Julie Hall is new district ranger

By JP CRUMRINE

The San Bernardino National Forest has a new district ranger. Julie Hall has arrived from the Inyo National Forest to be the San Jacinto District ranger. The recent federal government shut-down may have delayed her official start, but she already is a community member.

After plenty of rain, Winter Storm Warning for the Hill

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Winter Storm Warning

At 4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 3, the National Weather service issued a "Winter Storm Warning" for the Riverside County mountains.

The warning was for heavy snow and strong winds from Sunday evening through 4 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 6. NWS was forecasting that a "... combination of heavy snow and strong winds will create dangerous travel conditions due to snow covered roads and low visibilities."

Although no snow or only some snow flurries fell in Idyllwild Sunday night and Monday morning, by early Tuesday morning, the snow had arrived here, too. The cold front arrived Monday afternoon, and the afternoon and night rain showers evolved into snow showers.

Monday night and Tuesday, NWS advised "snow levels will drop considerably to the 2,500 and 3,000 foot levels." By Monday morning, the snow level started at Mountain Center.

Snow fall was estimated to be between 3 to 6 inches between 5,000 and 6,000 feet. Tuesday night and above 6,000 feet, accumulations of 8 to 12 inches were likely.

A Winter Storm Warning for snow means severe winter weather conditions are occurring. If you must travel, keep an extra flashlight, food and water in your vehicle in case of an emergency.

Rainy weekend

While there may be several feet of snow at Mt. San Jacinto peak and the Hill above 7,000 foot elevation is pure white, rather than its natural green and brown, Idyllwild and lower remain drenched but by Tuesday morning, it was no longer snowless.

As of Monday morning, the Forest Service's Keenwild Ranger Station recorded 4.5 inches since noon Thursday, Jan. 31. Nearly 2.5 inches of that rain fell from Saturday through Monday and more was expected until Wednesday morning, when the sun is supposed to return.

Rains began Friday when the atmospheric river passed over Southern California.

From Oct. 1 to Jan. 31, Keenwild recorded 10.5 inches of rain. The long-term historic average for that period is 11.8 inches. As of Tuesday morning, Feb. 5, Keenwild has recorded nearly 14.2 inches of rain.

"Definitely significant precipitation this winter," said Alex Tardy of the NWS San Diego office. "A few storms in December and January, and now a lot in February."

PCPOA hears how fuel breaks protect community

Forest Service and Cal Fire actively build and maintain them

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Fuel breaks were the principal topic at Saturday's Pine Cove Property Owners Association. Pine Cove resident Woody Henderson showed a drone video of the fuel breaks around Idyllwild and Pine Cove.

U.S Forest Service Battalion Chief Matt Ahearn and Cal Fire Forester Nochella Funes narrated what had been filmed and discussed their agencies' collaborative efforts to protect the community.

Obviously, fuel breaks do not prevent wildfires, nor do they usually totally stop or redirect fast moving fires. However, fuel breaks, as demonstrated during the July 2018 Cranston Fire here on the Hill, do slow the fire's movement sufficiently for air and ground crews to stop or redirect its movement.

"Fuel breaks are strategically located. Their placement is largely dependent on topography so that they can achieve maximum effectiveness," Ahearn said. The Forest Service does scout for potential ignition sources, and their location contributes to the planning of where to build a fuel break.

Local firefighters dreaded a possible fire in the Strawberry Creek drainage. With the right winds, it would easily race up the Hill toward town, and depending on fuels and wind, possibly toward Pine Cove, Ahearn said. In July, the Cranston Fire was this worse case.

"But the fire didn't enter town. We were mostly successful," he stated. "This definitely shows the success of these treatments."

Nearly surrounding the communities on the Hill are several fuel breaks — Westridge, Southridge, Pine Cove, Red Hill Truck Trail and Dry Creek. This year and next, in cooperation with the California State Parks, another fuel break, Point of Rocks, northeast of Pine Cove and Idyllwild will be established.

Not all fuel breaks are identical. Most are about 300 feet wide. But some are open and most vegetation is removed from these. However, in a shaded fuel break, such as Pine Cove, the crowns and canopies remain. The intent is to remove ground and ladder fuels so the fire will be slowed. Some, such as the Westridge, are cleared in a mosaic pattern, which also mitigates fire movement.

“We’re not striving to remove 100 percent of the landscape,” Ahearn stressed, describing how a fuel break is constructed.

“But we want to reduce the duff (old pine needles and tree leaves) which can be 1 to 2 feet deep and will burn a long time slowly.”

The closer a fuel break is to town and structures, the more likely there will be pile burns and chipping rather than more intensive vegetation removal, Funes added.

Both Ahearn and Funes emphasized that fuel breaks that are only on Forest Service or state lands will not be totally successful. Property owners must also participate in the defensive tactics.

Not only does this mean potentially permitting a fuel break to cross private property, but it also means creating defensible space around structures, especially homes.

“We cannot do this alone,” Ahearn told the Pine Cove residents. “We’re going to have to have support of the public, and we have to work together.”

Community Service Area 38 (Pine Cove) does help fund the Cal Fire work on the local fuel breaks, Funes reminded the group.

The Mountain Communities Fire Safe Council also works closely with both agencies to maintain local fuel breaks. This fall, MCFSC was awarded two grants to allow it to financially help individuals to abate and to enhance these fuel breaks, according to Jerry Holldber, also a MCFSC director.

Fuel breaks are a tool to slow a fire movement until ground and air resources can do more to control it. PHOTO BY JP CRUMRINE

“The Fire Safe Council has some grants for 65/35 percent sharing,” he told the crowd.

