Variety of issues discussed at IWD rate workshop

By JP CRUMRINE

Idyllwild customers want to pursue possibility of consolidating water districts, page A8

Although the table for directors was virtually empty, the Idyllwild Water District's conference room was full of customers concerned about the district's rate hike proposal.

Ironically, more former directors — John Cook, Mike Frietas and Vic Sirkin — were present than current board members. The IWD board has one vacancy, and directors Dr. Charles "Chip" Schelly and Peter Szabadi were absent. Directors Steve Kunkle and David Hunt attended the workshop.

Without a quorum, General Manager Jack Hoagland told the crowd that the rate workshop could still be held, but no board actions could be taken during the session. Hoagland and Greg Henry, the consultant with NBS, the firm that conducted the rate analysis, led the presentation and answered questions from the public throughout the evening.

Ballot

The procedure to raise rates or fees for most California local governments is subject to Proposition 218, which sets the process for the public to be notified, requires the reasoning and analysis justifying the proposed increase, and allows for the public or customers to express approval or reject the idea.

Almost immediately, Sue Nash, an IWD customer and lawyer, challenged the district on its failure to include an official ballot in the notice of the proposed rate increase. She submitted letters to the board explaining her objection and requesting that the June 20 public hearing be canceled.

Nash based her challenge on California's Constitution Article XIII D section 4, which addresses the procedures for increases in assessments and clearly refers to ballots. However, Proposition 218, enacted in 1996, "created a new category of fees and charges commonly referred to as 'property related fees.'"

The state's Legislative Analyst's Office has stated that the language of Proposition 218 does not directly define property-related fees; but this type of fee does include water, sewer and trash. Consequently, Henry See Workshop, page A8

Cannabis regulations to be considered at hearing

Riverside County has announced that the Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on cannabis regulation within the unincorporated areas of the county.

The public hearing has been scheduled before the Riverside County Planning Commission to consider an amendment to Riverside County Land Use Ordinance No. 348, proposing to establish regulations and development standards for cannabis activities within the unincorporated areas of the county.

This amendment also proposes to establish permitting and operational requirements for cannabis activities. This public hearing is at 9 a.m. Wednesday, June 20, at the Riverside County Administrative Center.

IFPD commission goes to supervisors over 'closest unit' policy

Letter urges quick change

By JP CRUMRINE

The Idyllwild Fire Protection District's commission has thrown down the gauntlet over Riverside County's failure or unwillingness to implement the policy of dispatching the closest-available unit to medical emergencies on the Hill.

Following through on their promise to take some action in response to Riverside County's policy, which states, "For purposes of closest ambulance, the AMR [American Medical Response] Pine Cove Unit and IFPD ambulances are considered equal distance," on Thursday, May 31, commissioners unanimously approved and signed a letter to the county's board of supervisors challenging this policy.

IFPD, the county's Emergency Medical Services Agency and AMR negotiated a policy prescribing the dispatch of the closest-available ambulance to medical emergencies on the Hill (outside of Idyllwild). AMR has provided IFPD with GPS units to identify where ambulances are. These same units are in all AMR units.

The commission feels betrayed because IFPD is clearly closer to Mountain See IFPD, page A2

The Idyllwild Fire Protection District's commission approved and signed a letter to the Riverside County Board of Supervisors expressing strong concern and disagreement with how the county Emergency Management Department is interpreting the "closest available unit" policy. Rhonda Anderson (center), commission president, is the first signee. Her colleagues (from left) Larry Donahoo (sitting), vice president, Ralph Hoetger, Henry Sawicki and Jerry Buchanan, treasurer, await their turn to sign. This policy affects whether the Idyllwild Fire or American Medical Response ambulance is dispatched first to emergency medical incidents. PHOTO BY JP CRUMRINE

Fire commission studying path to convincing voters of need for higher fire fees

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Idyllwild Fire Protection District's commissioners discussed the means to convince two-thirds of the district's voters to raise the parcel, or unit fee, last Thursday night.

Resolution 237, approved in May 1981, established a fee for fire-suppression services. The fee was based on the size of the parcel. For example, a 3,000-square-foot lot was defined as one unit. A parcel between 7,000 and 12,000 square feet was assigned two units. Parcels larger than 38,000 square feet were assigned four units and unimproved lots were a half unit.

The initial fee was $32.50 per parcel and has varied from $35 to $60 per parcel between 1991 and 2004. The maximum rate of $65 was adopted in 2006.

Twice since then, the district has asked its voters for support to increase the fee; but this requires that two-thirds of the voters in that election must cast a "Yes" ballot. In 2011, 60 percent voted "No." Five years later, in 2016, a majority voted "Yes," but they represented only 56.7 percent of the ballots.

Now, two years later, a commission subcommittee of Henry Sawicki and Larry Donahoo has raised the question of making a third attempt to gain voter support for a higher parcel fee.

"How do we get across to the public that it's necessary?" asked Commissioner Ralph Hoetger. He opined that the department's connection with the community has lessened over his time as resident. While other commissioners did not fully agree, they were willing to examine how to improve this.

Chris Fogle, an Idyllwild resident, suggested this might be attributable to regular turnover of the population. "Every 10 years, we need to re-acquaint people to the mountain and fire danger."

While no specific decision about this issue was on the commission's agenda Thursday night, all had ideas about what steps or actions would help achieve the 66.6-percent majority.

Among the subcommittee's recommendations were revised hand-out materials, a more current website, departmental presence at regularly scheduled civic meetings and enlisting more citizen participation in the process leading up to the election.

"The cornerstone to this campaign is publicity and honest communication with residents who will be casting their ballots," Sawicki wrote in the report to the full commission.

Sawicki and Donahoo thought it would take at least a year to prepare for a ballot measure. They are not rushing to get it on the November 2018 ballot.

But Sawicki also cautioned that this year, the local citizenry has become jaundiced about raising fees or rates for public agencies. All three local water districts — Fern Valley, Idyllwild and Pine Cove — and the county's Waste Resource Department have or are seeking to increase their charges.

Some questioned whether the commission's and staff's efforts to manage the budget resources could be counterproductive on the vote. Currently, the department has several hundred thousand dollars in the bank, but no reserves for unanticipated emergencies. Would some voters believe this was a reason to reject higher fees, asked one commissioner.

IFPD bills about $1.6 million annually for emergency medical services, but collects about a quarter of this. Reasons vary, from limits imposed by Medicare, Medicaid and service to low-income customers, according to Battalion Chief Mark LaMont.

He added, "If we could capture the $1.6 million, we wouldn't be having this discussion."

President Rhonda Andrewson also felt that the State Fire Protection Fee, which has recently been suspended, caused confusion for the public. "People assumed we were getting the SRA fee. They didn't know."

Finance committee member Calvin Gogerty also recommended getting more information about why people opposed the last measure.

"Larry and I will drill down and get more specific ideas for the next meeting," Sawicki said. "What kind of information should be put out and how do we do it?"

Center — and any possible incident east or west of there — than the AMR unit stationed on Franklin Drive in Pine Cove, near the entrance to Foster Lake.

Fire Chief Patrick Reitz told the commission that this caveat was "... never discussed" in the negotiations and "... only on the next day when the policy was mailed was it there. It was a bait and switch."

Commission President Rhonda Andrewson felt strongly and said, "We are dealing with life issues. This is an issue we've dealt with ad nauseam. This dance has gone on and on."

Battalion Chief Mark LaMont agreed and said he has been arguing with the county for 15 years about it. Then he shared an Automatic Aid Agreement between IFPD and the county from May 2000 where it states, "It is understood that all plans, which deal with emergency response shall adhere as closely as practical to the 'closest unit' concept which forms the basis for this agreement."

