Cash-poor goes burgling

BY BECKY CLARK
EDITOR

A burglar or burglars busted into two businesses on North Circle Drive either Sunday night or Monday morning searching only for cash about three weeks after similar incidents at two other North Circle Drive locations.

Lori Parker, owner of Florist in the Forest, discovered someone had forced their way into her shop but nothing was missing after she arrived there Monday morning.

In the front of the building, a bookcase had been moved, clothes were knocked over and a lattice nailed to a wall was pried back. When that yielded only a wall, the perpetrator apparently tried to enter through a side area padlocked from the inside. That yielded a little more success as the person or persons then made their way through an outside store area only to discover another formidable barrier to the inside.

Rather than give up, the burglar pried at a sliding-glass door frame until accessing the lock, then made their way to the inside front, saw that the cash register was open and the till was empty, slammed the cash register drawer closed, then knocked over some Native American jewelry and left.

"They worked really hard to get in and they have nothing to show for it," said Parker, laughing.

New law requires 3 feet for bicyclists on state roads

The California Department of Motor Vehicles is alerting drivers about a new law requiring them to give bicyclists, traveling in the same direction, 3 feet of clearance when passing. The Three Feet for Safety Act takes effect Sept. 16.

According to the new law (AB1371), which Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr. signed a year ago on Sept. 23, 2013, if traffic or roadway conditions prevent motorists from giving cyclists 3 feet of space, drivers must "slow to a speed that is reasonable and prudent" and only pass when a cyclist will not be in danger. Violations are punishable by a $35 fine.

Motorists who collide with cyclists and injure them while violating the Three Feet for Safety Act can be subject to a $220 fine. Under the previous law, a vehicle was simply required to pass to the left at a "safe distance."

Bicycle riders on public roads have the same rights and responsibilities as motorists, and are subject to the same rules and regulations. Refer to the California Driver Handbook for more information.

DMV advises that "motorists must look carefully for bicyclists before turning left or right, merging into bicycle lanes, and opening doors next to moving traffic. Respect the right-of-way of bicyclists because they are entitled to share the road with you."

California is among 24 states requiring motorists to give bicyclists 3 feet of clearance while passing, according to the National Conference of State Legislatures.

DA ordered to appear at Pinyon murder trial proceedings

Defense claims politics drove seven-year-old investigation

BY J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The murder trial of Robert Pape and Cristin Smith for a triple homicide in Pinyon in 2006 has become both suspenseful and slowly and cautiously procedural. While the defendants are being prosecuted for murder, the defense is alleging that evidence was misrepresented to the grand jury, exculpatory evidence was omitted and local politics played a role in the indictment of Pape and Smith. And Smith's attorney holds Riverside County District Attorney Paul Zellerbach responsible.

The next act will be before the court on Monday, Oct. 6, when Zellerbach has been ordered to appear. All of the procedural motions were re-scheduled for three weeks.

Pape's attorney raised the suspense bar with a subpoena requiring Zellerbach to appear during the hearing on the motion to suppress evidence, which was initially scheduled for Sept. 15.

Impatience results in crash

Shirley O'Brien, 56, of Menifee, was driving her 2000 Ford Mustang eastbound on Highway 74 near Keen Camp Summit at 10:15 a.m. Friday when she slowed and signaled to turn left into a paved turnout area.

As she started her turn, her car was clipped on the left front by a 1996 Dodge Dakota driven by Bob Jackson, 66, of Hemet. Both vehicles were traveling about 25 to 35 mph, said California Highway Patrol Officer Bolon, who said that Jackson got impatient and attempted to pass her from behind in the oncoming lane over a double-yellow center line.

The pickup then went over the side and down a steep embankment, coming to rest against a small tree on relatively flat ground about 40 feet below the highway.

Jackson told the Town Crier that his vehicle did not roll, he just drove it down the slope. Jackson received a laceration to his left arm but refused ambulance transport. O'Brien was not injured.

Above, Bob Jackson's pickup went down an embankment Friday morning after sideswiping a car.

At left, on Friday at about 5:30 p.m., Doug McKellar, 37, of Idyllwild, (on the ground) was traveling on South Circle when he lost control of his motorcycle while taking a right onto Village Center Drive, according to CHP Officer Chris Blondon. He slid under a white 2012 Nissan Xterra driven by Wayne Sleme, of Idyllwild, who was traveling toward South Circle. McKellar suffered a compound fracture to his left leg and was transported by Idyllwild Fire to Desert Regional Medical Center. Sleme was uninjured.

New problem for chronic pain sufferers

By JACK CLARK
CONTRIBUTOR

Pharmacist Barry Shapiro of Idyllwild Pharmacy alerted the Town Crier last week to new federal regulations moving medications containing hydrocodone from Schedule III to Schedule II. This includes pain medications such as Lortab, Norco and Vicodin, and cough medicines such as Tussionex.

This change in schedules is part of a program to cut down on the misuse and abuse of prescription medications. It is due to take place Monday, Oct. 6, 2014, less than three weeks from now.

This is important to those suffering from chronic pain because in California, prescriptions for Schedule II drugs must be written — not telephoned, faxed, emailed or otherwise transmitted by computer — and they cannot be refilled. This means a patient in California must make a physical trip to their prescriber to obtain a written prescription each time they need a refill, then have it hand-delivered to the pharmacy.

Shapiro said he expects this change to directly affect people with chronic pain who are undergoing pain management. He anticipates that in response to this new regulation, many prescribers may attempt to shift patients onto a pain medication not on Schedule II.

In California, in addition to physicians, physician assistants and nurse practitioners may also write prescriptions for Schedule II drugs, if they also hold a Drug Enforcement Administration license.

Shapiro also cautions against attempting to obtain hydrocodone drugs from non-licensed suppliers in the U.S. or from suppliers in foreign countries, as it will not likely be possible to determine the source, purity and efficacy of such drugs.

The Therapeutic Research Center suggests that patients currently taking drugs containing hydrocodone talk to their prescribers before Oct. 6 in order to avoid problems this schedule change may cause. It also recommends that patients consult their pharmacist to answer questions such as how long hydrocodone drugs remain good or the number of doses or days' supply that may be filled at one time.

