Four candidates for three IFPD seats

Editor's note: The terms of three Idyllwild Fire Protection District Commissioners expire in December. All three incumbents — Commission President Rhonda Andrewson and Commissioners Ralph Hoetger and Henry Sawicki — are seeking election to another term. Andrew Balendy is also on the November ballot challenging the incumbents for one of the three seats.

The Town Crier has interviewed each candidate and these interviews appear in this edition of the paper in alphabetical order by last name.

Rhonda Andrewson

Current multi-term incumbent and board President Rhonda Andrewson brings a Kansas sense of down-to-earth management to running IFPD board meetings. Kansas born, Andrewson grew up in Whittier, living next door to her grandparents. She and husband Don both worked in medical service industry positions — Don in medicine outside sales and Rhonda in central scheduling. In 1997, they visited and soon moved to Idyllwild. Once ensconced on the Hill, Rhonda worked for the Idyllwild Volunteer Fire Company and became secretary for the IFPD board in 2013. She has remained with the department as commissioner since then. "I feel the fire department is the community and has been since 1946," she said. "The chief and staff are community-oriented. And residents with regular medical issues know that the

HUSD aspires to be premier district

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Thursday, Oct. 4, Hemet Unified School District Superintendent Christi Barrett provided her second "State of District" to stakeholders from throughout HUSD. Over the next five years, Barrett sees more changes bringing improvement to the district from the foundation being built in the past two years. HUSD encompasses nearly 650 square miles, but Barrett wants HUSD to be more than simply the "default school district" for this area. She wants it to be a premier district, which parents want their children to attend and where students want to be in order to learn skills for a productive adult lifetime. "I want them to want to be here," she stated to the room. "We want to be part of the community and to make a difference. People leave the community when the educational system is not sound." The path to becoming premier is not smooth nor uncluttered. Barrett and her staff recognize that more than 80 percent of the students are from low-income families, 13 percent are English learners and chronic absenteeism is at 18 percent. "It is not for us to predetermine which students go to college. We will be prepared to give all students whatever they need to graduate, ready for college or a career," she promised. Barrett is intent on changing HUSD's role and its commitment to the community. Pursuant to the recent changes in the state funding laws, every school district prepares a Local Control Accountability Plan. She agrees that local control is necessary because "it gives us autonomy." Barrett is not simply relying on this mandated process to propel HUSD forward. She regularly meets with staff, conducts staff meetings on sites, visits at least one school a week, and attends many meetings with parent groups and organizations in the community. For example, HUSD now has 20 agreements with social service and health groups throughout the district. This reflects HUSD's

Voter registration up from 2014, down slightly from 2016

'No Party Preference' is growing choice

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

With less than a month before election day, voter registration for this gubernatorial election year is higher than past years with the state's highest office on the ballot. However, total registration (as of Sept. 7, 2018) of 19.1 million voters is 300,000 fewer than the 19.4 million voters who registered for the 2016 presidential election. Four years ago, for the last gubernatorial election, 17.8 million people registered to vote, which was 600,000 more than the 2010 election. At the expense of both political parties, the second-favorite registration choice of voters is "No Party Preference." This group of electors now totals 5.1 million people, 26.8 percent of total registered voters, and 1.1 million more than in 2014. Republicans have fallen to third in California. About 4.7 million people are registered as Republican, 24.5 percent of the total registration. The number of Republicans is 300,000 fewer than four years ago and about 375,000 fewer than 2016 when President Donald Trump was the Republican standard bearer. While registered Democrats are 43.8 percent of total registered voters compared to 44.9 percent two years ago, the number of registered Democrats is 8.3 million, about 400,000 fewer than 2016. However, this is still about 700,000 more than in 2014. In Riverside County, registration as of Sept. 7 totals about 993,000, which is 67 percent of eligible voters. Democrats have registered 372,000 department is there for them to give them regular care.

"As a commissioner, I believe we must do our best to keep the district solvent and to keep the community whole. I'd love to see IFPD serve a larger area because we can provide better medical service, given that we have four ambulances — three frontline and one in reserve. We have local service with our ambulances here and have more personnel."

When asked if having agreed to sending the closest-available unit would leave too few personnel to man the station, Andrewson said they've always been able to cover workload and keep shifts running smoothly with the dispatches that had been made.

As to what could have been done better to help pass the last fire parcel-fee increase measure, Andrewson said, "I think the last time we ran it there was not much more we could have done to promote it better. I think the largest draw we had at a meeting was maybe eight people. The fee has been the same $65 for decades and our budget has increased considerably with more expensive equipment and maintenance charges. I think we need to work a year out before putting it on the ballot again. It's [the fee increase] definitely needed to maintain and upgrade our equipment."

She said she believes failure of the measure might have been because voters thought the money would go to salary increases. She noted the average age of equipment is 10 years and that maintenance costs are high. "And we're looking at future capital improvement for new ambulances to keep medical service equipment in the top of the line."

"I think there's an educational component to living in the mountains [that residents and voters need to understand]. You don't medically treat and take care of yourself in emergencies, and you don't put out your own fires. This department is here to get you off the mountain in rain, sleet or snow, and the cost of transporting does not go down."

She noted reserves (although they are not called that per se) are perhaps $73,000 but that a new ambulance costs $150,000 with nothing in it.

Regarding the necessity of an assistant chief, Andrewson noted the board supervises the chief, and the chief supervises his department, including determining whether there should be an assistant chief. "It was the chief's desire to have an assistant chief."

"Firefighters and law enforcement are not different. They are all there to save lives. They all work together in an integrated command. We could not be effective without that cooperation."

Andrewson proposes more post office interaction, more tours of the department and open houses to see how firefighters live and are being trained; more opportunities to bring the community into the bay area; to look at vehicle records and maintenance costs. "What it takes to keep all this going is the visual that I would like people to look at, to see how hard it is to make ends meet," she said. "I'm happy to serve."

Andrew Balendy

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Andrew Balendy is seeking a seat on the IFPD commission. For the Idyllwild resident, this is his first political campaign.

He has been director of AstroCamp for five years and with its parent company, Guided Discoveries, for 18 years. And similar to many Idyllwild residents, he is not an Idyllwild native. Balendy is from Scranton, Pennsylvania.

He is a marine biologist with degrees from Penn State and Scripps. Now, he is married and they have a 2-year-old daughter.

"I'm looking for ways to play a larger role in the community," Balendy said about his entry in the IFPD commissioner's race. "It made the most sense to join the fire commission. It's where I have the most to offer."

While he is not a former firefighter, he has his emergency medical technician training, with an emphasis in wilderness EMT. Balendy also administers a very large program at AstroCamp.

For Guided Discoveries, he manages facilities with 200 people, nearly 100 at AstroCamp in the summer, along with more than 300 children.

"We have 18,000 students through the program and have to be very proactive," he said. For the camp, he has to have plans for and staff prepared to evacuate in case of an emergency, and access to emergency medical services.

This summer, he actually had to implement his evacuation plan when the Cranston Fire started. He and staff were prepared. As they drove toward Banning, they passed busses coming to Idyllwild to help evacuate other camps and residents.

"I thought [the IFPD commission] would be the best way to participate in the community," he added, "and I've been encouraged to focus here."

But fires, which he has experienced, are not the only concern he has for the community. Balendy has conducted considerable earthquake training for his AstroCamp staff.

"Safety and welfare of the children requires planning and training. We're the line of defense until the first responders arrive," he noted.

He recognizes that IFPD has two goals — fire protection and emergency medical. "Both are important," Balendy stressed. "We want to prevent fire and reduce its spread, but it's a natural part of this ecology. And we need to provide emergency medical service."

But his bottom line is "we always need them when you need them." In other words, there is no balance between the two goals; the department has to be prepared to provide whichever is needed in the moment.

As a result, he accepts that the expansion of the IFPD ambulance service beyond the district is a necessary service for which voters must pay.

"Especially for car accidents; if there is blood loss, time matters. Some help is better than before," he said.

Consequently, he sees a need for a future parcel tax measure. "A community cannot be successful as a community without all the basic needs," he argues. "And we pay for these needs. There is oversight of the department's spending of funds and we must recognize the cost of doing business is going up."

The measure is still important with the net positive income the past two years. "These funds should be set aside for capital improvement and investment," Balendy urged. "You never know what will occur, i.e., more fires. Then you'll need those reserves. You almost never have enough for a rainy day."

He is not surprised that Idyllwild Fire has an assistant chief as well as a chief. On his projects, with a staff of 12, there is always an assistant director. "It's not purely administrative functions, you never know what might happen."

Balendy realizes that he is not well known in the community. He plans to be more visible this month during the Art Alliance's Art Walk and Wine Tasting and the annual Halloween Parade.

"I have a science background," Balendy concluded. "I like evidence and want to make informed decisions. I'm very rational. I'll encourage serving the community's need through planning for the future."

By MARSHALL SMITH
CORRESPONDENT

Appointee Ralph Hoetger vies for a seat on the IFPD board.

Hoetger, appointed to the board in April of this year, is running for a full four-year term. Hoet-ger was appointed even though a former IFPD fire chief and the former mayor of Banning were in the running for the seat.

Hoetger has a wildly varied educational and career résumé. He had a football scholarship to Azuza Pacific University with a premed educational target. Injury canceled the scholarship. He received a Bachelor of Arts in physical education, then a Master's degree in physical education exercise physiology at Long Beach State. He was a doctoral candidate in exercise physiology at Utah State University, Salt Lake. His thesis, "Effects of Leg Work on Arm Work Rate Pressure Products" was considered groundbreaking.

