give up just because someone suggests you might be pursuing an impossible cause.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) An unexpected setback can be a blessing in disguise. Use it to recheck your facts and how you've presented them. Meanwhile, look for ways to expand your contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You should finally be seeing a positive change in a recent personal situation. However, an on-the-job matter might need more attention than you realized. Stay with it.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) While you should be close to completing an important matter, you still need to focus on being focused. But things ease up in time for weekend fun with family and friends.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A certain matter might take an unexpected turn. Don't simply accept it; ask for an explanation. What you learn might be helpful in shifting the situation around to your benefit.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Projecting a positive attitude helps restore calm even when you're confronting some pretty stormy situations. Stay the course. The outcome will be well worth your efforts.

BORN THIS WEEK: While you enjoy tradition and stability, you also appreciate the good things that change can bring.

Tax Hall of Shame nominees for 2011

Editor's note: "Tax tips" appears bi-weekly throughout tax season. Stephen T. Peppler, E.A., C.F.P., has graciously agreed to provide the tax information to our readers.

Just as baseball fans decry athletes who bulk themselves up with steroids, taxpayers are upset with a tax code that, with or without steroids, is putting on the poundage year after year. At 100,000 pages plus, it would never pass random testing.

With so many deserving code sections it seems only fair to update my Tax Hall of Shame for those tax laws that distinguish themselves by their impenetrability, unfairness or that waste our time for little benefit.

Tax laws often have provisions that require indexing on an annual basis in order to take into account inflation and remain fair. Congress often forgets to do the indexing, sometimes for decades.

The luxury car limits are a perfect example. Passed as part of Jimmy Carter's 3-mar-

TAX TIPS

BY STEPHEN T. PEPPLER, EA, CFP

tini lunch tax bill, the law limits the amount of depreciation you can take on a business auto over its 5-year life. Today's definition of a luxury auto is one costing more than $16,000. You probably didn't realize you were driving a luxury car.

Social Security benefits start being taxed when you are "rich," which is determined by adding your income plus tax-exempt interest together with half of your Social Security benefits. If this total is greater than $25,000 for those filing single or $32,000 for those filing married joint, the excess is taxed at 50 cents on the dollar.

For the "ultra-rich" with a combined income greater than $34,000 single and $44,000 married joint, 85 percent of the benefits over the threshold are taxed.

A perennial favorite in the areas of inscrutability and unfairness is the Alternative Minimum Tax (AMT). For those who want a flat tax, we already have it and it's called AMT.

Originally designed to ensure that the ultra rich, who used exotic tax shelters that no longer are available, pay a minimum amount of tax.

It now ensnares a growing number of taxpayers. In five years, it's projected that most taxpayers will pay tax based on AMT rules versus the regular tax rules. The Alternative Minimum Tax is a parallel way of calculating income tax, which throws out many deductions we take on regular tax such as medical deductions, state and property taxes and miscellaneous deductions including employee business expenses.

Income sometimes needs to be recalculated. If the AMT result is higher than the regular tax calculation, you pay the AMT. That's why it should be called the Mandatory Maximum Tax. The unfairness of the AMT is compounded by Congress forgetting to index exemption amounts for 25 years or so. It now pulls in so much revenue Congress is afraid to eliminate it.

Acting as if the Social Security Administration is running a huge surplus, Congress has decided to lower employee Social Security contributions by a third, from 6.2 percent to 4.2 percent this year. These reductions will probably have little impact on our individual spending habits but added together total a huge amount that could have bolstered Social Security for the challenges ahead as baby boomers begin to retire.

Recognizing the value of higher education, Congress has passed several tax laws instituting various credits and deductions. Unfortunately, many parents who are able to pay for their children's college education without government aid are unable to take advantage of the credits and deductions because their income is too high. For the six benefits I surveyed, there existed six different income thresholds where their phase-outs begin.

Winston Churchill referred to Russia as a riddle wrapped in mystery inside an enigma. This might be an apt description of our tax code.

from the searchers thinking, "If I get to the parking lot before they find me then I won't be charged."

There have been instances in the past where the subject has deliberately tried to avoid the searchers. This makes our job substantially more difficult and goes against the entire search and rescue effort.

There will always be cases where the subject does something completely and obviously irresponsible, necessitating a rescue. Keep in mind that such cases are relatively rare.

Should local search-and-rescue teams draw the line on free rescues? At the very least, should they bill for those where obvious disregard for safety played a role? These questions have been debated more than once, and which, for now, are answered with a resounding "No."

