Art therapist returns to flood- ravaged Baton Rouge

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

On Aug. 29, 2005, Hurricane Katrina made landfall on the Louisiana coast with a direct hit on New Orleans. Idyllwild resident Karla Leopold led a team of art therapists to an evacuation center just north of Baton Rouge to help Katrina survivors, many of them children, to express and externalize the trauma they had experienced through the process of creating art. Leopold's mission then was to help survivors process the emotional and physical pain they had experienced by getting it out of them and onto a page or into a constructed piece of art.

She returns again to Baton Rouge, this time when the city itself has been hard hit by torrential rainfall and flooding, and many of its residents are homeless and in shelters. As she did before, she will assist Sister Judith Brun of the Baton Rouge Area Foundation to use art to capture and chronicle the experiences of those who have lost homes, jobs and hope.

When asked about conditions in Baton Rouge, Brun said, "How's it going here? No one knows. There are miles and miles of family possessions piled on curbs. How strong can families remain in this journey that is so all-consuming?"

Said Leopold, "We need your help. Once again the state of Louisiana is hit by disaster with more than 100,000 people affected. Many of these people are the same people relocated [to the Baton Rouge area] after Hurricane Katrina 11 years ago."

The Red Cross calls the Louisiana flooding the worst disaster since Superstorm Sandy hit the East Coast of the U.S. in 2012. Thirteen people have died, 60,000 homes have been damaged and property losses have passed $20.7 billion. Nearly 7 trillion gallons of rain pummeled Louisiana between Aug. 8 and 14. That is enough to fill more than 10.4 million Olympic-size swimming pools.

"The rainfall is unprecedented," said Louisiana Gov. See Therapist, page 24

Washington bestows $7,500 on Idyllwild

On Tuesday, Aug. 23, Riverside County 3rd District Supervisor Chuck Washington asked his board of supervisors colleagues to approve the use of Community Improvement Funds to help several Idyllwild organizations — the Association of Idyllwild Realtors, Forest Folk and the Idyllwild Arts Foundation.

The realtors received $3,000 for play equipment to be installed at the Town Hall playground. The association will double this gift with another $3,000, which it received as the Placemaker grant from the National Association of Realtors. A minimum of $6,000 will be available for new playground equipment, but the association would like to augment that, according to Kathy Wilson of the AIR.

One minor-injury motorcycle crash over the weekend

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

One minor-injury motorcycle crash occurred over the last week on Hill highways.

At 12:15 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 21, Rodrigo Rodriguez, 24, of Redlands, was riding his 2012 white Suzuki 750 motorcycle southbound on Highway 243 just north of Round Robin Drive when, for unknown reasons, he made an unsafe turning movement and ran off the highway.

Rodriguez complained of minor abrasions to his right arm and was transported by a private party to San Geronio Memorial Hospital in Banning. No other persons or vehicles were involved in the incident.

Pinyon woman's arson trial depends on competency

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Last month, Judge Mark Mandiio had suspended the arson prosecution of Traci Farley, 52, of Pinyon, a woman who was charged in June with 13 counts of arson.

On Aug. 17, Mandilo received the medical reports of Farley's mental competence. He will review them before proceeding with further court actions. However, he did ask one of the doctors for further clarification of his report.

In one of the two supplement reports, the physician was asked to specifically address whether Farley is competent or not competent to stand trial.

Consequently, the next hearing is scheduled for Aug. 31. Farley is still in custody, without bail.

"She is charged with 13 separate small arson fires all lit on or around the same day. All started at different spots relatively close to each other, near her house," wrote John Hall, district attorney information specialist. "As charged, we believe the evidence shows 12 of the fires were brush/forest land and one of the fires was a neighbor's fence."

Body found in Pinyon Pines area

STAFF REPORTER

Authorities confirmed the discovery of a woman's body near Ribbonwood Drive, just east of Highway 74 on Sunday, Aug. 21. Riverside County Sheriff's Department Hemet Station Deputy Mike Vasquez said identity of the adult female was being withheld until notification of next of kin.

"Department members used the aid of a helicopter to reach the body," said Vasquez, RCSD public information officer. "The area is close to where a person was reported missing recently."

Josephene Youssef, 71, was reported missing by family members on Tuesday, June 7, when she did not return from a walk from the family home in Pinyon Pines. Authorities conducted a search at the time, using air and ground search and rescue teams, but were unable to locate Youssef. The family launched a Facebook campaign hoping to find Youssef, noting that she suffered from dementia and spoke only Arabic.

The home is not far from the area where the body was discovered on Sunday.

Lynch took exam three times

By JACK CLARK
CO-PUBLISHER/GENERAL COUNSEL

Idyllwild Water District Director June Rockwell asked General Manager Tom Lynch during the public meeting of Aug. 16 whether he indeed had taken and failed the T2 exam three times. Lynch said he would not discuss the matter publicly.

Even after the story has been published online by the TC and in print in its issue dated Aug. 18, at least one IWD director, Michael Freitas, told the TC that his information was that Lynch had taken the T2 exam only once.

To alleviate doubt, the TC supplies online copies of: 1) three applications for T2 exams — each signed by Lynch — for exam dates of Nov. 15, 2014, May 16, 2015 and Nov. 21, 2015, each showing, after a redacted "Score:" number, that the exam was "(Failed)"; 2) his most recent application for a T2 exam, which was postponed from May 2016 to Nov. 2016; and 3) his signed letter to the TC dated Aug. 12 stating that IWD had no such records in its possession.

IWD income up; well levels falling

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

At the Idyllwild Water District last week, the directors approved expanding the salary schedule from 10 to 14 steps. No other action was taken, but General Manager Tom Lynch and the board did discuss water conditions.