After five years at American Medical International, a hospital management company, at which Hoetger introduced and supervised new eating disorder programs in 500 hospitals in the Carolinas, he and his family moved back West.

After graduating from the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Academy and a stint with the Torrance Police Department, Hoetger took up his present employment as maintenance director at Astrocamp Idyllwild and its sister educational facility on Catalina Island. He's a licensed pilot, and served with Riverside Mountain Rescue Unit in search and rescue for 17 years before retiring.

"I like being involved in the community and looked at how my skills match this position [at IFPD]," said Hoetger. "The last six months on the board has been eye opening. In 2007 and 2008, when there were many transparency issues, I was a skeptic about departmental management, but believe the department has made a significant turnaround and improvements since then."

He noted the department has two missions — emergency service and firefighting, with emergency service as the primary function in Idyllwild with firefighting a major part of mutual aid. "We don't get enough to run on medical [emergency service]. There are so many uncompensated medical trips where insurance or the individual does not or cannot pay," he noted. "Our off-Hill, mutual-aid firefighting is good for state reimbursement and helps our budget. It also makes other companies more willing to come here when we're in need."

He stated it costs $2.5 million to run IFPD compared to $3.8 for Cal Fire stations. "You get less service with their stations. They have one ambulance on call and we have three [frontline] and one in reserve, and we run the department for less."

As to the parcel measure the department expects to float again in the future, Hoetger said, "We definitely need it to upgrade our equipment. What knocks us down [in passing an increase in the fire fee] is the newspaper. I was in the same place 10 years ago [faulting department transparency] but the department has changed. I'd love to see the newspaper and the fire department mend fences to serve the community better."

Regarding reserves, Hoetger said, "The district reserves are not overwhelming. Without mutual-aid reimbursement, we'd have major problems. This year was a very active fire season, but what if that changed? Reserves [although not called that] are not growing at the rate needed to replace equipment. When we float this measure again, it will allow us to create a real reserve that can be added to each year, not simply rolled over. We can then look at funding a new staff position, and upgrading and maintaining our equipment."

"Healthy organizations have a cash reserve. One of the values of passing the measure would allow the Idyllwild Fire Protection District to create a reserve that would go to capital improvement (new equipment) when needed, funding the captain position we currently have open and to allow us to continue to annually roll over the existing replacement line item for operational expenses and use it as needed."

"Currently there is no capital reserve and therefore no cushion if an expensive piece of equipment goes down or has timed out on its duty cycle."

"We need to continue inspections and property owners need to continue to abate their land, creating fire-safe zones around their land." He noted that significant property abatement by Idyllwild property owners had helped

The Town Crier's Idyllwild daily high and low temperatures and rain and snow totals in the past were taken directly from the National Weather Service website, which gets its Idyllwild weather information from automatic weather sensing equipment at Idyllwild Fire Station, an official NWS COOP reporter. But we cannot accurately report "moisture" since we currently receive no report of how much water is contained in any particular snowfall. Life Tribute
Grace Louise Moore
1923-2018

On Monday, Sept. 17, 2018, at the age of 95, Grace Moore left her earthly bonds headed for that great Thrift Shop in the sky, where those who loved her waited with open arms, including her parents Fred and Ruby Evans, two older brothers Norval and Charles Evans, first husband Harold Rudd, husband George Moore, along with her favorite and only son Don Rudd.

Grace was born March 10, 1923, in the tiny town of Metropolis, Illinois.

Those she left behind are her sister Opal Thorn of Palm Springs; daughter Pat Everman of Grants Pass, Oregon; two grandsons, Robert Rudd of Santa Barbara and Robert Everman of Grants Pass, Oregon; and two nieces, Ione nephew and numerous great-grandchildren.

Grace and her family eventually settled in Torrance in the early 1950s. She worked for the Bank of America until she retired in 1978.

The family had visited Idyllwild frequently during the '60s and '70s, and it seemed the logical place for George and Grace to retire. Both were active in the community, enjoying retirement, Grace working around town for shop owners, getting acquainted with the town. She joined the Idyllwild Community Church Women's Guild and participated in its annual rummage sales, when an idea began to form.

Grace was years before her time in terms of recycling. She knew the community needed a place to discard their usable goods and an affordable place to shop, thus The Woman's Guild Cottage Thrift Shoppe was born. Grace continued at its helm enjoying her customers and friends until she retired for the fourth and final time at the age of 92 and moved to Grants Pass, Oregon, with her daughter and family.

While Grace enjoyed her final days watching the beautiful Rogue River roll by, her heart remained in Idyllwild with her many friends and beloved thrift shop. Grace was 95 years young and never lost her sassy sense of humor or spunk. She touched many lives, accepted all, judged none. She will be missed.

The community is invited to a celebration and tribute honoring Grace from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Nov. 3, at the Idyllwild Community Church Thrift Shop. Please join us for stories, remembrances and even a bit of shopping.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks that donations in Grace's memory be made to the Thrift Shop or Animal Rescue Friends of Idyllwild (her second love was her grand-dogs).

Paul Douglas Kirk passed away at age 25, just 10 days before his 26th birthday. He is survived by his parents, Victoria Kyriess and Dale McDonald, sister Danielle Davis, and grandparents Ken and Trudy Twardowski.

Paul was an incredible young man and as many have said, "He always lit up any room he walked into."

Paul always had a smile on his face and made friends very easily. He brought joy and laughter to everybody around him. He was truly a special soul and will be missed by so many.

Paul's Celebration of Life will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 20, at Community Christian Church, 41762 Stetson Ave., Hemet. Everybody is welcome to come and celebrate the life of a young man we all loved so much.

Genealogy group to meet

The Mountain Area Genealogy Group meets from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12, at the Idyllwild Library.

This is an introductory meeting for those interested in being part of a genealogy group. Bring your family tree and share stories if you have them. The group will discuss what they would like to do and learn in their genealogical searches.

Local Red Cross seeks volunteers

The American Red Cross is seeking local volunteers. Meetings are about once a month.

Volunteers are needed to set up a shelter in Idyllwild during a disaster, be prepared for floods and manage disasters.

Especially now, with the increased risk of mud/rock slides, and flooding from the burn scar, there may be more of a need for shelter openings in the future.

Last week Jack and I took a long-needed mini-vacation, pulling along our 12-foot-something vintage travel trailer behind our Subaru.

Our friends asked where we were headed? To the river? To the beach? To a lake or campground in the mountains? You know, they assumed our destination was somewhere where most people go to camp.

None of those. We headed to Indio. What?

The whole idea started out because we hardly celebrated our 25th wedding anniversary in September due to this crazy summer and other unexpected interruptions. It felt as if summer never came this year to me because our lives were filled with so many Cranston Fire current and post events, as well as numerous management deadlines here at the office.

Then I saw an announcement that my favorite band was coming for one night to an Indio casino. That only other time I saw this band live was in about 1974 or 1975 when I was 16 or 17.

I've threatened to go see them again over the years and my good husband, who knew very little about this band except my crazy passion for their music, agreed that if they ever performed near here again, he would go.

So, we made Oct. 6 at Fantasy Springs Casino our date to see Chicago.

I booked a spot at the Indian Waters RV Resort where we pulled in after dark and set up.

The next morning, we awoke to a sparse assortment of RVs, most of which took up their entire concrete footage while our little girl only filled about half our space. No one dwelled in a vintage camper like ours with portable fan to keep us cool. Generators and A/Cs kept these people happy in the desert — most of them long-term summer residents who probably came down from Oregon and Washington like our neighbors.

One rig literally had a patio that pulled out of the side with a barbecue.

We rarely saw anyone there outside during our entire stay. In fact, we sat outside in the shade most of our time there as it was cooler than indoors for us so we felt rather alone. I'm sure those folk inside their cool rigs were looking out the window at the strange little set-up of ours.

Russ, the neighbor (and I'm sure others there), found our little rig curious and offered that he was sure we would be upgrading to a bigger trailer.

"No," we said in unison. I love to camp. We just don't like setting up a tent and sleeping on the ground anymore. We agreed that this was the way we would camp.

Our little rig sleeps three adults, has storage and contains a little kitchen complete with three-burner, oven, sink and small fridge/freezer.

Unlike our neighbors there, we are not RVers. We are "glampers." We camp — in a bit of a retro style.

But we just chose to do so at a kind of a luxury RV resort this time because it was close to the casino. It offered A/C restrooms and showers, which works great because we only have a port-a-potty type thing in the closet for nighttime.

And we saw Chicago Saturday night and even had a quick photo op with the group after the show. I got to shake Robert Lamm's hand. Jack really enjoyed the show but the poor guy couldn't sleep for about an hour after we got back because his wife couldn't shut up about the experience of shaking the hand of one of her favorite musicians.

We really had a blast and also got some needed rest but next time, we'll go somewhere near a lake or a beach or a river — where people camp and glamp.

the tree root-infested bumpy lane that exists now.

Many government-subsidized programs and agencies exist to help some of the less fortunate people who live among us. Some of these people have no job skills or are unable to speak, read or write in a way that's commonly understood. Many are forced to live in the forest, dry river beds, etc.

