Veterans heal at War Horse Creek

By JENNY KIRCHNER
REPORTER/PHOTOGRAPHER

Sometimes we save animals. Sometimes they save us. This is the goal at War Horse Creek, a program designed to help veterans who transition and adjust back to a civilian lifestyle after a very structured life of rules while in the military. Many veterans are dealing with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) or a traumatic brain injury, causing challenges in everyday life and feelings of isolation. They are looking for ways to feel safe.

"The veterans learn that the reactions you have

Tree lighting planning in the works

The Idyllwild Community Center (ICC) is knee-deep in planning for this year's annual Tree Lighting Ceremony, which will be held Saturday, Nov. 30 at IdyPark. Like last year, the celebration will feature three stages with a variety of local performers as well as interactive family activities, costume characters, music, food, fun — and of course — a visit from Santa!

There will be a couple of changes this year, though. The tree lighting will feature 10-foot-by-10-foot booths

Hemet's State of the District

"Four years ago when I first came to Hemet Unified School District (HUSD), we had the opportunity to have a very powerful conversation with an individual by the name of Dr. Carl Cohn," began Dr. Christi Barrett, superintendent for HUSD at this year's State of the District on Oct. 10.

Cohn, a professor at Claremont Graduate University and Barrett's mentor, asked Barrett two very important questions: Is HUSD the default system and are you taking risk on behalf of children?

Barrett told the audience that the district was the default system and it was not taking risk on behalf of children.

"So that lit a fire under us and we started on a journey of taking risk, being willing to fail and to become the premier choice," Barrett said.

Barrett also talked about "the premier choice not being a tagline" but being something that people within the organization can speak about. "We want to be the thing that brings people into our community because this is the space they want to live — raise their family — because they know they are going to leave better as a result of being involved," said Barrett. It is an aspirational goal and something the district is striving to achieve.

The goal is to have every student college or career ready. "It is for us to give every child that we serve the ability to make any decision that they need to make or want to make in life in terms of what their adulthood looks like," reminded Barrett. "Because for us, 12th grade isn't the end-game. It's the start and we need to prepare them."

The district is making progress when it comes to graduation rates. In the 2014/15 school year, the dropout rate was 12% with a graduation rate of 81%. Last school year, the dropout rate was 6% with a graduation rate of 87%.

One of the grades HUSD has invested money is into literacy intervention and it has expanded its program. It is now an

A look at interagency cooperation during the Wolf and Sandelewood fires

Enjoy free family fun on America Recycles Day

By Jenny Kirchner
Reporter/Photographer

When a wildfire happens, hundreds of people converge with lights and sirens to try to stop it, but more importantly, to save lives. These efforts are big, complicated and take a lot of skill and training to make sure all goes smoothly and efficiently.

On October 10, 2019, two wildfires started in Southern California, prompting a unified command with multiple agencies to help get everyone in the path of the fires evacuated safely. Resources were spread thin as units from Cal Fire, American Medical Response (AMR), Riverside County Sheriff (RSO), and the California Highway Patrol (CHP) all made their way to both fires that started that afternoon. The Wolf Fire started at Wolfskill Truck Road near Silver Creek Drive, south of Banning. The Sandelewood Fire started at Calimesa Boulevard and Sandelewood Drive in Calimesa.

“Our role was to help with traffic control, filter out the residents and keep the looky-loos out and looters away from the area that would want to cause havoc. We put four units and a supervisor in place in less than 10 minutes at the freeway off-ramps to let fire apparatus get through,” CHP Public Information Officer Darren Meyer said about the Sandelewood Fire.

At the peak of the Sandelewood Fire, there were well over 200 firefighters on the ground, along with several aircraft including helicopters and air tankers battling the fast-moving fire from above.

“There were ambulances going in and out to help expedite evacuations. I think what was more challenging, was an immediate need to evacuate a mobile home park to save as many lives as possible, and then send in as much equipment to help protect the homes,” Cal Fire Captain and Public Information Officer Fernando Herrera explained.

“Deputies conducted evacuations at the Villa Calimesa Mobile Home Park while the fire was burning within the complex, placing themselves in great danger. They warned unknowing citizens of the fire and were able to get them to move out of the danger area within minutes of their homes being destroyed by fire,” Deputy and Public Information Officer Robyn Flores said about the Sandelewood Fire.

When the Sandelewood Fire started, AMR was requested to send five paramedics and the Operations Manager for Central Riverside County Jack Hansen to standby to help with those who were injured. Once the situation began to stabilize for AMR, Hansen heard about the Wolf Fire and responded on his own accord to see where he could help.

“The main route to get to the fire from Sunset Drive to Old Idyllwild Road wasn’t passable. A local gave us a complicated route to get to the fire. My purpose was to have safe routing. We were never requested to actually have an ambulance there, but I stayed for a few hours to help crews find their way in and out,” Hansen said.

In a single shift, deputies and a lieutenant from the San Jacinto Sheriff’s station responded to both fires and assisted in evacuations at the Sandelewood Fire. They were staged to assist in evacuations for the Wolf Fire, but no evacuations were ever conducted. RSO coordinated evacuation efforts at the Wolf Fire with the Banning and Beaumont Police departments, and coordinated with CHP on of Waste Resources, 14310 Frederick St. in Moreno Valley.

Spend the day and celebrate all the ways you can reduce, reuse and recycle with demonstrations, games, prizes and activities. There will be free drawings for prizes held every hour and an outdoor eating area lined with food trucks. Admission to the event is free and held in partnership with the City of Moreno Valley. The event is sponsored by Burrtec and Waste Management, Inc.

The garden and surrounding area will be filled with exhibitors demonstrating quick “how to” sessions on composting, green cleaning, vermicomposting, recycling and food waste. The Kids Activity Zone will include crafts, gardening and games made from re-used materials. There will be real life and interactive exhibits — the Recycle House, a make-believe house that teaches real recycling habits through play and Touch-a-Truck, where kids put on a hard hat and safety vest before climbing in the driver’s seat of some of the department’s trucks.

Families also have a chance to visit the Resource Garden which showcases a demonstration garden, worm shed, herb garden, compost demonstration area plus art and hardscape made from recycled materials.

For more information about RivCo Recycles Day, contact the Riverside County Department of Waste Resources at 951-486-3200 or visit www.rcwaste.org.

Ants, mountains and coffee

By Aldo de la Mora, Ph.D.

If you like drinking coffee, like I do, then you can thank ants for helping keep coffee farms healthy and productive. My name is Aldo de la Mora and I recently started working as the assistant director at the James San Jacinto Mountains Reserve (James Reserve).

I study how insects interact with each other and their environment as well as their importance to ecosystems. Before I worked at the James Reserve, I studied ants as a Ph.D. student on coffee farms in the mountains of southern Mexico.

Coffee is a shrub, but it is not just any shrub. Like many bushes we unknowingly hike past, coffee is a part of an ecosystem that represents a world unto itself, which unbeknownst to us, impacts our daily lives.

