Young Idyllwild steps up

By HOLLY PARSONS STAFF REPORTER

"Community Institutions in Idyllwild have never been plentiful, but the few that have persisted over the years have bound the community together profoundly. The most important institution under this theme is Town Hall, which was constructed largely by communitv labor for community use and stands today as a symbol of Idyllwild's social cohesion and neighborly spirit," states LSA Associates, Historic Resources Survey, Idvllwild Commercial District. Riverside County, 2009. With an asking price of $489,000, the Johnson family listed Town Hall for sale for a second time as a commercial property on April 19, 2018. The property is represented by Muir Mountain Realty. Marge Muir advised, "The Johnson Family legal counsel, upon their request, elected to engage the services of First American Title to perfect title to Town Hall enabling the Johnsons to place the property on the market."

Member-supported Pine Cove Property Owners prepared for water rate increase

By JP CRUMRINE NEWS EDITOR

Jerry Holldber, Pine Cove Water District general manager, spoke at the monthly Pine Cove Property Owners Association's meeting May 5. While he discussed several water issues, the prospective rate increase was the highlight.

CE Town With attendance of about 20 members, the audience did not express any opposition to the proposal. Although social media suggests dyllwild a few residents have strong feelings about the increase and they may turn out at the May 9 PCWD public hearing, none of them appeared at Saturday's PCPOA meeting.

The cost to produce 1,000 gallons of water is nearly $7.30 cents, Holldber said. He has had the district's engineer, John Egan, review the budget, audits and invoices to confirm that figure.

Right now, the cost to customers is $1.80 for 1,000 gallons, which explains why he has proposed the rate increase. The cost for electricity to produce that water is about $1.40.

At the end of the five-year period, PCWD will be selling those 1,000 gallons for $8. Unless no inflation occurs in the next five years, that is still likely to be less than the cost of production.

The principal reason the district has sold water below its cost of production is the money it receives for leasing communication sites at its Rocky Point property. These leases bring in about $190,000 annually.

In the future, Holldber would like to put these funds into reserves for capital projects. For example, in the next year or two, the district will need to re-coat several of its water-storage tanks and will need the funds to pay that cost.

In addition, Holldber told the attendees he plans to announce that the district will go to a Stage 2 water conservation level this month.

He emphasized that the purpose See Water rate, page A7 of Town Hall on Cedar Street likely began with an informal land-use bequest. Residents of Idyllwild began construction of Town Hall In 1946, volunteering labor to build the entire two-story, 4,000-square-foot project, featuring a large stone fireplace and chimney.

"On December 12, 1946, every store in town closed so that the residents of Idyllwild could work all day laying the foundation for the building. Women of the community provided a hearty lunch and dinner to the work crew. Thereafter, a volunteer crew headed by grocery store owner Harold Sanborn worked every Friday for months until they were finally ready to raise the roof in March of 1947. On July 10, 1947, Town Hall was dedicated, a true community achievement and a symbol of Idyllwild's future as a year-round home to a growing population," per LSA Associates.

"In truth and by virtue of the original gift, this facility belongs to each and every member of the Idyllwild community. Everyone should feel they have received an endowment from the previous generation who leveraged their resources and built a legacy for Idyllwild that's now in jeopardy," said Kat Wilson, founder of Young Idyllwild Inc., a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, who are forming an initiative to, if necessary, buy back Town Hall on behalf of the Idyllwild community.

In keeping with their intent, on Aug. 30, 1952, Gerald E. and Paulette S. Johnson issued a Grant Deed transferring ownership of the Town Hall property to the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce. The Grant Deed outlines the following conditions: "(1) The said property shall be used by the Grantee, in accordance with its corporate powers and solely for the purpose of a community and recreational site for the use of the inhabitants of the community of Idyllwild, Riverside County California. (2) Said premises shall not be used as a dwelling place or place of permanent residence, nor shall any commercial activity be conducted thereon except such as may be conducted by Grantee itself for the direct advancement of its corporate purpose. And upon the violation of any of said Conditions, said property shall revert to Grantors or their heirs.'

On June 6, 2000, son James W. Johnson presented an "Agreement" requesting written assurance from the Idyllwild Chamber ... to the following stipulations. "1. The Town Hall property shall be used only for community recreational purposes. If the Town Hall is ever sold by the CHAMBER, the proceeds from that sale shall be used solely for community recreational purposes." 2. States this agreement shall become part of the permanent record of the CHAMBER dated June 19, 2000. "3. All of the provisions of this Agreement shall extend to and bind or inure to the benefit of not only the parties hereto, but to each and every one of the officers, directors, heirs, executors, representatives, successors, and assigns of the parties.

On Nov. 2, 2012, the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce, "Resolved to convey, transfer and return Town Hall property ... to Jay William Johnson, Trustee for the heirs of Gerald E. and Eleanor S. Johnson, as the holders of a present preserved power of termination created by the original 1952 conveyance of the Town Hall property to the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce".

This resolution was signed by David Jerome, the resolution was "duly adopted by the Board of Directors of the corporation at the Board of Directors Meeting held on October, 31, 2012." The adoption of this action was taken prior to the Idyllwild Chamber's formal dissolution in 2013.

"JP Crumrine reported in the Nov. 19, 2015, issue of the Town Crier that asbestos was found above the ceiling of Town Hall requiring immediate attention; the problem was tentatively dealt with shortly thereafter.

However, the asbestos will require permanent remediation," disclosed Wilson, who went onto state, "There are some additional costs which will be incurred to bring Town Hall up to code and comply with historic designation requirements and while they may look daunting by Idyllwild standards, they are nominal when compared to the value this property holds for Idyllwild.

"Historically, questions regarding insuring clear title on a property conveyed via quitclaim versus a warranty deed remain unanswered," stated Wilson.

On Dec. 16, 2016, Vincent Yzaguirre, deputy real estate director for Riverside County, wrote the following in response to a title status inquiry by Wilson on behalf of YI, "At one time (a few years ago) the property was being offered on a donation basis to the County. The donation was never perfected/completed because free and clear (absolute) title could not be perfected to the County and with the help of both internal and external legal counsel. After about one year of trying, both the owner and the County moved away from the idea. I cannot provide you with the specific details of the attempted donation only to say that the donation attempt failed to be perfected."