For prescriptions written before Oct. 6, it may be possible to obtain refills for another six months, until April 8, 2015, so a consultation with one's pharmacist is recommended.

9/11 information and statistics. The flag was borne and posted by all of the parks and fire participants. Then it was saluted as it was raised and placed at half-mast to honor all of those who lost their lives on Sept. 11, 2001.

OUT LOUD

Our mix of news and features, I felt, needed a dose of local humor — a poke at how serious we take ourselves in the town sometimes. And I didn't want to hear yet one more time, "Cartoons in the Town Crier are never funny."

I wanted something people would say was funny, an idea poking fun at life in Idyllwild and relevant to our uniqueness. I felt I had found it when I read through some of his submissions. Dr KIA's author submitted the idea at just the time I pondered a need for more humor. It's not a cartoon but I tried it out.

Alas, the column is getting mixed reviews from readers. You either love it or you hate it.

People stop me to rave about it and repeat their favorites. And people want to hang me because they say it's juvenile or it teaches kids bad things or it attacks tourists, even though the author owns a business that caters to visitors.

"In the process of looking for comedy, you have to be deeply honest. And in doing that, you'll find out here's the other side. You'll be looking under the rock occasionally for the laughter," Robin Williams once said.

OK, I get it. It's not your sense of humor. Are all TC readers required to possess the same sense of humor? No. In fact, I imagine some readers don't possess a sense of humor at all.

But to soften the blow to those of you who can't resist reading something that offends your tastes, I'm backing off Dr KIA to once a month. I also asked him to ease up on areas people may be sensitive to.

But don't put away that rope too soon. Conor O'Farrell and Frank Ferro are planning to revive the TC blog Bad Advice in the Morning, except as bi-monthly and in the newspaper. I hope that goes over better.

A muzzle for Dick Cheney

An old saying goes, "Better to remain silent and be thought a fool than to open your mouth and remove all doubt." (Abraham Lincoln) I wish former Vice President Dick Cheney would heed this warning. The man will not shut up.

The fact that people out there still listen to this lunatic is frightening to me.

Last week, Cheney told Republicans on Capitol Hill it was time to rev up the war with Iraq. This comes from a man who was wrong on everything regarding the war with Iraq and Afghanistan back in 2003.

He was wrong about weapons of mass destruction. Then, after getting us involved, Cheney, Donald Rumsfeld (another former secretary of defense) and former President George W. Bush botched the whole operation beyond repair.

The war with Iraq and Afghanistan cost Americans between $4 and $6 trillion. Nearly 4,500 servicemen and women were killed in Iraq. And Iraqi casualties are in the hundreds of thousands.

Not only did they not make the situation better, they made it worse. They dismantled the Iraqi army and sent home tens of thousands of Iraqi men with guns and no jobs, thus creating more insurgents.

After all of this, and this is only the tip of the iceberg, Cheney continues to spout off as if someone should listen to him. The sad truth is that plenty of Americans do listen.

Cheney never served in the military. In fact, Cheney took five draft deferments during the early '60s as the Vietnam War began to escalate, not one or two, but five deferments.

Obviously, young Cheney had better things to do than to go fight for his country. There is nothing wrong or illegal, in or of itself, about taking draft deferments or sitting out the war. I didn't serve in the military. The active draft ended a year before I turned 18. But if you're not willing to risk your own life fighting for your country, you should be damn prudent about putting other people's lives in danger on the field of battle.

Cheney is downright gung ho about using the military as a bully pulpit to enact U.S. foreign policy to the point of being a warmonger. Cheney, along with his buddies at Halliburton, almost act like they have a financial interest in war.

My father fought four years in World War II, both in North Africa and Italy. Upon returning, my father became very anti-war. He shared with me the horrors he saw and experienced. These were not something he wanted his sons to endure.

I understand there are times in history when a country must respond with violence. WWII was one of those times, but I do believe war should be our last option, not the high card we throw on the table every time we get nervous. The most powerful military force on the planet can afford to exercise a little restraint.

To Mr. Cheney I say, take some responsibility for your decisions and show a little humility, quit trying to rewrite history, and give some thought and consideration for the men and women who have to put their lives on the line for the war that you are so cavalierly calling for.

Stay out of the fight. You did it in Vietnam, do it now.

Medical discount cards ...

By JAY PENTRACK
STAFF REPORTER

On Sept. 12, the Federal Trade Commission took action against "Partners in Health Care" for tricking people, especially Spanish-speaking individuals, into buying worthless medical discount cards. Telemarketers misled people by representing that they offered qualified health plans under the Affordable Care Act and that the insurance purchased would pay for a variety of medical services, including doctor and emergency room visits. Enrollment fees and monthly payments ranging from $99 to several hundred dollars were collected for the bogus medical insurance.

AFD Medical was banned forever by the FTC from selling any health care or discount programs after the FTC found it pushed $299 prescription discount cards on the elderly. Telemarketers also represented that the cards were necessary for the person to continue receiving Medicare, Social Security or other health insurance benefits.

Prior to purchasing health insurance, check with naic.org or consumeraction.gov to verify that the seller is licensed in your state of residence and to verify the legitimacy of the plan being offered.

MAST hears outside speaker

Pines and oaks still threatened and dying

By J.P. CRUMRINE

Former Fire Chief Dave Driscoll made a presentation about the National Cohesive Wildland Fire Management Strategy to the Mountain Area Safety Taskforce last week.

When the U.S. Congress passed the Federal Land Assistance, Management and Enhancement (FLAME) Act of 2009, a provision in the law mandated the development of a national, cohesive, wildland fire management strategy. Its purpose was to comprehensively address wildland fire management activities and strategies across all lands in the U.S. Shortly after enactment of the law, an intergovernmental planning and analysis process involving the public was initiated and is commonly referred to as the Cohesive Strategy effort.

Driscoll has been working with fire agencies across the country, including the Western Governors Conference, as part of the effort sponsored by the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Collaborative efforts to enhance fire protection, as the Hill's MAST intended from its inception more than a decade ago, have been the goal of local cohesive strategies. Driscoll has promoted Riverside County's program for several years, he said.

