Community mental health series coming Sept. 10

By DAVID JEROME
CORRESPONDENT

The Idyllwild Forest Health Project (IFHP) and its Mountain Communities Mutual Aid (MCMA) organization, working with local therapist Robyn Winks, will be bringing a roster of local mental health professionals to Town Hall for a series of six Saturday morning adult workshops to "help community members gain healthy, updated coping skills and practices to thrive during challenging times." The workshops will run from Sept. 10 to Oct. 15.

IFHP is a local nonprofit that views the health of the forest and the well-being of mountain residents as interconnected. At the start of the pandemic, the organization launched MCMA to address local food insecurity and other basic needs facing the community. "We view the polarization that has gripped the country as symptomatic of deeper systemic issues," commented founding board member Mark Yargas. "It's easy to lose sight of our common ground. We're exploring practices that bridge divides and connect folks with one another and the environment."

Board member Mara Schoner added, "We hope the mental hygiene series will help local residents develop greater trust and capacity to listen to one another. This will go a long way in addressing the complex challenges facing our mountain communities."

Organizer Winks is a practicing marriage and family therapist (LMFT) working in Idyllwild and Palm Desert. In addition to private practice, her career experience includes a stint as director of Inpatient Services at the Betty Ford Center in Rancho Mirage, where she also conducted workshops. Her practice melds neuroscience and family systems theory with mindfulness techniques like meditation.

The emphasis of the workshop series will be on the connection between individual mental health and the health of the community, not treating illness but "mental and emotional skill building for individual and community resilience." Winks calls the program "... a community service being offered by MCMA and Idyllwild Forest Health Project." This year's six weeks of Saturday workshops builds on an eight-week program she facilitated at Rainbow Inn in 2008. "We got together and realized that the health of any community is dependent on the health of the individuals. As a mental health provider on the mountain for 22 years, I see the need. People are in distress, because of the pandemic, isolation, economic changes, political strife and basic uncertainty. Instead of trying to treat one person at a time, we are getting people together in a community environment to talk about tools for mental hygiene."

"Mental hygiene" is not a new concept. At the end of the 19th century, doctors began to use the phrase to denote the connection between individual and community health. The early public health-minded physicians envisioned community institutions organized to meet the needs of people and foster mental health; community responses to recognize community needs. Modern use continues this interest in social structures, but also emphasizes personal psychological self-awareness.

Winks said, "We take care of our basic hygiene; we brush our teeth, we take a shower, but we forget about taking care of our minds, knowing our thoughts and feelings and being able to work with them and see when they are causing us pain, and working with it instead of being at its mercy. Because of years of brain research, we have very specific knowledge and tools that can help us build resilience."

The workshops at Town Hall will have one exception, the Sept. 24 session, which will be at the Butterfield Amphitheater. Each week will deal with different issues, and the organizers hope participants will attend all six.

The first workshop, Sept. 10, and conducted by Winks herself, will be longer and will cover four topics: "Taming the 'Fight, Flight, Freeze or Fawn' Response: Gaining Tools to Manage Overwhelming Stress, Emotions and Defensiveness"; "Understanding Early Trauma and Its Effects on How We Experience Our Current Life Circumstances"; "Intimacy Training and Increasing Our Capacity for Self-Knowledge, Self-Acceptance and Self-Compassion"; and "The Journey to a Sense of Belonging."

The Sept. 17 program, with Nancy Waite-O'Brien, Ph.D., SEP, is titled "A Look at Common Assumptions That Can Make Us Unhappy: Exploring Ways to Manage Uncomfortable Feelings."

Supervisors ratify Monkeypox emergency

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

At a special meeting Monday, Aug. 15, the Riverside County Board of Supervisors unanimously ratified the public emergency for Monkeypox.

The previous Monday, Aug. 8, Riverside County Public Health Officer Geoffrey Leung proclaimed a public health emergency. While the number of Monkeypox cases in Riverside County was not widely spreading, he was concerned that the number of cases was growing rapidly. Consequently, he felt the announcement of a local public health emergency would bring greater public attention to the imminent threat.

"We have seen the devastating physical effects of Monkeypox on those who have been infected, as well as the emotional toll on partners, family and loved ones," said Leung said in the press release announcing his proclamation. "Now is the time for Public Health, our community partners and local leadership to reinforce our commitment to work together to slow and eventually stop the spread of this virus."

The board had a week to ratify this proclamation. Federal, state and many other local California jurisdictions had already proclaimed that Monkeypox was a public health emergency. As of Aug. 25, the number of confirmed or probable cases in Riverside County was 164, the fourth greatest total number of cases in California.

The first identified case in Riverside County was June 20. On July 21, about a month later, the number of identified cases was 25. Eight days later, on July 29, the number of cases doubled to 50. By Aug. 5, 51 cases were confirmed in the county. When Leung proclaimed the emergency, the number of cases had risen to 59. In the week until the supervisors ratified the emergency, another 28 cases were confirmed. During the next week, cases grew to 128, including two women.

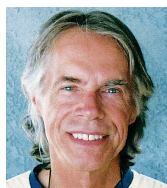

One of the first questions posed to the health officials was how Monkeypox compares to COVID. Supervisor Karen Spiegel (2nd District) said, "This is alarming our residents. It's another emergency! Please explain ... how they are different?"

"Monkeypox has a different mode of transmission; it's through close contact," replied Leung. "It requires direct skin-to-skin contact. There are some documented cases that shared household items, like towels, can transmit."

"But passing someone in the grocery store or on the street, who might have Monkeypox, would not result in some getting the infection," he stressed.

Monkeypox

“While it’s good to stay alert about any emerging public health outbreaks, the current risk of MPX [Monkeypox] for the general public is low.”

Also, Kim Saruwatari, county director of Public Health, stressed that Monkeypox “... passed primarily through men having sex with men,” although Riverside County does have two cases of women with Monkeypox.

