Community playground begins

Volunteers still needed to assist construction

By MARSHALL SMITH
 STAFF REPORTER

Construction of the long planned $100,000 Idyllwild Community Playground begins today, Wednesday, June 13. Lead organizer and fundraiser Dawn Sonnier said that volunteers of all sizes, stripes and skill sets are still needed. Collection of tools began this weekend on the Idyllwild Community Center site. Villagers who loan tools will be given receipts and tools will be tagged with the names of those loaning them. Broken tools will be repaired on site or replaced according to Sonnier.

Beginning Wednesday and continuing through Father's Day, June 17, crews of volunteers will work in shifts — from 8 a.m. to noon; from 12:30 to 5 p.m.; and from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Particularly needed are volunteers to help with construction — not just the heavy lifting, drilling and fastening but also less strenuous assistance such as raking, sanding, painting and shoveling. "There's a job for everyone," said Sonnier, hoping with this event to recapture the communal good feeling and participation that was part of the building of Town Hall in the 1940s. "Just show up, we'll put you to work," said Sonnier, noting that weekend signups are specifically sparse. She stressed that volunteers do not have to work a full shift. "Stay as

Election yields few surprises

By J.P. CRUMRINE
 EDITOR

For Riverside County and Hill voters, the results of the June 5 primary election were essentially approval of past performance. Neither upsets nor other surprises occurred after most of the ballots had been counted.

On Friday, June 8, the county's Registrar of Voters estimated about 18,500 more ballots remain to be counted. This includes damaged and provisional ballots. The next results are to be posted Wednesday evening, June 13. As of Monday evening, June 11, the California Secretary of State's office estimated that about 777,000 ballots are still uncounted statewide.

Incumbents were re-elected throughout the county and in Hill districts. County Supervisor Jeff Stone easily won re-election to his third term. He collected 66.2 percent of the votes compared to 33.8 percent for his challenger Joe Scarafone.

The Hill is now part of Assembly District 71. As a result of 2011 redistricting, the triangular shaped district's northern edge is Poppet Flats and the base is the border with Mexico. About 90 percent of the registered voters reside in San Diego County.

County budget balanced

Revenue still falling

By J.P. CRUMRINE
 EDITOR

County supervisors held hearings for the 2012-13 budget on Monday. County Executive Jay Orr has proposed a balanced budget without relying on any reserves.

However, the County's financial condition continues to deteriorate. Orr avoided $40 million of reductions because of carryover from this year into the next fiscal year.

Nevertheless, county departments were trimmed $39 million from 2011-12 levels. Public-safety departments (net county costs) will be cut 5 percent and other departments will be cut an average of 9 percent.

"At the beginning of the budget process, my office anticipated a structural deficit of $80 million," Orr wrote in his memorandum to the board. "The result is a balanced budget, built on conservative principles and personnel reductions that are expected to exceed 200 employees. Those plans ... will be implemented by July 1, 2012. Service impacts are unavoidable but manageable."

The executive is proposing to restructure the

RMRU rescues lost Marines

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Riverside County Sheriff's Department reported the rescue of two hikers, lost in the area of Marion Mountain Trail near Idyllwild. The hikers, Marines who had become separated from two friends after a hike to the summit of Mt. San Jacinto, used a cell phone to call for help around 7:20 p.m. Sunday, June 10.

RCSO dispatched Riverside Mountain Rescue Unit, including three Idyllwild team members, Lee Arnson, Chad Marler and Les Walker. According to Walker, the Marines had gotten off-trail and down into a drainage off Marion Mountain Trail. They reportedly started two signal fires to help rescuers locate them. Separate two-man RMRU teams converged on the location around midnight with Arnson and Marler reaching them first. "They had gotten quite a bit off the trail," said Walker.

Arnson said that it still took an hour to hike down to the Marines after voice contact had been established. "They were quite a ways down," he said. "Luckily we were able to just hike them down to Dark Canyon Road, taking a lot less time than if we had had to hike them back uphill."

The teams hiked the two to safety, completing the rescue around 2 a.m. Monday, June 11. Although one Marine said he had slightly injured an ankle, both refused medical treatment.

"Stay together and stay on the trail," was Arnson's advice to hiking groups. Arnson also advised having proper hiking shoes and clothes.

Apparent suicide in Mountain Center

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Early Friday morning, Riverside County Sheriff's deputies responded to reports of a critically injured man in a late model white pickup truck. Upon arriving at a westbound pullout on Highway 74 west of McCall Park Road in Mountain Center, deputies discovered 21-year-old Jamie Godfrey of Moreno Valley wounded in the vehicle. Deputies were called out around 1:30 a.m. on Tuesday, June 12, and remained on scene until after 5 a.m., according to Sgt. Wallace Clear, Hemet Station special investigations supervisor.

Medical personnel transported Godfrey to the Riverside County Medical Center in Moreno Valley where he was pronounced dead of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Benson pleads guilty

BY J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

On June 6, Joshua Benson, 21, of Idyllwild pled guilty to assault of a person by means of force likely to produce great bodily injury (Penal Code 245 (A)(4)). He now faces three years in the state prison system.

Benson had been arrested on May 25, two days after the incident, which occurred in front of Mountain Top Liquor on Highway 243. Not only did he plead guilty to the attack, but he also admitted to the enhanced charges.

Benson waived his interest in a probation hearing and requested an immediate sentence. Judge Elaine Johnson denied probation. Then she sentenced him to three years in state prison for the attack. The court stayed an additional three years for the enhancements.

OUTSIDE IDYLLWILD

By BRUCE WATTS

Flora and fauna ...

I never get tired of going to Lake Fulmor. On a still mountain morning with the water mirroring the beauty of the surrounding landscape, you cannot help to be in awe of the scenery.

Barbara Newhall Follett, my favorite outdoor writer, coined this beautiful metaphor that lakes are "like ancient oysters nurturing fabulous pearls."

If you have the eyes to see the smaller things in nature as well as the big picture, you become awakened to its true beauty. While everyone else at the lake was fishing, my friend, Sue Briggs, and I were standing by a field of scarlet penstemon, their red bugle-shaped flowers trumpeting their presence to a flock of sparkling emerald hummingbirds. I took numerous photos and a short video of the fluttering hummers.

On the far side of the lake monkeyflowers with delicate, sunny yellow petals and red spotted throats lined the sandy areas by the foot bridge. Just off the trail that circles the lake, the rare and unusual spotted coralroot orchid flowers were just beginning to bloom. The red flower stalks shoot up out of the ground and are the only visible evidence of the existence of this leafless, parasitic orchid that lacks chlorophyll.

A spotted coralroot orchid flower has burst through the surface and is beginning to bloom. PHOTO BY BRUCE WATTS

Sue inquired if there were any turtles in the lake. I had never seen one before. Less than a minute later, we saw a large turtle paddling lazily across the lake and coming right toward us. He took no heed of us and just swam into the water plants and began to graze.

When we reached the other end of the lake, Sue saw

LOLA'S KITCHEN

By DOLORES SIZER

The wonders of cake mixes ...

It is relatively easy for me to admit I occasionally use cake mixes instead of making cupcakes or cakes from scratch. In my collection of cookbooks, several are for cakes or cupcakes. One book is called, "The Cake Doctor" by Anne Byrn.

The great thing about cake mixes, anyone can doctor them up and it is hard to tell the finished product came from a mix, not to mention the time saved. Also, adapting the recipe to high altitude is right on the box no guessing.

Everyone has looked at the little Betty Crocker cookbooks sitting at the checkout counter. My library consists of two little Betty Crocker cookbooks strictly for cupcakes.

I prefer cupcakes because they are easier to transport and guests can dine on them without a plate if necessary.

The fun part is there are so many variations to be made from cake mixes. I have made everything from Strawberry-Amaretto Cake with Amaretto Cream, to Mexican Chocolate Cupcakes with Dulce de Leche Frosting.