"Countless delays of critical equipment and personnel to incidents wherein the EMS system has been called on throughout the mountain plateau have been brought forward by us to the attention of REMSA and the Riverside Emergency Management Department," the board wrote the supervisors. "These unnecessary and life threatening delays must be mitigated immediately."

"In just the last year alone, our IFPD Administration and Staff have offered the services of the closest ambulance on several occasions only to be told to 'stand down' to 'not respond' or that these border areas are 'not in the IFPD jurisdiction,' the commission proclaimed.

The commission wants to hear back within 30 days, although there was some discussion to set a 10-day limit. The letter warns the board that every day that passes before the policy is changed risks the safety of locals and visitors to the Hill.

Former IFPD and U.S. Forest Service Fire Chief Norm Walker referred to a previous meeting from 2010. "Bruce Barton [county EMD director] in this room talking to a packed house said, 'My bottom line is positive patient outcome.' This is not positive patient outcome, and I don't know where that Bruce Barton went."

Commissioner Larry Donahoo agreed. As a former paid-call firefighter, he remembers when this issue never or rarely came up. "Through the years, I've seen deterioration ... We've got to fix this, but it won't be quick."

At a special meeting, originally planned to discuss future actions to raise revenue, a large turnout of residents strongly and vocally supported the commission's direction.

Andrewson stressed, "This is a huge cause for our community." She encouraged people to go to a supervisors board meeting, in response to question from Lance Fogle, one of many citizens present, who inquired, "Can the public play a role?"

Hemet Unified soliciting feedback on construction priorities

Bond measure may depend on results

By JP Crumrine
News Editor

The Hemet Unified School District is considering a bond measure for school capital improvements. As part of the effort to secure community support and assess what the HUSD community believes are the high priority capital needs, HUSD has mailed a school facilities survey to district residents and parents of HUSD students.

"The district and the board are considering putting a bond issue on the ballot this November. We are in the planning and information-gathering stages on this and have been for the last few months," said HUSD Trustee Vic Scavarda, who represents Idyllwild.

The survey appears on the computer screen when one goes to the district's website www.hemetusd.org.

In the survey, the district offers eight school facility choices to rank from most important to least important: Improve student safety and security; repair and upgrade aging schools; prepare all students for college and career; improve student access to science, technology, engineering, arts and math; provide competitive 21st-century instruction; upgrade vocational and career education classrooms; improve classrooms and facilities to accommodate student enrollment growth; and other.

"The responses are providing the district and governing board ways in which we can ensure our facilities are meeting the needs of our community," wrote Alexandra Sponheim, HUSD's public information officer. "We want to make sure we are being good listeners and that our assessment of facilities needs aligns with the community's."

HUSD's current capital bond funding is nearly used, according to Scavarda. The general fund revenues in recent years have barely been sufficient to cover the district's operating expenses. Reserves have declined in the past five years and are not expected to grow soon. Consequently, construction funding, especially for a large number of projects, will need to be funded from bond revenue.

"The responses will be used to determine if there is sufficient interest in the community for such a bond, and what does the community perceive as our greatest need?" Scavarda explained.

In January, HUSD had a consultant conduct a poll of about 700 voters. Among the results reported to the board was a significant majority (greater than 70 percent) felt repairing and maintaining schools helps local property values. And 60 percent believe school classrooms are aging and in need of repair.

"School safety issues and enhanced security are big concerns districtwide, and will take significant resources to implement," Scavarda added. Further, no new school construction is planned. The budget projects for the next few years do not anticipate any substantial enrollment growth.

If a bond measure were on the November 2018 ballot, the district will have to file for it by Aug. 10. If voters approve a new bond measure, Scavarda emphasized that it would not add to local taxes, it would simply continue the current HUSD assessment.

Governor signs new water legislation

Target is urban areas, but rural will be affected

By JP Crumrine
News Editor

Last week, Gov. Jerry Brown signed two pieces of legislation concerning water usage and water emergencies.

"In preparation for the next drought and our changing environment, we must use our precious resources wisely. We have efficiency goals for energy and cars — and now we have them for water," said Brown in a press release.

This legislation establishes guidelines for efficient water use, and a framework for the implementation and oversight of the new standards, which must be in place by 2022. Among their goals are the following:

- Creating incentives for water suppliers to recycle water.
- Requiring both urban and agricultural water suppliers to set annual water budgets and prepare for drought.

"The measures impose a number of new or expanded requirements on state water agencies and local water suppliers, and provides for significantly greater state oversight of local water suppliers' water use, even in non-drought years," commented attorneys for Best Best & Krieger law firm.

Senate Bill 606 primarily orders the State Water Resources Control Board to establish long-term standards for per-capita daily indoor residential water use. The state already has a law requiring a 20-percent reduction in urban per capita water use.

The new standards will establish an indoor, per-person water use goal of 55 gallons per day until 2025, 52.5 gallons from 2025 through 2029 and 50 gallons daily in 2030.

Although most of the bill addresses urban water usage, one section affects the local water districts. Currently, a water district is authorized to declare a water shortage emergency condition within its service area when it "finds and determines that the ordinary demands and requirements of water consumers cannot be satisfied without depleting the water supply of the distributor to the extent that there would be insufficient water for human consumption, sanitation and fire protection."

SB 606 will now require the water agency to declare the water emergency.

The second bill, Assembly Bill 1668, also is primarily focused on urban water distributors. However, this bill requires California's counties to include small water suppliers and rural communities in their assessment of potential water shortages.

By Jan. 1, 2020, the SWRCB is to propose recommendations concerning the implementing countywide drought and water shortage contingency plans, which should address small water suppliers and rural communities. These recommendations may be included in the county's local hazard mitigation plans.

"[W]ith the passage and signing of these bills, we can now check the box next to 'conservation is a way of life' in California and take another key step in implementing the governor's California Water Action Plan," said Timothy Quinn, executive director of the statewide Association of California Water Agencies in a press release after Brown signed the bills.

Republican party shrinking in California

Third District remains bastion in county

By JP Crumrine
News Editor

The number of registered Republican voters continues to decline in California. Last week, the Secretary of State released the final registration numbers before Tuesday's primary election.

Statewide, 44.4 percent or 8.4 million voters registered as Democrats. But surprisingly, the number two choice is no longer "Republican." As of May 21, 25.5 percent of registered voters declared "No Party Preference." This is almost 85,000 more voters than the 4.8 million selecting Republican.

The number of "No Party Preference" voters has been growing for the past 20 years. In 1998, only 12.4 percent or 1.8 million declined to choose a party. During this period, the Democratic party has remained the first choice of about 45 percent of voters.

However, Republican registered voters has fallen from 35.8 to 25.1 percent of registration.

In the last four years, total voter registration has grown from 17.7 million to 19 million, a 7.3 percent increase. The Secretary of State's Office reported that 75.7 percent of eligible voters have registered, which "... is the highest percentage of eligible citizens registered to vote heading into a California gubernatorial primary in the past 64 years."

In Riverside County, 373,367 voters have registered as Democratic. Republicans number 337,550.

The third-largest contingent is "No Party Preference" with 220,898 registrants. No other party has more than 35,000 registered voters.

Since the November 2016 presidential election, total Riverside County registration has declined about 35,000 voters. Both major parties have incurred a decline in registration, while the NPP has gained 6,000 voters.

Within Riverside County, the 3rd District has the fewest registered Democrats. About 62,000 of the district voters are Democrats, compared to 86,700 in the 5th District.

However, the 3rd District is home to more Republican (86,600) and NPP voters (51,200) than any of the other four districts.

Seeking EMax award nominees

For the eighth consecutive year, the Idyllwild Town Crier is requesting nominations for the annual Ernie Maxwell Community Spirit Award. Bring your nomination to the Town Crier office at 54405 N. Circle Dr., mail it to P.O. Box 157, Idyllwild, CA 92549, or send by email to becky@towncrier.com by Friday, Aug. 31.