Of the 72,000 communities in the U.S. at risk to wild-fire threats, only 20,000 have prepared a Community Wildfire Protection Plan. The Hill, under the aegis of the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council, has a CWPP. Currently, MCFSC is preparing an update to the local plan.

Driscoll stressed that the three biggest challenges to fire protection efforts are landscapes filled with an overgrowth of vegetation, population expanding into the wildland urban interface and the growing risk to firefighters and citizens.

Other programs and policies, which are part of a cohesive strategy, such as defensible space and "Ready, Set, Go" are already familiar to local residents, Driscoll noted.

"I don't think there's anything you guys aren't doing," Driscoll said. Despite enhanced fire protection projects, wildfires can still occur. "The true cost of a wildfire can be two to 30 times the suppression costs," he said.

During the agency roundtable, MCFSC Executive Director Edwina Scott reported that 63 homes have had their wooden cedar shake roofs replaced with fire-resistant shingles in the past year. Another 18 are nearly finished for a total of 81 out of 110 eligible homes.

The Fire Code Committee, which Riverside County Fire Chief John Hawkins established, has met and is working to find a solution that combines the best of local fire abatement ordinances with the state's public resource code, said member Sue Nash.

"We're working to develop a policy for throughout the county to do appropriate fire hazard abatement appropriate to the property in all jurisdictions and have the capability to hire a contractor to do the work," Nash said.

"I'm confident we'll move that ahead," Hawkins added.

The discussion also re-emphasized the threat and danger that the bark beetle and goldspotted oak borer bring to the Hill.

"There's been a huge increase in bark beetle activity this year," reported Dave Simmons, Southern California Edison project manager. In all of 2013, about 1,300 trees were removed from the Hill and San Bernardino County. "So far in 2014, we removed about 1,500 trees and expect to cut more than 2,000, maybe closer to 2,500 trees," Simmons said.

In Idyllwild, about 400 trees have been removed and Simmons expects the total to approach 800 to 900 by the end of the year. From identification to removal takes between six to eight weeks, he said. "But we hope to see that compressed," Simmons added.

Riverside County Forester Chief Gregg Bratcher reported that the number of trees with confirmed GSOB infestation in this area is now at 52, a 25-percent increase in the past month.

Some property owners are still reluctant to call for identification of GSOB infections, according to Bratcher. But he stressed that Cal Fire cannot remove the damaged trees without the property owner's permission.

If property owners suspect that an oak tree may be infected, they should first visit the University of California, Riverside's GSOB site, <http://ucanr.edu/sites/gsobinfo/>. Then call Cal Fire's GSOB hotline at 951-659-8328.

Riverside County has received a grant from the U.S. Homeland Security Department to finance a replacement of the county's current advance warning system, according to Peter Lent, deputy director of Riverside County's Office of Emergency Services. The original system was installed in 2008 and he hopes the new one will be operational next summer.

He also announced that OES will be working with all of the volunteer groups on the Hill in early December. "There are great volunteer groups on the Hill and great volunteers in the community," he said. "A recruitment fair is planned as a reach-out to the different volunteer groups."

Riverside/San Bernardino supervisors met

On Tuesday, Sept. 16, the Boards of Supervisors for Riverside and San Bernardino counties were to meet in a joint session to discuss issues that face both counties, from the changing health-care system to a shift that sends more state prison inmates and parolees to counties for local supervision.

"So many issues are important to residents in both counties — health care, public safety, the economy and operations at Ontario International Airport," said Jeff Stone, chair of the RC Board of Supervisors, in a press release. "This is a chance for the counties to explore innovative programs that might save money and improve services for our residents."

Discussion was to include the Affordable Care Act, the state of health-care delivery in the region, and how cooperation between the counties might improve residents' health and increase cost-effectiveness. The boards also were to discuss AB 109, a state program that reassigns some state parolees to county supervision and

'Ready, Set, Go' still important in event of wildfire

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

In a brief meeting Thursday, Sept. 11, the Mountain Emergency Service Committee group discussed current projects and were refreshed on the county's and Cal Fire's "Ready, Set, Go" program.

This is an effort to encourage people to be prepared in the event of a wildfire. Living on the Hill where wildlands and residential property meet is a high fire risk. Fire officials have been promoting "Ready, Set, Go" since 2009.

Jody Hagemann, senior public information specialist for Cal Fire/Riverside County Fire Department, stressed that campaigns are in place for the community's safety.

Proper defense against wildland fires begins with defensible space. This is the "Ready" stage. Brochures emphasize the responsibility of residents to prepare their homes for that rare, but dangerous, fire.

The first step is preparing the open space within 100 feet of the structure to ensure grasses and weeds cannot carry a flame up to the house or porch.

Owners also need to be aware that flames from either shrubs or bushes may reach the lower limbs of small trees, which can touch the house or jump onto larger trees.

After the perimeter defensive, owners need to assess and to defend the structure itself. Many people do not understand the risk of burning embers blowing off vegetation and onto the roofs or under the eaves.

The "Set" stage is the planning residents do in case evacuations are necessary. What routes are safe, where are danger spots, how to prepare the home if left vacant and other preparations are questions people must ask themselves and family.

Finally, "Go" means being aware if evacuations may be needed, listening for the warning or directive, anticipating the danger and leaving ahead of the notice.

More information can be found at www.readyforwildfire.org/go. Hagemann described the step-by-step forms available and encouraged residents to identify any potential problems around their homes and abate them.

In case an evacuation is ordered, residents, particularly parents, need to have a plan for their children, even if in school. If the adults work off the Hill, what is the plan for picking up the children?

"If evacuation orders are necessary, we want people to get off the Hill safely and then to come back to their homes quickly," Hagemann said.

In other news, the local Medical Reserve Corps had a session on deployment activation Thursday at the Nature Center. The Aguanga Emergency Preparedness Group is being revived, reported Kathleen Henderson, emergency services coordinator from the county Office of Emergency Services.

Pamela Fojtik and Edith Brix are just two of the 40 medical volunteers on the Hill. On Thursday, the Idyllwild volunteers for the Medical Reserve Corps met with Martin Baxter, medical volunteer program coordinator for Riverside County.

Idyllwild Fire adopts no-growth budget

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Board of Commissioners for the Idyllwild Fire Protection District last week approved a final budget for the fiscal year 2014-15, which began July 1.