Currently, the Forest Service has been working on the Westridge fuel break. Later this winter, Ahearn said, weather permitting, there will be a burn on Thomas Mountain. This will follow last year’s burn on the mountain.

In the next few years, the agency would like to focus some prescribed burns in the Bee Canyon area. These would be on a larger scale.

Ahearn acknowledged that one negative side effect of the burns is the smoke. But the window to conduct any prescribed burns is very limited each year, so when the weather cooperates, the agencies will do their job to create long-term safety measures for Hill communities.

“You’re back to managing the forest,” observed Ian Tober, part-time Pine Cove resident. “It costs a lot less to schedule burns than to fight fires.”

However, Ahearn stated that the current Forest Service policy is to suppress every unplanned ignition in Southern California. But he shared that the cost of prescribed burns, depending upon the amount of equipment, is between $200 and $1,000 per acre, which is considerably less than the cost of fighting large wildfires. The cost of the Cranston Fire was more than $20 million.

Pine Cove residents express concern about public threats to community safety

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

As the Pine Cove Property Owners Association’s February meeting came toward the end, resident Christina Stewart asked to speak.

She expressed both personal anxiety, as well as community concern, about the recent behavior of one of her neighbors, whom she did not name.

This person stands on the deck of the house and screams profanity and threats, she said. Not only does this neighbor threaten Stewart, but the tirades include threats to both the Pine Cove Water District’s water supply as well as starting a local forest fire.

“I’m not here for sympathy,” Stewart said. “But I want to make everybody aware.”

Specifically, without using his name either, she referred to Forrest Gordon Clark, 51, who has been arrested for igniting the Holy Fire, which burned 23,000 acres in the Cleveland National Forest, in both Riverside and Orange counties.

She pointed out that Clark had made threats, which were ignored. Stewart said her neighbor has said repeatedly, “I’m going to burn everything.”

This same person has threatened the PCWD supply. Although arrested for the threat, he has been released. The District Attorney’s office has not filed charges.

Two other attendees from the same neighborhood also spoke in agreement with Stewart and repeated that this person uses the deck to disrupt the neighborhood with the loud rants and threatens the community.

In response to a public suggestion, the PCPOA board has decided to write a letter to Riverside County District Attorney Mike Hestrin expressing their concern about the community’s safety and requesting an explanation or some protective action.

Ruiz goes to bat for California's forests

Editor's note: Last Friday, Dr. Raul Ruiz, D-Palm Desert, and Rep. Mike Thompson, D-St. Helena, along with 40 California lawmakers, sent a letter calling on the Trump Administration to take immediate action to make up for lost fire prevention and mitigation efforts put on hold during the 35-day government shutdown. These activities include prescribed burns, trainings for firefighters, and the hiring of seasonal firefighters. A total of 42 representatives signed the letter. The full text of the letter is included below:

Dear Secretary Perdue,

We are gravely concerned about the effects of the thirty-five-day government shutdown on wildfire prevention efforts in California and other western states. The loss of over a month of prevention and mitigation efforts could have disastrous effects, and therefore we urge you to take immediate action to make up for lost time.

Over the past year, California was struck by a wave of historic wildfires that stretched the entire length of the state, making 2018 the deadliest and most destructive year in modern history. For example, in November, the Camp Fire torched over 150,000 acres, killing more than 80 people and damaging or destroying nearly 20,000 structures. Disasters of this scale are becoming the norm rather than the exception, with six of the ten most destructive wildfires in state history occurring in just the past four years. The bottom line is that fire prevention and preparedness efforts are more important than ever.

As a result of the lapse in government appropriations, it is our understanding that some preparations for the upcoming year were delayed or cancelled. Critical activities such as hazardous fuels removal, training and hiring of new firefighting personnel, and other mitigation efforts were put on hold. Given the nearly year-round threat of fire, the winter months are critical for forest managers to be able to get a head start on clearing dead and dry fuels. Such preparation can be the difference between a contained fire and a conflagration that leaves thousands homeless and countless business destroyed.

As Representatives from the State of California, we ask that you respond to us with a full accounting of firefighting and fire prevention activities that were affected by the government shutdown from December 21st to January 25th, including, but not limited to:

1. the estimated number of acres of hazardous fuels in California that should have been cleared during the period of the shutdown;
2. any changes to the hiring process for California based firefighting personnel due the shutdown and a status update on 2019 hiring efforts;
3. the extent of activities that should have been performed by contractors who were furloughed;
4. any and all wildfire-related training activities that were delayed or cancelled;
5. the steps the Department is undertaking to make up for the lost time to ensure that preparedness is not harmed and any associated costs with such accelerated efforts.

All of the above-mentioned activities are essential to ensuring that our firefighters and forest managers are fully prepared and equipped to fight fires in the upcoming year. Failure to do so risks the lives of our firefighters and the communities they protect.

Thank you for your attention to this critical matter. We look forward to your reply and to continuing to work together to ensure the safety and security of our constituents.

Becky Clark, co-publisher of the Idyllwild Town Crier, was invited to the Idyllwild Rotary Club meeting on Jan. 30. She spoke about the history of the Town Crier. Members and guests found the short but eventful history to be fascinating and expressed gratitude for the hard and too often thankless work of producing a small-town weekly paper. Rotary vice president Tom Kluzak presented her with an official Rotary squirrel in appreciation.

