Mischief, mayhem and magic on Halloween

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

"Shadows of a thousand years rise again unseen, Voices whisper in the trees, 'Tonight is Halloween!'"

-- Dexter Kozen

In the small village of Idyllwild, Halloween occupies a large place in the yearly calendar. Celebrations bring young and old, two-footed and four-footed residents together in a festive family oriented holiday. Some of the celebrations are unscripted with a loose and zany impromptu feel, such as the parade down North Circle. Costumed adults, children, dogs and cats dance, prance and paw down North Circle beginning at 4:15 p.m.

This year, with Halloween falling on Saturday, there will be no curfews of work or school to interfere with children seeking sweets or adults attending ghoulish gatherings or rousing revels.

Also, for the first time this year the

HELP Center preparing for rain, flooding, cold

By JP CRUMRINE

With the approaching El Niño weather, Colleen Meyer, executive director of the Idyllwild HELP Center, and Skye Zambrana, client services administrator, are concerned whether the center's clients and elderly local residents will be prepared for the rains and potential flooding.

"We're trying to deal with the whole person, not just an isolated situation. We want to keep the sense of crisis down, people can reach out to us," Meyer said. "This is a place to come and get information and help regardless of whether you're a client."

Sandbags for their clients is one issue they are addressing, but from their own experience trying to fill a sandbag (it requires at least two people), Meyer expressed dismay, "How do elderly clients lift sandbags?"

For the impending winter cold, blankets and jackets will be available, Meyer stated.

Fire department seeking more money

Tax measure and real estate inspections two sources

The Finance Committee of the Idyllwild Fire Protection District is planning to recommend details for a new tax measure to the district's commissioners in November.

While specifics on the amount to be requested were not available, the committee is preparing to justify and promote the idea.

Committee Chair and Commissioner Nancy Layton said, "We have no details yet, ... The goal for [the committee] and for any friends of Idyllwild Fire is to assist with promoting the measure. We'll inform the public why it's needed, who we are and present issues in a way the people understand what they're voting on."

At the September commission meeting, President Jerry Buchanan raised the question of forming an ad hoc committee to develop a strategic plan for the district. He asked Commissioner Rhonda Andrewson, who volunteered to serve on the committee, to draft a proposal, which would be discussed at the October meeting. This item is on the agenda for the

Sen. Stone urges Californians to buy flood insurance

With heavy rains forecast, the time to prepare is now

With an El Niño predicted for the coming months, Senator Jeff Stone, along with the Federal Emergency Management Agency, is urging Californians to purchase flood insurance now, even if they live in areas that have not flooded previously.

Four years of drought have left California with dry, hard-packed soil that is unable to absorb large amounts of rain. The runoff from heavy rains can and will cause extensive damage.

"We have already seen the kind of devastation an El Niño can cause when heavy rain led to cars being covered with mud and closing Interstate 5 earlier this month," said Senator Stone. "This summer one heavy shower destroyed a bridge on Interstate 10 in Desert Center."

To find out more and obtain information about purchasing flood insurance, FEMA has established the website: www.FloodSmart.gov.

You can also link to that site from the Senator's website: www.Senate.Ca/Gov/Stone.

"Now is the time to prepare your home or business for heavy winter rains," Senator Stone said. "And, if you don't already own it, the time to buy flood insurance is now."

Here are a few "Flood Facts" from FEMA:

- Just a few inches of water from a flood can cause tens of thousands of dollars in damage.
- A car can easily be carried away by just 2 feet of rushing water.
- New land development can increase flood risk, especially if the construction changes natural runoff patterns.
- Most standard homeowners insurance does not cover flooding.
- In most cases, it takes 30 days after purchase for a policy to take effect, so it's important to buy insurance before the storm approaches and floodwaters start to rise.

Stop signs were added at the north end of the construction on Highway 243, across the street from Arriba Mexican Restaurant. The stop signs were added by Caltrans after a car exiting the Idyllwild Trailer Park was nearly hit by a car coming through the one way north lane on Highway 243. Now all cars will have to stop at the end of the barricade before proceeding north on 243 or Maranatha or turning right onto Upper Pine Crest.

Two collisions on Hill roads

Six children transported in one incident

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Two traffic collision incidents occurred on Hill roads recently, according to California Highway Patrol Public Information Officer Darren Meyer.

Both resulted in injuries. In one incident, six children had to be transported for medical treatment. On Sunday, Oct. 25, Wilkena Jackson, 31, of Moreno Valley, was driving a blue 2004 Ford Expedition on Highway 243 at 12:05 a.m. when, for reasons she could not explain, she lost control of her vehicle and collided with the mountainside, just south of Mt. Edna Road. No other vehicles were involved.

Six minor children, all under age 12 required transport to the Riverside County Regional Medical Center with neck and back pain. Jackson was uninjured. Seat belts and car seats were in use at the time of the collision.

A second injury collision involved two vehicles and a trailer. William Parsons, 67, of Nuevo, was driving a white Dodge truck on Highway 74 around 11:25 a.m. Friday, Oct. 23, pulling a trailer. Michelle Wallace, 27, of Hemet, was driving a silver 2000 Toyota 4 Runner. Parsons pulled into a turnout to allow faster-moving traffic to pass him. In re-entering the highway, he pulled directly into the path of the Toyota driven by Wallace. The vehicles collided and the Toyota overturned. Parsons was uninjured. Wallace was transported to Riverside County Regional Medical Center with moderate injuries.

Years ago in Idyllwild

Activities were different, people were still a community

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

In 2015, Hill residents are wondering whether the fabled El Niño will deposit any snow or just rain. Fifty years ago, locals jumped off buildings into snow piles, enjoyed a small ski run, and could sled ride from Humber Park to Idyllwild School and continue from the Blue Bird Motel to Mountain Center.

These were a few of the stories that four long-time residents shared at Saturday's panel discussion, which the Idyllwild Area Historic Society sponsored.

Pat Boss's family arrived in Idyllwild in 1945 and ran the local hardware store where Village Hardware is today. He talked about living in the upstairs apartment. During the winter, he and his brother would jump from the balcony into 5-foot-deep snow piles below.

Boss and Marge Muir described the ski run, on Marion View Drive, which had a tow rope to pull skiers up the small hill so they could ski back down.

After snowstorms, plowing roads was much less efficient than today. Traffic was much less frequent, too. So kids would coax a ride to the Encino Road, which was at the end of Fern Valley Road (before Humber Park existed), attach a flashlight to their sleds and with a push, glide all the way to Idyllwild School.

But the real excitement and fun began with a short walk up to the Blue Bird Motel. There, they began another sled ride all the way to Mountain Center. Of course, a few parents followed this sled caravan in trucks so everyone could return home for hot chocolate (or schnapps), according to Boss.

But late afternoon sled rides and ski tows are not the only differences from 21st century Idyllwild. Becky Atilano, who moved here with her husband and twin daughters in 1964, Muir and Boss also described the entertainment center in town.