"It's our responsibility to steward our community," stated Wilson, who added, "We've lost enough historic buildings. I don't think you can place a value on the importance of preserving this history. For upwards of 72 years, this grand venue has served our community. Weddings, plays, concerts, kids programs, performances, holiday and birthday parties, art events, talent shows, barbecues, Fred Waring even taught choral in Inc. for Save Town Hall, you can receive a gift by email Town Hall and now its future for Idyllwild is once again in serious jeopardy."

David Hunt of Idyllwild reasons, "I feel it's important to keep the memory of Jerry Johnson attached to Town Hall, and at all cost, it needs to retain its original purpose and be responsibly stewarded to endure for generations."

To this end, YI is launching a grassroots initiative working co-operatively with interested parties to save Town Hall. The vision, Idyllwild Center for The Arts, includes regaining and retaining title to the property on behalf of the Idyllwild community. The next phase will take the form of an active fundraising campaign.

Initial renovation goals include redesign and upgrade to the indoor stage, addition of stage lights and an audio/visual system, a mobile theater seating system, improved acoustics, dressing rooms, bathroom remodels, classroom space, basement renovation to accommodate a permanent home for Radio Idyllwild with a recording studio, the redesign and build of the outdoor stage, and permitting of the outdoor kitchen for concession sales.

"The Town Hall renovation project is distinctively different from the [Idyllwild Community Center] project because our purposes are mutually exclusive. Town Hall will be re-purposed as a year-round performing arts center. Building of the outdoor amphitheater, although important to ICC, has been moved to stage IV and will only be viable to host performances during summer months when completed," said Wilson.

We are optimistic that the spirit of this effort will convey and the arts community we are, will one day own a viable performance venue ... and it would appear that CBS news anchor Alexandre Pierce will soon be airing a live interview on Town Hall's history and future by Barbara, Bud and David Hunt," confirms Wilson.

Dearing resigns from Idyllwild Water board

Seventh resignation in less than two years

By JP CRUMRINE News Editor

Catherine Dearing resigned as a director of the Idyllwild Water District last week.

President Dr. Charles Schelly confirmed her resignation and Interim General Manager Jack Hoagland said it was for health reasons.

Plans for replacing her will be discussed and announced at the District's May 16 meeting, according to Hoagland.

At the IWD August 2017 meeting, the board selected Dearing as a director to replace former Director Vic Sirkin, who had resigned in July. IWD has churned through several di-through several directors since September 2016, when Jim Billman and Mike Freitas resigned. Schelly and Sirkin were selected by Riverside County 3rd District Supervisor Chuck Washington to replace them.

2017, the board saw John Cook and June Rockwell resign. A month later, Peter Szabadi and Geoffrey Caine were selected to replace these two.

Sirkin resigned in July. Then Caine, unfortunately, developed health problems and died shortly after resigning in February 2018. Director David Hunt replaced him.

Temple offers three-part film festival

A free, three-part film festival, sponsored by Temple Har Shalom of Idyllwild, is at 6 p.m. the second Wednesdays of May, June and July.

The series is an outgrowth of interest from members of the community who attended the Judaism 101 sessions led by Rabbi Malka Drucker. All showings will be at the Community Church, 54400 North Circle.

Initiating the series on May 9 is the acclaimed PBS-produced documentary "The Jewish Journey to America — Jewish immigration to America through the centuries," which includes an interview with Rabbi Malka.

Brenda Lorraine Underwood, 69, passed away after a valiant 23-year battle against metastatic breast cancer Friday, April 27, 2018, at her home in Hemet.

Brenda was born March 13, 1949, in Port Huron, Michigan, to Ethel Lorraine and Morris Merton Anglebrandt.

As a small child growing up in Southern California,

Brenda could not remember a time when art was not a part of her life. She won awards in both Hemet and Idyllwild, including "Artist of the Year" in Hemet at the Hemet Valley Art Association, in 2003, 2013 and 2014.

In Idyllwild, she received many awards for her work and in 2006, the coveted "Artist Choice Award" for her oil painting "Red Poppy" at the Art Alliance's eighth-annual Member Show.

Brenda touched many lives by sharing her talents. Her artwork can be found in many places around the Hemet-San Jacinto Valley.

In addition to murals in private homes, she has a mural inside the Hemet Valley Medical Center, at Little Lake Elementary School in Hemet and in the Early Childhood Development Center in Long Beach.

Although she thoroughly enjoyed murals, she preferred to work on traditional canvas and paper. Brenda won "Best of Show" in several mediums in both Riverside and Orange counties.

Brenda also was honored with the opportunity to participate in the "Deer Sightings" event in Idyllwild and her fawn "Lefty" can be seen at the Idyllwild Area Historical Museum site. She also was selected to participate in the local Idyllwild "Street Banner" program a few years ago.

Her work also has been featured in and on the covers of several national magazines, including "Decorative Painting" and "Country Woman."

Brenda had several pieces of her work registered with the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Brenda also participated in many community activities in both Hemet and Idyllwild. She was a founding member of the Diamond Valley Arts Council in Hemet. She was a member and former treasurer of the Hemet Valley Art Association and a member of the Art Alliance of Idyllwild.

She is survived by her husband of 51 years, Michael Underwood; their three children, Lorraine Keller of Utah, Yvonne Knaper of Hemet and Scott Underwood of Hemet; and her mother-in-law, Christina Underwood of Hemet. She also has eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A Celebration of Life was held at Miller Jones Mortuary at 10 a.m. Friday, May 4. In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Hemet Valley Art Association, Art Alliance of Idyllwild or the Diamond Valley Arts Council.

OPINION & NEWS

One of many reasons we open our Wednesday news meetings to the public is to gather story ideas from attendees. The people who show up oftentimes come just to relay a story idea or two - concerns of their's or other newsworthy events.

For a couple of news meetings in a row, we heard from more than one person that Mountain Community Patrol is considering dissolving. These people are members of the group. The issue, they said, evolved because members are aging and new people are failing to step up and take over the volunteer duties.

Our correspondent, Debra Varnado, offered to attend their next meeting and cover the issue to bring awareness of it to the community.

She did so, covering the meeting and the discussions about this issue that occurred at the meeting. She also recorded it.