Coffee grows in the understory of different species of native shade trees, many of which provide habitats for different ant species, as well as a diversity of bird and mammal species.

We get our coffee beans from inside the coffee berries and then we roast the beans to brew our coffee. Inside the coffee bean lives a tiny beetle called the coffee berry

Bon Donovan and Danielle Rodriquez had outstanding games for the Red Hawks against the Renegades. Gregory Taylor had a goal for the Renegades and Cooper Lewis was awesome in the net.
Royal Knights' Beau Dillon scored the only goal of the game and Jude Olivier played fantastic defense. Blue Monsters' Chaz Piche and Kinsey Kretsinger played terrific games.

7- to 9-year-old division
Liverpool's Silas Zimmerman and Ben Taylor scored goals that led to their 2-0 victory over Idyllwild. Tate Donovan and Dane Knight played well for Idyllwild.
Liverpool and The Dragons played to a 0-0 tie. Luke Olivier and Sarianne Muir were the stars for Liverpool and Kayson Adams and Miles Sechrest were the stars for The Dragons. Dane Knight scored two goals for Idyllwild in their 2-0 win over the Dragons. Defensive stars for The Knights were Kayson Adams and Ellie Kenyon.
Final standings: Idyllwild 4-1-3, Liverpool 2-2-3, The Dragons 1-4-3 Playoffs: Liverpool and The Dragons played each other in a playoff game Monday, Oct. 28. The winner of that game, Liverpool, played Idyllwild on Tuesday, Oct. 29 for the championship.

10- to 14-year-old division
In another well-played and close game, Seth White scored a goal for the Crusaders in the final minutes for a 1-0 victory. Idyllwild Stars' Finn Carpenter was terrific in the net, stopping many close shots on goal.
Final standings: Crusaders 3-1-1, Idyllwild Stars 1-3-1. The championship game is at 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 1.

Idyllwild School's field was brightly colored on Thursday afternoon as kids took to the nets for their soccer games. The Blue Monsters played the Royal Knights, and the Red Hawks played against the Renegades.

Idyllwild Library needs items for time capsule

The library is looking for items for a time capsule that will remain in the library for the next 25 years. If you have memorabilia, old library cards, a child's drawing, a receipt for fines paid, or old catalog cards, newspaper/newsletter articles on people or events in the past, a craft that a child completed years ago, letters from children or adults describing what the library has meant to them, please bring them to the library for possible inclusion in the time capsule. Please note that not everything will necessarily be included. A committee will choose those items that fit and, if donors would like, their items can be returned to them if they are not included.

Life Tribute Richard Lance Price 1942-2019

Richard (Dick) Price passed away from Alzheimer's disease at age 77 in his home in Gamer Valley on Sunday, Oct. 13 surrounded by his loving family. He was born in San Pedro, California and was the son of the late Robert and Aileen Price.

Dick graduated in 1960 from San Pedro High School and later received a bachelor's degree from California State University, Long Beach and a master's degree from Pepperdine University. He was honorably discharged from the United States Army in 1969.
After moving to the Palm Springs area, Dick was a teacher and principal. He retired from education in 1999. Being service oriented, Dick was a volunteer fireman, EMT, and reserve Sheriff Deputy.
Dick loved horses and the cowboy life and went on numerous cattle drives over the years. In 2001, Dick and his wife, Jackie, bought a 5-acre ranch in Gamer Valley where they raised and boarded horses. Dick also loved an iron horse, his Harley Davidson. He often rode with the Patriot Guard, honoring fallen service personnel.
Retirement was a happy time for Dick and his wife. They traveled throughout the country, sometimes with their fifth-wheel.

Dick will always be remembered for the twinkle in his eyes, his humor and his love of family, friends, animals and the outdoors.

He leaves behind his wife, Jackie; son, Ryan (Carol); daughter, Melissa Jones; grandchildren Colin, Ella, Jade, and Jordan; brother, Robert (Pat); sister, June (Richard) and many nieces and nephews.

A Celebration of Life is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 16 at 11 a.m. at the Gamer Valley Common, 61600 Devils Ladder Rd., Mountain Center, CA. 92561. Call 951-659-0281 to RSVP.

Some safety tips from Cal Fire:

1. Don't mow or trim dry grass on windy days.
 2. Never pull your vehicle over in dry grass.
 3. Target shoot only in approved areas, use lead ammunition only, and never shoot at metal objects.
 4. Check and obey burn bans.
 5. Ensure campfires are allowed, and if so, be sure to extinguish them completely.
 6. Report any suspicious activities to prevent arson.
 7. If you see something — say something.

CNPA’s role in the Town Crier Membership model

By JACK CLARK
CO-PUBLISHER

One day in 1997, Becky Clark, just promoted editor-in-chief of the Town Crier, was paying Town Crier bills when she came upon one for a few hundred dollars for dues to the California Newspaper Publishers Association (CNPA). Not being sure what that bill was about, she investigated. She found that the CNPA existed to promote newspapers in California by providing services to them — including instructive seminars, specialized legal advice, and lobbying activities — and that Town Crier publishers had been members for years. Becky began making use of those services.

Now, under a slightly altered name, the California News Publishers Association is an invaluable tool for your Town Crier. For one, it annually provides the Town Crier with legal advice that otherwise would cost thousands — all still included in the few hundred dollars of annual dues.

More particularly, it was at a CNPA seminar in Santa Monica in May of 2017 that Becky and I learned of the successes some nonprofit, online-only newspapers were having with a National Public Radio-type membership model. We have explained several times why we feel a nonprofit model would not work for the Town Crier: Nonprofits have boards of directors, and we feel there are various factions in our community that would strive to get their own present and former board members and friends on the Town Crier’s board so as to gain editorial control of the published news.

But driving home from that Santa Monica CNPA seminar, we discussed whether a membership model possibly might work for a newspaper like the Town Crier, even though it is not a nonprofit and publishes on paper as well as online. Three months later — out of sheer desperation — we gave it a try in an editorial “Does the Town Crier have a future? Our readers must decide.” The rest is the successful history of which all you Town Crier Members are the key part.

Please renew your memberships when they come due so the Town Crier can continue to keep you advised on community happenings from traffic collisions, to the activities of community organizations as well as entertainment opportunities.

Remember that your Town Crier’s weekly news meetings are open to the public. Come participate Wednesdays at 8:30 a.m. at Idyllwild Library — and our thanks to you all!

Be wary of the complex pros and cons of medicare plans

By TRUDY LIEBERMAN, COMMUNITY HEALTH NEWS SERVICE

Along with crunchy leaves and pumpkins, fall brings a slew of advertising for insurance plans that fill the gaps in Medicare coverage.

Misleading and confusing messages continue to reach beneficiaries and those nearing Medicare age. To take myself as an example I’ve received an invitation to a Medicare Advantage plan informational meeting. I’ve gotten a solicitation from my physician’s medical group offering a “zero-cost, no obligation way to review coverage” online or over the phone. The “review” is likely to bring a sales pitch for a plan.

