Traveling on winter roads

By JENNY KIRCHNER
REPORTER/PHOTOGRAPHER

Living in the mountains can pose many challenges when it comes to being safe on the roads during winter. It comes with the territory of living in mile-high Idyllwild and surrounding communities, where we get to experience what many in Southern Californians don't — four seasons. With the first snow of the season already in the books, it's time to be prepared while traveling on the roadways.

Road conditions and requirements can be determined by the signage on the roadway. Drive safely and be prepared this winter. FILE PHOTO

The Town Crier spoke with the California Highway Patrol (CHP) about what tire traction devices, commonly referred to as chains, are approved during inclement weather conditions. CHP Officer Matt Napier stated, "Section 605 of the California Vehicle Code defines tire traction devices as 'devices or mechanisms having a composition and design capable of improving vehicle traction, braking, and cornering ability upon snow or ice-covered surfaces.' It also states that tire traction devices need to be constructed to 'provide sufficient structural integrity and to prevent accidental detachment from vehicles.'"

According to the United States Patent and Trademark Office website, "Grip Tread for Pneumatic Tires" was patented on Aug. 23, 1904 by Harry D. Weed of Canastota, New York. Since then, many variations of chains, cables and newer inventions, like snow socks, have been built for different size tires and vehicles.

With that, there are no official CHP-approved tire traction devices. According to Napier, it is strictly up to the individual officer's discretion on whether a tire traction device meets the definition of the vehicle code. Whatever traction device you choose for your vehicle, be sure it is within the guidelines so you don't get cited, or even worse, cause injury to yourself or someone else.

Caltrans set three different levels when tire traction devices are required during inclement weather. Caltrans can choose to implement any of these levels at any time, so make sure tire traction devices (chains, cables, snow socks, etc.) are in your vehicle at all times.

The lowest level, R-1, states that "chains are required on all vehicles except passenger vehicles and light-duty trucks under 6,000 pounds gross weight and equipped with snow tires on at least two drive wheels," according to the Caltrans website. "Chains must be carried by vehicles using snow tires. All vehicles towing trailers must have chains on one drive axle. Trailers with brakes must have chains on at least one axle."

The next level, and most common for our highways, is R-2. This states

For all requirement levels — R1 through R3 — a tire traction device is required to be carried in all vehicles. No exceptions.

CHP is serving up safety for holiday travel

By CALIFORNIA HIGHWAY PATROL
CONTRIBUTED

As millions of motorists head out for the Thanksgiving holiday, the California Highway Patrol (CHP) is prepared for one of the busiest travel weekends in America. Unfortunately, in the past, Thanksgiving has also been one of the deadliest holidays on our roadways.

To help motorists arrive at their destinations safely, the CHP will implement a Maximum Enforcement Period (MEP) and deploy all available officers through the holiday weekend. The MEP begins at 6:01 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 27, and continues through 11:59 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 1.

During the MEP, CHP officers will educate motorists and enforce traffic safety laws throughout the state to ensure everyone has a safe holiday. Officers will be actively looking for unsafe driving practices including impaired or distracted driving, unsafe speed and vehicle occupants who fail to buckle up.

"Holiday travel can be stressful. By putting some simple safety measures in place, motorists can help keep themselves and others safe on the road this weekend," said CHP Commissioner Warren Stanley. "Most important, before you head out, ensure everyone inside the vehicle has their seat belt on, and if there are

According to the CHP's Maximum Enforcement Period data, 59 people were killed in collisions in California during the 2018 Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

Employee pay raise incentives for small businesses proposed

By THE OFFICE OF REP. RAUL RUIZ
CONTRIBUTED

On Nov. 26, Rep. Raul Ruiz, M.D. (D-Palm Desert) announced the introduction of his bill to encourage small businesses to invest in their workers. Ruiz's bill, H.R. 5261, the Rewarding American Investments to Support Employees (RAISE) Act, would encourage small businesses to give pay raises to employees by providing employers with a tax credit of up to 10% of their total payroll increase that year. This tax credit would be particularly helpful for small businesses in California as they transition to a $15 an hour minimum wage through 2023.

"The success of any business is driven by the men and women who show up to work each day, and when companies invest in their employees, everyone wins," Ruiz said. "That's why I've introduced the RAISE Act, which would support our small businesses, stimulate our local economies and put more money in the pockets of hard-working middle-class families. Additionally, as small businesses in California make the transition to a higher minimum wage, my bill would support them as they continue investing in their employees."

Small Business Saturday will take place this Saturday, Nov. 30 and is aimed at encouraging shoppers to buy from local and small businesses. Small businesses are the backbone of local economies, with $68 of every $100 spent staying in the community, as opposed to the $43 that stays in the community when that $100 is spent at a national chain.

"We are in support of H.R. 5261, the RAISE Act," said Patrick Swarthout of the Greater Coachella Valley Chamber of Commerce (GCVCC). "This legislation represents the types of pro-growth policies the GCVCC supports and would benefit both business owners and employees. This legislation will help small and medium-sized businesses reward hard work and retain their best employees."

Background

Ruiz has prioritized growing small businesses and the regional economy during his time in office. Earlier this month, the House passed Ruiz's H.R. 4450, the Increasing American Jobs and Exports Act, as an amendment to H.R. 4863, the U.S. Export Finance Agency Act. This bill would help grow small businesses and farms by making funds available for additional U.S. Exports Finance Agency Regional Offices around the country to provide capital for businesses as they expand their exporting capacity and job growth ability.

In 2016, Ruiz helped establish the only small business administration satellite office in the Inland Empire in the Coachella Valley.

The RAISE Act provides a tax credit valued at 10% of the difference between year-to-year employee wages for all workers earning $75,000 a year or less (adjusted for inflation). To ensure that the benefits are realized by small- and medium-size businesses, they can claim a maximum of $500,000 under the tax credit.

The RAISE Act has been endorsed by the Desert Business Association and the Greater Coachella Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Wedding announcement
Kendall Salter and Kayleen Asmus

We are happy to announce the wedding of former Idyllwild resident Kendall Salter and Kayleen Asmus, of Westminster, Colorado and Rochester, Minnesota. They were married on a beautiful Saturday, Nov. 9, in a lovely outdoor ceremony near Denver surrounded by family and friends, who traveled from all over the country to help celebrate.

Logan Eliassen, a college friend, officiated. Kendall's two brothers -- David and Andrew -- and his surviving sister, Lauren, were in the wedding party. Lauren carried two bouquets -- one for herself and one on behalf of her late sister Emma. The parents of the bride, Jim and Cathy Asmus, and the parents of the groom, Mark and Sally Salter, looked on proudly from the front row.