Many weeks after we published the story, MCP took umbrage with the coverage and composed a letter to the editor objecting to the question of dissolving. I ran that letter last week.

One member accused Debra of misrepresenting herself, saying she had come to the meeting to volunteer, not report.

Then, when I had the opportunity, I listened to the entire recording of the meeting and the discussion afterward. It was quite clear when people were introducing themselves to the new Sheriff's Department representative during the meeting that Debra was reporting for the TC. Another MCP member introduced her as such.

Throughout the meeting, MCP members expressed concerns to the law enforcement officer about continuing the organization and how to get new people on board. The issue truly was one of whether MCP can continue.

Only after the meeting, during an informal discussion, did one member shout out that they were not going to dissolve. That was one member after the meeting, so that was not an official decision.

Nothing in the story is misleading or incorrect.

Debra is a freelance reporter for us. She has an impressive background in journalism and has written excellent stories for us since coming aboard last November.

But she said she will not go back to another MCP meeting. I do not blame her.

A similar thing happened to me with another group in town years ago. I had to return to the meetings, but I was not a freelance reporter.

I think what MCP did was dishonest in an attempt to make themselves look good. Otherwise, why would they throw Debra and the TC under the bus?

'Climate Comments' agenda

EDITOR:

Let's recognize at the onset that the sun establishes and controls our climate/variability. Other factors, such as major volcanic eruptions, have minor temporary influence. Human activities, such as burning fossil fuels that emit carbon dioxide (CO₂), have no scientifically demonstrated significant effect. Further, no relationship between CO₂ increase and temperature increase (=variable) can be or has been demonstrated so far. Such predictions failed miserably.

Some, usually with an ax to grind, want us to see otherwise

The Climate Comments feature (April 5, 2018) raised expectations for useful information and reasonable ideas for climate change related matters. How wrong I was!

Apparently this lobby believes — wrongly — that burning fossil fuels is the major cause of possible climate warming by generating carbon dioxide (\overline{CO}_2). Many publications along this line of thinking are based on halftruths and hype, rather than scientific facts.

Discussions are discouraged by the "believers." Scientists who are searching for an open, scientific discussion are labeled "non-believers," ostracized, silenced and starved for research funds.

The Climate Lobby overlooks that approximately 85 percent of the energy used today is from fossil fuels generated from oil, gas and coal. Of their enthusiastic promotion "renewable energy" is not checked by reason, their actions would burden the economy with unreasonable, costly, frequently useless regulations with little or no benefit. If implemented, our standard of living would plummet.

We should note that most renewables are subsidized by us and they are uneconomic. For example, my electric bill is already about 100 percent higher than just a few years ago. Blame the renewables mostly.

The worst is still ahead with no benefit in sight.

It is surprising that this lobby promotes a carbon cap and trade tax as a "solution" to the purported climate warning even though it has no demonstrable public benefit. We have had it for several years.

It is great for income redistribution, though.

Cap and Trade Tax collections is the source for politician's self-serving pet projects. Ever hear of Governor's Brown's high speed train boondoggle? The high speed train to nowhere? It is largely financed by Cap and Trade Tax on us. Already, the worst is still ahead.

Seen any benefit? It may be a long wait.

Let's be reasonable and accept that the sun causes climate changes and has the most influence on these. There is no need to burden our economy with costly regulation with negligible benefits, at best.

Traffic concern

Editor:

Editor's note: This letter was sent to Caltrans. Idyllwild and Pine Cove off Highway 243, for 35 years. in letters to the editor.)

Fourteen new members

As that highway is used more and more, especially on weekends, it has become more and more dangerous to get onto that highway and off of it.

More and more we see drivers, in both directions, driving at 55 to 60 miles an hour.

Ours is not the only street that connects to this highway over this five miles. There also are driveways and just east of us is our Nature Center, where on a busy weekend there will be many cars parked on either side of the highway.

You need to put in 40 mph speed-limit signs, at regular intervals, in both directions, between Pine Cove and Idyllwild. Otherwise, someone is going to get killed and, I would guess, pretty soon — maybe even this summer.

You could call this a request, but it's not. It's a warning. Look to it.

And, P.S., a copy of this will be sent to our local weekly paper, the Town Crier, as a letter to the editor.

Let freedom ring

Editor:

I heard a rumor the other day that one of our two grocery stores is planning to install a Redbox kiosk in the near future.

In my opinion, that would be an affront and a very real threat to our local businesses. Both Showtime Video and the Rustic Theatre could suffer financially from such a move.

What if the razing of Jo'An's Restaurant had produced a Starbucks Coffee, or a Rite Aid, or even an In-N-Out Burger? It would have had devastating consequences for some of our local establishments.

No, man. Not in Idyllwild. The outcry would have been both audible and visible.

Tourists, in general, have little or no understanding or interest in our socio-economic situation and needs. It is up to us locals to be the clarions of dissent against an invasion by a large business that would threaten the livelihood of our Idyllwild community.

For me, if a Redbox kiosk shows up in any business, I will turn and walk out. But not before I express my disappointment of the selfishness and greed that would so carelessly threaten the livelihood of one of our own.

Let freedom ring. And I say my freedom will ring at the cash registers of the Rustic Theatre and Showtime Video.

And my freedom will never ring up a cash register inside of any establishment that would selfishly threaten one of our own family owned businesses.

Let freedom ring.

Fourteen weeks until the one-year anniversary of the beginning of the Town Crier's Membership model. You TC readers could not be more clear. You want to keep a community watchdog, warning of danger, advising of opportunity, challenging authority, praising accomplishment, investigating irregularity, marveling at art, exposing abuse, celebrating life and publishing its readers' letters. The Town Crier does all that, and is the only monitor of nine taxpayer-funded, public-agency boards on this Hill, as well.

Some of you are full-time Hill residents, some are parttime. Many live off the Hill, but love our community. Many are hoping to live here at some point down the road, and you want the Town Crier to be here when you do. You all appreciate the need for a real community newspaper on our Hill. Chad Bianco, sheriff's lieutenant, wants top job

By JP Crumrine NEWS EDITOR

Editor's note: This week, Riverside County sheriff candidates Chad Bianco and Dave Brown are interviewed. In two weeks, Sheriff Stan Sniff's interview will appear. Miguel Garcia, the fourth candidate, has not responded to the Town Crier.