The honor is given to an individual or group who represents EMax's spirit of community and volunteerism. Prior awardees took actions that created a spark sufficient to bring others into the fray just as Maxwell did with his activities involving the environment.

The nomination information should provide the reason why the individual or group has been nominated.

They should have demonstrated a tangible, perhaps physical, effect on the community. The Ernie Maxwell Scenic Trail is an example of accomplishment.

How long has your nominee been active in the community?

Provide a description of their volunteer contributions and accomplishments for the community.

And finally, can you show how these efforts have been adopted or expanded by the community?

The seven previous awardees were the Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council in 2011, Dawn Sonner in 2012, Robert Priefer in 2013, Annamarie Padula in 2014, Wendy Read in 2015, Janice Murasko/Robert Hewitt in 2016 and Jay Mulder in 2017. A plaque in the Town Crier office lists the awardees' names.

Later, you will have an opportunity to vote for the top three 2018 nominees. Group noting, e.g. collecting a list of signatures at a meeting, is not permitted. Votes must be on original, not copies of, ballots available in the Town Crier.

Have you ever celebrated those wacky celebratory days and months like National Popcorn Poppin' Month (October) or Kiss & Make Up Day (Aug. 25), seriously?

This month has some doozies: Go Barefoot Day (June 1), Best Friends Day (June 8), Eat Your Vegetables Day (June 17) and World Music Day (June 21).

June is Children's Awareness Month. Is that to remind us that we have children in case we've forgotten them the other 11 months of the year?

It is also National Iced Tea Month, but I don't need to be reminded of that. Iced tea is my drink of choice year-round. If I don't have any within reach at any given time during the day, I get antsy.

Besides being Eat Your Vegetables Day, June 17 also is Father's Day. Is it coincidental that those two fall on the same day? Yes, it is. Father's Day is not always June 17 but EYVD always is.

If you're wondering where I'm going with this, I'm sliding into a patriotic subject of June 14, Flag Day.

Flag Day first was celebrated in the late 1800s at schools before being celebrated in June 14, 1891, at the Betsy Ross House in Philadelphia, and then being officially adopted by several states.

Because of many nationwide celebrations of Flag Day, it was officially established by the federal proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson on May 30, 1916, and then later designated National Flag Day by an Act of Congress under President Harry Truman on Aug. 3, 1949.

No law exists about how to fly or display the American flag, but a National Flag Code was written in 1923 by representatives of a large number of organizations, under the auspices of the American Legion's National Americanism Commission. If you want to read the National Flag Code, visit www.usflag.org.

The American flag is a symbol, a symbol of liberty, justice and all we hold dear about our country. We sing the National Anthem with our hand over our heart to this symbol. We do the same when we say the "Pledge of Allegiance."

The liberties we enjoy under the symbol of our flag include freedom of religion, freedom to assemble, freedom to petition the government for redress of grievances, freedom of the press and the right to speak freely.

That last one can get gnarly at times, particularly in this age of social media and the Internet.

A woman wrote recently on our website in response to Idypark replacing Jo'an's in the center of town:

"I was planning today for our family vacation this summer. Wilderness Pines and eating at Jo'an's in the town. I am very bummed and also upset that all it took was one person to end a 50 year vacation eatery spot for many people and their families. I started going there as a very young kid in 1968 and have handed the tradition down to my kids and grandkids. The outdoor entertainment was always my favorite part of Jo'an's; along with the hamburgers and fries."

I've been hoping someone would set her straight on several points but they haven't. Maybe they all feel like I do that it wouldn't matter anyway. The point is, she's upset and she vehemently expressed it under the First Amendment. Happy Flag Day!

'I remember Ernie' stories needed

The Idyllwild Town Crier, in conjunction with the Idyllwild Area Historical Society, is asking for written stories from folk about their memories of Ernie Maxwell to be published in the Town Crier and, possibly, at an event at the Courtyard Gallery in the fall. (The event was postponed from June.)

Email your stories and a photograph of yourself to becky@towncrier.com.

Free uke lessons at Royal Pines

Chris Johnson will offer free ukulele classes at the Royal Pines Trailer Park clubhouse at 11 a.m. Tuesdays. The event is open to the public.

How to get a letter published

The Town Crier welcomes letters reflecting all opinions. Letters should be concise and to the point. They should be no longer than 400 words. Letters must be typewritten, double-spaced and in upper/lower case (not in all caps). Letters must be identified with the author's name, address and weekday phone number.

The Town Crier will not publish "thank-you" letters, consumer complaints, form letters, clippings from other publications or poetry. Political letters during election season cost 10 cents per word but are not accepted the week before an election.

We reserve the right to reject or edit letters for length, taste, clarity or frequency of submission. Only one letter per author within a 28-day period. Letters do not necessarily reflect the opinions of Town Crier staff. Letters may be submitted in person, by mail, by fax (659-2071) or by e-mail (becky@towncrier.com). Deadline is 10 a.m. Monday.

Only a matter of time

EDITOR:

My response from a community chat: I'm not talking about wages. In fact, try to get someone off the Hill to come up here and work for those wages. It won't happen.

Look at Idyllwild Water. It has to outsource its employees. It can't find a manager with the amount it wants to pay so it pays someone a large amount of money to work a few days a week.

If it wasn't for the cell tower in Pine Cove, what do you think your water bill would be? They kept their fees down for as long as they have until now.

How long can Fern Valley go if it can't get water from the creek?

IWD has a foot of water in its lake that will be gone very soon. Pretend that doesn't mean anything. Keep giving water away to a school that makes more than $30,000 a year from each student.

People who live here and don't own a business don't make money from the water they buy.

They stopped Black's wells years ago from taking water off the Hill and selling it.

What's the difference? There are many different things and all I hear from PC is, "We have the best water"; from FV, nothing; from IWD, most say consolidate and also from some in FV.

It's just a matter of time. If the Hill doesn't do something together, only the very rich will be here.

Lower the dumpsters

EDITOR:

Years ago, when we took a load to the transfer station, placing items in the large dumpsters was pretty easy. The sides on the dumpsters were 6 feet high and they rested 2 feet below the surface on which we stood, so the top was only 4 feet up from our level.

Today, the dumpsters' sides rise 8 feet, making the throw 6 feet up. This is ridiculous and becomes more difficult as we get older.

Most Idyllwilders are older, making a trip to the "dump" a real problem. This problem would be easy to solve. If the area where these big boxes rest were dropped 3 feet it would make the trip far less painful. Please.

Not properly noticed and explained

EDITOR:

I attended the May 30, Idyllwild Water District workshop on the rate changes to be voted on at the June 20, board meeting, but came away with more questions than answers.

First, why were the property owners and tenants not sent a ballot, as required by Proposition 218? [Cal. Const. Article XIII C § 4].

Second, what impact will these new rates have on the district's Water Shortage Contingency Plan? If the new rates are approved, will the drought plan become invalid and will the district then need to do a new 218 rate study, notice and ballots when there is another water shortage in the district?

Pursuant to all of our rights under the Brown Act, I have emailed the district my 218 protest (name, reasonable identification of the parcel where I pay the water bill, and my opposition or support to the proposed assessment). I also requested that the two above questions be put on the agenda and answered by the board and/or their attorney before voting on the proposed rate changes.

I hope that many affected landowners and tenants can attend the June 20, meeting. If you cannot attend, you can email your comments to District Secretary Erica Gonzales at admin@idyllwildwater.com, and ask that your comments be included in the board packet for the meeting.