More than 95% of the reported cases to CDPH are men. As of Aug. 26, CDPH reported nearly 3,400 Monkeypox cases. More than a third were in Los Angeles County. San Francisco and San Diego counties followed. Nearly two-thirds of the state cases were identified in these three counties.

Fourth District Supervisor V. Manuel Perez expressed his concerns about the high number of infections in Palm Springs and western Coachella Valley. He wants to increase the population’s awareness of the availability of vaccines.

Saruwatari agreed that Palm Springs was a high priority area for vaccine distribution, especially because it is the focus of sex tourism. She worries that visitors may bring the infection, or get infected here and take it home. Currently, Riverside County has 1,750 vaccines.

Information on locations for Monkeypox tests and for vaccine sites is in the adjacent box. These also are available on the county’s Public Health site at www.rivcoph.org/mpx/Get-Tested. For vaccine sites, visit www.rivcoph.org/mpx/Vaccine-Locations.

Monkeypox is a rare disease caused by infection with the monkeypox virus, similar to the smallpox virus. Although similar to smallpox, Monkeypox is less transmissible and usually less severe than smallpox, according to the CDPH.

Symptoms of Monkeypox

Monkeypox symptoms begin with a fever. Other possible symptoms include a headache, muscle aches, backache, swollen lymph nodes, chills and exhaustion. After a fever, within one to three days (sometimes longer), a rash develops, often beginning on the face and then spreading to other parts of the body (like the extremities and genital areas), according to county Public Health.

The incubation period (time from infection to symptoms) for monkeypox is usually seven to 14 days but can range from five to 21 days. The illness typically lasts for two to four weeks, the contagious period.

Painful lesions may also occur. If unusual rashes or lesions do appear, the individual should contact a health care provider as soon as possible, Public Health warns.

Once symptoms do appear, especially the rash, “Vaccination is no longer considered effective,” according to the County Public Health Department.

If you believe you have been exposed to MPX, email mpx@ruhealth.org or call (951) 358-5107

COVID BA.5 and local stats

Centers for Disease Control (CDC) reports that in June 2022, among people aged 50 and over, the unvaccinated were 14 times more likely to die from COVID than those vaccinated with two boosters, while those with only one booster were three times more likely to die than those with two boosters. CDC urges everyone to stay up-to-date with vaccinations.

The CDC currently rates Riverside County’s Community Level as low.

As of Tuesday, Aug. 30, Riverside County stats showed 347 total COVID cases have been reported in the Idyllwild-Pine Cove area, with 340 recoveries and seven deaths, leaving no currently active cases in our area.

Anza reported 435 COVID cases with 424 recoveries and seven deaths, leaving four active cases in the Anza area.

According to Riverside University Health System Public Health, the county is not reporting cases, recoveries and deaths for communities with populations fewer than 2,000, such as Mountain Center and Garner Valley.

As of Tuesday, Aug. 30, Idyllwild School reported four students and one staff member with COVID, while Hemet High reported 64 students with COVID (twice as many as last week), along with three staff members with COVID. Hamilton Elementary reported five students and one staff member with COVID, while Hamilton secondary reported two students and one staff member with COVID.

IWD OKs rate-study proposal from company making false client claim

By JACK CLARK
Co-Publisher

Wednesday, Aug. 10, Bartle Wells Associates (BWA) submitted its proposal to Idyllwild Water District (IWD) to conduct water and wastewater rate studies for the district at a cost of $30,850. Seven days later, at the Aug. 17 meeting, on the recommendation of General Manager Leo Havener, the IWD board approved accepting BWA's proposal over the proposals of three other bidders: Specialized Utilities Services Program ($23,200), NBS ($42,470) and Raftelis Financial Consultants ($68,990).

BWA's formal proposal to IWD included "Client References" which recounted water and wastewater rate studies it had conducted, and was conducting, for other water agencies. Its first-listed client reference was the City of Calistoga. BWA asserted that in 2018, it had updated Calistoga's five-year water and wastewater financing plan and rate studies, "and in 2022, we were selected again to update the water and wastewater rate studies."

But acting on information from a reader, the Town Crier last week reviewed the actual online video meetings of the City of Calistoga City Council for the dates of June 7 and July 19 of this year.

At the June 7 meeting, the city council considered the proposals of four firms to conduct water and wastewater rate studies for the City of Calistoga in 2022, one of the four firms being BWA. During the discussion, a council member espoused strong disapproval of BWA, asserting that firm had performed unsatisfactorily in the past for the City of Calistoga, particularly regarding BWA's handling of citizen concerns. This complaint was endorsed by a second city council member, and the proposal of BWA was unanimously "removed as an option" by the council's five-member board. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=2hOSLqLhy14 beginning at timestamp 1:36:35.)

At a subsequent special meeting of the City of Calistoga city council on July 19, it was reiterated that BWA had been "eliminated as a contender" and the city, having considered the proposals of the remaining three firms along with staff recommendations, unanimously selected the firm Raftelis to conduct its 2022 water and wastewater rate studies. (www.youtube.com/watch?v=RzH9krJuN4k beginning at timestamp 2:15:20.)

Yet in its Aug. 10, proposal to IWD, BWA claimed that — after having conducted the City of Calistoga's 2018 rate studies — "in 2022, we were selected again to update the water and wastewater rate studies" of the City of Calistoga. Quite apparently not true.

In an Aug. 10, letter accompanying its proposal to IWD, BWA emphasized in boldface type: "Bartle Wells' major strengths are 1) our many years of successful rate setting experience and 2) our successful prior experience with the General Manager."

The Town Crier telephoned the office of Doug Dove, BWA president, for comment, as to why it had represented in its proposal to IWD that it was doing work in 2022 for the City of Calistoga, but received no call back. The Town Crier telephoned the offices of City of Calistoga City Manager Mike Kim and the city's Administrative Services Director Gloria Leon, but the TC received no calls back from either one.