The following recipe is from my recently purchased little Betty Crocker cookbook, "Best Cupcakes & More." Of course purchased by the checkout counter.

These will be made for the Town Crier Office BBQ.

Margarita cupcakes

For Cupcakes

- 1 box Betty Crocker SuperMoist lemon cake mix
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 1/2 cup gold tequila (yea)
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 3 eggs
- 1 box (4-serving size) lime-flavored gelatin

For Frosting

- 2 containers (12 oz. each) Betty Crocker Whipped fluffy frosting
- 1 teaspoon electric green gel food coloring

For Decorations

- 1/4 cup coarse white sugar or white decorator sugar crystals
- 24 thin lime slices (about 3 limes)
- 24 cocktail umbrellas

Cupcakes

1. Heat oven to 350 F (325 F for dark or nonstick pans). Place paper baking cup in each regular-size muffin cup.

2. In a large bowl, beat all cupcake ingredients for 30 seconds with electric mixer on low speed. Beat on medium speed for two minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Divide batter among muffin cups.

3. Bake 18 to 22 minutes or until toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes, then remove cupcakes from pans and place on cooling rack. Cool completely.

Frosting

4. In a medium bowl, mix the frosting and food color until they are blended. Frost cupcakes.

Decorations

5. Sprinkle sugar on a small plate, roll edges of the cupcakes in sugar.

6. Cut a small slit in the lime slices, twist and place on cupcakes. Poke one umbrella into each cupcake. Store loosely covered in refrigerator.

Be careful how many you eat, each cupcake contains 289 calories.

I prefer making my frosting from scratch; however, if I used the canned frosting I would use three containers and an additional 1/2 teaspoon of food coloring, only for a little more fancy look from a pastry bag.

Also check the cake mix box to make sure there are no adjustments necessary for high altitude.

Think I will put a little bit of tequila in the frosting and keep the bottle next to me as I frost the cupcakes. And finally, my little cocktail umbrellas are going to be used.

Cawthon named HUSD's temporary superintendent

By J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

Dr. Sally Cawthon is the acting superintendent of the Hemet Unified School District. Cawthon is replacing Dr. Steven Lowder, who left to become the Stockton Unified School District Superintendent.

Cawthon has been with HUSD since 2002. From the Banning district, she joined Hemet as the Bautista Creek principal. She served as an Area Manager, where she became familiar with Idyllwild School and Hemet High School. She then became the assistant superintendent for educational services.

But the promotion to superintendent, even if it proves it may be temporary, was unexpected, Cawthon said. "The board called me into a meeting and asked if I were interested and willing," she said.

But Cawthon does not look at the opportunity as merely holding the space for a permanent superintendent. When asked if she would apply, she replied, "I think I will because we're working on some exciting curriculum changes."

The curriculum proposals come from the programs and staff she currently manages, and Cawthon believes these changes will have a dramatic effect on the quality of the district. She would like to see them adopted and implemented.

She hopes her interim role will help stabilize the district. Staff, principals and teachers all have a sense that the district is a family that supports and cares for each other, according to her.

Within this community, she will not be a placeholder. "I'll use that to build and do more things. On-going improvement is always part of the cycle," she said. "I'll look at each problem and then try one solution until we have the best for everyone."

Cawthon is a very pleasant and friendly administrator, but she is prepared to compete. She and her husband, Frank, participated in last week's Idyllwild 5K & 10K Run and Fitness Walk again this year.

Lemon Lily Festival just a month away

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The 2012 Lemon Lily Festival committee is busy tying together loose ends in preparation for this year's festival, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, July 21 and 22.

New this year, organized by volunteer Pat Hughes, are 14 area artists painting original lemon lily-themed banners to be hung throughout Idyllwild leading up to and during the festival. Banners will be auctioned on the last day of the festival. Also different this year is that Pioneer Town will be held at the Idyllwild Nature Center rather than at Town Hall as it was last year.

Ted Cummings, Jazz in the Pines transportation and logistics guru, has stepped up to manage transportation both from the village to the Nature Center and from its entrance to the festival site. Augmenting Cummings' efforts are California Highway Patrol Explorer Cadets, who will assist with traffic monitoring at the Nature Center entrance. The map for the festival program will include icons showing shuttle pickup stops in town as well as pickup and drop-off spots for the six-passenger gas-powered carts that will shuttle visitors within the Nature Center property.

"A Little Bluegrass," to be held in town between the Fort and Jo'An's, will run on both Saturday and Sunday. Saturday music begins at 4:30. Lead artist Silverado will play two 45-minute sets augmented by local artists. A less formal bluegrass jam session starts on Sunday at 11 a.m. and continues to 4 p.m.

The inclusion of "A Little Bluegrass Music" featuring Silverado is intended by organizers to bring the festival to Idyllwild proper, since this year most festival activities are primarily at

INITIAL THOUGHTS

Kindness, its name is frequently Idyllwild ...

Idyllwild has always been a special place. From before the first roads were constructed, I'm sure whoever climbed to the Hill felt something different from the flatlands, something unique.

Even the stories about the construction of Town Hall tell about a town that was communal and cared about friends and neighbors. Town Hall wasn't a commercial development; rather it was for the residents. And still is.

And that spirit of helping, of caring about the people with whom we share this rock continues to this day.

Start with the page one photo. The election of the Idyllwild Mayor and the town's cabinet has been a major event for several weeks. Dozens of people and pets are paying attention. The response and turnout for this idea has been beyond expectation. And the Town Crier will be at the first Idyllwild Mayor's inauguration July 1.

But the comity doesn't stop with humorous pet projects. Read the playground story just below that photograph. The construction of the new playground will involve hundreds of volunteers.

Dawn Sonnier, her mother, and crew have worked years for this week. And what more appropriate completion date, than Father's Day. Kudos to Dawn and her team and all the volunteers.

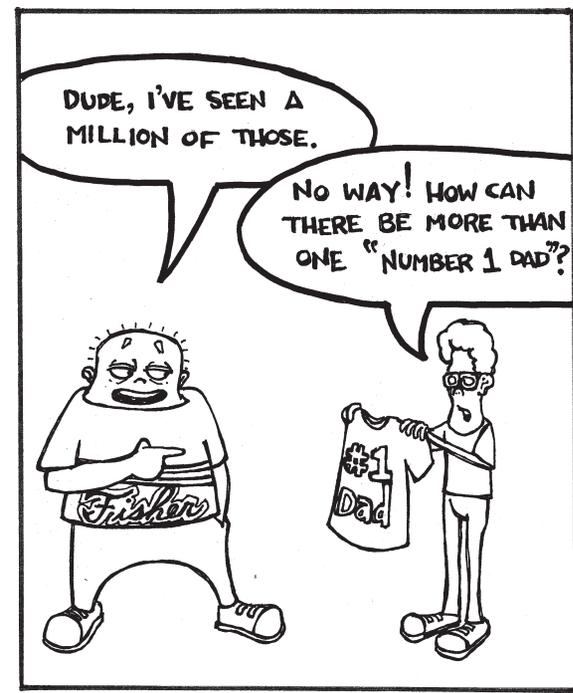

But these efforts of community support and protection don't stop with visible and large projects. Smaller and critical projects occur all the time, often without others being aware. The Pine Cove Property Owners Association's generous donations and the Mountain Disaster Preparedness' concern for protecting and helping all who live here if a disaster occurred are simply the two latest examples of how our neighbors are caring for all of us.

Thanks to every person involved in these actions and to all who live here. I'm grateful for your choices.

Supervisor Stone sends MDP $3,700

By J.P. CRUMRINE
 EDITOR

Supervisor Jeff Stone allocated nearly $3,700 to the Mountain Disaster Preparedness group. The funding will be used to acquire portable satellite communication equipment.