The budget has a projected net surplus of nearly $175,000. Estimated revenues will grow 10 percent to $1.9 million. The greatest surge is that expected property tax revenue will grow nearly $160,000, or 14 percent.

Expenses are only $18,000, or less than a half percent more than 2013-14, for a total of $1.7 million.

Staff salaries and benefits are $1.3 million (78 percent) of the expenses, which Fire Chief Patrick Reitz said, "... is 4 to 6 percent below the national average." However, he confirmed that this budget assumes vacancies during the year and does not fund the full firefighter career staff of nine employers and himself. For example, a replacement for former Capt. James Reyes will not be selected soon. Reitz had earlier said he planned to have a full staff before the end of the fiscal year.

In August, IFPD received the $300,000 advance of its property tax receipts, which was requested in June and the Board of Supervisors approved at the end of July, according to Reitz.

He also thanked the public for "stepping up and funding the station's remodeling."

Commissioner Nancy Layton reported that the Finance Committee is reviewing possibly refinancing the district's debt. As part of the refinancing package, the committee is investigating the cost of new ambulances and a utility vehicle, as well as paying off the medical equipment loan ahead of its due date this winter.

Reitz requested that the committee also consider adding the cost of IFPD's unfunded benefit liability in the loan amount. This is CAL PERS' estimate of what the district owes for pensions in order to be actuarially balanced for the future.

Fire Engineer Mike Yount will retire later this month, Reitz announced. Yount has been a member of the fire department for 23 years.

places some newly convicted felons in county jail instead of state prison. The shift has filled Riverside County jails to maximum capacity, forcing thousands of inmates to be released early.

Also on the agenda was a potential joint committee that would focus on other issues important in both counties, and the prospects for returning operations at Ontario International Airport to local control. Los Angeles World Airports, the City of Los Angeles department that oversees operations at Los Angeles International Airport, now operates the local airport.

The meeting was to be held at the Riverside County Administrative Center and was to occur the day the Town Crier was to go to press. Coverage will occur next week.

IWD raises sewer rates 50 percent

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Sewer bills for Idyllwild Water District's 600 sewer customers will increase 50 percent in October. The Board of Directors unanimously approved the increase at its Sept. 10 meeting.

The new rates are estimated to raise revenues about $180,000 annually. For most of the 420 residential customers, the monthly increase will be $12.75, for a total monthly sewer bill of $38.25. This amounts to another $153 each year. Since 2010, rates have grown 33 percent because of annual 6-percent increases.

General Manager Tom Lynch recommended the rate increase because "... the system [at the treatment plant] is seriously denigrated.

"The rates are not sufficient to cover operational costs and the capital expenses," he added. Revenue from the sewer fees fails to cover the costs to operate the sewer program. Even the addition of property taxes from properties within the district is insufficient.

"With this adjustment, it will be seven to eight years before we can reach stabilization of funds," Lynch said.

"We're using [property] taxes to cover expense," noted

"The rates are not sufficient to cover operational costs and the capital expenses"

Director Warren Monroe. These revenues should have been set aside for capital projects, Lynch responded.

Lynch and his staff see the need for a multi-million-dollar capital improvement program, spread over several years, to improve the treatment facility. This effort will consume IWD's reserves without the help of the rate increase.

The most pressing project will be a 1-mile replacement of the effluent line at the treatment site. The wastewater treatment plant was built in 1971 and operations started in 1972. The last major sewer capital program was in 2006 and focused on IWD's manhole covers.

In water business, Lynch reported that "... well levels are holding or slightly diminished. We are watching the well levels at [Foster] Lake." Recent rainfall did not affect the well levels and Foster Lake remains dry. IWD is making greater use of the downtown wells because of the drought, according to Lynch.

IWD's August water consumption was 7.6 million gallons, which was almost 1 million less than August 2013 and 2.1 million less than July. For the first eight months of 2014, production has fallen 6.9 million gallons to a total of 56.9 million. For the same period in 2013, production was 63.9 million gallons or more than 10 percent less.

The Tollgate tank is being filled slowly, Lynch reported. It will soon be connected to the distribution system.

At this meeting, another customer, Dr. William Walker, addressed the board about his recent high water bill. "I'm asking how this could happen and what can we do?" he inquired.

Lynch said his staff is investigating the situation and there are several possibilities, some of which are not obvious. But he told the board, "Because of these concerns, I'll bring a manufacturer's representative to the next meeting."

"Maybe we have a batch of meters breaking down?" posed President Jim Billman, who asked Lynch to do an investigation because "something is not right."

Pine Cove water usage up

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Water consumption has continued to grow this year in Pine Cove. Pine Cove Water District General Manager Jerry Holldber reported at last week's board meeting that the August production was 3.7 million gallons, 50,000 gallons more than July, but 460,000, or 14 percent, more than a year ago.

"Last August's consumption was low because of the thunderstorms in the area from the Mountain Fire until Labor Day," he said.

"Production in August was up quite a bit," Holldber said. "There are a couple of reasons. Use of water for construction was more than usual. And second, the [storage] tank level rose this month."

Unaccounted-for losses this summer have been about 10 percent, which are slightly higher than average and another reason production is up, Holldber stated.

However, Pine Cove water consumption for the first eight months of the year is 6.5 percent less than the same period in 2009 and 15.4 percent less than a decade ago.

While consumption has grown slightly this year, Holldber noted that the level of the district's static well (no. 10) rose 2 feet since July. (During the past year, the level has fallen 12 feet.)

Several other wells' water levels rose also, causing

"I think we're very wise with our pipeline replacement, especially when I read about the massive pipe breaks in Los Angeles,"

Holldber to comment, "We're OK. We've been spreading the usage out overall so as not to impact one area extensively."

The pipeline replacement work is nearing its completion for this year, Holldber said. Through August, about 3,000 feet of pipe were installed at an average cost of about $60 per foot. Last summer, the district laid about 900 feet of pipeline along Highway 243 at an average cost of about $70 per foot.

The asphalt still has to be poured, but most of the work is done, he told the board.

"I think we're very wise with our pipeline replacement, especially when I read about the massive pipe breaks in Los Angeles," President Mike Esnard said.