The guests were treated to a live band and hundreds of mini-cupcakes home baked by the groom's mother. All the decorations -- bouquets, table decorations, coasters, etc. -- were designed and created by the bride.

Kendall and Kayleen, both attorneys, met at University of Iowa College of Law. They reside in Rochester, Minnesota with Mitts, their lively puppy.

Road conditions for incoming storm

BY CALTRANS DISTRICT 8 CONTRIBUTED

The California Department of Transportation (Caltrans) is alerting motorists that the National Weather Service (NWS) is forecasting a major winter storm for Riverside and San Bernardino counties beginning Wednesday, Nov. 27 through Friday, Nov. 29. Rain will begin Wednesday morning with snow developing Thursday into Friday in mountain regions above 2,500 feet. Be advised that roads can close without notice if they are determined unsafe for the traveling public.

Caltrans is advising motorists of possible weather impacts to the following interstates and routes:

- I-15 in the Cajon Pass -- snow expected on Thursday.
- SR 2 and SR 138 to Wrightwood -- snow expected -- must have chains.
- SR 74 from Lake Elsinore to Orange County -- possible snow conditions.
- SR 18, 330, 38, 173 and 189 -- snow conditions with possible R-3 chain requirements.
- SR 243 and 74 -- heavy amounts of rain Wednesday and Thursday turning to snow conditions on Thursday -- expect chain control.
- SR 62, 95 and 177 -- possible flooding in the desert region toward Needles.

Below are some other helpful driving tips:

- Before you start your journey, check travel conditions using QuickMap.
- Check tires and wipers to make sure they are in good condition.
- Have a full tank of gas.
- Slow down when driving in adverse weather conditions. Reduce your speed when roadways are icy or wet and your sight of distance is affected.
- Avoid travel during heavy rain or snow events.
- Never drive impaired! Always designate a driver.
- Bring chains if you are traveling to the mountain areas. Weather in the mountain areas is often unpredictable. Be smart by having chains in your vehicle in case chain control is issued.

- Chain installers are available on most mountain routes during chain control. Please, use the Caltrans approved chain installers with authorized bibs for your safety and to protect your vehicle.
- Never use turnouts or park in the middle of the roadway for snow play. Only park in designated areas and do not trespass on private property.
- For long trips bring water, warm clothing, blankets, a charged cell phone and charger, medications, snacks and other necessary items.
- Do not attempt to pass through road closure signs. Never drive through running water or flooded roadways. Remember: turn around, don't drown.

- Be a safe and courteous driver. It only adds a few minutes to your travel time and makes it a more enjoyable drive for everyone.

Caltrans wishes you and your loved ones a safe and happy holiday season! Know before you go! To stay on top of roadwork in the Inland Empire go to Caltrans District 8 and sign up for commuter alerts. Follow us for the latest information on Facebook and Twitter. To assist in planning your commute, view live traffic conditions using QuickMap and planned lane closures.

Idyllwild Library needs items for time capsule

The library is looking for items for a time capsule that will remain in the library for the next 25 years. If you have memorabilia, old library cards, a child's drawing, a receipt for fines paid, or old catalog cards, newspaper/newsletter articles on people or events in the past, a craft that a child completed years ago, letters from children or adults describing what the library has meant to them, please bring them to the library for possible inclusion in the time capsule. Please note that not everything will necessarily be included. A committee will choose those items that fit and, if donors would like, their items can be returned to them if they are not included.

Brendan Steele had trouble at The RSM Classic last week in Sea Island, Georgia, posting a 3-under-par 71-68 — 139 on two courses Thursday and Friday to miss the cut by a single stroke.

On Friday, the native Idyllwild golfer stepped up his game, improving driving accuracy and greens-in-regulation stats by more than 21% each, but he dropped almost a third of a stroke each day with the putter.

Steele has this coming Thanksgiving week off.

Life Tribute Sara Ellen Clayton 1940-2019

Our mother, Sara Ellen Clayton, passed away Monday, Nov. 18 due to a brief, but very brave battle with an aggressive cancer. Sara was born in San Diego, California on Dec. 8, 1940 to Ben and Helen Jones.

She grew up with her three sisters on the family dairy in San Dimas, California. The family then moved to Ramona, California to run a large poultry farm. Sara graduated from Ramona High School in 1958, then graduated from Palomar College.

Sara met the love of her life, Charles L. Clayton (a friend since childhood). They were married in 1961. The couple moved to Idyllwild in 1972. They were best friends, partners in business and lovers for 58 years.

Sara was vital in Chucks' construction business. She was a high school math and adult education teacher.

Sara saw beauty in ordinary things, made new friends wherever she went and comforted others easily. Idyllwild was her true home for 47 years. Her memory is a shining example to our family and others of what is right in the world.

She is survived by her son, Charles B. Clayton of Idyllwild; daughter, Mary A. Rees (Jim Rees) of Hemet; granddaughter May K. Rees of Pacific Beach; James (Huck) Rees of Sacramento; sisters Susan Upson of Valley Center and Barbara Roth of Rio Rico, Arizona.

Services are pending. Look for a notice in this paper. We will post with plenty of time.

Life Tribute Douglas Steven Donahoo 1986-2019

Heaven gained another angel Wednesday, Nov. 6. Douglas Steven Donahoo, 33 years old, born Oct. 8, 1986, was called to Heaven after a long, hard, unfortunate battle in the hospital with liver failure.

Fueled by fire and driven by courage, Doug conquered what God intended and dedicated his life to saving the lives and homes of many. He served as a firefighter in the United States Forest Service for nine years. He was beyond proud to serve his country and his community. His life was full of purpose and he genuinely felt every bit of it to his core.

Doug survived the tragedy of the 2006 Esperanza Fire, where he lost some of his dearest brothers. He suffered silently with PTSD for many years after this tragic accident. His PTSD does not define his life or the wonderful man he was.

Doug was born and grew up in Idyllwild and lived a peaceful life outside of the fire service. He was not only a firefighter, he also worked on and off throughout his life at the family hardware store, Village Hardware.

He could have a tough guy attitude, yet he had an amazing heart of gold, a beautiful smile, a wonderful laugh and a great personality. Everyone who crossed his path loved him. He went through a lot of extreme challenges in his young life, yet woke up every day with a smile on his face. He truly loved and enjoyed the little things in life. He had a perfect balance of a tough guy who never complained, yet sweet to his core. He would do anything for anyone.

His son Larry was his world and brought him so much joy. The two were inseparable with the purest love. He strove to make and keep everyone happy, while always putting everyone above himself. He was a well-loved son, amazing father, brother, grandson, nephew and forever loved fiancé.