MDP plans and prepares for possible disasters on the Hill. As they acquire supplies and prepare trained medical support, communication capability has become another priority. The group had stressed to Supervisor Stone and others the vulnerability of the communication links between Hill residents and emergency responders and off-Hill support.

This satellite equipment will be needed if a disaster such as an earthquake were to disrupt local communication systems and isolate this community.

"We have already begun to lay the groundwork for Internet communication by creating a special emergency website: www.idyllwildemergency.com and have trained a team to post relevant information about our conditions and well-being," wrote MDP President Veronica Alt.

This satellite equipment would allow the only reliable Internet capability for use on the Hill if Verizon lines are broken or cell towers damaged. Consequently, other organizations are expressing interest and support for this project, according to Alt.

"Although MDP would act as the coordinating agency, we will avail usage to other local organizations in need and share information on outside conditions with all," she wrote to Stone.

Pine Cove Property Owners give donations to local groups

The Pine Cove Property Owners Association decided on several contributions to local organizations at their June meeting.

Mountain Disaster Preparedness received $1,000 for a heater for the Warming Center at the American Legion.

Four organizations were granted $250. The Animal Rescue Friends (ARF) of Idyllwild, the Idyllwild Area Historical Society, the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series and local emergency radio station, WNKI.

A $1,000 has been earmarked for the Idyllwild HELP Center. These funds will be available for assistance of Pine Cove residents.

The PCPOA is planning to meet and to hear from the idyllwild Scholarship Fund before making a commitment this year.

RENATE'S THOUGHTS

BY RENATE CAINE, PH.D.

DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH AND PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT, NATURAL LEARNING RESEARCH INSTITUTE, IDYLLWILD

Natural Learning, technology and the possible classroom ...

Have you ever visited an Apple computer store when it is busy (which it usually is)?

If you do, you will experience one model for the classroom of the future. I don't mean to suggest we replicate them exactly. The store's environment and staff represent a pretty good blueprint for learning in a technology-rich environment.

The store is divided into multiple sections. One set of tables has products that visitors can easily get to and that allow them to experiment and try things out. As a customer, no one bothers you. Then you soon find yourself full of questions.

For example, you find out that on an iPad instead of turning to another page you "swipe." And you discover that swiping will get you somewhere else, depending on whether you use one finger, two, three, four, or all five in unison.

You can learn all about organizing your photos according to date taken or subject. You'll discover a facial recognition feature, which searches all your photos that include a particular person or scene. If you are looking to purchase a product, plenty of experts are around willing to assist.

Another table is reserved for individuals who signed up for basic instructions on a particular product (you go online to sign up). While a teacher takes everyone through some basic features, many side conversations between students go on as those who already understand how something works share their (usually newly discovered) know-how with the person to their right or left. Questions are dealt with as they occur and everyone is busy applying what they discover. The entire session is active and totally dynamic. Everyone learns fast and furiously.

The third table is reserved for those who requested a private session with a software expert. At the back of the store is the Genius Bar made up of a long table. Behind it stand (inevitably young) tech experts answering more technical and detailed questions. Visting the Genius Bar requires an appointment, which usually last only 15 minutes.

An Open Training area is available for more general questions. Here is a low table where children sit on inflated rubber balls working on computers with colorful games or instructional modules.

What is so remarkable is that everyone is asking questions of each other and is exchanging expertise. The entire space is buzzing yet highly orderly and organized. As you walk in, someone takes your name and directs you to the right area or table.

So why do I say that this is an example of the classroom of the future? Integrating technology effectively into student learning means that no one is person-controlling everything that happens. It is far more likely that students will be free to pursue some question that fascinates them.

The curriculum may call for studying science or history

Out-of-the-box hiking gear ...

Over the years, we hikers all accumulate a closet of gear that we know we can depend on. The obvious items are pretty much standard, but what about those cool bits of gear added to our arsenals from outside the normally sanctioned realm of "backpacking gear"?

Here's a list of my own most tried and true unusual and out-of-the-box gear goodies.

Bike Cargo Bungee — Tired of opening and closing your pack over and over again to get to your most used gear? This lovely rectangular bungee net with four hooks will strap to almost any pack and give you a super convenient "pocket" to attach your most used goodies. I use it for everything from my windbreaker to snowshoes. Plus, you can hook it to just about any pack — from your lightweight Osprey daypack to your massive 80 L Gregory Backpack. You can find something similar for around $10 at a bike shop or online.

Bike Arm Warmers — How do you heat up or cool down quickly while on trail? Stopping to change layers every five minutes can be really annoying. I picked this tip up from a wilderness ranger.

Use bike arm warmers. Starting out on a cool morning I wear a short sleeve hiking shirt and slide the warmers up my arms. After I heat up I shove them down into a bunch down near my wrists. Come around a corner into a cold wind? Up they go again in two seconds flat.

Mimicking the function of a lightweight jacket without the trouble and the bulk, they eliminate the need for most extended clothing breaks.

You should still bring a jacket! The lightly fleece-lined ones are surprisingly warm and a real blessing on any hike where the temperature can vary quickly. (I swear by Pearl Izumi's.)

Duct tape — Want to head off that hot spot before it becomes a nasty blister? Duct tape beats moleskin hands down.

If the spot gets a little more serious, you need to make a solid splint or to reinforce a sling or bandaging job. Duct tape will help.

Be careful not to cut off circulation.

Zombie attack or general apocalypse? Duct tape to the rescue! You can conveniently store your duct tape by wrapping it around your hiking poles or a Nalgene water bottle.

In-line filter — Are you like me, too impatient with pump filters?

That's why I love my inline filter — the Aqua Mira Frontier Pro runs around $20 and filters 50 gallons of water. If you know for sure that water will be available on the trail for you to fill up on it's a great tool.

Fill your water bladder from a convenient spring or

ICRC pauses while playground gets built

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

"After the playground," said Dawn Sonnier, Idyllwild Community Recreation Council chairwoman, referring to other pending board business and the upcoming June 13 through 17 construction of the community playground on the Idyllwild Community Center site.

Other business that will wait until completion of the $100,000 plus project includes recruitment of new board members, a decision about how to recover costs for water and electricity that ice rink entrepreneur Gary Steven incurred this winter, decisions regarding the Idyllwild Skate Park's future, and plans for another season of the popular ICRC Speaker Series.

With Scott Redeker's effective resignation, there are only four seated board members out of the authorized seven. Redeker's resignation also leaves the Speaker Series at least temporarily in limbo. Redeker had managed the series over the last year, securing speakers, co-sponsors and organizing the traditional wine and cheese reception that precedes each speaker. Former director Dick Goldberg had built the monthly event into an ICRC staple, attracting avid audiences for what he had envisioned as a Chautauqua Assembly West series of community enrichment presentations and discussions.

The Idyllwild Skate Park, built by ICRC with financial assistance from previous County Supervisor Jim Venable, also faces an uncertain future. Since termination of ICRC's CSA 36 county recreation contract, the park has had difficulty retaining staff.

Currently volunteers staff the park. Days and schedules for being open are sporadic, dependent upon volunteers' schedules. Recent grant applications prepared by board members have not yet proven successful. The board discussed allowing the park to remain open unstaffed, similar to other skate parks that board members have researched.

But that is only a discussion item and no action will be taken on the skate park's future until after the playground is built. The annual ISP games, which normally are held in July, are being rescheduled for August, also because of the playground build.

The normal July meeting is cancelled. The board resumes its monthly meetings in August.

Marshall Smith can be reached at marshall@towncrier.com.

Playground

long as you can, do as much as you can," she said.

The plan is to complete the playground by late Sunday afternoon or early evening. Then there's a dinner for all volunteers followed by a brief ceremony, ribbon cutting and formal opening of the playground to the community.