With the right people elected, we can expand more agencies to help these unfortunates. Hard-working tax payers can easily afford to have their taxes raised. There are many very smart politicians who are able to figure out how much money we need to live on and take the excess money earned and funnel it to the ones who really need it.

I suggest you vote for the most liberal-minded candidates in any of the parties in order to make the above happen.

TC's active Members

By JACK CLARK
CO-PUBLISHER AND GENERAL COUNSEL

Charter Members are still renewing on schedule in this, the second year of the Town Crier's Membership model. Again, this is critically important to the main objective of the Membership model, which is to establish for prospective new owners that TC readers are serious about keeping a real newspaper for our Hill community.

We still have eight local governmental agencies, supported by our tax dollars, which make decisions and/or recommendations as to how additional tax dollars are to be spent — and they are monitored by nobody but the Town Crier. The TC also provides verified updates as to happenings on our Hill, from emergency information to entertainment events.

So far, 136 Members have renewed for their second year — that is more than 20 percent of our active Membership — and we're only a bit more than one month into our second Membership year. Your renewals of your Memberships are keeping your Hill newspaper in action, serving our community. Congratulations to you all, and many thanks!

Forest Service seeks comments on future fuel reduction around its facilities

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The U.S. Forest Service is requesting comments by Nov. 5 on its proposal to create or to maintain defensible space abatement around many of its administrative sites in the San Jacinto Ranger District.

Administrative sites can include recreation cabins, communication sites, fire lookout towers, developed camp sites, day use areas, fire stations, trailheads, travel routes, and areas under special-use permit to Riverside County the state, and private parties.

The purpose of the abatement is to reduce hazardous fuels in order to increase safety and ease of firefighter operations, if needed, near these sites.

The California Public Resources Code, Section 4291, requires a minimum 100 feet of vegetative clearance around permitted structures. The Forest Service will reduce fuels around these administrative sites and infrastructures where terrain, vegetation and predicted fire behavior deem necessary.

The fuel reduction locations will be called Administrative Defense Zones and the work will encompass about 5,030 acres.

While 100 feet is the minimum distance for defensible space, the actual width of fuel reduction could range from 20 to 1,500 feet. This depends upon the infrastructure's value, fire risk and site-specific factors including fuel type, terrain, emergency response time, access and fire history.

Actual treatments will range from removal of shrubs and brush, to thinning, mechanical treatment, pile burns, broadcast burns and, possibly in some areas, skyline yarding. No herbicides would be used, according to the scoping report, and no new roads constructed to do the work.

The intensity of fuels management would vary within these widths, with the most intense being within the first 30 feet around structures.

Depending upon the type of administrative area, there are five different treatment levels, most distinguished by the distance from the structure or site. For example, treatment level 1 is within 30 feet of the structure and would trim 90 percent of vegetation to ground level.

The area around the Idyllwild Water District's wastewater ponds is an example of where levels 1 and 2 treatments might be applied.

Level 3 treatments would be conducted between 100 to 300 feet from the structure or site. This would include the area around the Riverside County greenwaste transfer station in Idyllwild.

Level 4 treatments extend from 300 to 1,500 feet from the site and includes ranger stations such as Keenwild, the helipad at Keenwild, Alandale and Vista Grande.

Level 5 treatments are along roadways.

The San Bernardino National Forest is requesting written comments to help identify key issues, mitigation measures and analyze effects of the proposed action. Specific areas to be considered are:

- 1) federally listed species or designated critical habitat, species proposed for federal listing or proposed critical habitat, or Forest Service sensitive species;
- 2) flood plains, wetlands, or municipal watersheds;
- 3) congressionally designated areas, such as wilderness, wilderness study areas or national recreation areas;
- 4) inventoried roadless areas or potential wilderness areas;
- 5) research natural areas;
- 6) American Indian and Alaska Native religious or cultural sites; and
- 7) archaeological sites, or historic properties or areas.

The project's documents are available at: https://data.ecosystem-management.org/nepaweb/nepa_project_exp.php?project=53571. Paper copies are available upon request by contacting Charles Wentz, project lead, at charleswentz@fs.fed.us or 909-382-2944.

The Forest Service is requesting to receive all comments by Nov. 5, 2018.

The responsible official is Robert Taylor, district ranger, San Jacinto Ranger District. Written, facsimile, hand-delivered, oral and electronic comments concerning this action will be accepted but the preferred method for receiving scoping comments is by email (in e-mail text, or readable format .doc, .pdf, .txt, .rtf).

Send comments to charleswentz@fs.fed.us with "Scoping - Admin Defense Project" in the subject line. If you are unable to send comments electronically, you may send them by mail to US Forest Service, San Jacinto Ranger District, Attn: Charles Wentz, P.O. Box 518, Idyllwild, CA 92549, or by contacting Charles Wentz, project lead, at charleswentz@fs.fed.us.

U.S. Postal Service to host passport fairs in Inland Empire

The United States Postal Service will hold a passport fair at the North Palm Springs Post Office from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14. The fair is for first-time passport applicants.

No appointments are necessary. Customers have the option of applying for a passport book (good for all international travel) or a passport card (good only for land and sea travel between the U.S. and Canada, Mexico, the Caribbean and Bermuda).

Passport fees
	Adults (Age 16 and older)	Minors (Under age 16)
Passport Card	$30	$15
Passport Book	$110	$80
Passport Card and Book	$140	$95

The above fees must be paid with a personal check or money order. (No exceptions, according to Post Office officials.)

In addition to the above costs, there also is a $25 processing/acceptance fee plus a $15 fee for photos, which can be paid for by cash, personal check, debit/credit cards or money order. Passport photo services will be available.

Travelers are encouraged to apply for a passport several months before they are scheduled to travel overseas. Again, the average time for passport applications and renewals is six weeks. However, for an additional fee, the State Department will expedite the application and process it within three weeks.

To apply for a passport, travelers need to complete Passport Application Form DS-11 (unsigned) and provide one of the following: a U.S. birth certificate from the Department of Vital Statistics (not a certificate of birth) or naturalization papers. Applicants must also show either a valid driver's license, a previous or current U.S. passport book or card, Certificate of Naturalization, Certificate of Citizenship, military I.D. or a federal, state or municipal government employee I.D. card.

Applicants ages 15 and under must be present with both parents unless consent is given. For those ages 16 or 17, only one parent needs to be present.

The passport fair will be at the Moreno Valley Post Office from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on the Sundays of Oct. 14, 21 and 28.

For more information about passport application requirements and to download forms, visit the State Department's travel website at www.travel.state.gov.

Pelzer aims to unseat Rep. Ruiz As far as campaign money, not much in Assembly race

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Editor's note: Next week, we hope to publish an interview with incumbent Dr. Raul Ruiz.

Kimberlin Brown Pelzer is the Republican challenger seeking to represent California's 36th District, which includes the Hill, in the U.S. House of Representatives. She is hoping to turn the tables on Democratic incumbent Dr. Raul Ruiz, who upset the incumbent Republican in 2012.

Pelzer, who owns a design company and co-owns an avocado farm with her husband, is hoping her experience as a small business owner will sway voters in the district.

Healthcare

Pelzer was adamant that adequate healthcare was necessary for all, but she differs with Congressman Ruiz on how to provide it.

"As a business owner, my people were forced into the Affordable Care Act. Unfortunately, they weren't able to keep their doctors or programs," she lamented. "Which is what we were promised!"

She feels that the Republican Party has been held accountable for the flaws in the ACA. Consequently, she has been meeting regularly with physicians and healthcare providers throughout the district to gain insight and suggestions on how to fix and improve the law.

From her perspective, if elected, she will seek legislation that "would make it easier [for doctors] to serve their patients."

Pelzer will try to re-balance the power between insurance carriers and physicians. "Insurers have far too much sway in what doctors are allowed to do," she stated. "Who knows better, the doctor who sees the person or the person on the phone miles away?"

The high deductibles also concern Pelzer. Too often, she sees her employees acting as though their health insurance is for catastrophes rather than normal and preventive care.

"With the $5,000 deductible, the average family won't make that level," she said.

Kimberlin Brown Pelzer, Republican candidate for Congress from the 36th California District, at an event at Paradise Corners earlier in September.

The cost of medical care is growing because there are fewer doctors, Pelzer believes. Government regulations have discouraged students from entering the medical fields, she argued.

Budget

Although the Congressional Budget Office has warned of deficits for many years into the future, Pelzer supports the recent tax cuts. She believes CBO's analysis is flawed; the data indicate the economy is growing.

"We have a strong economy and job market. This is the lowest unemployment in years and people are paying taxes," Pelzer stated.

Nevertheless, she expressed concern over the budget. In her opinion, there is still too much "wasteful spending."

"Many programs and their costs may have been good when initially improved, but Congress doesn't get rid of things when they become outdated," she said.

Immigration

"I'm for legal immigration!" Pelzer stated. "That's how my family came here."

She favors greater border coverage and enforcement. While Pelzer acknowledges that 100 percent of illegal immigration cannot be prevented, more of it can be slowed down.

More importantly, she is concerned about the amount of drugs and women subject to sexual trafficking being smuggled into this country.

"The last checkpoint is in the Coachella Valley, but it's the number one entry of illegal narcotics," she said. "It's frightening right through our district."

"While Ruiz says he is for securing the border, he votes against the wall," Pelzer asserted. "It is not always what we say; his votes say something different."