SUSAN NASH

Note by editor and general counsel: Ms. Nash cites Proposition 218 as now being Cal. Const. Art. 13C, §4. As no such section appears to exist, we assume she intended Cal. Const. Art. 13D, §4. The whole of Art. XIIIID defines and distinguishes taxes, assessments and fees or charges. Assessments are dealt with under Art. 13D, §4, upon which Ms. Nash appears to rely. But water rates do not appear to fit under the definition of "assessment" at Art. 13D, §2, subdivision (b). Art. 13D, §6, deals with "Property Related Fees and Charges," and subdivision (c), is entitled "Voter Approval for New or Increased Fees and Charges." That section provides: "Except for fees or charges for sewer, water and refuse collection services, no property related fee or charge shall be imposed or increased unless ... by a majority vote of the property owners of the property subject to the fee or charge or, at the option of the agency, by a two-thirds vote of the electorate residing in that affected area." Art. XIIIID, §2, subdivision (g), defines "property ownership" as including tenancies where the tenants are directly liable to pay the assessment, fee or charge in question. Of course, lawyers' differing views are decided by litigation.

Fact check to Climate Comments' agenda letter of May 10

EDITOR:

Dear Mr. Berezky: You are correct. The Sun is absolutely the biggest factor producing our climate (long-range weather) and you also mention volcanoes, but many other factors contribute as well, such as the Earth's tilt on its axis, which is variable and now at 23.5°, a wobble in Earth's rotation, a variability in the shape of Earth's orbit, along with the presence or absence of polar ice caps, the composition of Earth's atmosphere and others.

You state that the Climate "[L]obby believes wrongly that the burning of fossil fuels is the major cause of climate warming" today. All burning, whether it be gasoline in our vehicles, petroleum or coal in our power plants, or wood burning, produces the greenhouse gas CO₂.

Here's what is on the NASA website: "Multiple studies published in peer-reviewed scientific journals show that 97 percent or more of actively publishing climate scientists agree: Climate-warming trends over the past century are very likely due to human activities. In addition, most of the leading scientific organizations worldwide have issued public statements endorsing this position."

It's time to stop debating the science behind whether humans contribute to rising temperatures. The over-whelming consensus is that humans are the cause of the rate at which our planet is warming, and only a small cohort continues to deny and even try to discredit what objective science tells us. Let's move on.

I won't go into the doubt-induced propaganda put out by the oil industry using similar techniques as the tobacco industry to place doubt that cigarettes cause lung cancer, but if we have the ability to stabilize, reduce or reverse the impacts of climate change, why not make the attempt for future generations sake? We already have the technology to do so. Many jobs would be created, which, by the way, is already happening. And, America can set the example for the rest of the world.

Idyllwild is likely to continue experiencing droughts, and, if this happens, we will be subject to forest fires. We can try to remedy this now or later but no doubt about it, it will be a burden to our economy.

We are all part of the issue of climate change and we now need to pull together to all be part of the solution.

Rumble-strip project on Highway 371

Caltrans will make safety improvements near Ca- huilla in two locations on Highway 371 between highways 74 and 79 to place centerline and shoulder rumble strips, and install enhanced visibility, 6-inch striping.

The first location is from Wilson Valley Road to Cary Road (mile-post marker 60.2 to mpm 67.7) and the second area is from Kirby Road to Highway 74 (mpm 72.8 to mpm 77.1.)

The estimated $756,000 project, awarded to Jabre Contracting Inc., was scheduled to begin Monday, May 14, weather permitting, and is anticipated to last fewer than 30 working days.

Initially, the work will be done between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday to Friday, excluding holidays. One lane will be closed at a time with one-way lane traffic control in place. Motorists should be prepared to stop and plan for delays.

MATTER OF FACT

In the May 24 issue of the Town Crier on page B5, the character's name in "Heaven on the Loose," played by Rajiv Panchal, was incorrect. The character's name is Sameer.

Also, in last week's story on page B2 about Lucy Ozak, the Idyllwild race will be her 11th, not her seventh.

Town Crier regrets the errors.

BY BOBBIE GLASHEEN

That's a relief. I no longer have to worry about growing old. It has been difficult getting here but by the grace of three sons, a husband, barking dogs and unbalanced budgets I have flown in and landed at OLD.

Thirty-five was nice. I stayed right there for 10 years. Then I lost track and it became very confusing when my sons were in their 40s and I was only 35. A therapist straightened me out. It was time to move on.

Further evidence as to my real age came when I was crossing the room and someone yelled, "Those performance-enhancing drugs not workin' for ya, Bobbie?" His jaw was broken in three places. So I am old, but not dead, yet. A woman must defend her honor. Does he need glasses? Like a stately galleon, I was moving ahead with great style and grace. His problem.

There is a thought niggling here. Should I die (joke), that will put a cap on the number of dogs I may someday own. These two hideous little barkers just may mark the end of kennel heaven.

We speak of the Rainbow Bridge and our pets crossing into water-hydrant bliss. Somehow, I have not been able to reconcile our meeting again on the other side. What if the books get confused and I wind up "over there" with someone's pet boa? The only good possibility is that some poor shlemiel who is deaf gets my two pups.

I worry about this dog thing so that I do not have to consider other factors, like death. As they admonish me to eat fresh fruits and vegetables. No one understands that I need preservatives ... a whole truckload. Exercise daily, eat wisely and die anyway. Right?

God forbid that I should, or any of us should, stop laughing. Quickest ticket to the grave.

Robin Williams said, "Death is nature's way of saying, 'Your table is ready.'" I am in line alright. Others in line look askance as I double over gasping with laughter. Listening to Robin Williams always did that to me. Good medicine.

Americans With Disabilities Act business compliance

BY DAVID KELLY
SPECIAL TO THE TOWN CRIER

Don't think your business is exempt from Americans With Disabilities laws because you have an old or historic building. Last year, 3,826 complaints/pre-litigation letters were served on businesses within Riverside County, among the counties receiving the highest amount. The majority of these complaints were accompanied by large fines and lawsuits.

The majority of the Idyllwild businesses fall under Readily Achievable Barrier Removal. This applies to all businesses that are called public accommodations, such as a merchant or restaurant, because they serve the public. Businesses that are not open to the public must still comply with the ADA when their facility is altered or renovated.

Historical buildings are required to comply with the ADA, per CHBC Section 8-602, unless strict compliance will threaten or destroy its historical significance or character-defining features. A business no longer can claim unreasonable hardship for not complying with the code.

If a person files suit against your business under the Unruh Act, you can be liable for statutory damages for each and every offense for a maximum of three times the amount of damage, but no less than $4,000, and the only thing the plaintiff can recover is attorney's fees.

However, Civil Code 55.56 provides for statutory damages of $4,000 if the plaintiff is denied full and equal access to a place of public accommodation on a particular occasion or visit, not $4,000 per each violation, as previously allowed under the Unruh Act, Civil Code 52(a).

Your best defense against a lawsuit is to comply with the ADA. There is no grandfather clause in the ADA, only what is called "Safe Harbor," which means under specific situations, you don't have to modify your facility to meet requirements unless you undertake renovations or additions.

There is some protection for small businesses who have an inspection under the Certified Access Specialist program. The benefit of an inspection for a qualified small business is: You can request an early evaluation conference, receive a 90-day stay-of-court proceeding, and receive reduced minimum statutory damages to $1,000 from $4,000, if you are found in violation of a Construction

Still gaining new Members

TC continues on track

By Jack Clark
Co-publisher and General Counsel

The Town Crier boasts 532 Members now, so we continue on track to meet our goal of the minimum new Memberships we estimated the TC would need to be a viable newspaper that new, younger-than-me publishers would want to acquire.

The moment of truth will truly begin in mid-August when it's time to begin renewing the earliest Memberships. If the Town Crier is to be ongoing, the Membership model has to be ongoing, too. When prospective new publishers see that the Membership continues to work into a second year, they'll be much more comfortable with acquiring our community's newspaper and keeping it serving our Hill, including our extended community of off-Hill members.