"Our goal is to be done [with playground installation] by 6 p.m. on Sunday," said Sonnier.

Playground contractors

Leathers and Associates of Ithaca, N.Y., are responsible for the supervision and ultimate certification of the playground installation.

Installation caps a dramatic multi-year fundraising effort by Sonnier and Idyllwild Community Recreation Council volunteers and supporters. Now all that is needed is community assistance.

"I'm starting to feel my joy about all this," said Sonnier.

Assemblyman Jones discusses election

By J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

Editor's note: Current District 77 Assemblyman Brian Jones (R, Santee) was in Idyllwild Friday, June 8. Jones led the voting in Tuesday's primary for future District 71, which includes Idyllwild.

This was Jones' first visit to Idyllwild and he plans to return again late this summer. Jones, his wife Heather, and three children reside in Santee. He is a former Santee City Councilman and was elected to the California Assembly in 2010.

In Tuesday's primary election, Jones garnered 46 percent of the total vote. Democrat Patrick Hurley, also from San Diego County, was second. He collected 30.6 percent of the districtwide vote. John McLaughlin, Republican, finished third, but was the leading vote getter in Riverside County.

When asked if he was surprised with the Tuesday result from Riverside County, Jones replied, "That's why I'm here. Obviously I need to introduce myself in Riverside."

Overall, Jones felt the statewide results were positive for his fellow Republicans. He expects his party to add to its current 28 assembly members after the November election. He was instrumental in recruiting many of the new Republican candidates this year.

"Republicans are likely to pick up a minimum of two [assembly] seats and three or four are possible," Jones said.

As of Monday afternoon, Proposition 29, the increase in cigarette taxes, is failing, but the 33,000 "No" vote lead will change and nearly 910,000 ballots remain to be counted, according to the California Secretary of State's office.

Nevertheless, Jones sees this result along with the passage of municipal pension reform measures in San Diego and San Jose as a strong message from the state's voters.

"Voters are paying attention," he emphasized. "They're telling the governor and legislature to scale back government."

Although the latest statewide poll indicates the governor's November tax initiative is still favored by the majority of voters, its lead is dwindling. Jones believes Proposition 29 results mean the success of the governor's tax initiative does not look good.

"Only 12 percent of state [voters] are cigarette smokers. If the rest can't get voters to pass a tax on them, how will they support overall tax initiative?" he asked.

Jones concludes that the voters' message to Sacramento is to balance a budget before getting more money.

Nevertheless, he expects the Democratic legislature to enact a budget by the June 15 deadline. He's unsure whether it will truly be balanced and, if not, whether the governor would ultimately sign it.

But he supported Proposition 25, which reduced the number of votes for passing a state budget from two-thirds to a simple majority. As a result, the majority party, currently the Democratic Party, is responsible for justifying and defending the budget. Jones believes that also makes them accountable to the public.

Republican Assemblyman Brian Jones, who currently represents most of the area, was the top vote getter. He will face Democrat Patrick Hurley in the November election. However, John McLaughlin, the second Republican on the ballot, out polled both Jones and Hurley in the Riverside County precincts.

Congresswoman Mary Bono Mack garnered 58 percent of the votes cast compared to 41.8 percent for Democrat Dr. Raul Ruiz. Now they will officially face off in the November election.

Despite much attention to the higher Democratic registration in the newly drawn district, Ruiz's percentage of the vote was the same as previous Bono Mack challengers. Democrat Steve Pougnet garnered 42.1 percent of the vote in 2010 and two years earlier, Democratic challenger Julie Bornstein received 41.7 percent of the vote.

"I'm honored by the support," Bono Mack said after the election. "But the real issues remain the economy and jobs. The question is no longer 'Are we better off than in the past year?' but 'Will our children be better off in the future?' I'm very concerned about that answer."

At this point, it appears Ruiz is going to have to find a new strategy to capitalize on his party's voter registration gains in the district.

During the build up to primary day, a lot of attention was devoted to the challenges to four incumbent Superior Court judges. But all earned reappointment to the bench from county voters. The closest of the four races pitted Judge Craig Riemer against former assistant district attorney John Henry. Riemer was narrowly re-elected with 51 percent of the votes, with only 3,700 votes more than Henry's out of a total of 185,000 ballots cast. The other three sitting judges all were re-elected with at least 58 percent of the vote.

Proposition 28, which will modify the state's term limit's laws, easily received voter approval. Out of 4.4 million ballots cast the "Yes" votes were at 61.2 percent, nearly one million more than the "No" votes.

Proposition 29, which would raise the cigarette tax, ran into opposition throughout the state, particularly Riverside County. At this point, it is failing by about 33,000 votes out of more than 4.5 million counted. Nearly 60.6 percent of Riverside County voters opposed it.

One other Riverside County race, for the supervisor's seat of the First District, remains to be decided in November. Incumbent Bob Buster did lead two challengers with 38 percent of the vote. Lacking the necessary 50 percent for victory, he will likely face Assemblyman Kevin Jeffries on the fall ballot. Jeffries has a 500 vote lead over Mike Soubirous, a former California Highway Patrol officer.

county's Community Health Agency and the Transportation Land Management Agency. Orr told the board that more organizational changes may be needed.

Revenue stability fails to appear and remains on the future horizon. The assessor will have another projection of property tax revenue for 2012-13 next month and Orr warned the board that the possibility exists of assessed valuation declining another two percent or more. If this were to occur, discretionary revenue would be at least $10 million less than the estimated $12.3 million decline already in the budget estimates, he wrote to the board.

Besides local property valuation, the county still may suffer revenue declines from unanticipated state actions. Orr described it as "effects from the state budget debacle."

The largest share of the county's discretionary resources (74 percent) is allocated to public protection ($451 million). The Sheriff's Department will receive almost $220 million.

The $219.6 million for RCSD is $20.7 million less than Sheriff Stan Sniff requested for 2012-13. While some additional revenue has developed, Sniff told the board that without changes he would be $6.2 million over budget next year.

Sniff also asked the board to increase funding for patrol staff in order to return the unincorporated staffing ratio to one deputy per thousand residents. Currently, the ratio is about .85 deputies per thousand. If the board agrees, Sniff estimates he needs 18 months to hire and train 50 more deputies before they can be on the street.

In addition he is urging the board to address the shortage of jail beds in Riverside County.

Other public safety agencies' funding for 2012-13 includes about $47 million for the District Attorney's Office. The Fire Department, which also receives structural fire-tax revenue, will receive about $40 million in general-fund support. As required by state law, the county plans to allocate almost $47 million to the Public Defender's Office, the Alternate Public Defender, confidential court orders, and indigent defense.

The proposed budget does include $7 million for a contingency, which is about a third of the Board's policy.

No ongoing general funds are appropriated in the recommended budget for new capital projects, but previously approved projects will continue.

The board will adopt a final 2012-13 budget in September.

Supervisors consider layoffs and salary raises

Proposal to raise pay for elected officials

By J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

Riverside County's new Executive Officer, Jay Orr, pulled his proposal to raise the compensation of the county's elected officials, e.g., Sheriff and District Attorney, from Tuesday's Board of Supervisor's agenda. He plans to re-submit it in the future.

But the proposal to increase pay between seven and 15 percent for subordinate managers in these departments remained on the agenda and incurred considerable comment for Board members. Ultimately the board requested Orr reconsider this proposal and bring a new one to the board within three weeks.

Orr explained that no bargaining association represents these county employees. While they have incurred pension changes negotiated with associations such as the Riverside Sheriffs' and SEIU, their salaries have not changed, while the vast majority of county employees will receive salary increases over the next four years.

"This group has been saving jobs, working hard on reform and transformation of the county government and doing a yeoman job," Orr said complimenting this employee cohort.

Nevertheless, Orr recommended against the raises for this year, despite the compaction of pay levels, and asked the board to wait another year.