The Town Crier also emailed IWD General Manager Leo Havener, who replied, "IWD is pleased to have BWA performing the rate study. BWA is a firm with decades of experience and success regarding financial matters benefiting public agencies and the ratepayers. I am positive we will experience a good outcome."

A day in the life of a parking attendant

DEAR EDITOR:

Wouldn't it be great if the Thursday night concerts are a beloved Idyllwild event. And no wonder — a lovely venue, varied and talented performers, and no cover charge make it a rare treat.

The only problem is parking. There just isn't enough of it, especially for the handicapped, of which many in Idyllwild need. To help with parking, Mountain Community Patrol volunteers try to keep safe separation between pedestrian and vehicle traffic, and direct drivers to available parking spaces. In this simple job, we get to see the best and worst of people. On the best side, I directed a lady to the last available space in my area. She looked in her rear view mirror and saw an elderly couple behind her and said, “I'll turn around. Let them have it.” On the less than noble side, an elderly man demanded access to a handicap spot. Unfortunately, every spot was taken and I directed him to alternate parking where he could ride a shuttle to the concert. He angrily left but did not follow my directions, ending up in the Fairway parking lot and walking down the many steps of the Brewpub. But his handicap limitations didn't prevent him from walking out of his way to my station to let me know in a series of four-letter words what he thought of me. Oh, well. Sometimes you just gotta figure they've had a bad day. Anyway, you may not like our direc-

No gas guzzlers; almost all electric by 2035

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

Evolution from the steam engine, telegraph, telephone, the horseless carriage, flying machines, radio, television, cordless phones and now electric vehicles. Transportation is responsible for about 50% of greenhouse gas emissions (when accounting for fuel production emissions) and 80% of air pollutants in California, Gov. Gavin Newsom has stated many times.

Last Thursday, Aug. 25, the California Air Resources Board (CARB) approved regulations that would prohibit the sale of new exclusively gas-powered vehicles in 2035 or later. Over the next 10 years, the percentage of new exclusively gas-powered vehicles sold in the state must gradually decline to zero in 2035. There will be a limited number of plug-in hybrids still sold.

However, gas-powered vehicles may still be owned, registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles, and only used gas-powered vehicles may be sold in 2035 and after. The sales of new zero-emission vehicles (ZEVs) and plug-in hybrid emission vehicles, which is currently 16% of new vehicles sold in California, must reach 35% in 2026, 68% in 2030 and 100% five years later.

If the state, car owners and manufacturers achieve this goal, CARB estimates significant improvement in health due to the reduced emissions. “By 2037, the regulation delivers a 25% reduction in smog-causing pollution from light-duty vehicles to meet federal air quality standards ... From 2026 through 2040 the regulation will result in cumulative avoided health impacts worth nearly $13 billion including 1,290 fewer cardiopulmonary deaths, 460 fewer hospital admissions for cardiovascular or respiratory illness, and 650 fewer emergency room visits for asthma.”

Following CARB action, Newsom praised the board. “We can solve this climate crisis if we focus on the big, bold steps necessary to cut pollution. California now has a groundbreaking, world-leading plan to achieve 100% zero-emission vehicle sales by 2035.”

However, in September 2019, it was Newsom who issued the Executive Order mandating that CARB develop regulations to require that all new vehicle sales, beginning in 2035, were emissions free.

At that time, Newsom said, “This is the most impactful step our state can take to fight climate change. For too many decades, we have allowed cars to pollute the air that our children and families breathe. Californians shouldn't have to worry if our cars are giving our kids asthma.”

The state has been working with manufacturers and is confident this goal can and will be met. The number of emission-free vehicles sold in state has grown from less than 1% in 2011 to 5% in 2018. In 2021, their sales passed 10% and in the first quarter of 2022, sales of zero-emission vehicles in California exceeded 16%.

Car manufacturers, such as Ford Motors, have expressed their support to achieve these goals. “At Ford, combatting climate change is a strategic priority, and we're proud of our partnership with California for stronger vehicle emissions standards, forged during a time when climate action was under attack. We're committed to building a zero-emissions transportation future that includes everyone, backed by our own investments of more than $50 billion by 2026 in EVs and batteries. The CARB Advanced Clean Cars II rule is a landmark standard that will define clean transportation and set an example for the United States,” said Bob Holycross, chief sustainability officer at Ford.

And Toyota released this statement two days before the CARB decision: “Toyota continues to share the vision of [greenhouse gas] reduction and carbon neutrality goals with CARB and the state. In our recent communication, we acknowledged CARB's leadership in climate policies and its authority to set vehicle emissions standards under the Clean Air Act.”

CARB analysis indicates that battery-electric vehicles are likely to reach cost parity with conventional vehicles by 2030. By 2035, consumers are likely to realize as much as $7,900 in maintenance and operational savings over the first 10 years of ownership.

Sales of these zero emission vehicles in the first two quarters of 2022 were slightly more than 160,000, which is greater than the total sales in 2019 and 2020. (Electric Vehicle Market Report).

The governor and legislators also have been working toward the goal of replacing the gas-powered vehicles with electric vehicles and hydrogen vehicles. Legislation and budgets are already supporting this effort through incentives to buy the vehicles with the new technology.

“With the historic $10 billion we're investing to accelerate the transition to ZEVs, we're making it easier and cheaper for all Californians to purchase electric cars. California will continue to lead the revolution towards our zero-emission transportation future,” Newsom said in his statement.

The state has “Clean Cars 4 All” in a few districts such as San Diego, but is planning to expand. There also is a “Clean Vehicle Assistance Program.”

And, the recently enacted Federal Inflation Reduction Act provides tax credits for purchases of new or used ZEVs.

But drivers are concerned about how far electric vehicles can travel before needing a charge. CARB recognized that issue and addressed it in the new regulations that will require that “... zero-emission vehicles can be full replacements to gasoline vehicles, hold their market value for owners, and that used car buyers are getting a quality vehicle that will not pollute,” according to its press release.