I look forward to your opinion.

Either as we returned to or back in school she had us recall the type of china that we saw. For example, she might ask, "Was it 'Dresden'?" Or she might ask about the furnishings, "What time period and country did it represent?" "Where did the carpets originate?" or "When was the castle built and why here?"

As a result of this almost casual exchange, I became fascinated with stories of royalty, their wars and relationships and other struggles — something that became linking themes and convinced me that I was meant to be an historian.

My entire education was incredibly challenging. For example, we didn't have spelling tests. Instead she would "dictate" a story slowly and we would write as she read to us. German is very phonetic (spelled largely the way it is pronounced) and I found following with my writing very exciting and challenging.

Despite shorter time spans, many opportunities were provided for us. We didn't have physical education every day, but we loved it because it was entirely on achieving our personal best. I can still remember my little sister and I walking to the local gym to practice on the ropes and do acrobatics.

We did this for fun, inspired by our limited exposure in school.

We learned to sing, went to local "children's theater" productions and acted in plays. Math was relatively easy because her instructions were so clear. Most science was taught on our walks, for example asking and discussing the trees, fauna or weather patterns we observed.

At the age of 12, when we came to the United States, with the exception of the English language, I was almost three years ahead of students in my classes in academics.

Not until college and graduate school did I once again come across the kind of teaching and "magical challenge" I had experienced early on.

CREATURE CORNER

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

We start with the magic of the old oak tree at ARF, mix in tears with love and hope, and you get "Forever." A forever home for Lemony Snickets, the terrier, who within minutes barked a sad goodbye to his equally sad human, and then began a new life with a new family. Paws up to you Lemony. What a brave girl.

Aimie needs a purse! Yes, just enough room for her perfect little head to pop out, maybe show her newest sweater and give a few kisses. She's the dearest young chocolate Chihuahua with soooo much love to give.

Annie needs a little wiggle room. A young Chihuahua/min-pin-mix, Annie is becoming an A-student in obedience. Her energy level is high and her love is sincere. Grab a leash and let's go!

Bobby is quite sure he has his dance steps down to prance right into your heart. Partially blind, with minor impairments due to abuse, this young apple head Chihuahua yearns to be part of a pack he can call his own. Good with other dogs, cats and humans, Bobby will surely warm your heart.

Rosi is on the dance floor too, now that her leg is healed. Ready for her forever home, Rosi is great with other cats, dogs and humans. Paw up Rosi and give us those big brown eyes! Bring a leash and go for a stroll. Easy going, full of love, always ready to dance, this is a special girl.

Enough of the canines, says Tuna. If you want to see something, come to see me! With a slow-motion stretch of the front legs and then a high arch of the back, she has made her entrance. She stands there, as if to say, "Now, you can pet me." And yes, she is a beauty.

ARF has several cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. We always welcome visitors, volunteers and sponsors. Go to www.idyllwildarf.org and click on Petfinder. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots.

Emmerson and Brown at budget impasse

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

In a March 7 letter, a quintet of Republicans, including State Senator Bill Emmerson (R-37), informed Governor Jerry Brown they are not likely to support his goal of placing approval of a 5-year tax extension before voters on a June ballot. The five had been negotiating with Brown on a package of reform proposals in response to Brown's requests to find common ground in addressing the current budget crisis.

The package included proposals for "job creation, responsible state spending, elimination of abusive pension practices, and implementation of meaningful governmental reforms." Brown had met with the senators in closed-door sessions in hopes of harvesting at minimum two senatorial votes in support of placing the tax extension before voters.

Brown had set a Thursday deadline for scheduling a June 7 election. If Brown cannot garner two votes in each house of the Legislature, the ballot measure will not move forward. Brown has said he will then be forced to pass a "cuts only" budget in order to close a $26.6 billion budget deficit.

The letter to Brown is politely and carefully worded, noting Brown's "serious" efforts to reach accommodation. Emmerson, joined by Tom Berryhill (R-14), Sam Blakeslee (R-15), Anthony Cannella (R-12) and Tom Harman (R-35), noted that it seemed Brown was "unable to compel other [Democratic] stakeholders to accept real reform."

In response to a request for comment, Emmerson's office stated the letter spoke for itself. The senators appeared to leave the door open for further negotiation with their closing. "We are committed to engaging with you and hope to continue an open dialogue in our effort to balance California's budget and get Californians back to work," they stated.