At the July meeting, the board had approved this salary action for just the wastewater supervisor's position. At this meeting, the board approved the expanded salary scale for all positions.

Lynch assured the board this would not affect current budget projections.

"There will be a fiscal impact eventually. It will be a major cost to the district," noted Vice President John Cook. "Reluctantly, I see a need because we're unable to recruit the best people."

Once again, the water program had positive net income. In July, net income for the water program was nearly $29,000. Cook acknowledged that July and August are "Hosny's favorite months." Water sales tend to peak in these months and the corresponding high revenues benefit finances, Financial Officer Hosny Shouman confirmed.

"It's nice to see a positive number after so many negatives," Cook added. "Good to find income rather than a loss." However, in the past year, the water program has had only one month (November 2015) where expenses exceeded water revenue and five months where the net income exceeded $20,000.

In water business, Lynch reported that the district was still in water emergency Stage 2. "Production increased because consumption is up from the previous months," he said.

Since water consumption is up and Foster Lake remains empty, he had to operate more wells last month. The groundwater level for most of the wells declined from June to July, according to his report.

"This is a bellwether because we're in a five-year drought," Lynch stressed. "We'll do all we can to not move into Stage 3."

In July, IWD consumed 9.6 million gallons, which is

A well flow report contains mystery number

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Before the Idyllwild Water District meeting ended last week, General Manager Tom Lynch gave the directors a report with the monthly flow from each well used between July 2015 through July 2016.

This was in response to Director Steve Kunkle's questioning. He was absent from this meeting.

Earlier in the meeting, Lynch reported on the falling well levels and that Foster Lake remains dry. This table addressed the relative productivity of wells in use each month.

While the well flow for each month was apparent, the table had a column on the right side labeled "TOTALS." Mathematically, this was the sum of each well's monthly flow in gallons per minute.

However, summing a rate, such as gpm, does not appear to yield a meaningful number. Foster Lake well no. 2 produced water between July and October 2015. The monthly flows ranged from 26.2 to 29.3 gpm for three months and in October it was 4.0 gpm. The "TOTALS" column correctly computes a figure of 87.4. But it is not clear whether this represents some cumulative flow or production in gallons or other units.

On Wednesday, Lynch said this column was the "total annual production equivalent." Yet he would not explain what this represents. Is it gallons, cubic feet or acre feet?

In response to an email asking for help to use the table to describe the district's water condition, Lynch declined any further communication with the Town Crier. Thus he would not explain what this number means and how it affects the district's water condition.

"I had prepared answers to these questions, but after reading your paper's various assertions, and that I am somehow unqualified for my position, maybe I shouldn't be responding to any of your water-related questions," he wrote.

As an example of why the "TOTALS" column doesn't make sense, if you drove 10 miles per hour from Hemet to Idyllwild in July, then 5 mph in August and 15 miles per hour in September, IWD says your annual equivalent speed is 30 mph, more than twice your maximum in any month.

When asked if they could help explain the term "total annual production equivalent," neither Fern Valley Water District General Manager Victor Jimenez nor Director Robert Krieger, a water engineer, said they were familiar with this unit. They also did not understand the summing of rates to yield a meaningful measure, unless the numbers were divided by the number of months in which they were produced to yield an average flow.

But Lynch insisted the figure was "TOTALS," equivalent production.

OUT LOUD

I often say we work as hard as we can to produce a quality newspaper only to have a printer off the Hill drop the quality as soon as it rolls the machine.

We may end up with blotches of ink, poor color and generally bad-quality printing.

And now, with the retirement a few weeks back of the guy who handled the quality of our paper at the printer, not only did the quality lessen but the costs rose.

So I've made some tough decisions to try to control the costs while we seek a quality, responsive and affordable printer.

I've cut back the paper count because each plate (four pages) costs a bundle.

The week before a holiday or major event, such as the Fourth or the jazz fest, means more work for our staff, particularly for those who handle advertising.

But the week following becomes much tougher as advertising drops significantly and thus, the paper's size. When that occurs and so many other events throughout the weekend, I must squeeze a great deal of news into a smaller newspaper.

Photos run smaller and so must coverage of events. We have no photographers on staff any longer, just ourselves. All others are freelancers. As the town changes, we must do more with less.

Our columnists may not write tomes any longer but keep their columns to a certain word count. If not, it may not be published in print form but online.

We have businesses begging us to cover their events for free. That space is valuable. It is our biggest asset. We receive no tax dollars or public funds. We rely on selling that space to keep our doors open. We wouldn't be here if I gave it away.

Thus, the only way to guarantee it will make it in the paper is to advertise it.

I am so lucky that I work for a water district who has a manager who is not afraid to tell the truth, and is not afraid to say, "I made a mistake"

I get to witness how the customers are treated, how situations are handled and how everything that is done is done for the good of the district and it's customers.

I can only imagine how unhappy and stressed the staff is at IWD to have to work under the current management and conditions. If the GM will lie about taking a test, what else is he lying about?

PINE COVE WATER DISTRICT

Why was IWD bill so high?

EDITOR:

It has come to my attention that a few other people, other than myself, have had problems with outrageous Idyllwild Water District bills.

I am a part-timer. I work in Los Angeles. When I can, I enjoy time in my Idyllwild cabin.

For over 50 years, the water bill averaged $28. And in this time of drought, I never used so much water as to receive the higher-tier penalty charges for excessive use.

When I left my cabin in early May to return to Los Angeles, as we still had freezing nights, I opened all of my faucets in the cabin, put in anti-freeze, and closed the main valve. I did not return to Idyllwild until the last weekend of May.

A serviceman came to my door and warned me there would be a very high charge for the month. "Why? I was only here three or four days this month."

