Tuesday, April 14, at the Idyllwild Library.

The Mountain Disaster Preparedness group is hosting a special meeting next week with the Riverside County Department of Public Health and the community at 6 p.m.

This will be the final of 17 community sessions across the county since last month. It has been many years since the county has undertaken an effort of this sort.

Community meeting about Goldspotted oak borer

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

This is the time of year when the oak leaves begin to appear, which means it's the best time to examine our oaks to identify suspicious trees that may be harboring the GSOB and dying from this occupant.

It's spring. Flowers are blooming and the leaves of trees are starting to form and uncurl. It's time for a community meeting to hear about the Goldspotted oak borer.

The Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council is holding just such a meeting at 10 a.m. Saturday, April 18, at the Idyllwild Nature Center.

"It's time to see if the leaves are normal or if leaves are still brittle and brown," said Edwina Scott, MCFSC executive director. "We'll be right at the beginning of flight season."

HUSD considers dropping bus pass requirement

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Idyllwild students attending Hemet High School have to have a bus pass costing $520 annually or rely on private transportation to school but next year, that cost may be eliminated.

At its April 7 meeting, Tuesday evening, the Hemet Unified School District Board of Trustees was to consider eliminating the pass for next year. This will add seven bus routes to the current total.

The proposal came from a review of the district's transportation program. The staff report states, "... elimination of transportation fees will, indeed, increase participation amongst the current eligible students."

The bus pass revenue totals about $70,000 annually and the HUSD total budget is more than $175 million. Consequently, the staff report says, "Bus pass revenue has become an insignificant amount of the overall revenue to

Edwards pleads guilty to embezzling from quilters

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Thursday, April 2, Lawrence Edwards, formerly of Idyllwild, pleaded guilty to a felony count of embezzlement from the Mountain Quilters.

The original complaint was filed in September 2014, but dates to his time with the Mountain Quilters in 2013.

He was granted 36 months probation, but must pay restitution to the quilters, according to John Hall, information specialist, Riverside County District Attorney's Office.

He also has court and judicial fees of about $1,200.

At the hearing, he changed his plea from not guilty to guilty.

In the original filing, the DA's office claimed Edwards took money from the Quilters over a period of about 14 months.

Lead Investigator Steven Grassel of the Riverside County Sheriff's Office indicated in his sworn affidavit that an audit showed Edwards, as treasurer of the Mountain Quilters, had taken more than $4,900 in 24 checks written to himself on the quilters' account.

Grassel's affidavit also stated Edwards indicated in an interview that he did not realize he had taken that much money.

The affidavit also noted that Edwards had already re-paid about $2,700 to the group.

The quilters club has not responded to a request for comments.

Although his plea has been accepted and sentencing ordered, Edwards still has a hearing scheduled in July to monitor progress.

Fire destroys workshop

By JACK CLARK
CORRESPONDENT

A late-evening fire on Saturday destroyed the workshop of Karson Meltzer on Marian View Drive. Idyllwild Fire responded and kept the fire confined to that building. Karson reportedly was at the home of a friend at the time the fire broke out. There were no injuries, but Karson related that he lost all of his tools in the blaze — drills, saws, welding equipment, ventilation system, everything.

His father, Jeff Meltzer, who resides with his wife and grandson on adjacent property, stated that the family was awakened by a loud boom they originally thought was a gunshot. Jeff said he suspects that was Karson's acetylene tank, used in welding, exploding from the heat. When the family saw the flames from their window, they called Idyllwild Fire. Several smaller reports, believed to be paint cans exploding, were also heard.

Paul Riggi, Idyllwild Volunteer Fire Company, conducted a nearly four-hour

At about 10 p.m. Saturday, multiple calls were received about a structure fire on Marian View Drive. The surrounding brush caught fire as well. Here, Brian Gremminger, a reserve firefighter and paramedic at Idyllwild, directs a hose on the fire. PHOTO BY JENNY KIRCHNER investigation. Karson said they found the workshop had been closed and locked, and that the electrical system was not at fault, nor was any other cause identified. Jeff stated that Riggi indicated to him that his report likely would find the fire to be of undetermined origin.

Karson says that despite losing his tools he has worked at various jobsites everyday since the fire. But he does not know how he is going to replace his tools. Nonetheless, he maintains a positive attitude. "I'm moving forward," he said.

Possible arson in Cranston Fire

A person is in custody after firefighters extinguished a 3.4-acre wildfire Tuesday.

The brush fire was reported about 10:35 a.m. 2 miles east of Cranston Guard Station and north of Highway 74. U.S. Forest Service and Cal Fire fighters responded, along with two planes and one helicopter.

The westbound lane was closed for about 2 hours. Firefighters had the blaze contained and were mopping up at around 12:30 p.m. It mostly was on private land with some federal land involved.

An investigation was underway as to whether a man on foot and wearing a backpack seen leaving the fire area was involved. California Highway Patrol reported that he was homeless and from Indiana. No details were released as of press time.

No snow precipitates water reductions

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The continuing grip of the drought has resulted in a new executive order imposing mandatory water reductions throughout the state.

On Wednesday, April 1, the Department of Water Resources recorded the lowest snowpack and within hours Gov. Jerry Brown signed the executive order. According to DWR, this "was the first time in 75 years of early-April measurements at the Phillips snow course that no snow was found there."

"Today we are standing on dry grass where there should be 5 feet of snow. This historic drought demands unprecedented action," said Brown in a press release. "Therefore, I'm issuing an executive order mandating substantial water reductions across our state. As Californians, we must pull together and save water in every way possible."

Among the mandates is a 25-percent water reduction from the 2013 usage. The lower consumption should be achieved by the end of February 2016. The governor said, "These restrictions should consider the relative per-capita water usage of each water suppliers' service area, and require that those areas with high per-capita use achieve proportionally greater reductions than those with low use."

DWR will initiate an effort to replace lawns and ornamental turf with drought-tolerant landscapes. In underserved areas, DWR will provide funding for lawn replacement.

The California Energy Commission, along with DWR, will implement an appliance rebate program.

The State Water Resources Control Board has been ordered to prohibit people from using potable water for ornamental turf and outside newly constructed homes and commercial buildings, unless they use drip or microspray systems.

"There are many components of the executive order that are admirable in an effort to save water and decrease water waste," state Sen. Jeff Stone (R-28) said in a press release Wednesday afternoon. "Further, efforts to streamline permitting processes and investing in new technologies should be commended."

"However, it should be noted that many people across California have already taken it upon themselves to conserve water," he added. "Conservation, while important, is not nearly as critical as increasing the amount of water storage in California."

The governor expects California water districts not just to comply with the order, but to enforce it. He "calls on local water agencies to adjust their rate structures to implement conservation pricing, recognized as an effective way to realize water reductions and discourage water waste."

Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. (center) joined Department of Water Resources Director Mark Cowin (right) and Frank Gehrke (left), chief of the California Cooperative Snow Surveys Program, for the season's fourth manual snow survey Wednesday. At an elevation of 6,800 feet, Phillips Station in the Sierra has been measured since 1941, with an average April 1 snow depth of 66.5 inches. On April 1, no snow was found at Phillips, an indication, the governor said, of the drought's extreme severity.

Hurkey Creek Bridge project starts April 20

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Caltrans District 8 crews begin preparatory work to widen Hurkey Creek Bridge on Highway 74 at 8 a.m. Monday, April 20. Construction will limit traffic to one lane on and in the near vicinity of the bridge for the majority of the one-year project. Construction crews will be active Monday to Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Heavy truck traffic will be rerouted because of the very narrow existing bridge expanse. "Truck traffic is advised to use alternate routes due to limited clearance through the construction zone," said Terry Kasinga, Caltrans District 8 public information officer. She also noted that construction could be interrupted for a winter 2015-16 hiatus should weather conditions so mandate, thereby extending overall time for project completion.

Kasinga advised that motorists could expect average delays of 15 minutes in each direction throughout construction duration. She noted Caltrans will be utilizing solar-powered, traffic-lane control signs during the project.

The affected section of Highway 74 is directly opposite Lake Hemet Campgrounds, from mile marker 62.3 to 62.5.

The existing bridge, built in the 1930s, is the narrowest part of Highway 74, with a total width of only 23 feet from side railing to side railing and a current length of 34.1 feet.

The $2.5-million project will widen a bridge deemed too narrow to safely accommodate present-day wide and high-speed vehicles. When completed, the new bridge would nearly double the width and be longer than the existing bridge — 43.5 feet wide and 50 feet long.

Kasinga said crews will begin placing signage and doing preparation work on April 20.