A mailer from another plan offered “a friendly, money-saving Medicare Advantage Plan” that seemed to promise the moon: savings of up to $2,380 a year, maximum dental coverage of $1,500, and a $750 hearing aid allowance, a drop in the proverbial bucket considering the average cost of two hearing aids is about $4,500. One seller seemed to think I was on both Medicare and Medicaid and pitched a “special needs plan.” Since I wasn’t a candidate for such an arrangement, was the insurer trying to get in the door to sell a regular Medicare Advantage plan?

Too many people fall for those kinds of pitches. Shopping to cover the gaps in Medicare is a task no one should take lightly. The stakes are too high.

Medicare is a fine program, but it was never meant to cover everything. It’s based on the old Blue Cross model of insurance common in the 1960s where the company paid 80% of the medical bill and the patient paid 20%. An industry selling Medigap policies sprang up to cover the 20% and deceptive sales practices plagued the busi-

Support our youth, support our future

EDITOR:

Young people are among the most concerned Americans about climate change. They have been energized recently by 16-year-old climate activist Greta Thunberg from Sweden. Young people, realizing the inevitable catastrophe and urgency if we do not act soon, want solutions now. This younger generation will be the most impacted if nothing is done to curb human caused carbon emissions.

Though it is the younger generation that will be most impacted, every American has already suffered as a result of climate change. In Idyllwild, we are all concerned about wildfires, power outages, flooding and drought. As carbon dioxide and other greenhouse gases increase and the average global temperatures continue to rise, drought, wildfires and floods will have an ever-increasing impact on our community.

Locally, the Idyllwild chapter of the Citizens’ Climate Lobby is working in support of a bipartisan bill, the Energy Innovation and Carbon Dividend Act (H.R. 763), that will effectively reduce carbon emissions. H.R. 763 would implement a carbon fee and dividend plan and would be revenue-neutral (meaning no new taxes). The bill would also improve people’s health and save lives by reducing pollution and create new jobs. The vast majority of America’s economists believe a carbon fee and dividend would boost our economy. Rep. Raul Ruiz, M.D., D-Palm Desert, is open to climate change solutions but has yet to endorse H.R. 763.

At the National Cowboy Poetry Gathering, one cowboy poet put it this way, “If climate science is suggesting we should take steps to reduce our use of fossil fuels ... is in error, and we take the suggested action anyway, the downside will be that we’ve left more fossil fuel in the ground for our descendants. If the preponderance of climate science is correct, and we do nothing to alter our carbon footprint, the downside will be that we’ve rendered our planet uninhabitable for humans and many other species, all for the short-term gains of those who currently benefit most from the status quo.”

We need to work together now, on a bipartisan basis, to solve climate change for ourselves, our children, grandchildren, and future generations.

For all those concerned about climate change, the Idyllwild Citizens’ Climate Lobby hosts an informative, inspiring national meeting via the internet on the second Saturday of each month at 10:00 a.m. at the Idyllwild Library. The next meeting will be on Nov 9. All ages are welcome!

Free speech: A disposable toy?

By THE CHAT ROOM
CONTRIBUTED

Kerry Manos, author of a letter to the Town Crier on the recent Trump poster incident, will speak at the Nov. 7 meeting of The Chat Room on the topic “Free Speech: A Disposable Toy?” The new Idyllwild discussion group meets the first Thursday of each month from 3-5 p.m. in the Hill House at Spirit Mountain Retreat, 25661 Oakwood.

Manos was former manager of a major Army radar program. Her avid interest in biology and astronomy also led to work at a California observatory before she and her husband moved to Garner Valley seven years ago. Jenny Egan, founder of The Chat Room, invited Manos to enlarge on the theme of her letter to the Town Crier editor, in which she stressed the need for exploration of diverse points of view through non-confrontational discussion of divisive issues. “This is precisely what The Chat Room is designed to do,” said Egan. Admission is free.

Congress ended that and standardized the coverage into 10 plans (11 today, including a high-deductible plan) that give people a broad choice for covering what Medicare does not pay. If people bought Plan F or Plan C as their supplemental insurance, they were pretty much covered for most illnesses.

Beginning next year, however, new Medicare beneficiaries — those who turn 65 on or after Jan. 1, 2020 — won’t be allowed to buy Plan F or C. Congress wants more beneficiaries in Medicare Advantage plans, so it eliminated the option to buy the most comprehensive plans. Lawmakers wanted seniors to pay more for their care.

They can still buy Plan G, which offers the same protection as F except that it doesn’t cover the Medicare Part B deductible, which is $183 next year. People already on Medicare can still buy Plans F or C.

The goal is to push more people into Medicare Advantage plans, a private alternative that is a step toward privatizing the entire program. To move the process along, the government has overpaid insurers to provide the care, which enables them to offer inducements to join. Considering that about one-third of Medicare beneficiaries have moved to Medicare Advantage plans, that strategy seems to be successful.

But does it come at a cost?

Serious questions have arisen about the overpayments the government has made using taxpayer dollars, overpayments that allow plans to offer gym memberships and even Apple Watches, monitoring devices, to new enrollees as one plan is doing. In September, six Democratic senators wrote to Medicare noting that taxpayers have overpaid Medicare Advantage plans more than $30 billion over the last three years and that Medicare has “taken little to no action to correct” the overbilling and overpayments.

Even more troubling, the letter also says that several other government agencies such as the Office of the Inspector General have raised “serious concerns” about Medicare Advantage plans that fail to meet the needs of older adults and those with disabilities.

The letter raises questions about the kind of care beneficiaries are actually receiving and notes that Medicare’s own audits have found “widespread and persistent Medicare Advantage performance problems related to denials of care and payment” that “threaten the health and safety of their members.”

Those are government watchdogs raising a red flag about problems getting care when you’re really sick and need good insurance.

Medicare Advantage plan advisers note that traditional Medicare does not put a limit on the amount a beneficiary must pay out of pocket each year while Medicare Advantage plans do — $6,700 for in-network providers and $10,000 for those out of network. They usually don’t mention that a good Medigap policy will cover those amounts, but the premiums may be higher than for an Medicare Advantage plan heavily subsidized by the government.

The trade-off becomes what it does with all insurance: pay now in the form of higher premiums or pay later in the form of higher expenses if the worst happens.

Insurers seldom mention that tough trade-off when they host those informational meetings for shoppers.

After-school care at Town Hall

Idyllwild Community Center (ICC) is offering affordable afternoon programs Monday through Friday for kids ages 4 to 12 years old at Town Hall. Session 1 is from noon-3 p.m. and session 2 is from 3-6 p.m. Kids can attend either or both sessions. Drop-off and pick-up times are flexible. Transportation from Idyllwild School to Town Hall is included. The programs offer fun and educational activities, including access to ABCmouse and Reading IQ. ICC is a certified Inspire vendor.