Background

Lt. Chad Bianco has been with the Riverside County Sheriff's Department for 24 years. He began in corrections and has had progressive assignments from patrol, internal affairs and supervision, and now currently is assigned to the Hemet Station in September 2016, so he is familiar with the issues and problems in Idyllwild.

"I've served in every epartment and area but court services," he stated. "I have a very broad knowledge of the department under four different sheriffs."

Sheriff candidates land big donations

Deputy association financing Bianco campaign

By JP CRUMRINE NEWS EDITOR

The race for the next sheriff of Riverside County is becoming very expensive. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have already been spent and the total will go into the millions if none of the candidates garners more than 50 percent of the vote on June 5.

Incumbent Sheriff Stan Sniff has a substantial coffer of funds for the final weeks of the campaign. At the end of April, he had nearly $400,000 in cash.

Since January, he has received four donations of greater than $5,000, four others greater than $2,500 and 17 greater than $1,000. During this period, he collected about $93,000. But his campaign has been receiving donations for several years.

nearly $170,000 in contributions, including two for more than $40,000 and two others for more than $10,000.

Sniff	$93,200	$169,800	$396,200

Sheriff's Lt. Chad Bianco has been the grateful beneficiary of the Riverside County Sheriff's Association. As of the end of April, it has given his campaign more than $600,000. He also has been endorsed by several law-enforcement groups, including the Los Angeles County deputies.

Dave Brown, the former Hemet police chief, appears to be lagging in the financing department, but he only entered the race at the beginning of January. He has two contributions of $10,000 and two of $5,000.

Miguel Garcia, a sheriff's deputy in Moreno Valley, is From July 1, 2017, through Dec. 31, 2017, he received a fourth candidate, but he has posted no fundraising reports ing all that is available to demonstrate it was needed.

"We waste money on things we want instead of what we need," he asserted. As example, he described a recent purchase of new computers for everyone in the station. In his opinion, these were not critical. Consequently, eliminating "wasteful spending" is one of his goals as sheriff.

Another budget issue that affects the Board of Supervisors is the needed staffing to open the John J. Benoit Detention Center in Indio later this year. New positions have been funded, but not filled, he said.

Dave Brown, former chief of police for the city of Hemet, is one of three challengers to the re-election of Riverside County Sheriff Stan Sniff.

"I'm the only outside candidate," he said. "And I have actual experience leading a law-enforcement agency."

Brown knows the Hill. He grew up in Hemet, attended Little Lake Elementary School, and graduated from Hemet High School in 1984.

His wife also is from Hemet and they have three from 19 to 25.

As the Hemet Police chief, Brown said he hired a number of fantastic former county deputy sheriffs.

And this is Brown's motivation for seeking the sheriff's position. "It's time to quit observing and complaining. It's time to do something.

"The day I'm elected, the bleeding will stop. People will stop fleeing," he averred.

Brown argues that the deputies are leaving the Sheriff's Department because of the work environment. The constant and high turnover is creating quickly because of the time it takes to vet a deputy applicant. He believes there is adequate funding for staff, the budget problems can be resolved and blaming the supervisors is not the solution.

The high attrition of sheriff's deputies is a major concern for Bianco and an important issue for him in this campaign.

Departmental budget issues derive from the top echelon, Bianco argued, and he does not fault the Riverside County Board of Supervisors.

"We need more fiscal responsibility and that must be direction from the top to eliminate wasteful spendbudget practice of spend-

"I supported the sheriff when he applied and in his first election," Brown stated. "But there is failed leadership; they're starving for leadership.

"I see the results every day. Deputies are leaving the department in droves. See Bianco, page A8 destination in this county."

Differences with supervisors have grown. After Brown announced his candidacy, supervisors John Tavaglione (2nd District) and Chuck Washington (3rd District) endorsed him for sheriff.

"There is no truth to the idea that sheriff can't do the job because the board won't give him the money," Brown charged. "We elect a sheriff the to keep us safe, no matter the budget."

In his opinion, Brown be-nology and employees would lower the cost of policing in the county. He believes some of the recommendations for the consulting firm, KPMG, are valid.

For example, Brown advocates that greater use of civilian staff would give sworn deputies more time in the field. "This would reduce the response time to Idyllwild," he noted.

'We don't need deputy sheriffs writing press releases," he stated. "We can't afford to have deputy sheriffs do every job."

Motorcycle collision on 74 near 371

By HOLLY PARSONS STAFF REPORTER

At 12:24 p.m. Sunday, May 6, a rear-end collision took By JP Crumrine place on Highway 74, one-tenth of a mile east of the intersection of Highway 371.

Karin Vega, 22 of Mountain Center, while riding west on a green 2013 Kawasaki Ninja traveling 40 miles per hour, struck the rear of a Four Winds trailer attached to a gray 2016 F-350 pick-up truck, driven by Michael Mc-Guirk, 57, of Amador.

McGuirk was traveling 30 miles per hour slowing toward a stop. Vega failed to slow down sufficiently and collided with the trailer, sustaining major chest trauma and causing only minor damage to the trailer. Vega was transported via ambulance to Desert Regional Medical Center.

At 1:10 p.m. Friday, May 4, a hit-and-run collision occurred on Highway 74, three-tenths of a mile east of Bee Canyon Road. Melisa Mayden-Melgaard, 51, of Hemet, driving a silver 2013 Hyundai Elantra, avoided a head-on collision by veering right.

The vehicle struck three signs on the right shoulder and came to a stop. Mayden-Melgaard was unharmed, however, the vehicle sustained major damage.

The victim described the hit-and-run vehicle as a large white box truck that crossed a double-yellow line, driver unknown. A witness confirmed the incident details

At 12:30 p.m. Friday, May 4, a single-vehicle collision occurred on Highway 74, a half-mile east of Scenic Drive. Mike Nam, 81, of La Quinta, driving a green 2018 Honda Civic, incurred major front-end damage to the Civic after colliding with a rock due to unsafe turning movement. Nam complained of back pain and was airlifted by Mercy Air to Desert Regional Medical Center.