Mountain Community Patrol Volunteer of the Year

By THOMAS EVANS AND JUDI MILIN
MCP VOLUNTEERS

Jon Engel was unanimously voted Volunteer of the Year by the members of the Mountain Community Patrol for 2018. Engel, who also volunteers with the local fire department, joined MCP shortly after moving to Idyllwild eight years ago. He's been an energetic member helping with every major event in the community including the 4th of July Parade, 5/10 K runs, Halloween Parade, the annual tree lighting and community concerts, and supporting the Riverside County Sheriff's Department with citizen patrols, and search and rescue efforts.

Three years ago, Engel was elected MCP president. It seems he was briefly absent from a meeting and upon returning, found the other members had elected him the new president. Engel humbly accepted the position, and has been an exemplary and enthusiastic leader ever since.

A few years ago, Engel underwent hip replacement surgery, but this only slightly slowed him down. A rapid recovery and his can-do spirit enabled him to not miss a single event. The MCP is an integral part of the community and welcomes new members.

Senator accepting nominations for Veterans Service Award

Nominations are now being accepted from individuals and groups for the 2019 Veterans Service Awards that state Sen. Jeff Stone, R-Riverside County, presents annually. The deadline to submit applications is April 12.

He awards 10 military veterans from the 28th Senate District who have gone above and beyond the call of duty to help their fellow veterans and members of the community.

Stone will present the awards in May at separate ceremonies held in Southwest Riverside County and the Coachella Valley.

“We owe our veterans a debt that can never be repaid,” said Stone in the press release. “This award is just a small token of our thanks and appreciation for what they have done, not only during their time in uniform, but after they returned home.”

Veterans groups, such as the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars posts, are encouraged to nominate a member of their organization for the award and individuals can also nominate worthy veterans.

Award recipients must be residents of the 28th District, which is entirely in Riverside County. It includes the cities of Blythe, Canyon Lake, Cathedral City, Coachella, Desert Hot Springs, Indian Wells, Indio, Lake Elsinore, La Quinta, Murrieta, Temecula, Palm Desert, Palm Springs, Rancho Mirage and Wildomar, as well as all of the Hill.

Applications and more information are available on the senator’s website, www.Senate.Ca.Gov/Stone, or by calling his District Office in the Coachella Valley in Indio at 760-398-6442 or Southwest Office in Murrieta at 951-894-3530.

Furnace rebate program

The South Coast Air Quality Management District has a CleanAir Furnace Rebate Program to encourage consumers to purchase low-emission, natural-gas central heating furnaces to help reduce air pollution.

Consumers who purchase the first 6,000 lower-emission furnaces will receive a $500 rebate per furnace. After the first 6,000 rebates, consumers will receive $300 for each condensing furnace, and $200 for each compliant non-condensing, weatherized home furnace.

For more information, including a list of qualifying furnaces, and to apply for the CleanAir Furnace Rebate program, visit www.cleanairfurnacerebate.com.

Supervisor Washington will seek second term

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

Last week, Riverside County 3rd District Supervisor Chuck Washington announced his intention to seek re-election next year.

All of the Hill, from Idyllwild and Pine Cove through Garner Valley to Pinyon and west through Anza Valley, lies within the district.

The primary is March 3, 2020, three months earlier than past primaries. Last year, the Legislature moved the primary sooner so that California voters would have a greater impact on the presidential races.

This change in the primary schedule was Washington’s first of three reasons for announcing his intent to run for re-election more than a year before the primary.

The second was more personal. He and his wife have discussed this campaign for several months. “We are in unison on the re-election bid,” he stated.

The final reason has to do with rumors circulating that he was not going to seek another term. “I wanted to end the scuttlebutt that I wasn’t going to run,” Washington said.

Apparently, more than one potential opponent had sought support from individuals who have traditionally supported Washington. When they were asked for support for someone else, the supporters called him to confirm a rumor of his retirement.

He is not planning to leave the board. While only finishing his fourth year, he is the second most senior supervisor on the board.

Gov. Jerry Brown appointed Washington to the Riverside County board in March 2015 to finish the term of Jeff Stone who had been elected to the state Senate in November 2014. One year later, Washington sought election to a full four-year term on the board and was easily elected over several challengers.

“If I left in two years, I feel I’d leave the county with a lot of unresolved issues of which I have knowledge,” he said. He added that it takes awhile for officials to understand issues from the perspective of the whole county rather than simply an election ideology.

He acknowledged his own growth of knowledge during his initial elected service on the Murrieta and Temecula councils. “I started to see some things differently,” Washington said. “It doesn’t matter if a ‘D’ or ‘R’ is behind your name to solve problems,” he added. “It doesn’t matter who we are, what matters is what is done.”

He served as chair of the board during 2018. This year, Washington is chair of the Riverside County Transportation Commission. In December, Washington was elected to serve on the executive committee of the California State Association of Counties.

Check your chicken nuggets
January was a bad month for chicken nuggets. Tyson is recalling more than 36,000 pounds of panko nuggets due to concern they might be contaminated with “soft, blue rubber.” The recall comes just after Perdue recalled more than 16,000 pounds of chicken nuggets because they weren’t labeled as containing milk.
Surprisingly, Tyson’s announcement isn’t the only food safety alert this month involving rubber. Johnsonville also recalled 48,000 pounds of “Grillers” sausages because they might have been tainted with black rubber.

No injuries in two collisions

BY BECKY CLARK
EDITOR

According to California Highway Patrol Officer Darren Meyer, a minor collision occurred on Four Chimneys Road at the corner of Delano Drive at 1:20 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 31.

Traveling west on Four

Damage was minimal to both vehicles, Meyer said, and no towing was required. There were no injuries, no alcohol involved and no passengers, he added.

On 11:43 a.m. Wednesday, Jan. 30, a motorcyclist laid down his bike on Highway 74 near mile marker 57, where it became stuck under a guard rail.