Dr. Raul Ruiz stands up for constituents’ health care

BY THE OFFICE OF REP. RAUL RUIZ, M.D. CONTRIBUTED

On Oct. 24, Rep. Raul Ruiz, M.D. defended his constituents’ health care from the Trump Administration’s continued attacks on the Affordable Care Act. Speaking to the House Committee on Energy and Commerce’s Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, Ruiz said, “It is for the American people who are scared that we are going to go back to a time when they’re going to be denied and delayed, that they’re going to endure pain, that they’re going to potentially lose their life and leave their children behind ... that’s why we are pressing you and this administration for those questions.” The Trump Administration has consistently sought to undermine aspects of the Affordable Care Act, even advocating striking down the law in its entirety. Ruiz, an emergency doctor, said, “To make matters worse, you have no plan. You can’t produce a document. You can’t give us a detail. You’re skirting the issues. All we are getting is only spin and talking points. The American people deserve better.”

KID TALK

What are you going to be for Halloween?
By Jenny Kirchner
The Town Crier went to Idyllwild School to ask this week’s question.

Lucas Davis Response: “I’m going to be a pilot and a police officer.”
Ruben Chavez Response: “Black Panther.”
Averi Fernandes Response: “Captain Marvel.”
Edson Rodriguez Mendoza Response: “Clown.”

I have been putting off going to the dentist for an embarrassingly long time. I’m sure most moms can relate to the constant demand on our hours. We just don’t have an extra day lying around to go to an appointment, or at least that’s what we tell ourselves. But, is that really the case? Is it really so imperative that our children come first in every aspect of life all day every day? No. No, it is not. So, I made the time to take care of myself and my wine-stained pearly-ish whites. Guess what? No one died because their schedule was a bit off. Here’s the problem when you put your needs on the back burner too long — you get burned. Turns out, you don’t get points toward your own health just because the kids have had every check up every six months like clockwork. Who knew, right? The exam began with “Five years? That’s a very long time,” accompanied by a disapproving head nod and a coddling “but at least you’re here now.” Sure, sure, lady let’s just get this over with. I endured the poking and prodding and those weird x-ray plates that they try to low key choke you with, and as I sat in the room waiting for the diagnosis, I prepared for the worst. The worst presented itself as a hefty bill for a crown that won’t even work as an accessory, making it the least cool crown a girl could ever wear. After the initial shock and acceptance of my fate, the rest of the cleaning commenced. Here’s the problem, I can’t just be normal. A normal person would sit there like an adult and let the team do their thing. Instead, I mentioned that the tool they call the “Cavitron” sounds like some kind of awesome Transformer. When that comment was met with relative silence, I realized my material is best received by boys under the age of 10. This woman just didn’t get me. In case anyone is wondering, the “Cavitron” is definitely a Decepticon. The concentrated spray it produced felt like a needle on my gums and I flinched, hard. Do you know what happens when you flinch? You get a shower in the dentist chair. The water went all over my face. I started gagging and then laughing uncontrollably because that’s my natural response when I’m uncomfortable. It was bad guys. Like true professionals, they reined me in and we finished the rest of the appointment without incident. I want to believe that I was the topic of discussion at the next office meeting: “Remember team, sell the patients on expensive crowns, and don’t give them free showers.”

Ants

Continued from A2 ry borer (Hypothenemus hampei). This beetle is a major threat to coffee farmers because it bores into the coffee fruit and destroys the berry before it can be harvested — lowering the quality of coffee. It can devastate coffee crops and drastically reduce the incomes of coffee farmers and the coffee supply. Luckily for us coffee aficionados, there is the mighty ant. Many ant species that live in the shade trees surrounding the coffee plants collect food for their colonies on the coffee plants. Ants are really defensive in the areas they live and collect food from. When they interact with coffee berry borers, they knock them off of the coffee plants. There are many other insect pests in coffee farms that reduce the yield and quality of coffee. However, many of them can be controlled by the many ants that are also present in coffee farms. As farmers harvest coffee berries to sell to coffee roasters, similar ecologically complex interactions are taking place simultaneously on plants across our many different montane ecosystems throughout the James Reserve. It is easy to forget that ecological interactions are happening all around us, not just in the depths of untouched jungles. To study suites of complex interactions, ecologists need to look no further than the farms that grow their morning coffee and at the James Reserve. Stay tuned for future discoveries!

Legislation to cut state licensing fees for small business disaster victims

BY THE OFFICE OF STATE SEN. MIKE MORRELL
CONTRIBUTED

The governor has now signed into law Senate Bill 601, a measure by Sen. Mike Morrell, R-Rancho Cucamonga, which grants state entities authority to waive or reduce governmental licensing fees for businesses experiencing hardship and displacement after emergencies.

“Senate Bill 601 takes a step toward reducing licensing fees on small businesses and entrepreneurs doing their best to achieve success in California, especially those recovering from fires and other devastating disasters,” said Morrell. “I hope Senate Bill 601 is the first of many bills this governor signs to work at cutting red tape and untangling regulatory webs that hinder economic prosperity.”

Morrell has pushed for licensing reform throughout his tenure in the legislature. He previously authored Senate Bill 999 (2018) to repeal certain licensing requirements in the fields of barbering and cosmetology and he also authored Senate Bill 1155 (2017) to waive initial licensing fees for veterans entering the civilian workforce.

According to the Institute for Justice, California is among the most onerously regulated economies in the nation. The average amount spent on licensing fees in California is $486 and many occupations require a physically displayed license in the workplace.

“As wildfires spread across the state again, we’re reminded that natural disasters are a regular occurrence in California,” said Steven Greenhut, western region director for the R Street Institute. “Senate Bill 601 provides some regulatory relief to disaster victims and signals that the state government is committed to helping them get back on their feet.”

The California Chamber of Commerce named Senate Bill 601 a “job creator” and one of its top priorities for 2019. Senate Bill 601 passed through the legislative process unanimously. It takes effect Jan. 1, 2020.

Morrell represents the 23rd Senate District in the California Legislature, which includes portions of San Bernardino, Riverside and Los Angeles counties.

“Senate Bill 601 takes a step toward reducing licensing fees on small businesses and entrepreneurs doing their best to achieve success in California, especially those recovering from fires and other devastating disasters.”

Equifax data breach settlement: What you should know

In September of 2017, Equifax announced a data breach that exposed the personal information of 147 million people. Under a settlement filed today, Equifax agreed to spend up to $425 million to help people affected by the data breach. If you were affected by the Equifax breach, you can't file a claim just yet. That's coming. But you can sign up for FTC email alerts about the settlement at ftc.gov/Equifax. Not sure that you were affected? The breach claims site will have a tool to let you check. Sign up for an FTC email update to find out when that tool is up and running.

Public Notices

Statement filed with the County Clerk of Riverside County on Sept. 5, 2019.