Before The Fort, a bowling alley, a swimming pool, a miniature golf course and a popular restaurant with a soda bar were located on that site.

"Luau's were held all the time there," Boss said.

The Carriage Inn, a restaurant, was very popular, said Atilano, whose husband was the chef. Regular staffing included 23 waiters and waitresses. "It employed a lot of locals," she said proudly.

The restaurant had a soda fountain for the kids. Across the street where JoAn's is now was Eleanor Park, where Atilano's twins spent many afternoons after school playing.

In 1957, Muir, now a Pine Cove realtor, and her family moved here. They lived in a small cabin while building their house. When she went to the phone company to install a phone, the answer was, "Maybe in two years." Eventually, they got that phone after much planning, such as moving into the uncompleted house.

Muir also discussed how she got the school district to provide bus service for Pine Cove students. "They said, 'We have a bus if you'll drive it,'" which is what she did, even in the snow.

After one snow fall, she and a friend encountered a visitor in the local grocery store. While discussing the hazards of driving in the snow, the visitor said, "I can only drive in Southern California." Muir replied, "You're in Southern California."

Other local entertainment included fishing in Strawberry Creek, which was very popular with the kids, Muir said.

"There was always something for kids on Halloween, too," she added.

For adults, apparently there were slot machines at the lodge in the KwikSet camp, according to Boss and Muir.

Bob Smith, an IAHS director, discussed his summers at his grandfather's cabin in Pinewood. While he and his wife Adele moved here in 2001, he has been visiting the Hill since 1939. Since 1925, his family has had a cabin, which dates to 1878 and the lumber camp at Fuller Mill. Originally bought in the early 20th century for development, it became a family retreat for decades. They swam in a stream, slept in tents and spent evenings talking and playing board games around the campfire.

Despite the growth and new technology, all the reminiscences were of good friends and neighbors.

"The little things in a small town make it special," Atilano said.

When Strawberry Plaza was being built, many locals protested the new development. A plan was formed to boycott the businesses in the plaza, according to Muir. But one of the first facilities to open was the Post Office, "and everybody had to go there," she added.

As a realtor, Muir says many visitors and homebuyers tell her that they feel in love with the community, and she replies, "You really missed it. People are so wonderful."

And Boss said, "The town really banded together, like it still does."

OUT LOUD

Does the Hill really need a newspaper?

A newspaper is “a community watchdog that reports the bad with the good, warns of danger, advises of opportunity, challenges authority, praises accomplishment, investigates irregularity, marvels at art, exposes abuse, celebrates life and publishes its readers’ letters. Indeed, if a publication does not do all those things it may be something else, but it’s not a newspaper.” That was my view when I wrote it in 2009, and it still is.

Why does our Hill need a newspaper? Well, to do all those things I just mentioned, to be sure — but why, particularly?

Some of you may be surprised to learn that we can count 13 separate local governmental bodies that affect our Hill, i.e., tax-funded bodies of county size or smaller with elected officials who recommend or determine how to spend our tax dollars and how much to charge us in fees. And nine of these governmental bodies — four water districts, two CSAs, a commission and a committee from IFPD, and the Idyllwild Historic Preservation District — are reported on by no media but the Town Crier.

These public meetings generally are not well attended. Much of the time our reporter is the only member of the public present. If we do not have a newspaper reporting on the Hill, there is no community watchdog monitoring these agencies.

The Town Crier is not a public entity; it is privately funded and gets no government support. Of course, we strive to have as many subscribers as possible, but the subscription price barely pays for the postage. To survive, a newspaper must rely on advertising from businesses and nonprofit organizations.

Perhaps you have a business or nonprofit that “doesn’t need to advertise”? It may surprise you to learn that there are a number of local business people who feel that way but who advertise anyway. Why do they do that? Because they live here, and their families and friends live here — or they have employees who have families and friends here.

These business people advertise to keep the newspaper coming for all the reasons above, some of which affect their businesses only indirectly — and they promote their businesses in the bargain.

That’s why we ask our readers to please take notice of our regular advertisers and support them with your business. Their advertising keeps your local newspaper coming for all of us and our families.

Ruiz campaign stockpiles cash

Rep. Dr. Raul Ruiz, less than halfway through his second term, continues to receive substantial campaign contributions. Through the end of September, Ruiz had nearly $1.3 million in cash this year. During the period from July 1 to Sept. 30, he raised $415,000.

At this point two years ago, Ruiz had raised $1.1 million for his first re-election campaign. He went on to raise a total of $3.4 million for his race.

Although two challengers, including Indio Mayor Lupe Ramos Watson and Kirk Thompson have announced intentions to challenge Ruiz in 2016, neither had filed any campaign financing reports as of Sept. 30.

During this quarter,

Ruiz’s campaign has expended almost $130,000 and he has more than $1.3 million cash available, including carry over funds from the last campaign.

As of the end of September 2015, contributions were about even from individuals and organizations, such as political action committees.

Manifesting reality ...

BY BRYAN ASCH (BASCH)

This 85-year-old, two-pack of Winstons a day, tough-as-a-cut-of-rawhide S.O.B. didn't befriend me in some father-figure-like way. No, he didn't take me under the shelter of his clipped wing. It was I who sought him out. I didn't want his love; didn't need his respect. I wanted his grit, his steel. I wanted to instill in others the fear he gave me every time I met the gaze of his right eye. There was a cold fire in that eye,

BY DOLORES SIZER

Best laid health plans ...

Have you ever decided you are going to take better care of yourself, I have. First I signed up at the gym, then a trip to the grocery store was in order. Everything in the basket was fresh and green with some fruit thrown in; also, only white meat (fresh chicken), quinoa and lentils.

Everything was organic (more expensive). I had to throw away all the half full bags of potato chips, candy and cookies to fit the dry goods in the cupboard.

Our refrigerator was full of leftover pizza, lots of beer and wine, a big, long stick of dry salami, bacon, cheese, sodas and the list goes on. The wise thing to do is get rid of everything except the beer and wine to make room for the new purchases.

The best laid plans, right? First, I paid for one month at the gym and didn't go once. Oh, I had all the good excuses: indigestion, headache, tired, you name it.

And all the food I bought? Well, Monday at the office is deadline day. I was too tired to cook, so I stopped at Fairway and picked up a frozen pizza. The leftover pizza went in front of the organic green stuff in the fridge. The next day, I picked up sodas and so the vicious cycle starts again. My will power is non-existent.

Oh, by the way. There are some healthful foods I love to consume. Big on my list are smoothies with any combination of fruits and/or vegetables. I love bananas, strawberries, vanilla Greek yogurt, any kind of nuts. and ice. Place in a blender and enjoy a great and filling breakfast.

I don't measure anything, just watch so as not to fill the blender too full. Here is another one you will love. In a blender, place about a half an avocado, a frozen banana, one cup of unsweetened almond milk, 1 tsp. vanilla extract and about 1/4 cup of ice. Blend until smooth.