Wildfire

Pelzer did tour the Cranston Fire burn area and attended a community meeting in Anza. Her staff brought donations to the emergency shelter in Banning during the fire.

"I think Cal Fire and the Forest Service are doing the best they can with what they are given," Pelzer said. After her tour and discussions with fire officials, she would try to increase funding for more fuel reductions, removal of brush and dead timber.

When asked if she felt that national issues, such as the Middle East or Judge Brett Kavanaugh, were affecting the local race, Pelzer replied, "They may at one level. People are frustrated on both sides of the aisle."

Consequently, the anger and attacks are creating a sense of chaos that succeeds on both sides. "They take it back to elected officials," she lamented.

Pelzer is not a career politician. She is an actor and business owner, but she said the campaign has definitely affected her life. "The verbal assaults are astronomical."

And yet, she remains optimistic about the election results. "Our polling numbers suggest this could be the district that is the number one upset," she claimed.

The Desert Sun and NBC Palm Springs will co-host a debate from 6 to 7 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 16, between Pelzer and Ruiz.

The campaign for Assembly District 71 has attracted little attention within California's political landscape. Incumbent Republican Assemblyman Randy Voepel is facing a challenge from Democrat James Elia.

Unlike the gubernatorial race or several Southern California congressional contests or the local state Senate District 28 race, Democrats have not poured money into Elia's challenge; only $1,000 from the state party.

Through Sept. 22, he has received about $50,000 in contributions, which is about two-thirds of Voepel's contributions. Since then Elia has received $6,000, of which $5,000 came from the Political Action for Classified School Employees. Voepel has collected $4,300 from three political action committees; the largest $2,000 from the New Car Dealers Association of San Diego.

In total, Voepel has received more than 100 contributions of which 18 were for more than $2,000 and another 24 for $2,000. His largest individual contributions were for $4,400, of which Philip Morris gave two, one in March and the second in June. The Barona Band of Mission Indians have given Voepel three contributions for a total of $8,700. The other large donors have been Chevron contributing $8,800 and AT&T, which has given the incumbent $8,000.

Through Sept. 22, Elia has received 60 contributions. The single largest individual gift was $4,500 from himself. The Sycuan Band of Mission Indians gave $4,400 during primary season.

Decrease in Surety Bond fees

The U.S. Small Business Administration announces the first fee decrease in Surety Bond Guarantees in 12 years. The fee decrease will be in effect for guaranteed bonds approved during fiscal year 2019. It took effect Oct. 1, and ends Sept. 30, 2019.

The program is reducing the fee from 26 to 20 percent of the bond premium charged to the small businesses and reducing its contractor fee from $7.29 per $1,000 of the contract amount to $6 per $1,000 of the contract amount.

"Reducing the SBG program fees will not only directly help small businesses, but also will incentivize surety companies and their agents to increase support for small businesses in the marketplace," said Peter C. Gibbs, Acting Director of the Office of Surety Guarantees.

Under its SBG program, the SBA guarantees bid, payment and performance bonds for small and emerging contractors who cannot obtain surety bonds through regular commercial channels. SBA guarantees contracts up to $10 million, including the streamlined QuickApp application for those up to $400,000.

There are 34 participating sureties and over 350 active agents in the SBG program. On average, completed surety bond applications are reviewed and processed in less than two days.

For more information, contact Jerianne Perry, senior management analyst, Office of Surety Guarantees, 202-401-8275, jerianne.perry@sba.gov, or your local SBA District Office.

Honoring Desert war veterans

After years of efforts, meetings, Acts of Congress, Presidential approval and governmental agency hearings, the National Desert Storm War Memorial Association has established a site where a memorial will be built at 23rd St NW and Constitution Ave NW in Washington, D.C.

The memorial will remember those who served, honoring those who made the ultimate sacrifice, and educating current and future global citizens about the importance of Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm.

Now that the site has been obtained, one of the biggest phases of this project remains — to raise the funds to build it. Although the land is provided by the government, no tax dollars or government money will be used for construction. All money must be raised through private donations from citizens, companies, etc.

Prop 6 proposes to repeal Road Repair and Accountability Act

By MARSHALL SMITH
CORRESPONDENT

Proposition 6, on the November ballot, proposes to repeal the Road Repair and Accountability Act (Senate Bill 1) enacted into law by the Legislature on April 28, 2017.

RRAA increased transportation-related taxes and fees, including the gas excise tax, diesel excise tax and diesel sales tax, and was designed to dedicate the revenue to transportation infrastructure, including bridge and road repair. According to the state Senate Appropriations Committee, RRAA is expected to generate an estimated $5.2 billion per year or $52.4 billion between 2017 and 2027.

As of 2018, increasing a tax in California requires a two-thirds vote of each state legislative chamber and the governor's signature. If passed by voters, Prop 6 would create the added step of requiring voter approval, by ballot propositions, to impose, increase or extend fuel taxes or vehicle fees.

The nonpartisan Legislative Analyst's Office suggests "A yes vote on this measure means: Fuel and vehicle taxes recently passed by the Legislature would be eliminated, which would reduce funding for highway and road maintenance and repairs, as well as transit programs. The Legislature would be required to get a majority of voters to approve new or increased state fuel and vehicle taxes in the future."

Support and opposition are, for the most part, along party lines with Republicans in support of passage of Prop 6 (repeal of RRAA) and Democrats in opposition.

Supporters argue that RRAA taxes and fees hit working families and the poor much harder than the wealthy, that California has a current budget surplus that could be spent on transportation infrastructure and that "72 percent of state motor vehicle related taxes and fees are not spent on improving transportation infrastructure."

Prop 6 is endorsed by the California Republican Party, the Ventura County Republican Party, and numerous federal and California state Republican incumbents and candidates.

More than $1 million in contributions toward passage of Prop 6 comes from Republican incumbents and candidates for California and U.S. offices. Carl DeMaio, a former member of the San Diego City Council, who helped launch the initiative, stated "[With passage of Prop 6,] 2018 will be remembered as the year we had another taxpayer revolt in California — where the outrageous car and gas taxes were reversed by voters and the politicians that enacted those tax hikes are punished at the ballot box."

Opponents include the California Democratic Party.

Business groups, including the California Chamber of Commerce, oppose the measure because of effects on employment (construction jobs) and accessibility to work sites (sound and navigable roads and bridges, and additional mass transit) The Chamber notes passage would: "Hurt job creation and the state's economy. Reliable transportation infrastructure is critical to get Californians to work, move goods and services to the market and support the economy. This measure would eliminate more than 680,000 good paying jobs and nearly $183 billion in economic growth that will be created fixing California roads over the next decade."

Opponents, including California Professional Firefighters, California

Association of Highway Patrolmen, American Society of Civil Engineers, State Building and Construction Trades Council of California, League of California Cities, California Alliance for Jobs and other first responders, note passage would eliminate currently underway projects to upgrade bridges and overpasses to meet earthquake safety standards and improve road safety throughout the state.

Mark Ghilarducci, director, California Office of Emergency Services, notes: "By stopping thousands of transportation improvement projects, Prop 6 will make our roads, bridges and transportation system less safe and lead to more traffic accidents and fatalities."

Media opposition includes the Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle, Sacramento Bee, and San Diego Union Tribune and San Jose Mercury News. Notes the Sacramento Bee, "No one likes to pay more at the pump. But seriously tackling our state's $130 billion backlog of highway and bridge maintenance and upgrades takes a significant, separate source of revenue. And these taxes and fees are the fairest method because those who use roads most are paying the most."

Notes the LAO, state fuel excise taxes are set on a per gallon, consumption basis — hence the more driving on state roads, the greater the economic effect on drivers or companies. The LAO further notes that license and recently enacted transportation improvement fees are based on vehicles' values, hence those with older or less expensive vehicles pay proportionally less.

Voters are urged to review all available arguments on this measure, as well as funding support and opposition.

FDA seeks comments on 'dairy'

The Food and Drug Administration invites comments on the labeling of plant-based products with names that include dairy foods such as "milk," "cultured milk," "yogurt" and "cheese." FDA is interested in learning how consumers use these plant-based products and how they understand terms such as, for example, "milk" or "yogurt" when included in the names of plant-based products.

It also is interested in learning whether consumers are aware of and understand differences between the basic nature, characteristics, ingredients and nutritional content of plant-based products and their dairy counterparts. We are taking this action to inform our development of an approach to the labeling of plant-based products that consumers may substitute for dairy foods.

Submit either electronic or written comments on this document by Tuesday, Nov. 27. Visit www.federalregister.gov/documents/2018/09/28/2018-21200/use-of-the-names-of-dairy-foods-in-the-labeling-of-plant-based-products-for-information.

Golf volunteers needed

Grandfathers For Golf needs adult volunteer instructors of all skill levels.

The program, which teaches kids how to play golf for free, has near-record numbers of kids signed up for instruction at Golden Era Golf Course in San Jacinto and Echo Hill Golf Course in Hemet.

Volunteers are needed to both teach and supervise the kids. Classes are held on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

To find out how to help, call Tony Viola at 909-754-4148.

Cash back program for homebuyers

The Golden State Finance Authority and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have partnered on a new gift program that will benefit rural homebuyers in California.

Individuals or families purchasing a primary residence in California with a USDA Rural Development Single Family Loan Guarantee through the GSFA Platinum Program will be eligible for assistance of up to 4 percent in the form of a non-repayable gift. The amount of the gift is based on the amount of the mortgage loan. Funds from the gift can be used for closing costs and/or principal reduction.