So please plan on renewing your Membership when it comes up.

And, also, please plan to attend our weekly news meetings, open to the public, Wednesdays at 8:30 a.m. at the Town Crier office.

Yes, the Town Crier is for sale. No, we're not in a hurry. We are committed to finding the right publishers who will continue a real newspaper for our Hill — a paper that will carry on as a community watchdog publishing the bad with the good. A newspaper that warns of danger, advises of opportunity, challenges authority, praises accomplishment, investigates irregularity, marvels at art, exposes abuse, celebrates life and publishes its readers' letters.

A watchdog that will continue to monitor and report on the doings of the nine public boards we have up here on the Hill.

We know it won't be easy to find such a publisher or publishers, but we're not planning to go anywhere until we find the right person or people to carry on.

Melanie Lamaga is CCL's official liaison with Rep. Raul Ruiz.

"I was able to set up a face to face meeting with Rep Ruiz at CCL's annual Washington D.C. lobby day on June 12," wrote Lamaga. "Mallory Cremin, a local teacher and founding member of our chapter will be attending that meeting as a constituent along with other CCL organizers, in order to take the climate concerns of Idyllwild, congressional district, directly to Rep. Ruiz. This will be the first time a constituent of Ruiz's has attended the CCL lobby day, and the first time CCL has been granted an in-person meeting with the congressman.

Related Accessibility Requirement and correct the violation within 60 days.

The facility inspected does not need to comply with all applicable construction-related accessibility standards in order for you to receive legal benefits, but the property must be inspected by a CASp before a claim is filed.

I will be putting on a one-hour presentation on ADA at the Idyllwild Library from 5 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 6. Everyone is welcome. It's a small room so come early to get a seat.

David Kelly is a civil professional engineer and a certified construction manager.

ADA course for small businesses

David Kelly, a CASp inspector and Idyllwild landlord, will give a talk on Americans with Disabilities compliance for small businesses at the Idyllwild Library.

The course is from 5 to 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 6. The course will review laws, fines, lawsuits, compliance and legal protection. The course is geared toward small businesses, motels, rentals and churches. Landlords and business owners should attend. The course is free.

Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. Riverside County Cool Centers opened June 1

Give residents a reprieve from heat

With temperatures rising, people might need a place to escape the heat and cool off. Riverside County offers free cool centers throughout the county and they opened June 1.

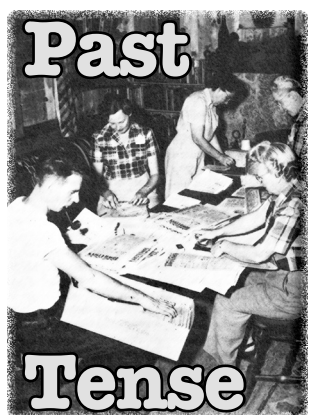

Fifty-six cool centers are open to the public at no cost and will be available through Oct. 15, as temperatures warrant. Locally, the Idyllwild Library is available and nearby Anza, Hemet and San Jacinto have cool centers.

Excessive heat and high temperatures can lead to dangerous health situations, particularly for the elderly and those with medical conditions. One potential heat-related injury is heat stroke, which occurs after continued exposure to excessive heat and robs the body of its ability to regulate its temperature. Heat stroke can happen fast and needs to be taken seriously because it can be life-threatening.

The Community Action Partnership of Riverside County, in conjunction with Riverside University Health System, Public Health, coordinate the cool centers. Locations include local senior and community centers. Light refreshments and water will be available at some locations.

For a complete list of cooling center locations, visit www.capriverside.org/Portals/0/PDF/Cool/2018_Cool_Center_Directory.pdf.

Trial set for Marcus Green

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

A tentative trial start date in the case against Marcus Green was set for July 2.

Green, 53, of Thermal, was the driver of a car that went over the side of Highway 74 in May 2016 resulting in the death of a 5-month-old child. The Riverside County District Attorney's Office filed two felony charges — murder and willful child cruelty — as well as gross domestic violence.

In April, Green's attorney, Michael Rowlands, deputy public defender, filed a motion to set aside the indictment because of irregularities when he was initially charged. However, on Monday, June 4, Judge Dean Benjamin ruled against the defense motion and set the trial date.

Idyllwild customers want to pursue possibility of consolidating water districts

By JP Crumrine
News Editor

One of the issues discussed during the Idyllwild Water District rate workshop was consolidation of the three local water districts — Idyllwild, Fern Valley and Pine Cove.

Greg Henry, of NBS, who conducted the rate study, explained that IWD needed a sufficient reserve balance in case of unexpected, major and expensive catastrophes.

"Smaller districts need to hold reserves. Bigger districts have more ability to spread risk," he stated.

In response, Dwight "Buzz" Holmes, Idyllwild resident and vice chair of the Idyllwild Arts Academy's Board of Trustees, said, "If bigger has more ability to share risk, isn't that an argument for consolidation? That's the elephant in the room."

Vic Sirkin, a former IWD director, has opined that consolidation could reduce the cost of operating the three districts by hundreds of thousands of dollars. Customers of all three districts have raised concerns about the rising water rates; therefore, there may be some interest in pursuing this course.

"But they can call us. I'm not hearing from the boards in the other districts. There's no interest in consolidation," said IWD General Manager Jack Hoagland.

He also added that he had reached out to the other two districts, but neither Robert Hewitt, president of the PCWD nor Trisha Clark, president of the FVWD, has heard from anyone on the IWD board or staff about this issue.

Sue Nash, an Idyllwild customer, expressed disappointment that none of the IWD directors have "expressed interest in consolidation or making an effort in that direction."

However, Henry emphasized that consolidation would require time. It was not included in his analysis and would unlikely affect costs for the next five years.

Yet, Marge Muir, who owns and manages property within IWD, urged the board to pursue this option. She told the group that in the 1980s, there was much more cooperation among the districts. As an example, she described the work with the presence of the joint powers agency as an example that almost led to Fern Valley sharing the treatment plant.

"This is a 21st-century solution," Holmes maintained.

responded to Nash that a notice, such as IWD mailed to property owners and customers, was what the state courts have found sufficient for fee increases.

Cost analysis

The rate increase was predicated on NBS's projection of future revenue needed to operate the water and sewer districts, Henry said. A multiplier, based on recent increases for different types of expenses, was applied to the operating costs such as salaries and benefits, and utilities.

Also, based on direction from the general manager and board, NBS assumed an annual capital-improvement budget of $400,000 for water and $300,000 for sewer.

This resulted in an estimate that water revenue would need to grow from $1.27 million this year to $1.66 million in fiscal year 2022-23. The sewer revenue would also need to increase $117,000, from $630,000 to $747,000.

This is just the revenue needed from fees. The property-tax revenue is separate, as are the stand-by fees.

But the board also wanted to increase the proportion of revenue it collected from its base monthly fee as opposed to the actual water-usage fee. The result is a complicated set of rate changes that can vary from customer to customer depending upon their meter size and water used.

The commercial rates, as well as for Idyllwild Arts Academy, are simpler and no water tiers are applied to these usages.

Objection

Since the need to increase the rates derives from the need to grow revenues in order to provide these services, several customers suggested, strongly, that IWD should first look to options that would reduce current operating costs before asking the public for more money.

For example, Henry said the capital program for water includes replacing more than 21,000 feet of pipe over this period. The cost would be about $200 per foot, when a contractor performed the work, and $120 per foot, when the district used its own staff.

Several people urged Hoagland to review the plan and install more pipe with in-house staff. While he did not object, he noted that staff could be interrupted completing the pipeline replacement if an emergency occurs elsewhere. Consequently, for projects in the commercial district, he prefers to hire a contractor who can start and finish the job within a specified period.