The bill for the month was over $1,400. This bill includes the higher-tier charges.

In those weeks, I had not occupied the cabin. The main valve remained shut. Anti-freeze remained in the lines.

Had a tanker truck pumped thousands of gallons of water from my line?

To prevent freezing of the pipes, I had opened all the faucets inside the cabin.

Even if someone had stolen the water by opening the main valve and running hoses to my outside faucets, the house would have been flooded. And the volume of water taken would have required parking the truck on my road for days.

Even if there had been a broken pipe — a river of thousands of gallons? — there would have been a new gulley down the hillside.

Robbery? A broken pipe? Not possible.

With an average bill for years of $28, I am dismayed that I am being required to pay for water that I did not use. The district claims that the meter was working. No one can explain the vast volume of water recorded by the meter.

I offered to compromise and pay for the water at the lower tier. The district refused to lower the bill.

This is the first time in over 56 years we have had such a problem. I had hoped that it could have been resolved. I did ask for a new meter and a new valve. But I still must pay for the water I did not use.

Familiarity breeds acceptance ...

As you may have noticed (if you haven't been living under a rock for the last year), the general election is only a few months away.

While it's hard to decipher when (if ever) a politician is telling the truth, one fact is glaringly obvious: The things we are exposed to repeatedly feel more true because of a mechanism known as cognitive ease.

Cognitive ease is a measure of how hard your brain is working. Watching funny cat videos on YouTube is easy. Hard is when you try to multiply 234 by 37.

Statements that are true generally elicit cognitive ease. When you hear things such as "Fire is hot, ice is cold, the Earth revolves around the Sun," not only do they intuitively feel true, they also feel familiar.

The problem (or advantage if you are a politician) arises with the fact that cognitive ease can be achieved in other ways. In a recent experiment the University of Michigan Psychology Department conducted, researchers placed ads in the school newspaper.

Each ad consisted of only one of the following nonsense words: kardirga, ikifaf, biwonjni, nansoma, saricik. The ads asked readers if they thought these words meant something good or something bad.

Turns out that the more frequently a word appeared in the newspaper, the more people thought it meant something good. This experiment has since been repeated by several universities and confirms Michigan's findings. However, the findings are even more general than that.

Other studies have shown that songs heard repeatedly on the radio are judged more favorably and participants looking at yearbook photos tend to consider the people in the photos more likable the more they see the photo.

Cognitive ease also is at the core of the advertising industry. The idea that is repeated often enough — from black carbonated sugar water that can shut down your kidneys, to erection pills that can give you a heart attack to Orangutan-looking narcissistic presidential candidates — can start to sound less dangerous and even somewhat appealing.

If you think about it, this comes down to basic biology. Our brains have evolved to identify threats and anything novel is a potential threat. But after repeated exposure, it becomes familiar and over time, a sign of safety instead of a threat. Was it really a surprise that Walter Cronkite eventually became known as the most trusted man in America?

So if your campaign manager is smart and wants to improve voters' perceptions of your honesty and trustworthiness, don't hide from radio or television, get your face out there and talk, just talk, then talk some more.

If it can work for a guy who thinks a wall can stop any individual with a ladder, some rope or a shovel and a three-day weekend from getting the best of it, then it can work for you.

Covered Cal health insurance rates increasing for 2017

Shopping for plans can still save money

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Last month, Covered California announced its rates for health insurance in 2017 with some health plans intending to expand into new areas this year. This will provide more competition for state health insurance consumers.

The statewide weighted average change will be 13.2 percent, up from 4 percent in 2016 and 4.2 percent in 2015. Inland Empire plans will increase an average of 10 percent compared to 1 percent last year.

"Looking over the last three years, you average these three years, that's about 7 percent," said Covered California Executive Director Peter V. Lee. "That is dramatically lower than we were seeing before the Affordable Care Act when double-digit increases were the norm."

However, most consumers will see a much smaller increase — or pay less next year — if they switch to another plan. In the Inland Empire, the growth of the lowest-priced bronze and silver plan is about half the statewide average.

Mitigating the price increases will be the federal government's subsidy. About 90 percent of CC enrollees get help to pay for their premiums. The average subsidy covers roughly 77 percent of the consumer's monthly premium. While premiums will rise, the subsidies will rise as well, CC says.

"Shopping is going to be more important this year than ever before," Lee said. "Almost 80 percent of our consumers will either be able to pay less than they are paying now, or see their rates go up by no more than 5 percent, if they shop and buy the lowest-cost plan at their same benefit level. That's the power of shopping."

Some consumers who choose to keep their plan will see a significant increase in their premium for 2017, while others will see a more modest increase, depending on where they live and what insurance plan they have. The increases for the lowest-priced bronze and silver plans, which have more than 90 percent of CC's enrollment, are 3.9 percent and 8.1 percent.

Consumers will begin receiving notices in October, when they will have an opportunity to review their new rates and change plans for their 2017 health coverage, according to the CC press release.

Lee said the average rate increase reflects the cost of medical care for consumers, not excessive profit.

In 2017, health-care premium rates will increase throughout the nation, not just in California, because of the expiration of the ACA's reinsurance, a program that subsidized health care plans that enrolled higher-cost individuals.

Reinsurance was designed to help keep rates down during the first three years of the exchanges to stabilize the market and attract more consumers to build a healthy risk mix. According to CC, this one-time adjustment added between 4 and 6 percent to this year's rate change.

Other reasons for rate increases include:

- The rising cost of health care, especially specialty drugs.
- Increased usage because of pent-up demand from individuals without health insurance before 2015.
- Special enrollment rules allowing some consumers to delay enrolling in health insurance until they become sick or need care, which seems to have had a significant impact on rates for two insurance plans.