Project plans specify removing the existing span, constructing the new bridge and approaches, regrading and protecting slopes near bridge abutments, constructing four retaining walls and bridge approach railings at sides of the bridge, and applying architectural treatments, including tree planting, to minimize visual and cultural impacts on the area.

Planning for the project began in 2012 and included approval of an environmental document and public meetings. Granite Construction of Vista won the public bid to perform the work.

Marshall Smith can be reached at marshall@towncrier.com.

In addition, the order mandates Cal Fire to launch a public information campaign to educate the public on actions they can take to help prevent wildfires, including the proper treatment of dead and dying trees. To carry out this effort, $1.2 million will be transferred to Cal Fire from the State Fire Prevention Fund.

Tom Lynch, Idyllwild Water District general manager, said later in the day, that he has seen the executive order and shared it with his board.

"I would also like to highlight the state's action in our newsletter to make sure the public is aware of these conservation mandates. I know that our customer base as a whole has made very good efforts at conservation and will continue to do so," he wrote in an email.

WORKING TOGETHER WE CAN PROTECT OUR COMMUNITIES, FOREST & PARKS

Since the year 2000, the Goldspotted Oak Borer (GSOB) has killed approximately 80,000 oak trees in San Diego County. In 2012 the invasive species was discovered in Idyllwild and to date the number of infested trees is only 61. This is due in part to the quick response of the Riverside County infested oak removal program, early detection by GSOB inspectors and cooperation of informed community members.

There are things we can do as property owners on the San Jacinto Mountain to contain and prevent further spread of this destructive pest.

On Saturday, April 18, 2015, representatives from the University of California, CAL FIRE/Riverside County Fire, the U.S. Forest Service and Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council will be holding a community meeting to provide information about what we can do the stop the spread of this invasive pest.

OUT LOUD

Like my friend, Lola, I enjoy cooking — just not for myself and/or Jack. I'm a social cook; I enjoy cooking with and for others, particularly family and friends.

Our family typically celebrates holidays around food and they sometimes culminate around a theme. For Easter, my daughter-in-law, Mandy, suggested a New Orleans theme — one she has wanted to try since she bought a cookbook in that city years ago.

The recipes in the book come from various restaurants and chefs in the city.

I picked out four recipes and went shopping. Her husband, my Navy son, and I prepped and cooked most of the dishes. His background as a chef means much finer and faster chopping, dicing and mixing.

We stopped between prepping to watch the grandkids hunt for eggs outside among the tulips and other flowers bloom on a spring day.

Zac and I went back to work.

Two of the recipes I've made before — Dirty Rice and Muffulettas — but from different recipes. And Jack and I indulged in a Muffuletta outside the Central Grocery (the originator of the sandwich) in N'awlins a few years back.

The Dirty Rice recipe I made before tasted much better than this one yet it was palatable.

The most wonderful dishes were Oyster and Artichoke Soup and Shrimp Bayou Laforche — rich, creamy and gorgeous. We nearly bathed in butter.

Zac and I hugged each other, grateful for being together and creating a wonderful feast for people we care about.

I weighed 2 pounds more the following day. Lucky for our family, cooking holidays come with enough time in between for us to recover.

AAI president avoiding the issues

EDITOR:

Mr. Kassouf of the Art Alliance does not speak for me in his letter rampaging against Shanna Robb — he is evidencing a belief in the best defense is a good offense argument.

Is he speaking for the entire AAI board when he engages in these offensive maneuvers? As an AAI member, I am ashamed. He has set aside the serious inquiries into the details of the AAI board's conduct to wage a hate campaign against the brave woman who stepped up to lead the inquiry. This hate-mongering is ugly; to my mind all he need do is answer the questions members have posed. What is the motive for such a personal attack against a woman who has been one of the Alliance's most productive volunteers?

Frankly, his letter reeks of obfuscation and it raises a question of my own: I'd like to know why the Art Alliance board declined to offer Shanna Robb a board seat only after she raised questions about finances? Why was she declined a seat on the board by roughly the same board which previously solicited her "repeatedly"? She had certainly earned the right to participate.

Mr. Kassouf speaks of slander and libel. Reading Shanna Robb's letter gave me no indication she was so engaged, but it seems the AAI board itself is coming close. Are they trying to drive Ms. Robb out of town; make her irrelevant? Why are they shooting the messenger rather than simply replying to the message?

The bottom line of the wealthy Art Alliance of Idyllwild seems it might be out of whack — why not just answer that question and stop abusing the heroine of the piece? All Ms. Robb has done as a dedicated, productive member has asked details to which all members should have access. Who makes a "viable candidate" for president anyway?

Really, all this noise causes me concern. The statement that Ms. Robb is a "lone ranger" is inaccurate. She is not alone in her concern. Mr. Kassouf may assert that all the issues are dealt with, but I personally have not been made aware of any such thing.

The annual meeting amply demonstrated that Shanna Robb is joined in her unease — this unrest is not representative of only one member. Believe it. The topic isn't going to go away until everything is out in the open where it needs be in all non-profit organizations.

ERIN O'NEILL BECK
IDYLLWILD

The members, not the board, are the Art Alliance

EDITOR:

Personally, I believe Shanna Robb would have made an excellent Art Alliance president. She has over and over demonstrated her exceptional ability, sound judgment and dedication to our association.

I have worked hard for the Art Alliance. I am a working artist fully participatory in the Alliance's events as much as my health has allowed, and I know and work with many members. I do not know Marc Kassouf.

In my personal experience, I know of no other member who has given more support to the Alliance than Shanna Robb in the last few years. I worked closely with her on the very successful Banner Project and she was always very concerned with the financial viability, responsibility and accurate accounting of that operation.

She is a fine woman who put her heart and soul in her projects, each of which was very successful. I hate the way she has been treated by my own organization's board. She has only been trying to make the Alliance even better.

I want everyone to know that Shanna is not alone in this. She is not a villain, not the bad guy; she is the whistle-blower, and maybe not even that. She is only the questioner, publicly the face of so many of my friends who are members of the Art Alliance who hate this. I've talked with a number of members who support Shanna's concerns.

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild is our organization, not the board's. We get to ask questions. We are entitled to more information. After all, it is our work, our talent, our contributions and our dues that have made it a financially viable organization. It needs to be answerable to us, the members. I think it suspicious that the board seemed to turn on Shanna only when she began to look more closely at its actions. Up to then she was golden.

Young bikers need training

EDITOR:

I was reading the article William wrote and I must say that if we change the age to get a license for motorcycles — which I don't disagree with — then we should change it for driving a car as well. Kids ages 16 to 21 have more crashes than adults.

Three of the last four crashes have been sport bikes. These bikes have way too much power and are not expensive to purchase. That tells me that the parents either buy them for their kid or help them with the purchase somehow.

I think that Thibodeaux should be treated no different than they would treat any person who crosses the double-yellow line, whether on a bike or in a car. I have had cars pass me on a double-yellow line when we have been out riding because they are impatient when I am going the speed posted.

I have seen cars weaving because the driver is texting or on the phone. What do we do about them?

Why did he cross the line? Was he speeding? Was there gravel on the road still because Caltrans had not cleaned it up yet? Was it a combination of things that caused it?

I think that if these kids want bikes they should have to go through a very extensive training course so they can be taught the right way, just like they have to do when learning to drive a car. This might at least educate these young kids.

The one thing you fail to point out is how many car crashes there are on the Hill. They are all caused by people who do not know how to drive the mountain roads.

We tell every biker who comes into our shop to please ride within your means and to stay on your side of the road. To please be safe. Please, we also need to ask the drivers of the cars not to tailgate a bike because if we have to stop, you will hit us from behind. We all need to respect one another on the road.

Corporate influences

EDITOR:

Last week saw the governors of two states back-peddling furiously regarding laws that would have allowed members of the LGBT community to be discriminated against.

What caused these two politicians to shift into reverse so quickly?

It wasn't letters from voters. It wasn't marches or demonstrations. It wasn't an election or a referendum.

No, what turned things around was threats of boycotts and pressure from large corporations.

A march of 3,000 people opposed to the law had little effect, but when Angie's List said it was considering not doing business in Indiana, Gov. Pence couldn't help but pay attention.

When Walmart's CEO, Doug MacMillon, made a single tweet opposing the legislation, Arkansas' governor, Asa Hutchinson, sat up and listened.

It's easy to think that we, the people, are powerless against mega-corporations that spend millions of lobbying dollars to shape our government to fit their corporate needs.

We should, no doubt, reverse laws that give corporations the right to influence our government, but until then, might we not be able to influence those corporations to use their power in a positive way?