State encourages voter registration

California Secretary of State Debra Bowen is encouraging all businesses, nonprofit organizations, community groups and every other Californian to promote voter registration with their own creative outreach events during a specially designated week, Sunday to Saturday, Sept. 21 to 27. California Voter Registration Week includes National Voter Registration Day, which is Sept. 24.

Visit www.sos.ca.gov/elections/voting-in-california for nonpartisan outreach tools. More information about National Voter Registration Day is at www.nationalvoterregistrationday.org.

"Voting gives eligible Californians the opportunity to help shape laws and choose their representatives in government," said Bowen, California's chief elections official. "Online or on paper, registering to vote takes just five minutes."

Californians can fill out a voter registration application online at RegisterToVote.ca.gov. The state application is also available on paper at many post offices, public libraries, California Department of Motor Vehicles offices and other government offices.

Eligible Californians have until Monday, Oct. 20 to register to vote for the Tuesday, Nov. 4 election.

ICC Speaker Series: "Palestine and Israel"

By JACK CLARK
CONTRIBUTOR

Two speakers, both informed and intensely interested in Palestine/Israel issues, will present their individual perspectives Thursday evening, Sept. 18, at Silver Pines Lodge.

The object, they both say, is to present information to the public as to the nature of the controversy so the public understands there really are two serious viewpoints.

Kelli Way said she will present the "anti-Israeli policy" side, focusing on three main policies of Israel: Jewish settlements in Palestinian territory, the blockade of Gaza and Operation Protective Edge. She stresses that the goal is to give people some background to foster a better understanding of what is at stake in hopes of promoting a really lasting peace between the two factions.

Kami Blake said she will present a broad picture on Israeli policy issues, opining that differences in ideology and culture are driving much of the conflict and keeping it alive from one generation to the next. Her talk will include a history of the Zionist movement from the late 1800s onward, which she characterizes as essentially: "If we had our own country and borders, we could tend to our own security."

This idea for this presentation came out of a discussion between the two in which they asked why people with opposing opinions cannot have a civil discussion in which they present information.

The event, which is open to the public at no charge, will commence with a reception at 5:30 p.m. leading into the presentation set for 6 p.m. A question-and-answer period follows the presentations.

Helping veterans fulfill dreams

In partnership with the Kansas Farmers Union, the Center for Rural Affairs held workshops for veterans of the Iraq and Afghanistan wars who were from small towns and rural areas. The USDA Risk Management Agency funded the activities. According to John Crabtree of the Center for Rural Affairs, the workshops provided face-to-face meetings between veterans and resource providers, conversations with farmers, and information on resources and strategies to begin farming and ranching. The workshops included classroom sessions, farm tours and a web broadcast with virtual farm tours.

"We have not been alone in our outreach to veterans. We've also engaged state Agriculture projects, which provide technical advice to disabled farmers and helped serve many of the participants in our workshops who are experiencing some form of disability by a welcome encouragement that farming dreams can be realized despite physical or emotional disability," said Crabtree. "We owe a great debt to the men and women who served in our country's military, and the Center for Rural Affairs hopes to continue and expand upon this work in their honor."

The Center for Rural Affairs was established in 1973, and is a private, nonprofit organization working to strengthen small businesses, family farms and ranches, and rural communities through action-oriented programs addressing social, economic and environmental issues. Messages for new parents

A free mobile phone health service for expectant and new parents is now available in English and Spanish to Riverside County parents who want to receive free text messages on health information and immunization reminders through the first year of their child's life.

Parents using the service, physicians, children's advocates, and Riverside County supervisors, in partnership with the mobile health service Text4baby, formally launched the service in April.

Advocates say the partnership will make it easier for parents to learn about Text4baby and to sign up through existing programs such as Women, Infants and Children, First 5 Riverside, the Riverside County Regional Medical Center women's health and pediatric services, and Riverside County Health System's 10 outpatient family health centers.

Text4baby offers an opportunity for parents to receive appointment reminders, information specific to their stage of pregnancy and child's developmental age, as well as other alerts — such as proper sleep positioning, pertussis and flu vaccination reminders.

"This is information that can save children's lives," said Dr. Carrie Bacon, assistant chief of family medicine for Riverside County Health System.

Text4baby collects only the user's phone number, zip code and due date. It delivers three text messages per week and, when necessary, transmits urgent health and safety alerts, such as baby product recalls and natural disasters. The American Academy of Pediatrics, American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention create and oversee the content.

Dr. Aleca Clark, a Loma Linda pediatrician and Chief of Pediatrics at Riverside County Regional Medical Center said she used Text4baby for more than a year to assess its accuracy and value. Clark said this was especially important because Text4baby has been effective at reaching English- and Spanish-speaking parents who live in zip codes with the highest levels of poverty in the United States and where perinatal care is less frequent.

Riverside County Supervisor Marion Ashley said county leaders are committed to supporting programs that improve population health and enhance the quality of lives for children.

Riverside County

agencies, such as the health clinics, WIC and First5, will be working to integrate Text4baby information into their clinics' services, physicians said. Parents may also sign up by texting BABY (or "BEBE" for Spanish) to 511411 to receive three text messages a week through their child's first birthday.

Parents may also sign up for Text4Babies through WIC at www.rivhero.com

CONTEST JUDGE

Several folk correctly identified the garden fountain at Trudy Twadorski's Oma's European Restaurant and Bakery on Ridgeview Drive, downtown Idyllwild. So the names Maury Bousquet, David Curl, Warren Monroe, Jackey Queen, the Jeff and Yvonne Smith family, and the Josh and Emily White family went into the hat and Curl's name came out, a first-time winner. Please come to the Town Crier to pick up your gift card to Shane Stewart's Rustic Theatre. Also, two things: If you choose to use email, please address it to jack@towncrier.com. And you all need not work so hard! A photo entry is not necessary. The simple description "fountain at Oma's" would have sufficed in this case to tell me you found the right spot, and in most cases that would be enough. On the other hand, "the wall at Jo'An's" would simply be too vague, given that the wall goes all around that restaurant, see? So, take a shot at this week's photo now.

