Fire prevention continues through winter

Local fire officials changing

By JP CRUMRINE

The Mountain Area Safety Taskforce held its first meeting of 2019, Wednesday April 10. Attendance was slightly less than normal, due to the current road closures from Hemet and Banning.

Several new faces were at the front table. Cal Fire Division Chief Bill Weiser ran the meeting in the absence of his colleague, Chief Gregg Bratcher.

Riverside County Sheriff's Lt. Alfonso Campa, who joined the Hemet Station staff Feb. 14, during the Valentine's Day storm, attended his first MAST meeting. His career has included work on drugs, gangs, and search and rescue assignments.

He mentioned that the Hemet Station has received additional funding to keep staff on the Hill while Highway 74 from Hemet is closed. The Department is also improving the Mountain Station at Lake Hemet. It will serve as a base for search and rescue incidents.

In the four days from Thursday, April 4, through Sunday, April 7, Campa

Newsom, Ruiz ask feds for major disaster declaration

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Saturday, Gov. Gavin Newsom sent a letter to President Donald Trump requesting a declaration of major disaster for California as a result of the "two atmospheric river storm systems that struck California in February 2019."

On Monday, Representative Dr. Raul Ruiz (CA-36) also wrote the President, supporting the Governor's request.

"The major weather event that occurred in mid-February brought heavy winds and rains that caused intense flooding, mudslides, and damaged critical infrastructure including sewage systems and roadways," he wrote in the letter to the President.

"State Routes 243 and 74, near the town of Idyllwild in the San Jacinto Mountains, were so severely damaged that repairs are estimated to take up to two months to complete, stranding businesses and residents in the area ... I have heard from my constituents about the personal and economic toll these damages have taken on our communities," Ruiz wrote in the letter.

A declaration will help support state and

Commission to begin search for new fire chief

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Idyllwild Fire Protection District's commission reconvened its March 26 meeting last week.

In March, the commission had scheduled a closed session to discuss its plan for filling the vacant fire chief position.

Former Chief Patrick Reitz had resigned. The Commission appointed Assistant Chief Mark LaMont as the acting chief until a replacement was chosen.

However, Commissioner Rhonda Andrewson was unable to attend the March meeting and her colleagues wanted her contribution to the issue. So the meeting was recessed at that point and resumed April 10.

The Commission will now be seeking a replacement for Reitz. No schedule has been announced yet.

During the public comment period before the closed session began both Paul Riggi, representing the Idyllwild Volunteer Company, and Martha Pearson recommended that the Commission choose LaMont as Idyllwild's next fire chief.

A special meeting to discuss a public records request from Jack Clark, co-owner and attorney for the Idyllwild Town Crier was canceled.

Commission President Jerry Buchanan said that the Department's legal counsel would be preparing a response to Clark.

Historic Town Hall, built by the community, is for sale

Young Idyllwild nonprofit is taking pledges in effort to buy

By Marshall Smith
Staff Reporter

Town Hall, since the 1940s a community center for town activities, is for sale by the Johnson family – the family who was instrumental in deeding the land and organizing the construction of the longtime village meeting place.

The late Gerald E. Johnson envisioned a town meeting hall as a place in which the community could convene and socialize. He made a land bequest to the community and, in December 1946, town residents and merchants came together to begin construction of the two-story 4,000-square-foot facility.

Young Idyllwild, a local nonprofit has, for several years, been attempting to “save Town Hall” for community use by raising money to buy it. According to Kathy Wilson, of Young Idyllwild, the nonprofit is dedicated to “purchase, renovate, preserve and give new life [to Town Hall] as the Idyllwild Center for the Arts, and Community Theater.”

To that end, Wilson and Young Idyllwild have set up a pledge system on Facebook. “We’re asking for pledges only and not accepting funds until we feel we can make this a reality,” said Wilson. “Before we go forward and commit to this project, we would like to get an idea of the amount of community support we can count on.”

Part of that process is to gauge, through Facebook response, the interest of residents and visitors in making monetary donations, securing naming rights through large donations, donating materials and/or labor, hosting fundraisers and assisting in writing grants to bring the historic building back to its original purpose – as a recreational facility for the community. The link for responding to indicate interest is <https://form.jotform.com/91046004703142>.

Town Hall was dedicated on July 10, 1947, and began its storied history of hosting plays, dinners, concerts, games and recreational activities. In the years after the war, when Idyllwild’s population was small, Town Hall was everything – a public gathering place built by the public and informally “owned” by the community, owing to the sweat equity required to build it by community volunteers.

On Aug. 30, 1952, formal transfer to the “community” was made by Gerald and Eleanor Johnson, by Grant Deed to the Idyllwild Chamber of Commerce. The transfer was made with restrictions: the property was to be used for only one purpose – to serve the town as a community and recreational site. The transfer stipulated that should any violation of the granting covenants take place, title would revert to the grantors, the Johnson family.

On Nov. 2, 2012, the Chamber disbanded and re-conveyed the property to Johnson heir Jay Johnson. Johnson’s stated intent and preference is to preserve the building as a community resource.

The property is listed, according to Broker Marge Muir, at $449,000.

Said Jay Johnson, “I’ve always worked to try to keep it [Town Hall] with and for the town.”