“By model year 2030, the rules require the vehicle to maintain at least 80% of electric range for 10 years or 150,000 miles. (Phased in from 70% for 2026 through 2029 model year vehicles.) By model year 2031, individual vehicle battery packs are warranted to maintain 75% of their energy for eight years or 100,000 miles. (Phased in from 70% for 2026 through 2030 model years.) ZEV powertrain components are warranted for at least three years or 50,000 miles,” CARB said.

The car industry has accepted this direction and wants to continue manufacturing and selling transportation vehicles. And cooperation with CARB is part of its intentions.

“CARB and the Advanced Clean Cars II are not perfect, but the board has a history of success. Without past CARB regulations, we wouldn't have gotten the hybrids, hydrogen cars, and electric vehicles we have today. We probably wouldn't have Tesla or the Ford F-150 Lightning, the Nissan Leaf, or startups like Rivian and Lucid,” wrote Sebastian Blanco in “Car and Driver” on Aug. 25.

The oil and gasoline industry is a vital support for today's car and truck users. Gas-powered vehicles will require their own power support. California has thousands of charging stations and plans more, including hydrogen fueling stations.

According to the U.S. Department of Energy's Alternative Fuels Data Center, California has 13,694 EV charging stations. That's more than four times the number in the next-highest state on the list, which is New York with nearly 2,900 charging stations. And last week, an American Chemical Society press release stated, “Scientists report that they've designed superfast charging methods tailored to power different types of electric vehicle batteries in 10 minutes or less without harm.”

And Eric Dufek, Ph.D., one of the scientists behind the research, was quoted as saying, “Fast charging is the key to increasing consumer confidence and overall adoption of electric vehicles. It would allow vehicle charging to be very similar to filling up at a gas station.”

Nation’s first military firefighting strike team

Highlighting the state’s commitment to innovative solutions to tackle climate-induced natural disasters, the California Governors Office of Emergency Services (Cal OES) and the California Military Department created the first all-hazards military fire engine strike team — known as Team Blaze — the State Guard of the Military Department will operate.

Cal OES is assigning a Type VI strike team of wild-land-style fire engines to the State Military Department to enhance California’s Fire and Rescue Mutual Aid (FARMA) fleet.

Each with a capacity to carry a four-person crew, these engines are in addition to the Military Department’s existing Task Force Rattlesnake hand crew program consisting of soldiers and airmen. Since the start of operations in 2019, Task Force Rattlesnake has cut, cleared and treated at-risk wildfire project areas in central and northern parts of California.

“We have always valued the California Military Department’s partnership during times of need, especially during wildfires or other natural disasters. These new engines will not only add to their capabilities, but also help augment our state’s wildfire and rescue resources more broadly,” said Cal OES Director Mark Ghilarducci.

The state’s Military Department maintains a fire-fighting program at its military bases, with trained personnel providing firefighting prevention, mitigation and protection services to California and military bases and camps.

“We are proud to collaborate with Cal OES to ensure there’s another fleet of fire engines and expert staff at the ready. This Strike Team builds upon the state’s response efforts during times of need,” said California Military Department Major Gen. Matthew P. Beevers.

From responding to wildfires in rural settings, to protecting structures in urban areas and performing urban search and rescue operations, these engines are outfitted to support a variety of emergency situations. For example, type VI engines can get into tight areas, carry 300 gallons of water and quickly attack fires.

These engines add to the FARMA fleet of more than 270 fire engines across 60 local partners statewide that can respond to incidents of all types. Cal OES facilitates FARMA, which currently moves local government resources across the state in support of all-risk emergency response on behalf of local, state and federal government fire organizations. Cal OES assigns local government fire agencies with fire apparatus to maintain surge capacity during day-to-day duties and major events/emergencies.

The California Military Department has a dual mission, with both state and federal obligations. It is comprised of the California Army National Guard, Air National Guard, State Guard, and Youth and Community

Feedback needed for 2030 census

‘We are CalABLE’ campaign is launched for disabled

The U.S. Census Bureau (CB) invites the public to share their input and ideas for an improved 2030 census. The 90-day response window began Aug. 17.

CB is in the early stages of planning for the next census — a process that includes years of research and testing to prepare for the complex task of counting every person living in the United States each decade. By mid-decade, in 2024, CB expects to decide the initial operational design for the 2030 Census – the “big picture” plan for the census. That milestone is followed by refining procedures and putting technology and other infrastructure in place for the national count in 2030.

As part of the planning efforts, the public is invited to share feedback on how the Census Bureau can improve the public’s experience during the 2030 census. With this input, CB aims to better reach and count historically undercounted people, overcome challenges and encourage everyone to respond to the 2030 census.

CB is looking for recommendations on:

- Reaching and motivating everyone. Everybody counts in the census. The Census Bureau is committed to addressing challenges that may have contributed in the past to the recurring undercount of several groups. These include the Hispanic or Latino population, the Black or African American population, the American Indian or Alaska Native population living on a reservation, people who reported being of some other race and young children. With the public’s assistance, CB aims to better understand how to reverse this trend, more effectively reach these populations and motivate everyone to respond to the 2030 census.
- Technology. CB seeks input on what technological advancements could make responding to the census more user-friendly, increase the number of people who respond on their own and facilitate collecting data in person when necessary.
- New data sources. For the 2030 census, CB is looking to use high-quality, alternative data sources wherever possible. Combined with traditional methods, CB aims to reduce public burden while continuing to produce high-quality data products. CB is interested in learning about new data sources, and methods of using them, that could improve data quality for the 2030 census and increase operational efficiency and effectiveness.
- Contacting the public. Plans for the 2030 census must include tailored contact strategies that maximize the number of households responding on their own. CB is seeking recommendations about tools and messages to use in inviting people to respond and asks for help defining how often to reach out to each household.
- Providing support to the public. CB asks for input on how to support people as they respond — whether online, by phone, by mail, in English or in another language — and how to improve access for people with disabilities.