He is survived by his sweet son, 7-year-old Larry Dane Donahoo; loving parents, Shirley and Larry Donahoo; brothers Jeff and Keith Donahoo; sister-in-law Heather Donahoo; nieces Riley and Payton, grandmothers Jan Murdock and Pat Pietro; his aunt Barbara Burlew; and his fiancée Janice Magnuson.

He will be missed beyond words and will forever be remembered as our hero and angel in our hearts.

We would be honored if you would join us for his memorial and celebration of his life at 1 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 7 at Camp Ronald McDonald located at 56400 Apple Canyon Rd., Mountain Center, CA 92561.

Doug always dressed casual so please do the same. The family would love to hear your favorite story.

A fund has been established for his son, Larry Dane Donahoo. In lieu of flowers donations can be made in his name and sent to P.O. Box 1967, Idyllwild, CA 92549.

Nursing home safety violations put residents at risk, report finds

BY BARBARA FEDER OSTROV
KAISER HEALTH NEWS

As huge swaths of California burned last fall, federal health officials descended on 20 California nursing homes to determine whether they were prepared to protect their vulnerable residents from fires, earthquakes and other disasters.

The results of their surprise inspections, which took place from September to December of 2018, were disturbing: Inspectors found hundreds of potentially life-threatening violations of safety and emergency requirements, including blocked emergency exit doors, unsafe use of power strips and extension cords, and inadequate fuel for emergency generators, according to a report (<https://oig.hhs.gov/oas/reports/region9/91802009.pdf>) released Thursday [earlier this month] by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of Inspector General.

The nursing home residents “were at increased risk of injury or death during a fire or other emergency,” the report concluded.

The threat is not theoretical in a state that has been ravaged by natural disasters: One of the nursing homes that was inspected burned down in a wildfire afterward, so the report only includes results for the 19 remaining facilities, which it does not identify.

“The fact that one of the nursing homes inspected was later destroyed by a wildfire speaks to the grave danger residents are facing today,” said Mike Connors of the advocacy group California Advocates for Nursing Home Reform. He called the findings alarming but not surprising.

Even though the report didn't name the nursing home that was destroyed, the California Association of Health Facilities, which represents most of the state's skilled nursing facilities, identified it as one that burned down in the November 2018 Camp Fire, the deadliest wildfire in the state's history (<https://www.washingtonpost.com/nation/2018/11/25/camp-fire-deadliest-wild-fire-californias-history-has-been-contained/>).

Craig Cornett, CEO and president of the association, said all the residents were evacuated safely from that home — and from two others destroyed (<https://www.mcknight.com/news/camp-fire-destroys-three-skilled-nursing-facilities/>) in the same fire. Hundreds of other

Beware of health insurance scams, especially when shopping online

BY TRUDY LIEBERMAN
COMMUNITY HEALTH NEWS SERVICE

If you're buying health insurance on your own this year, the marketplace is more complicated — and dangerous — than ever. Dangerous? How can that be? This is health insurance we're talking about, not some sketchy internet site.

But the reality is that the scam artists are out in full force, and anyone buying a policy by shopping online had better watch out. There's a high likelihood you could buy something that won't provide much coverage but will shortchange you mightily when you get sick.

Senate researchers found that when someone searches online for health insurance, it's hard to tell the difference between legitimate search results and paid advertising pushing junk insurance.

Pennsylvania Sen. Bob Casey, D-PA, who is the ranking minority member of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, just released a report that should be required reading before anyone buys health insurance this fall. The report's title, “Health Care Sabotage Online: A Warning to Consumers,” couldn't be clearer.

It reveals that individuals are bombarded by paid advertisements for health insurance meant to mislead and confuse unsuspecting shoppers. Those ads, the report points out, more often than not lead to what's called “junk” insurance.

What exactly is junk insurance?

Those are plans that can exclude coverage for preexisting conditions — meaning that only people with perfect or near-perfect health can buy such a policy. If they can, premiums are likely to be cheap, much cheaper than a policy that meets the requirements of the Affordable Care Act (ACA), also known as Obamacare. But they do not provide comprehensive coverage.

Because junk insurance has the potential for wiping out a family's finances, federal regulators issued rules in 2016 that said people could buy them only for three months. The policies were originally intended to help people moving between jobs that offer employee insurance.

Obamacare policies eliminated restrictions on preexisting conditions, meaning even those with very debilitating illnesses could now get insurance. That was a huge step forward in the evolution of U.S. health insurance.

But last year, the Trump administration allowed people to buy junk insurance offering one-year coverage and the option of renewing for up to three years and excluding coverage for preexisting conditions. That move effectively exposes buyers to more risk.

A premium that may be several hundred dollars a month cheaper and better fits the family budget is enticing. But if you get sick, there's not much coverage, and you or a family member may be responsible for thousands of dollars of medical bills you thought were covered.

Here's where more trouble comes in. Senate researchers found that when someone searches online for nursing homes also have responded to emergencies in the past three years without loss of life, he said, which shows that “the deficiencies in the report do not reflect true facility readiness.”

The association is concerned about safety violations, he added, but “this is an example of bureaucracy equipped with blinders.”

The federal auditors said the violations occurred because of poor oversight by management and high staff turnover at the homes. But they also criticized the California Department of Public Health, the agency responsible for overseeing nursing homes in the state, for not ensuring the homes complied with federal safety and emergency requirements.

In some cases, the state's own inspectors had previously cited nursing homes for the same problems, but did not inspect the facilities again to ensure they had been fixed, the report said.

The department “can reduce the risk of resident injury or death by improving its oversight,” the report said.

health insurance, it's hard to tell the difference between legitimate search results and paid advertising pushing junk insurance.

People searching for “health insurance” may stumble onto commercial sites instead of the actual government marketplace site. You might find a site that bills itself as HealthCare.org, a very similar address to HealthCare.gov, the official site for ACA policies.

For example, last summer one site billed itself as “HealthCare.org-Official Site | Health Insurance Marketplace” and presented 10 lines of advertising copy that listed brands such as Aetna, Cigna, and Kaiser and touted its “mobile-friendly process.”

Only at the very bottom of the site did a shopper get the real government website, HealthCare.gov, and notes that it is the official site of the Affordable Care Act. This is an important distinction to keep in mind.

Casey's report also found that many paid advertisements use language meant “to mislead individuals into thinking they are HealthCare.gov.” Several ads have descriptions using words like “Official Site,” “Open Enrollment,” and “Health Insurance Marketplace” that make people think they are at the actual government site, but in reality, they are not. Sometimes researchers found ads using the term “HealthCare.Gov” in the website title and descriptions even though the website has nothing to do with the government's official site.