State Emergency Services issues guidelines for alert and warning systems

By JP Crumrine
News Editor

March 22, the California Office of Emergency Services released guidelines for public alerts and warnings.

A committee of state, local and federal representatives prepared the document in response to questions and criticisms of alert and warning systems throughout the state during the numerous wildfires that have occurred in recent years.

“Recent disasters in California have highlighted troubling shortfalls, differences and inconsistencies among various alert and warning programs. As a result, many public safety and community leaders have expressed the need for more awareness of emerging systems and technologies used throughout the state and nation, and work towards an improved and more standardized approach,” wrote Mark S. Ghilarducci, director of the California Governor’s Office of Emergency Services.

The guidelines are intended to enable local governments, such as counties or special districts, to develop and to apply consistent and best practices, procedures and protocols when a major disaster or threatening event occurs.

The guidelines recommend multiple applications, adequate testing, training and functional equipment, such as software. They suggest the minimum expectations for jurisdictions implementing an alert and warning system.

A major bedrock of the alert or warning systems will be two critical and well-known federal programs — the Federal Emergency Management Agency’s Integrated Public Alert and Warning System and the National Weather System’s alerts.

The guidelines define an alert as “a communication intended to attract public attention to an unusual situation and motivate individual awareness.” If it is effective, the intended audience will search for additional information.

A warning is defined as “communication intended to persuade members of the public to take one or more protective actions in order to reduce losses or harm.” It effectiveness is whether the intended audience “takes the protective action and/or heeds the guidance.” Warnings should be issued when there is an imminent threat to life, health or property.

“[Idyllwild Fire Protection District] is currently working with several other cooperators in an effort to ensure that we have an effective and efficient warning system for the community,” wrote Acting Fire Chief Mark LaMont in an email.

The guidelines stress that there is no single formula for making warning decisions. But the authors acknowledge, “Incomplete or imperfect information is not a valid reason to delay or avoid issuing a warning.”

Further, the guidelines support the view that issuing a warning is unlikely to trigger “panic.” A credible public warning rarely leads to distrust or panic. In fact, the alerting agency should “err on the side of protecting the public.” The guidelines then added, “people rarely act on a single warning message alone.”

Warnings and alerts should be limited to the people actually at risk, the guidelines also advise.

There should be designated public officials responsible, with a chain of command. They should use the Integrated Public Alert and Warning System as the primary means to issue alerts or warnings.

Recently, resurrecting the use of a public siren as an alert has been discussed with Idyllwild Fire Department and county officials. The guidelines do not advocate this method, but they also do not oppose it. The authors identify several shortcomings in many siren systems, such as limitations penetrating well-insulated homes and buildings, plus visitors’ unfamiliarity with their intent and message.

“As for a local warning siren, we are discussing the many dynamic pieces of utilizing this type of alerting system including location, education, funding, maintenance, etc. Internet alerting messages, WNKI 1610 and Reverse 911 are currently utilized for notifications,” LaMont explained in the email.

A thorough public education campaign is recommended to help the intended public understand the siren’s message and next steps.

Idyllwild 5K & 10K race moved to August

Another effect of road closures

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The annual Idyllwild 5K and 10K Run and Fitness Walk is usually the second Saturday of June. However the 2019 event has been postponed until Saturday, Aug. 24.

Race managers posted on the website, “With highways 243 from Banning and 79 from Hemet under construction, anyone coming to the event from north or northeast of Idyllwild for a June event would find their commute at least an hour longer than normal ...With these unique road conditions, rather than set the race for the usual second weekend in June, we will hold the event on Saturday, August 24.”

More than a third of race participants come from Hemet, San Jacinto and Moreno Valley, according to Idyllwild School Principal Matt Kraemer. The closures would likely affect the number of race participants.

“Otherwise everything else will be the same,” Kraemer said.

Since the new school year will begin Aug. 12, Kraemer is hoping that the later date might attract more participants from the schools.

Highway 74 from Hemet should be open at that time, they hope.

Businesses, please take note

By JACK CLARK
CONTRIBUTOR

We said we'd keep you advised, and we will. The escrow with Professor Sam Hughes that we previously announced has fallen through, so the Idyllwild Town Crier newspaper is still on the open market. Fortunately, your continued support is keeping the TC attractive to prospective owners, and there are other parties currently interested in acquiring and operating it. They know that the TC will be a viable community newspaper just as long as its readers continue to support it, and you all are making it clear that you want to keep the Town Crier serving our Hill community.

Becky and I purchased the TC solely because it needed saving as an important asset to our community — and we know that's true. Many of you have shown you know it, too. You know that the Town Crier is the sole monitor of the eight local public entities on our Hill that make decisions and/or recommendations as to how your tax dollars will be spent. So, please, continue to renew your Memberships as they become due, and those of you who are not yet Members, please join us to show your support for a real community newspaper, as well.

If you need to renew your Membership but haven't yet done so, it's not too late. Instead of a lump sum, you can arrange with us for automatic monthly payments, if you wish. And the same applies to brand-new Memberships, as well.