USDA's loan guarantee program offers 100 percent financing and is available to low-to-moderate-income homebuyers in rural areas. Coupled with the GSFA Platinum Program, qualifying homebuyers may be able to purchase a home with no money out of pocket.

To participate in the program, visit www.rd.usda.gov/programs-services/single-family-housing-guaranteed-loan-program/ca.

'I remember Ernie' stories needed

The Idyllwild Town Crier, in conjunction with the Idyllwild Area Historical Society, is asking for written stories from folk about their memories of Ernie Maxwell to be published in the Town Crier and, possibly, at an event at the Courtyard Gallery in the fall or winter. (The event was postponed from June.)

Two crashes on Hill roads over the last week

There were two crashes on Hill roads over the last week, both with minor injuries.

At 6:55 a.m. Thursday, Oct. 4, Miren Pino, 16, of Idyllwild, was driving a white 2017 Jeep Renegade southbound on Highway 243, three-tenths of a mile north of the intersection with South Circle Drive when, according to the California Highway Patrol report, she made an "unsafe turning movement" to the left, resulting in the vehicle veering to the east side of the highway off the pavement and into a tree.

Miren complained of pain in the left leg but did not request medical transport. The CHP report noted alcohol was not a factor in the crash.

At 2:48 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 6, Jordon Smith, 29, of Redlands, was riding his 2012 Suzuki Sport motorcycle eastbound on Highway 74, just east of Bee Canyon Truck Trail, when, according to the CHP, his excessive speed of 65 mph caused him to lose control, run off the road, hit several wooden posts and be ejected from his bike.

Smith was transported by American Medical Response to Riverside University Health System Medical Center in Moreno Valley complaining of road rash and a possible broken hand.

Individuals (not organizations) are being sought whose actions helped make this experience less stressful and more manageable, and who have touched you.

Explain in about 20 words how these people have made a difference to you. The Idyllwild Library will display an "Honor Wall" of our local heroes. If you have photos, you may share them, too. Send a message through the library Facebook page or drop by the library.

Chess club moving to Fridays

Beginning Friday, Oct. 19, the Idyllwild Chess Club meets from 1 to 5 p.m. every Friday at the Idyllwild Library. (It no longer will meet Thursday.) Beginners are encouraged to come and learn the “royal game.” Bring a chess set if you have one.

Ruiz introduces small-business law

Rep. Raul Ruiz, M.D., CA-36, joined by regional chambers of commerce and local business owners, unveiled new legislation that encourages small businesses to invest in their workers. H.R. 6648, the Rewarding American Investment to Support Employees (RAISE) Act encourages businesses to give their best employees a raise by providing employers a tax credit equal to 10 percent of their total payroll increase that year.

This is meant to help small businesses in California during the transition to a $15/hour minimum wage, which will be in full effect by 2023.

“Our economy has been growing for a decade and middle-class families are getting by — but they’re not getting ahead,” said Ruiz. “The RAISE Act will support small businesses and their workers, putting more money in the pockets of hard working, middle-class families and driving real economic growth in our region.”

Wiffle golf for fire victims

Sandii Castleberry and LaVern Jaksch are hosting a Wiffle Golf Fundraiser at their house to raise money for Cranston Fire victims through the Idyllwild Community Fund. The Community Foundation of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties will match any funds raised.

The event is from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 14, at 53230 W. Marian View Drive. The cost to play the 18 hole course is $20 for adults and $10 for kids under age 18. Make checks payable to the Idyllwild Community Fund and write “Cranston” in the memo area.

Best score gets to hold the trophy and get a picture taken for the Town Crier.

The 19th hole includes snacks and beverages. Bring an appetizer.

Citizens’ Climate Lobby to meet

The Citizens’ Climate Lobby meets from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday, Oct. 13, at the Idyllwild Library.

The group is a non-partisan, nonprofit organization that empowers people from all walks of life to become effective advocates for a livable world.

Its plan is to reduce greenhouse gas emissions enough to stabilize the climate while boosting the economy.

Effects of post-fire logging

Chad Hanson, Ph.D., a research ecologist with the John Muir Project, will present a talk on the post-fire effects of logging on wildlife habitat, including the California Spotted Owl, from 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 16, at the Idyllwild Library.

He will discuss the ecology of forest fires, fire management resources for community protection, vegetation management, logging and backcountry fire suppression.

Hanson is co-founder and principle ecologist with the John Muir Project. He founded The John Muir Project after witnessing the devastation on our national forests while hiking the Pacific Crest Trail.

For HUSD superintendent, one district but 28 different schools

Barrett relishes the challenges and embraces the people

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Editor's Note: Dr. Christi Barrett is starting her third year as superintendent of Hemet Unified School District. This is the second part of an interview the Town Crier had with her. Part 1 is in the Oct. 4 edition. Barrett adamantly says, "I love my job."

When asked if Idyllwild School was different from the other school campuses in the district, Barrett replied, "Every school is different. It [Idyllwild School] is different, and so is Harmony Elementary [on the western side of Hemet, near West Valley High School] compared to Jacob Wiens [in the center of Hemet]."

"At the district, we understand the need at each micro-level and to be responsive to that," she added.

As an example, Barrett compared Hamilton High School in Anza to the three HUSD high schools in Hemet. While Hamilton is on the district's edge, not in Hemet, the district's departments are focused on these students as much as any others.

Hamilton has a new principal and assistant principal this year, she noted, and added, "We have high-level expectations for Hamilton. These students will have the same opportunities as any other attending any valley high school. We're looking at course offering and student access to classes."

And Barrett stressed that, not only are college preparatory classes being reviewed, but the career technical education program will be on par with other district high schools.

Also, the future will see strengthening of the independent study program in this area. "We have a large group of students seeking an alternative access to get high school education and meet family needs," Barrett said.

While changes are being planned and implemented at Hamilton, Barrett emphasized that the district's intention is to set common goals, but each site identifies its best path to achieving them.

Just as every California school district submits its Local Control Accountability Plan to the State Department of Education, each HUSD principal develops a plan for their students and staff.

Principals use this plan as the school year begins. It is reviewed at the school and district level by various staffs, but during the year, based on interim tests and other results, the principals have the flexibility and are encouraged to adjust the plan to ensure the students' opportunities for success are paramount.

While HUSD has overall goals, each school site customizes its numeric goals to the needs of the school, Barrett explained.

"The principals continually monitor the action plans and measurements to see if they're getting results as anticipated," she said. "This allows us to actually create changes closest to the student."

At the district level, departments have "squads" reviewing results. They hold meetings, discuss results and "continually engage the principals in conversation around the action plans." Principals are encouraged to visit other sites and discuss the issues with their peers.

But district staff are not mesmerized by the scores from standardized tests. They have to look at many factors and issues. For example, how can HUSD improve its graduation rate? What influences student commitments? How do adult education classes affect the overall program?

"Asking the right question is important," Barrett believes. "Is public education responsible for more than academics? To become more efficient, addressing social learning aspects is part of [our role]."

Teaching and educating are the goals of HUSD, but to accomplish these tasks, the environment has to be safe and free from distractions. School sites across the nation have become targets. Even HUSD has had some minor, but concerning, incidents.

Last year, the board supported the creation of a security department, and Barrett hired Christopher Wynn as director of Security. He has evaluated each HUSD site and recommended improvements.

"His expertise has been invaluable," Barrett said. "We are much more systematic handling this issue, more proactive rather than reactive before Chris." His evaluation of Idyllwild School led to the changes in the school's entrance and access to the facility this year.

And security investments are a significant part of the district's bond Measure X, which will be on the November ballot.

Being HUSD superintendent is a huge responsibility. The district's enrollment is 21,800 students and nearly 3,000 employees work at the many sites. But Barrett relishes the challenges and enjoys the opportunities.

"For me, the best part of the job is coming to work every day and being in a position to impact the lives of these students in an important way," she said proudly. "I love what I do. I'm very blessed. I spend a lot of time in classrooms, at school sites to keep my perspective and understand what children and staff experience."

perspective that learning depends upon social environment as much as it depends upon a teacher and a blackboard.

For example, one of HUSD's strategies is to "create a system to close achievement gaps by providing support to students whose academic and social emotional needs are not met in the core program."

Rather than simply suspending students as a punishment, which decreases their learning opportunities, in 2017-18, the district experimented with a program at Tahquitz High School. Instead of suspension and removal, these students were provided with more social and emotional support. Not only did they have to acknowledge the consequence, but there was emphasis on the effect on their friends and other students.

"The school found that their suspensions decreased, attendance increased and the majority of students that attended this class for behavioral issues did not re-offend," according to the staff.

This program will be implemented at all of HUSD's secondary and middle schools this year, Barrett announced.

Connecting and supporting the community has lead to a "Career Technical Education" program that encompasses 27 different pathways — not simply agriculture and building trades, but medical technology, robotics, animation, health services, hospitality and more.

While graduation rates are one indicator of a district's achievement, Barrett and her staff know that these are influenced by family and social settings as much as educational context.

Consequently, they want to monitor attendance, suspensions and PSAT assessments, and complement these data with student and parent surveys.

To become premier, HUSD staff knows they must understand and promote the behavior that excels; they also recognize that they must identify the behaviors that don't belong in a premier district and reduce them.