CC's 11 health insurers are competing across the state for its 1.4 million members. Among the new rules is that all consumers either select or are provisionally assigned a primary-care physician within 60 days of their plan going into effect.

Another change CC is requiring will reduce the number of services subject to a consumer's deductible. Start-position and there are quite a few. Example: President Obama, Dr. Ben Carson and the list goes on.

If we had martial arts training in schools, the troublemakers would turn into very good students and be examples for others.

We're all God's children. He sees and hears everything. Sooner or later we'll all be in front of him and have to account for our actions.

Here's my second big issue.

As a child in Germany, I read books about cowboys, soldiers and Indians in the wild West. They were written by a German author, Karl May. He'd never been to America but could he write about them. I was fascinated. The stories made a big impression on me. Since then, I've always felt connected to the Indians.

I sponsor two Indian schools in South Dakota and feel loved by the children. I've read about the Trail of Tears.

The American government was heartless and wrong for driving the Indians from their lands.

My point: Are they rioting? Are they damaging and looting? Are they shouting, "Try the pigs and beat up whites?"

Let's get some things straight and worked out. It can be done and has to happen. Otherwise, America will destroy itself from within.

The right to bear arms

EDITOR:

The Second Amendment to the Constitution states: "A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to bear Arms, shall not be infringed."

The Second Amendment has been supported by the United States Supreme Court as an individual right to own a gun. If a new administration changes the make-up of the Supreme Court, which then finds that individuals do not have the right to own a gun and the federal government then decides to confiscate guns; the Fifth Amendment — "nor shall private property be taken for public use without just compensation" — takes effect.

There are an estimated 245 to 360 million guns in the United States with an estimated value of $200 to $400 per gun. The financial cost would be $49 to $144 billion for the guns alone. That excludes the related litigation costs to determine disputed values and the confiscation costs.

Since the federal government does not know where the guns are, which federal agency will actually search for and confiscate the guns is a problem, as many people will not willingly surrender their guns.

In many jurisdictions, the elected sheriff is the primary law enforcement, and may or may not cooperate with the federal government. The real cost would be the social unrest accompanied by further disintegration of the people's trust in the federal government.

This then leads to the words of the Declaration of Independence: "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness ... That whenever any form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it, and to institute new Government ..."

Mosquito that can carry Zika virus found near Hemet

First West Nile case in county this year

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Zika virus

The invasive Aedes aegypti mosquito, which can harbor and transmit the dangerous Zika virus, has been detected near the Hemet outskirts, according to Riverside County vector control officials, who announced this Wednesday, Aug. 17.

A single mosquito was caught in a vector-control trap near Yale Street and Johnston Avenue in the Hemet's unincorporated area two days earlier, Monday, Aug. 15. The mosquito has been found in several county locations in the past year, but this is the closest to Idyllwild.

Two cases of Zika victims have been confirmed in the county; however, both individuals contracted the disease while traveling outside of California.

Non-native to California, Aedes aegypti is a black-and-white, day-biting mosquito that prefers to feed on humans. It has the potential to spread the Zika virus, Chikungunya, yellow fever and dengue.

While these viruses are not currently transmitted in California, there is a potential for them to be introduced into the state through infected international travelers.

Unlike native California mosquitoes, this mosquito lays its eggs just above the water surface in containers such as flower pots, pet bowls, discarded tires and bird baths. It is capable of breeding in as little as a bottle cap of water. Eggs can survive on surfaces even after water has been drained. Therefore, residents should not only drain any outside standing water, but then scrub the items that contained water.

The county's vector control staff will continue seeking the mosquito in areas surrounding the point of discovery. That effort will include door-to-door inspections of residential and commercial properties.

West Nile virus

In other county health news, the first confirmed case of West Nile virus was announced Friday, Aug. 19.

"A 73-year-old woman who lives in western Riverside County is the first confirmed human case of West Nile Virus in the county this year," Dr. Cameron Kaiser, county public health officer, said in a press release.

Tests confirmed the infection, but after hospitalization, the woman has been released and is expected to recover, the press release added.

This virus also is transmitted through mosquito bites, but by a different mosquito species than the one that transmits Zika.

Health officials emphasized that the risk of serious illness to humans is low. Most infected individuals will not experience any illness. Elderly people and those with compromised immune systems are at greatest risk for serious illness.

'Day For Children' this Sunday

Yokoji Zen Mountain Center at 58900 Apple Canyon Road in Mountain Center is holding its annual "Day For Children."

The celebration of Jizo Bodhisattva, the protector of children, animals and travelers, is from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 28.

The ceremony will be held in the grove by the front of Budha Hall where the Jizo statue presides.

It is specifically designed for children so families are invited.

Melissa Baiun Severa will then run a special Jizo day program for the kids while the adults can join in with the regular Sunday schedule.

Fern Valley water conditions stable

District enters new fiscal year with reserves greater than $1 million

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Financial and water conditions, and authorizing several small projects were the business of Friday's Fern Valley Water District board meeting.

The final fiscal year 2015-16 results were discussed with total revenue of about $1.1 million exceeding initial projects by about $65,000. Expenditures were $1.3 million, nearly $200,000 less than budget. Net income was a negative $250,000, which lowered reserves to $1.2 million entering the new fiscal year 2016-17.

General Manager Victor Jimenez reported that stream flow was declining. But well production was only 20 percent of total water supply in July compared to slightly more than 40 percent last year.

"Static well levels recording show very minor increases and decreases in all well levels," Jimenez wrote in his report. "We haven't seen any dropping lately," he added. The office observation groundwater well level fell only 1 inch since July, he said.

The leak detection program is continuing. "We found only one and it was estimated to be 0.5 gallons per minute and has been repaired," he told the board.