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

World traveler at home in Idyllwild

BY JAY PENTRACK
STAFF REPORTER

The beginning of Mimi Lamp's development as an artist was a bit of a rocky one. With a mother who was an art major in school, the family was encouraged to use their "art eyes" in their view of the world. Even Mimi's Dad got involved and began painting so he could spend time with his artistic wife.

Drawing and painting were always part of Mimi's life growing up, so it was no surprise that she attempted to draw a portrait of another student during an art session while she was in the eighth grade. "I did a portrait of this older student. She looked at me and said, 'I don't have bug eyes like that,' and I thought, 'Oh my God, I'm never going to do a portrait again because I got on the wrong side of that girl,' and she had bug eyes," Mimi said, laughing. "I'm sure I made them bigger than what she had, but I probably did quite the caricature of her."

Mimi was raised in Coupeville, Washington, to a pastor father and a stay-at-home mother who, in addition to raising her children, helped her husband with his pastoral duties. After Coupeville, the family moved to Halls Lake, just outside of Seattle, where they spent six years. A move to Ketchikan, Alaska, for two years followed and then the family packed up their VW Bus and headed to New York where the family and their VW boarded a ship to Aman, Jordan.

"My Dad went down to the dock and started asking around, 'Does anybody have room for six people?' and he got to a Greek ship — it was just a freightliner — and he said, 'Do you have room for six people?' and [the captain] said, 'It just so happens that I had six people who jumped ship here in New York, so yes, we have six beds available,'" Mimi recalled. "The trip took us an entire month to go from New York; we ended up in Aqaba, Jordan. [The ship] was one of the old liberty boats that fought in World War II and they were only supposed to make the trip to pick up the soldiers and bring them home; this was in 1962.

"Twenty years later they are still using these ships and the rudder broke. We ended up in Cuban waters and we were being buzzed by Cuban planes," Mimi recalled. "Once we got to Saudi Arabia, it was the first trip for the captain and he tried to go into port; well it was like midnight, or 1 a.m. in the morning, and we woke up to a bunch of shots being fired because we had no permission to go there and they weren't expecting us. You know, you shoot first and ask questions later."

War forced the evacuation of the family to Lebanon (where Mimi would meet the boy who would later become her husband) and from there the family was again evacuated, this time to Europe. Once the war ended, the family returned to Jordan where Mimi would remain until she turned 18.

"The church that my parents were missionaries for, once you turned 18 or you graduated from high school you had to come back to the states because they wanted you to come back and go to school in your own country, which was just horrible," Mimi said. "It was like a punishment to me. When you spend from eight to 17 [years in a place] you feel so much more comfortable in that culture."

After high school and now back in the states, Mimi went to college in Idaho, her parents' alma mater, for a short time before deciding to drop out. "I became a dental assistant, learned how to do that and passed my boards. Then I took all of the art classes I wanted to take. I want to take this, I want to take that... I never got a degree, no degree whatsoever, but I've had lots and lots of art classes," she said, laughing.

And while college was not Mimi's passion, she met the man she would marry, a Northern California transplant, who was not at all comfortable with the cool and wet Seattle weather. After two years in Seattle, and at her then-husband's insistence, the family moved to San Jose where they remained for 25 years and raised their three children.

The couple divorced, leaving Mimi to support the family which she did by working a variety of jobs — house parent at a home for unwed mothers, manager of a carpet cleaning business, restaurateur and secretary for a computer company.

It was in California where Mimi reconnected with a boy she had met in Beirut during their wartime evacuation. "We went to the same elementary school together in Beirut," Mimi recalled. "It's not that we really knew each other, because he's my little brother's age. I knew his older brothers better, but I planned a school reunion so we kind of got reacquainted with each other."

Don and Mimi married and she relocated to Southern California. Her introduction to Idyllwild came after a family tragedy inspired Don to plan a camping trip in 2007 to Lake Hemet. "We're going camping," she said Don announced. "I haven't seen a smile on your face for six weeks." He was at work and I said, "OK, let's go online, let's find somewhere to go. I really would love big, tall trees because being from Washington, it's interesting.' All of that stuff is like buried inside of you and you really don't know it, but when you go for comfort, I always go to big trees and mountains. That's what I love."

From her first visit, Mimi was hooked. In short order, the couple found a home in Idyllwild and spent every minute they could in the mountains they loved. "We'd come up every week. We figure we drove up 100 times in two-and-a-half years. We always came mid-week because [Don's] shift was weekends, so we'd come up on Tuesday and then leave on Thursday or Friday, so we really got to know the locals and it was quiet; such a nice little town."

After relocating full-time to Idyllwild, Mimi opened the Lamp Gallery on Village Lane and revealed in her new art career. But Don had other plans — specifically, a year-long trip around the world. Mimi closed the gallery and packed her bags.

"Our goal was to see as much of the world as possible to get a general overview, which is a really interesting concept, but it was also very tiring. We thought we actually had to take time off from seeing the world," Mimi said, laughing. "Our plan was to stay on each continent for two months so we started off in Palm Springs on the train."

Puerto Rico, the Caribbean, South America, South Africa, Morocco, Europe, China and Peru are just a sampling of the 73 locations the couple visited. During her trek, Mimi's goal was to draw every day, and while it was a lofty goal, Mimi was able to create pen and ink drawings that are breathtaking. Mimi's work and journals can be found on her website, www.art-bymimi.net.

In March 2013, the couple purchased Higher Grounds and since then they have been adding personal touches to make it their own. "It takes a lot of creative thought to say, 'What can I do that's different that's mine?' I cleaned up the front the way I like it, I put things in place, I removed things, I added things ... it's still a work in progress. It's fun making it a little more personal, but you have to think kind of critically, like which direction do I want to go?" Mimi said.

Asked what she likes most about living in Idyllwild, Mimi said, "So many places don't like strangers moving in. Here they welcome strangers; now we have another person to fill our minds with ... 'Come on over to my house for this or that.' It's the community that everybody wants but very few people get."

CREATURE CORNER

By MIMI AND HOOTCH

She's all ears — mixed in with a lot of love, obedience and fun in such a small package.

Tammy, also known as Bil-lie Jean, is a 5- to 6-year-old min-pin. She's good with cats and other dogs, and on the leash. And she absolutely loves car rides. Could you share your space with this girl?