But Sniff and Zellerbach disagreed. The compaction issue, particularly, was beginning to create morale and recruitment problems, they said.

"It only impacts 36 employees, from captain to chief deputy, but compaction issues are especially egregious inside law enforcement." Sniff argued to the Board. "It's an absurdity that executives drawn from the ranks end up with more responsibility and making less than the people they oversee."

Zellerbach told the board that 40 attorneys within his office total of 700 employees are affected by this proposal. He pointed out how the new labor agreements would cost over the next four years, several hundred million dollars, and rewarding senior management constituted a fraction of this total.

Board members were sympathetic to the problems

Sniff and Zellerbach face, but firmly pointed out that the County's overall budget problems still existed.

"I understand the predicament the district attorney and sheriff are facing, but one thing for sure, we still have revenue uncertainty," Stone stressed. He then moved to delay the issue until the July 3 meeting. Board Chair John Tavgliione, 2nd District, agreed with Stone that the county still continues to face too many economic uncertainties.

Fifth District Supervisor Marion Ashley expressed sympathy for the employees. "These managers need to be rewarded," he said. "But I'm not sure this is the exact way to do it."

Stone's motion was unanimously approved.

Monitoring of old leak continues

Further remediation to be assessed

By J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

County Department of Environmental Health is not prepared to reduce groundwater monitoring at the Village Food and Fuel site (Shell Station) for every monitoring well near the site. While DEH agreed to less frequent monitoring for wells off the site, it required the two wells on the site to be monitored quarterly.

After submitting the fourth quarter groundwater monitoring report of the underground plume of hydrocarbons along Highway 243 southwest of the Shell and Chevron gasoline stations, engineers for the property owner recommended reducing the groundwater monitoring frequency to semi-annually from quarterly. New frequency requirements would apply to all wells, except monitoring wells 2 and 3, which are only monitored annually now.

"The recommended monitoring frequencies are not acceptable at this time due to recent detections and increased concentration in wells MW-1 and MW-2. MW-1 must continue to be monitored quarterly until the levels stabilize and monitoring of MW-2 must be increased from annually to semi-annually," wrote Sharon Boltinghouse, associate public health professional geologist, in reply to the request.

Concentrations of total hydrocarbons, particularly toluenes and xylenes, increased by several factors between the December 2011 and March 2012 tests.

However, the DEH agreed with a recommendation to make additional soil drillings near MW-1. The results will provide the basis for deciding whether further remediation would be necessary.

A work plan for future borings is due to DEH by Aug. 16. It will include justifications and other information for the proposed numbers and locations of the soil borings.

State Fire Fee moving forward

By J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

The California Board of Forestry approved regulations that will begin the implementation of the State Regulated Area Fire Fee. The California State Senate Budget and Fiscal committee approved funding for additional staff for the Board of Equalization in order for the agency to begin collecting the fee.

At its June 5 meeting, the Board approved emergency regulations and a set of draft regulations for public review.

Despite frequent opposition from legislators, including Assemblymen Brian

Jones and Kevin Jeffries, no one has been able to stop or repeal this unpopular fee.

The emergency regulations set a fee amount of $150 per habitable structure, which is defined as "a building that contains one or more dwelling units or that can be occupied for residential use. Buildings occupied for residential use include single-family homes, multi-dwelling structures, mobile and manufactured homes, and condominiums. Habitable structures do not include incidental buildings such as detached garages, barns, outdoor sanitation facilities, and sheds."

For property within local fire districts such as the Idyllwild Fire District, the board has provided a $35 per habitable structure reduction in the fee owed.

The Governor's 2012-13 budget assumes $50 million in fees would have been collected this fiscal year and another $84 million in fiscal 2012-13.

Eventually a grant program will be established to use some of the fees. Eligible organizations for grants awarded from the Fire Prevention Fund include local agencies, Fire Protection Districts, Fire Safe Councils, the California Conservation Corps, and other organizations accepted by the Board.

Funding for the grants has not been included in the proposed 2012-13 budget.

Idyllwild Fire Commission works on procedures, policies

By J.P. CRUMRINE
EDITOR

Operating procedures and policies were the topic of last week's fire commission special meeting and workshop. Commissioner Jerry Buchanan and interim Fire Chief Mike Sherman presented several draft policies, which Buchanan had received from the California Special District Association and modified for application to the Idyllwild Fire Protection District.

Policies included filling board vacancies, board meetings and board agendas. Sherman planned to amend and bring the revised policies to the commission for approval at its June 12 meeting.

Examples of other policies reviewed during the workshop included meeting schedules, special meetings and emergency meetings, and conduct during meetings.

The board's meeting conduct policy will establish a limit of five minutes per person for public comment and may allow up to 30 minutes per agenda item. Chief Sherman and Buchanan explained the suggested limits could be modified depending upon the issue.

"This addresses how much time do we want to spend on an issue," Buchanan said. "Thirty minutes is not a long time if it is a very important issue."

The board's actions and decisions policy establishes three commissioners as a quorum. Further, if a commissioner abstains because of a potential conflict of interest, that would not count toward a quorum. Ultimately, all future decisions would require a majority of at least three.

President Jeannine Charles-Stigall mentioned that this is what happened last fall when the commission replaced former commissioner Ben Killingsworth; but legal counsel advised them that they were compliant with state law.

Sherman reminded the commission that its policies could be more restrictive than state law. And Buchanan pointed out that no policy existed that modified the law.

"Now it will always take three members of the commission to pass something," he said.

At its Jan. 24 meeting, the commission approved the purchase of generic policies from the California Special District Association. For each policy they have reviewed, Buchanan and Chief Sherman revised the generic version to apply it specifically to IFPD and the commission.

IDYLLWILD WATER DISTRICT JUNE 2012 NEWSLETTER

IWD Mission Statement -

To provide reliable water & sewer service in a safe, cost-effective & environmentally sound manner in accordance with the community needs.

RATE INCREASE – In June 2010, the Idyllwild Water District Board passed Resolutions #628 and #629 which increased rates for water and sewer. This was the first increase since 2005. The 6% rate increase was to be implemented for 2010 and for four years thereafter. Last year we were able to forego the planned 6% increase, due to the District continuing to find ways to operate more efficiently and implementing various cost effective programs. A probable rate increase will be discussed at our June 19th meeting.

Because we have a split billing system, you will notice that the base water and sewer charges will be increased on your July billing and the water usage costs will increase on the August billing if this goes into effect. If you have any questions when you receive your bill, please call the office at (951) 659-2143.

WELL IMPROVEMENT PROJECT – You may have noticed a well rig working at our Well #23 located on Village Center Drive. This well was originally drilled in December 1990. After performing a normal pump test we noticed well production had decreased. We removed and inspected the pumping equipment and discovered the existing well casing had collapsed, damaging the pump. We replaced the well casing and installed another new pump assembly. The well production has improved significantly. The well building will be reinstalled and the electrical hooked up to test run the new pump.

We understand the noise was unpleasant and we thank you for your cooperation during the repair.

WATER EFFICIENTLY – While cacti and succulents may have a place in drought-tolerant gardens, they are not the only alternatives, since many succulents will not survive a frost in our area. There are other choices available which are appropriate for dry areas. Incorporate different bloom periods, color, size and shape of plants to create visual interest. Online sites are great resources.

Drip systems or soakers hoses deliver moisture over a long period, losing little water to evaporation or runoff. Inspect all your systems regularly to avoid clogging or leaking.

OUR NEXT BOARD MEETING WILL BE ON JUNE 19TH AT 7:00 PM

Plein air painter concludes ICRC Speaker Series

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Rich Stergulz, plein air painter and recent judge in the 2012 Art Alliance of Idyllwild Plein Air Festival, is the final speaker in this year's Speaker Series, a production of the Idyllwild Community Recreation Council.