And, local businesses: Please note that many hundreds more than a thousand regular readers see your TC ads. That's because our Active Membership list is augmented by an additional approximately 1,000 readers who purchase their TCs individually at Hill stores each week. That's a lot of very interested eyes on your Town Crier ads!

So, thank you all! Together we can keep the TC serving our community.

Cell tower is needed

EDITOR:

It seems that common sense would dictate that any company that seeks to build a telecom cell tower in Riverside County would acquire all the proper permits and meet all Riverside County's design requirements and protocols before ever starting construction and installation of the related equipment for a cell tower.

Given the spotty wireless cell phone reception in the Idyllwild area, the addition of a new cell tower in our community is a big plus.

A large number of Idyllwild residents and businesses depend solely on wireless smart phones and other wireless devices for their personal and business contacts.

In my experience it appears that those who object to cell towers in their community, more often than not, want the convenience of wireless devices so long as the cell tower is not in their neighbor's back yard where it may be seen.

To those people I would like to suggest that you give up all your wireless devices and return to using the US Postal Service, FedEx, UPS or a telephone land line and fax machine for all your personal and business communications.

EDITOR:

IDY doesn't need any more bars. We're good. Why add another when businesses are folding? The "Wine Finch" will be the 21st Beer/Wine license on the hill. How much more alcohol needs to be served for this place to make it? How is their new bartender going to make any tips competing with 20 other places that serve, plus all the full bars (hard alcohol) we have in town? 20 should be the new cap.

When I moved up in 2001, I worked in the service industry because you could make good money. Now it is spread too thin. Back then, the ABC (California Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control) had a limit to how many licenses there were on the hill and one had to be given up before you could get one. Now the County hands them out with NO LIMITS because they make a lot of money on them. That's why I think we have too many now. Tourists and locals can only support so much. Don't add more.

The County will make money but this new business will cut into all the other bars's bottom line. Plus the "Wine Finch" money will go to Long Beach. Who does that help here? Furthermore this will add more buzzed and drunk people on our crazy mountain roads. I think we're good on that too. Enough is enough. Cap it at 20.

Watcha think, Chuck?

Forest Service Chief testifies on budget request for 2019-20

By JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

On Tuesday, April 9, Chief of the U.S. Forest Service Victoria Christiansen testified before the U.S. Senate's Energy and Natural Resources Committee about the agency's fiscal year 2019-20 (which begins October 1) request.

Nearly 80 million acres, 40 percent of the National Forest System, "are at moderate to high risk from catastrophic fire," Christiansen began her testimony.

Despite this threat and others, such as drought and invasive species, she is confident that new Congressional authorities and the President's budget request will protect and improve the national forests.

Shared stewardship agreements with state, local and private parties will be the tool the Forest Service engages to bring productive change to the land it manages.

"Shared stewardship is fast becoming our preferred mode of doing work," Christiansen told the committee.

The Forest Service total request of $5.7 billion focuses on reducing wildfire risk, improving forest conditions, and contributing to rural economies," she said.

The "fire fix," which will fund fire suppression costs in a manner similar to other natural disasters, eliminates the Forest Services historical process of taking funding from other programs, like recreation, to fund suppression costs.

"Now we no longer sacrifice critical work to pay for firefighting," Christiansen promised the committee.

The proposed budget requests $1.3 billion for fire preparedness, $1 billion in direct funding and another $1.95 billion for fixed cap adjustments, totaling nearly $3 billion for fire suppression. In addition, another $450 million has been requested to continue work on hazardous fuels reduction projects.

In addition to the committee chair, Sen. Lisa Murkowski (R-AK), and ranking minority member, Sen. Joe Manchin (D-WV), eight senators attended the hearing and asked questions of Christiansen.

Most of the questions addressed issues specific to Forest Service plans or national forests within their states. For example, Sen. Maria Cantwell (D-WA) asked about the fire potential outlook for Washington. Sen. Martha McSally (R-AZ) questioned Christiansen about management of the Arizona forests.

But several senators were concerned that the Forest Service budget request included no money from the Land and Water Conservation Fund for land acquisition. They reminded Christiansen that the Fund has just been renewed and the President hosted a signing ceremony at the White House.

"We hear a lot of talk about the LWCF, but the budget is zero," Sen. Martin Heinrich (D-NM) lamented. And Christiansen replied, "It is very difficult to make trade-offs with this budget submission."

Murkowski and Sen. Cory Gardner (R-CO) were both disappointed that a promised study of the effectiveness of air tankers used to fight wildfires is still incomplete after seven years.

Christiansen said it was difficult to gather the data directly during the fires, but expected a draft this year.

Gardner commented, "There's a technical term for that: 'Bunk.'"

Murkowski asked Christiansen to bring information on the study to the hearing on the 2019 fire outlook next month.

On Sunday, April 14, several local agencies were involved in the rescue of a dirt biker in Pine Cove.

The accident happened on the San Jacinto Ridge Truck Trail. Firefighters were unable to reach the injured biker; consequently they requested air support.

Cal Fire helicopter 301 was able to hoist the party, with moderate injuries, off the mountainside and transferred them to a waiting Mercy Air helicopter for transport to a local hospital.

CLUBS

Fireside Book Group

A more uplifting title this month, "The Art of Racing in the Rain" by Garth Stein, is offered by The Fireside Book Group.