Use your imagination. If you are making the smoothies on a weekend afternoon or early evening, throw some vodka in the mix. Yum. Enjoy.

just that eye, that froze the impulse to move or look away.

Having suffered severe abuse as a child, I developed an extreme desire to never be a victim again. I understood that about myself very early on, yet the knowledge of how I was to achieve this feat escaped me. I wanted this freedom for myself more than anything else and sought it out at every opportunity.

Something started happening in my life. My path, although not easy, was being laid before my feet, almost automatically, if I stepped in the correct direction. Influences and energies that coincided with my chosen direction became more prevalent.

Even the negative experiences were beginning to divulge the lessons intended as I learned to ride their waves of chaotic change. What I noticed most, however, were the people who would pop into my life with key bits of information or another piece of the jigsaw puzzle, only to disappear like the pages of a book already read. Was I somehow influencing the path? Was I bringing these people and lessons to me or was I being brought to them?

I believe we create the reality we desire, yes, even those of us who are in pain, depressed, angry and frustrated with our very existence. We all know that person who always has a complaint. We know those who live solely for the purpose of creating and sharing misery. These individuals greedily feed off the negativity they themselves enjoy creating. This is how this type of person maintains their misery and, in turn, attempts to manifest others' realities to align with theirs.

Manifest your own reality. No, I'm not asking whether the "spoon" exists or not [reference to a scene in "The Matrix"], or suggesting that you philosophically question the "matter" of reality. Start simple. Look at you, your surroundings, friends, family, employment and enjoyment. Are you satisfied with every aspect of this life?

OK, so most of us can easily convince ourselves and others that yes, we are satisfied. But let's be real. That thing we think is satisfaction is more like acceptance. We accept our station in life and settle for the least painful option. We are taught to forgo risk, take our heads out of the clouds, stop dreaming for what could be and just settle for what is.

I say B.S. If you want your experience to be more fulfilling, then fill your life with those energies, individuals and opportunities who have learned how to dictate the reality they see for themselves. They recognize opportunity and capitalize by acting on the moment that they themselves took the time to create.

If we are expecting to cultivate peace while espousing our desires for harmony, prudence would warrant we put down weapons of destruction and pick up the tools that instead manifest humanity's innovation.

Announcement: Kevin Allen Archambault October 5, 1990 – September 24, 2015

Thank you from the bottom of my heart!

It took a village to come together to bring about such a beautiful memorial service for my son, Kevin Archambault on October 11! I had major ankle and foot surgery 3 days after so I apologize for not thanking you ALL earlier.

Only in Idyllwild do people come together and show their love and support so clearly! I am so blessed I can call it my home town of 25 years.

You all know who you are who showed up to help, to sing and be part of the music, Dr. Rev. Betty Jandl, Rev. Gary Wines. For all the beautiful flowers and food brought ... The 200 plus people who came to honor Kevin and our family. We are so blessed by you all ... thank you seems so small to say...

We are all blessed by coming together...Peace & Love, Janice Hope

Jerry Holldber appointed to county emergency medical care committee

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

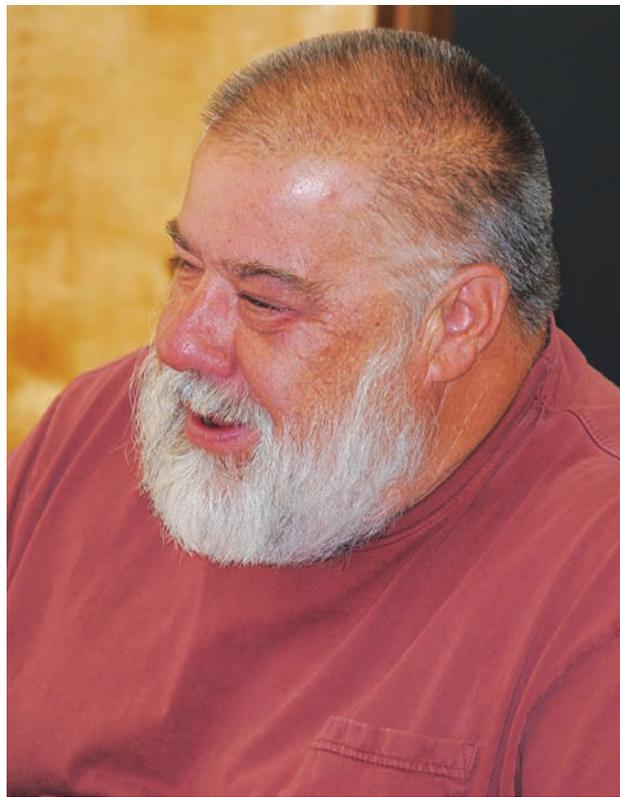

Jerry Holldber of Pine Cove was appointed to represent Riverside County Supervisorial District 3 on the county's Emergency Medical Care Committee. Third District Supervisor Chuck Washington submitted Holldber's nomination to the county Board of Supervisors at its Tuesday, Oct. 27, meeting.

"My interest goes back nearly 40 years when I became a volunteer EMT firefighter at Pine Cove," said Holldber, who is general manager of Pine Cove Water District and chair of County Service Area 38 (Pine Cove). "I've been concerned with our EMS system on the mountain and the cost and future of ambulance coverage for years."

The EMCC is responsible for reviewing ambulance service within the county, emergency medical care offered, including training programs for cardiopulmonary resuscitation and lifesaving first aid, and first aid practices within the county, according to Brian MacGavin, assistant director of the county's Emergency Medical Services Agency.

"They advise our agency and the board of supervisors," MacGavin said. "And are responsible for an annual report."

The state Health and Safety Code authorizes the establishment of EMCCs. The Riverside County group, which was established in 1984, meets quarterly and covers several emergency medical service issues. EMCC is a 17-member committee, including one representative from each supervisorial district. Other members represent various stakeholder groups such as the county health officer and fire department, American Medical Response, law enforcement, physicians, hospitals, the local ambulance association and air ambulance providers.

Most recently, the group has overseen the preparation of the county EMS strategy plan, which was adopted in 2014. During recent meetings, the committee has begun to work with MacGavin and EMSA Director Bruce Barton on implementation of the strategic plan and developing a reporting matrix to track the implementation progress.

Attending the public meetings during the development of the strategic plan raised Holldber's interest in being more involved in the county emergency medical care services. He expressed his interest to both Barton and MacGavin, who inquired about his joining the EMCC earlier this year.

"I think he will be a great addition to the EMCC," MacGavin said. "He has been involved with EMSA and is very passionate about the issues and he'll carefully weigh all sides."

"It's an honor to represent Supervisor Washington on the EMCC," Holldber said. "Great progress has been made on the county's strategic plan already."

Holldber's term will end June 30, 2017.

Idyllwild Water revises water emergency ordinance

Audit says budget and reserves in good shape

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

At its Oct. 21 meeting, the Idyllwild Water District board approved two major policy documents. First, the board approved a revised ordinance for water conservation measures. Later in the meeting, it approved a set of new policies for board action.