The program was presented at the HUSD boardroom, which was filled. With nearly 20 tables, there was only one HUSD staff at each table. The attendees spanned the community from law enforcement to health services, the food industry, media and more.

IFPD

firefighters beat back the Cranston Fire.

As to whether the department has too many or too few captains, Hoetger said, "We need a captain for each engine and enough to cover all shifts. As to having an assistant chief, when Mark LaMont goes out on mutual aid, he needs to be respected and the title is important."

Hoetger is taking no campaign donations and will campaign at the post office to introduce himself and answer questions.

As ex-law enforcement, Hoetger noted that yes, law enforcement and firefighters are both first responders, but that with law enforcement, a captain typically supervises more personnel per shift and routinely deals with life-threatening situations. "At a department such as IFPD where most calls are for emergency service, captains supervise fewer staff and most medical service calls to the community don't place responding personnel at risk to life and limb. But the mission of both firefighters and law enforcement is to save lives."

Finally, Hoetger encouraged community members to attend IFPD board meetings. "I think it's appalling how little turnout there is for fire meetings," he said. "Don't complain if you don't show up."

Henry Sawicki

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Henry Sawicki, a retired Riverside County Sheriff's Department lieutenant, was appointed to the IFPD commission in February 2017.

He replaced former Commissioner Nancy Layton, who resigned, and has completed the remainder of her term. He is now seeking a full, four-year term.

He retired from the Sheriff's Department in 2009 after 29 years of service. However, law enforcement was his second career choice. After growing up in Massachusetts, he gravitated west to Blythe where his sister lived. He spent seven years as a volunteer desert firefighter. Unable to find a permanent firefighting job, a friend encouraged him to join the Sheriff's Department. His brother, who remained in Massachusetts, was a firefighter.

Blythe is where he met his wife, and they have three grown daughters and four grandchildren who live in the Hemet area and San Diego.

"For a town this size, to have its own fire department, nowhere else has this," Sawicki said proudly. And as a commissioner, he wants to continue and, where possible, improve the service to residents.

One that caught his attention, partly from his knowledge of county operations, was the issue of "closest ambulance." Sawicki perceived the difference in interpretation of this policy between the county's Emergency Medical Services Agency and IFPD.

But he asked himself and his colleagues the question, "What's best for citizens here and people driving up and down the Hill?" In May, the county agreed that the closest-available ambulance, whether American Medical Response's unit in Pine Cove or an IFPD unit, would be dispatched first.

As a commissioner, his priority is to reintroduce a measure to increase the parcel fee to benefit the emergency services work. He was an Idyllwild resident in 2016 when Mea-argued. "The chief refuses any new salary until the staff has been helped. In addition, some major equipment will need replacing within a few years."

During the Cranston Fire, Sawicki volunteered at the Idyllwild station. During this service, he noted how often IFPD was dispatched. Consequently, its crew and equipment were frequently out of the station.

"Everybody was out and only one truck to back fill. I'm looking at different things. Maybe we should buy another brush rig or another unit," he said.

All of this is for the benefit of residents and visitors," Sawicki stated. "Nearly 80 percent of the calls are medical aids."

While IFPD does charge for transporting a patient to a hospital, he notes that often the department does not receive its full cost. Medicare and Medicaid limit the amount of their reimbursements.

"We're not here to make money. We're not a for-profit organization," Sawicki stressed. "But even if we recovered one-third of our ambulance costs, we'd still need additional funds." Further, he noted that the IFPD ambulance fees are in-line with fees for other regional ambulance companies.

When asked about the effect on the budget of the increased workload now responding to more medical calls east and west of Idyllwild, Sawicki had no problem.

"If we can get there faster, we'll do it because someone out there needs help," he said. "At the end of the day, we don't say, 'It costs too much.' We are prepared for the increased workload."

sure W, the last effort to raise the fee, was on the ballot. Despite garnering 57 percent of the vote, the district needed two-thirds for its passage.

"I wasn't involved in the marketing," he said. "But I did learn afterwards that its purpose was not clear. This time I want to make absolutely sure people know why we need this — absolutely!"

Sawicki adamantly supports the need for more revenue. Although the last two fiscal years have resulted in positive cash balances, he points to several issues that will require more funding to resolve.

For example, in 2012, firefighters accepted wage reductions to help quell budget deficits. "They still are not whole for this," he

Book group to read 'Frankenstein'

The Fireside Book Group will celebrate 200 years of Frankenstein this year, so what better title to read for the month of October?

The group meets from 2 to 3 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 17, at the Idyllwild Library.

From Wikipedia: "Frankenstein; or, The Modern Prometheus is a novel written by English author Mary Shelley (1797-1851) that tells the story of Victor Frankenstein, a young scientist who creates a grotesque, sapient creature in an unorthodox scientific experiment. Shelley started writing the story when she was 18, and the first edition of the novel was published anonymously in London on 1 January 1818, when she was 20. Her name first appeared on the second edition, published in France in 1823."

All are welcome to the group.

Help celebrate library's 100th

The Idyllwild Library is one of the oldest and most venerated institutions on the Hill and it is geared up to celebrate its 100th anniversary July 27, 2020.

Staff and volunteers are planning a series of fun, informative and memorable community events leading up to that historic date and there are at least 100 ways for you to be a part of this special occasion.

They would love to hear your recollections of the library's history, especially from the 1920s to the 1950s, including important contributors, programs and milestones. Tell them your library stories: Why is it so important to you, your family, and our community?

If you have one of the earliest Idyllwild Library cards issued and pictures of the library at former locations or of its old card catalog, they would love to add these items to their treasure trove.

They especially want to receive memorabilia from the earliest days forward. Email your library stories and historic tidbits to Shannon at Shannon.Ng@rivlib.net. Bring your donated memorabilia to Shannon at the library.

For more information, contact the library at 951-659-2300 or stop by for a visit.

Foundation doubles donations

The Community Foundation of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties is accepting donations to the Idyllwild Community Fund to help local residents hardest hit by the Cranston Fire.

The Community Foundation will match donations made to the ICF earmarked for the Cranston Fire. Make sure you write "Cranston" in the memo of your check and mail to The Community Foundation, 3700 Sixth Street, Suite 200, Riverside, CA 92501; or in the comment section of your online payment to www.thecommunityfoundation.net/idyllwild-community-fund.

Free art classes for home schoolers

The Art Alliance of Idyllwild is in the process of arranging art classes for home-schooled students. These two-hour classes are free of charge and will be offered once a month at a venue in Idyllwild.

An experienced local art instructor will teach the art classes. One class will be scheduled for younger students and another for older students.

The classes will take place from September 2018 to May 2019. AAI has offered these popular classes over the past several years.

For more information, email artinidyllwild@gmail.com.

Hunters warned about fire areas

Fires throughout California have affected access to public lands in many locations that are normally heavily used during the fall general hunting season openers.

Archery deer hunters on scouting expeditions around the state are already encountering restricted access to desirable properties, according to the California Department of Fish and Wildlife. As the general deer seasons approach in many California hunting zones, hunters are reminded to research the areas where they intend to hunt or scout to be sure those areas are free from fire restrictions.

Check the websites of those agencies who manage the land you intend to visit or where you have reservations.

Support for caretakers

A series of classes for family members who care for older adults with Alzheimer's, stroke, Parkinson's and other chronic conditions is being offered for free through the Riverside County Office on Aging. Attendees will receive information on community resources, acquire skills to cope with changing demands and better understand how dementia affects personality and decision making.

The Care Pathways program began the week of July 9, in Riverside, Moreno Valley, Menifee, Murrieta, Hemet, Perris, as well as the Coachella Valley.

It provides a series of weekly workshops designed to offer information and support to family caregivers who face challenges managing their caregiving responsibilities for a family member, 60 years of age or older. The classes are offered in both English and Spanish; some classes are offered in the evening for caregivers balancing work and eldercare.

To register call 951-867-3800 or 800-510-2020. Home care can be arranged for the care recipient; request respite assistance at the time of registration.

Freedom from smoking clinic

The Hemet Unified School District is sponsoring a clinic to help attendees quit smoking at the Idyllwild Yoga Studio, 54445 North Circle Drive.

For questions about this free clinic, contact Valerie Velez at 951-765-5100, ext. 3509, or vvelez@hemetusd.org.

Cal Fire suspends burn permits

Due to potential for wildfire, Cal Fire/Riverside County has suspended burning by permit and other uses of open fire in all State Responsibility Area lands within the county.

The restrictions went into effect Monday, May 14, 2018, and apply until further notice:

- Use of campfires is restricted to within established campfire facilities located in established campgrounds open to the public.
- Cooking fires with a valid permit are permissive when no alternate means of cooking is available and requires an on-site inspection prior to the issuance of a permit.
- Warming fires are permissive and require an on-site inspection prior to issuing a permit when weather conditions exist to justify the request.

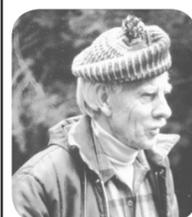

State rangers or other authorized agents of the Department of Forestry and Fire Protection may issue restricted temporary burning permits whenever it can be shown that burning or use of open fire is essential for reasons of public health, safety or welfare.

A walk in Idyllwild: beautiful art and spectacular wine

By JP CRUMRINE
 NEWS EDITOR

Saturday, Oct. 13, is the 21st-annual Art Walk and Wine Tasting. The Art Alliance of Idyllwild produces the annual event, which is its largest fundraiser of the year.