At 11:20 a.m. Thursday, May 3, another single-vehicle collision occurred on Highway 74, east of Scenic Drive. Dylan English, 25, of Indio, driving a blue 2001 Jeep Cherokee at a stated speed of 50 to 55 miles per hour, turned his vehicle to the right and headed toward the south shoulder, traveled off the highway and onto the dirt shoulder.

English lost control as the front-right tire ruptured, his vehicle traveled out of control in a northeasterly direction and headed toward an inclined mountainside. English was unable to regain control and, consequently, the front of his vehicle collided into the mountain. After the collision, the vehicle came to rest on its wheels, facing an easterly direction, within the north shoulder.

English stated a Porsche was traveling toward him that caused him to veer to avoid a collision. There were no witnesses at the scene to confirm.

Brief spring replaced with winter temps and mist

Winter returned last week, not just a brief Mother's Day snow, but several days of near-freezing temperatures, which resulted in fireplace smoke in the sky and thermostats in overtime.

temperatures Spring were driven into hiding Monday through Wednesday, as the 30s and 40s were the daytime highs.

Some precipitation accompanied the winter climate, but the 2017-18 precipitation still is significantly less than a year ago.

Last week, the U.S. Forest Service's Keenwild Ranger Station recorded about 0.6 inches of rain, which bought the total since July 1, 2017, to 9.74 inches, the least rain in 12 months in more than a decade. During the five-year drought, from 2011 through 2015, the least rainfall year was 2013-14, when Keenwild recorded 15.9 inches, nearly 60 percent more than this winter.

The long-term average rainfall on the Hill is 25.7 inches and since 2005, the average rain has been 20 inches, twice the rain this year. Through the end of April, the Hill has historically received about 25 inches of rain.

However, the Idyllwild Fire Station recorded an inch of snow during winter's resumption. While the coldest temperatures were farther north, and 2 to 5 inches of snow fell on the northern side of Interstate 10, Idyllwild's inch was remarkable for this time of the year.

Gressley seeks to be next District Attorney Mike district attorney

By JP CRUMRINE NEWS EDITOR

Lara Gressley, a criminal defense attorney, wants to replace Michael Hestrin as the Riverside County district attorney. If she succeeds, it will be third-consecutive election where the challenger unseats the incumbent DA.

Gressley did not announce her candidacy until January, but she does not believe the late start will affect her goal.

During her 16-year legal career, she has worked in the county's counsel office and served as a public defender, and is now a trial and appellate private defense attorney.

Simple principles have guided her career. "I always look at things holistically. I've always wanted justice accomplished. I'm proud I care about every aspect of the case — not just my client, but the victim and the community," she said.

"I always speak my truth and do not compromise authenticity for approval," she added, as she explained her motivation for seeking the position.

"I finally realized the truth. The way to serve the community was to get in a position of power to make a difference," she said. "The current administration is focused on high conviction rates and does not seek justice.

For Gressley, justice is more than simply incarcerating a criminal. The crime can reverberate through the community and affect several lives. Consequently, as DA, she would put equal effort into using alternative sentences to jail time.

Using bail to ensure incarceration before trial is an example of an issue Gressley believes should be reconsidered. She is not advocating release of all individuals charged with felonies and awaiting trial, but is concerned that bail amounts become economic rimination

Wealthy individuals can be released on bail while poor, and often minority. defendants must await trial in jail. They lose income, which can affect their families, and they can lose jobs and more.

She recognizes that the Legislature passes the laws on bail criterion and judges set the bail amounts, but the prosecutors are the individuals who actively seek and use bail. She wants to apply different analyses and believes there are alternative methods to arrive at the same goal — the defendant appearing in court.

"Is cash bail really the cause to ensure defendants appear in court?" she asked.

Further, she offers that using bail to keep individuals in jail exacerbates the current shortage of jail space. Consequently, some convicted criminals get released to make room for new defendants.

She said 60 percent of the current Riverside County inmates are awaiting trial, not yet convicted, and serving their sentence.

"The cost to the taxpayers is more than $200 dailv," she commented. "We need to realistically look at what's smart. Right is also smart."

If elected, she would place more emphasis on a public-integrity unit. "Public officials, especially elected officials, who go unindicted, breaks down trust Everyone in side County who commits a crime must be held accountable. If not, a discussion with the community as district attorney about the reasons is necessary. This discussion is not happening."

Another concern of Gressley's is her belief that Riverside prosecutors work in a culture of "win at all costs." She referred to a recent Harvard study about fair punishment and the number of convictions in Southern California overturned because of prosecutorial misconduct.

While the study focused on Orange County, a number of cases in Riverside County also were identified, including two in the Coachella Valley. She finds it unfortunate that the current DA administration has not repudiated these issues.

She attributes the persistence of the culture on the lack of adequate ethics in the DA offices. She said staff within the office also shares this opinion.

Consequently, she dismisses the RC Deputy District Attorneys Association's endorsement of Hestrin. "They endorsed him in July. when there were no other choices," she noted. "They didn't hear me talk." Then she repeated that she only entered the race in January 2018, six months later.

Her goals as DA include an end to massive incarceration, looking at issues and cases holistically to bring down both the crime rate and recidivism, punishing violent offenders and giving others a second chance.

"My plan is to bring back into balance the criminal-justice system," Gresslev concluded. "The district attorney is the most powerful piece in the county. It can literally change the trajectory of a person's life."

Gressley may be familiar to many in town. She sang with Poetic Justice, a group with Alex Watson, at several venues in Idyllwild.

Hestrin seeks re-election

By JP CRUMRINE NEWS EDITOR

Mike Hestrin is the incumbent Riverside County district attorney. He was elected in June 2014 and sworn into office on Jan. 5, 2015. Prior to his campaign for DA, he served 20 years in the DA's office as a prosecutor.

Several times selected as Countywide Prosecutor of the Year for Riverside County. Among the criminal cases for which he was prosecutor was the 2009 conviction of Raymond Oyler for arson, starting the 2006 Esperanza Fire and arson murder because five U.S. Forest Service firefighters died during the fire.

Hestrin is being challenged and incumbent RC DAs have been vulnerable in the 21st century. In 2014, Hestrin challenged the incumbent District Attorney Paul Zellerbach, a former judge, and won. In 2010, Zellerbach had upset then-incumbent DA Rod Pacheco.