In financial matters, the board also accepted its 2014-15 audit from Rogers, Anderson, Malody & Scott of San Bernardino.

Ordinance 64, which replaces the November 2014 Ordinance 62, addresses the water conservation stages and their associated restrictions and implementation. The board held a public hearing on the ordinance and unanimously adopted it.

However, Director-elect Steve Kunkle did ask that it be deferred until he and Director-elect June Rockwell, took their seats in December. In response, President Jim Billman denied the request and said if the ordinance needed changes it could be amended by a future board.

One of the changes is clarifying that once IWD enters emergency water Stage 1, only 10 new equivalent dwelling units will be served during the extent of the water emergency, regardless of the conservation stage. This means the 10 EDUs, which may represent 10 or fewer will-serve letters, are cumulative from stages 1 through 3. Stage 2 reduces new EDUs to five if five or fewer had been issued during the prior Stage 1. Once it has approved five new EDUs, the district will not serve anymore will-serve letters until the water emergency has ended.

The ordinance lists the water restrictions associated with each conservation stage.

The ordinance also includes a section defining the types of violations during stages 2 or 3 and their associated penalty, such as fines or shut off. The first violation results in a notice. A second violation within a year can result in a "disincentive surcharge," which amounts to a doubling of the water billing during the violation period.

A third violation within that year can result in a "disincentive surcharge" of three times the water billing during the violation period. In addition, the IWD general manager will install a water-flow restriction device on the customer's water meter.

A fourth violation within the year will cause termination of water service at this premise and referral of the violation to the Riverside County District Attorney's Office.

The board also adopted a policy resolution establishing guidelines for the appropriate behavior and decorum expected of board members during meetings, creating committees and compensating them for reimbursable expenses, such as travel.

IWD also received its audit for fiscal year 2014-15, which ended on June 30. Scott Manno of the accounting firm told the board the audit of IWD's financial condition earned the firm's "highest level of assurance."

"You had a good year this year. Management did a good job," he stated. "The first year without a loss in, I think, five years." According to the audit, IWD ended the year with more than $2.9 million in cash or certificates and another $500,000 in restricted cash and investments. The district's net position increased more than $600,000 in 2014-15.

Net revenue increased slightly more than $400,000, but water sales and wastewater fees were up $450,000. In addition, expenses declined $230,000 during 2014-15. Billman attributed some of these savings to previous changes in the employee benefit packages.

"Changes for new employees after January 2014 reduced cost from 21 percent to 10 percent," he said.

Manno also recommended a capital development plan for the future, to which Director John Cook replied that it was being developed in the Finance Committee.

The district is still in water conservation Stage 2, according to Lynch, and still very close to Stage 3.

In September, IWD consumed 6.3 million gallons of water, which is about 1.1 million less than August and 2.6 million less than September 2013. During the first nine months of 2015, total production has been 57 million gallons, which is 8.8 million or 13.4 percent less than the same period in 2014.

The board did approve a grant request of $200,000 from Riverside County's Community Development Block Grant funding. If approved, IWD will have to provide $400,000 in matching funds. The money will begin the replacement of 15,000 feet of water pipeline "that is deteriorated, at least 60 years old and has been prone to several water leaks," according to Lynch. The whole project will take several years.

Halloween

Great Pumpkin Carnival, the downtown Halloween party for local children of all ages, will be coordinated by the Idyllwild Community Center. It follows the parade and will be held at an expanded location, encompassing a three-street horseshoe surrounding the town square, according to event manager Chris Singer. It will run from 5 to 8 p.m.

For the first time there will be food booths at the Carnival - hot dogs by the Idyllwild Rotary, Pizza from Village Market, popcorn by the Idyllwild Actors Theatre, baked goods from Bake & Brew and coffee and hot chocolate from Higher Grounds.

And just when you thought dancing had departed with the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series, it's back. Singer said there will be a dance floor at the Carnival with Billy Sheppard serving as DJ. The Art Alliance of Idyllwild is participating in the carnival this year, with a booth where local artists will provide simple hand and face painting for kids.

"We'll also have costume contests for both pets and people and an egg smash booth, where folks can aim raw eggs at Idyllwild personalities," added Singer. "Both the egg smash and the popular cakewalk for kids benefit Idyllwild School." Singer said wrist bands for all games and booths are $5 and are available at the Carnival from the time the parade begins. As always, local businesses are giving out candy and Singer asked parade watchers along North Circle to bring candy to give if they choose. "We don't want to run out," she said.

On a sad note, Singer praised the work of Ted Cummings, who as recently as last Tuesday, Oct. 20, was arranging street closure permits for the carnival. Cummings, an indefatigable Idyllwild volunteer, as longtime logistics coordinator for Idyllwild Arts' Jazz in the Pines and past president of the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce, always radiated competence and good humor in his many local service capacities. Cummings died Thursday, Oct. 22, at the age of 78.

All Hallows Eve, or Halloween, has evolved over the centuries to mix celebrations of harvests' end, honoring the dead and ancient rituals of mysticism and magic. The belief that souls of the dead return on one night of the year, Oct. 31, is found in many cultures throughout the world. Christian All Hallows Eve observances, lighting candles on the graves of the dead, overlap with pagan beliefs that the dead are with us on the eve of All Hallows. It is a time to honor their spirits, to listen and be aware.

The custom of trick or treat may have originated in Ireland, Scotland and Wales where, beginning in the 16th century, people would go house to house in costume reciting verses in exchange for food. Revelers carried hollowed-out turnips carved with grotesque faces lit by candles meant to represent the spirits of the dead. It was not until the mass immigration of Scots and Irish in the 19th century that Halloween became a major holiday in the United States. More plentiful and easier-to-carve pumpkins replaced hollowed-out turnips as decorative symbols and lanterns.

This will be the final weekend for Kathy Sacher-Wilson's Idyllwild Haunted Ghost Town located behind Town Hall on Cedar Street. Check listings for local restaurants to see what Halloween happenings they have in store.

Michael Wangler follows passion for food from professor to producer

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Sky Island Natural Foods and Sky Island Organics owner Michael Wangler was on a fast track to a Ph.D. and a college presidency when his passion for food intervened.

As artist of the week, Wangler shares with other artists a common bond — a passion for creating something of beauty that affects and touches others. As with several artists interviewed for this series, Wangler followed his passion and made a mid-career course correction. He moved from the stability and prestige of a likely college presidency to a less certain path of organic food producer, purveyor and packager. The choice is paying dividends in both success and satisfaction.

“Fast track” describes Wangler both figuratively and literally. In high school and college, the San Diego native was a track and field long distance runner, winning accolades in his sport. He later coached at his old high school, taking his track and field team to a league championship for the first time in school history. He moved quickly through bachelor’s and master’s science-degree programs at UCLA and UC Riverside. He got part way through a Ph.D. program at UCR, taking many earth science and paleontology courses. He became fascinated with how competing theories can both have value and that there are always multiple ways to a solution.