"Enzo knows he is different from other dogs: a philosopher with a nearly human soul (and an obsession with opposable thumbs), he has educated himself by watching television extensively, and by listening very closely to the words of his master, Denny Swift, an up-and-coming race car driver," wrote Fantastic Fiction. "Through Denny, Enzo has gained tremendous insight into the human condition, and he sees that life, like racing, isn't simply about going fast. Using the techniques needed on the race track, one can successfully navigate all of life's ordeals."

Fireside Book Group meets from 2 to 3 p.m. Wednesday, April 17, at the Idyllwild Library. A variety of fiction and non-fiction books are read. It is open to all.

Presidents Book Club

The Presidents Book Club will discuss the 20th president, James A. Garfield, from 2 to 3 p.m. Wednesday, April 24, at the Idyllwild Library.

Garfield was elected as the United States' 20th president in 1881, after nine terms in the U.S. House of Representatives. His presidency was impactful, but cut short after 200 days when he was assassinated.

Participants may read any material they like including internet sites such as whitehouse.gov, Wikipedia or the presidential library site for the particular president discussed. The library orders a small selection of books to choose from, too.

Youth art contest on nutria

The California Department of Fish and Wildlife is holding its sixth-annual California Invasive Species Youth Art Contest, which this year challenges students to creatively present messages about nutria (Myocastor coypus), a relatively recent — and destructive — invasive species in California.

There are three age divisions from second to 12th grade. All types of media are welcome. Entries should be in keeping with the 2019 theme, "Say No to Nutria."

Nutria are large, semi-aquatic rodents from South America that have been found in California's Central Valley and southern Delta. Nutria cause extensive damage to wetland habitats, agricultural crops, stream-banks and levees. More information about nutria can be found on CDFW's Nutria Incident page.

The top three winners in each division will receive awards and have their entries displayed on CDFW's Invasive Species Action Week webpage.

The deadline for art contest entries is May 3. Visit www.wildlife.ca.gov/conservation/invasives/action-week/poster-contest for details about the 2019 contest.

Fit Over 50 is back

The Idyllwild Community Center Recreation Program has brought back Fit Over 50, a free senior-citizen exercise program, from 11 a.m. to noon Mondays and Thursdays. All senior citizens are invited.

Intro to Primordial Sound Meditation

An Introduction to Primordial Sound Meditation by Leda Csanka, certified Chopra instructor, happens from 3 to 5 p.m. Thursday, April 18, at the Idyllwild Library.

The meditation uses individually selected sounds of nature called mantras to disconnect us from the activity of life. Used on a daily basis, it may help you manage stress, enhance sleep, improve relationships and connect more deeply to spirit.

The free class is open to adults.

A reunion of sorts coalesced over the weekend, when Town Crier co-publishers Jack (not pictured) and Becky Clark (far right) traveled to the great city of Boston to see their son Jeff Clark compete in the Boston Marathon and take in the sights in the days leading up to the big event. They were joined by former Idyllwild kid Sarah Kanter (left), who has called Boston home for many years, her daughter Georgia, and former Town Crier editor Carole Brennan, also living in Beantown. Sites are staffed by volunteers representing Community Action Partnership of Riverside County. Volunteers are required to go through training (November/December) and become IRS VITA-certified. Tax preparation sites are open from Jan. 31 to April 15 annually. Schedule appointments at 951-848-7607 or online at capriverside.itfrontdesk.com/programs/.

According to California Highway Patrol Officer Mike Bell, about 11:30 p.m., Friday, April 12, a female driving her silver Toyota Camry was traveling westbound on Highway 74 near mile marker 60 when she possibly fell asleep causing her to lose control and flip her vehicle. The driver, who was not wearing a seat belt, was ejected out the passenger side window and suffered major injuries. Riverside County Fire and Idyllwild Fire responded to the scene. Mercy Air airlifted the solo occupant to a nearby hospital. No other vehicles were involved. PHOTO BY JENNY KIRCHNER

Two crashes on Hill roads over last week

There were two vehicle crashes on Hill roads over the last week, California Highway Patrol Public Information Officer Darren Meyer reports.

At 12:10 a.m. on Thursday, April 11, Aaron Thames, 44 from Idyllwild, was driving a gray 2018 Toyota Prius westbound on Highway 74, a half-mile west of May Valley Road when, for unknown reasons, he made an unsafe turning movement. His vehicle left the road and hit a ditch adjacent to the shoulder of the road.

Thames was not injured in the crash and there were no passengers in his car, or any other vehicles involved in the crash.

The vehicle was towed by Idyllwild Garage.

At 11:30 p.m. on Friday, April 12, Vivian Segovia, 52 of Carson, CA, was driving a silver 2003 Toyota Camry westbound on Highway 74 when she made an unsafe turning movement to the left, causing the vehicle to leave the road and overturn.

Segovia was not wearing a seat belt, according to the CHP report and was ejected through the passenger window during the crash. She suffered serious injuries in the crash and was transported by Mercy Air to Desert Regional Medical Center in Palm Springs. The vehicle was towed by Idyllwild Garage.

Prevention

said there had been five separate rescues. One included a hiker falling nearly 100 feet and fracturing his ankle.