The board continued its discussion of expanding the office building. At this time, it was decided to move forward with developing plans and estimates, but seeking the permit and authorizing funding may be postponed until next fiscal year.

The board did authorize improving the air conditioning and modifying the new vehicles to improve their service to staff.

As the meeting ended, board members complimented Jimenez on his reports and thoroughness of his memoranda and recommendations to the board.

IWD income

is 2.7 million more than in July 2015 but about 150,000 gallons less than two years ago. In the past four months, IWD production has gradually increased compared to 2015. Since January, IWD has produced nearly 47-million gallons compared to 43.4 million in the same seven-month period during 2015.

Compared to the 2013

baseline, which the State Water Resources Control Board uses, IWD consumption from January through July is down 17.7 percent. Lynch is using the SWRCB recommendation of a 20-percent decline for the urban districts as his goal for IWD consumers.

During directors' comments at the end of the meeting, Director June Rockwell asked if the story on the Town Crier's website reporting Lynch's three failures to pass the exam for the State of California Water Treatment Grade II Operator Certificate was true.

In response, Cook described the question as vague and Lynch said it was a personnel matter and could only be discussed in private.

Later, Director Michael Freitas said he had requested the requirement for the Grade II when the board chose Lynch over another applicant in 2014. While Lynch had more administrative experience, the other person had several certificates and a lot of water experience, Freitas said.

"When we decided on Tom, I said, just to make sure I'd feel better and safer, let's throw in the Grade II certificate," Freitas said, explaining its purpose. When asked if he felt "better and safer" now, Freitas insisted that the state was wrong and Lynch had only taken the exam once. (But see related story, page 2.)

Prop 52 aims to extend private hospital fees that help fund Medi-Cal

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Proposition 52, "State Fees on Hospitals. Federal Medi-Cal Matching Funds. Initiative Statutory and Constitutional Amendment," is fairly straightforward in its objectives but a bit complicated in its verbiage.

Simply put, it aims to prevent the 2018 expiration of an existing hospital fee that helps fund Medi-Cal health care to low-income Californians, seniors, children and adults with disabilities. The existing hospital fee structure is designed to help defray costs of "uncompensated care provided by hospitals to uninsured patients and to children's health coverage."

As background, the federal government established the Medicaid program to help pay for health-care services for the above-referenced groups. In California, the program is called Medi-Cal. In order for any state to receive federal Medicaid funds, the state has to contribute a matching amount of its own money.

In California, a program was created in 2009 (renewed in 2013 as the Medi-Cal Hospital Reimbursement Act) to have California private hospitals, rather than taxpayers, pay a fee to help the state obtain federal matching funds. As a result, California hospitals began to receive more than $2 billion a year in federal matching funds to help pay for uncompensated patient services.

Under existing law, in 2015-16, private hospitals paid $4.6 billion to help the state secure federal government matches of $4.4 billion. That fund, $8.1 billion, consists of $3.7 billion in Medi-Cal payments and grants to hospitals, and $4.4 billion in federal matches. It provides a net benefit to California hospitals, according to the California Legislative Analyst's Office, of $3.5 billion ($8.1 billion in payments received by hospitals minus the $4.6 billion of fees paid by private hospitals).

The current law authorizing these payments is due to expire on Jan. 1, 2018. The original 2009 act has been renewed three times by the Legislature but each time there were attempts to divert the money to other uses. Prop 52, if passed, would prevent the Legislature from diverting the funds. Any change in how the funds are used would have to be approved by California voters.

A "yes" vote supports requiring voter approval to change the dedicated use of current hospital fees used to draw matching federal money to fund Medi-Cal services. The initiative also would change existing law to require a two-thirds rather than majority vote of the Legislature to end the hospital fee program.

Should the measure not pass, and the Legislature fails to extend it prior to its Jan. 2018 expiration, then federal matching funds (from $3 to $4 billion annually) would no longer be available and could impact quality of medical care for targeted groups.

Proponents contend this federal money helps provide health care through Medi-Cal to more than 13 million Californians, including 6.7 million children, 1.6 million seniors with chronic diseases, 4.5 million low-income working families whose wages can't sustain them and the disabled.

The measure is supported by a wide coalition of groups, including the California Teachers Association, California Chamber of Commerce, California Professional Firefighters and California Democratic Party.

A "no" vote would allow the Legislature to change, extend or eliminate the hospital fee program with a majority vote.

Prop 52 is opposed primarily by the Service Employees International Union, United Health Care Workers West, who calls it a "no-strings-attached money grab" by hospitals, with no accountability of how the money is to be spent on patient services. They contend the proposition would divert resources from patients and communities to special interests, such as hospital CEOs and lobbyists.

Supporters, including the California Health Foundation and Trust, Dignity Health, Sutter Health, the Children's Hospital of Los Angeles, Adventist Health and Loma University Medical Center, have raised more than $59 million and spent $47 million.

Opponents, including SEIU West and SEIU United, have raised more than $11 million and spent $3.5 million.

Extension of the hospital fee, under this initiative, also requires federal approval since federal matching funds are involved.

Kevin Riggs, "Yes on 52" spokesman, said, "Hospitals see it as a way to provide long-term protection for this agreement [hospital fee/federal matches] and to remove some of the uncertainty in the political process."

David Kieffer, SEIU's director of governmental relations said, "I agree that hospitals have a say in how it [the funds] should be used. The issue is should they have the only voice in the process?"

On my way to Hemet one day I saw a string of migrating white pelicans going south to Salton Sea.

Flying at about eye level and close to the 74 Highway. I stopped at the next turnout to watch this spectacular event. The leader of the group must have noticed or felt that not all of them could make the keen summit clearing. The he or she leader made a large 360° Loop to gain the necessary altitude. It was an experience to watch an event like this and a long lasting memory.