Tammy came into ARF with Lola, the min-pin/Chihuahua. They are good buddies, but get along well apart.

Lola is about 6 or 7 years old. She also is fine with the feline crowd and other dogs, and on the leash. She's such a happy girl. Tammy and Lola could be adopted together or separately.

Archie, the Schipperke/Es-kimo-mix is still patiently waiting for his forever home, too. Archie is white as snow, loves to walk, and is good with other dogs, cats and patient humans. His favorite toy is a treat-filled kong. And his favorite pastime is following your direction and grooming.

Please check the website for many dogs on assisted adoption.

Poppy and Meatball have their eye on you. Poppy is a male kitten about 4 months old, and Meatball is a female kitten about 4 months old. They also have a tiger-striped brother named Tigger. All of these babies were dropped off on the ARF porch with their momma Lizzie, a young cat herself. Get your kitty love and laughs quick. These babies won't last long.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. There is also a link for Facebook, too. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sundays.

Creature corner is sponsored in Memory of Cotton this week. To sponsor the column, call Lisa Streeter at the Town Crier, 951-659-2145.

HOROSCOPES

September 2014 — Week 3

March 21 – April 19

Progress is lagging. It may be time to turn up the heat, Aries. A renovation begins at home. Prepare for chaos for some time to come.

April 20 – May 20

Be careful, Taurus. What appears to be a travesty of justice may in fact not be. A health issue is resolved with a change in treatment.

May 21 – June 21

It's all about the numbers this week, Gemini. Keep track of your expenditures. There could be ways to save. A special occasion draws near.

June 22 – July 22

The need for a pur- chase becomes clear. Do your homework, Cancer. A challenge is presented. Take it only if you dare. A friend returns a favor.

July 23– August 22

The stakes are high, maybe a little too high, Leo. There is no shame in bowing out. Vacation plans continue to change. Be patient. It will all come together soon.

August 23– September 22

Whew, Virgo. The pressure eases with better technology and a larger team. An old foe drops by bearing gifts. Welcome them with caution.

September 23– October 22

Dribble, dribble, dribble. Relax, Libra. Things are getting done, just not at the pace you would like. A loved one has an interesting proposal. Hear them out.

October 23– November 21

No more, Scorpio. You've balked at an idea long enough. Join in the effort, even if your heart is not in it. You will learn more than you imagined.

November 22– December 21

Stranger things have happened, Sagittarius. Continue to hope and pray, and you might just get your wish. A review points you in a different direction.

December 22 – January 19

The conflict continues for a beloved couple. Be there for them, but do not offer any ad- vice. This is a problem for the pros, Capricorn. A promise is made.

January 20 – February 18

Opportunity knocks yet again. This is your chance, Aquarius. A sequence of events at work gets a conversation started. A message is delivered.

February 19 – March 20

Pace yourself, Pisces. There is a lot to do this week, but you have more than enough time to get it done. A crass comment is no reason to get upset.

Judge Michael Naughton agreed with the DA’s motion to quash the subpoena. During Monday’s proceedings, the trial judge, Charles Stafford, acknowledged another judicial official had quashed the subpoena and he was unwilling to overrule it. However, he encouraged the defense to re-subpoena Zellerbach for the next court hearing.

But later he decided to order Zellerbach to appear at the October proceeding and said the court does not need to subpoena his presence.

“DA Zellerbach is aware of the judge’s order and intends at this time to abide by the order,” said John Hall, senior public information specialist for the District Attorney’s Office, Tuesday morning.

On Sept. 5, Richard Blumenfeld, Pape’s defense counsel, filed a motion to dismiss the indictment. He made several arguments. All involved essentially the DA’s office misleading or concealing evidence during the grand jury proceeding, as well as violating Pape’s Fourth Amendment protections against an unreasonable search.

While Blumenfeld attacks specific evidence, such as Smith’s DNA on a business card found at the crime scene, he relies heavily on evidence that might point to other suspects and was never presented to the grand jury.

Blumenfeld objects to the case as being entirely circumstantial and paper thin. Essentially, he claims it was created by “... she-nanigans in an attempt to pull the wool over the eyes of the grand jury.”

The investigation was originally “aborted within a year or so of the homicides ...,” then was revived “... on the same state of the evidence previously rejected by the District Attorney as insufficient to prosecute [Pape] or anyone else for these crimes,” he wrote.

In his concluding sentence, Blumenfeld plays the politics card, entwining Zellerbach in the murder case.

Blumenfeld describes the DA’s office’s conduct during the grand jury proceedings as “... a pattern of gross misconduct.” He then attributes this behavior to Zellerbach.

“Initially these tactics were probably calculated to get the District Attorney through a bitter re-election campaign. The election is over. It is time this court said ‘Enough,’” he wrote.

On the night of Sept. 17, 2006, Becky Friedli, 18, her mother, Vicki Friedli, 53, and Vicki’s boyfriend, Jon Hayward, 55, were found dead at their Pinyon home. Becky’s body was found burning in a wheelbarrow outside the house. The other bodies were found inside the burning home.

On March 11 this year, both Pape, 26, and Smith, 25, were arrested and charged for these murders. They were high school friends.

Other issues deferred until October included the prosecution’s request to combine the trials for Pape and Smith into one. Currently there are two trials because Pape is eligible for the death penalty and Smith is not because he was a minor when the homicides occurred.

The DA’s office argued that there are many precedents for combining trials of defendants when only one may receive a death sentence. Both the U.S. Supreme Court and the California Supreme Court have held “that a noncapital defendant’s right to a trial by an impartial jury is not violated by his being jointly tried with the capital defendant.”

Obituary Gary Earl Wall 1945-2014

Gary Earl Wall, 69, died unexpectedly Saturday, Sept. 6, 2014, two days after suffering a massive stroke at his home. A lifelong resident of the San Diego community of Linda Vista, Gary was also a recognizable figure in Idyllwild, where his family has maintained a cabin in the shadow of Tahquitz Peak for 50 years.