Furthermore, Casey's researchers found some advertisers played on political persuasions to attract customers. They associated their products with Donald Trump, presumably hoping the name would help sell something the president promised would be a “better” alternative.

Researchers found that sellers used terms like “TrumpCare,” the “HealthCare.gov Alternative,” “2019 TrumpCare Health Plans,” and “The Non-Government Way to Get Best Health Insurance for the Lowest Cost!”

In the old days, state consumer and insurance regulators would try to prevent these kinds of ads. That's not done much these days. So once again, it's “Buyer Beware.” Consumers are on their own when it comes to policing this new insurance marketplace.

For example, it could “conduct more frequent site surveys at nursing homes to follow up on deficiencies previously cited rather than relying on reviews of documentation submitted by nursing homes.”

The public health department told the auditors it had followed up with the 19 remaining homes to ensure they were addressing the problems auditors identified. But the state disagreed with the auditors' recommendation to inspect nursing homes more frequently, saying in a letter to the auditors that federal rules don't require onsite visits to determine whether problems have been fixed — and that the agency simply does not have enough inspectors.

The department declined a California Healthline request for comment.

The Office of Inspector General is auditing nursing homes across the nation that receive payments from the public health insurance programs Medicare or Medicaid to determine whether the facilities meet the stricter

TOWN TALK

What draws you to visit Idyllwild?

By Jenny Kirchner

M Limon-Burbaj, Riverside
 Profession: Professor
 Response: "I fell in love. I love the closeness to nature and a lot of people up here come for that same reason. I love the people, kindness and dogs. All I see is friendliness everywhere."

Jennifer Torres, Carlsbad
 Profession: Family therapist
 Response: "Being originally from the northeast, we appreciate the feeling of fall and winter, and the independent local businesses. We also love the [Idyllwild] Nature Center. We appreciate the drive into town with the vast views. It's amazing."

Gabriel Torres, New York City, NY
 Grade 8
 Response: "Pretty much everything — the plant life, wildlife and the scenery."

John Bonnett and "Trinity," Los Osos
 Profession: Software developer
 Response: "My family has had a cabin in Pine Wood since 1954. The Town Crier because it's a newspaper you can read that's a break from national politics."

Roads

that chains are required on all vehicles except four-wheel-drive or all-wheel drive vehicles with snow tires on all four wheels.

In the worst-case scenario, R-3 requires a tire traction device on all vehicles including those with all-wheel or four-wheel-drive.

In most cases, roads are closed before R-3 is put into place due to safety concerns, according to Napier.

For all requirement levels — R1 through R3 — a tire traction device is required to be carried in all vehicles. No exceptions.

Road conditions and requirements can be determined by the signage on the roadway. Drive safely and be prepared this winter.

Riverside County seeks volunteers for 2020 homeless count

BY COUNTY OF RIVERSIDE CONTRIBUTED

Volunteers are encouraged to sign up now for the 2020 Point in Time Count, an annual survey of homeless adults and youth in cities and unincorporated communities across Riverside County.

More than 700 volunteers are needed for the 2020 count, which is scheduled for Jan. 29 through Jan 31. At that time, volunteers from nonprofits, churches and other groups will fan out across Riverside County's 7,300 square-mile landscape. Organizers say widespread participation from those who know their communities is essential to obtaining an accurate count.

"Homelessness is not an issue any one group or community can solve on their own," says Natalie Profant Komuro, deputy county executive officer. "We have to work together to get the most accurate count possible, which helps determine where we put those much-needed dollars and services to help our homeless neighbors get back on their feet."

Some volunteers will count homeless adults during a single-day event while others will count homeless youth under age 24 over three days. Those experienced with homeless youth say it can be difficult to readily identify young people who are living on the streets.

"They can initially appear similar to young people who have a safe, permanent place to rest their heads at night," said Luis Lopez, coordinator for the 2020 Point in Time Youth Count. Lopez believes homeless youth in Riverside County are an undercounted population.

The holidays are upon us friends and you know what that means? You will not stop "going" until the new year.

Of course, there are some elements of the holidays that make it all a little more bearable. I mean, who doesn't love a day where the overconsumption of booze and mashed potatoes is encouraged, right?

And even better, there's lights and glitter everywhere!

I'm not ashamed to say I raccoon-level love shiny things, so I am all about this bit of the season.

The hardest part is how thin we stretch ourselves by adding another thing to an already stacked calendar. It all gets so overwhelming. I reached rearrange-furniture-level crazy the other day and had to do some serious reevaluating. This led to a pretty wonderful revelation.

I am not going to say yes to every holiday party, cookie

There will come a year my boys won't light up when they see the first house with lights on or conspire to try to stay up late enough to see Santa.

decorating event or whatever other Pinterest-fueled thing one of my mom's friends swears would be "fun for the kids."

However, I am going to say yes to as many as I can because these years with my little boys are quickly fleeting.

There will come a year my boys won't light up when they see the first house with lights on or conspire to try to stay up late enough to see Santa. There will come a year they may do Christmas at their in-laws and I will be home without them wishing for one more year of the craziness of the holidays.

So just breathe mamas. Don't say yes to it all. Just say yes to seeing the magic of this time of year through their eyes. You'll find that decorating those cookies and laughing at the disaster of a gingerbread house you create is worth the little extra dose of insanity.

After-school care at Town Hall

Idyllwild Community Center (ICC) is offering affordable afternoon programs Monday through Friday for kids ages 4 to 12 years old at Town Hall. Session 1 is from noon-3 p.m. and session 2 is from 3-6 p.m. Kids can attend either or both sessions. Drop-off and pick-up times are flexible. Transportation from Idyllwild School to Town Hall is included. The programs offer fun and educational activities, including access to ABCmouse and Reading IQ. ICC is a certified Inspire vendor.

Confidential teen crisis line

A California Youth Crisis Line is available toll-free 24/7 to assist youth, teens and their families in crisis or in a time of need.

Calls are confidential and trained staff can provide appropriate referrals to assist with issues such as family problems, relationship violence, runaway, homelessness, depression, teen pregnancy, substance abuse, suicide and more. The crisis line is 1-800-843-5200.

Winter prescribed burning projects announced

BY SAN BERNARDINO NATIONAL FOREST CONTRIBUTED

With the first significant winter storm of the season this past Wednesday, officials with San Bernardino National Forest are preparing to implement prescribed burning projects across the forest in both the San Bernardino and San Jacinto mountain ranges.

The first project is slated for Friday, Nov. 22, at Heaps Peak Helibase, which is located on Highway 18 between Lake Arrowhead and Running Springs. Three hundred sixty piles — culled from approximately 36 acres of fuel reduction around the facility — are targeted if weather conditions remain safe and productive for pile burning.