Stergulz, an Illinois native, said he knew at the age of 8 he wanted to be an artist. "My mom said I was always doodling, drawing," remembered Stergulz. "At the age of 8 I saw a contest on a matchbook cover. 'Draw me and receive a full scholarship,' said the ad. I did and got a full ride. My mom had to write that I was only 8 and too young to accept. I am pretty fortunate to know what I wanted to do from an early age."

Stergulz graduated from the American Academy of Art in Chicago in 1983 and began a successful 25-year commercial art career that included stints as illustrator for major corporate ads for Coke and 7-Up, See Speaker, page 17

Tod Goldberg at Authors Series

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Tod Goldberg, prolific author and chair of the master of fine arts in writing program at the University of California, Riverside, the Palm Desert Center, is funny, very funny and that's the first thing you should know about him. His appearance as part of Eduardo Santiago's Idyllwild Authors Series on Sunday, June 24, should be a very thought-provoking and entertaining ride.

"I write about undercurrents surrounding issues of identity," said Goldberg. "Identity is a very fungible thing. We can be very different based on where we are."

Goldberg will be talking about his collection of stories, "Other Resort Cities," and his characters — denizens of desert communities, refugees seeking to rebuild lost lives, in communities such as Palm Springs, Las Vegas and Scottsdale, Ariz.

"I'm fascinated by the settings, the crimes people commit. They have to go there [to these resort cities] but want to be somewhere else. Their public personas are often not who they really are. They've come to these hot and searing places to lose or reinvent themselves," Goldberg said.

Among his eccentrics in "Resort Cities" are a Chicago hit man hiding in Las Vegas as a respected rabbi of a money-laundering temple, a father, whose wife cheated on him, lives as a squatter in model homes with his abducted children, a sad and deserted husband who turns his luxury home in a gated community into a Starbucks, and a former sheriff and cancer survivor who returns to the toxic environs of the Salton Sea where he lost his first wife.

"As a writer, you have to find the thing you're avoiding, that scary place in your own head," Goldberg advised his graduate students. "That which I don't know affects my writing. I try to find the answers to a single person's issues. The popular adage is that writers write what they know, but I believe differently. The best writers write what they don't know, the things that are just out of reach, the aspects of life they need clarity on. All writers try to find the things they're obsessed about — identity. That's where I come from. Who am I?"

Goldberg said that setting and place play an important part in his writing, especially when writing a short story. "I sometimes reverse engineer from place to person — seeing a cocktail waitress in an Indian casino, I'll want to know why and how she got there, who a person would be in that particular place."

Siblings who write is a common attribute among many of this year's authors. Amy Ephron, last week's author, has three writing siblings and is the daughter of writers. This week features a husband and wife duo, both writers. Goldberg has three sibling writers and is married to a writer. Goldberg talks about the challenges he and his siblings faced growing up in a difficult household and how those shared experiences groomed them to be writers.

"We each escaped into words from an early age," he said. "That's the sad truth that lives under the happy result." He said he finds comfort and emotional support in being able to reach out to his siblings, as a writer, when he has questions or needs their points of view. "One of the great things in my life, wonderful and horrifying too, is that we're all writing about the same things but we don't know it, and that we can share the highs and the lows. Everyone in my close circle is intimately connected with failure."

Goldberg writes how sense memory, flowing from individuals' histories, marks their unique passage. For him, a defining influence when he was young was the group the Beastie Boys. "When you're young and Jewish and want to make art, See Goldberg, page 17

Nicky Martin represents Idyllwild at Voice of the Valley

Performance had to be moved at last minute

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

Idyllwild Arts student Nicky Martin, one of 150 who auditioned for the Voice of the Valley talent competition, was one of eight finalists who performed on Saturday, June 9, at the Grand Finale of the three-month competitive process. The performance, intended as a fundraiser for the historic Hemet Theatre at 216 E. Florida Ave. in Hemet, was in question up to 24 hours before it took place. A last-minute rescheduling at Tahquitz High School Performing Arts Center on Hemet's east side allowed the performance to take place.

Although Idyllwild's Martin did not win or place in the top four, he was a charismatic and polished performer throughout the evening. "This was a huge learning experience for me," said Martin. "Since pop music is what I want to go into, this was solid preparation that helped me understand myself as an artist a little more."

This represented a huge commitment of time for the 17-year-old music student — a 12-hour-a-week rehearsal and performance schedule over the three-month period. "I'm happy I did it. I met some amazing people." The other top 10 finalist, Idyllwild Arts student Alex Keller, withdrew prior to the Grand Finale for reasons of end of year workload at Idyllwild Arts including preparation for an important recital with jazz guitarist Lake Jiroudek.

Two other Idyllwild residents, Isabella Magonna and Rhonda Legate were among 30 semifinalists but did not make the cut for finalists.

Hemet resident Sheila Diggs, the oldest competitor at age 30, won the contest with her solid gospel and R&B infused performance. Runner-up Melanie Tierce, 17, of Murrieta wowed the audience with her musical theater experience and solid vocal chops. Both were audience favorites. The two other top four were Brianna McBride, 16, a Hemet High School sophomore and Beth Jimenez.

A complicated imbroglio involving the Valley View Foundation's head Sharon Deuber and her own board, as well as Deuber's decision to strip the theater of sound and lighting equipment immediately prior to the finale, led to a last-minute change of the venue. The Valley View Foundation had been in escrow to purchase the historic theater. Voice of the Valley's artistic director Alexander Yepremian had to move his production after inspections by Hemet's fire, police and city planner determined the venue did not meet its current code for the purposes intended and that no fire insurance was in effect.

Yepremian, a Broadway and London West End veteran actor, who had been hired as the theater's artistic director, had mounted the Voice of the Valley competition to raise funds to begin rehabbing the theater to turn it into an arts center similar to Riverside's Fox Theatre. "I have the year's shows planned out," said Yepremian, "but we'll have to see how the foundation's efforts to remove Deuber play out."

Yepremian's experience as a producer and showman were on display as he smoothly emceed the production, moving quickly to provide hand microphones when performer's radio microphones failed or cover, with consummate ease, any production glitch. The level of talent on display, including strong production numbers, excellent choreography, gospel choirs and the eight gifted singer finalists working in groups and singly, was impressive — all the more impressive given all staging had been done for the Hemet Theatre and had to be transferred to the new venue with only one rehearsal.

The excellent result was testimony to the resourcefulness of the producers and performers involved and the old theatre adage, "The show must go on!"

IIFC adds new venues for year four

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

Phil Calderone, Idyllwild International Festival of Cinema chairman, expressed excitement about the addition of two new venues for fourth year of the independent film festival. Joining the festival's anchor venue, the historic Rustic Theatre, recently upgraded to the highest quality digital projection and sound, are Astrocamp's 100-seat Galaxy Theater and the Idyllwild Town Hall, which Calderone said should be able to seat between 80 and 100.

"The Astrocamp theater is beautiful with a full-size screen and great sound," Calderone said. "We're still working on specs and equipment for Town Hall. We may add a fourth venue for the seminars or perhaps additional mini-seminars."

Festival Director Stephen Savage said the new venues allow screening of more films for the five-day festival, scheduled to run from Wednesday, Jan. 9, to Sunday, Jan. 13. "I'm hoping for three times the movies [compared to last year]," said Savage. "In the past we've only been limited by what we could show. We're planning to start the submission process on July 1."

Calderone said the Rustic upgrade provides the ability to screen from Blue Ray for participating filmmakers who provide that format. The Quiet Creek Gallery adjacent to the Rustic remains the primary registration and meet-and-greet site. Calderone said he wants to expand the festival to involve more of the town.

"We're advocating for more film-specific mini-events this year to add to the festival's depth, generate more publicity for the filmmakers and involve the attending public more with local businesses," he said. "Last year's events at Prairie Dove, Earth 'n Fire and Quiet Creek were great."