How do we influence corporations when they answer only to their shareholders?

We influence them with every dollar we spend. If we threaten them with boycotts or other actions that affect their bottom line, they will listen.

They will pay no heed to a single person, of course. But in this day of social media and viral video, each of us has the potential to become a crowd.

The Mile High Radio Club plans several changes as it gradually assumes responsibility for operating WNKI, 1610 AM — the local emergency radio station. At the end of 2014, the Idyllwild Fire Protection District agreed to transfer WNKI operations to MHRC, which has begun implementing improvements.

An important step is to expand the coverage area for the station's signal. While some initial work has been done, Bill Tell, MHRC president, and Tom Pierce, MHRC, have prepared a grant application seeking funds to complete this work sooner. Their goal is to enable WNKI's signal to be received from Poppet Flats in the north to Pinyon Pines in the south.

An important upgrade will be new software to control the radio messages and signals, Tell said. Also, some hardware will be added. Both of these will improve the transmission of the messages.

New software will also enhance the club's ability to control the transmission and messages remotely. "We won't have to physically go to the station. It will all be internal connections," Tell said.

"Our strategic plan has a total of six phases. Phases 1 and 2 will take care of the primary site at IFPD along with test," Tell added.

MATTER OF FACT

In last week's "Business Changes" on page 16, the owner of Into the Woods was misnamed. Her name is Jay Muñoz, not Joy Muñoz.

In the story on page 18 about "Engaging Shaw," all play dates begin at 2 p.m., not 7:30 p.m., as was stated for the Saturday, April 18, event.

Town Crier regrets the errors.

Corporations do care. Take helpful Honda as an example. The ads are not about cars. Honda understands that having people like the Honda brand is more important than having people like Honda cars.

So continue to march. But remember that you are marching not to influence the politicians but, instead, to win the hearts and minds of we, the people.

Changes coming to WNKI

Not all of the hardware has to be brand new. Some used hardware is still state-of-the-art, but the perks are not necessary for an emergency station, both stressed.

"We can't be afraid of used equipment. There's almost no difference in performance. Its life expectancy is still about 30 years, so almost no down side," Pierce said, explaining how frugal the station upgrade will be.

They anticipate an efficient take over of the station operations and maintenance.

The plan for the ribbon network has already been discussed and tentatively approved by the county. "We just have to ensure our signal produces no interference for them," Pierce said.

The ribbon will be a series of repeaters to broadcast the signal without needing greater power from the transmission site in Idyllwild. This is how MHRC will be able to achieve coverage of the mountain from one end to other, Tell said.

"It's geographically challenging, but we'll implement it in a phased process," Tell said. "Each location will be tested. It won't be one powerful station, rather a distributed station." A site with all new equipment, antenna, cables and hardware will cost about $20,000. "But the like-new repeater-ribbon sites will come in at just under $11,000 per site with a 12-month warranty," Tell said in an email.

Further in the future may be plans for all digital transmission and two-way radio. "This would enable the use of documents or text messages through the amateur radio in crisis," Tell said. "And the antenna needs a little work for improvement," Pierce added.

The grant will be submitted to The Community Foundation of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties. The amount of the award will determine how quickly the various phases — there are six — can be implemented, according to Tell. "It's coming together; now all we need is the funding," Tell said. "Yes, we'll build a WNKI system that will require real radio skills," added Pierce.

Yes, continue to write your senator, but make sure you cc the CEO of X Inc. Let them both know that you and your crowd will be holding them accountable — the senator when you cast your ballot, the CEO when you swipe your credit card.

I would like to thank the Town Crier for the wonderful article on Dr. Richard Goldberg; moreover, I would like to thank the County of Riverside for honoring this noble gentleman. He is a large part of Idyllwild's treasury.

Dick Goldberg possesses kindness, caring and devotion to all he serves, all laced with and old world dignity and charm.

My Family and I hold him in the very highest regard and respect. And his skill and concern as a Physician has no equal. My fervent hope is Dick's future goals and dreams shall flourish everlasting.

County to post speed limit on Double View

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Riverside County Department of Transportation and Land Management has proposed establishing a speed limit on Double View Drive. A 25-mph limit, which could be enforced with the use of radar, would be in effect from McMahon Road to the end of Double View, about 1.6 miles.

This limit would be new. Although the county report states, "There is no speed limit currently posted on this stretch of Double View Dr.," a 25-mph limit is posted at the beginning of McMahon and two on Double View, about 100 feet in both directions from its intersection with Meadow Glen Drive.

The department conducted traffic surveys on the county-maintained road in summer 2014. According to the memorandum to the Board of Supervisors, who was asked to approve the limit at its April 7 meeting, "the majority of the motorists are already driving at or below the recommended speed limits."

25 mph speed limit signs will be posted along Doubleview Drive.

Agencies building staff to prepare for fire season

While fire officials remind Southern California residents that "Fire Season" is a 12-month period, nevertheless, spring typically escorts in a greater awareness of wild-fire threats.

Already this year, Cal Fire and the U.S. Forest Service are preparing for whatever may occur.

Riverside County Fire Mountain Division Chief Bill Weiser said transitional staffing begins next week.

"An additional engine will be staffed at Station 53 [Garner Valley]," Weiser said. "That will be a Cal Fire engine."

PCWD water-rate increase approved

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Directors of Pine Cove Water District unanimously approved a rate increase effective April 1. The advanced minimum rate will increase $4 to a total of $57 per billing period and water usage rates will increase 20 percent.

Users will see the new minimum rate on their April bills later this month. PCWD issues bills bimonthly. New usage rates will be applied to water consumption during April and May and appear on the June bills.

In a well-attended public hearing, customers both supported and opposed the district's proposal.

President Michael Esnard opened the hearing with a discussion of the district and the need for more revenue. PCWD finished fiscal year 2014-15 with an operating deficit, although property tax receipts and lease payments eliminated the cash deficit. Nevertheless, capital expenses were largely responsible for a declining cash reserve.

The two principal reasons for the needed increase, according to Esnard, are an increase in operating expenses, such as electricity, lab costs and pipeline, and the need to continue investing in capital improvements.

During the past two years, PCWD has installed more than 9,000 feet of pipeline. The staff has done the work at less cost than the use of a contractor, Esnard stressed. The value of this work is that PCWD does not have 70-year-old pipe, which might break or leak frequently, such as many bigger districts must constantly fix.

In addition, next year PCWD will have all of its storage tanks inspected for possible maintenance needs to extend their life expectancy.

However, in speaking against the rate increase, Pine Cove resident Norm Cassen attributed the increased costs to salary growth and perks for staff, such as health care and retirement benefits.

Since fiscal year 2012, the budget for salaries and benefits has increased from $410,000 to $470,000. Actual salary funding has increased a total of $22,000 in three years, less than 10 percent.

Cassen also claimed that Pine Cove customers are paying "twice as much as Idyllwild." However, salaries and benefits for both districts represent more than 50 percent of operating expenses.

In addition, the current minimum monthly cost at Idyllwild is $28, which is $56 every two months, comparable to PCWD's current rate of $53 every two months, which will increase to $57.

For 76 percent of customers, the average bill of $62 per billing period ($31 monthly) will increase $10.80, to $72.80 per billing period ($36.40 monthly) by the end of fiscal year 2017, according to Esnard. That is less than $70 annually.

Esnard explained that the majority of the water revenue is derived from the advanced minimum rather than the usage charges. "This is because we want the customers to share the cost of the infrastructure [necessary to provide the water] and the general maintenance independent of the water use," he said. "This is what makes it possible to turn on the faucet and get consistently good-quality water."

Also, the advanced minimum funds reduce reliance on water usage revenue, which can be variable, especially during droughts when customers are encouraged to conserve.

"We think it is a reasonable and modest increase given that water is an indispensable commodity," Esnard concluded.

Cassen felt the rate increase would be a burden on families with children and drive them out of the district. In his opinion, it was unfair to full-time residents since three-quarters of the customers are second-home and vacation renters.

Customer emails from part-time residents and another part-time resident at the meeting expressed concern about the minimum rate increase, since they use less water.

However, other customers, such as Marlene Pierce, Jeff Smith and Tim Lange, expressed appreciation, and complimented the service and water quality.

Smith highlighted a June 2013 Riverside County grand jury report on "Riverside County Water and Sanitation District, Compensation and Transparency." Not only was the total compensation for its general manager the lowest of the three Hill water districts, but the report stated, "If it could be said that there are any fiscal standouts among these districts, then perhaps they would be the Pine Cove Water District and Home and Gardens County Water District. The frugality previously displayed in their board of directors' compensation continues with their general managers. The general managers' compensation are significantly less than other, smaller-populated districts."