FILE NO.: R-201912184

NOTICE — IN ACCORDANCE WITH SUBDIVISION (a) OF SECTION 17920, A FICTITIOUS NAME STATEMENT GENERALLY EXPIRES AT THE END OF FIVE YEARS FROM THE DATE ON WHICH IT WAS FILED IN THE OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK, EXCEPT, AS PROVIDED IN SUBDIVISION (b) OF SECTION 17920, WHERE IT EXPIRES 40 DAYS AFTER ANY CHANGE IN THE FACTS SET FORTH IN THE STATEMENT PURSUANT TO SECTION OF 17913 OTHER THAN A CHANGE IN THE RESIDENCE ADDRESS OF A REGISTERED OWNER. A NEW FICTITIOUS BUSINESS NAME STATEMENT MUST BE FILED BEFORE THE EXPIRATION.

THE FILING OF THIS STATEMENT DOES NOT OF ITSELF AUTHORIZE THE USE IN THIS STATE OF A FICTITIOUS BUSINESS NAME IN VIOLATION OF THE RIGHTS OF ANOTHER UNDER FEDERAL, STATE OR COMMON LAW (SEE SECTION 14411 ET SEQ., BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONS CODE).

Publication of notice pursuant to this section shall be once a week for four successive weeks. Four publications in a newspaper regularly published once a week or oftener, with at least 5 days intervening between the respective publication dates not counting such publication dates, are sufficient. The period of notice commences with the first day of publication and terminates at the end of the twenty-eighth day, including therein the first day.

CERTIFICATION

I hereby certify that this copy is a correct copy of the original statement on file in my office.

road closures to keep the area secure and prevent anyone from placing themselves in harm’s way by entering the area.

Outside of working with public service agencies, RSO also worked with the school district and escorted school buses out of the area from Mesa Verde Middle School during the evacuation at the Sandalwood Fire.

When disaster happens, those of service come together to help each other and those in need, no matter the cost.

National First Responders Day was Monday, Oct. 28.

Remember: Safety is first

By CALTRANS CONTRIBUTED

This month marks the 10th anniversary of California’s “Move Over” law expanding to include Caltrans vehicles, and Saturday, Oct. 19 was National Move Over Day. Caltrans wants this milestone to serve as a reminder of just how important it is for motorists to follow motor vehicle safety laws.

California’s Move Over law requires all drivers to move over a lane or — if they are unable to do that safely — slow down when they see amber flashing lights on Caltrans vehicles, law enforcement and emergency vehicles, and tow trucks.

“Every year, highway workers, law enforcement officers, emergency personnel, and tow truck drivers are killed or injured along California’s roadways,” said Acting Caltrans Director Bob Franzoia. “Californians can help keep workers safe by slowing down in work zones, complying with the ‘Move Over’ law and always being work zone alert.”

Although all 50 states have enacted Move Over laws, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration found that 71% of Americans have not heard of them. In California, failure to obey the Move Over Law can result in fines up $1,000, plus points on your driving record.

“It only takes a split second of inattention to destroy lives at a work zone,” CHP Commissioner Warren Stanley said. “Motorists must give all workers a safe place along the side of California’s roads.”

intense 12-week program with a ratio of three students to one adult.

Music is at every school site, including elementary, and the district intends to expand the dual-language program so all students, kindergarten through twelfth grade, can participate.

Because the district has students in need of mental health services, the district has added full-time counselors to all elementary sites in addition to a director of counseling. Behavioral specialists and technicians are supporting students with disabilities in general and in special education environments.

The Parent Resource Center was relocated to Alessandro High School because that is the area with the greatest need.

Another exciting thing in the works for students: HUSD is working with Mt. San Jacinto College to have an early college program at one of the school sites.

Barrett announced that the International Baccalaureate (IB) program has officially accepted West Valley High School as a candidate. A press release issued by the district announced “staff will begin preparing the freshman class, which will be the first students to begin the IB program at West Valley.”

are going to get the outcome that you want,” said Randall Harris, the founder of the program. “There’s nothing like concentrating on something until you get it done. When you’re training the horse, you’re never training the horse. You’re training yourself. The horse will always tell the truth and respond honestly.”

Veterans from all different branches of the military service united Saturday at Living Free Animal Sanctuary where War Horse Creek has been in the works since 2015. It’s quiet. The wind rustles the branches of the trees, the dirt and dust kicks up, but no one seems to mind. There’s a stillness as veterans and rescued mustangs learn from each other and begin to trust one another.

Just like any rescue animal, the horse’s background is unclear. Sometimes they’ve been abused and no longer trust humans. However, they meet anyone with the same amount of trust that the person is willing to meet them with. It’s like a mirror. The mustangs show veterans that the more they trust, the more the horse will also trust. It’s a mutual training and healing.

Many veterans are reluctant to engage in traditional “talk therapies” for a variety of reasons. It simply goes against the warfighter grain. However, stepping into a ring with a wild horse is a challenge well-suited for veterans. It gives them a sense of control, and they know they can impact the horse’s life dramatically in similar ways that they as veterans need. It all comes down to trust and safety.

As a U.S. Army Medical Service Officer in Vietnam, Floyd “Shad” Meshad began pioneering treatment techniques for PTSD. He is the founder of the National Veterans Foundation and founder of the VA’s Vet Center Program. Saturday was his first visit to Living Free Animal Sanctuary.

Measure X, the bond measure passed in 2018 to upgrade and repair school facilities? Both Winchester and Little Lake Elementary will be getting a new classroom wing, security upgrades, and increased parking and drop off area.

Winchester will also get a library and a new administration entry. The funds will also be used to replace existing exhaust and swamp cooler systems with air conditioning at two high school gymnasiums, Hemet and West Valley high schools, according to Barrett. Idyllwild School will get a revamp of the administration entrance.

Barrett said that the second round of funding is hopefully available after the beginning of the year and to watch for more changes.

apy, and this program is so powerful,” Meshad said. “I’m just in awe and loving it. Any animal is just unconditional. They’ll love you no matter what. I’m just elated to be part of this program. We want to figure out how to get more veterans up here, and I’ll do whatever I can to promote it.”

Having the social interaction for the veterans is beneficial. Humans are social beings and having the support of fellow veterans helping each other levels the playing field. There’s a common bond between veterans that others don’t understand. At War Horse Creek, they are able to connect, talk, share and feel with each other, and of course, with the mustangs.

Steps for earthquake safety

The Earthquake Country Alliance has prepared seven steps for people to take before, during and after an earthquake.

Before:

Step 1: Secure your space by identifying hazards and securing movable items.

Step 2: Plan to be safe by creating a disaster plan and deciding how you will communicate in an emergency.

Step 3: Organize disaster supplies in convenient locations.

Step 4: Minimize financial hardship by organizing important documents, strengthening your property and considering insurance.

During:

Step 5: Drop, cover and hold on when the earth shakes.