He studied fire ecology and how plants respond to disturbances in their ecosystems. He spoke about how his field, geography, gave him the opportunity to see the world holistically. In field trips he experienced how geography brings together all elements of the natural world. “I learned to pick out the pieces from both sides [of an academic theory or approach] that made sense,” said Wangler.

He left the Ph.D. program to teach and further investigate holistic integration in the natural sciences rather than become a focused specialist. For eight years Wangler taught in the Grossmont/Cuyamaca Community College District and then moved into administration and college governance for the next nine years — as Curriculum Committee chair, vice president, then president of the Academic Senate and College Accreditation Committee chair.

Then food, a fascination since childhood, presented an opportunity and a choice. “While at college, I was always involved in food,” Wangler related. “As a child I spent summers at my uncle’s farm in North Dakota. There was always this farming connection. Driving trips with my parents to North Dakota, to national parks, my fascination with geography — all contributed to my deci-

Michael Wangler, owner of Sky Island Natural Foods in Idyllwild and Sky Island Organics in Palm Springs is artist of the week. sion to change careers.

“In 2005, we bought a house in Idyllwild. In 2006-07, I met Doug [Yagaloff] and Scott [Douglas], owners of Mountain Harvest Market. I started making sauerkraut in my home kitchen to sell in their market. That’s how Sky Island started.”

In conversation, Wangler is charismatic, articulate and dynamic when describing his career arc. His eyes and voice are alive with intelligence and energy. He described running an organic farm in 2007 close to where he had taught. “It was the best six weeks of my life. I grazed on the land and tasted the beauty of raw food. I tasted my first organic strawberry. Those six weeks solidified my connection to food and farming.”

When Yagaloff and Douglas were going to close Idyllwild’s only organic market, Wangler made his decision. “At the time, I was back and forth between San Diego and Idyllwild,” he remembered. “I was being recruited for president of the college. It was the moment when the store fell into my lap. I decided that if I were going to do this, I had to do it right.”

With his decision to buy Mountain Harvest, Wangler utilized his teaching and research background to redo the store format. “I got rid of textured vegetable protein and GMO [genetically modified organism] products,” he noted. “With antibiotics in the food chain, we’re becoming less alive. This is a big part of the artisan food movement — getting live bacteria back into our system by eating fermented and live-cultured foods. I wanted to bring good food to people, beginning with local organics and focus on the unique local stuff.”

As is characteristic of Wangler, the long-distance runner and holistic scientist, he is fast-tracking to expand his mission of bringing people together by introducing them to healthful food. His commercial production of living food outgrew Idyllwild and now requires a large production facility in Palm Springs, Sky Island Organics. He currently sells his raw and sprouted food products in natural food stores throughout Southern California. He recently formed a distribution company with partner Randy Olsen, “SOL Distributors — Sustainable, Organic, Local Foods and Products.” “We’re just getting ready to go big time,” he said. “We have a broker and soon a refrigerated truck. We want to be a regional distributor, but not too big. Once you’re too big, you lose that artisan focus. The main focus of our expansion will be Orange, Los Angeles and San Diego counties.”

From professor to artisan food producer, artist and scientist Michael Wangler has never looked back. “My passion is to create and market this high-quality food to help the food renaissance in this country. People are beginning to recognize that our conventional agriculture practices are damaging the planet — the land, the air, the water and themselves. Quality organic food is a way to bring people together.”

In 2013, Sky Island Organics was incorporated as a California benefit corporation committed by charter to making a positive impact on society, community and the environment.

CONTEST JUDGE

Well, only two names in the hat this week: Dorothy Silliman and the Jeff and Yvonne Smith family. Dolores Sizer, Goddess of All Things, pulled out Dorothy's name, so she gets the two tickets to Shane Stewart's Rustic Theatre this week. Please come pick them up at the Town Crier. Also, each week I get a small pile of bits of paper with entries on them. While you are free to enter in nearly any form, the safest way is clearly by email because a record is always kept of such entries. I check my email each week before the drawing: jack@towncrier.com. Now, where was this week's photo taken?

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

National Monument celebrates 15 years

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Oct. 24, 2000, the Santa Rosa and San Jacinto Mountains National Monument was established.

At 10 a.m. Friday, Nov. 6, its 15th anniversary will be celebrated at the monument's Visitors Center on Highway 74 in Palm Desert.

On that day in 2000, then-President Bill Clinton signed the legislation, a bipartisan effort led by former Rep. Mary Bono and Sen. Dianne Feinstein, establishing the 272,000-acre monument.

Five weeks later on Dec. 1, dignitaries, including Bono, Cahuilla Tribal Chairman Richard Milanovich and Assistant Secretary of the Interior Sylvia Baca, held a ceremony on a ridge overlooking the monument.

New world-class concert hall will host Idyllwild Arts anniversary celebrations

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

The Idyllwild Arts Foundation celebrates 70 years of campus history in 2016 that began in 1946 with the founding of the Summer Program. As Idyllwild Arts begins a year of anniversary commemorations, the William M. Lowman Concert Hall, currently under construction, is poised to play a prominent part in hosting 2016 celebratory events.

John Newman, IAA Director of Business Operations.

IAF President Pamela Jordan believes the new concert venue, given its state of the art architectural design and acoustical engineering, will become a regional concert destination known for its innovative architecture, the brilliance of its acoustics and world class jazz and classical music programming. A series of anniversary concerts will formally open the hall once it is completed.

Named after IAA's first headmaster, the William M. Lowman Concert Hall is designed by award winning architect Whitney Sander. Sander Architects, headquartered in Venice, California, have won many awards including two Dedalo Minosse International Prizes and numerous American Institute of Architects accolades. Sander building designs are often featured in Dwell, a prestigious industry magazine.

Lowman Hall is acoustically engineered by ARUP North America, the firm responsible for the designs of the world famous Sydney (Australia) Opera House, the Centre Pompidou in Paris and the Tate Modern in London.

ARUP specializes in designs for art and culture venues. ARUP calls its key concern as a firm, designing "spaces that perform as well as the artists themselves." "The hall will be different from anything else on our campus, blending both traditional and modern design elements," said John Newman, IAA Director of Business Operations. "It is specifically designed to showcase music. The hall's acoustical properties have been inspired by the most renowned halls in the world. The landscape plan and elements will be as much of an artistic experience as coming to the hall itself." Landscape elements feature indigenous, drought-resistant native plantings, an oak grove and solar-powered illuminated walkways leading to outdoor areas that will serve as a central campus quad and gathering space for the school community. Newman also said the landscape plan includes circular depressions in the ground, seating areas that are designed to resemble Cahuilla mortar grinding stones. Idyllwild Arts has a long Native American teaching tradition and heritage dating back to the earliest days of the campus.

Newman noted the concert hall's silhouette and shape evoke Idyllwild's iconic Tahquitz Rock, which it faces to the east. "The hall will be sheathed in 67 thousand pounds of rusted Cor-ten steel panels that blend with the cedar siding of surrounding campus buildings," said Newman. The rusted panels will weather and change their patina over time, adding to the artistic allure of the building's exterior.