Though CHP was on scene, the uninjured rider did not want to report filed. He called AAA who sent Idyllwild Garage to tow the bike.

Fatal traffic collision involving a vehicle rollover

Early Sunday morning, Jan. 27, Cindy Oropeza-Soto, 25, a former employee of the Idyllwild Brewpub, died in a car crash in Menifee.

Officers from the Menifee Police Department responded to a single vehicle, rollover traffic collision on Domenigoni Parkway east of Lindenberg Road, but in the city of Menifee.

The preliminary investigation indicated the driver of the vehicle, David Rostrosolis, 23, of Hemet, was going eastbound on Domenigoni Parkway. He appeared to have fallen asleep and struck the center median causing the vehicle to rollover.

Oropeza-Soto, also of Hemet, was ejected, suffered major injuries, and died at Inland Valley Regional Medical Center about four hours after the incident.

Rostrosolis did not suffer any injuries, but was suspected of being under the influence of alcohol. Rostrosolis was arrested and booked into Riverside County jail on two felony charges, gross vehicular manslaughter and driving under the influence causing bodily injury.

He has been released on bail of $75,000.

The Menifee Traffic Reconstruction Team responded to the location and assumed the investigation.

Anyone who may have witnessed this collision and has not been interviewed is encouraged to call Officer Dominguez at the Menifee Police Department, 951-210-1000.

San Jacinto staff creates app for entire Forest Service

There now is an app for the San Bernardino National Forest and 55 other national forests. The apps are unique for each forest and provide visitors information about recreation opportunities, trails and even fires.

National forests across the country are using the app, but the idea originated with Fred Peña, a fire protection officer, in the San Jacinto Ranger District.

Peña and his colleague Byran Scott, also a fire protection officer, wanted to provide visitors with up-to-date fire and recreation information. They have been fire investigators for several years. While fire warnings and advice were originally the app's intent, it now covers the gamut of Forest Service recreation, engineering and fire activities.

"For example, is Devil's Slide Trail open, where is it, do you need permits?" Peña said, describing the information they wanted to share. "It has so many unique capabilities and will benefit each national forest differently."

After about six months of working on a design and prototype, they discovered that Toby Bloom, national program manager for travel, tourism and interpretation in the Forest Service's Washington, D.C. International Programs Office, was trying to develop something similar for the entire National Forest System.

Peña contacted her and suggested they collaborate going forward. Bloom helped find an app designer, OnCell, whose experience is mobile tour solutions. They work with museums, the National Park Service and other recreation oriented companies to create interactive tours of cultural sites, galleries, arboretums, zoos and similar sites.

The app is specific to each national forest, who decides what content to provide. Rather than having to navigate the web for information about a national forest, visitors can use just one app.

Initially, Peña and Scott visualized an app that would help inform visitors about the dangers of forest fires and educate them about what they should do to prevent an accidental fire. For example, "Don't leave a campsite without ensuring the fire is extinguished, share the dangers of target shooting, the sparks," Peña said.

Bloom, who doesn't have the fire background of the San Jacinto staff, was focused on recreation information, such as climbing, bike trails and hiking.

"We merged the two ideas and created a Forest Service module app," Peña said. After another six months of work, the app went public in late July and August, he added. Now nearly 60 national forests and grasslands are using the app to promote their activities and opportunities, and nearly 100,000 downloads of these apps have already occurred, Peña said proudly.

Development of the app has not ended with its public distribution.

Fred Peña, forest investigator for the U.S. Forest Service on the San Jacinto Ranger District, was instrumental in creating an App for the San Bernardino National Forest. Now nearly 60 National Forests are using this app to promote their activities and notices.

Other capabilities, which Peña foresees, include offering multiple languages, the ability to pay recreation fees or obtain an Adventure Pass without stopping at a district office before starting on the trails.

When asked how he felt when it went public, Peña replied, "It was building so much momentum we almost couldn't keep up with it."

In December, Peña was recognized at the 2018 Regional Forester's Honor Award ceremony in Sacramento. He, Scott and the team were given the award for "Leading in public services environment special accomplishment."

Supervisors approve permit process for selling, cultivating cannabis

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Riverside County Board of Supervisors approved staff recommendations for implementing a process to issue permits for the growing and selling of cannabis (marijuana) in the unincorporated areas of Riverside County, including Idyllwild.

The vote was 4-1. New Supervisor Jeff Hewitt, 5th District, which extends from Palm Springs to Menifee and includes Banning and Beaumont, was strongly opposed to the development agreement approach to the permit process.

Hewitt labeled it a "pay to play" option, which would favor entrepreneurs with deep pockets, who presumably could pay for more community benefits, than smaller, but more competitive organizations. In fact, he preferred a simple tax on the product.

Before opposing the motion, Hewitt urged Chair Kevin Jeffries, 2nd District, to delete the development agreements from the permitting process.

He also recommended that Jeffries create a new cannabis ad hoc committee to review and redefine the permit process. None of the other supervisors seconded this motion.

However, further discussion of a possible committee is on the board's Feb. 5 agenda.

In his comments explaining the resolution, board policy and requests for proposals, Juan Perez, director of the county's Transportation and Land Management Agency, which oversees both the Planning and Code Enforcement departments, said the initial development agreement would be for 10 years and could extended another five. Their purpose is to create an incentive for the cannabis operators to provide a benefit back to the communities in which they are located.

Examples of these public benefits are funding for more sheriff's patrols, new or repaired sidewalks or parks, and community clean-up programs. Currently, the county requires land developers to deposit $30,000 before negotiating a development agreement. For the cannabis permits, Perez recommended that this figure might be lowered to $6,000, and may drop further if a standard or common agreement is approved.