Gary's education took him through the halls of Kit Carson Elementary, Montgomery Jr. High and Kearny High. After graduation, he worked at a pickle factory and 7 Up Bottling Co. before beginning a 35-year career with San Diego Gas and Electric. Before retiring in 2002, the self-proclaimed "Gas Man" often served in capacities well above and beyond his position as a gas-service technician. He worked on emergency strike teams in San Francisco and Northridge following devastating earthquakes in 1989 and 1994, respectively, and was once honored by the company for saving a man's life.

Born Feb. 9, 1945, the son of a San Diego police detective and Sharp Memorial Hospital nurse, Gary is survived by his wife Maureen, his children David and Sarah, mother Ina, sister Gail and an extended family that includes countless friends and relatives.

Always lending a hand when one was needed, always giving of himself and always thinking of others, Gary will forever be remembered for his outrageous sense of humor, great humility and deep devotion. As a Lifesharing donor, Gary's final act of selflessness saved the lives of several others. If wealth is measured by friendship, love and sacrifice, Gary was unquestionably the world's richest man.

A memorial service and celebration of Gary's life is planned at 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 20, in Linda Vista. For details, contact Gary's family, who suggest visiting Lifesharing.org for information on becoming an organ donor or to make a memorial contribution in Gary's name.

Some Covered California health insurees' coverage is in jeopardy

Covered California has been contacting about 98,000 families that must resolve eligibility inconsistencies in their 2014 enrollment documents.

The consumers will need to submit documents showing they are lawfully present in the United States as U.S. citizens, U.S. nationals or individuals with eligible immigration status, in order to continue their health insurance through Covered California. Notices were being mailed and emailed to consumers beginning the first week of September. If proper proof is not provided by Sept. 30, these individuals risk termination of health coverage.

"We want to clear these inconsistencies so that our consumers can have a smoother renewal process without any interruption in their coverage," said Covered California Executive Director Peter V. Lee in a press release. "We're implementing a multi-touch, multi-channel outreach approach to notify individuals who risk losing coverage."

Covered California has been working to clear inconsistencies. To date, more than 700,000 documents have been verified and processed.

Documents submitted by consumers will be treated confidentially and will be used only to determine the consumers' eligibility for health insurance programs and will not be used for immigration enforcement, Covered California said.

Some consumers may have previously provided Covered California the required documents, but the agency could not reconcile the information to verify citizenship or immigration status, according to Lee. For example, some documents were illegible, and in some cases two pieces of proof were needed, but only one document was sent, so the agency is requesting the documents be sent again.

The notices will provide consumers with a list of documents they can send to prove their lawful presence. The notices will be delivered in English and Spanish, and help also is available in other languages.

Consumers also will be instructed on how to upload the documents to their account, send them via U.S. mail or fax them to 1-888-329-3700. Also, thousands of partners, including Covered California Certified Insurance Agents, Certified Enrollment Counselors, Service Center representatives and county eligibility workers, will be available to help consumers submit the necessary documentation.

Lee stressed that consumers should act quickly to submit the requested documents.

"If we do not get your documents, Covered California must cancel your health insurance, along with any federal tax credit you may be receiving that lowers your monthly premiums," Lee said. "If you have received tax credits, and your health insurance is canceled, you may have to repay those tax credits. If your health insurance is canceled, you may also have to pay a tax penalty."

The following documents may prove eligible immigration status: a U.S. passport; a certificate of naturalization (N-550/N-570); a certificate of citizenship (N-560/N-561); a U.S. public birth certificate; a driver's license issued by a U.S. state or territory; an identification card issued by the federal, state or local government; a school identification card; a foreign passport; and a green card. A complete list is at www.coveredca.com.

A burglar or burglars first attempted to break into Florist in the Forest between Sunday and Monday by pulling this bookcase out and prying back the lattice in front.

Author to discuss her newest book

Former Hill resident and author Diane Noble will talk about her newest book, "The Curious Case of the Missing Figurehead," and her challenge of living with Parkinson's Disease. She will talk about recent research showing a link between creativity and the disease. "I began to accept that Parkinson's wasn't a curse, it was a gift," she said.

As the author of more than 20 works of historical fiction, some published under the pen name "Amanda MacLean," Noble comes to this event well-versed in her capacity for entertaining storytelling. Her nearly complete "Brides of Gabriel" series, containing the novels "The Sister Wife" and "The Betrayal," reveal her well-researched background into the mid-19th century Mormon experience in the Western United States, and this latest book (starting a new series) further explicates her proficiency at providing a well-constructed mystery tale.

The free talk is from 2 to 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 20, at the Idyllwild Library.

Florist in the Forest employee Erin Teague with daughter, Alicen, 6 months, shows where the perpetrator(s) then went around to the back side and pried open a pad-locked entrance, gaining entry to an outside sales area but not to the inside of the building.

Terri French of Let it Shine gift shop was devastated to learn of the break-in at her business when she arrived Monday morning.

The burglar or burglars then gained entry by prying the metal sliding-glass door frame and unlocking the door.

Burglaries

Nothing else in the store was disturbed but she has a big mess to clean up.

The burglar apparently isn't the smartest at his/her craft. "If they had looked in the front door [window], they would've seen that there was no money in the till," said Parker.

Terri French, owner of Let it Shine gift shop in Oakwood Village, wasn't so lucky. She was devastated to find her shop's door pried open, her cash register smashed and cash gone when she arrived at her shop Monday morning.

But again, none of her merchandise was missing.

Phyllis Brown of Prairie Dove suffered the same on a Thursday about three weeks ago. Someone shimmied open a small window in her shop, "destroyed my cash register and took all my money," she said. "There's no longer cash in the cash register overnight," she said, and the windows are all nailed now.

"The next night, someone went over to Mountain Mike's Customer Leather and took all his firewood," she said, "but his daughter ... [who was sleeping in the shop] heard someone out there, shined a flashlight and they ran off."

Mountain Mike said they took $200 worth of firewood that he sells at his shop. But he isn't letting this get him down. "I can't let one lowlife ruin it for everyone else," he said.

The owners said all the incidents were reported to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department. Capt. Ray Wood of the Hemet Station had been out of the office for 10 days and had not garnered enough information to comment by press time.

"I feel sorry for people who have to do that and I'll pray for them," said French. "But I feel sorry for us, too. These little businesses are barely eking by as it is."