When asked if residential customers were subsidizing commercial customers on these large pipeline projects, Henry replied that commercial customers tend to use more water and, therefore, pay their share through the usage fees.

Reserves

IWD's combined reserves are currently $3.7 million, according to Chief Finance Officer Hosny Shouman. This spring, the board lowered its goal to $4.1 million from $5 million for combined for water and sewer reserves.

The district could use more of its reserves for the proposed construction, but Henry warned that increases the risk to the district and customers if an unexpected catastrophe occurred.

Waste treatment plant

One major unknown is the remaining operating life of IWD's waste-treatment plant. Hoagland has expressed concerns about the life expectancy of the plant almost since arriving at IWD.

Earlier this year, an outside consultant suggested replacement costs in the range of $4 million. Hoagland has reviewed these plans and believes these estimates are too high. He opined that $2 million is a better estimate.

While the rate analysis assumed $300,000 annually for sewer capital projects, the IWD budget proposal indicates that the sewer capital-improvement program will be closer to $75,000 annually.

If the treatment plant were to require unexpected and sudden work, the source of funding would likely be a combination of sources, according to Henry. Reserves would be available, but not likely sufficient for a sewer project that large. Therefore, debt would have to be investigated, too.

Comedy night returns with more comedians, music

Three accomplished standup comedians — Virginia Jones, Christina Walkinshaw and Tamra Brown — will be visiting Idyllwild on Tuesday, June 12, for the second annual Hilltop Comedy Night. Two local musical acts — The Funky Mothers and Chris Doshier — are also on the bill.

Soroptimist International of Idyllwild organized the event, in its second year. Comedy night is a new rendition of the club's Celebration of Women in the Arts, which started in 2011 and raises funds to help group fighting human trafficking, one of Soroptimist of the America's main projects.

"This year's lineup is just all-around funny and fun," Halie Wilson, Soroptimist secretary and entertainment coordinator for comedy night, said. "I think it will be a real treat, something different for the community... And all for an important cause."

Jones' comedic style is "intellectual, absurd and has a lot of animals in it." She has appeared at comedy clubs and festivals throughout the country. Jones was a semi-finalist in the 2013 San Francisco comedy competition.

Walkinshaw hails from Toronto, Canada. She appeared at the Just For Laughs Festival in Montreal and the Winnipeg Comedy Festival, and is a regular on CBC Radio's "The Debaters."

Brown is a comedian, writer and actress who can be seen doing stand up at venues like the Hollywood Improv, the Comedy Store, and the Nerdist Theater, as well as running her own popular show The Art Deco Comedy Hour every month at the Hollywood American Legion. She is a member of Liquid Feet, "America's most earnest TV theme song dance troupe." Her brand of smart, observational comedy is a hit. Her videos have more than 200,000 views on YouTube.

Local singer and guitarist Chris Doshier will delight the audience starting at 5 p.m. Doshier plays contemporary and country music. The comedy starts at 6 p.m. and the Funky Mothers (working title), a new band in town, will close out the evening.

Fronted by Monica Sierras, of Pentagrams and Daisies, the Mothers play an eclectic, multi-generational repertoire. Sierras said they cover danceable, "groovin'" hits, including the Beatles, Emmilou Harris, Linda Ronstadt, Bob Marley and Cuban pop star Camilla Cabello. They even do a gospel number. "We're eclectic and hard to peg down," said band member Jenn Quintyn. The rest of the group is made up of Tawny Harrington, Mikele Kreitner, Kilo Reynosa and Chris Fox.

Raffle tickets will be sold for four prizes, donated by local businesses El Buen Cacao, Salon on the Lane, Idyllwild Day Spa and a local artist.

Funds raised by this year's event will be donated to Saved in America and Million Kids.

Saved in America gathers intelligence and evidence to locate and identify missing children and trafficked victims, violent pedophiles (pimps) and trafficking locations.

Demonstration Garden update

Riverside County has given Young Idyllwild the go-ahead to begin developing the Idyllwild Demonstration Garden on North Circle Drive.

A garden work day is scheduled from 7 to 10 a.m. Saturday, June 9.

Volunteers are needed. Focus will be on weeding, moving rocks, trenching for the water tank piping from the tank to the garden, as well as grading for the greenhouse and toolshed areas.

Also, a gardening class is from 8 to 10 a.m. that day. Learn about composting and creating good soil. The class is limited to 15 people.

RSVP at 858-382-4638.

Bring water gloves and sun-screen. If you have iron rakes or picks, bring them along as well. No experience is necessary, just a desire to get your hands dirty and develop a beautiful garden, said organizer Bob Greenmyer.

Beer and animal lovers find their happy place

Another important feature of ARF's Paws for Rhythm and Brews is the Home Brew Competition. This year, Kirk and Nancy Roland from the Mojave Desert Brewer's Guild won many ribbons, including Nancy's Best in Show for her American Porter/Stout. The Coachella Valley Home Brewers Club provides the support to ARF for the success of this event.

The Stein Holding competition is always a popular feature of Paws for Rhythm and Brews. The rules, which apply equally to women and men, are tough — arm parallel to ground, no bent elbows, no spilling and more. PHOTOS BY PETER SZABADI

The Animal Rescue Friends of Idyllwild held its fourth Paws for Rhythm and Brews Saturday. The event was fun and enjoyable for all ages. The Art Alliance of Idyllwild offered a special "Kidz Zone" with games, art and water while their parents enjoyed the variety of offerings from the many breweries. Here, two children are enjoying Piper's Painting Art Zone.

Library transports kids around the world

This week, Idyllwild Library began its travels around the world and without even leaving this small town. First, Rachel Torrey read a few stories about Australia at Monday's Children's Storytime and taught the kids a song about koalas. Then, Tawny Harrington introduced a didgeridoo, jokingly calling it "the first cell phone," as it was often used to communicate over long distance. Next, the children made a Echidna Spiny Anteater (an animal indigenous to the country) with a salt dough craft. Above, Olivia Brown working on her anteater craft with spaghetti pieces and salt clay dough. PHOTO COURTESY IDYLLWILD LIBRARY

Winners announced in Plein Air Festival

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild invited more than 20 Plein Air artists to create magic with their paintbrushes. And, on Saturday, May 26, they did, with three exceptional pieces winning first-, second- and third-place ribbons, as well as $300, $200 and $100, respectively.

- The winning artists are:
 First Place, Steve Gruber for "Contentment"
 Second Place, Durre Waseem for "PCT Hiker"
 Third Place, Rachel Welch for "Yellow Ford"
 Honorable Mention, Alicia Siegler for "Tahquitz Peak"
 Honorable Mention, Kathleen Strukoff for "Home of the Brave" Honorable Mention, Alannah Kern for

"Town Hall"
 Judge Paul Strahm of San Diego said, "I have taken part in this event in previous years and it is a great honor to serve as judge at this year's event. The quality of this year's entries made it hard to choose."

After the ribbons were awarded, the judge made time to explain each of his choices with valuable feedback for those attending.

During the reception, AAI sold six of the paintings painted that day. However, the remaining paintings and the additional Plein Air works of the artists will be on display and for sale until Sunday, June 17, at the Courtyard Gallery. The gallery is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday to Monday.

From left, Lady Gina (Jeri Greene), Sameer (Rajiv Panchal) and Izzy (Chic Fojtik) perform in Ken Luber's "Heaven on the Loose" over the weekend at the Rainbow Inn. Also performing were Jacob Teel as Marcos, Rena May as Diana and Doug Austin as Silence. PHOTO BY KATHY HARMON-LUBER

Fire spotters keep sights on 'Jewel of the Mountains'

BY DEBRA VARNADO
CORRESPONDENT

Idyllwild residents live in one of the most wild-fire-prone forests in the country, with vivid, scorched reminders of past blazes dotting the evacuation routes from the Hill. But Hill communities are far from being proverbial "sitting ducks," with no recourse to protecting their homes, properties and lives.