For reference, www.census.gov/programs-surveys/decennial-census/decade/2020/planning-management/plan/op-plans.html on how CB designed and implemented the 2020 census.

To provide feedback by Tuesday, Nov. 15, email comments to <DCMD.2030.Research@census.gov> or enter at www.federalregister.gov/documents/2022/08/17/2022-17647/soliciting-input-or-suggestions-on-2030-census-preliminary-research#open-comment. Comments should be specific, detailed, clear and identify which topic(s) each comment addresses.

CB will summarize and share the input received publicly.

State Treasurer Fiona Ma, and the California ABLE Act Board announce the “We Are CalABLE” campaign to promote the California Achieving a Better Life Experience Act (CalABLE), a tax-free savings and investment program improving the lives of people with disabilities. The California ABLE Act Board that Ma chairs administers the CalABLE program. It provides eligible individuals with disabilities an opportunity to build financial wellness, even while participating in means-tested government benefit programs like Supplemental Security Income and Medi-Cal. For the multitude of individuals who have opened a CalABLE account, the program can be a game-changer.

“Every single day, there are thousands of powerful stories from the disability community that can teach, empower and inspire,” said Ma. “Our goal with CalABLE has been to build the best possible program for the disability community. We designed CalABLE to be accessible, user friendly, and easy to understand. We recognized early on that the most powerful tool to spread awareness is to hear directly from the people who are benefiting from CalABLE. The ‘We Are CalABLE’ campaign raises the voices of those whose lives have been impacted by their decision to open an account.”

CalABLE partnered with Options For All (OFA), a California-based filmmaking nonprofit that serves adults with intellectual and developmental disabilities, to produce the “We Are CalABLE” campaign. The OFA team filmed more than a dozen interviews throughout the state, gathering a broad spectrum of voices from individuals and families who benefit from the CalABLE program. Many OFA students and staff are CalABLE account holders and have a firsthand understanding of how one can save for their future using CalABLE.

“This project is a great example of how people with disabilities can help develop skills, gain valuable experiences, and contribute in ways that directly affect their own lives,” said John Peterson, OFA’s Vice President of Film and Media.

For the campaign, OFA captured the personal stories of CalABLE account holders who enthusiastically share how they use their savings to pay for disability-related expenses. Under state and federal law, these expenses can include accessible vehicles, first homes, education, assistive technology, service animals and more. Through these personal and highly engaging narratives, the campaign demonstrates how account holders can protect their eligibility for means-tested public benefits programs by contributing to tax-advantaged savings and investment accounts. Furthermore, the campaign demonstrates how these after-tax contributions allow account holders to grow tax-free earnings when the money is used for qualified expenses.

“The risk of losing public benefits, coupled with the high cost of support expenses, has constrained members of the disability community from building financial security — until now,” said Ma. “Today, we’re ensuring that all these people are at the table to help us build better life experiences for people with disabilities.”

Launched in December 2018, the CalABLE program is open to all eligible individuals with disabilities in the state of California and nationwide. Since its launch, more than 8,000 individuals have opened CalABLE accounts and saved more than $77 million in assets under management. The average balance in a CalABLE account is about $10,000.

The “We Are CalABLE” campaign was conceptualized and launched by CalABLE’s agency of record Program 11, in collaboration with the National Disability Institute, the first national nonprofit committed exclusively to the financial empowerment of people with disabilities. LMFT, SEP, will cover two topics: “Live Like a Mountain: Reconnect with Self, Reconnect with Others, Reconnect with the Natural Environment”; and “Experiencing Grief as a Natural Process.”

Oct. 1, Cara Wilkerson, LMFT, will present “Depression and Anxiety in Childhood, Adolescence and Adulthood: Effects on Relationships with Self, Others and Community.”

Oct. 8, Kent Weishaus, LCSW, will present “Feel Like You Need a Referee for the Committee in Your Head? Inner Conflicts and Critics are Normal and can be Harmonized with Good Tools! Find Peace in the Storm.”

The final session on Oct. 15 will be a panel discussion Winks will lead.

Winks sums up the challenges the workshops will address and the solutions offered: “The changes and the stress in the world aren’t stopping anytime soon; life is going to necessitate brushing our teeth and working with our minds, knowing what our minds are doing, on a daily, hourly basis. We are social animals, we survive because we gather and cooperate and this is also how we heal, together. Strong individuals make up a strong community.”

Dr. Timia Ivanova will facilitate a concurrent Experiential Children’s Program for ages 6 to 18. The cost for the programs will be $15 per workshop, but there will be a “sliding scale” and no one will be turned away. Donations are appreciated. Parents and guardians wishing to bring youngsters should contact her by email at nugga88@gmail.com.

Participation will be limited to 30 for each workshop, and 20 children. Although several of the speakers are licensed equine therapists, no ponies will appear at this set of workshops. All workshops are from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., except the first session, which will run to 1:30 p.m.

To reserve a seat, register in advance at www.idyllwise.org/mental-hygiene. For general information, call (951) 468-0110 or email mountainaid@idyforest.org.

For more information about the adult program, email Winks at winksrobyn@gmail.com.

These workshops are not intended as a substitute for psychotherapy or professional mental health treatment. If you’re having a mental health emergency, please call 911 or Riverside HELpline (951) 686-4357.

Our advertisers — they’re back

By JACK CLARK
CO-PUBLISHER

The Town Crier has experienced an advertising boost over these last several months, so much so that issuing only a 12-page paper has become the exception. We’ve been required to increase our paper’s size by 33% including this one — sometimes more.

If you’ve been in town on weekends, this won’t surprise you. With Hill visitors again swarming us, our restaurants are again advertising their open hours and their specials — and their available employment positions. Our inns are advertising their accommodations, and our shops are advertising their wares.