Cassen also objected to implementing the new rates immediately rather than some time in the future.

After closing the public comment period and holding a brief discussion, the board voted 5-0 to approve the increases effective April 1.

Free Hazardous waste collection scheduled April 25

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

California law currently prohibits residents from disposing of household batteries in trash. The regulations are in place because household batteries contain components that could be harmful when decomposition occurs. For a list of places near Idyllwild where household batteries can be regularly recycled without charge, see www.call2recycle.org/locator or www.earth911.com.

A more comprehensive free household hazardous waste collection is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, April 25. The Riverside County Waste Management Department will accept various household wastes, including electronic waste and household batteries, at the Idyllwild County Road Yard on 25780 Johnson Road (beyond the Idyllwild Fire Station).

Each load can't exceed 15 gallons of liquid or chemical waste, or a total of 125 pounds of solid items. Multiple trips are allowed, but the gallon and pound limit is per vehicle for each trip. If two people are in a vehicle, the limit is still only as previously designated. "This is for safety reasons," said Janet Moreland, Riverside County Waste Management recycling specialist. Containers must be marked and secured to prevent leaks. Containers holding gasoline will not be returned. There is no fee for collection of any permissible items on the two dates scheduled for Idyllwild in this calendar year.

The April 25 household hazardous waste collection event is for private households only, not for government, business, nonprofit or out-of-county hazardous waste.

Acceptable items include used oil and filters, latex/oil-based paint, fluorescent tubes/bulbs, pesticides, cleaners, barbecue and camp-size propane, aerosol cans, antifreeze, auto and household batteries, garden chemicals, pool chlorine, televisions and computers, electronic waste and sharps.

Unacceptable items include medical/infectious waste (except sharps), ammunition or explosives, asbestos, radioactive or remediation material, containers larger than 5 gallons or weighing more than 50 pounds, appliances, tires and trash.

The next Idyllwild hazardous waste collection is Sept. 26, but a similar hazardous waste collection will be held at the Pinyon Flats Transfer Station on May 16.

Grinding station open Tuesday and Saturday

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The hours of operation for the Idyllwild Grinding Facility will change soon. Although summer hours, including Saturdays, were to begin on May 2, the Riverside County Waste Management Department has recommended that its operation be cut back to two days per week — Tuesday and Saturday.

In 2014, its average usage declined to 69 tons and 105 customers monthly from a peak of more than 1,600 tons and 560 customers during 2004 and 2005.

WMD recommended to the Board of Supervisors, "Reducing operations to twice a week would allow revenue to more closely match expenses while still providing the remaining commercial customers with an outlet for their woody waste."

The decision to open on Tuesday and Saturday was based on a survey WMD conducted this winter. Grinding facility customers were asked, if operations were reduced, which days would be preferred to be open.

WMD also wrote, "Residents of the Idyllwild community who pay parcel fees for trash service under the Franchise Area 8 will continue to be able to use the Idyllwild Transfer Station at no charge."

Since the facility opened, WMD has subcontracted the grinding station. This contract will not be renewed and county staff will operate the facility.

Staffing

signed to the Hill, including another Cal Fire engine at Station 23 [Pine Cove]. For the summer and fall, RCFD will have 16 Type 3 engines available for this area.

"We'll be fully staffed by May 20," Weiser said.

The Forest Service has been reviewing summer hire resumes and expects summer temporary staffing to be available by the middle of May, according to Dan Felix, San Jacinto Ranger District fire officer.

The Vista Grande Hotshots and other engine crews will be fully available by early June following their mandatory training. At that time, all seven district fire stations will be staffed.

The Forest Service's helicopter stationed at Keenwild Helibase will be available the week of May 18, Felix added.

The Hemet-Ryan Air Base also is adding air tankers and helicopter resources.

While the fire agencies are preparing to control and eliminate fires, residents and visitors can do the most to help prevent or mitigate fire potential.

"I'd like to see everybody provide clearance around their structures," Weiser said. "Be fire wise."

IDYLLWILD WATER DISTRICT APRIL 2015 NEWSLETTER

IWD Mission Statement: To provide reliable water & sewer service in a safe, cost effective & environmentally sound manner in accordance with the community needs

THANK YOU

Average water usage is considerably lower in our District than for most of California. IWD customers and patrons understand and actively participate in perpetuating our ongoing conservation efforts. Governor Brown has directed the first ever statewide mandatory water reductions. He has mandated substantial water reductions across our state. This year California has had the lowest snowpack EVER recorded and no end to the drought is in sight. The Governor has directed the State Water Resources Control Board to implement mandatory water reductions in cities and towns across California to reduce water usage by 25%. The Idyllwild Water District has been managing their water resources to ensure that Idyllwild survives this drought. We are currently rehabilitating several wells and the IWD horizontal lines. IWD is focused on preserving and maintaining our precious resource. After long and deliberate consideration, the Idyllwild Water District called a Stage One Water Shortage Emergency in November 2012. As things became more severe, IWD called for a Stage Two Water Shortage Emergency in September 2013. Foster Lake, which supplies several of our wells and is used for fire-fighting when necessary, has been completely dry since June 2013. We also have not been able to divert water from Strawberry Creek since June 2013. It is appearing unlikely that we will be able to avoid declaring a Stage 3 Emergency much longer. Since IWD relies solely on rainfall and snowpack for our water, most customers are aware that they need to conserve where possible. Many of our customers took advantage when IWD gave $400 rebates for water saving front loading washing machines and $200 rebates for low flow toilets.

FOSTER LAKE — DRY SINCE JUNE 2013

The IWD Board and staff have been attending meetings regarding attaining funding for additional water development projects to ensure sustainability into the future. At this time, the prospect looks promising. We are also aggressively pursuing grant funding to rehabilitate many of our older, less productive wells to improve the well's performance in the future and attaining funding for a recycled water project. Some residents during the last drought bought "green" storage tanks for landscape irrigation using non-potable water. The planned recycled water project would provide a source for that irrigation water using water already on the hill!

We urge our customers to conserve water. Find out how at SaveOurWater.com. For more information on California's critical situation, please visit: <http://www.feelguide.com/2015/03/22/r-i-p-california-1850-2016-what-we'll-lose-and-learn-from-the-worlds-first-major-water-collapse/>

The next IWD Board meeting will be held on April 15, 2015 at 6:00 p.m. at the Idyllwild Water District Boardroom. We would welcome your attendance.

Seeking award nominees

For the fifth consecutive year, the Idyllwild Town Crier is requesting nominations for the annual Ernie Maxwell Community Spirit Award. Bring your nomination to the Town Crier office at 54405 N. Circle Dr., mail it to P.O. Box 157, Idyllwild, CA 92549, or send by email to becky@towncrier.com by May 15.

The honor is given to an individual or group who represents EMax's spirit of community and volunteerism. Prior awardees took actions that created a spark sufficient to bring others into the fray just as Maxwell did with his activities involving the environment.

The nomination information should provide the reason why the individual or group has been nominated. They should have demonstrated a tangible, perhaps physical, effect on the community. The Ernie Maxwell Scenic Trail is an example of accomplishment.

How long has your nominee been active in the community?

Provide a description of their volunteer contributions and accomplishments for the community.

And finally, can you show how these efforts have been adopted or expanded by the community?

The four previous awardees were the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council in 2011, Dawn Sonnier in 2012, Robert Priefer in 2013 and Annamarie Padula in 2014. A plaque in the Town Crier office lists the awardees' names.

Later, you will have an opportunity to vote for the top three 2015 nominees.

Off the Main Roads

BY HELENE LOHR, RIVERSIDE MOUNTAIN RESCUE UNIT

Nature's Soundscape ...

I was recently hiking a rugged mountain trail when I realized that a man was approaching from behind me. I realized this when he was still more than half a mile away, since the individual in question had obviously taken the advice to use his "outdoor voice" far too literally.

I prefer to think that he was not completely inconsiderate, but instead a person who had never had the chance to get more in tune with nature and see himself (and his voice) as part of her natural soundscape.

Much as the bright lights of the city obscure the flickering glow of stars, so, too, our modern sounds drown into oblivion the delicious lilt of nature's own subtler soundtrack.

Double-paned windows, while keeping us warm, isolate us from the sounds of nature. Leaf blowers, cars, jets and other engines of their ilk confound our ears and not so subtly assault our souls. So we compensate, by becoming ever louder ourselves, and listening even less to our surroundings.