Acting Idyllwild Fire Chief Mark LaMont informed the group that the department will be starting its fire abatement inspections on April 15. IFPD inspects about 3,500 parcels, improved and unimproved. In 2018, about 100 properties ultimately failed their inspections.

IFPD distributed postcards via local post office boxes alerting property owners of the initiation of inspections with a list of the abatement steps, most commonly overlooked. For example, removal of leaves, needles or other vegetation from roofs, gutters, decks and porches.

Also this year, the IFPD Commission discussed and is considering renewal of a forced abatement program for those properties that fail the inspections, LaMont said.

The district will be testing to fill two firefighter positions later this month, he added.

Heading the U.S. Forest Service staff at the meeting was Battalion Chief Salvador Reyes. Currently, he is the acting fire manager for the San Jacinto Ranger District since Fred Espinoza left in January.

The Forest Service is staffing for fire season, including the arrival of the helicopter in May.

“I expect all seven stations will be manned seven days a week or a minimum of five stations depending on availability of qualified staff,” Reyes announced. The district is assessing the placement of equipment while the highways remain closed, he added.

This week, the Forest Service began repairing the very badly damaged forest road, according to Reyes. Some of the work was identified in the Cranston Fire Burned Area Emergency Report. But the winter rains created significant damage, too.

Representing Riverside County's Emergency Management Department was Stacie Kelly, emergency services coordinator. Since Jerry Hagen retired in December, Kelly is serving District 3, although she is actually responsible for District 5. She has been a firefighter with Cal Fire and worked at the dispatch center too.

The county has been working with the Federal Emergency Management Agency to support the award of grant money for recovery and repair of the winter storm damages. Kelly said, “So far the damage in Riverside County has reached $80 million.”

Gov. Gavin Newsom requested the federal government declare a major disaster area for 28 counties (see accompanying story on A1).

During the discussion of work this winter, Forest Service Battalion Chief Chris Fogle reported that the piles in Pine Cove, along the West Ridge fuel break, and near the administrative station sites have all been burned.

The Thomas Mountain prescribed burn is being monitored. If weather cooperates, there may be additional burns in that area before fire season begins, Fogle said.

Since Highway 243 is one of the escape routes, Weiser shared that he has met with Reyes to develop a plan for clearing brush along the roadway while it is closed. He also has invited Southern California Edison to participate, but has not received a definitive answer yet.

Clearing and cleaning will be easier and faster than if it were conducted while traffic was passing through the work area, he noted.

Weiser reported that Cal Fire's fire season staffing will begin increasing later this month. This will include six crews dedicated to fuel reduction, one of which will be assigned to Riverside County during the spring and summer.

Also, Weiser noted that he is working with the state fire marshal to begin applying inspection standards for unimproved property to unimproved parcels on the Hill.

He mentioned that there have been some discussions at the County Fire Department about recommending the inclusion of Avery Canyon, south of Hemet, in the Community Wildfire Protection Plan.

From the Mountain Community Fire Safe Council, President Norm Walker announced that Executive Director Edwina Scott is planning to retire in May and Director Jerry Holldber will be leaving the board.

Also the road closures have limited MCFSC's ability to transport trees infested with gold spotted oak borers off the Hill. This work will be limited until Highway 74 has reopened, he said.

Rattlesnake season is here
With the coming of spring and warmer weather conditions, snakes of many species are through hunkering down, making human encounters with these elusive creatures more likely. Although most native snakes are harmless, the California Department of Fish and Wildlife recommends giving the venomous rattlesnake a wide berth and knowing what to do in the rare event of a bite.
“Snakes really get an unfair bad rap, when they actually play an important role in California’s ecosystems,” said CDFW’s Keep Me Wild Program Coordinator Lesa Johnston. “Like most wild animals, snakes prefer to keep to themselves and are not naturally aggressive. Taking the time to learn about safety precautions before going outdoors can make all the difference.”
Rattlesnakes are widespread in California and are found in a variety of habitat throughout the state from coastal to desert. They may also turn up around homes and yards in brushy areas and under wood piles. Generally not aggressive, rattlesnakes will likely retreat if given room and not provoked or threatened. Most bites occur when a rattlesnake is handled or accidentally brushed against by someone walking or climbing.
Most bites occur between the months of April and October when snakes and humans are most active outdoors.
CDFW provides tips for safely living in snake country on its website, as well as tips for keeping snakes out of your yard and what do to do (and not do) in the event of a snake bite. Visit CaliforniaHerps.com Living with Rattlesnakes webpage.

Distracted Driving Awareness Month
California drivers continue to shift their focus away from the road and onto their phones, despite the risks associated with multitasking behind the wheel. April is Distracted Driving Awareness Month, and the California Office of Traffic Safety, the California Highway Patrol and Impact Teen Drivers are working together throughout the month to educate drivers on the importance of traveling free of distractions, as well as cracking down on drivers who violate the state’s hands-free cell phone law.
“Cell phones are working against us in the fight against distracted driving,” OTS Director Rhonda Craft said. “The hope is that a combination of education and enforcement will drive people to change bad behaviors for the better.”
According to preliminary CHP data, 66 people were killed and more than 6,500 injured in 2017 from distracted driving-related crashes. In 2018, CHP issued more than 109,000 citations for violations of the hands-free cell phone laws.
On Friday, April 19, CHP will conduct a statewide enforcement effort to discourage distracted driving. “Through a combination of high visibility enforcement efforts, a focused education campaign, and cooperation from the motoring public, preliminary data shows the number of inattentive drivers involved in crashes is on the decline,” said CHP Commissioner Warren Stanley. “Ultimately, the goal is to increase voluntary compliance with the law, while keeping people safe on the road.”