Several citizen speakers opposed the development agreement approach. They called it a tragedy and too complex and convoluted. If the county simply imposed a tax, they believed another $30 million of revenue would be collected.

However 3rd District Supervisor Chuck Washing-

Public comments sought for 2020 Off-Highway Vehicle grants

For more than 20 years, the San Bernardino National Forest has been a recipient of more than $10 million from California's Off-Highway Vehicle grants. The money has gone to creating and maintaining OHV staging areas and trails, route monitoring and education, enforcing OHV regulations and restoring lands damaged by OHV use. The forest has 65 miles of green sticker trails, 169 miles of green sticker roads and another 734 miles of level 2 roads open to SUV/4WD use, of which 104 miles are 4WD routes.

So what's next for the program? That's where the public comes in. Forest officials are encouraging the public to provide suggestions for grants that will improve the forest's OHV program by either attending an open house or sending suggestions. The agency plans to request grant funds from the State of California Off-Highway Motor Vehicle Recreation Division to enhance and manage motorized recreation in the area.

The Southern California Mountains Foundation, a local partner, also will submit a grant to perform work on the U.S. Forest Service lands.

The open house is from 6 to 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 7, at the forest's headquarters at 602 S. Tippecanoe Ave. in San Bernardino, to discuss the next opportunity in off-highway vehicle grant funding from the state.

Interested citizens are invited to drop in at any time during the open house. Representatives from the Forest Service and the foundation will be available to answer questions about potential grants and to receive ideas about the types of projects and other opportunities to be funded through the grants.

If you are unable to attend the meeting, or have any questions, the Forest Service would like to receive your input on the grants. The preference for receiving comments is by email to Linda Stamer at lstamer@fs.fed.us by Feb. 15 with the words "OHV Grant Application" in the subject line. If you are unable to send comments electronically, you may mail them to OHV Grant Application, Linda Stamer, USFS Supervisor's Office, 602 South Tippecanoe Ave., San Bernardino, CA 92408.

Preliminary grant applications will be submitted to the OHMVR Division on March 4. The public will be able to comment on the preliminary applications from March 5 to May 6. Final applications will be submitted by June 3. For more information about the state grant process and requirements, visit the OHMVR Division website at www.ohv.parks.ca.gov.

ton disputed this position. He noted that a countywide tax would have to be approved by all county voters not just those in the unincorporated areas. He believes that type of proposal would be defeated at the ballot box.

"It's very difficult to craft a single approach for everyone," he argued. "... the development agreement may not necessarily be perfect, but it's a good start."

Development agreements would be negotiated with each operator and apply to that community. Washington stressed that the benefits Anza residents may desire would be different from those sought by residents in another district.

Hewitt did not hide or obscure his opinion. "I really don't like the additional public benefit. That is 'pay to play.'"

Just before the vote on the final motion, Hewitt recommended that the issue be tabled for 30 days to allow a new committee to revise the process. None of his colleagues agreed with this action either.

Supervisor Manuel Perez supported the proposal with the condition that the county place greater priority on social equity programs, to help small businesses and the laborers in the field.

Regarding the issue of whether commercial cultivation in three rural residential zones — R-A, R-R and W-2 — would be permitted, Perez, of TLMA, told the board that this issue would first go to the Planning Commission in April or May before being presented to the supervisors.

Visual Arts shows kick off soon

The first of four shows by Idyllwild Arts Academy’s Visual Arts seniors — all of them free and open to the public — begins Friday, Feb. 15, with a reception from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Parks Exhibition Center on the Idyllwild Arts campus.

That first show, called “Epoch,” like the shows whose openings follow on March 1, March 15 and April 12, will run for nine days to allow plenty of public viewing time. Viewing time is well-deserved by young people whose seriousness about their art has already earned for some of them admission into world-renowned college visual arts programs that include the Rhode Island School of Design, School of Visual Arts, Otis College of Art and Design, California Institute of the Arts, Parsons School of Design, Maryland Institute College of Art and University of the Arts London-Central Saint Martins.

Academy VA Chair David Reid-Marr calls the Senior Show “a way for graduating seniors to demonstrate that they have reached a level of maturity both formally and conceptually.”

The students taught by Reid-Marr and his VA colleagues do much more than simply draw, paint or sculpt their creations. The months-long preparation for the Senior Show includes composing “an artist statement which explicates the work,” he said.

Preparation for the Senior Show also includes other behind-the-scenes tasks that, Reid-Marr said, give his students “resilience and integrity, and prepare them for college.”

Cash back program for homebuyers

The Golden State Finance Authority and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have partnered on a new gift program that will benefit rural homebuyers in California.

Individuals or families purchasing a primary residence in California with a USDA Rural Development Single Family Loan Guarantee through the GSFA Platinum Program will be eligible for assistance of up to 4 percent in the form of a non-repayable gift. The amount of the gift is based on the amount of the mortgage loan. Funds from the gift can be used for closing costs and/or principal reduction.

USDA’s loan guarantee program offers 100 percent financing and is available to low-to-moderate-income homebuyers in rural areas. Coupled with the GSFA Platinum Program, qualifying homebuyers may be able to purchase a home with no money out of pocket.

For example, each VA senior’s work is subjected to an evening of critique by fellow VA seniors and the VA faculty.

“This is a final exam for everyone,” a member of the VA faculty is likely to remind all of the students. “So make sure you participate.”

Appropriately for a final exam, many questions will be challenging.