The dance of sound through the wilderness tells a story millions of years old — the insistent mating calls of songbirds, the yip-yowling midnight rave of a coyote pack, a rolling wave of wind sweeping through the pines. Each of these sounds has a context, a "backstory," that long ago we used to know how to read.

Fortunately, these stories haven't been lost. Listening to nature is a skill that can be regained. Here's some play-centered suggestions to help you and any little ones you have in your life get back "in tune" with your natural soundtrack:

1. Take a bird (sound) bath: Ever have trouble telling the difference between a raven and a crow? Listen to their individual calls and there'll be no doubt.

Do a little research and find out what the common local birds are. The U.S. Forest Service Ranger Station usually can point you to some good birding resources.

Seen on Tahquitz Drive on Friday, this grand blue heron stalking a gopher. He shook off the dirt after plunging the ground with his beak. He missed.

Recordings of bird calls are generally available on Internet birding sites (or even in your smartphone App Store). Choose several for you (and any little tagalongs) to identify. Then take a walk and have at it.

2. Silence is a soundscape: Vegetation softens sound. Millions of little pine needles disperse sound waves in a jumble of directions, softening the edges of close sounds and deadening them over a distance. Hard, flatter surfaces such as rock will reflect the sound back more uniformly, keeping it crisper and more intact. (Anybody ever heard rock climbers on Tahquitz yelling to each other all the way in downtown Idyllwild?) Knowing this, what is the quietest space(s) you think you can find on our mountain? What would be the loudest?

3. All sounds have their place: Record the sound of your feet on the trail in different (unique) spots for segments of 10 to 20 seconds. Play them back.

Walking on gravel has a distinctly different sound than sandy soil, rock or pine duff. Who in your group can guess where you were at for each recording?

4. Can you be as quiet as a deer? There are a lot of ways to train children that their "outdoor voices" (and movements) shouldn't necessarily be loud ones.

One fun game is using a decibel meter (available at music stores or for free on your smartphone App Store). Try moving through the terrain and measuring the sounds you make.

Who in your group can talk the most quietly and still be understood? Who can move the most quietly? How fast or slow do you have to move? Are you louder in hard-soled boots, soft shoes or even barefoot?

This exercise helps kids (and adults) truly understand why choosing each step carefully is a natural part of a wild animal's life. Turn it into a game and reward points for the quietest traverse of a particular terrain.

So next time you're outdoors, stop for a moment to sit on a rock and stretch your ears out to hear. Nature's soundscape is a richly textured story, if only you care to listen.

Susan Lake, visual and theatrical artist, next for ICC Speaker Series

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Susan Lake creates fantasy worlds. She writes the stories and elaborately costumes the characters as collectible, ball-jointed dolls. With a background in visual and performing arts, as both a choreographer and costumer, Lake knows how to conjure and weave gothic tales of magic, the struggle between dark and light. And lifting the words from the page into 3-D creations, she designs costumes for character dolls that are available for purchase with her book series, "Goblins' Bend."

Lake is the next featured presenter for the popular Idyllwild Community Center Speaker Series. Series organizer Chris Singer said she is excited to be featuring Lake and is looking forward to a presentation that will be both unusual and amazing.

Lake said she will take her audience into a world of witches, magic hats, totems and a gathering Winter Solstice battle between good and evil in her talk and show, "Designing a World Imagined." Lake will read from her two-book series, "Goblins' Bend: The Legend Begins," and the sequel, "The Journey to Hollowberry."

Lake has built a career creating distinctive and detailed head-wear designs for theatrical and commercial use. As a respected choreographer of contemporary tango and stage performances, and as an internationally recognized design personality, Lake has imbued the pages of her books with her love of fantasy and magic. By giving life to the characters, using her talent for color, fabric and texture to elaborately costume collectible dolls, she lifts her stories from the page into dazzling reality.

For 10 years, Lake, a San Diego resident, has enriched the cultural life of her city as creator and artistic director of Tango Ball. Tango Ball is considered one of the premiere Latin cultural events and contributes to San Diego's reputation as an art and culture destination. As president of the World Council for Argentine Tango Events, Lake brought acclaimed tango artists to San Diego to intimately involve residents with the romance and beauty of the tango. She created Tangocentric, a unique experimental dance ensemble that enhanced the mystique of tango for San Diego audiences.

She brings that energy and inventiveness to Idyllwild with her ICC appearance. "Designing a World Imagined," begins at 6 p.m. Thursday, April 16, at Silver Pines Lodge. A wine and cheese reception precedes the event at 5:30 p.m. Both are free to the public.

Health care for local uninsured

A Riverside County Mobile Health Clinic brings free health care services to Idyllwild at Town Hall, usually the second Wednesday of every month.

The next event is from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, April 8.

Services include general medical exams, sick-child visits and health screenings for blood pressure, diabetes and vision.

These services are offered to people who do not have health insurance.

For more information, call 951-486-5765.

Salvation Army's free drug rehab

Salvation Army residential drug rehab programs are free for those with financial need. Most drug treatment programs have an element of spirituality, but few are as specific in their spiritual guidance as is the Salvation Army. Its message is based on the Bible.

The Salvation Army alcohol and drug rehab programs provide participants with a place to live, usually in shared living spaces, for six months or perhaps longer.

For help or more information, call 909-889-9605.

New rep at Juvenile Court

Voices for Children will now oversee the recruiting, training, and supervising of volunteers who are appointed by the juvenile court to advocate and speak up for abused and/or neglected children living in Riverside County's foster care system.

Founded in 1980, Voices for Children has been the court-appointed special advocate program for San Diego County since 1983. Voices for Children has entered into agreements with both the Superior Court of California, County of Riverside and the Judicial Council of California to provide Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) services to foster children in Riverside County.

The agreements extend to Sept. 30, 2015, and are renewable annually.

California law allows the Juvenile Court to designate an organization as its official CASA program. This designated CASA program gives volunteer advocates the ability to investigate an abused and/or neglected child's circumstances, develop a relationship with the child and make best interest recommendations to the Juvenile Court.

Idyllwild Death Café

Idyllwild Death Café is from 2 to 4 p.m. Wednesday, April 22, and Tuesday, April 28, at Spirit Mountain Retreat, 25661 Oakwood. It is limited to 12 participants. Register at 951-659-2523 or info@spiritmountainretreat.org. Call Francoise Frigola at 659-4146 for more information.

Meetings are the fourth Tuesdays and Wednesdays of each month except in December when they are on the third Tuesday and Wednesday.

Small donations cover coffee, tea, paper plates, napkins and plastic ware.

Free removal of junk vehicles

Can't get rid of that old car because you lost the paperwork? You were going to fix it, but never got around to it? Perhaps you don't have the money to have a tow truck pick it up or maybe you just want to remove the safety hazard and your neighborhood's eye sore?

As a public service of the Abandoned Vehicle Authority Program, property owners within unincorporated Riverside County can arrange to have the junk vehicle(s) removed from their property for free.

All you need to do is call your local Code Enforcement Office in San Jacinto at 951-791-3900 and complete a form.

Four Seasons Nursery, on Highway 243 across from the Shell station, reopened for the season on Friday, April 3, according to owner Lisa Shinkle.

And, just as many in town used the Easter weekend to plant flowers, Shinkle said she had put everything out on display over the weekend, just to pull it back in anticipation of snow and freezing temperatures.

"Normally we're open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.," said Shinkle.

TAX TIPS

BY STEPHEN
T. PEPPLER,
EA, CFP

Bogus IRS harassing calls

There has been a plague of phone calls by fraud artists posing as IRS employees and demanding money. Between 9,000 and 12,000 complaints about these phone scams are filed each week.

The scammer often threatens to arrest the victim if he or she doesn't pay immediately using a prepaid debit card or occasionally by cash in a meeting. Other threats include loss of driver's license or business license.

Several of my clients have received these calls, and then my wife actually received one last week. The caller was from a phone bank in another country and threatened to stop by if we didn't pay up.

If you receive such a call, just hang up. If they call back, hang up again. The IRS never initiates contact with a taxpayer by phone, email or text message. The IRS will never call about taxes owed without first mailing a bill. Nor will the agency require the taxpayer to use a specific type of payment, or ask for a credit or debit card over the phone.

If you wish to report the incident, call the treasury inspector general for Tax Administration TIGTA at 1-800-366-4484 or go to tigta.gov. Since 2013, some 3,000 victims have lost an average of $5,000.

If you receive any communication purportedly from the IRS or the Franchise Tax Board let your tax preparer know about it so he or she can determine its authenticity and make the appropriate response. Many people receive a notice and are intimidated so they just send off a check to the taxing agency. Many times the IRS or FTB computers have trouble matching up information on the tax return with their records and hence issue a proposed deficiency notice. Please have your tax preparer check to see whether the additional tax liability is valid.