Many TC Members from off the Hill bring their TCs with them, or they pick up free replacements at the TC office. Town Crier newspapers go into the rooms of local inns, which can pick them up free at the Town Crier office. And TCs are available to visitors at nine more locations around our Hill.

The Town Crier prints display ads in full page, half-page, quarter-, eighth- and even sixteenth-page sizes. Sign a one-year contract and you’ll save 10%. (Non-profit organizations always receive a 10% discount.) And we always, always, encourage our readers to patronize Town Crier advertisers.

The TC’s Membership model has indeed allowed us to survive during these difficult times, but advertising will always be the main source of income when it comes to paying our bills, which include: printing, payroll, different types of contract work, rent, utilities, several types of insurance, bookkeeping, page design and IT costs, feature syndication expenses, Xerox, postage, security system and internet fees, office supplies, gas and oil — and more.

Our Hill boasts more than two dozen restaurrants, bakeries, sweet shops, fast-food and beverage businesses and almost as many inns. Now is the time for them to advertise staff openings to get their much-needed employees back, and to get their business hours, menus, specials and their accommodations out to Hill visitors and local customers.

For eye-catching display ads of various sizes, email the independent advertising representative who represents us at Suzanne@town-crier.com or call her directly through the Town Crier office number: 951-695-2145, ext. 1. For Service Directory Ads, Classified Ads and Legal Notices, call Mandy at the TC office, 951-695-2145, ext. 0.

The Town Crier plays an active role in our community’s recovery. So, please — all you great TC Members and readers — please support the TC’s advertisers and tell them you read their ads in the Town Crier. We are working hard toward the very best for our community.

Jennifer Singer headlines the last concert this year

By DAVID JEROME
CORRESPONDENT

Thursday, Sept. 1, the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series (ISCS) will present a special treat, an unprecedented ninth concert. The evening will feature Jennifer Singer, a crowd-pleasing vocalist whose residencies with cruise lines have culminated in her latest voyage as “Signature Artist” aboard Royal Caribbean Cruise Line’s Wonder of the Seas, its newest and the world’s largest cruise ship.

Opening at 6:15 p.m. is a trio of Idyllwilders, Sam Kessler, David Dapeer and Steve D, who call themselves “The Hill Tribe Trio.” They plan to play classics from the Beatles, Fleetwood Mac, Paul Simon and Nashville songwriter Steve Earle. This will be Kessler’s last concert on the Hill for a while, as he is moving away.

Singer (her real name) began as a child in community theater and never let up. She earned her degree in drama and education at the University of California (UC), Irvine, and as a participant in UC Irvine’s New York satellite program, had the opportunity to study under Broadway professionals. She has credits as a singer, actor, dancer and songwriter, and her career has taken her from Equity Theaters to cruise lines and concert stages in Vegas. When not at sea, she enjoys road trips, hiking and volunteering for animal shelters. The Crier caught up with Singer last week.

TC: “Are you bringing up a band?”

JS: “Ken Dahleen is providing the band.”

TC: “Have you played with them before?”

JS: “Yes, last year.”

ISCS Founder and President Dahleen not only provides the infrastructure for the concerts and books the talent, as director of his “Big Band Staff” he has access to Southern California’s finest “first call” session players and can put together pretty much any kind of ensemble to bring out the best in a vocalist. This year, in addition to their own program, Big Band Staff members accompanied Gino Walker for her “Aretha Franklin and Friends” show.

TC: “What will you be singing?”

JS: “A mix of popular hits and Broadway classics, something for everybody. I’m happy to be returning, excited to be returning. There will be a mix; a couple of things I did last year, and new things; selections for ‘80s and ‘90s music lovers as well as the rockers.”

TC: “What are you doing now?”

JS: “Home finally, or on vacation, on vacation from my residency aboard Royal Caribbean’s Wonder of the Seas, which is their newest, and the biggest cruise ship in the world.”

Indeed, the Wonder of the Seas set out on its maiden voyage in March of this year, and it is huge — 1,188 feet long, crew of 2,300, up to 6,988 passengers. It also boasts the largest theatrical venue at sea.

TC: “What is that like?”

JS: “I am the first ever ‘Signature Artist,’ a graduated status from headliner. A first not only for me, but for Royal Caribbean. There are numerous venues on the ship with an abundant amount of talent performing anything from Latin music, to acoustic guitar and vocals in the pub, to the Reggae Band by the pool, party band on the promenade, country band and jazz band in Central Park. It’s pretty incredible. My show is located in the Main Royal Theatre as one of their featured headliner shows in the evening.”

Singer is currently “in Europe; I’m performing here. The show that you’ll be seeing in Idyllwild is a semi scaled-down version of what I’m doing here in Europe, in terms of technical theatrics like hydraulics, lifts, back-up singers, etc. We will, however, be using a large band with an amazing big sound just like I do here on Royal, and the same song selection.”

TC: “You must love traveling.”

JS: “I always wanted to travel the world and never thought I actually would be given the opportunity. My career at sea has given me this opportunity 10 fold, of which I am so grateful. I try to maintain a balance of my love for travel and love for home.”

These concerts are free to all and supported entirely by donations. The team “passes the hat” at the event, and those who can give more are invited to send contributions, checks payable to “Idyllwild Summer Concert Org.” to P.O. Box 1542, Idyllwild CA 92549-1542, or call (760) 413-4638. This year’s budget was over $34,000.

This year’s major contributors include: Bob and Gisela Stearns, Stephanie Yost and Steve Olson, Donna McLain, Compass Realty, Idyllwild Brew Pub, Roland Gaebert, Will and Kathy Kleindienst, Phil Strong and Linda McCaughin, Mountain High Escrow, Doug and Pat Austin, Idyllwild Rotary Club, Town Crier, Nona Solowitz and Mike Cheley, Tim McTavish, Desert Sotheby’s Realty, Idyllwild Trailer Park residents and Idyllwild Pizza Company.