A couple of years ago, a Hopi student’s work included representation of the Pueblo Revolt against Spanish colonization in 1680. The large work was laid out on the floor, so the student walked its perimeter as he spoke. He took care with his explanation not only for the observing students and teachers, none of whom was Hopi — “some people who don’t understand our ways might not respect them” — but for the Hopis who were not present.

“I feel a sense of responsibility to my people for correct representation,” the young man said.

“I understand that,” another VA senior said. “But if this work represents your culture; where are you in it?”

“I didn’t even want to put my name on this work,” the Hopi boy said, smiling, “because it should be about the gathering of all Hopi people.”

Relationships between individuals and their communities, relationships between all human beings and the planet that sustains us ... these and other equally important topics will be addressed by the four remarkable shows forthcoming from Idyllwild Arts Academy’s VA seniors.

To participate in the program, visit www.rd.usda.gov/programs-services/single-family-housing-guaranteed-loan-program/ca.

Idyllwild International Festival of Cinema opens in one month

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

In less than a month, the 10th-annual Idyllwild International Festival of Cinema opens its door for another week of exciting and new motion pictures, from full-length and shorts to documentaries and animation.

More than 800 films from all over the world were submitted for inclusion in the 2019 IIFC.

“There are more than 15 foreign entries, including Iran, Australia, and, of course, the UK and Canada,” said Stephen Savage, IIFC founder, director and chair. “This year we will have the first film from Mongolia.”

The official opening night feature is a crime dram, “Myra,” which Christopher Baize directed. A love triangle, gangs and a trans sex worker all are components of this film, which stars Tom Sizemore, Roberto Sanchez and Scott Krinsky. It will be shown, along with other films, starting at 6:50 p.m. Tuesday, March 5.

“This is very Quentin Tarantino-like,” Savage promised.

Other feature films include “Under the Same Moon.” Bob Wasson directs Lucas Kerr and Luciana Vara in a “dramedy and romance” about a man who has been in a coma for five years. His last memory is buying a wedding ring.

Leading the documentaries is one about Idyllwild’s Mayor Max. The “Mayor” is the official opening night documentary and Tylor Horky directs it. This recently premiered at the 34th Santa Barbara International Film Festival.

umentary; it’s really good.” This will be shown at 4:40 p.m. Tuesday, March 5.

Then there is the official opening night short film “Boxed,” a film about Henry “Box” Brown’s escape from slavery in 1849, written and directed by Wanjiru M. Njendu. She was born and grew up in Kenya, and went to school at Emerson College in Boston.

But the featurettes showcase several veteran Hollywood producers, directors and actors. For example, Alan J. Levi directs “Take My Hand.” He has directed episodes of several well known and popular television series, such as NCIS, JAG, Columbo and Magnum, P.I. The film’s ensemble cast includes Barbara Bain, Sondra Curry, Eileen Gubba and Cherie Curry, the lead singer for the Runaways.

And Erik Bork, a five-time Emmy winner, will have “I Got This” showing next month. This featurette is a comedy about a young couple trying to clandestinely obtain DNA samples from three men “... who could be the father of her daughter who he’s been helping to raise, thinking she was his.”

Bork won an Emmy for his miniseries “From the Earth to the Moon.”

The Rustic Theatre and Town Hall will again be venues for the films, and possibly the Creekstone. Hollywood stars such as Anne Archer and Loni Anderson are expected to make an appearance during IIFC 10.

Until Feb. 14, local passes for the entire festival may be purchased for $25 at the Rustic Theatre, the Town Crier and some other locations with proof of residence.

Historic cabin sells for first time in 94 years

By Connie Jones Pillsbury

In November 2018, ownership of Lot 12 (formerly Lot 6) on Mac-Teckelwood Lane in the Saunders Meadow Tract changed hands for the first time in 94 years. Connie Jones Pillsbury, granddaughter of original owner, and her husband Norm Pillsbury, sold the beloved family cabin to frequent Idyllwild visitors from Laguna Beach, Ronald Meyer and Leslie Wolcott, who say they “love the cabin and cannot imagine changing anything.”

In 1924, Elwood M. Jones leased the second lot in the newly created “Tahquitz Summer Home Tract” in Saunders Meadow. The U.S. Forest Service opened up these tracts allowing leasing in the National Forest under the “Term Occupancy Act” passed by Congress in 1915. Saunders Meadow was one of the largest with 59 lots. The Jones cabin had the distinction of the “longest held lot in the same family” resulting from the Term Occupancy Act.

Elwood, a 33-year old pipe salesman in the oil industry downtown, heard of the tract from “Ranger Joe” while fishing at Domenigoni Flats, near the current Idyllwild Arts Academy.