With identity theft rampant, fraudsters calling or sending emails demanding you pay additional tax, and severe IRS cutbacks in telephone service, your tax preparer should be your first line of defense against anything suspicious going on with your tax accounts.

Deadline looms for refunds

An estimated 1.2 million taxpayers who did not file a state tax return for 2010 face an April 15 deadline for claiming refunds, the Franchise Tax Board announced. Statewide, unclaimed refunds total more than $160 million.

"This money belongs to taxpayers, and FTB wants to do everything possible to make sure they get it," State Controller and FTB Chair Betty T. Yee said.

Taxpayers may have missed out on claiming refunds because they made too little to require filing a tax return, even though they had taxes withheld from wages or made estimated tax payments. A return must be filed to qualify for a refund.

Current and prior-year tax forms are available at ftb.ca.gov. Click on the forms and instructions link. Taxpayers who only need to report W-2 wages and withholding can access the 540 2EZ form, fill it out online in minutes, and mail it to FTB.

Free income tax preparation

Riverside County Community Action Partnership offers the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program, free income tax preparation at 21 locations in Riverside County.

The IRS-trained and certified VITA tax preparers help tax filers claim the Earned Income Tax Credit, which is provided as an incentive by the federal government for those who are or were employed during that tax-filing period. Some working families or individuals could qualify for up to $6,143 in EITCs. A tax return must be filed in order to claim the EITC. Many individuals do not file tax returns because they do not owe taxes, but by failing to file they miss out on this money that is rightfully theirs. When claimed, EITC boosts household income up to 45 percent.

For working families or individuals making less than $52,427, free tax preparation is provided through the VITA program. Site location information is available by calling 211, 1-800-511-1110 or visiting www.capriverside.org.

Residential designer David Lilieholm sculpts space

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

"Architecture doesn't move," said Idyllwild residential designer David Lilieholm, "but the landscape speaks." His home designs reflect that conversation.

Lilieholm has lived on the Hill for 28 years and knows the contours and textures of the mountain well. He regularly hikes and climbs. He watches, listens, touches and feels the identity of the land through his hands and the soles of his feet.

The topography of the land of the homes he designs profoundly influences his design choices. "Engage the landscape," he advises. "Understand the life, the textures and intimacies of the land, particularly in Idyllwild where the land speaks so powerfully. It's why people come here."

As a result, his home designs all seem to have fluid aspects, such as solid sculpture that appears to move. In designing his own home on Double View Drive, Lilieholm wanted to create a tranquil, reflective area in the front of the home facing the street and open the living areas of the structure to the magnificent views to the west. "I wanted to frame the front in, separate it from the street and create a meditative living space," said Lilieholm. "The views to the west are so vast they don't have the same kind of quiet intimacy."

Sculpting to the contours and vistas of the site, Lilieholm designed three structures — an office, the primary residence and a guest house with space between each that opens to breathtaking distant mountain views (think Inspiration Point at sunset). And to best illustrate how, with his designs, solid structures can appear to move fluidly, Lilieholm hung white fabric from beams connecting the main residence to the guest house, complementing the views to the western vistas so that wind would always influence and define the space.

"A lot of people are here for inspiration," said Lilieholm. "That is so vital for one's life purpose and creativity. I create spaces in the structure and landscape that will increase that element of inspiration for people."

versity of Montana and a master's of architecture from the University of Utah in Salt Lake City. Immediately after graduation he and wife Val Velez came to Idyllwild to attend summer retreats at the Zen Mountain Center prior to moving to Uganda for a volunteer project. "But then Val became pregnant and we rethought our decision of moving to Africa," recounted Lilieholm. And even though both had reservations about staying in Idyllwild because there was no high school, they did stay and both children later went to Idyllwild Arts. "We lucked out because of coming for the Zen Center and again because of the education our children received at Idyllwild Arts," he said. "I think [IA] is such a profound presence in the town."

His home designs are deeply organic, seeming to grow out of the space. He uses materials that complement the textures of the mountain and landscapes that are native. "Idyllwild is so rare and precious," said Lilieholm. "It's all about the people who are here and what inspires them. They bring something to this place that elevates the culture."

And that is what Lilieholm does with his designs. He interacts with the mountain and sculpts the space. "My goal is to collaborate with clients to create an integrated design of house and land, expressing and combining the unique power of each site with the clients' unique sheltering desires," he said.

Live webcams of wildlife

Anyone interested in viewing local wildlife may enjoy visiting the live cameras online at the James Reserve.

They feature nest boxes for various species such as Western bluebirds. This provides the scientists the opportunity to eavesdrop on the nesting behavior of the species using the boxes.

The most common species to use the boxes is Western bluebirds but violet-green swallows and chickadees use them, too. View these at james.ucnrs.org/nestbox-webcams/.

What's wild in Idyllwild? ...

BY ASSISTANT DIRECTOR JOHN LAUNDRE

We live in a forest sanctuary on the Hill, a sky island that we, and many wild animal species, call home. Animals typically roam around in particular locations within these mountains. This specific area is their home range or territory. In the woodland habitat that surrounds Idyllwild, the boundary between the natural and built environments becomes very blurry, especially with many homes backed up against large expanses of national forest land. Like people, who are often unaware of crossing county or even state borders, our local wildlife also often crosses invisible boundaries between urban and wild places, seamlessly traveling back and forth between Idyllwild and the wilderness that surrounds it. Who visits our backyards? How often do they visit? Keep reading—what we're about to show about your own neighborhood might surprise you.

Camera trapping—a window into the wild:

In an effort to document some of the common and not-so-common wildlife species in the human-inhabited parts of our Pine Cove and Idyllwild, the James Reserve elicited the help of several locals. We placed motion activated trail cameras in the yards of their homes and businesses. These motion-detecting cameras record photos of animals and record the date and time of day of the photo, which can lend us insights into the habits of our local wildlife. The cameras were deployed for more than a month. Here is our report on the footage of the cameras at our 4 locations in town.

As different as day and night

Many of the species trapped on camera are active during the daytime (diurnal) and familiar to Idyllwilders. The bulk of photos from our cameras revealed the usual suspects, including squirrels, rabbits and birds. Robins, Steller's jays, Spotted towhees, and Dark-eyed juncos were common birds. More unusual were migrating White-crowned sparrows. One of the largest and most common birds in one local backyard was our charismatic state bird, the California quail. Western gray squirrels were the most common mammal to be photographed, conspicuous in nearly all frames on all the cameras we set out. Less common were their ground dwelling cousins, the California ground squirrel.

After the sun goes down, things can get interesting. The night or nocturnal animals are not often seen by people, so it is after dark when the trail cameras can most enhance our abilities to track wildlife. Our cameras rewarded us with some fascinating and surprising glimpses of Idyllwild. Counter to our expectations, deer and even coyotes, are not as common as you might predict. But along with raccoons, they are no strangers to Idyllwild. Interestingly, the most common nocturnal mammal photographed in one area, the gray fox, is perhaps a species that most people overlook.

Another surprise is the bobcat, showing up in two different areas. In fact, the bobcat was photographed 34 times over 11 different nights of the 38 days of filming. What was the biggest surprise? It was the money shot of a mountain lion. This animal was caught moving along Strawberry Creek on its way to higher elevations.

What have the cameras taught us?

Some species happily coexist with the human residents of Idyllwild. From the smallest birds to the largest mammals, in some cases at least, local wildlife is finding it easy to settle down in and around Idyllwild. This is in large part due to the acceptance and tolerance of the human citizens of town for these species in our midst. Our window into the natural world reminds us what it is that makes Idyllwild an extraordinary place to live in. Hopefully, Idyllwild will always make room for the wild animals that pass through or live in our town, and in doing so, we will be able to keep the “wild” in Idyllwild.

Documenting what is wild in Idyllwild is the first step in understanding the wildlife of town. The next step is to get some idea of just how abundant many of these more elusive animals are. To monitor abundance of local wildlife, we would like to solicit the help of others in town that might be interested in seeing what is in their backyards. If you would like us to come and put a camera in your yard, please contact us at the James Reserve (john.laundre@ucr.edu). Thanks to Idyllwild locals Megan McIntyre, Larry Donahoo and Chris Singer for helping us capture the footage used in this article.

Career week during spring break

BY WENDY WATTS
TOWN HALL DIRECTOR

We hope to bring extra fun to each school holiday break. This year we had a "What do you want to be when you grow up?" theme.

Monday started off with Todd Hoggan, a wildlife biologist. He brought with him several different animals to share.