Then on Monday, Nov. 25, fire crews plan to begin burning piles from 443 acres of brush clearance on the south and southwest areas of Big Bear in three locations: to the south of the Sugarloaf neighborhood, in the Moonridge neighborhood along Forest Road 2N27 (Sand Canyon Rd.) and adjacent to the Moonridge neighborhood between Bear Mountain and Snow Summit ski areas. The project, which may last more than one day, will also only move forward if weather conditions remain safe and productive. It will be postponed if not.

As the winter season continues, other large projects include:

- Angelus Oaks: 96 acres worth of pile and broadcast burning will occur to create defensible space around the community along Highway 38.
- Bluff Mesa Meadow: This 589-acre meadow and surrounding area restoration project, south of Big Bear Lake, has already received hand treatment work and is slated for a broadcast burn.
- Baldwin Lake: 1,141 acres of piles created by ongoing contract work to increase and maintain defensible space around homes and road systems are targeted for burning.
- City Creek Road (1N09): 32 acres of pile and broadcast burning near Highway 330.
- Pine Cove: This 189-acre broadcast burn will maintain the Pine Cove Fuel Break around the community of Pine Cove, north of Idyllwild. The nearby Westridge Fuel Break helped firefighters stop the 2018 Cranston Fire along Idyllwild's southern edge.
- South Big Bear: In addition to the 443 acres mentioned above, more acreage for broadcast burning may be added later in the season. The public will be notified in advance.

• Thomas Mountain: A broadcast burn that continues prior efforts for ecological restoration and community defense within Garner Valley. This operation on 1,097 acres of land, with burning targeted for 30-70% of it, will include the use of helicopter ignition for firefighter safety and effectiveness.

In addition to these large projects, pile burning may occur over the season at several U.S. Forest Service fire stations, visitor centers, recreational areas and communication tower sites. Crews will also be out performing mechanical and hand thinning of other areas, which is the first step toward conditions safe for prescribed burning. Before burns, forest staff will notify the public and media via social media and news advisories.

The ignition of all prescribed burns is dependent on several environmental conditions (e.g. wind, humidity, temperature, etc.), availability of fire personnel and equipment. The projects are conducted in coordination with the National Weather Service and South Coast Air Quality Management District (SCAQMD) in order to manage smoke production and minimize impacts as much as possible.

Prescribed burning is an active forest management activity that helps restore ecological functions to the forest. Fire has a natural role in coniferous regions of San Bernardino National Forest. Caused naturally by lightning, fire has long maintained the health of forests, clearing brush on the forest floor and releasing seeds from pine cones, among other natural processes.

E. coli and romaine lettuce from Salinas recalled

By U.S. FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION
CONTRIBUTED

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), and state health authorities are investigating an outbreak of illnesses caused by E. coli O157:H7 in the United States. Epidemiologic, laboratory, and traceback evidence indicates that romaine lettuce from the Salinas, California growing region is a likely source of this outbreak.

Consumers: Consumers should not eat romaine lettuce harvested from Salinas, California. Additionally, consumers should not eat products identified in the recall announced by the USDA on Nov. 21, 2019.

Romaine lettuce may be voluntarily labeled with a harvest region. If romaine lettuce has "Salinas" on the label in any form (whether alone or with the name of another location) do not eat it. Throw it away or return it to the place of purchase. If romaine lettuce does not have information about harvest region or does not indicate that it has been grown indoors (i.e., hydroponically- and greenhouse-grown), throw it away or return it to the place of purchase. Consumers ordering salad containing romaine at a restaurant or at a salad bar should ask the staff whether the romaine came from Salinas. If it did, or they do not know, do not eat it.

At this time, romaine lettuce that was harvested outside of the Salinas region has not been implicated in this outbreak investigation. Hydroponically- and greenhouse-grown romaine, which is voluntarily labeled as "indoor grown," from any region does not appear to be related to the current outbreak. There is no recommendation for consumers to avoid using romaine harvested from these other sources.

Restaurants and Retailers: Restaurants and retailers should not serve or sell romaine harvested from Salinas, California. If you do not know the source of your romaine lettuce, and if you cannot obtain that information from your supplier, you should not serve, nor sell it.

Suppliers and Distributors: Suppliers, distributors and others in the supply chain should not ship or sell romaine harvested in Salinas, California. If the source of the romaine lettuce is unknown, you should not ship, nor sell the product.

For Restaurants, Retailers, Suppliers and Distributors: Currently, the FDA does not have enough traceback information to identify the specific source of the contamination that would allow us to request a targeted recall from specific growers. At this stage in the investigation, the most efficient way to ensure that contaminated romaine is off the market would be for the industry to voluntarily withdraw product grown in Salinas, and to withhold distribution of Salinas romaine for the remainder of the growing season in Salinas. FDA has made this request of industry.

At this time, romaine lettuce that was harvested outside of the Salinas region has not been implicated in this outbreak investigation. Hydroponically- and greenhouse-grown romaine, which is voluntarily labeled as "indoor grown," from any region does not appear to be related to the current outbreak. There is no recommendation for consumers or retailers to avoid using romaine harvested from these other sources.

Background

According to the CDC, as of Nov. 21, 40 people infected with the outbreak strain of E. coli O157:H7 have been reported from 16 states. The case patients report that illnesses started on dates ranging from Sept. 24, 2019 to Nov. 10, 2019.

The Maryland Department of Health identified E. coli O157:H7 in an unopened package of Ready Pac Bistro® Chicken Caesar Salad collected from an ill person's home in Maryland. Analysis of this salad, through Whole Genome Sequencing (WGS), has linked strain E. coli O157:H7 to three Maryland cases and the multi-state outbreak.

The FDA and state partners are conducting a traceback investigation to trace romaine exposures to the source. Preliminary information indicates that ill people in Maryland were exposed to romaine lettuce harvested in Salinas, California.

FDA is deploying investigators to the farms in question to try to determine the source and extent of the contamination. More information will be forthcoming as the investigation proceeds.

Additionally, state partners are conducting laboratory analyses of romaine lettuce samples from case-patients potentially linked to the outbreak.