"The interior finish will include hundreds of kiln-dried Douglas fir beams that are designed to approximate the densely wooded forests of the San Jacinto Mountains. Eighty wooden 'ribs' are hung vertically along each side of the hall and connect across the ceiling in a saw-tooth pattern, each beam placed at specific and varying angles that are not only aesthetically captivating but contribute to the finest acoustic effect," said Newman.

Lowman Concert Hall will seat 298 in a raked audience area. The performance stage is 60 percent larger than the current IAF stage in the Bowman Arts Center (1,820 sq. feet compared to the current 1,100 sq. feet.) As a result of the increase, the Lowman Hall stage will be able to accommodate a full symphony orchestra and chorus. Backstage will include an artists' entrance and a green room with a floor to ceiling window facing out to the campus and wooded areas. The new concert hall will also host jazz concerts and chamber music performances.

Sander Architects' design calls for an adjacent theatre to complete the performing arts complex once it is financed and built.

Steele misses cut at Shriners; plays in Malaysia this week

BY JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

After a top-20 season opening at the Frys.com, Brendan Steele missed the cut at the Shriners Hospitals for Children Open in Las Vegas last week.

The Idyllwild native hit only 54 percent of the fairways and 61 percent of the greens in regulation, and he gave away strokes to the field both tee-to-green and putting.

Brendan will try to pull it all together for this week's CIMB Classic in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

BY MIMI AND HOOTCH

Great news... Pippen has been adopted into a forever home with another dog that looks just like him. Yay!!!

Introducing the two newest arrivals at the ARF house. 9 weeks old, and learning every day that humans are fun!! One male, one female. Come in to Arf to enjoy our kitten fun.

Bubbles is an 8-year-old female calico, declawed and just a bundle of love. She is very mellow, loves her naps and loves the human touch. She knows her name and comes when called. She needs to be in a home with a non-aggressive dog or another mellow cat, or by herself.

Lefty Lou is a 10-year-young Jack Russel terrier. She loves to bask in the California sun, go for leash walks, and bring smiles and laughter to your life. She is spayed, up to date on all shots and house trained. She enjoys the great outdoors, but, for the most part, she will want to be by your chair. This girl is still young at heart and healthy. And she's OK with the feline crowd. Prefers to be the only dog in the house.

ARF has many cats and dogs available for adoption or fostering. Go to www.arfidyllwild.weebly.com and click on Petfinder. There is also a link for Facebook too. You can always call Arf at 951-659-1122. Calls are answered before the end of the day. All pets are spayed, neutered, and current on shots. ARF is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sundays.

Cancer support group in town

A cancer support group meets at 4:30 p.m. Wednesdays at Idyllwild Library. The group shares strength, hope, comfort and experience of cancer issues — a “soft place land,” it states. It is open to anyone who has experienced the heartache of cancer.

A group also meets from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursdays in Classroom 113 at the Hemet Valley Medical Center on the northwest corner of Florida Avenue and San Jacinto Street.

In October 1973, the Parents Club of Idyllwild School held the annual Halloween carnival outdoors on the school grounds. There was plenty of run-and-play space, plenty of space for game booths, and noise didn't matter. HOROSCOPES
 October 2015 — Week 5

March 21 – April 19
 Luck has nothing to do with it, Aries. Work hard, and you will succeed. Fortunately for you, some little goblins and ghouls will lend you a hand.

April 20 – May 20
 Hoping to attend the event of the year, Taurus? Say no more. Your wish will be granted. A change at work sends everyone scrambling but you.

May 21 – June 21
 A penny saved is a penny earned. Sadly, pennies aren't going to cut it this time. You're going to have to get serious about your finances, Gemini.

June 22 – July 22
 Boo, Cancer! You're in for a week of spine-tingling fun. An examination uncovers the need for further deliberation. A friend receives an award.

July 23 – August 22
 Loved ones cast their spell, and suddenly, you have a lot more to do. Organization is key, Leo. You won't get far without the right supplies and instructions.

August 23 – September 22
 Finances a fright, Virgo? Make a change for the better. Attend a seminar or set up an appointment with your advisor. Don't wait until it is too late.

September 23 – October 22
 Watch out, Libra. A skeleton is about to come out of the closet. Keep your horror to yourself. A neighbor proves more insightful than you thought.

October 23 – November 21
 Beg off, Scorpio. You did as asked. It's time for someone else to step up. A personal journey begins. Tread carefully. There is a lot to learn. A project is saved.

November 22 – December 21
 What a scream, Sagittarius! The antics of a furry friend keep everyone in stitches this week. Nightly excursions add to the revelry. A friend drops by.

December 22 – January 19
 A challenge beckons. Take it only if you dare, Capricorn. A financial error proves costly for a friend. Loans are not the answer. Gifts, on the other hand, are welcome.

January 20 – February 18
 Moonlight madness strikes. Prepare for a week of adventure, Aquarius. Affairs of the heart nearly get the best of a coworker.

February 19 – March 20
 History repeats, and you are left holding the bag once more. Relax, Pisces. This will not come back to haunt you ever again. A ghastly secret is revealed.

ORDINANCE NO. 64

AN ORDINANCE OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE IDYLLWILD WATER DISTRICT FINDING THE NECESSITY OF AND PROVIDING FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION AND ENFORCEMENT OF A WATER CONSERVATION MEASURES TO MITIGATE THE EFFECTS OF DROUGHT AND RE-SCINDING AND REPLACING ORDINANCE NO. 62 AND ALL AMENDMENTS THERETO

RECITALS

WHEREAS, the total water supply available to the Idyllwild Water District ("DISTRICT") is dependent upon local rainfall and snowmelt from the higher elevations of the San Jacinto Mountains; and

WHEREAS, there is no source of imported water available to the District to supplement its local water supplies; and

WHEREAS, the DISTRICT periodically experiences years in which the amount of precipitation is insufficient to fully replenish the DISTRICT's water supplies. When such "dry" periods extend into subsequent years, the DISTRICT's ability to meet the minimum water supply requirements necessary to protect the public's health, safety and general welfare is severely compromised; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Directors of the DISTRICT has been informed and advised that to ensure sufficient water supplies to meet basic needs of human consumption, sanitation and fire protection, the DISTRICT must implement and enforce water conservation measures in order to mitigate the effects of drought on the community; and

WHEREAS, it is the purpose of this Ordinance to establish a multi-staged water shortage emergency plan and to provide for its implementation and enforcement.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Board of Directors of the Idyllwild Water District does hereby ordain as follows:

Section 1. Purpose and Scope

The purpose of this Ordinance is to establish a multi-staged water shortage emergency plan to minimize the effect of a drought on the customers of the DISTRICT and thereby:

- (i) Protect the health, safety and welfare of the residents and customers of the DISTRICT; and
- (ii) Assure the maximum beneficial use of the water supplies of the DISTRICT; and
- (iii) Ensure sufficient water supplies to meet the basic needs of human consumption, sanitation and fire protection.