But 2018 does not feel similar to Hestrin. Describing the difference, he said, "It's night and day, very different. First of all, I was the challenger. I was campaigning for 18 months to two years." Lara Gressley, Hestrin's opponent, only announced her candidacy in January. But he was not surprised that someone else chose to run.

When asked what he is most proud of during his term, Hestrin quickly mentioned two taskforces, which he characterized as bookends. First, he discussed the Gang Impact Team and then pointed proudly to the revival of the Crime Prevention Unit

The GIT focuses on drug and gun cases. Its success has gotten support form the Federal Bureau of Investigation, as well as several city police departments in the county.

"They are doing amazing work," Hestrin said. "It's an incredible spirit of collaboration — federal, state and lo- plained. cal agencies."

months of investigation, the GIT arrested 11 members of the Gateway Posse Crips in Palm Springs and was granted search warrants for others.

This effort followed the June 2017 arrest of nearly 50 individuals in the Hemet and San Jacinto areas. The arrests involved a variety of charges, from weapons to drug-related activities.

The CPU works mainly with youth. He said, "We're trying to keep them from crime. All the school districts participate."

Twelve attorneys are involved. Their efforts go well beyond threatening and frightening youth about future jail and incarceration. Literacy and the value of education are the focus.

"The results are good. The number of juvenile felonies have dropped 46 percent in the last four years," Hestrin said proudly. "Our office has a very important role to play in youth programs. A powerful prosecutor can help youth that could be incarcerated."

Going forward, if re-elected, Hestrin plans to use these task-force models in other areas. For example, sexual-assault crimes will become a focus.

Also, he is working with the RC Office of Education to create a secondary military school for youth who drop out of local high schools.

"If we can keep kids in school, then we don't have a need to prosecute," he ex-

Becoming the DA was a new experience for Hestrin.

When he took office, the DA's budget had a $19.6-million deficit. During his three-anda-half years, this has been reduced to a few million. But it has taken a toll, he admitted.

We're very under resourced," he stated. "The number of attorneys, the investigative technicians, everybody is way over worked."

But Hestrin believes he has a good working relationship with the RC Board of Supervisors. "It's been good, but these are tough budget times."

In contrast with the Riverside Sheriff's Association, whose members are deputies supporting a challenge to the current sheriff, the RC Deputy District Attorney Association overwhelming voted to endorse Hestrin. But that vote did occur in August.

"While we do not agree on every issue," said Association President Jon Brandon in a press release, "Mike Hestrin has forged a partnership with RCDDAA that is based on open communication and innovative problem solving that is vital to accomplishing our mission of service to Riverside County."

And since Gressley's announcement, the RCDDAA has contributed more than $25,000 to the Hestrin campaign.

"The morale is high and they support what we're doing," he said.

In some form, all of the DA office employees are members of formal union or professional associations. He meets with all and tries to keep his door open to encourage discussion, even if they don't fully agree on all policies.

While he enjoys the role of DA, Hestrin admitted that he misses being in the courtroom. "I truly loved what I did," he stated. "What got me up every morning was prosecuting ... I miss the judges, the court staff, even the defense attorneys. It was two decades of my life."

County's next budget tight and tough, but growing

By JP CRUMRINE NEWS EDITOR

While the Riverside County Board of Supervisors was pleased with the early report of budget conditions for the next five years, it also realized that tough decisions still will be required in the following months.

County Executive Officer George Johnson told the supervisors last week he wanted to give them an early indication of the fiscal conditions and challenges facing Riverside County.

The county is back on course restore its reserves and to achieve the goal of reserves equal to 25 percent of the operating budget or a minimum of $150 million. However, the board will again have to face public-safety departments requesting funding greater than the current year.

The preliminary estimates for the current year (2017-18) show revenues will be about $6 million less than projected, but departmental costs will be $8.3 million less than budgeted.

Overall, the county will end the year with about $160 million in reserves. Revenues are currently projected to grow $26 million next year. This could increase reserves to slightly more than $200 million next year. However, this result does not include decisions about major budget requests.

Fiscal Officer Don Kent discussed requests totaling nearly $50 million, which were above the initial budget guidance to the sheriff, district attorney and hospital.

'Salaries, wages, benefits, healthcare and pension costs are still looming," said Supervisor Kevin Jeffries (1st District). "There are a ton of other decisions.'

But he was not alone in his concern that the future budgets will be rosy. Supervisor Marion Ashley (5th District) expressed optimism and caution.

"Our multi-prong fiscal policy is starting to work," he noted "We're starting to build reserves up, but it will only work if we make these cuts.

"We'll have to address these issues in the next few months. Whatever actions we take now are almost setting the budget for the next five years. We're almost setting our five-year budget in the next few months," he stated, and noted that the fiscal year 2018-19 budget is likely to exceed $800 million — the first time since 2008.

Money still important in District Attorney race

ByJPCrumrine News Editor

If campaign contributions were votes, incumbent District Attorney Michael Hestrin will be easily re-elected over challenger Lara Gressley. But dollars are not votes and voters will await the results of the June 5 election.

Hestrin has slightly more than $200,000 in cash available until election day and more than a month to raise more money. As the incumbent, planning to run for re-election, Hestrin has received contributions almost from the moment of taking office.

Just in 2017, he raised $135,000, which he doubled in just the first four months of 2018. At the beginning of the year, his cash balance was $160,000, to which he added another 25 percent of $40,000.

Hestrin's biggest contributors have been county employee associations. The Riverside County Deputy District Attorney Association has sent more than $26,000 to him, while the Riverside Sheriff's Association, composed of sheriff's deputies, has contributed nearly $75,000.

'The sheriff doesn't deal with it effectively," Brown claimed. "It's very serious when the culture says it's OK."

Early in his administration, Brown says he would revamp the hiring and promotion processes.

Brown also is critical of the lack of planning and preparation to open the new jail facility in Indio. The John J. Benoit Detention Center is expected to open later this year, but staffing has been an issue between the supervisors and Sniff for several years.

$600,000 to Bianco's campaign in the last year.

When asked if that would make future negotiations whether salary, benefits or job behavior - difficult for him if he were sheriff, Bianco adamantly replied, "No."