El Niño may stay longer

As rains end, grasses grow, fire threats, too

BY JP CRUMRINE
NEWS EDITOR

The Hill weather for April has gradually warmed and dried considerably. The Forest Service’s Keenwild Ranger Station has not recorded any precipitation for several weeks. Although Strawberry Creek continues to flow well due to percolation and slow snow melt at higher elevations.

The National Weather Service local forecast is for a weekend cooler than Thursday and Friday.

Going forward into spring and summer, the NWS foresees the current El Niño weather conditions continuing into summer and possibly the fall. Although the probability of the latter is 50 to 55 percent, according to the latest Climate Prediction Center forecast.

On the basis of the current atmospheric and ocean conditions, the NWS expects a weak El Niño to persist through summer.

Cal Fire’s weather outlook for April through June also expects the weak El Niño pattern to continue. However, the Predictive Service’s report does expect rainfall to diminish.

“The heavy rainfall this winter has been generated, in part, by the high amount of moisture availability across the eastern Pacific (‘Atmospheric River’). This moisture source will become less important in producing precipitation going forward this spring as most storms will remain too far north of the area to scoop this moisture,” the authors wrote.

As a result, fire agencies are concerned about a bountiful grass crop this spring, which may be the source of a spike in grass fires.

The Idyllwild Fire Department plans to begin its 2019 abatement inspections this week. The Commission has been discussing resumption of a forced abatement policy for property owners, who fail the inspections.

Cal Fire officials said at last week’s Mountain Area Safety Taskforce meeting (see story on page A1) that they are evaluating the option of imposing the county abatement ordinance for the valleys here on the Hill.

local recovery efforts following those severe storms, which caused widespread flooding, mudslides and damage to critical infrastructure across the state.

Newsom has already proclaimed a state of emergency for 33 California counties, including Riverside and four other Southern California counties.

In his letter, Newsom reported that damage to state roads has exceeded $100 million. Further, “California has suffered multiple major disasters in the past several years.” He then described the recent devastating wildfires, including the Camp and Thomas fires.

“I have determined these atmospheric river storm systems are of such severity and magnitude that continued effective response is beyond the capability of the State and affected local governments, and supplemental federal assistance is necessary,” Newsom wrote.

He then requested federal assistance for 28 counties, including Riverside, pursuant to the Stafford Act, for disaster relief and emergency assistance.

If granted, a Presidential Major Disaster Declaration would help state, tribal and local governments with recovery projects including the repair and replacement of disaster-damaged facilities and infrastructure, such as roads, bridges and utilities, according to the press release.

In the press release, with his letter to Trump, Ruiz said, “We must support the people who, due to road damage, endure long drives to medical appointments, loss of customers to their small business, and longer commutes to work. I will continue to track progress and advocate to bring home federal resources to fix our roads and businesses.”

Check your vehicle for recalls

The U.S. Department of Transportation’s National Highway Traffic Safety Administration is reminding the driving public to check their vehicles for any open recalls on NHTSA.gov/recalls.

Over the last decade, NHTSA oversaw 7,878 recalls affecting more than 390 million vehicles and items of vehicle equipment.

Vehicles one to three at the time of recall average an 80-percent repair rate. Vehicles that one to five years old at the time of recall average a 76-percent repair rate.

Vehicles recalled at six to 10 years old see the repair rate drop to 56 percent, on average (while manufacturers mail recall notices to owners, the task of reaching current vehicle owners becomes more difficult when vehicles have changed hands, particularly if they’ve had multiple owners).

Visit NHTSA.gov/Recalls and enter your vehicle’s 17-digit vehicle identification number. In seconds, you’ll know if your vehicle is subject to a safety recall. Every recall is fixed for free. Recalls do not expire.

Get Alerted. Sign up for Recall Alerts. If your vehicle is included in a future safety recall, you’ll receive an e-mail letting you know.

A year of challenges and an Easter to celebrate

BY MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Easter promises new life, with a message of optimism and hope. Passover, with its message that with God's help no difficulty is insurmountable, celebrates resilience in times of darkness.

For Idyllwild the past year has provided challenges that continue to affect daily life. First the Cranston Fire in July blackened much of the mountain, burning the area around Inspiration Point where the annual Easter Sunrise Service is held. This Easter tradition will be held there again at 6:30 a.m. on Sunday, April 21, jointly sponsored by the Idyllwild Community Presbyterian Church, Idyllwild Bible Church and Calvary Chapel of Mountain Center. It may be chilly, but intimations of green are beginning to dot the charred landscape, and hope and optimism will be part of the celebration.

Record rainfall and snow followed in February damaging mountain infrastructure including highways 74 and 243, restricting travel to and from Idyllwild.