Remember that temperatures drop in the summer evening. Come prepared with an extra layer. Butterfield Amphitheater, 54201 Ridgeway Drive, with access through the Idyllwild Community Playground parking lot on Highway 243 just south of town.

Litter Hunt

With an adult, walk around your school and pick up at least five pieces of litter. Write the name of each below:

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____

IMPORTANT!
If a piece of litter at your school looks like dangerous trash (broken glass, a needle, bandage, etc.) DON'T pick it up, but DO tell an adult on campus about it.

LET'S STOP LITTERING!

Hi, Kids!

You know me – I'm your friend, Earth. And there's something that really makes me sick. It's called LITTER!

Litter is stuff that should have been thrown into a garbage can or recycle bin, but is just dropped on the ground instead.

Litter causes all kinds of problems. It can clog up storm drains and cause flooding or pollute the waterways that are fed by storm drains. Some litter is dangerous, like broken glass and cans with jagged edges. And litter is ugly. When it's around your school or community, it looks like people just don't care about where they live.

Your friend, Earth

Litter Statistics

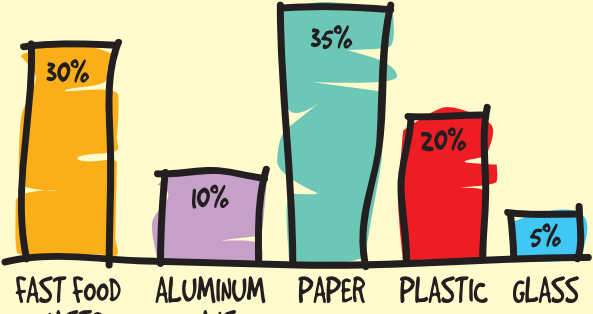

Kevin's class picked up litter at the park. He made a chart showing the percentages of the kinds of litter they found. Use the chart to answer these questions:

- What was the most common litter item found?
☐ fast food waste ☐ plastic ☐ paper
- Was there more glass or plastic in the litter?
☐ glass ☐ plastic
- What percentage of litter was plastic and paper combined?
☐ 55% ☐ 45% ☐ 40%

LITTER IN CENTRAL PARK

by Kevin

Litter Item	Percentage
Fast Food Waste	30%
Aluminum Cans	10%
Paper	35%
Plastic	20%
Glass	5%

LITTER FACT

Only ONE out of every SIX plastic water bottles we use ever makes it to the recycle bin.

Lunchtime Litter

Look for litter in this picture. Can you find all of these items?

- ☐ plastic bottle
- ☐ plastic cap
- ☐ paper cup
- ☐ straw
- ☐ plastic fork
- ☐ paper
- ☐ chip bag
- ☐ cheese puffs
- ☐ soda can
- ☐ apple core

Sort the Litter

Some litter can be recycled. Draw a line from each piece of litter to the correct bin.

2022 Emax award nominees

By BECKY CLARK
EDITOR

The Town Crier announces the 2022 Ernie Maxwell Community Spirit Award nominees. They are Ken Dahleen, Anne and Barnaby Finch, and Jon King.

Please keep the following in mind when you vote: The individual should have demonstrated a tangible, perhaps physical, effect on the community. The honor is given to an individual or group who represents EMax's spirit of community and volunteerism. Prior awardees took actions that created a spark sufficient to bring others into the fray just as Maxwell did with his activities involving the environment.

Ballots need to be submitted by 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 14. To help you decide who to vote for, we compiled all the amazing things that were written about each nominee, in the EMax spirit, of course.

Ken Dahleen: Very few in our Hill communities have impacted as many people, and for as long a time, as Ken, wrote Stephanie Yost, a prior recipient of the award.

As the founder and producer of the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series, which Ken does through his nonprofit corporation of the same name, Ken has brought music, joy, and a sense of community to many thousands of people throughout the 23 years he has provided the summer concerts.

Because the concerts are free of charge, Ken not only books, produces and provides the sound system and crew for the concerts, he must raise funds to cover his costs to pay the bands, feed and sometimes house them, advertise the concerts and supporters, and pay his sound crew (excluding himself, of course).

Idyllwild Rotarian Bob Lippert (left) hands a donation check to Ken Dahleen, founder of the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series, at Wednesday, June 29's, Rotary Club meeting at American Legion Post 800.

Ken has been a part-time resident since 1975 and a full-time resident since 1982. He also has been a business owner (originally opening Idyllwild Pizza Co.) and he has participated in other voluntary community endeavors, including the building of the Idyllwild Community Playground.

Originally, the Idyllwild Summer Concert Series was only five weeks long and over the years has been held at various locations. This year the series has expanded to nine weeks of diverse, but always entertaining, performances at the Butterfield Amphitheater.

Without Ken's annual summertime concerts, summer would just not be summer in Idyllwild. For these reasons, I believe that Ken truly embodies the spirit of this prestigious honor.

2022 Veterans Expo on Sept. 2

Assemblymember Kelly Seyarto and Sen. Melissa Melendez will host the 2022 Veterans Expo

More than 70 vendors are attending to provide services, resources and address veterans' concerns.

The vendors attending include businesses offering employment opportunities, local nonprofit organizations and government agencies.

The event is free and open to the public from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2, at Monteleone Meadows, 35245 Briggs Road, Murrieta. Lunch will be provided. For questions or to RSVP, call: 951-894-3530.

Asset limit increased for Medi-Cal

Starting July 1, a new law in California increased the asset limits for Medi-Cal programs requiring an asset determination. This will improve the quality of life of many vulnerable residents in Riverside County.

These programs provide health care for adults ages 65 and over, individuals with disabilities, and residents of long-term care facilities whose eligibility is partially based on a determination of their countable assets. These increased limits will allow more applicants to become eligible for Medi-Cal benefits statewide.