He noted that issues are often mischaracterized. For example, much of the public believes the county sheriff's deputies oppose the use of body cameras. But Bianco said, "That is a straight-out lie. We all want body cameras."

The issue is how the policy was imposed and the lack of discussion between the deputies' association and the Sheriff's Department's management.

What they want is a sheriff that cares about the troops, not himself," Bianco stated. "They want an open-door policy.

The only thing the association asks of me is to care more about the department than myself or my political agenda," Bianco said.

In addition, Bianco said that he and the deputies agree that the cheating issue was not addressed swiftly and directly. He believes more should have been done to ensure the department was not scarred.

"It destroys integrity and morale. It forces people to compromise their standards," he believes. "Those people should have been dealt with harshly and then moved on.

We cannot function in today's society without changing the way we interact with the community," Bianco opined.

Idyllwild Girl Scout Troop 533 is up and running

By Debra Varnado Correspondent

Spring in Idyllwild has been especially fruitful this year, bringing not only the familiar trumpet-shaped daffodils reaching for the Sun, and May's customary light dusting of snow, but also a Daisy and Brownie Girl Scout Troop--the first on the Hill in several years.

The youngsters in Kindergarten through 4th grade met for the first time May 3 at Idyllwild Library under the guidance and leadership of local Moms, Amy Hawley, Stacy Kretsinger, and co-leader and Girl Scout alumna Bridget Noer.

Since earlier this year, the volunteers have worked with the staff of Girl Scouts of San Gorgonio Council (GSSGC) and with Girl Scout alumna and volunteer Shannon Ng to complete the administrative aspects of troop formation.

We're also meeting with possible sponsors, like the Rotary Club, about

Their first meeting was an informal icebreaker for the girls and creative time with beads, "since our troop is new. Badge work and the more extensive curriculum will start in the fall with the school year, Hawley said.

Having lived on the Hill, the wonders of nature and the out-of-doors are not new to the girls. Nevertheless, fishing, and hiking looms large in their imaginations.

"Parents have volunteered to teach fishing as well as soap-making and yoga. Plus, the troop has volunteered to adopt a trail at the Nature Center. They'll go there to learn how to do trail maintenance, to hike and do fun stuff."

Many local people are stepping up and volunteering their time and skills to do "cool skills-building projects," Hawley said.

'We're looking forward to having talks by bird watching experts and rangers and biologists-- fishermen and seamstresses--anyone who wants to share his or her skills with these girls, so they can get to flower and get a chance to find what their own interests are."

We look forward to visiting Skyland Ranch, too. We

The 191-acre wilderness ranch with indoor-outdoor facilities located between Idyllwild and Banning on SH 243 is shaping up to be the go-to-place for Science, Technology, Engineering, Art and Math (STEAM) adventures.

We're determined to turn this awesome property into a world-class STEAM center," Cynthia Breunig, President and CEO of the GSSGC, said. "Outdoor activities make for ideal learning experiences in every STEAM field."

Girl Scouts can earn badges in engineering, robotics, environmental science, cyber security, and space science.

In addition to STEAM, environmental studies and leadership training, girls can take advantage of archery; horseback riding; land canoeing, camping; and more.

June 16, the GSSGC is celebrating the 'Great Outdoors with a Summer Open House' at Skyland (and Camp Azalea in Idyllwild). A variety of activities are planned and membership is not required to attend. For more information, see www.gssgc.org

As far as donations to the Troop, Hawley said they are looking for donations and sponsors to at least get the ball rolling.

"It takes about $75 per girl to get them set up. That could go a long way toward helping them to get their initial books and uniform, and pins and insignia--without having to pay too much.

"People also donate time and goods to the troop which needs lots of things, including sleeping bags tents and camping gear," she said.

"Breaking the costs down is hard because they will depend upon how much patch work and all the others kinds of things we do.

"We will self-fund when we're up and running. A big part of Girl Scouting is teaching money awareness and business sense and economics....

"The Scouts will do their own fundraising, learn to run their own businesses and they'll be rewarded for their success with fun things to do, in accordance with girl scouts programs."

Sponsorships are "really small quantities-- $249 or less in monetary donations that go directly to the troop," Hawley said. Anything larger goes to the GSSGC and eventually gets funneled back to the troop.

"The best way to make a monetary donation is to do a small donation of $249 or less to us. We can put it in our local bank account and start working from there and it is a tax write-off."

The girls and adult volunteers who work with them also pay registration fees each year and adult volunteers who work with the girls also undergo a background check.

Asked if the troop will continue to meet at the library, Hawley said, "We will meet there [from time to time] when the weather is bad or too hot.

'We're still trying to find space for our weekly meetings. One of the deals with the Girl Scouts is the space has to be free or donated and must have bathroom and facilities for the girls.

We're looking at appropriate spaces, places so we can 'get away' with meeting outside. We have to talk to the people at the Nature Center and also find out about County or State parks, where they have nice outdoor picnic tables.

"For now, we're keeping it light and getting to know each other. Our goal is to make the program girl-driven and girl-led.

What we are going to do is 'sit down and ask the girls what sounds cool to them and what they want to do and what things interest them.'

"That's modern Girl Scouts. Stacy and I are going to sit back and support that process."

For more information on Troop 533, the three other Girls Scout troops that are forming on the Hill, or to volunteer, or be a sponsor, contact Hawley at camp.idy@yahoo.com.

Five names in the hat again this time: Rochelle Ainsworth, Dave Hunt, Kris Kirschbaum, Marc Reis and John Thomford all correctly identified a small squirrel that is a part of the Harmony Monument, the photo being taken with the top of the new flagpole seemingly directly over its tail, but in the background. All five identified the ball at the top of the pole, as well.

You probably guessed how the drawing came out - yet again. Kris, we owe you another prize This is a crazy defiance of the odds. Anyway, let's try another one. Should be easier, I think. Where can this guy be found?

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race - correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office. Email entries to jack@towncrier.com.