Free movie on swami's life

Spirit Mountain Retreat is showing a free movie from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday, Aug. 29.

"Awake: The Life of Yogananda" is an unconventional biography about the Hindu swami who brought yoga and meditation to the West in the 1920s.

Filmed over three years with the participation of 30 countries around the world, the documentary examines the world of yoga, modern and ancient, East and West, and explores why millions today have turned their attention inwards, bucking the limitations of the material world in pursuit of self-realization.

The free event at the retreat is open to the public.

Idyllwild Conversations returns

The local discussion group Idyllwild Conversations is returning to the library. The meetings are about different topics pertaining to local sustainability.

The meeting is from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 6.

Soboba holds 20th pow wow

The Soboba Band of Luiseno Indians invites the community and public to the 20th-annual Payomkawichum Soboba Inter-Tribal Pow Wow set to take place from Friday to Sunday, Sept. 16 to 19, at the Soboba Event Center next to Soboba Casino. This will be a family friendly event with free admission and parking. Everyone is welcome.

For two decades, Soboba's pow wow has been a space for the community to meet old friends, make new ones, have fun and dance on their own reservation. Another tradition is Soboba's outreach to local area schools. The tribe provides buses for local school children to come and be immersed in their culture and heritage that includes a special performance by tribal dancers.

One concert to go and over $5,000 needed

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Each year, Ken Dahleen and the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series board launch their annual eight-concert series without sufficient funds to meet budget. They do it on faith.

The series is provided with no charge for admission and relies on the generosity of patrons who deposit dollars and fivers into the ubiquitous donation jars happily passed by volunteers.

This year, the series is over $5,000 in the red with only one concert to go — Lisa Haley and the Zydekats on Thursday, Aug. 25.

So show up, dig deep and show appreciation for this iconic event, provided each summer for the enjoyments of locals.

CONTEST JUDGE

Last week's photo was going to be tough, I knew. It was of the South Ridge Trailhead, not far from High Castle. Only two names in the hat, both Smiths: Colin Smith and the Jeff and Yvonne Smith family. Katy pulled Colin's name from the hat. So, Colin, please come to the Town Crier office to pick up your $25 VISA gift card, courtesy of June Rockwell and Jo'An's Restaurant and Bar. Please use it on the Hill, if you can. OK, this week's photo should be somewhat easier, but still ... ?

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office.

Pet owners beware

Every pet owner will tell you about the benefits of bonding with a dog or a cat, says the Association of Mature American Citizens. It's good for the heart and for the soul.

But the Centers for Disease Control reports that there's a downside to pet ownership. A CDC study indicates that tens of thousands of Americans wind up in the emergency room each year with injuries resulting from trip and fall accidents involving dogs and cats.

Lindsay Crater returns to teach at school she attended

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Lindsay Crater started third grade at Idyllwild School, finished eighth grade and, like many, went on to Hemet High. This August, she returned to her alma mater to teach fourth grade.

"I grew up here," said Crater. "It's still the same magical place, as open and beautiful as it was when I was a child."

Crater and her family have deep Idyllwild roots. Her mother, Corinne "Cori," taught at Hemet High and is still an instructional aide. Her father, Brian, is associate executive director of Camp Ronald McDonald. During the summers, Lindsay assists with the horse program at the camp.

After graduating from Hemet High where she played water polo and swam competitively, Crater left the area for college at California State University, Chico. While at Chico State, she played intramural water polo and swam. After obtaining a degree in art and interior design, Crater worked as an interior designer for the Holiday Inn hotel chain.

Finding the corporate world not a perfect fit for her skills and sensibilities, Crater returned to college with the goal of teaching. She obtained a credentialed master's degree in education from Western Governor's University in Utah.

After graduation, she moved to the Long Beach area and taught at Ocean Charter School in Culver City and Heritage Oak Private School in Yorba Linda. She briefly student taught at Idyllwild School in 2011.

Crater seemed happily at home in her fourth-grade Idyllwild School classroom, grateful to be back Idyllwild School has a new 4th grade teacher, Lindsay Crater, who attended Idyllwild School as a student from 3rd to 8th grade. Crater graduated from Hemet High School and, after completing bachelor's and master's degrees, returns to her alma mater to teach.

Another great jazz fest

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Gray, possibly rain-filled clouds covered the Hill Sunday, but they could not quench the desire for great and beautiful jazz from the dedicated fans of the Jazz in the Pines festival at Idyllwild Arts.

The 23rd festival was another success, bringing thousands of visitors to the Hill and hundreds of musicians.

On both days, the first performances began at 10:30 a.m.; yet the line, to be the first to enter the festival area and claim prized seat locations in the Holmes Amphitheatre, began forming well before 9 a.m.

On Saturday, a group of friends from the desert, including Dori and Bob Lienhard, were in the front. This was their fifth jazz fest. They wanted to place their chairs and blankets at the front of the amphitheater for a great position to listen and watch Saturday's closing act — Diane Schurr. They also were looking forward to hearing

Lisa Haley and the Zydekats on Sunday.

The group arrived in town Friday so they didn't have to get up early Saturday to drive to Idyllwild and then sit in line.

On Sunday, two Idyllwild families were at the head of the line. Casey and Shannon Johnston, with daughters Lylianne and Kaelynn, and Shannon's mother Sheila, were anxious to get good spots for Sunday's popular headliners — Casey Abrams and Haley Reinhart. Right behind the Johnstons was Bob Lewis, who arrived about 9 a.m. for his place.

Despite the threat of rain Sunday, a few sprinkles were all that fell. No performances were disturbed from the barely noticeable precipitation. Saturday's sunny skies beckoned many jazz aficionados.