Step 6: Improve safety after earthquakes by evacuating if necessary, helping the injured and preventing further injuries or damage.

After:

Step 7: Restore daily life by reconnecting with others, repairing damage and rebuilding community.

Food safety tips during power outages

By THE U.S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
CONTRIBUTED

The U.S. Department of Agriculture’s (USDA) Food Safety and Inspection Service is issuing food safety recommendations for those who may be impacted by wildfires in California.

The National Weather Service predicts critical to extreme fire weather conditions today [Tuesday, Oct. 29] and Wednesday in southern and northern California. Due to the predicted extreme weather conditions, Pacific Gas & Electric (PG&E) said it’s considering proactively turning off power in these regions for safety. PG&E has already began cutting power for more than 2 million homes and businesses Saturday, including 1.3 million in the Bay Area. PG&E warns that these outages could last longer than 48 hours. For planning and safety purposes, consumers should prepare for outages that could last several days.

Severe weather events such as wildfires that lead to power outages can compromise the safety of your food. Without electricity or a cold source, food stored in refrigerators and freezers can become unsafe. Bacteria in food grow rapidly at temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees Fahrenheit, and if these foods are consumed, people can become very sick. Knowing what to do before and after a weather event can help you reduce your risk of illness. By following these guidelines, you can also minimize the amount of food that may be lost due to spoilage.

Steps to follow in advance of losing power

- Keep appliance thermometers in both the refrigerator and the freezer to ensure temperatures remain food safe during a power outage. Safe temperatures are 40 F or lower in the refrigerator, 0 F or lower in the freezer.
- Freeze water in one-quart plastic storage bags or small containers. These containers are small enough to fit around the food in the refrigerator and freezer to help keep food cold. Remember, water expands when it freezes, so don’t overfill the containers.
- Freeze refrigerated items such as leftovers, milk and fresh meat and poultry that you may not need immediately — this helps keep them at a safe temperature longer.
- Know where you can get dry ice or block ice.
- Have coolers on hand to keep refrigerator food cold if the power will be out for more than four hours.
- Group foods together in the freezer — this ‘igloo’ effect helps the food stay cold longer.
- Keep a few days’ worth of ready-to-eat foods that do not require cooking or cooling.

Steps to follow if the power goes out

- Keep the refrigerator and freezer doors closed as much as possible. A refrigerator will keep food cold for about four hours if the door is kept closed. A full freezer will hold its temperature for about 48 hours (24 hours if half-full).
 - Place meat and poultry to one side of the freezer or on a tray to prevent cross contamination of thawing juices.
 - Use dry or block ice to keep the refrigerator as cold as possible during an extended power outage. Fifty pounds of dry ice should keep a fully-stocked 18-cubic-foot freezer cold for two days.
- Steps to follow after a weather emergency:
- Check the temperature inside of your refrigerator and freezer. Discard any perishable food (such as meat, poultry, seafood, eggs or leftovers) that has been above 40 F for two hours or more.
 - Check each item separately. Throw out any food that has an unusual odor, color or texture or feels warm to the touch.
 - Check frozen food for ice crystals. The food in your freezer that partially or completely thawed may be safely refrozen if it still contains ice crystals or is 40 F or below.
 - Never taste a food to decide if it’s safe.
 - When in doubt, throw it out.

Consumers with food safety questions can call the toll-free USDA Meat and Poultry Hotline at 1-888-MPHotline (1-888-674-6854) or live chat via Ask USDA from 10 a.m.-6 p.m. (Eastern Time) Monday through Friday. Consumers can also send a question via email to MPHotline@usda.gov.

Tree lighting set up only by local nonprofit organizations and community-focused groups who can use the event as an opportunity to raise funds and awareness for their community organizations.

“Our goal is to encourage visitors to support our local organizations and do their holiday shopping for jewelry, candles, soaps, clothes, antiques, gifts, etc. at our local businesses rather than have private individuals sell things that compete with our locals,” said Chris Singer Perrault, ICC board member and event co-chair. There will be no charge to the organizations and groups for the booth space rental.

Another change in the works this year concerns the lighting of the trees. ICC’s goal is to raise enough money through sponsorships to light all of the trees in IdyPark rather than just one.

“Considering the challenges that the fire and flood brought to Idyllwild, we’d like to make this year’s tree lighting extra special and welcoming to locals and visitors,” said Perrault. “Businesses, organizations, families and individuals will be able to sponsor or co-sponsor the lighting of a tree, and based on their sponsorship, will receive recognition on an engraved sign placed near their tree in IdyPark.”

The booths will be open for business starting at noon with food available around 2 p.m. and other festivities beginning at 4 p.m. Everything will wrap up around 6 p.m. after the trees are lit around 5:15 p.m.

Organizations and groups interested in having a booth should contact Chris Singer Perrault at 951-659-4335. For more information on tree sponsorship/co-sponsorship, send an email to info@idyllwildcommunitycenter.org.

Women of Jazz to perform at Idyllwild Arts on Nov. 9

Three singers lead a tour through the history of America's music

THE ASSOCIATES OF THE IDYLLWILD ARTS FOUNDATION CONTRIBUTED

The influence of women on the evolution of jazz will be highlighted by a special performance presented by the Associates of the Idyllwild Arts Foundation at 2 p.m. on Nov. 9 at the William M. Lowman Concert Hall on the Idyllwild Arts Academy campus.

That Saturday afternoon, Rose Mallett, Yve Evans and Rose Colella's show "Women of Jazz" will raise money to support scholarships for the music students of the Idyllwild Arts Academy. You can get tickets at www.associatesofiaf.org to hear these sensational jazz vocalists perform with the Idyllwild Arts Academy's jazz students and faculty.

"Women of Jazz" will include Mallett's one-woman show "The Songs of Sarah," a tribute to the incomparable Sarah Vaughan, which Mallett premiered in New York City last summer.

She will be joined on stage by Evans, who started performing at age six and has played around the world, and by Colella, fresh from her New York debut at the legendary Feinstein's/54 Below and from the release of her much anticipated album, "Cocktail."

Colella, who recently taught master classes at Northwestern University and Roosevelt University, will bring all of her mastery to a memorable afternoon of collaboration with Mallett and Evans.

General admission tickets are $25 per person. A VIP ticket package for $50 per person includes preferred seating at the front of the hall and an invitation to a meet and greet reception after the show.

Tickets and sponsorships are available at www.as-

Tucked away in the Village Lane is a trio of stores — Idyllwild Antiques and Uniques, The Fool on the Hill Trading Post, and The Rubber Soul Room — all owned by Mary and Sean Chantler. The married duo have been entrepreneurs for years, running a successful online business called Auction Pros, which sells consignment items. They decided to branch out into the storefront adventure and found Idyllwild to be a good place to start.

"When I was growing up, my mom and grandmother used to take me into antique stores," Mary shared. "I like to share the history of things that people might not know about anymore. Kids are curious and always have all

"It's much more personal having a storefront. People can be attracted or drawn to an object, which we don't get to see with our online business. It's really neat to see."