Section 2. Authority

The DISTRICT has the power and authority to enact this Ordinance pursuant to the following state laws:

a. Water Code Section 31026, which authorizes the DISTRICT to (i) restrict the use of DISTRICT water during any emergency caused by drought or other threatened or existing water shortage, (ii) to prohibit the waste of DISTRICT water or the use of DISTRICT water during such periods, and (iii) to prohibit the use of such water during such periods for specific uses which the DISTRICT may from time to time find to be nonessential; and

b. Water Code Section 375, which authorizes the DISTRICT to adopt and enforce a water conservation program to reduce the quantity of water used by the inhabitants of the DISTRICT for the purpose of conserving the water supplies of the DISTRICT; and

c. Water Code Section 350, which gives the Board of Directors the authority to declare a water shortage emergency condition whenever the Board finds and determines that the ordinary demands and requirements of water consumers cannot be satisfied without depleting the water supply of the DISTRICT to the extent that there would be insufficient water for human consumption, sanitation and fire protection.

Section 3. Adoption of Three-Stage Water Shortage Emergency Plan

There is hereby enacted a DISTRICT-wide water conservation measures consisting of three stages (hereafter, "the Plan"), as follows:

Water Conservation Stage I-Voluntary Compliance, which specifies that users of DISTRICT water voluntarily limit the amount of water used to that amount necessary for domestic and business purposes. Will serve letters shall be limited to a total of up to 10 EDU's at the discretion of the Board during a Water Conservation Stage 1. The limit of 10 EDU's applies from the initial declaration of conservation stages, until the end of conservation stages.

Water Conservation Stage 2 – Mandatory Compliance, which requires each user to take specific actions to reduce water consumption, and which provides for an increased water rate. Will serve letters for new water meters shall be issued only if available within the 10 EDU's allowed within Stage 1 until the return to Stage 1 or 0. Increases to customer meter size for additions requiring that fire sprinklers be installed are allowed with General Manager approval.

Water Conservation Stage 3 – Mandatory Emergency Restrictions, which requires each user of DISTRICT water to take specific actions to further reduce the consumption of DISTRICT water, and which provides for a further increase in the water rate. There will be NO issuance of will serve letters for new water meters during a Stage 3 Water Conservation Stage, nor may un-used EDUs be issued.

The General Manager may declare NO STAGE if: Foster Lake is full; Foster Lake Wells are above 50'; Downtown wells are above 15'; average rainfall/precipitation exceeds 26" and storage tanks recharge to 95% tank capacity.

Details of the water conserving measures are provided in Section 5 below. Enforcement measures, which include notices of violation, disincentive surcharges and the installation of flow-restricting devices and termination of water service, are provided in Sections 6, 7 and 12 below. A development agreement with a user of DISTRICT water may provide for issuance of will serve letters as provided in the agreement. The restrictions on water use do not apply to water used to meet the medical needs of the customer. The restrictions on landscape irrigation do not apply to those utilizing a rainwater storage system. The restrictions on landscape irrigation do not apply to users of recycled water.

Section 4. Procedure for Declaring Water Shortage Emergency

The Plan shall be implemented as follows:

a. Utilizing precipitation records and water level data for Foster Lake and local wells or other water shortage emergency conditions, the General Manager shall determine whether a water shortage exists or is anticipated.

b. As soon as it is reasonably practicable to do so, the General Manager shall report the findings and conclusions to the Board of Directors and make such recommendations as may be appropriate including, without limitation, a recommendation that the Board of Directors conduct a public hearing for the purpose of announcing that a water shortage is anticipated or exists and authorizing the General Manager to implement the appropriate Water Conservation Stage. Notice of the time and place of hearing shall be published in an adjudicated publication at least 7 days prior to the date of the hearing.

c. After implementation, the General Manager shall periodically report to the Board of Directors, with information and data concerning the effectiveness of water conservation measures enforcement activities and, if appropriate, recommendations for further action.

Section 5. Water Conservation Stages

a. Implementation by General Manager. In the event the Board of Directors declares the existence of a water shortage and authorizes the implementation of the DISTRICT's water conservation measures, the General Manager shall thereupon be authorized to implement and enforce the following Water Conservation Stages. The determination of which Stage to implement shall be made by the General Manager and shall be based upon the best available information regarding present and predicted precipitation, the availability of water in storage and the rate of consumption by DISTRICT users. It shall not be necessary to implement a Stage I (or II) alert prior to implementing a Stage II (or III) alert; the Stages may be implemented in any reasonable order.

b. Public Notice Procedure for Implementation of an initial water shortage. The General Manager, after consultation with, and the concurrence of, the Board of Directors, may declare a Water Conservation Stage to be effective on the sixth day following the publication of the declaration at least once in an adjudicated publication, and posted in at least three public places within the DISTRICT.

The General Manager shall also provide mailed notice of the declaration of the initial stage to each customer of the DISTRICT; provided, however, the failure to receive mailed notice prior to the effective date of the declaration shall not invalidate the declaration, nor shall it prevent enforcement of this Ordinance. Following the initial declaration of a water conservation measures, notice of the declaration of stage will be placed once in an adjudicated publication and a notice will be placed on billing cards.

c. Three Stages.

Water Conservation Stage 1 – Voluntary Compliance

In the event the General Manager determines to implement Water Conservation Stage 1, users of DISTRICT water shall voluntarily reduce the amount of water used to that amount minimally necessary for household use (drinking, cooking and bathing) and for business necessity. The necessity for implementation will be determined by following the current IWD Resolution defining the ability to meet minimum water supply requirements.

Such reductions will include, but are not limited to, immediately repairing leaks, preventing irrigation water runoff, (such that water flows onto adjacent property, non-irrigated areas, private and public walkways, roadways, parking lots, or structures) refraining from washing sidewalks, driveways and parking areas, and refraining from sprinkling unplanted areas with potable water for dust control. In addition to these restrictions, the following steps will be implemented in Stage 2 and Stage 3.

Water Conservation Stage 2 – Mandatory Compliance

In the event the General Manager determines to implement Water Conservation Stage 2, users of DISTRICT water shall be required to:

- (a) Limit irrigation of outdoor plants and gardens to the period between 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 a.m. two days a week, hand watering with an automatic shut-off nozzle is permitted; however, all runoff water shall be contained; and
- (b) Cease filling or refilling swimming pools, except that a small amount of water may be used to replace evaporation losses in a filled pool; and
- (c) Wash motor vehicles and equipment only from a bucket using a hose with an automatic shut off nozzle; and
- (d) Not use potable water in a fountain or other decorative water feature, except where the water is part of a recirculating system; and
- (e) Make immediate repairs to any and all leaking water lines and faucets in household plumbing and yard piping; and
- (f) Not use outdoor irrigating 48 hours before anticipated measurable precipitation or 48 hours thereafter; and

(g) Restaurants shall only provide drinking water to patrons upon request; and

(h) Not use potable water for filling of irrigation storage tanks. (Filling of irrigation storage tanks with potable water during any conservation stage is discouraged.)