Benjamin Brookes, the head of marketing for Idyllwild Arts, said ticket sales, as well as ticket revenue, were well ahead of previous years.

Not only the fans, but musicians were glad and thrilled to perform here. One of the new groups this year was Hot Club of Los Angeles. Drummer Jim Doyle said, "It's wonderful to play in this festival in front of an audience that loves jazz."

Lisa Haley (right) and the Zydekats pulled Buzz Holmes (center) out from the dancing crowd onto the stage to sing their final song of their set during Jazz in the Pines Sunday. Haley is a former Idyllwild Arts Summer Program student and has known Holmes for years.

Their usual venues are night clubs in Los Angeles where they emphasize the gypsy jazz music of Belgian guitar virtuoso and composer Django Reinhardt.

Many of the musicians come back year after year to perform in a beautiful forest setting. Rob Thorsen, bass player with the Steph Johnson Quartet, has been in 20 Jazz in the Pines festivals, he said.

The very popular Harry Pickens returned again this year. For his performance Sunday, Stephens Hall was filled. Outside seating was taken and people were standing in several rows deep in order to listen to him with festival founder Marshall Hawkins, drummer Roy McCurdy, and guest vocalists Rose Colella and Sherry Williams.

While many of the favorite performers live on the Hill or nearby, such as Robin Adler and the Mutts of the Planet and Yve Evans, several came from the other side of the continent. Saturday's brass jazz group, the Westerlies, grew up in Seattle, but live in New York City now.

CREATURE CORNER

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in “The Days of Our Nine Lives,” Checkers the dog met the ARF cats, and was unsure about Bobbie’s meltdown.

Leia: Holy moly! Everyone sit down! You are going to be so shocked when I tell you this.

Bobbie: Let me guess: That last kitten, Abra, got adopted.

Leia: Right! But that’s not all.

Bobbie: (sighing) Checkers the dog got adopted.

Leia: Right again! Abra was with us for only a week, and the same for Checkers.

Bobby: Anything thing else you want to rub into my wound?

Leia: Not to rub anything into anyone’s wound, but Furball Bill also got adopted! He was at ARF for nearly five years, and finally he has his forever home! Bobbie, you haven’t been here nearly that long.

Bobbie: Bill’s gone? Wow. Gotta admit, I’m happy for him.

Sadie: And I have more news!

Bobbie: And that would be...

Sadie: Ginger, a Pomeranian, was with ARF for just a few days, but she’s already with a family, and there’s new ARF guests — three dogs and two cats.

Bobbie: Please tell me they’re not kittens.

Sadie: Nope! A pure white lady named Mojo who is 11 and the other, Princess, is midnight black and 12. They aren’t posing for photos, yet. The paparazzi are waiting!

Bobbie: OK, and what about the dogs?

Sadie: There’s Fang, a schnauzer-poodle mix, who is 10; Bella, 5-year old poodle; and Girlie, who is 7 and a shepherd-mix. They’re just getting settled with their foster families, so no photos quite yet.

Bobbie: Makes sense.

Leia: I can’t wait to meet them!

Sadie: Nor can I. I’m certain we’ll be best buddies within the week.

Is Bobbie happy now that there are no kittens to take center stage? Will these new dogs be with ARF long? Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of “The Days of our Nine Lives” each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243 on Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appt. M-F by calling 951-659-1122.

IN THE GREAT BEYOND

Every year, scientists find out more about our solar system and the ones outside of it. That's right. There is more than one solar system.

Up until 1991, scientists had no proof of planets beyond our solar system. Then a group of planets were discovered orbiting a dying pulsar star.

In the time since, over 100 planets have been discovered that orbit other stars. Some of these planets are very close to their stars, while others are far away.

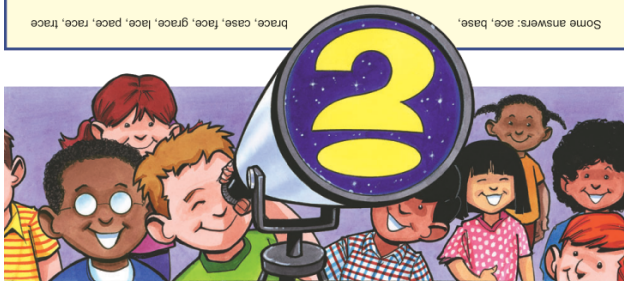

What Rhymes with...

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS

California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: "Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentments to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor."

This is a contractor's responsibility, not a newspapers', and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors' advertising, if we notice it.

HOROSCOPES

August 2016 — Week 4

March 21 – April 19

The truth is finally revealed, and you have one of two options. Think through the pros and cons carefully, Aries. A memo gets the ball started.

April 20 – May 20

You're not a quitter by any means, Taurus, but things are getting nowhere fast with a youngster. Step back and give someone else a chance.

May 21 – June 21

Budget constraints put the kibosh on vacation plans. Think smaller, Gemini. A turn of events at work throws everyone for a loop and kicks the rumor mill into high gear.

June 22 – July 22

Get ready to celebrate, Cancer. Good news is headed your way. The flames of passion burn bright, and plans are made for a night on the town.

July 23 – August 22

Stop it, Leo. This is not the time for cynicism. If you have nothing positive to contribute, don't say anything at all. A gift sets things right with a coworker.

August 23 – September 22

Personal beliefs are challenged, and you must find the strength to stand behind your convictions. Don't back down, Virgo. Budgetary issues are resolved.

September 23 – October 22

It's obvious to everyone but you, Libra. Take off your blinders and see the situation for what it really is. A change in décor at home inspires more changes.

October 23 – November 21

Welcome, Scorpio. A new friend rolls out the red carpet, allowing you to relax and be yourself. Return the favor. A shopping trip uncovers an alternative solution.