Idyllwild Arts orchestra debut

By ART CONNOR
CONTRIBUTED

With the prospects of a glorious mountain sunset, unfazed by the smoke of distant fires tempered by light breezes, the yearly ritual of the inaugural concert of the newly formed Idyllwild Arts Academy Orchestra began with the usual necessities. The introduction of the proceedings by Music Department Chair Dr. Jeanette Louise Yaryan and of the program itself by Gregory Robbins, the program’s new conductor, as all appeared in orderly stage presentation.

The music began as demonstrably emphatic as could be with Beethoven’s “Fidelio” Overture (that is, to the opera itself, and not one of the three “Leonore” overtures which are really concert pieces full of what would today be characterized as “spoiler alerts”) providing the vigor in the four bar opening string statement and the horn response surviving a bit of a technical glitch to ensure the opera’s principal message of “freedom above all.”

Robbins exercised the utmost control over his appointed forces by letting the string contingent favor the winds and the brass (again, necessarily augmented by alumni and guest artists) in setting forth the panoply of related motifs in a generally solid mixture of contrasting timbres seasoned with varying emotional punctuation, as required.

Following a short break in the proceedings (due to technical microphonal tinkering with the piano), the ever-appreciative audience welcomed the soloist and Idyllwild Arts Academy Concerto Competition winner Tong Daisy Su. From the very start of the piece — the beginning traversal of the keyboard in response to the timpanist’s roll — the clear execution of Grieg’s second theme as well as her finger dexterity and methodical attack in the composer’s virtuoso passages gave every indication that the above-mentioned award was very well deserved indeed.

The only wish — expressed by this listener among others — was that the whole of the concerto could have been presented, barring the inevitable time constraints. A wholly satisfying performance, yes. Why spare the audience two more movements of the composer’s romantic and nationalistic expressions? Is that too strong of an aspiration — to hear more of Su’s virtuosity or Robbins’ deft accompaniment? Perhaps one might apply the maxim that “enough is enough” in any case, the public’s applause at the movement’s conclusion stood as a kind of consolation.

The expectation of the orchestral ambitions evinced in both the Beethoven and Grieg were carried over into the final piece (a personal favorite of Robbins as well as this listener’s), Mendelssohn’s fourth symphony. This proved another exercise in orchestral contrast, not only in the dance-influenced outer movements, but also in the reflective spirit of the inner movements, where the symphonic thrust of Mendelssohn’s idols — Bach as well as Beethoven — come to the fore.

New Idyllwild Arts Academy Associate Director of Orchestral Programs Greg Robbins at the first orchestra concert of the school year in the William M. Lowman Concert Hall. PHOTOS BY JENNY KIRCHNER

Conducting with the requisite dash and vivacity, all was accomplished to the general appreciative body of auditors, and Robbins generally acknowledged his little but formidable ensemble with both individual and collective accolades.

And so, the beginning concert of the season ended with the merriment of the presto finale as the audience departed to the music of sunny Italy into the Californian wilderness, fully illuminated by moonlight and brisk, temperate winds. One expects a speedy return of this refreshing elemental mixture in future concerts of these forces.

In memory of another music appreciator, the late Jan Jaspers-Fayer.

Spotlight on Leadership: Native American arts at Idyllwild Arts

By THE ASSOCIATES OF THE IDYLLWILD ARTS FOUNDATION
CONTRIBUTED

The Associates of the Idyllwild Arts Foundation’s Spotlight on Leadership presentation is at 10 a.m. Monday, Nov. 11. In the Idyllwild Arts campus’ Fire-side Room in the Nelson Dining Hall — a comfortable setting — Marianne Kent-Stoll, vice president of educational programs, Heather Companiott, director of the adult art center and Native American arts program, and Shaliyah Ben, Native American arts program coordinator, will share the story of the Native American programs at the Idyllwild Arts Academy and summer program. The series is open to all at no charge.

The speakers will share the stage and talk about the big picture as Idyllwild Arts strengthens its existing commitment to the Native American community.

Our Spotlight on Leadership series happens monthly with leaders from Idyllwild Arts and our community.

Speakers

Marianne Kent-Stoll has worked in education for more than 30 years. Though she has taught English at the college level for most of her career, she has taught high school English and served as assistant head at a college prep school in Santa Cruz, California. She has a particular interest in arts education and holds a master’s in English Literature with an emphasis in poetry. She has also published several poems. Kent-Stoll infuses her passion for education into a nonprofit organization that she and her husband founded in 2008. Every summer, they lead volunteers to the same remote village in rural East Africa in order to work alongside its people to build and renovate schools, provide clean water, and improve health care.

Heather Companiott is the director of the summer program’s adult arts center and the Native American program and festival. She has been on staff at Idyllwild Arts for 27 years during which time she has served in various capacities including public relations director and special programs director for both Idyllwild Arts Academy and the summer program. Prior to joining Idyllwild Arts, she worked as public program coordinator for the Colorado History Museum and managed the Squash Blossom Gallery, both located in Denver. Companiott also had the privilege of living on the White Mountain Apache Reservation in Whiteriver, Arizona while working at the Apache Cultural Center. She has a bachelor’s degree in Anthropology from Colorado College and a master’s in Folklore from Indiana University.

Shaliyah Ben is the Native American arts program coordinator. She is a new resident to Idyllwild but is an alumna in both the children’s center and summer youth programs. Prior to joining Idyllwild Arts, she worked as the director of public programming at the Heard Museum in Phoenix, Arizona where she worked for 20 years. During her tenure at the Heard Museum she served roles in both the education and curatorial departments. Ben is a lecturer, educator and promoter of Native American arts and culture and originally hails from the Navajo Nation. She was born in Shiprock, New Mexico where her family still practices traditional farming in the San Juan River Valley.

Ben enjoys spending time with her dog, Amira, and her family and friends. She is a violin player, French speaker and lover of the color pink. Ben has a bachelor’s in French and certificates in both Arabic Language and Islamic Studies from Arizona State University.

Soroptimists ask for donations

Soroptimist International of Idyllwild (www.siidyllwild.org) is encouraging the community to collect regular size soap, toothpaste, shampoo/conditioner, body wash, deodorant and lotion. Collected items will support the Soroptimists in assisting the Idyllwild Help Center, which currently serves the needs of more than 600 people in our mountain community.

In addition to these basic needs, as sponsors of the “Soroptimist Women’s Cabinet” located at the Help Center, local Soroptimists also emphasize that donations of feminine products, including sanitary napkins, tampons, razors and panty liners, as well as toilet paper, are desperately needed. Contact Theresa Teel at thursa@gmail.com to donate items mentioned.

ICF accepting grants for Cranston Fire victims

By IDYLLWILD COMMUNITY FUND
CONTRIBUTED

The Idyllwild Community Fund (ICF) started accepting grant applications from local nonprofit organizations Oct. 18 for the specific purpose of helping Cranston Fire victims only.