Oftentimes, the only thing that stands between a trail of smoke in the San Bernardino National Forest and a potentially catastrophic blaze is a lookout in one of the seven operational towers located there.

In addition to ground and air crews, equipment and other firefighting resources, teams of trained volunteers — many of them our neighbors — keep watch over the forest.

The late George Hall, an Idyllwild resident, volunteered for 20 years at Black Mountain Lookout located 13 miles from Idyllwild, off of Highway 243. A plaque mounted on a rock nearby commemorates his hard work and dedication.

Hall was a member of Ed Harrison's corps of volunteers — now numbering 36 — at Black Mountain. "We're like the lifeguards at the beach or the alarm bells [in a school or building]," Harrison said.

"Lookouts help the Idyllwild community by watching for smoke ... when a fire is just a single branch on a single tree — I've seen it many times.

"Those fires don't tend to make the 5 o'clock news, but if we weren't spotting the smoke, they would be on the news because they would be consuming thousands of acres. We can get a crew out when it is a $100 fire instead of a million dollar one."

Last October, Black Mountain volunteers spotted the Azalea Fire near the Girl Scout camp north of Idyllwild.

"It was reported by someone on the trail," Harrison said, "but volunteers Blair Smith and Paul Marak took photos from the tower and called in directions to the fire.

"The Lake Elsinore blaze in October was way out of our area of responsibility, but volunteer Sig Fertig called it in. Normally, we only report fires in or threatening our forest."

For the 2017 season, Black Mountain called in three smokes within the forest and 12 threatening the forest.

Bob and Norma Romano are the team leaders for lookouts at Tahquitz Peak tower. Paul McDonnell leads volunteers at Red Mountain Tower. Both towers look out over Hill communities.

Volunteers began staffing the towers May 20, working minimum eight-hour shifts once a month from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. when the facilities close, but many volunteers donate far more of their time.

The Southern California Mountains Foundation coordinates all tower volunteers — about 300 — including those at Butler, Keller, Morton and Strawberry.

"We partner with the U.S. Forest Service," Pam Morey said. "They own the towers, but we think they're ours. Ask any volunteer, they'll tell you, 'We own them.'"

"We maintain them on donations, things like extra lumber, paint, batteries, prepaid cards, anything. Help is always needed."

Every year, from late May to Veterans Day, lookouts notify forestry officials when they spot smoke.

"We look for threats to the surrounding communities and the forest, fires started by a lightning strike, or a manmade cause along a roadside where someone can see it right away and get on their cell phone and report it," Harrison said.

"But the lightning strikes are more in unpopulated areas, and from our vantage point, we can spot a trail of smoke."

At an elevation of 7,772 feet, Black Mountain tower volunteers can see the Santa Rosa Mountains, Mt. Palomar Observatory to the south and San Geronio Pass to the north.

On days when Santa Ana winds have cleared the air, Catalina and San Clemente islands in L.A. and San Diego counties are visible.

Fertig, a volunteer at Black Mountain for almost seven years, recalls how Black Mountain helped break a record.

"A few years back ... in July 2014, [team leader] Ed received a phone call from a gentleman at the Mt. Wilson Observatory in the San Gabriel Mountains. He asked Ed if someone was on the tower.

"Norm Vargas was observatory staff. He said, 'I have a [21-inch-by-34-inch] mirror that I brought from home and I want to flash it to see if your tower guy can see it.'

"He flashed it and the guy in the tower was able to see the mirror. That was a record — about 79 miles as the crow flies — direct line of sight. His previous record was 34 miles. On a clear day, that's how far you can see."

Vargas' extraordinary feat continues to amaze Fertig, but the routine of scanning the forest is what originally drew him to the tower.

"I was retired and I thought it would be a really neat and helpful thing to do. I really enjoy it.

"We receive 24 hours of training and spend one eight-hour shift with a current volunteer who has a checklist to make sure we know all the procedures and are competent to do them on our own. We also greet visitors, about 2,750 a year.

"When we arrive, the first thing we do is drive through the Boulder Basin Campground about a half-mile from the tower and count how many spaces are occupied and put that in our log. If I see wildlife — mostly deer and bobcat — I'll put that in the log, but bear warning signs are posted.

"Inside the tower, when we scan and see smoke, we record its color and use an Osborne Fire Finder — a 360-degree wheel that sits in the middle of the tower — to determine its distance, bearing, and we also determine a nearby landmark.

"The Osborne has a map of the entire area which we can see — and actually we can see more than that. We use a hand-held radio to convey the information to the San Bernardino forest dispatch, which decides how to respond."

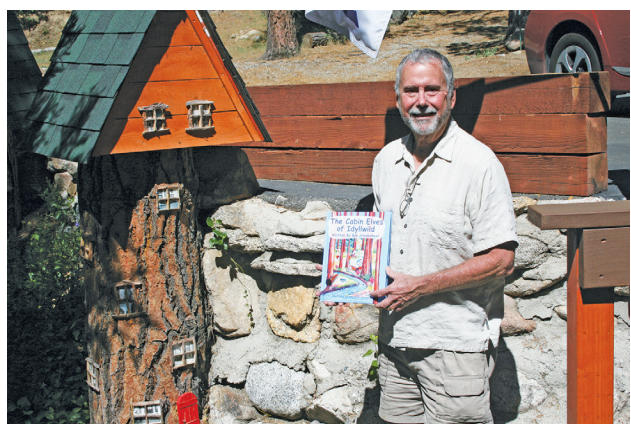

Fertig scans for smoke every 15 minutes and prepares weather reports — usually twice daily — recording wind direction and speed, ambient temperature and relative humidity.

"We call that in to the forest service to help firefighters on the ground prepare for their day."

With a great deal of pride, Harrison tells the story of "how one of our lookouts spotted a smoldering leaf pile a couple of years ago behind a cabin in Idyllwild.

"The fire crew went out and was able to extinguish the fire. It was an absentee owner, but then the fire crew came to the tower to thank our volunteer for spotting it. They were amazed he could spot the smoldering from that distance."

Forests elves invade Idyllwild cabins

BY HOLLY PARSONS
STAFF REPORTER

Even in Iceland, locals confirm the existence of cherished bands of jovial forest elves. Delivery of meticulous service to all the realms they inhabit is their forte. Rarely sighted by mere mortals, these diminutive shape-shifters unblock creeks, lay out food and build nests deep in flora and fauna but only the most trusting elves share their lives with humans.

"Mysterious sets of circumstances preceded the writing of 'The Cabin Elves of Idyllwild,'" recalls author Bob Greenamyer. "When we moved to Idyllwild full-time and replaced our wall heaters with a forced-air system, we were left with holes in our walls. That's when the idea came to disguise the holes, inside and out, with little doors with colorful knobs and hinges that didn't open; or so we thought.

"We awoke one sunny day to find a tiny canvas bag filled with miniature trinkets tied to one of the little door knobs and pinned to the bag was a note. Penned in tiny print was an offer from the elves of friendship, wisdom, advice for forest life and gifts for our grandchildren. That's when we knew for sure ... we had cabin elves," Greenamyer mused, "and that was only the beginning."

The elves taught the Greenamyers many obscure secrets of forest living, and through it all they became fast friends. Then it occurred to him to create a kids' story about their cabin elves. With the help of his literary family, because little can be accomplished alone, the story took shape.

Greenamyer consulted a website called "People per Hour," identified an artist and together they worked remotely for about three months to create authentic illustrations. Self-published on Create Space, the book is available through Amazon and at select stores in Idyllwild. A reading of this magical story by its author will take place at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 9, at the Idyllwild Library, followed by a craft.