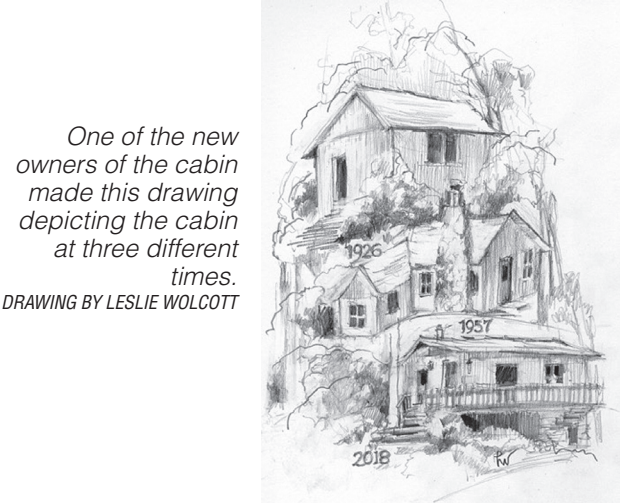

A Kansas farm boy, now with a family in Pasade-

1925 photo of the original Elwood #6 cabin in the Tahquitz Meadows Summer Home Tract. At the far right, the walls have opening slats for the camp kitchen. Elwood Jones bought the lumber from an old oil camp in Taft and had it brought down by truck. A Town Crier article “I Remember When - Honest People” in 1985 by John Jones explained that the load was too heavy on the old toll road, so the driver had to unload it along the way. Elwood picked up pieces and strapped them on his car on way up each trip, and when he counted, it was all there! PHOTO COURTESY CONNIE JONES PILLSBURY na and work in downtown L.A., Elwood loved both the outdoors and fly-fishing. He built his simple rectangular “fishing shack,” complete with indoor-outdoor camp kitchen and an outhouse up the hill. He called it “Elwood #6.” Sons Elwood and John carried water from Granite Springs creek to the cabin.

Elwood invited friends in the oil industry to his rustic cabin for the start of the fishing season every year, and they called themselves “The Sons of May First.” Two of those fishing pals, Archie MacDonald and Ray Tecklenborg, leased lots next to his, creating a three-cabin destination that they called “MacTeckelwood.”

Elwood, Teck and Archie started the Tahquitz Meadow Improvement Association in order to develop a water system for the tract. (Forest Service leased the lots, but they were on their own for water.) That association continues today as the Saunders Meadow Homeowners Association.

Elwood’s son John inherited the cabin in 1954, and soon doubled the size and modernized the interior. John served on the Saunders Meadow board for many years and was instrumental in the land exchange with the Forest Service in 1972, which resulted in fee simple ownership of the lots.

John and Barbara’s son, architect Mark Jones, guided the association through the transition from its longtime private water system started by his grandfather to annexation by the Fern Valley Water District in 1995.

The Jones family was pivotal in the long history of the Saunders Meadow Homeowners tract, and enjoyed many years of good times with friends and family in their cozy cabin. New owner Ron Meyer said, “We are privileged to have this wonderful historic cabin and to participate in the Saunders Meadow Homeowners Association. We feel part of a very special history. The cabin embodies everything we love about this special town.”

Note: The 2016 paperback book by Robert Reyes presents an excellent history of Saunders Meadow. “Saunders Meadow – A place Without Fences, a History of the Term Occupancy Permit Act of 1915” is available at amazon.com.

Mark Davis next Spotlight speaker

Mark Davis is the next speaker at the Spotlight on Leadership series, sponsored by the Associates of Idyllwild Arts Foundation. The talk is at 10 a.m. Monday, Feb. 11, in the Fireside Room in Nelson Dining Hall on the Idyllwild Arts campus. The event is free to the public.

Davis became director of Summer and Auxiliary Programs for IAF in June 2015, and is a member of the IAF President’s Senior Leadership Team. As director, Davis has increased enrollment, expanded program offerings beyond summer and enhanced program offerings.

He introduced the first online registration and online payment options for Summer and Auxiliary Programs, and consistently has generated revenue for reinvestment in IAF.

During his tenure as director, Davis’ scope of work has included playing Queen Elizabeth I in “The Merry Wives of Windsor” and managing a full-scale emergency campus evacuation during the Cranston Fire in July 2015.

Prior to coming to Idyllwild, Davis worked for nearly 25 years at UCLA, most recently as associate editorial director in UCLA Marketing and Special Events. In that role, he was senior editor of UCLA Magazine, developed the magazine’s tablet-based app, produced video stories and created a podcast companion to the print magazine.

He also led various marketing efforts, primarily for Development and Alumni and Family Relations. His work can still be seen in the UCLA Optimists campaign (optimism.ucla.edu) and the Centennial Campaign for UCLA, which launched in May 2014 and will close in 2019.

From 1991 to 2013, Davis served in various positions in UCLA Alumni Affairs. His responsibilities there included marketing, communications, event planning, volunteer management, board management, social media, digital marketing and communication, group travel, and member and student services. He also served as executive editor for “UCLA: The First Century,” the first comprehensive history of the university, which made it into the Top 10 of Amazon’s Best Sellers in History list.

Davis launched Alumni Affairs’ first magazine, first website, first e-newsletter and the first UCLA Alumni Day, which attracted more than 2,000 constituents back to campus in a single year.

His professional experience also includes five years in External Affairs at the University of Cincinnati; contributing writer, FaithandLeadership.com, published by Duke University; contributing editor for Glue magazine; contributing writer for Florida Magazine, Cincinnati Magazine and The Lutheran; music columnist for The Advocate; and writer and house manager at Cincinnati Playhouse in the Park.

Davis has been an active volunteer, including various district and national roles through the years with the Council for Advancement and Support of Education; two-time delegate to the Churchwide Assembly of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America; six years on the board and executive committee for the ELCA Southwest California Synod; the Hollywood Interfaith Sponsoring Committee; and the executive board of the First Lutheran of Los Angeles Fund, which managed a $15 million endowment.

Davis served on various committees and as a singer for 16 years with the Gay Men’s Chorus of Los Angeles. Since becoming a permanent Idyllwild resident in 2015, he has sung with the Idyllwild Master Chorale and the Palm Springs Gay Men’s Chorus.

Davis lives with his husband, author Eduardo Santiago. Together, they founded the Idyllwild Author Series in 2010, just a few months after buying property in Idyllwild. Mark earned a Bachelor of Science degree in journalism with concentrated studies in theater and English from the University of Evansville, and did his graduate work in editing and publishing at the University of Cincinnati.