To obtain an application visit the ICF website, idyllwildcommunityfund.org, or contact Shannon Ng at 909-213-7018.

The background of ICF

The Idyllwild Community Fund originated in 1995 when a couple came to a local attorney and wanted to make an anonymous donation of $10,000 to benefit the community of Idyllwild, according to the presentation given by Ng on Sept. 26 at the 2019 Grantee Reception at The Red Kettle restaurant.

At that time interest rates were at 5% and realizing that this amount would not earn much money, a suggestion was made that affiliating with The Community Foundation of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties might be helpful.

A representative of ICF later met with the couple offering ideas and support. ICF became associated with The Community Foundation in April of 1996 and the first grant was distributed in 1998. The Community Foundation of Riverside and San Bernardino Counties has continued to guide and assist ICF in the management of the endowments and the granting process.

HOROSCOPES

October 2019 — Week 5

March 21 – April 19
Lots of choices could make it difficult to select what is best for your needs. Avoid snap judgments. Take the time to check them all out to find the one that really meets your goals.

April 20 – May 20
You could once again experience pressure from others who would like to see you move in another direction. But heed your Bovine instincts to stay on your own path.

May 21 – June 21
Taking charge of a project that seems to be about to stall or collapse altogether could be a challenge. But once everyone knows what you expect of him or her, things should go smoothly.

June 22 – July 22
Avoid the pressures of the upcoming holiday period by setting a time right now to discuss how to divide up the responsibility of helping a loved one come through a difficult period.

July 23 – August 22
It's not too early for all you Leonas and Leos to start making long-distance travel plans. The sooner you stop procrastinating and start deciding where, when and how you're going, the better.

August 23 – September 22
Someone you've known for years might disappoint you, or even make you feel you've been betrayed. But check the facts carefully before you make charges that could backfire on you.

September 23 – October 22
A holiday plan might need to be revised to accommodate an unexpected complication. Come up with an alternative arrangement as soon as possible to avoid more problems down the

October 23 – November 21
Don't accept halfway explanations for a situation that requires full disclosure. The more you know now, the better able you will be to handle any complications that might arise.

November 22 – December 21
The cooperation you relied upon might not be easy to get. Maybe there's an information gap. See if everyone understands the situation. If not, be sure to offer a full explanation.

December 22 – January 19
Problems caused by that recent workplace distraction should soon be easing, allowing you to resume working at a less frantic pace. That personal matter also begins to ease up.

January 20 – February 18
Changing your mind about a job decision isn't easy for the usually committed Aquarian. But once you check it out, you'll find facts you didn't know before. And facts don't lie.

February 19 – March 20
Your unique way of sizing up a situation gives you an edge in resolving that upsetting workplace problem. Stay on your current course regardless of any attempts to distract you.

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS
California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: “Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentments to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor.”
This is a contractor’s responsibility, not a newspaper’s, and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors’ advertising, if we notice it.

these questions, and having four kids of my own, I like to welcome the children into the store.”
Many of the antiques the Chantlers bring in are found online or through dealers. The items range from all different genres and generations, but are unique and interesting.
When asked about the difference between selling online and having a storefront, Sean said, “It’s much more personal having a storefront. People can be attracted or drawn to an object, which we don’t get to see with our online business. It’s really neat to see. A lot of the people up here are great, and it’s our job to make these stores hip and fun for the younger generations.”
Opening only a month ago, and marketing solely on Instagram, the Chantlers are pleased with how well the

Free/reduced-price school lunches
Hemet Unified School District is distributing application forms to all households for free and reduced-price meals for enrolled children. Applications are also available at the principal’s office in each school.
To apply for free or reduced-price meal benefits, complete an application and return it to the school. Applications may be submitted at any time during the school year.
The information households provide on the application will be used to determine meal eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year by school or program officials.
Requirements for free and reduced-price benefits are as follows: For households receiving Food Stamp, CalWORKs, Kin-GAP, or FDPIR benefits, applications need only include the enrolled child(ren)’s name, Food Stamp, CalWORKs, Kin-GAP or FDPIR case number, and the signature of an adult household member.
For households who do not list a Food Stamp, CalWORKs, Kin-GAP or FDPIR case number, the application must include the names of all household members, the amount and source of the income received by each household member, and the signature and corresponding Social Security number of an adult household member.

★ STUDENTS OF THE WEEK ★

Idyllwild School's fourth- and fifth-grade teacher Mrs. Michelle Wiesen chose Andrea Lopez Citrowsky (fourth grade) and Logan Reeves (fifth grade) as Students of the Week. Of Andrea, Mrs. Wiesen said she "is caring and always willing to help a friend in need. She is a wonderful addition to our class this year." Of Logan, she said he is "responsible, hard-working and is very helpful. Logan Reeves is an absolute pleasure to have in class."

CREATURE CORNER

By JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," ARF cats discussed the new kittens and the soon-to-be puppies.

Terra: Okay my friends, time for a meeting.

Mr. Gray: We are here. Anything new?

Terra: Yes and no. Our kittens, Jupiter and Neptune, are still here, surprisingly. The exciting news is ARF has five puppies!

Mr. Gray: Puppies and, if I remember correctly, a litter of kittens.

Sadie: Gray, I think you're correct.

Zeus: I want to hear more about the kittens and puppies.

Terra: The kittens are so cute, and all of their names begin with the letter "A."

Zeus: Now that is Absolutely Adorable!

Terra: I see what you did there, Zeus.

Zeus: And the puppies?

Sadie: They are only a few days old. I heard their eyes aren't even open yet.

Terra: True! They were born on the 23rd. There are three boys and two girls.

Mr. Gray: When may we meet them?

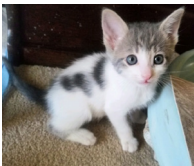

Bear: I was told the kittens will be here this coming weekend, and the puppies will remain in a quiet area with their mama.

Mr. Gray: The puppies will need that. The public will meet them soon enough.

Terra: The kittens are ready to head out to their forever homes. The puppies will be amazing holiday gifts.

Sadie: They all will be great gifts for their new families.

Bear: The humans, the pups and kittens will receive the best gifts of their lives.

CONTEST JUDGE

Three correct entries again this week: Rochelle Ainsworth, Tate Donovan and newcomer Glenn Warren (Welcome, Glenn!). They spotted the two horseshoes embedded in the top of the low wall on the east side of IdyPark.

And the luck of the draw goes to ... beginner's luck again! Congrats, Glenn! Please come pick up your prize at the Town Crier office.

Gift certificate prizes are generously provided by Red Kettle restaurant and Higher Grounds Coffee House. Thanks to both of these fine establishments for supporting our contest. Please stop by both places to say thank you for their continued sponsorship of our photo contest column.

This week's photo should be somewhat easier, I think. Good luck, everyone!

One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office. Email entries to jack@towncrier.com.