Genetic analysis of the E. coli O157:H7 strains from patients in this current outbreak are similar to strains of E. coli O157:H7 associated with a previous outbreak from the Fall of 2017 and the Fall of 2018 that affected consumers in both Canada and the U.S. The 2017 outbreak of E. coli O157:H7 was associated with leafy greens in the U.S. and romaine in Canada. The 2018 outbreak of E. coli O157:H7 was associated with romaine in both countries.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF BRUCE A. POSNER

Case No. PR111901306

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of BRUCE A. POSNER

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Judson C. Posner and Ryan K. Posner in the Superior Court of California, County of RIVERSIDE.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Judson C. Posner and Ryan K. Posner be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's last will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. Copies of the last will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 16, 2019 at 8:45 AM in Dept. No. P53 located at 3255 E. Tahquitz Cyn Way, PALM SPRINGS, CA 92262.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

As part of the process, RivCoParks has demonstrated compliance with 151 recognized standards and shown documentation for all required pol-an accredited agency, we work hard to constantly review our policies and operations to ensure we are meeting the highest national standards. We track and report our accomplishments in an annual report to demonstrate our on-going compliance and must go through the full re-accreditation process every five years. It's tough work, but it's worth it to ensure we are doing our very best for the people we serve."

This mark of distinction indicates that an agency has met rigorous standards related to the management and administration of lands, facilities, resources, programs, safety and services.

"The true work to achieve accreditation and be in compliance is done every day by RivCoParks staff and volunteers," Bangle added. "Without each and every person working together within policy and delivering the programs and services we say we do, we could not have achieved this prestigious recognition."

Recreation and Park Association (NPRA) and the Commission for Accreditation of Park and Recreation Agencies (CAPRA) have once again recognized our commitment to providing quality programs and services for all to enjoy. This is the only national accreditation for park and recreation agencies and is a measure of agencies and procedures. A CAPRA evaluation team personally visited a number of RivCoParks sites and reviewed the accuracy of our written documentation through demonstrated actions and physical operations. RivCoParks met all 151 standards.

who can really connect with kids and teens to help them open up about their experiences with homelessness," Lopez says. "Having a better sense of the scope of youth homelessness can help us get the funding needed to house this vulnerable population."

The Department of Housing and Urban Development requires communities that receive funding — including Riverside County — to perform the count. The funds provide support and services — including housing — to help end homelessness.

The 2019 count identified a total of 2,811 sheltered and unsheltered homeless adults and children countywide, a 21% increase from the 2018 count. The data helps track progress in the effort to end homelessness.

Training is required prior to the count. Volunteers must also have a smartphone or tablet to conduct the survey, be able to walk up to two hours and must be 18 years or older. Volunteers ages 16-17 must be accompanied by an adult. The Point in Time Count is scheduled for eral safety and emergency guidelines that were adopted in 2016. The auditors did not choose the 20 nursing homes randomly out of the approximately 1,200 statewide, but rather selected those in fire- and earthquake-prone regions, as well as ones already on notice for health and safety violations.

The inspectors found a total of 325 violations at the 19 homes. Among them:

- Two of the homes had pathways leading to emergency exit doors that were blocked, including one exit door blocked by a pallet.
- 16 had violations related to their fire alarm and sprinkler systems, including two that didn't have their fire alarm systems routinely tested and maintained.
- All had violations related to electrical equipment, including using power strips that did not meet requirements or were unsafely connected to appliances or other power strips.
- Eight had not properly inspected, tested and maintained their emergency generators, which provide electricity for critical medical equipment during a power outage. Two didn't have enough generator fuel to last 96 hours. Generator power has become critical for nursing homes in recent months amid widespread power shutdowns (<https://californiahealthline.org/news/california-hospitals-and-nursing-homes-brace-for-wildfire-blackouts/>) aimed at preventing wildfires.

• Three nursing homes' emergency plans didn't address evacuations.

"We don't want reports like this," said state Sen. John Moorlach (R-Costa Mesa). "It sounds like maybe we need to ask the state auditor to see if the site visits done by the state are being done thoroughly."

children along for the ride, check that they are secure in the back seat in the appropriate child safety seat."

Not wearing a seat belt can be a fatal decision in a collision. According to the CHP's MEP data, 59 people were killed in collisions in California during the 2018 Thanksgiving holiday weekend.

Among the 42 vehicle occupants killed in collisions within CHP jurisdiction, 43% of those, or 18 people, were not wearing a seat belt. Research continues to show that wearing a seat belt is one of the simplest things people can do to stay safe when traveling in a vehicle.

Another way to help keep the roadways safe during the holidays is to designate a sober driver. During last Thanksgiving's 102-hour MEP, CHP officers made 931 arrests for driving under the influence. The mission of the CHP is to provide the highest level of safety, service and security.

Prescribed burn

Aggressive firefighting and development within the forest over the past century have allowed fuels to unnaturally build up. That means an overabundance of flammable brush, which can enable wildfire in quickly spreading into the canopy and toward communities and infrastructure. Thinning forested areas helps protect such areas.

Forest officials, however, highly encourage residents and business owners to also do their part by creating defensible space around their structures, hardening those structures and planting native, fire-resistant landscaping. Cal Fire has tips for all these steps at ReadyForWildfire.org.

Farmers Market moving indoors at Town Hall

BY STEPHANIE YOST
IDYLLWILD COMMUNITY CENTER BOARD PRESIDENT

Although temperatures are dropping and the first snow has arrived, the Farmers Market will remain open. It is moving indoors at Town Hall beginning Sunday, Dec. 1. Market hours will be the same as they have been, 9 a.m.-2 p.m. every Sunday.

Both the vendors and the local "regulars" are excited about the plan. In the past, once Idyllwild's weather became too chilly, the Farmers Market left the Hill for several months. Now that the Farmers Market is located at Town Hall, it can operate year-round.

Unless the roads into town are significantly impacted by snow or construction, count on the Farmers Market as a reliable weekly community event.

"Now there's no excuse for anyone in our community to miss the Farmers Market. This is a great benefit to the Hill and definitely to the HELP Center, which has a booth every week," said Idyllwild HELP Center Thrift Store Manager Julia Ledesma.

Vendor participation can vary a bit from week to week. Typically visitors to the market will find locally-grown fresh fruits and vegetables, organic honey, eggs, avocados, fresh juices, a pop-up booth from the HELP Center Thrift Store, as well as handmade wooden cutting boards, spoons, unique jewelry, handmade soaps and lotions, handmade knitted and crocheted gifts and baby items. Sometimes, live music is provided by various local musicians.

Unless the roads into town are significantly impacted by snow or construction, count on the Farmers Market as a reliable weekly community event.

Super-busy, but not too busy for the community

BY IDYLLWILD ARTS ACADEMY CONTRIBUTED

"Even though I'm super-busy, I had to do this one," Brooke Manning says. "It's too important not to do."

The Idyllwild Arts Academy twelfth-grade dance major will give the Friday night, Dec. 13 IDYTalk at the Idyllwild Town Gallery. Manning was talking about her role in the academy's Environmental Club, of which she is co-president.

She explains that the Environmental Club's commitment to global thinking and local action this school year will involve "beach and trail clean-ups and tree plantings, and also planning for our campus celebration of Earth Day," next April, among other activities.