Then Tuesday, Susan Righetti with the Idyllwild Library came to share with the kids about what it is like to be a librarian. And volunteer LuAnn Drury read "The Haunted Library" to the kids. They also played a game of Library Bingo where the kids won prizes. At the end, the special guests passed out books and In 'N' Out burger gift certificates.

On Wednesday Katie White, owner of Idyllwild Bake and Brew, came to tell the children about being a baker.

"I became a baker because I like cake," she joked as she was preparing frosting for the cookies. The kids got to color their own frosting for egg- and bunny-shaped creations. This day, like the others, were open to the entire town so kids that may not have gone to Town Hall had a chance to enjoy the fun.

Dr. Jennifer Gee, of the James Reserve, shows a quail to Evelyn Johnson during spring break at Town Hall. PHOTO BY WENDY WATTS

Then, Thursday, Jennifer Gee came to share her career. She is a scientist with the James Reserve who specializes in quail. She shared a taxidermy quail with the children which impressed them.

On Friday, Lucianna LoPresto shared what it is like to teach yoga. Her daughter, Anna Lucia, helped show the kids several yoga poses.

We think everyone had a good time and once again and we appreciate all the local business people who were so gracious to help us out. We hope this gave the kids and their families an idea of what possibilities are here on the Hill, and that you can do anything you want if you put your mind to it.

Town Hall staff members Amanda Johnson, Rebekah Swanlund-Cabello and Leanne Isaac helped with this article.

CONTEST JUDGE

New rule: I try my best, but I'm getting entries in so many different forms it's possible that I may fail to assemble them all on drawing day. So, if you show me that I missed your timely entry, I will include an extra entry for you in the hat the following week only. OK, by my count, six of you correctly identified the thrift store's rooftop on Highway 243, which was the old firehouse up until 1985. Correct entries came from Katie Holldber, Teresa Lease, Warren Rabe, the Jeff Smith family, Merrie VonSeggern and the Josh White family. Dolores Sizer was busy-busy, so a Town Crier visitor was good enough to draw a name out of the hat: the Josh White family. They win two adult tickets to Shane Stewart's Rustic Theatre. So now have a look at this week's photo.

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

Steele top-25 at Houston

By JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele scored his sixth top-25 performance in 12 tournaments this season at the Shell Houston Open last week. The Idyllwild native carded an 8-under-par 71-67-73-69 — 280 and earned 41 more FedExCup points, making 624 thus far this season. He climbed to 26th place in the FedExCup rankings.

Steele also topped the $1 million mark in official earnings for the year.

He found 62.5 percent of the fairways last week with drives averaging 299.8 yards, the longest being a whopping 361-yarder. He hit 70.83 percent of the greens in regulation.

He required 1.745 putts per green, and he dropped prodigious putts on several holes during the tournament, including from 49, 35, 33 and 19 feet and three 17-footers.

I no longer report "strokes gained" either putting or tee-to-green, since the PGA Tour's own webpages do not come close to agreeing on strokes gained putting — and strokes gained tee-to-green are derived from that stat.

Steele will be off this week.

Local authors win top awards

STAFF REPORTER

Joanne Bischof and Kara Swanson, local Idyllwild writers, received major awards at the March 27 through 31 Mount Hermon Christian Writers Conference.

Top award, Writer of the Year, went to Bischof for her body of work, and high school student Kara received Most Promising Teen Writer Award, for her debut fantasy novel, "Pearl of Merlydia" (Entrust SourcePublishers.com 2014) co-written with Charis Smith.

Held at the Mount Hermon Christian Camps and Conference Center near Santa Cruz, the 46th-annual conference offered 36 workshops, concentrated study in fiction and nonfiction writing, and mentoring for intermediate writers. Among the nearly 300 participants from the U.S. and Canada were 52 faculty and resource team members from a variety of Christian publishing houses and magazines, plus book agents and several New York Times best-selling authors.

Bischof, author of what she calls "heartfelt fiction," is best known for her historical romances set in the hills of Appalachia. She is a Christy Award finalist, one of the highest honors in Christian publishing.

Bischof taught a variety of different fiction techniques at conference workshops and also mentored new writers in what was called a "headstart writers' track." Conference faculty nominated writers for the various awards and a panel of professional agents made the selections.

Bischof had attended the conference once before but said this was the first time she had been asked to be on the faculty.

She said she was very surprised at receiving the award. "I was so caught up in what I had been doing for the conference I had lost track of what was coming," she said. "I was amazed."

Bischof's newest book, "To get to you" (Mason Jar Books, 2015) marks a departure for her. "It's contemporary, not historical, and is a road trip book — a professional surfer father and an estranged son," she noted. "I'm currently polishing it."

CREATURE CORNER

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

Update: Griffin is in a trial/foster home. Give them your smile, Griffin. Hope it works.

ARF has two dogs that were found, in a foster home. They were running between the transfer station and here. No collar, no tags, no chip. Female white Lab-mix, and male Chihuahua-mix. If you have any information, please call 951-659-1122.

Buddy is a 3-year-old husky/shepherd-mix. He is such a sweet boy and so eager to learn. Bring a leash and take a stroll with this guy. Or even better, he would love a ride in the car. He loves to play, enjoys children and adults, but is not too keen on the feline crowd. ARF will provide training to his adopter. Buddy is a true lover of the outdoors, but enjoys being near his human at night, after a little play time, of course.

Tommy is in his favorite spot ... lounging in the sun in the outdoor cattery. Yes, he's a big boy ... but so gentle. He can often be found napping, with one eye open always checking out the birds. He is about 3 years old, very mellow with other felines, OK with dogs, and loves humans.

We also have Mr. Grey, Mrs. Magoo, Whiskers, and Pepper. And several dogs on our website available through assisted adoption.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. There is also a link for Facebook. All pets are spayed, neutered and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sundays.

Everyone invited to potluck

Art Alliance of Idyllwild is holding its annual Community Social Potluck Dinner from 5:30 to 8 p.m. Saturday, April 11, at Town Hall. Everyone is invited to attend. There is no admission fee and you don't have to be an AAI member to attend.

"We invited anyone in the community to attend this social event to meet new neighbors, enjoy good conversation and share some wonderful food," said Marc Kassouf, president of the local nonprofit organization. "All we ask is that everyone bring some food to share — just bring enough to feed eight people of your choice for an appetizer, side dish, main dish, salad or dessert."

Because of space limitations at Town Hall, AAI is asking everyone to pre-register on its website at www.artinidyllwild.org/event-1842105 and be sure to include the number of guests attending with you, as well as the type of food you will be bringing. AAI also reminds attendees that Town Hall does not allow alcoholic beverages. "AAI will have bottled water and a variety of soft drinks available for a small donation," Kassouf added.

HOROSCOPES

April 2015 — Week 2

March 21 – April 19

Come off it, Aries. You blew it, and you know it. Confess your crimes, and all will be forgiven. A message is delivered but not in the way expected.

April 20 – May 20

Uh-oh, Taurus. A loved one is on a crash course with disaster, and there is nothing you can do about it. A youngster asks an important question.

May 21 – June 21

Yes, you can, Gemini. You wouldn't have been asked if you couldn't. Be confident in your abilities and take the plunge. Travel plans hit a snag.

June 22 – July 22

They will come if you invite them, Cancer. Go ahead and have that little get-together that's been on your mind. There's so much to catch up on.

July 23– August 22

You can dish it out, but can you take it, Leo? You'll find out very soon when an old pal drops by for a visit. A cooking disaster paves the way to a handy purchase.

August 23– September 22

Seriously, Virgo. You know better, so why are you even considering someone else for the job? Choose the person most qualified, even if you don't quite jive with them.

September 23– October 22

Career concerns move front and center this week. You can no longer afford to ignore that which you have known for some time. Speak up, Libra.

October 23– November 21

Sassy Scorpio. Words come easily to you and often get you into trouble, but not this week. You know just what to say to make an impact.

November 22– December 21

You're a generous soul, Sagittarius, sometimes too generous. Before you offer to help a friend this week, make sure the request is legitimate.

December 22 – January 19

Rats, Capricorn. A review of a report reveals a major error. Fix it right then and there before you-know- who sees it. Finances improve with careful spending.

January 20 – February 18

Slow down, Aquarius. You've been so focused on one area of your life that you are dropping the ball in others. Take time out to see the big picture and make a to-do list.

February 19 – March 20

You can be quite the risk-taker, and this week it pays off, Pisces. Celebrate with a night on the town with your closest friends. A contract is completed.