This year, walkers will have the opportunity to taste wine from 20 different wineries. This is the largest selection in several years, according to Donna Elliot, AAI president. However, the number of glasses, the tickets to a taste, is again limited to 1,200.

The Art Walk begins at 11 a.m. and continues until 5 p.m. The actual wine tastings begin at 2 p.m. Art enthusiasts are encouraged to walk from AAI's Courtyard Gallery to the galleries on upper North Circle Drive. Of course, with the shuttle available, one could do the reverse and walk downhill.

Art in the Park is planning a special set-up for the walk near the Courtyard on the opposite side of Highway 243. New this year will be the opportunity to view some art at La Casita, as well as Café Aroma. Elliot says new owner Robert Garcia has offered both restaurants as stops on the walk.

The wineries are located throughout Southern California, such as Temecula, Warner Springs, Escondido, Fallbrook, Julian and Idyllwild, Elliot said.

Beneficiaries of the AAI largesse include the Children's Dance Program at Idyllwild Arts Academy, the Idyllwild School smARTs program and Stratford Players, among several.

Advance ticket purchases for the wine tasting are recommended, especially with the limit of 1,200 glasses. Ticket prices are $45 each with a special price of $40 each for groups of 15 or more. AAI members will be charged $40.

New Medicare cards are arriving

The U.S. Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services is mailing new Medicare cards to protect the safety and security of people with Medicare benefits. The cards no longer contain a person's Social Security number, but rather a unique, randomly assigned Medicare number that protects the identities of people with Medicare, reduces fraud, and offers better safeguards of important health and financial information.

CMS has begun mailing the new Medicare cards to people who currently have Medicare benefits in California. As soon as people receive their new Medicare card, they should destroy their old Medicare card and keep their new Medicare number confidential.

People with Medicare and their caregivers can visit medicare.gov/newcard to find out when new Medicare cards will be mailed to their area. They can also sign up for email notifications about the new card mailing and check the status in their state.

Scholarship donations accepted

The Idyllwild Scholarship Board is requesting community donations to support scholarships for 2019 high school graduates.

Donations may be sent to Idyllwild Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 778, Idyllwild, CA 92549. All donations are tax-deductible.

Mountain Quilters host 15th-annual Quilt Show

'Naturally Crazy' is the theme

BY MARSHALL SMITH
CORRESPONDENT

The Mountain Quilters of Idyllwild, at 77 strong ("76 women and one brave man," according to Penny Bottomley), will host their 15th-annual Quilt Show. Themed "Naturally Crazy," the show will feature crazy quilts, patchwork quilts made of patches of randomly varying sizes, shapes, colors and fabrics.

Once again, the popular show is held at Buckhorn Camp on Highway 243. It runs from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 13 and 14. Admission is $8, but husbands and children under age 16 are not charged for admission.

The spousal dispensation is because member wives, many of whom live off the Hill, do not like driving on our winding mountain roads and husbands become designated drivers by delegation.

This year's opportunity drawing is for a crazy quilt for which all members have a chance to create a square on the quilt. The squares each contain different shapes and sizes.

Bottomley noted the tradition of crazy quilts dates back to the late 1800s and early 1900s when women would take pieces of their dresses to create blocks of a quilt. They would then add fancy embroidery and stitching to each block. When the quilt was completed, they would drape the finished masterpiece over a sofa to display their handiwork to potential suitors.

In addition to the drawing for the opportunity quilt, attendees may view quilt displays, a display of dresses for girls from around the world and other items available for purchase.

Children can play the "I Spy" kids' game in which they take a list with names of items, locate quilt pieces displaying the items on a quilt, and then have the chance to win a quilt if their finished list is drawn.

Buckhorn Camp will serve breakfast and lunch for purchase each day in the camp dining hall.

Buckhorn Camp is located between Idyllwild and Pine Cove off Highway 243.

Chicago native Chris Scott serves the community by volunteering. With ongoing service to the Idyllwild Community Fund, the U.S. Forest Service, Idyllwild Arts and the Rotary Club, Scott is part of the pulse of the community.

"Being from Chicago, I never lived in a small town before and didn't know what to expect," Scott said. "There is such a great sense of community, and particularly following the Cranston Fire, a great sense of wanting to help each other.

"And there are so many volunteer opportunities here, so many ways to become involved. So, for me, volunteering is just a natural fit."

Prior to moving to Idyllwild in 2014 so that his wife Pamela Jordan could take up her duties as president of Idyllwild Arts Foundation, Scott was active in Chicago as a fundraiser — for the North Shore Country Day School as an annual giving coordinator, for the University of Chicago as an associate director for major gifts, as director of development for the Chicago Scholars Foundation and as director of development for the Chicago Opera Theater.

With a Bachelor of Science, music education, and a Bachelor of Music, trombone performance, from the University of Missouri, Columbia, and a Master of Music, trombone performance, from Northwestern University in Evanston, Scott was active as a musician in the vital classical, jazz and musical theater scene in Chicago. In addition to playing with the Illinois Symphony Orchestra, the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra and a variety of professional brass ensembles, Scott performed as a freelancer with numerous shows, studio recordings and local musical tours.

He also volunteered in Chicago for the Chicago Corinthian Yacht Club as an instructor, Sailing Crew Development Class, with the Chicago Academy for the Arts and for the Development Leadership Consortium on their board of directors.

Weaving his skills into the fabric of Idyllwild's nonprofits and service groups, Scott transferred his fundraising prowess to the Idyllwild Community Fund as vice president for Fundraising, to the Rotary Club as the current president, and to the Forest Service in a variety of roles including tower host. "When I found out I could do that, I said, 'Sign me up!' It's a good crew and we take the job very, very seriously. We literally look out over our community and our beautiful mountains, and help protect them both."

One of Scott's happiest opportunities as tower host is giving out patches to children that say, "I climbed Tahquitz Peak." That ceremonial pleasure had its roots in a 1976 Scott family trip from Chicago to the West, including to Mesa Verde National Park.

"A ranger at the park was very kind to me and gave me a junior ranger badge," he remembered. It made such an impression on Scott as a young boy, that he continues the practice as tower host in Idyllwild, thinking that it will remind young people of the moment they made the climb to the lookout tower and the importance of the forest and the wilderness.

"I'm also a wilderness ranger, patrolling on and off the trail, interacting and educating the public, interpreting the wilderness for visitors and helping to make sure their experience is fun and safe." Scott patrols twice a week and serves as tower host every other week.

As president of Rotary for the next year, Scott said he is honored to be part of an organization that is a hub for volunteers providing service to the community. "Not only do we serve as an important volunteer force for other organizations, we give about $15,000 in grants per year to local nonprofits and we also fund student scholarships.

"Some of the most important work I do here is to support my wife Pam, and the great work she and everyone is doing at Idyllwild Arts."

Although he does not play trombone anymore because of an injury, Scott continues to play electric bass that he also played in high school and college. "I'm having fun with that without the pressures of having to do it professionally — stay tuned," he said.

Anyone who talks to Scott knows that his abiding obsession is as a "born and raised, die-hard, Bleed Cubbie Blue" Chicago Cubs fan. Mention spring training and you'll know he is there.

And how different is it to move from a major city to a small unincorporated town? "Do I miss Chicago?" he wondered. "Yes, there are things I miss there — my mom and sister are there. I miss Wrigley Field. I miss being able to step out of our house, walk half a block, and there's a tamale lady or an Indian restaurant. But we were ready for something new and in Idyllwild, we found a unique community in a pristine setting with a vibrant arts scene, fabulous restaurants, and cool boutique stores and shops."

Scott's family typifies the American immigrant experience. "My mother's side of the family was all from Norway and immigrated in the 1880s to Chicago and Wisconsin," he said. My father's side was Scottish and immigrated in the 1660s to Pennsylvania. A fourth great grandfather and many uncles fought in the American Revolution.

In volunteering as widely as he has, Scott follows a pattern that many residents take up. For many on this Hill, volunteering is what makes Idyllwild so special. It is a practice that defines this community and binds it together.

Join Idyllwild Arts for the Palms to Pines Seasonal Plants Workshop Series and learn how the plants of the San Jacinto and Santa Rosa Mountains have been used by Native Americans who call these mountains home. Four workshops led by experts and culture bearers local to the Palms to Pines region explore the landscapes where the plants are found and teach about their gathering and processing. Walk away with deepened understanding of local flora and with flours, breads, and soaps that you create yourself. The series culminates with the 2019 Idyllwild Arts Summer Program's Native Plants class.

CONTEST JUDGE

Nine entries this last week. Eight correct entries came from Rochelle Ainsworth, Dave Hunt, Kris Kirschbaum, Rue Pine, Marc Reis, Colin Smith, John Thomford and Mike Van Zee. They all spotted the roots in the tree in the sign for Village Market, the roots spelling out "Idyllwild."

This time, grandson Finley Wilson got to pull the slip from the hat on his fifth birthday — Happy Birthday, Finn! — and he picked out Marc's name. So, Marc, please come to the Town Crier to get your gift certificate from Higher Grounds coffee house, who along with the Red Kettle restaurant, is sponsoring our contest each week.

OK, you may have to look sharp to find this week's photo subject.

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office. Email entries to jack@towncrier.com.