Calderone said a three-site shuttle service is on their to-do list. "The website, www.idyllwildcinemafest.com, is up in its early form," Calderone noted. "Our featured filmmakers are already locked in. They will be very involved this year — interacting, seminars, extended Q and A's and much more. Stay tuned."

as editorial illustrator for major magazines, making storyboards for television and movies, and creating cover art for audio, video, CDs and books.

He teaches plein air painting (painting in the outdoors) in Murrieta, where he resides and accepts private commissions. Russian Impressionists, especially Nicolai Fechin, have heavily influenced his work, he noted. Examples are on his website, www.stergulzart.com. "I admire the Russians for their intense brush strokes that exude passion into their paintings," he said. The Russians were trained to paint from life and during the period from the 1940s through the 1960s were plein air virtuosos, creating charming and intimate visual scenarios from everyday life. "I also admire Norman Rockwell for his amazing drawing ability and the volume of work he produced in this lifetime. I also like John Singer Sargent for his portrait work. They give a sense of reality but still have a painterly style to which I aspire."

Stergulz's work hangs in galleries in Santa Monica, Fallbrook, Idyllwild and Cody, Wyo. He works primarily in oils on Masonite board, portraiture and figurative, and plein air paints as much as possible. "My passion is painting the figure. Everyone has a story and I like to reveal it in my paintings, especially through the eyes of the subject," he said.

Stergulz continues to paint, teach and see life through a painter's eyes.

His presentation, co-sponsored by the Art Alliance of Idyllwild, is at Quiet Creek Gallery at 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 20. A wine and cheese reception precedes the presentation at 5:30 p.m. Both are free to the public.

role models aren't exactly thick on the ground, but there were three guys who looked like me who were making art. It would eventually be great art. The Beastie Boys have been playing behind me since I was 14 and so I've tended to think of them as belonging to me, which is ludicrous I know. But that's what makes some art great; it comes so close to you that you forget it's just words, or pictures, or sounds that played while you were young, when you were older, but still so young, and then again today, when you weren't so young at all."

Santiago interviews Goldberg, who actually taught Santiago at UCLA Extension, at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 24 behind INK Bookstore on North Circle.

Pioneer Town will feature a pony ride concession; Riley's Farm will do log cabin building and provide mountain music. The Pennyroyal Players, a five-woman production offering singing and story telling, are also featured.

The Idyllwild Garden Club offers the popular O'Beck Garden tour with the opportunity to see lilies in their natural streamside setting. And naturalist Dave Stith is back to conduct group hikes to lily sites.

"For me the greatest joy of the Lemon Lily Festival weekend is having the opportunity to share the story of the Lemon Lily and showcase the other local wildflowers that we do often take for granted but are seldom seen by people off the Hill," Stith said. "The grand finale of these walks and talks is the Sunday High Country Hike."

Deadline for entries: 5 p.m., July 15, 2012

(Received at the Town Crier)

Here's your chance for fame, glory, and a free licence plate frame! Enter your best color photographs of the Idyllwild area in the Idyllwild Town Crier's 2013 Wall Calendar Photo Contest. Winning photographs will be published in full color in the new calendar, and winning photographers will get a byline and an Idyllwild license plate frame.

The Rules

Contest is open to everyone. Submit up to three 8" x 10" glossy color images. If images are digital, they must be submitted on a CD or DVD, be at least 300 dpi when scaled to 8" x 10" and must be accompanied by high-quality glossy color prints for judging. Include your name, address, phone number, e-mail and location on the back of each print (make sure you use a pen that doesn't smear or bleed onto other prints). Also, include a self-addressed, stamped envelope for safe return of your work. New this year: Limit 3 submissions per person.

You can drop off your entries at the Town Crier at 54295 Village Center Drive, or mail to Town Crier Photo Contest, P.O. Box 157, Idyllwild, CA 92549. Sorry, no email submissions.

While the Town Crier will reserve the right to publish the photos and use them in promotional material, photographers will still own the rights to their work. Questions? E-mail: halie@towncrier.com

JUST LIKE CATS & DOGS

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Information you need might be coming in sporadically, but at least what you're getting is valuable. Continue to wait until more is available before acting on that career move.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You continue on an upbeat cycle, and with that strong Taurean energy you should see favorable results from your hard work. A pleasant surprise awaits you in your private life.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A misunderstanding needs more time to be worked out. Don't give up on it just yet. Remain open to providing explanations, if called for. Another friend offers good advice.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Fast action can correct a seemingly minor problem that has taken on some unexpectedly difficult aspects. Stay with it until it's resolved. News on a more positive note is due soon.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some snags could cause delays in those plans you're eager to see put into operation. But be patient. The Clever Cat will soon have good reason to celebrate a job well done.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Be careful not to let that Virgan sensitivity dissuade you from being the hardheaded realist you should be at this time. Your goals are in sight. Stay focused on them.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A more positive aspect opens up, allowing you to make some important changes in a personal situation. Remember to seek balance and avoid extremes as you proceed.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good week to get out and enjoy the fine times you missed while you were so deep in those workaday projects. Be sure to share it with that special person.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Work and play are in balance this week. However, expect news that could tip things toward the workplace for quite a while. But all to a good end.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You're more productive on the job than you have been in some time. That's good. But be careful not to overlook some situations developing in your private life.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You've been doing a lot for others (as usual). But now it's time to focus on your needs, including finally going on that long-delayed trip you've been hoping to make.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It's all smoothly going on 'twixt you and that very special person in your life. But a colleague causes some disruption on the job that you might be called on to help settle.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are sensitive to the needs of others. But you're no pushover. You would make a fine teacher, psychologist or minister.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DEBORAH I. BECK aka DEBORAH BERGMAN aka DEBORAH BECK-BERGMAN
Case No. PSP1200320

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DEBORAH I. BECK aka DEBORAH BERGMAN aka DEBORAH BECK-BERGMAN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Derek I. Beck in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Derek I. Beck be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on June 28, 2012 at 8:45 AM in Dept. No. P51 located at 3255 E. Tahquitz Cyn Way, PALM SPRINGS, CA 92262.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

or government. But how students go about mastering the content in the world of the Web is so different from what most of us experienced as students that we would not recognize what is happening as schooling.

Let me give you an example. In one school we observed, students were introduced to the scientific process by a local scientist. They were then invited to study the scientific process in any way they wanted to.

In other words, they were invited to get to a deeper understanding of how it works, what is required, and what results were found.

One 10-year-old girl we spoke with had collected an amazing amount of information about breast cancer. From our perspective, she was far more expert on the subject than most adults. When we asked her why she chose this particular subject, she replied that her mother had recently discovered that she had breast cancer. The daughter wanted to know as much as possible about the subject in order to help her mom. She was not only familiar with the scientific process, she understood it deeply.

Doing well on a test could not compare with her passion to learn all she could about this disease.

Students shared their discoveries and explored the scientific process in their work. The teacher was available to help organize discussions, ask critical questions and challenge student evidence, details and thinking. Of course, this is just a beginning, and a huge amount of skill and organization takes place behind the scenes. But just imagine the possibilities!

creek, attach the filter to the end of the drink tube and you're on your way. Just bite, sip and go. The suction from your sipping provides the power for filtering the water.

Fanny pack Want a great "bare minimum" option for your shorter walks or runs?

I'm a new convert to the fanny pack crowd. Just the name "fanny pack" is enough to shy most people away from it. It conjures up images of the 1980s fitness craze including bad hair (top of the head pony tail anybody?) and tight neon spandex.

But I got one for my birthday this year and now we're literally attached at the hip. The newer models are decidedly cooler and provide convenient access to food, water, cell phone and safety items. Wear it towards your back on trail runs and walks with minimal gear. Swing it around and wear it towards the front for food and camera storage on longer hikes along with your full-size pack.