In pursuit of the Environmental Club's goals, Manning will also play a big part in the upcoming Idyllwild Arts Symposium on Sustainability (in late February), organized by the Art in Society program.

Even though Manning considers choreography "a hobby" and admits that she likes dancing more, she is working with the academy's visionary dance instructor, Stephanie Gilliland, on choreography for the symposium. Academy dance students will perform Manning and Gilliland's choreography to music played by guest artists from South Dakota's Lakota Music Project.

Finally, her engagement with the Idyllwild community takes the additional form of teaching in the academy's children's dance program "ages three and four for ballet and six to nine for modern."

As for the rest of what makes Manning super-busy, there is of course her commitment to her own dancing, as well as to what many high-school seniors regard as the "extra class" of researching, visiting, and applying to colleges.

She just kept going

Manning is from the unincorporated Lake Arrowhead community, two hours northwest of Idyllwild.

"That's where I started dancing when I was three," she recalls. "It was at the Lake Arrowhead School of Dance, which runs the Lake Arrowhead Classical Ballet Company. Tons of little girls start ballet lessons when they're three or four. They have fun doing it for a few years, but by middle school, most of them start finding other things they're interested in."

"Like sports," Manning says as she shrugs.

"One day I looked around and saw that all the other girls I'd started with had quit," said Manning. "This was in middle school, or maybe high school. The practice had become intense, but I just kept going."

Lake Arrowhead School of Dance had done a lot for her. Twelve years of lessons had prepared her for even more intense training, so after ninth grade, she transferred to Idyllwild Arts Academy.

The academy dance department chaired by Ellen Rosa-Taylor requires comprehensive modern dance and jazz dance training in addition to ballet. Manning soon made a discovery that is common — though far from unanimous — among those students of Rosa-Taylor's who come to the academy with

California state parks reach milestone in K-12 digital access

By CALIFORNIA STATE PARKS
CONTRIBUTED

California State Parks is proud to announce it has connected more than 500,000 students to state parks via virtual field trips since 2004. The grassroots program known as Parks Online Resources for Teachers and Students (PORTS®) engages underserved students by creating equitable digital access to state parks at no cost to schools, teachers or students.

Since 2004, this innovative distance-learning program has provided live interactive video-conference sessions to expand learning beyond the classroom walls. Kindergarten through twelfth-grade students from California and around the world connect with live interpretive staff and learn academic content standards within the context of California's dynamic State Park System.

From the mountains, deserts and beach parks, to urban parks and historic sites, students have real-world experiences with California's natural and cultural resources while interacting with a park expert in real-time.

"For many of these students, it is the first time getting a glimpse of the giant redwoods or touring a gold rush ghost town. Our virtual field trips are intended to give students that have limited access to our parks the opportunity to engage with our expert staff and help deepen the learning experience within, and beyond the classroom environment," said California State Parks Director Lisa Mangat. "By doing so, California State Parks is also helping to empower a community of global citizens that will inherit the responsibility of protecting our open spaces and culturally significant places. It is a tremendous effort by our partners and interpretive staff who coordinate with educators to showcase what our unique state parks offer."

PORTS presentations are individually delivered from one of 20 different California state parks to one classroom at a time providing personalized learning experiences every session. Over 16,000 live videoconference sessions have been presented to students in the past 15 years.

Educators that employ the PORTS Program are creating an online community of park supporters. Educators surveyed recently gave the program the highest marks for satisfaction and expressed that the resource is an important way to provide real-world examples of natural and cultural resource concepts for students. This level of success and satisfaction has created a dedicated user base of teachers that return year after year to connect their students to California's state parks.

With the constant onboarding of instructional technologies in the classroom, the number of students provided digital access to parks continues to grow every year. To ensure that resources are provided at no charge to schools, the PORTS Program has created a number of partnerships with nonprofits and private industry organizations that focus on services and resources for K-12 education. Save the Redwoods League, Microsoft Education, Google Expeditions, Smithsonian Learning Lab, Flipgrid and Zoom Video Communications all play a role in providing PORTS products and services. This month, PORTS was announced as the recipient of Zoom Video Communications Environmental Impact Award for their work in K-12 education and public outreach pertaining to global environmental issues.

To learn how your school, classroom or organization can participate, visit the PORTS website and/or follow the program on social media: Facebook, Twitter, Instagram and YouTube.

a ballet-dominated background.

"I still like being in ballets, but contemporary dance is my favorite because it's more freeing," admitted Manning.

She has become accomplished enough to become a professional dancer, even though she knows it's very competitive.

Not surprisingly, she "would prefer contemporary or commercial dance, including hip hop and the kind of dancing you see in music videos."

Before her career, however, will come college. She's looking at several of the University of California campuses, especially the ones in San Diego, Santa Barbara, and Irvine. California State University, Long Beach is another possibility.

Despite Manning's love of dance she foresees "most likely a minor in dance, and majoring in something like marketing, which interests me a lot."

A stronger candidate for her college major seems to be Environmental Studies.

CREATURE CORNER

By JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," the cats shared their stories of how they came to ARF.

Terra: Let's have a pre-Thanksgiving meeting.
Tillie: We are all here, including our three kittens.
Mr. Gray: Three kittens? I thought we had five.
Terra: Albany and Anita found their forever homes last weekend.
Zeus: That is wonderful! So now, there's three babies and all of us adults.
Tilly: The three kittens have something they'd like to share with us.
Agatha: I'll speak for us kittens. We have written a poem!
Sadie: Wow! A kitten poem?
Agatha: Yep. The three of us worked very hard on it. Here it goes ...
 I'm a little pumpkin,
 Not the kind you eat.
 I'll steal your heart
 And love you lots
 Right from when we meet.
 Take me home
 And celebrate,
 A kitty for you all.
 Lots of love
 And purring too,
 Even though I'm small.

So You Think You Know the Hill?

By JACK CLARK
CONTEST JUDGE

Last week's photo was harder to identify than I thought it would be. It was of a lamb painted in the front window of ... where else ... Wooley's on North Circle Drive in downtown.

As far as I know, I only received three entries from veteran-player Rochelle Ainsworth, Bon Donovan and newcomer Jane Ellen M. Woodard. (If you really did enter and I find that I missed it, remember that you can let me know and I will add you as an entrant to the next contest you do not otherwise enter.)

So, drumroll time ... and ... Bon wins this week! Please come to the Town Crier office to receive your prize.

Please remember to thank Red Kettle restaurant and Higher Grounds Coffee House for sponsoring our contest by generously providing a gift certificate to the winner each week.