Every day throughout the United States, newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals, families, neighborhoods and businesses. Public notices cover many topics, including business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, local government finances and state and local elections. Public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

Two announcements for Assembly District 71

By J.P. CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Assemblyman Brian Jones, who represents the 71st District that includes Idyllwild and Anza, has begun his third term. California law restricts him to three terms.

Last week, he announced his intent to seek the state Senate seat for the 38th District, which is largely in San Diego County. Jones has already assembled a campaign committee,

"Jones for Senate 2018" for his anticipated race.

"When one door closes, another one opens," Jones wrote to his constituents in an email. "In 2018, the current state senator representing the 38th District, Joel Anderson, will also be termed out. It's my intention to run for that open Senate seat at that time — or sooner, if it becomes available before then."

Of his tenure as an assemblyman, Jones said, "[It] has been the honor of a lifetime, and I'm proud of what I've been able to accomplish so far in Sacramento."

The line to replace Jones has begun to form.

Last week, Randy Voepel, mayor of Santee in San Diego County, announced his campaign to succeed Jones as the representative of the 71st AD. In March 2014, Michael Harrison of Ramona and deputy chief of staff for Congressman Duncan D. Hunter announced his intention.

In Voepel's announcement, he wrote, "As mayor of Santee since 2000, I've worked hard to build a strong record. Specifically, my tenure as mayor has been a demonstration of how conservative policies can work at a local level.

"As your Assembly member, I'll continue to serve as a strong conservative voice," Voepel concluded. "While California continues to slide into the liberal abyss, it's now more important than ever that we have leadership willing to stand up for free-markets, low taxes and the Second Amendment."

Harrison has already lined up the endorsement from several current and former Republican California congressmen and prominent San Diego County Republican officials.

In his announcement last year, he wrote, "The reason for our difficulties in California is not a mystery. Over-reaching regulations, high taxes and an unfavorable business climate create economic uncertainty and are driving good people and good businesses away. It's that simple."

In the November election, Jones handily defeated fellow Republican Tony Teora, 70 to 30 percent. Nearly 42 percent of the district is registered Republican, while only 28 percent of voters are registered Democrats.

Obituary

Pamela Maureen Sharp

1947-2015

It is with sadness that Pamela Sharp's family announce her death after a valiant battle and long illness, Easter Sunday, April 5, 2015.

She was born at Sister's Hospital in Santa Cruz, California, June 1, 1947, and christened Pamela Maureen Sharp, the second girl to Jack M. Sharp, MD and Phoebe C. Sharp. Their father, a practicing physician in Santa Cruz, moved there after World War II. One of his specialties was as an obstetrician so he may well have been there for her birth.

Pam had an idyllic childhood with much of her early childhood spent with four siblings at the family's ranch in Corralitos. There, she could have the run of the 200 acres, apples and plums and ride her bike down the long private road. She learned to shoot from her Dad, and occasionally rode horses.

Pam graduated from Santa Cruz High School and was usually on the honor roll. After high school, she attended Santa Barbara University. She married while in school and had two daughters, Gwin and Elizabeth. She took time out from school to raise her daughters.

Pam worked for different physicians and at Dominican Hospital, Santa Cruz, the same hospital where her father and now her brother, Roland, practices. As her dream was to be a registered nurse, she graduated from nursing school at Hartnell College in Salinas, California.

Pam moved from California to Missouri taking her two small girls and furthered her education attending Central Methodist College in Missouri and graduating as a nurse practitioner. She bought an amazing piece of sacred land in Missouri with a rock quarry and forests. She loved her land, swimming in the quarry on hot Missouri summer days, hiking in the woods and watching the birds. She loved animals and felt her land was their untouched refuge.

As her girls became independent, her love of California drew her back to Santa Cruz and Capitola, eventually settling in Idyllwild, where she dedicated her nursing skills to providing compassionate health care to the residents.

Both of her daughters graduated from college, having the same thirst for education of which she was proud. She returned to the Midwest, spending time with her grandson Quinn. Being the first person to care for Quinn aside from his parents, a strong loving bond developed between the two of them. He called her "Nana" and she loved him as dearly as he adored her. Once Quinn reached age 10 she returned to the Idyllwild community with her nursing expertise. She genuinely cared for every patient and was dearly loved by them. She had a very wonderful sense of humor that her patients adored. She was the epitome of a free spirit.

Her father and her mother predeceased her. She leaves four sisters and brothers, Barbara Sharp (Jay) Buckert and Diana G. Sharp, both of Washington, Roland C. (Rosy) Sharp, MD, of California, John F. Sharp, of Wisconsin; her two loving daughters, Pamela Gwin Coleman and Elizabeth Theodora Bryan; and her darling little grandson, Quinn Tyler Bryan. Her daughters came from the Midwest and cared for her while she was ill. She also leaves many nieces, grandnieces and a grandnephew. Pam knew all her cousins and had a special and close relationship with all of them.

In lieu of flowers the family would like people to donate to the Lung Cancer Society or a charity of their choice.

Pam will be interred in Victoria, British Columbia, at Ross Bay Cemetery, beside her mother and grandmother. A memorial service will be held there on her birthday.

For those that knew this kind spirit in Idyllwild, a memorial gathering will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Saturday April 11, at the home of Pete and Suzy Capparrelli, 53700 Idyllbrook Drive, Idyllwild. Please stop by to hear and share memories of Pam.

"We've been from Blythe to Temecula" said Jose Arballo Jr., senior public information specialist for the DPH. "It's great to go across the county and learn what we can do."

Members of the DPH, the county Emergency Preparedness Response team and the Epidemiology Bureau will be present to hear community thoughts and suggestions.

The comments and recommendations from all 17 sessions, as well as the survey, will be used to prepare an assessment report, which will be made available to county officials and the public.

Thus, three topics have been frequently mentioned. The first is general access to medical facilities, including transportation. The second is similar, but more specific. People have also expressed a need or desire for greater access to mental-health resources.

The third comment, which DPH has heard often, related to the organization and availability of various health resources.

"I don't know whether this means just a list or something else; what platform we could use, such as a flier, paper or electronic, like a website, or more general availability," Arballo said.

DPH will have a survey form available at the session, but for those unable to attend it can be found online at www.surveymonkey.com/s/SHAPE_WEB_ENGLISH, which can be accessed from the DPH site, www.rivcoph.org/CommunityForums.aspx.

More than 1,000 people have taken the survey online, the public forums have drawn many attendees, but the individual sessions are usually less than 30 people, according to Arballo.

"But the people who show up are very enthused," he said.

Oak borer

Riverside County Fire Department Forester Gregg Bratcher will be at the meeting to discuss the current status of local tree removal. Also, his predecessor, Kevin Turner, currently with the University of California, Riverside, Cooperative Extension program, will discuss the status of current research on GSOB habitat.

As of late March, 62 local oaks have been confirmed with GSOB infections, according to Bratcher. Although the expansion has slowed, which is good compared to the infestation and attack in San Diego County, the GSOB presence is "getting worse," according to Scott.

The county has been concerned about the presence of the GSOB on the Hill since its identification in 2012. Third District Supervisor Chuck Washington has continued the policy of his predecessor, Jeff Stone, requesting his colleagues to renew a declaration of emergency because of the bark beetle and GSOB infestations.

"Based on the past seasons, we will look for unusual leaf characteristics, such as size or lack of leaves," Bratcher said.

Also, Scott hopes to recruit more volunteers for oak tree inspections. Since the GSOB's first identification on the Hill, the MCFSC has trained individuals to identify suspicious trees, which experts such as Turner and Dr. Tom Scott, also of UCR, examine for GSOB presence.

"Even if they are only willing to examine their trees and their neighborhood, we need the help," Scott said. "I'm hoping to see the community ready to roll up its sleeves."

Bus pass

the department," and places "... a heavy burden on families ... even a greater inconvenience for outlying families."

During the 2014-15 school year, the board requested a proposal to eliminate bus pass fees and provide more home-to-school bussing.

Also, the staff recommended reducing the distance from a school for eligibility for bus transportation. The department will review the effect of reducing the distance and may reduce it further for school year 2016-17.

Overall, the proposal will cost the district

$750,000. Transit busses cost $165,000 each; $60,000 annually is needed for the driver, maintenance, fuel and support services. But the costs will come from the revenue HUSD collects providing transportation services to other districts, such as San Jacinto and Perris.

The history of the bus pass began in the early 1980s when the California Supreme Court ruled that regular home to school transportation was not a "right" guaranteed under the state Constitution. Eventually, HUSD instituted a fee-based system in 1992 in an attempt to offset the cost of providing home-to-school transportation.