Here's my final word of gear advice! Not everything you buy has to be from REI to be great gear for the backcountry. Experiment around with what works for you and don't be afraid to be inventive. Repurpose gear from other sports and even areas of life.

You might just be surprised how well a little creativity works towards a great personal hiking experience.

Institute invites you to become familiar with any number of scientific ideas or research about how people learn. Come and see how this knowledge can enrich our relationships and our lives.

hazardous fuels reduction activities within the wildland-urban interface on about 864 acres of San Bernardino National Forest-administered lands in the May Valley area. The project is in the vicinity of Idyllwild and Mountain Center, in Riverside County, California. The Environmental Assessment (EA) for the May Valley Fuels Reduction Project is available for review.

The project proposes to 1) complete and maintain the existing Bonita Vista and Southridge fuelbreaks by treating approximately 166 acres of chaparral and mixed oak and conifer; 2) create a fire suppression corridor along May Valley and Bonita Vista Roads by treating approximately 664 acres of mixed oak and conifer forest and chaparral; 3) reduce fuels on approximately 186 acres to protect primary power and telecommunication lines and towers, and the Forest Service Keenwild Helibase and Fire Station; and 4) reduce conifer encroachment into meadow habitat on approximately 34 acres to restore the meadow to a more open condition and reduce hazardous fuels along road corridors.

This project is an authorized fuel reduction project as defined by the Healthy Forests Restoration Act (HFRA) of 2003, section 101(2), and is subject to the predecisional administrative review process (referred to as the "objection process") pursuant to 36 CFR 218, subpart A. This process is not subject to notice, comment, and appeal provisions pursuant to 36 CFR 215.

The Responsible Official for deciding the May Valley Fuels Reduction Project is San Jacinto District Ranger, Laurie Rosenthal. Copies of the EA may be obtained by writing or calling the Idyllwild Ranger Station, 54270 Pinecrest Street, P.O. Box 518, Idyllwild, CA 92549, or (909) 382-2921, or may be viewed on the internet at: http://data.ecosystem-management.org/nepaweb/nepa_project_exp.php?project=21353.

Objections must be filed with the Reviewing Officer in writing. The Reviewing Officer is the next higher level supervisor of the Responsible Official. Objections must be submitted to Forest Supervisor Jody Noiron by mail: USDA Forest Service, San Bernardino National Forest, 602 S. Tippecanoe Ave. San Bernardino, CA 92408, or fax: (909) 383-5770, or email: comments-pacificsouthwest-san-berndino@fs.fed.us. Please type "May Valley Fuels Reduction Project" in the email subject line. Hand delivered objections will be accepted at the Forest Supervisors office, 602 S. Tippecanoe Ave. San Bernardino, CA between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. All objections will be open to public inspection during the objection process. Objections will be accepted only from those who submitted written comments specific to the proposed project during the public scoping period (36 CFR 218.7(a)).

The publication date of this legal notice in the Idyllwild Town Crier is the exclusive means for calculating the time to file an objection (36 CFR 218.10(a)). Those wishing to object should not rely on dates or timeframe information provided by any other source. An objection, including any attachments, must be filed as stated above within 30 days of the date of publication of this legal notice for the objection process. Incorporation of documents by reference is permitted only as provided for at 36 CFR 218.8(b).

At a minimum, an objection must include the following: 1) objector's name and address with a telephone number, if available; 2) signature or other verification of authorship upon request (a scanned signature for electronic mail may be filed with the objection); 3) when multiple names are listed on the objection, identification of the lead objector (verification of the identity of the lead objector shall be provided upon request); 4) name of the proposed authorized fuel reduction project, the name and title of the Responsible Official, and the name of the national forest and/or ranger district on which the proposed authorized hazardous fuel reduction project will be implemented; and 5) sufficient narrative description of those aspects of the project that are objected to by identifying specific issues and suggested remedies which would resolve the objection.

For further information regarding the May Valley Fuels Reduction Project please contact District Ranger Laurie Rosenthal at the Idyllwild Ranger Station at 54270 Pine Crest, P.O. Box 518, Idyllwild, CA 92549, or (909) 382-2921.

CREATURE CORNER

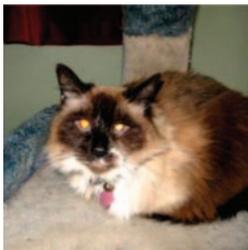

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

Are you ready to play? I am! My name is Molly II, too that is, because I always want to go too, wherever it is you are going. I want to play too, with whoever wants to throw the ball to me. And the walk? I want to go too! Let's even run.

Molly II is a young Jack Russell-basenji mix, looking for an energetic young home to match. She is learning basic commands, and doing well at that. Good with other four-leggeds, large or small, and OK with the feline crowd as well. She can use a doggy door, and is crate trained. All she needs is you and a leash.

Meow! Meet Mina, a Burman-Siamese female. Mina lost her favorite human and is now purring in the ARF cattery. She is a senior female, and loves to show off her beauty for visitors. She is content to curl up in a chair and watch the world, in between naps of course. But when you come home, she is all about showing you why you should love her and her gorgeous brown fur. Stop by ARF to visit Mina on Saturday or Sunday, or by appointment during the week.

Our baby kittens are almost old enough to be adopted. Be sure to reserve one now. We have other litters that are waiting in line for room at the ARF Inn! Everyone is learning litter box training and socializing skills. Nothing compares to enjoying a kitten's curiosity while they are this young. Don't miss out!

Be sure to check out our new website www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.idyllwildarf.org and click on Petfinder. All pets are spayed, neutered, and current on shots. ARF is open on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Sundays from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Call for appointment on any other day at (951) 659-1122. Email and donation opportunities are at www.idyllwildarf.org or email arf@greencafe.com.

That was one of the preliminary facts revealed by Peter Poutney, project engineer from Hirsch & Co., the San Diego-based firm which conducted a study of mountain wastewater treatment.

Doug Hamilton and Richard Montano, both of Idyllwild, worked independently and together to try to save a disintegrating film of the mountain community's early days. The silent movie of Idyllwild in the 1920s was dying of old age since it was printed on nitrate film stock.

30 years ago - 1982

A 63-year-old Korean woman died from heart failure triggered by snake venom poisoning she received while walking near Lake Alandale. It was believed she was bitten by a Western rattlesnake.

The June 6, 1987, death of Idyllwild resident Mark W. Johnson, 38, from snakebite was ruled as an apparent suicide. Johnson kept eight rattlesnakes in two large aquariums in his home. Friends told investigators that Johnson had been depressed after a recent breakup.

a female mallard duck standing on a log with her head tucked under her wing — fast asleep. The log was floating amongst the cattails and as we got closer we saw another turtle sunning itself only inches from the duck.

After taking about many pictures of our avian and reptile friends, I noticed the ten, now teenage, ducks were swimming directly toward us. They were hard to photograph on the water as they were perfectly camouflaged in the water plants. Being flexible, I took a short video of them and their mother as they swam in the shallows.

While photographing some white pyracantha flowers, I managed to get a nice shot of the tail end of a black and yellow bumblebee but he refused to sit for a portrait and flew off to the next bunch of flowers. Right below the flower branch, Sue spotted a large dark gray lizard who was more accommodating as he refused to leave his warm wooden step despite the two pesky humans standing over him.

The lake itself was extremely beautiful under a cloudless sky. No wind was present to ripple the mirror like surface. I took a few token photographs of the lake only to find that my camera batteries were dying. When you take hundreds of photos a day, you better bring spare batteries along.

We proceeded to take the short walk around the lake and I realized we both were smiling like a couple of school kids. Of course, it is always great to have someone else to share these special moments with and Sue and I are on the same wave link when it comes to exploring nature and being outside.

A sleepy mallard rests on log at Lake Fulmor.