OK, so now have a look at this week's photo.
 One entry per household. Contest deadline: Monday noon. Not a race — correct entries go into a hat for a drawing. Full contest rules and guidelines available at the Town Crier office. Email entries to jack@towncrier.com.

Maze Craze

Can you find your way through the maze?

Roses are red,
 Violets are blue.
 Y'all need a cat,
 And that means you!
 Zeus: Or how about ...
 Roses are red.
 Violets are blue.
 I want family
 Now!
Tilly: Good grief. I think that is enough poetry for the day! I suggest we let our sparkling personalities speak for themselves.
Bear: Maybe we will find a great reason to be thankful this holiday season.
Heavenly Whiskers: A warm home and a loving family will give us all what we need to be super thankful.
 Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of Our Nine Lives" each week. Please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Highway 243 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturdays and from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. on Sundays, or by appointment Monday-Friday by calling 951-659-1122.

HOROSCOPES
November 2019 — Week 4

March 21 - April 19
There could be an unexpected change in plans for your upcoming holiday travels. But keep in mind that a little flexibility goes a long way in resolving any disappointments.

April 20 - May 20
A new relationship might not be responding quite as quickly as you'd hoped. Could you be expecting too much too soon? Try to ease up and let things happen at their own pace.

May 21 - June 21
As we approach the frenetic pace of pre-holiday planning, take time out now to reconnect with the wonderful people who share your life, especially the one who also shares your dreams.

June 22 - July 22
A misunderstanding should be resolved before you get caught up in the flurry of holiday preparations. Set your pride aside and deal with it, regardless of who might have hurt whom first.

July 23 - August 22
Being told that a colleague might have been trying to undercut your effectiveness might or might not be true. Get all the facts before you even think about acting on this so-called information.

August 23 - September 22
It's a good idea to start your holiday preparation plans early in order to avoid a time crunch if an unresolved workplace situation causes a problem. That old friend might have some welcome news.

September 23 - October 22
A family member's actions continue to surprise you, but this time with positive results. Could be your wise counsel finally got through. It's like having an early holiday gift, isn't it?

October 23 - November 21
Your reluctance to act in a current situation could be traced to your inner self advising you to take more time to study its complexities before you attempt to deal with it. Good luck.

November 22 - December 21
Soothing hurt feelings before they can ignite an angry outburst is the wise thing to do. And, of course, when it comes to doing the "wisdom thing," you do it so well.

December 22 - January 19
Budget your time so that you can handle both your workplace duties and your personal holiday planning -- including travel arrangements -- without burning out on either end.

January 20 - February 18
You might find that you still need to firm up one or two of those still-outstanding decisions so that you finally can move forward as you had planned. Weigh the facts, then act.

February 19 - March 20
ou usually don't carry grudges, but you might feel this is one time when you're justified in doing so. But aren't you spending too much energy holding onto it? Let it go and move on.

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS

California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: "Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentations to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor."

This is a contractor's responsibility, not a newspaper's, and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors' advertising, if we notice it.

70 years ago - 1949
Chuck and Mary Roberts' dog, Red, was a hero. His persistent barking at 2 a.m. alerted Chuck that the Cedars Cafe was ablaze. Chuck turned on the alarm. Bunny Brown, on the switchboard, called Bill Price and the firefighters.

65 years ago - 1954
Forest Service Ranger John Gilman announced that Christmas trees could not be cut in the San Jacinto district that season, stating that they were "much more valuable as watershed and scenic assets than they would be as holiday decorations."

60 years ago - 1959
Golfers were testing the new Tahquitz Lake Golf Course on the site known as Dutch Flat.

55 years ago - 1964
Idyllwild School fourth-through eighth-graders watched with interest as TV sets were installed in their classrooms.

50 years ago - 1969
The 500,000th volume added to the library of the University of California, Riverside was "The Cahuilla Indians," by Harry James, Town Crier contributor and resident of the San Jacinto Mountains.

45 years ago - 1974

Fern Valley Water District purchased a 1.4 million-gallon storage tank, increasing the district's storage capacity 50%.

40 years ago - 1979

Under the direction of Robert Holmes, the third-annual performance of Handel's "Messiah" was being rehearsed. A 190-member group, consisting of Idyllwild Community Chorale members and alumni of the ISOMATA (now Idyllwild Arts Academy) Festival Choir and Orchestra were scheduled to present two performances of the famous oratorio.

35 years ago - 1984

An agreement for a 10.3% pay raise was finally reached between the Hemet Teachers Association and the Hemet Unified School District.

30 years ago - 1989

Artist Jonathan LaBenne spent long days carving so he could finish the new tree monument in time for its unveiling before the annual Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony.

25 years ago - 1994

Idyllwild Fire Department Capt. Terry Nelson and paramedic Alan Lott were credited with saving the life of a 7-week-old infant visiting Idyllwild with his parents.

20 years ago - 1999

U.S. Forest Service (USFS) Soil Scientist Randy Davis and a crew of Hotshots and other USFS engine crews were rehabbing the thousands of acres burned in August's Mixing Fire. They were trying to prevent mudslides from occurring during the approaching rainy season.

15 years ago - 2004
Idyllwild Inn celebrated its 100th anniversary.

10 years ago - 2009

Capt. John Pingel, Riverside County Sheriff's Department Hemet station commander, said the station's Special Investigation Bureau conducted 16 operations from January through October 2009 that netted a marijuana haul of 77,242 plants in the Idyllwild area with street value in excess of $200 million.

5 years ago - 2014

Idyllwild Skate Park, which opened in 2004, was closed until further notice. Sufficient funds were needed to complete a full rehabilitation of all ramp surfaces.

1 year ago - 2018

In a pre-holiday meeting, the directors of the Idyllwild Water District addressed several major issues. During the regular portion of the meeting, they adopted a water shortage contingency plan, took a position on the district's role serving the Idyllwild Community Center, tabled the issue of rebates for water filters and intensified the search for a new general manager.

Food

to pick up produce, dry goods, ice cream, cottage cheese, bread and other quality food. According to their website, The Western Eagle Foundation is Southern California's largest food bank distribution center, providing expertise in collecting and distributing food and clothing to over 60 Southern California cities. Through a network of more than 500 donors, Western Eagle collects dried and canned foods, as well as fresh produce and dairy products.

"The food is top of the line. I would say it's well over $100 worth of food for each family," Sharman told the Town Crier. "It helps everyone who comes through. People have voiced that they rely on that to keep their cupboards full."

There was a rumor that Calvary Chapel Mountain Center was being charged to pick up and deliver the food, but it was only a rumor. Sharman said: "It's been free for us and free for those receiving it. All are welcome to come down with no questions asked."

If you are in need of food every week — or maybe only once a month — The Food Ministry is there to help you.