Both Easter and Passover offer the promise of relief from pain and difficulty and hope for a brighter path forward.

Temple Har Shalom of Idyllwild is celebrating a community Passover Seder at 6 p.m. on Friday, April 19, at the Idyllwild Community Presbyterian Church in the Fellowship Hall on the lower level. Both Jews and non-Jews are welcome.

Local churches are celebrating Easter, including St. Hugh's Episcopal with a festive Holy Eucharist at 10 a.m., Sunday April 21; Idyllwild Assembly of God at 10 a.m. at Town Hall with kids' Easter activities and crafts and special guest musicians; Idyllwild Community Presbyterian Church at 9:30 a.m.; Idyllwild Bible Church at 9 and 10:45 a.m.; and Calvary Chapel at 10 a.m. Check church directories for other services and times including Good Friday services.

For children, the annual Easter Egg Hunt will be held by the Idyllwild Community Center at the County Park Meadow, County Park Playground Road at 10 a.m. on Saturday, April 20. The ICC site is currently closed for construction, hence the new location. The Easter Bunny will be there for photos with children of all ages. Children who find "Special Eggs" will receive a basket of Easter goodies. Separate egg hunts will be held for toddlers to age 3, 4 to 6, 7 to 9, 10 years and up, and for all those "Over the Hill."

Patronize local restaurants and shops and give them support after the challenges of fire, rain, snow and road closures have negatively affected their business. Note that La Casita and Café Aroma will be closed on Easter Sunday.

Major poet to read in Idyllwild

‘Deaf Republic’ to make itself heard on April 22

The hearing-impaired poet Ilya Kaminsky’s new book, “Deaf Republic” (Graywolf Press, 2019), speaks truth in order to create what The New Yorker calls “a republic of conscience.” He’ll raise his voice on behalf of truth and conscience in the Fireside Room in Nelson Dining Hall on the Idyllwild Arts campus, on April 22.

Poets can excavate a purity of the word in a world that often buries language under lies designed to normalize the unspeakable. The lies of anti-Semitism caused Kaminsky’s family to flee Ukraine in 1993, when he was 16.

“Deaf Republic” has often been called “long-awaited” because 15 years had passed since his debut book of poetry “Dancing in Odessa” (Tupelo Press, 2004) was greeted ecstatically. One reviewer wrote that many of “Dancing in Odessa”’s poems were “almost unbearable in their beauty,” and the celebrated poet Robert Pinsky called Kaminsky’s work “passionate” and “direct and unexpected,” with “a glorious tilt and scope.” The new book, “Deaf Republic,” has inspired similar praise.

Kaminsky also understands the power of humor to disarm an assault of lies, writing in one place that “each man is already / a finger flipped at the sky.” He has remarked in an interview that “exile is good for you if you are a poet” because it “teaches you that loss is also a gain ... by beating you with a hammer on your head.”

He is more than an award-winning poet whose honors include fellowships from the Guggenheim Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts. Motivated by his own experience of dispossession, Kaminsky has worked as a law clerk for San Francisco Legal Aid and the National Immigration Law Center, and in Southern California as a court-appointed special advocate for Orphaned Children.

Come to the Fireside Room on the Idyllwild Arts campus at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 22, to hear poetry that is the perfect counterbalance to a time in which so many people feel exiled from the republic of conscience and beaten on their heads by the hammers of lies.

The event is free and open to the public though space is limited.

Roland Gaebert, volunteer and PCT trail angel, offers support and friendship

By MARSHALL SMITH
STAFF REPORTER

Roland Gaebert, retired State Park Ranger, is busy assisting Pacific Crest Trail through-hikers as an unofficial “trail angel.” He also volunteers widely throughout Idyllwild – as a Forest Service fire lookout, Mountain Disaster Preparedness Disaster Assistance Station supervisor, Idyllwild Rotary, Mile High Radio Club and for WNKI, Idyllwild’s emergency radio station.

Gaebert is an avid hiker, having completed portions of the Appalachian and Continental Divide trails, and having spent 15 years hiking in and exploring the Grand Canyon. The hiking community is close to his heart.

His fitness comes from years of taking on challenging outdoor situations that required quick thinking, physical agility and strength, including years with the San Diego Mountain Rescue Unit.

Idyllwild is establishing itself as a much-appreciated “trail town” for PCT hikers – appreciated for the kindness of locals who provide rides, food, showers, lodging and equipment; helping these hikers, young and old, in their quests to complete the 2,650-mile trek.

The Pacific Crest Trail Association has an honor system for reporting completion of the full hike. According to the PCTA, 6,639 people have completed the trail over the years the association has kept records. Ninety-one have completed the trail more than once.

According to the PCTA website, trail angels, such as Gaebert, provide “trail magic” to hikers, planned acts of kindness offered to hikers and horseback riders. “This organized type of ‘magic’ includes gifts of time and attention,” notes the website www.pcta.org. “This positive outreach builds community and connects people. The Pacific Crest Trail is not just a path through the mountains – it’s an experience that connects people to nature, trail towns and each other.”

There are many types of organized trail magic – rides, hosting, feeding hungry hikers (and they’re always hungry), and offering professional services for free – such as the foot doctor who treats serious blisters or the local dentist who waives their fees.