November 22 – December 21

Whoa, Sagittarius. Many ideas will come to the table, but you can only pick one. Look for the one with star power. A legal issue comes to a conclusion.

December 22 – January 19

Surely, Capricorn, you jest. There is so much more to do before you are truly ready. Accept any and all offers of help, skilled help, in particular.

January 20 – February 18

Cheer up, Aquarius. The battle may be over, and the outcome may not be what you were hoping for, but all is not lost. There are some positives.

February 19 – March 20

You can't win with a loved one, Pisces. Nothing you do now or in the future will satisfy them, so stop trying. Focus on someone you can help.

For questions about Public Notices call the Town Crier
(951) 659-2145 or Email: Katy@towncrier.com

Every day throughout the United States, newspapers publish thousands of public notices about events, conditions or actions that affect countless individuals, families, neighborhoods and businesses. Public notices cover many topics, including business matters, liquor licensing, public auctions and sales, estates, zoning, public meetings, bids to sell goods and services to the government, local government finances and state and local elections. Public notice is a fundamental component of our system of representative democracy, which depends upon the participation of educated, responsible citizens.

John Bel Edwards, with some parishes having experienced more than 32 inches of rain in one day. Thirty thousand people have been rescued from flooded homes, as have more than 1,000 pets. The Red Cross said 7,000 people are in shelters and thousands more are without power.

And after the rain, and when floodwaters begin to subside, lingering dampness in walls, wood, carpets and homes provides the perfect host environment for mold to spread, posing serious health risks, especially to infants, children, seniors and any persons with immune deficiencies.

Leopold said she and Brun need art supplies of all kinds: paper, markers, brushes, glue, glue sticks, crayons, duct tape, watercolors, plastic water containers, paper towels, beads, yarn and knitting needles. "Any art supplies or funds will be appreciated," said Leopold. "Art has proven to be a powerful tool in helping families and children during difficult times. I will be joining [Brun] ... to train and begin art therapy programs for children in the shelters. What supplies we don't use will go to the schools in the area, many of them flooded."

Supplies and donations can be mailed to Sister Judith Brun, 304 Laurel, #3D, Baton Rouge, LA 70801. Donations may be made to the Community Initiatives Foundation, Brun's nonprofit, www.cifbr.com, and mailed to the same address.

Obituary
Thomas Pritchett
1950-2016

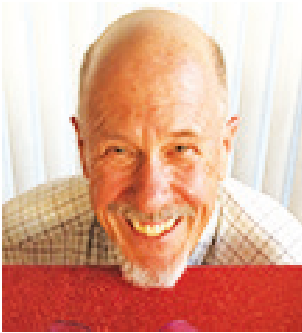

Thomas "Tom" Pritchett, 65, and long-time resident of Idyllwild, died Monday, July 18, 2016. Tom committed suicide after years of struggling with bipolar disorder and severe depression.

Tom was born Sept 8, 1950 in San Francisco, and lived most of his life in California, with the exception of a few years in Florida and Massachusetts.

Tom was well known for his quick intelligence and wit. He received a bachelor of arts degree in nutrition science from Chico State and a doctorate in biochemistry from UCLA.

He worked many years in the biotechnology industry, the last 20 as a well-known and respected instructor. He taught industrial and regulatory scientists in many locations, including Saudia Arabia, Croatia, Canada, United States, Europe and Japan. Additionally, he cofounded and published BioQuality Newsletter.

However, he always considered his most important achievement raising his daughter Cathy Pritchett. One of his proudest moments came when the mothers in the Idyllwild play group suggested nominating him "mother" of the year. He rearranged his life and work to be an active part of his daughter's life, stepping down from a successful corporate career primarily to be a daily presence in her life.

Tom loved hiking, mountaineering and the outdoors. He constantly read various philosophical books, learning about new religions, listening to taped lectures about history, and literature. He constantly sought the life of the mind and an intellectual challenge.

He also loved Irish music, and played the wooden Irish flute and Irish penny whistle.

Tom is predeceased by his parents Thomas and Ruth Pritchett. He is survived by his daughter Cathy Pritchett, his ex-wife of 21 years and best friend, Laurie Little, his adopted brother Carl Slusser, his niece Cori Schrader and his many wonderful and close friends in Idyllwild and elsewhere.

A memorial will be held for Tom from 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 10 at the Idyllwild Center for Spiritual Living, 54240 Ridgeview Dr., Suite 104. This is both a celebration of his life and his 66th birthday party.

Please come and join us to celebrate his life. Please be ready to share your happy memories of Tom. If you want to play music at the ceremony, the contact is june172013@gmail.com.

We miss you and will always love you, Tom. Some of the joyful music left all of our lives and this world with you.

ing in 2017, for example, consumers in platinum, gold and silver plans will pay a flat co-pay for emergency room visits, with no additional physician fee.

"We're doing everything we can to make the consumer get the best possible deal," Lee added. "... for everyone, from the moment you get coverage with us; it means if you need to see a doctor, you don't have a deductible between you and that doctor visit."

Since CC began offering health-care coverage in 2014, the uninsured rate in the state has been cut by more than half, from 17 percent at the end of 2013 to 8.1 percent by the end of 2015.

Eleven health-insurance companies will offer programs for the 2017 exchange — Anthem Blue Cross of California, Blue Shield of California, Chinese Community Health Plan, Health Net, Kaiser Permanente, L.A. Care Health Plan, Molina Healthcare, Oscar Health Plan of California, Sharp Health Plan, Valley Health Plan and Western Health Advantage.

"The sheer number of enrollees and their overall health means consumers in the individual market are benefiting from competition," Lee said.