The asset limits increased from $2,000 to $130,000 for a single person. For a couple, it has gone from $3,000 to $195,000. For each added person in the household, the limit rose to $65,000.

In California, assets are also known as resources or property, which can include cash, checking or savings accounts, or vehicles.

Applicants who were previously denied Medi-Cal or terminated due to being above asset limits during the 90 days before the effective date of change (July 1) will be notified and encouraged to reapply. Those already enrolled in Medi-Cal will not have to take any action.

In January of 2024, the asset test will be eliminated completely for these Medi-Cal programs.

Anne and Barnaby Finch: Anne and Barnaby, together with Lori and Frank Ferro, have organized and produced the current jazz festival at Ferro, wrote Peter Szabadi. They have returned all our favorite performers to our town such as Yve Evans, Jazzgrass, the Forbits, Deanna Bogart, Robin Adler, Lily McCabe, Sherry Williams, Greg Jones, Chuck Alvarez, Barry Baughn and many more. We missed them all during COVID.

"I would love to see Barnaby and Anne Finch be awarded the Ernie Maxwell Community Spirit Award for organizing the jazz series during the summer. It is fantastic!" wrote Myra Dutton.

Jon King: Jon King, who produces the online "San Jacinto Trail Report," was Mark Dean's choice.

"This guy spends more time in our mountains logging countless miles and hours to provide accurate information on our trail conditions. He's absolutely amazing.

"I think last year he broke the record for lifetime achievement of number of San Jacinto Peak summits. He's known the world over (literally) by PCT hikers who benefit greatly from his regular posts on his Trail Report regarding trail conditions."

King provides these reports as a volunteer and also accepts donations.

That's a little information about each nominee. Please remember to get your ballot (on page A4) into the Town Crier by Oct. 14. The winner will be announced in the Oct. 20 edition of the Town Crier and their name will be added to a plaque in the Town Crier office. Good luck to all of the nominees.

HOROSCOPES

September 2022 — Week 1

March 21 – April 19
Relationships continue to thrive, but watch for any telltale signs of potential problems. Take needed action now to set things straight, before they become troublesome later.

April 20 – May 20
Your powers of persuasion backed up, of course, by your considerable expertise help you to establish your case, even to the most dubious decision-makers in your workplace.

May 21 – June 21
You might still be a bit reluctant to face up to some less-than-pleasant realities. But, the sooner you accept the facts, the sooner you can set about making some needed changes.

June 22 – July 22
Expect to make adjustments, even when things seem locked up and ready to go. But, cheer up: At least one change could lead to something you've been hoping for.

July 23 – August 22
The success of a recent project should do a lot to boost your self-confidence. You might want to check out ways to make that long-deferred bigger and bolder move.

August 23 – September 22
Ease up on the pressure you might be putting on the new person in your life. It takes time for a budding relationship to blossom. Showing them more patience and understanding will help.

September 23 – October 22
You have lots of inner strength in reserve. Use some of it to resist intimidation from those who might try to impose on your good nature for their own reasons.

October 23 – November 21
The good news is that your on-the-job status is improving. The one cautionary note, however, involves a personal situation you might have been ignoring for too long.

November 22 – December 21
Congratulations. Once again, your sharp Sagittarian "horse sense" helps you work through a complicated situation that would leave most people confused.

December 22 – January 19
Plan on indulging yourself in some well-earned good times through much of the week. Then be prepared to face some thought-provoking issues during the next few weeks.

January 20 – February 18
Positive factors continue to dominate, following a recent change in both your professional and personal lives. Expect to make contact with someone from your past.

February 19 – March 20
Workplace stability allows you to continue making progress on your projects. But, don't ignore your personal life. Spend more quality time with those special folks.

CREATURE CORNER

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," new ARF cats played a cat safety game.

Phil: Oh, boy! We have a new member of our cattery!

Atlas: Woo hoo! Tell us more.

Phil: Everyone, meet Newton.

Newton: Hi there! I am happy to be part of your ARF family.

Buffie: As we are happy to have you join us, but hopefully not for long.

Newton: What do you mean? I just got here!

Harley: Oh no, no, no! All that Buffie meant was that we all hope you'll find your forever home in a short time. This is a great stopover place to be, but a family that makes you part of them is your goal.

Phil: So, Newton, tell us about yourself.

Newton: I am a young boy who really likes attention from people.
I'm good with other cats.

Atlas: That sounds promising! You're handsome and super friendly, so you have a good chance at being adopted.

Phil: But while you're waiting for that to happen, you'll feel right at home here.

Cuddles: I had so much fun with the dog and cat safety quizzes last week. Do we have more?

Phil: Sure! Here is one for you.
What can cause a cat to become stressed?

Cuddles: I know! Boredom! I certainly get stressed when I'm bored.

Phil: Right! Without sufficient mental and physical stimulation, a cat can become bored.

Atlas: What can cat parents do to prevent this from happening?

Phil: A housecat needs a "hunting experience" which can be found in food puzzles.

Don: How about changes in routine? Is that one of the reasons?

Phil: Yes! We cats thrive on routine, regular schedules.

Newton: And what about inter-cat conflicts?

Phil: You bet! When a home has multiple cats, territory issues can cause stress. A call to a cat trainer/behaviorist can help.

Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of "Days of our Nine Lives" each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Highway 243. ARF is open Saturdays 10 a.m.-3 p.m., Sundays 10 a.m.-2 p.m., and during the week by appointment. Please call 951-659-1122.

The Rev. Anne Cox Bailey, a patient advocate certified independent coach and consultant, gave valuable information on living with and dealing with folk who have dementia Sunday afternoon at Town Hall. Here she is giving an example of how to approach someone properly who does have dementia. For clarity, this gentleman did not, he was just being used as an example. St. Hugh's Episcopal Church sponsored the free workshop.