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," the ARF cats and dog Tex talked about the new cat, Mitzy.

Panther: Sad to tell you all that I have no adoption news this week.

Mr. Gray

Tex: Oh, darn it! Well, I am nice and warm at my foster's house. Check out the new photo of me on my comfy bed.

Panther: And we cats are so comfy here in the ARF House.

Tinkerbell: This is true, Panther, but I'd rather be with a forever family, you know, with someone to play with me.

Mr. Gray: You are so playful Tinkerbell, but I guess most kittens at 6 months are.

Zeus

Tinkerbell: And I've been told I'm very pretty.

Tex: Yes, you're pretty. Your silky black hair is very nice.

Mr. Gray: Tinkerbell is our fourth tuxedo cat here at ARF.

Broadway comes to the mountains on Oct. 20

Guests at this month's Idyllwild Arts Academy Alumni/Family Weekend and Open House will be treated to a rare glimpse of Broadway.

Alums, current families, families curious about the academy as an option for their children — and anyone else who loves musical theatre — will be transported "From Main Street to 42nd Street" by 1998 Idyllwild Arts graduate Jacque Carnahan.

This autobiography in song chronicles Carnahan's journey from a small California town to the bright lights of The City That Never Sleeps. From Main Street to 42nd Street is central to the accomplishments of Believe NYC (<http://believe-nyc.com/>), of which Carnahan is artistic director, an educational company that brings teenagers to New York to teach them about career opportunities in the performing arts.

Part of the education for any challenging career has to be inspiration, and Carnahan's path to success is pure inspiration. She grew up in San Luis Obispo as a lover of dance and theater who saw that IAA was made for her. Unfortunately, even the partial scholarship offered to her wasn't going to cover her full tuition needs.

"So, I wrote to everyone who supported the arts in my community and asked for their help," Carnahan recalls.

"Over a hundred people donated forty thousand dollars — a huge help in getting me through four years at Idyllwild Arts. They meant so much to me that I sent them regular progress reports, first from Idyllwild, then from Boston Conservatory, then for ten years from New York."

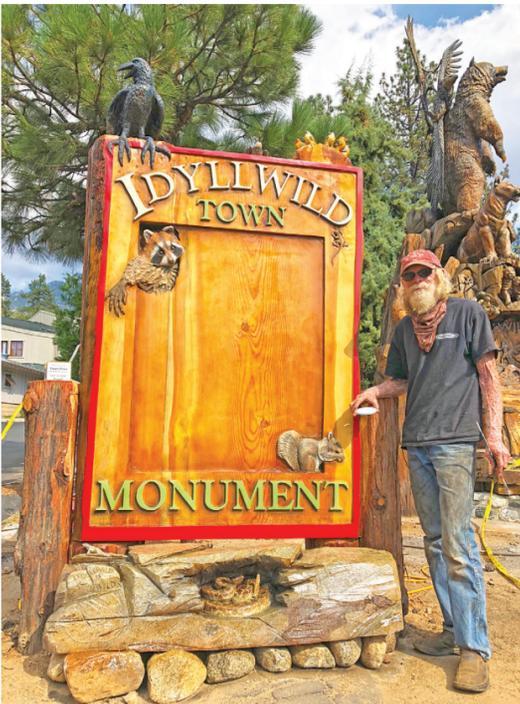

Carnahan, who can be followed at @jacquecarnahan on Instagram, was part of the pre-Broadway lab for the new musical Spongebob Squarepants, soloed for the Boston Pops and is a senior choreographer for Princeton's McCarter Theatre Company. She has worked with such Broadway greats as Tony Award winners Alice Ripley, Renée Elise Goldsberry, Stephen Schwartz and Christopher Gattelli. She also co-produces the annual Broadway benefit concert Arts For Autism, which has raised more than $125,000 for Autism Speaks, hosted by Kelli O'Hara and Christopher Jackson.

For "From Main Street to 42nd Street," Carnahan and piano accompanist Paul Staroba, associate music director of Lincoln Center's My Fair Lady revival, perform music arranged by Broadway composer Barbara Anselmi.

The event is free and open to the public from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 20, 2018, in the IAF Theatre on campus. Seating is limited.

David Roy, the artist who created Harmony Monument, with the new monument sign he also created.

New town monument sign created

After the Harmony Monument sign was damaged last year, the Art Alliance of Idyllwild commissioned David Roy to design and install a new one. Roy is the artist who created the monument. Harmony is a wooden sculpture that weighs 5 tons and towers 25 feet over Idyllwild's village center.

Roy has lived in Idyllwild off and on for 24 years, putting his talent to work as an artist working with wood and chainsaws. He worked for five years on Harmony and completed it in July 2012.

The inspiration for his creation was endangered species. That is why the California condor and the grizzly bear feature prominently. His favorite part is the mountain lion.

Four large cedar trees were glued together to create a raw block into which these life-sized native animals were carved. It is a tribute to Gorilla Glue. In fact, Gorilla Glue features Idyllwild's monument as one of their "Tough Stories" and as one of the largest projects using their products. They dubbed it a "monumental task."

When the monument was dedicated, Roy said, "The work represents the balance of nature and the harmony of Idyllwild's inhabitants."

Nearly every day, visitors honor this work of art by lining up for photographs with it.

The new 4-foot-by-8-foot sign has 13 characters on it: A raven, a squirrel, a raccoon and other native birds add color and significance to the sign. Of special interest is the stone-colored wooden bench at the base of the sign with a realistic sculpture of a rattlesnake and gecko. David Roy has spent the last two months creating this new photo opportunity for visitors.

AAI owns the monument and sign, and it shares the responsibility of maintenance with the Rotary Club.

Air quality documentary released

The South Coast Air Quality Management District this month released an updated version of its signature documentary film, "The Right to Breathe."

"The Right to Breathe" reveals the serious health effects of Southern California's air pollution, shared through stories of individuals. Directed by award-winning documentary filmmaker Alexandre Philippe, the film aims to make viewers aware of the impacts of air pollution while also inspiring them to take action and participate in practical solutions to help improve our air quality.

The documentary film is available on SCAQMD's website at www.aqmd.gov.

SCAQMD is the air pollution control agency for Orange County and major portions of Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties.

'The Guide for Charities'

California Attorney General Xavera Becerra has released "The Guide for Charities" to give charities the tools they need to comply with laws. The guide seeks to promote best practices to help directors and officers of charities better understand their responsibilities.

HOROSCOPES

October 2018 — Week 2

March 21 – April 19
A colleague might offer to open a door for you professionally. But before you walk through it, be sure this "favor" isn't attached to an obligation you might find difficult to discharge.

April 20 – May 20
Your creativity, your persistence and your reliability could lead to a major career shift. Be sure to use that other Taurean trait, your practicality, when discussing what the job offers.

May 21 – June 21
A changing situation might require some adjustments you might not have been prepared to make. However, flexibility in this matter could be the best course to follow at this time.

June 22 – July 22
You're in a period of fluctuating moods, which is not unusual for the Moon Child. Your emotions stabilize by the 26th. Meanwhile, try to hold off making major decisions until then.

July 23 – August 22
That keen sense of perception helps you hunt down those minute details that others overlook. And, of course, your Leonine ego will accept the expected praise with good grace.

August 23 – September 22
Be careful not to be confrontational when raising a work-related issue. Better to make a request than a demand. And, of course, be prepared to back up your case with facts.

September 23 – October 22
Your ego might be hurt when a colleague turns down your offer to help. But accept it as a rejection of your offer, not of you. A friend from the past could re-emerge by week's end.

October 23 – November 21
A flow of positive energy turns a work project you didn't want to do into something you actually love doing. Now, take that attitude into your social, intimate life -- and enjoy what

November 22 – December 21
Working hard to meet your professional goals is fine. But don't neglect your private life, especially where it concerns your more cherished relationships.

December 22 – January 19
"Patience" remains the key word in dealing with an emotionally sensitive situation involving a close friend or family member. Help comes your way by week's end.

January 20 – February 18
With new information coming in, it's a good time to rethink some of your goals without taking suggestions from others, no matter how well-meaning they might be.

February 19 – March 20
With new information coming in, it's a good time to rethink some of your goals without taking suggestions from others, no matter how well-meaning they might be.

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS

California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: "Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentations to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor."

This is a contractor's responsibility, not a newspaper's, and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors' advertising, if we notice it.

Steele T53rd at Napa; in CIMB

By JACK CLARK
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele didn't take apart the course at the Safeway Open in Napa this year, as he did the past two years. He posted 67-71-72-75 — 285 to tie for 53rd place. Thirty mile-per-hour winds during at least one of his rounds may have had something to do with that.

In any case, he's off to Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, this week for the CIMB Classic. The Idyllwild native will tee off Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. PDT and Thursday at 6:30 p.m. PDT.

★ STUDENTS OF THE WEEK ★

Third-grade teacher Mrs. Kyriss selected Maria Mina and Hailey Rodriguez as this week's Idyllwild School students of the week. "These two ladies are great examples of being team players," Mrs. Kyriss said. "They work hard every day to get their work done and then help others who may need assistance. They have positive attitudes toward learning and persevere when problem-solving in the classroom," she added. "They set a good example of being a positive influence in the classroom and on the playground." Maria and Hailey received recognition as well as gift certificates from Idyllwild Ice Cream and Jerky for their hard work. PHOTO BY HALIE WILSON