The most striking of the monotropoids is the snow plant, Sarcodes sanguinea. The name derives from the impression that the plant grew through the snow. The truth is that it begins emerging after the snow melts or has mostly melted. It grows in conifer forests of California, such as near Pine Cove last week. PHOTO BY TOM PIERCE

Carlos Reynosa, renowned musician and premier photographer

By HOLLY PARSONS STAFF REPORTER

Idyllwild artist Carlos Reynosa is no stranger to fame on a scale few attain. But let's start at the beginning. Born in Williams, Arizona, a middle child in a family of 12, Reynosa hails from a diverse heritage. His father, of Yaqui lineage, migrated from Sinaloa, Mexico, to Williams as a young man and married a beautiful French Cherokee woman whose grandmother walked the Cherokee trail from Oklahoma to California.

Reynosa spent his formative summers captivated by the sound of native flutes at powwows in Flagstaff, Arizona. "The flute spoke to me and told me who I was," remembers Reynosa. "It told me I was part of the Earth. I learned I could move sound like the wind.

"I spent a lot of time alone in a tree house, learning to hear the emotion in sound."

Making flutes from elderberry branches, Reynosa would choose the pitch for his flute on the pentatonic scale by the branch's radius. He learned how the flute was an instrument of love and prayer, "... a woman could hear a man's passion in his music," also remembering how he came to understand that nature would respond to a prayerful flute.

When his family moved to Sylmar in the San Fernando Valley of greater Los Angeles, Reynosa ran the beaches whenever possible and came to appreciate lifestyles in the barrio. Falling in love with the music of Cat Stevens and out of sheer need to memorize the lyrics, he taught himself to read. A star athlete, football and track were his games; Reynosa excelled and could have ridden a ticket through college but life took him in an altogether different direction.

Spotted by a casting agent, Reynosa began acting almost accidently on the sit-com "Mr. Merlin." When his agency decided he needed a new name, they cast "Carl Rey" in the 1981 film "Graduation Day," where he worked with Christopher George and Vanna White. But it was while working in the valley that an inevitable modeling gig met exotic dancing and Reynosa found himself cast as one of the first Chippendales.

From there, modeling jobs pulled him to New York City to sit for, among others, Andy Warhol, then drawn to Europe he shot with talents like Fabricio Gianni, Versace and Antonio Lopez, to name but a few world-class photographers who found in Reynosa an exotic subject.

A student throughout, with great competitive discipline a in world of decadence, he learned the art of photography from the best while earning boatloads of cash. Reynosa returned to LA to open Prima Models in Venice Beach at just 23 years of age.

With a natural gift for combining edgy backgrounds in the barrio with high fashion and an eye for discovering extraordinary talent. Revnosa shot 52 covers for high-fashion publications like Elle, New York Times Magazine, Vogue, Billabong, Rolling Stone, Quiksilver, Calvin Klein, Surf Company, and signed young talent like Cameron Diaz, Hillary Swank, Milla Jovanovich, Johnny Depp and Will Smith to his agency.

He said he consistently protected their innocence and help chart their early course for the successful careers they've all achieved.

A writer's strike put an indefinite kink in print and film work so Reynosa learned to play guitar. In three months, he joined the house band at the Roxberry and they opened later that year for Stone Temple Pilots.

Combining flute with electric sounds, Reynosa toured regionally. He recorded his first album in 1996. In 1999, he recorded the song "My Brother" for the soundtrack to the award-winning film "Naturally Native." The album went on to win two Native American Music Awards.

In 2000, his song "Passion" was featured on Keith Secola's soundtrack to the movie "Homeland." In 2003, his album, "Baby Blue" was nominated for Best Independent Recording of the Year by the NAMMY's. In 2005, Reynosa released "For the People" with Wildhorse Singers and Dancers, holding at 10 on Billboard's New Age charts for more than three months.

It was during this time that destiny offered Reynosa an expanded life. While performing at the San Jacinto powwow, "Tawny saw me," he smiles. They began their life together in Idyllwild, where three beautiful children now 15, 11 and 4, were "all born at home," he states proudly.

With this life," said Reynosa, "I find I'm still impatient to get my creativity into the world, to impart emotion through music, and through my lens when photographing clients, brings a great joy. Music has a need to be heard, emotions have a need to be expressed. I am home in these mountains, where the songs of wolves and raven, frogs and squirrels sing through my flute.'

When asked what he is hopeful for, Revnosa responds, "If it wasn't for kind people I wouldn't be here. Artists face life with deeper difficulty; it's learning to focus my music or photography in the moment, for the magic I seek exists only in the moment."

Reynosa plays guitar, flute, bass and keys. His 11th album "Loss" is due out in June. He performs at Idyology at 1 p.m. Sunday, May 13, for Mother's Day, followed by a gig at Café Aroma on Sunday evening, May 20. June 1, he opens the Manzanita Cantina with a three-piece band including family members. Reynosa can best be contacted through Facebook.

CREATURE CORNER

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," Panther introduced new ARF dog Baby. Panther: Wow, have I got lots to share today. Indigo: Everyone is here, so let's have it! Panther: Baby the dog was adopted last week, and Shay will be staying with his foster. Mr. Gray: So, no more dogs? Panther: Wrong! ARF now has six dogs! Pepper: Holy moly. Tell us about them.

Panther: Here goes. First is Freda, who was originally an ARF dog. Her favorite human passed away so she is back with us. She is a Basenji-Chihuahua-mix, about 7 years old. She is happily living with three dogs and two cats at her foster's house, and she is house trained. Then there is Waffles. Waffles is a Skye terrier-mix who is really young, maybe a year old. He absolutely loves playing with other dogs and is very affectionate. Mr. Gray: Who else? Panther: Zoe and Jax are terrier-mixes so are looking for their new forever home since their human passed away. Zoe is a sweet little girl, about 5 years old, and Zoe is a 2-year-old boy. Both are excellent with other dogs and with cats, and they are house trained. Indigo: I'll tell about the other two dogs. They are young, female Rottweilers named Caboose and Donut. They are very sweet girls who love to play. They seem indifferent about us felines and are good around children. They seem to be really good with other dogs, too. Panther: Oh, and I almost forgot. The last kitten was adopted. Yay! And ARF is expecting a litter of eight kittens in another week or so. Indigo: And ARF will have a mini-adoption fair at Mountain Paws this Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., so everyone may meet these great dogs. Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243 on Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appointment M-F by calling 951-659-1122. Creature Corner is sponsored by Carole Herman & Sandi Mathers.