Water Conservation Stage 3 – Mandatory Emergency Restrictions

In the event the General Manager determines to implement Water Conservation Stage III, the following prohibitions and restrictions shall apply:

- a. No potable water shall be used for irrigating outdoor plants, trees or other landscaping of any kind, in any amount, at any time; and
- b. No water shall be added to uncovered swimming pools, hot tubs or spas to replace evaporative losses or for any other purpose; and
- c. No water shall be taken from fire hydrants for any reason except for fire emergencies or for the maintenance of system water quality; and
- d. Potable water use for construction purposes shall be minimized; and
- e. No potable water shall be used for dust control, or for washing any structure, sidewalk, driveway or parking area, or for washing motor vehicles and equipment except from a bucket using a hose with a shutoff nozzle.
- f. Water users shall make repairs within 48 hours to any leaking line or faucet in household plumbing or yard piping.
- g. Irrigation water lines shall be turned off to eliminate accidental loss of potable water.

Section 6. Water Conservation Measures Rate Structure

In the event the Board of Directors declares a water shortage and orders the action of water conservation measures, water rates shall be established by Resolution, including identification of a Water Conservation tier.

Section 7. CEQA

The specific actions authorized herein are exempt from the California Environmental Quality Act, State Guidelines, Section 15269 (c) for the reason that such actions are necessary to prevent or mitigate an emergency.

Section 8. Rescission; Incompatible Provisions

DISTRICT Ordinance No. 62 and all amendments thereto, are hereby rescinded in their entirety.

In addition, to the extent any provision of this Ordinance is incompatible or at variance with any prior-adopted ordinance or resolution, the provisions of this Ordinance shall take precedence and all prior ordinances and resolutions shall be interpreted to harmonize with and not change the provisions of this Ordinance.

Section 9. Judicial Review

Any judicial action or proceeding to attack, review, set aside, void or annul this Ordinance or any determination made pursuant thereto shall be commenced within 90 days after the date of adoption of this Ordinance or the date of any determination made pursuant thereto. California Code of Civil Procedure, Section 1094.6 is hereby adopted and made applicable to any judicial review of any decision made by the Board of Directors, the General Manager, or agents, representatives or employees of the District.

Section 10. Severability

If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase is for any reason held to be invalid or unconstitutional by decision of any Court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions. The Board of Directors hereby declares that it would have passed those sections, subsections, clauses and phrases irrespective that one or more may be declared invalid or unconstitutional.

Section 11. Publication; Effective Date

This Ordinance shall be published in its entirety at least once in adjudicated publication within 10 days after its adoption, shall be posted in three public places and shall become effective 30 days after it is adopted.

Section 12. Fines and Penalties:

A) Violations: Violations of the water use restrictions and prohibitions of Water Conservation Stages II and III shall be penalized as follows:

First Violations- Notice of Violation: The General Manager is authorized and directed to issue, or cause the issuance of a written warning notice of violation to any water user who fails or refuses to comply with the water use restrictions and prohibitions set forth herein. The notice shall specify a reasonable period of time in which compliance shall be achieved. Each notice of violation shall be addressed to the customer on record for the premises where the violation was observed; delivery may be by regular mail or by personal delivery.

Oct. 27 meeting.

When asked how the tax measure can be drafted before completing a strategic plan, Layton replied, "They're linked but not entirely. The Strategic Plan will include the tax measure."

Committee member Sue Weisbart added that she did not want any sunset provision attached to the measure and recommended developing an annual inflation formula for future years.

Besides its share of property tax receipts, IFPD imposes an annual unit fee of $65 per structure on district property owners. In 2011, voters rejected doubling the rate.

Earlier in the meeting, Sherry Ann Wayne, the temporary administrative assistant, made a presentation on the revenue from special abatement inspections. Layton and Weisbart felt the district was not receiving payment for completed inspections and not being notified to conduct inspections whenever a property entered escrow.

Wayne reported that 32 property closings occurred in August, according to the local realtors association, but IFPD only performed inspections on and received payment for seven of them. "Realtors are not requesting the inspections," she stated.

Layton asked Wayne and IFPD Capt. Jack

Peckham to report on the issue at the November commission meeting. One issue left unresolved was whether the district has enacted its own ordinance for abatement inspections or is relying on the Riverside County ordinance.

The overall financial status was not discussed at the meeting since the committee did not have the current fiscal year financial reports to review.

Layton stated, "There is a lot of contention and discussion of the accuracy of the accounting as given to the committee in the reports."

Disappointment with the performance of IFPD's financial accountant, Rob Dennis, was expressed. "We're two and half years into a three-year contract and quite honestly, we're still not satisfied with the service," Layton stated.

However, a significant portion of the problem, according to Layton, is the accounting software, which makes the development of specially designed reports extremely difficult. To eliminate this problem, Layton said the software would be replaced this week.

Layton also discussed the possibility of assigning some of the financial responsibility to the administrative assistant. But the committee did indicate that, if this option were chosen, attention to stronger internal controls would be needed first.

Corrected property tax bill mailed to CSA 36 residents

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

In our Thursday, Oct. 15 edition, we reported that property tax bills mailed to Idyllwild residents of County Service Area 36 contained a significant error — a billing for $35 for streetlights in CSA 27 which is in Cherry Valley. That error had come to our attention on Friday, Oct. 9. We began contacting county officials on that Friday.

On Tuesday morning,

Oct. 13, Jon Christensen, Riverside County assistant tax collector, called to say his office was now aware of the mistake and would mail a corrected tax bill.

The corrected tax bills, containing a $35 line item for street lights and recreation in CSA 36, began arriving in Hill mailboxes on Friday, Oct. 23.

First payments for property tax bills are due on or before Thursday, Dec. 10.

HELP

will continue to offer its food pantry, firewood and assistance with winter energy bills. The Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council Woodies have spent months cutting and splitting wood for the center's winter clients, who consume 75 to 100 pieces weekly. Frequently, they have to bring the wood to the clients who lack transportation.

The Idyllwild Community Fund has provided money to subsidize propane bills.

Contributing to Meyer's concern for locals this winter is her experience from when the evacuation was ordered during the Mountain Fire in 2013.

"Many of these people don't have Internet access or cell phones," she lamented. "In a large event, how do we contact the clients? Seventy to 75 percent of them are disabled or elderly."

"We aim to be a resource center, not just a help center," Meyer stressed. "We want to do preventive steps, too."

As an example of this re-direction, the HELP Center has funds for doctor and dental appointments. People are getting teeth cleaned and may avoid the need for fillings or extractions, she added.

Next on the agenda will be Thanksgiving and Christmas meals as well as the Angel Tree gifts.

The HELP Center phone number is 951-659-2110. Donations may be made online by visiting their Website at <http://idyllwildhelpcenter.org/donate-2>.