HOROSCOPES

June 2018 — Week 1

March 21 – April 19

Your creative side is enhanced by indulging yourself in as much artistic inspiration (music, art, dance, etc.) as you can fit into your schedule. Bring someone special along.

April 20 – May 20

Take a little restorative time out of your busy life. Go somewhere quiet this weekend. Or just close the door, turn on the answering machine and pretend you're away.

May 21 – June 21

Your advice might be much in demand by family and friends this week. But reserve time for yourself to investigate a project that could have some unexpected potential.

June 22 – July 22

Work-related issues demand your attention in the early part of the week. Family matters dominate Thursday and Friday. But the weekend is yours to spend as you please.

July 23 – August 22

Try to keep your temper in check as you deal with someone who seems to enjoy showing disrespect. Losing your Leonine cool might be just what the goader hopes to see.

August 23 – September 22

A heated confrontation needs some cool-off time before it boils over. Better to step away than to try to win an argument where emotions overrule the facts.

September 23 – October 22

Someone very special in your life finally sends that reassuring message you've been hoping for. You can now devote more time to the tasks you had put aside.

October 23 – November 21

Job pressures begin to ease by week's end, leaving you time to relax and restore your energy levels before you face next week's emerging challenges.

November 22 – December 21

Your spiritual strength helps calm a friend who might be facing an unsettling change in their life. An offer to help comes from a surprising source.

December 22 – January 19

By midweek you could learn some surprising facts about an associate that might cause you to reconsider a long-held view about someone in your past.

January 20 – February 18

One of those rare-for-you darker moods sets in in the early part of the week. But by Thursday, the clouds lift and you're back doing nice things for people in need.

February 19 – March 20

Use that sharp Piscean perceptiveness to reel in more information about a promising offer so that you have the facts to back up whatever decision you make.

Idyllwild Pharmacy changes hands, not services

Dr. Schelly relocates chiropractic office

BY HOLLY PARSONS
STAFF REPORTER

Barry Shapiro, cherished owner of the Idyllwild Pharmacy, retires this week to pursue a long-held dream. Together with Linda, his wife of 43 years, they plan to travel north by caravan, documenting the journey through photography.

Shapiro leaves Idyllwild in good hands with new owner George Baslios, bachelor of science in chemistry, managing the store while Idyllwild relief Pharmacist James La Ponza takes the reins as pharmacist in charge effective June 6. Existing support staff, who have considerable experience with the community, will remain in place.

"I'm personally acquainted with many locals and invite all our Idyllwild clients to stop by and introduce themselves," said La Ponza. "I'm leaving Walgreens for the greater fulfillment found in an independent pharmacy, and look forward to further serving the community and growing roots in Idyllwild."

When asked about his philosophy regarding natural supplements, La Ponza responded, "I'm an advocate, as was Barry Shapiro. Barry brought Metagenics and superior ethical lines of supplements to Idyllwild and the new owner, George Baslios, is in full agreement. I firmly believe natural options can be an appropriate alternative. I also like to offer lifetime modifications if I believe the patient will benefit."

Going forward, La Ponza plans to schedule brown-bag lunches to offer residents the opportunity to discuss their medication plans and become even more knowledgeable about their care regime.

Baslios, a Canadian chemist, as pharmacists are denoted in Canada, will spend the next few years managing the pharmacy while pursuing his California pharmacist credentials, after which he'll assist La Ponza as needed. Baslios owns four pharmacies in Ontario, Canada, yet he favors the first pharmacy he purchased.

"Dorchester was like Idyllwild, a small, close-knit community. Being here brings back the enduring feeling of actually knowing and caring for patients, a role I believe to be of great importance when delivering care," confides Baslios, who adds, "This pharmacy is very well managed with knowledgeable, capable staff. Any additions we consider will come from residents requesting new products to benefit the entire community."

When asked why he's relocating, Baslios replied, "Almost my entire family lives in Southern California and it was time to join them." Hours of operation and contact information will remain unchanged under the new ownership.

Dr. Chip Schelly, D.C., a practicing chiropractor in Idyllwild for 23 years, relocated his office to the Victorian Square, Suite #2, effective June 4. "This location offers my patients easy access and provides the same diagnostic and chiropractic care, with the exception of the gym.

"As a diversified chiropractor, I offer traditional diversified adjustment techniques, employing a multiplicity of classic chiropractic techniques in my practice such as Palmer, Gonstead, S.O.T and other hands-on adjustment techniques. This approach enables me to identify what technique, or combination of techniques, each individual patient's body is accustomed or responds most readily to," said Schelly.

He added, "The new location will be smaller, so I'll now focus strictly on chiropractic, which is appropriate at this juncture in my career.

"The great thing about having a practice in Idyllwild is how one actually becomes a defacto member of many families. It's truly been a privilege to share the great and the difficult times in my patients' lives... as in every culture, it's the weddings, births, deaths and milestones we all celebrate," reminisces Schelly.

Contact information for Dr. Schelly will remain the same.

CREATURE CORNER

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," ARF dogs and cats longed to be adopted.

Panther: Things were rather quiet in the ARF House last weekend.

Freda: But things were pretty festive at the beer festival. I was there!

Panther: Lucky! Guess you didn't find your forever home.

Freda: No, sadly, but there was some interest in me. I'm really the perfect family member, you know. I'm house-trained, use a doggy door, and am really good with cats and other dogs.

Jax: So am I!

Zoe: And me, too!

Pepper: Those kittens are so adorable. Have you seen them?

Mr. Gray: I have. They are so playful and entertaining.

Jax: I think anyone who sees them will not be able to resist taking one home.

Panther: Three of them look alike, almost like triplets.

Zoe: But their personalities are all unique.

Jax: Just as ours are. Zoe, you and I are so personable. I am at a loss as to why we haven't yet found our forever families.

Zoe: No kidding! We are very affectionate and playful.

Sadie: You are, but those little kittens have you beat in the playful category. They are a non-stop barrel of fun.

Jax: Isn't that how they're supposed to be?

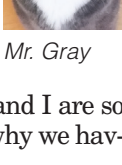

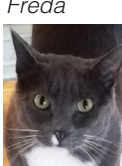

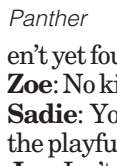

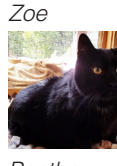

Sadie: Yes, and for humans who are not looking for constant kitten energy, there are us eight adult ARF cats. We will offer love and affection, without the kitten antics.

Zoe: So, in other words, there is a dog or cat that will be a perfect fit for any household.

Sadie: Right!

Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243 on Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appointment M-F by calling 951-659-1122.

So You Think You Know the Hill?

BY JACK CLARK
CONTEST JUDGE

Well, I didn't think last week's photo was very tricky, but I could find only two entrants: The dynamic duo, Dave Hunt and Kris Kirschbaum. It took 'em a while, but they spotted the Squirrel Crossing sign at the Help Center. So, two in the hat, and out comes ... Dave! So, it looks like your luck has turned a bit, Kris! OK, this week's photo may draw more entrants.

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office. Email entries to jack@towncrier.com.

Steele preparing for U.S. Open

BY JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

No, Brendan Steele isn't injured. He's just been taking four weeks off to spend time with family and to prepare for next week's U.S. Open.

The native Idyllwilder currently stands 22nd on the FedExCup list and 51st in the Official World Golf Ranking. That may change a bit next Monday morning. A nice finish at the U.S. Open would be really welcome. Especially if it's a win.

Ecotourism with Nancy Pearlman

World traveler Nancy Pearlman will talk on travel from 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, June 12, at the Idyllwild Library. She has traveled to more than 90 countries, making documentaries on the way. Topics include responsible and ecological travel, ethnic dance and costume, and traveling around the world.