HOROSCOPES February 2019 — Week 1

March 21 – April 19

Some unsettling facts about a past situation could come to light. And while you'd love to deal with it immediately, it's best to get more information to support your case.

April 20 – May 20

A straightforward approach to a baffling situation is best. Don't allow yourself to be drawn into an already messy mass of tangles and lies. Deal with it and move on.

May 21 – June 21

Don't be discouraged or deterred by a colleague's negative opinion about your ideas. It could actually prove to be helpful when you get around to finalizing your plan.

June 22 – July 22

Ignore that sudden attack of "modesty," and step up to claim the credit you've so rightly earned. Remember: A lot of people are proud of you and want to share in your achievement.

July 23 – August 22

A financial "deal" that seems to be just right for you Leos and Leonas could be grounded more in gossamer than substance. Get an expert's advice to help you check it out.

August 23 – September 22

Don't ignore that suddenly cool or even rude attitude from someone close to you. Asking for an explanation could reveal a misunderstanding you were completely unaware of.

September 23 – October 22

Unless you have sound knowledge, and not just an opinion, it's best not to step into a family dispute involving a legal matter, regardless of whom you support. Leave that to the lawyers.

October 23 – November 21

An awkward situation presents the usually socially savvy Scorpion with a problem. But a courteous and considerate approach soon helps clear the air and ease communication.

November 22 – December 21

A calmer, less-tense atmosphere prevails through much of the week, allowing you to restore your energy levels before tackling a new challenge coming up by week's end.

December 22 – January 19

Your approach to helping with a friend or family member's problem could boomerang unless you take time to explain your method and how and why it (usually!) works.

January 20 – February 18

Someone who gave you a lot of grief might ask for a chance for the two of you to make a fresh start. You need to weigh the sincerity of the request carefully before giving your answer.

February 19 – March 20

Too much fantasizing about an upcoming decision could affect your judgment. Better to make your choices based on what you know now rather than on what you might learn later.

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS

California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: "Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentments to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor."

This is a contractor's responsibility, not a newspaper's, and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors' advertising, if we notice it.

The second game, had the Idyology Kings against the Acumen Tree Service Warriors. Bailey Pula played a good game with good defense for the Warriors. Kail Mock played great for the Kings grabbing many rebounds and hustling as the Kings beat the Warriors 25-14.

Golf

Jim Crandall, Palms to Pines Golf Association handicap chair, provided this report about the association's regular monthly tourney on Friday, Jan. 18, on the Morongo Tukwet Canyon Champions Course, which was extremely wet after heavy rains. The sand traps were filled with water.

Rather than the traditional, individual, low-score wins, the Palms to Pines Golf Association played a four-man scramble.

For the four-man scramble, each person in a foursome tees off, then the group chooses the best ball. Then each team member takes their second shot from that spot. Every shot is played like this until the ball is sunk in the hole.

This format uses modified Stableford scoring, which gives points for each score rather than birdies, pars, bogies, etc. A double bogey or more was worth 0 points; a bogey, 1 point; par, 2 points; birdie, 3 points; eagle 5 points; double eagle 6 points.

Based on this format, the team of Don DePalma, Norm Kyriss, Ken Garelick and Tony McLean finished first with 38 points. The second team, with 36 points, included Pete Capparelli, Jerry Daquila, Bob Wadlow and Jon King. Third place went to the team of Chris Kramer, Dennis Chavez, Paul Cozens and Lee Lanfried who earned 34 points.

Points for the association's playoff list were awarded as follows: each first place team member got 3 points; the second place team earned 2 points each; and the third place teams got 1 point each. And as usual, everyone who played got a half point.

Individual winners of the closest-to-the-pin contests on the four par 3s were Kyriss on holes number 3 and 17, Crandall on number 8 and Chavez on number 15.

Here are the 2018-19 point standings for the season that runs from August 2018 through July 2019:

CREATURE CORNER

By JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," ARF cats welcomed Thomas to the cattery. Mr. Gray: So, I've been thinking about reasons why humans should have us felines in their lives.

Thomas: Did you come up with some good ones?

Mr. Gray: I surely did! First of all, cats are masters of self-care, meaning we are pretty low maintenance. We tell our humans when something is wrong, we enjoy time alone and we are excellent at entertaining ourselves. And we care for our bodies. We can spend half of our waking hours cleaning ourselves

George: So true. I wonder if humans realize we spend two-thirds of our lives sleeping.

Pepper: Geeze. A pet can't get much easier than that!

George: You know, looking around this cattery, I see examples of this from every cat here.

Sadie: We all care for ourselves!

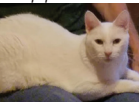

Thomas: It has been fun watching George, Mr. Gray and Sadie running throughout the cattery, playing with each other.

Pepper: And I love playing with those little balls.

Mr. Gray: It's so nice that ARF humans have fixed hanging toys for us to bat about.

George: I keep busy greeting every human who comes in. Thomas: And Heavenly Whiskers, your photo can be found in the dictionary under "cat nap." You are very good at snoozing.

Bear

Thomas

Mr. Gray: I think we all are.

Heavenly Whiskers: And we all have very good bathroom manners.

George: Yes, we all make good use of the litter box!

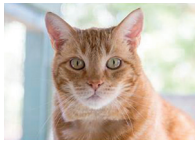

Pepper: And did you know passengers at Denver Airport find relaxation in engaging with the airport's official therapy cat?

Sadie: No kidding! I thought only dogs did that.

Thomas: Just goes to show ya that cats are just as good as dogs for a human's well-being.

Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243 on Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appointment M-F by calling 951-659-1122.

Creature Corner is sponsored by Carole Herman & Sandi Mathers.