As the PCTA advises, “To be a trail angel, simply start by doing nice things.” But, as the site notes, be advised that the purpose of the hike for those who undertake it is to escape from the city into the natural world. Trail angels are welcomed but cautioned to respect the solitude the hikers are seeking.

Gaebert, whose family emigrated from Germany when he was nine, plans to hike some of the PCT next year in order to have an even deeper connection with the travelers. When asked the ages of those he has seen this year, he said they range from 22 to 67, many of them single hikers. “I’m finding people who are really experienced and many who are not,” said Gaebert. And even with the heavy snowfall here and in the Sierras, and the consequent heavy snowmelt that will swell and complicate stream and river crossings, this is a banner year for hikers coming through Idyllwild.

Gaebert is an engaging conversationalist with a warm and friendly personality. His service, in the military and with mountain rescue organizations, has shaped his ability to handle emergencies.

His life story offers inspiration to any who are continuing to learn and grow, no matter at what age. After serving in the U.S. military and completing college on the G.I. Bill, Gaebert used his accounting degree to enter banking and finance. But at age 51, drawn to the outdoors and a different set of career values, he became a California State Park Ranger. His career with the State Park system was distinguished. He retired as director of the Mt. Diablo State Park near San Francisco and served in multiple locations.

Now, as a trail angel, Gaebert is using his life experience to support and assist PCT hikers passing through Idyllwild. “I love hearing their stories, having the dialogue and sharing those passions,” said Gaebert.

Last week in Days of Our Nine Lives, the ARF cats celebrated Yale's adoption.

George: Wow. Those big dogs were gone in no time!

Thomas: Seriously. Nala and Yale are so, so happy in their new homes.

George: And did you hear that Alfie, the little Yorkie, was also adopted?

Thomas: Yes, and I also heard that a very, very kind woman read about Alife on Petfinder, and sent ARF the money to get him his dental.

Sadie: She did! He had it last Wednesday before going to his forever home.

Mr. Gray: So does this mean there are now no ARF dogs?

Sadie: For now!

Whiskers: Then I guess the kind humans on this mountain need to adopt us cats.

Mr. Gray: Right, and they need to realize that we cats offer as much comfort and companionship as any dog.

Whiskers: We just might need a little more time to settle into a home than most dogs do.

Indie: Any human who would give me half a chance would be rewarded ten times over. I just want to be the only cat. Is that asking too much?

Mr. Gray: It isn't! The rest of us, however, are good with other cats. We just want a forever home. Some of us have been waiting so long.

Indie: Why do you think that is?

Mr. Gray: It has to do with how we "show." Many of us are a little suspect when it comes to strangers. We need humans to sit and visit with us so we get to know them.

Sadie: Even the most friendly of us (me, for instance) need a little time to be comfortable.

George: I'm so happy to get to know a human. I hope that a human will do the same for me and give me a chance.

Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy. 243 on Saturdays 10-4 and Sundays 10-2, or by appointment M-F by calling 951-659-1122.

'I remember Ernie' stories needed

The Idyllwild Town Crier, in conjunction with the Idyllwild Area Historical Society, is asking for written stories from folk about their memories of Ernie Maxwell to be published in the Town Crier and, possibly, at an event at the Courtyard Gallery in the summer of 2019. (The event was postponed from June.)

Email your stories and a photograph of yourself to becky@towncrier.com.

Free uke lessons at Royal Pines

Chris Johnson offers free ukulele classes at the Royal Pines Trailer Park clubhouse at 11 a.m. Tuesdays. The event is open to the public.

HOROSCOPES

April 2019 — Week 3

March 21 — April 19

You might need to do a bit more investigating before making a career move. You do best when you come armed with the facts. A personal matter still needs tending to.

April 20 — May 20

Your creativity plus your good business sense once more combine to give you an important advantage in a difficult workplace situation. An ally proves his or her loyalty.

May 21 — June 21

Avoid rushing into something just because it offers a break from your usual routine. Take things a step at a time to be sure you're moving in the right direction.

June 22 — July 22

Bouncing back from a disappointing incident isn't easy, but you should find a welcome turn of events emerging. Spend the weekend with someone special.

July 23 — August 22

An incomplete project needs your attention before someone else takes it over and uses it to his or her advantage. There'll be lots of time for fun and games once you get it done.

August 23 — September 22

Doubts involving a potential career change need to be resolved quickly so they don't get in the way when you feel you're finally ready to make the big move.

September 23 — October 22

Looking to blame someone for a workplace problem could backfire if it turns out you've got the wrong "culprit." Best to get more facts before acting on your assumptions.

October 23 — November 21

Patience might still be called for until you're sure you finally have the full story that eluded you up till now. A trusted associate could offer valuable guidance.

November 22 — December 21

Look into your recent behavior to see if you could have caused the coolness you might now be sensing from a loved one. If so, apologize and set things straight.

December 22 — January 19

Easing up on your social activities allows you to focus more of your energies on a long-neglected personal matter. You can get back into party mode by the weekend.

January 20 — February 18

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS

California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: "Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentments to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor."

This is a contractor's responsibility, not a newspaper's, and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors' advertising, if we notice it.
