Supervisors denounce antisemitism with resolution

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

The Riverside County Board of Supervisors unanimously approved a resolution denouncing acts of antisemitism and religious bigotry in all its forms. And it affirmed its support of and solidarity with the Jewish community against anti-Jewish bigotry.

Supervisors Manuel Perez (4th District) and Karen Spiegel (2nd District) brought the resolution forward at the Nov. 1 meeting. He referred to the recent incident where someone hung antisemitic banners over the 405 Freeway and demonstrated with Nazi salutes. Perez then mentioned that "something similar has occurred in the 4th District and in Temecula a few months back ...

"This just incites violence against Jewish people," Perez stressed and mentioned a recent Anti-Defamation League comment about this being "an all-time high in antisemitic incidents in the U.S."

In her remarks, Spiegel mentioned that her mother-in-law's father had been taken from his home in Germany on Kristallnacht (Nov. 9-10, 1938) and died in a camp. The Holocaust, which began when the Nazi party took command of Germany in 1933, did not end until Germany was defeated in 1945. During this period, millions of Jews throughout Europe were killed.

"It's important to speak out and to say such acts are not tolerated and we stand up for human rights," Perez emphasized. "We use our voice to educate and work to stop antisemitism."

"I believe we all have a light we can share. A light that can dispel darkness and hate. We can use our light to stand up and to root out hatred, bigotry and prejudice." He continued, "In Riverside County, we stand for inclusion and diversity. In this county with folk of many different diversities, religions and backgrounds, everyone should feel safe, respected, and live together in peace."

Covered Cal enrollment period ends Jan. 31

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

Open enrollment in California's Covered California (Cal) began Nov. 1 and will end Jan. 31, 2023. Signing up soon will ensure coverage beginning Jan. 1, 2023. Open enrollment is the time of year when eligible consumers can sign up for health insurance.

Although nearly 1.7 million Californians already get health insurance through Covered Cal, an estimated 1 million people remain uninsured and eligible to get insured at low-cost or no-cost through Covered Cal or Medi-Cal.

Also, middle-income consumers — both uninsured and those who purchase coverage directly from a health insurance company — may save thousands of dollars a year if they sign up through Covered Cal, according to its press release.

"Millions of Californians now have access to affordable health coverage and now is the time to go sign up for health insurance to keep yourself and your family healthy," said Gov. Gavin Newsom. "... more Californians than ever before are insured with quality health coverage through Covered California. We won't stop until every Californian — regardless of income or immigration status — has the health insurance they need and deserve."

What was in the candidates' coffers?

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

Nov. 8, Election Day 2022, the races for governor, attorney general, congressman, state Assembly and Senate and seven propositions all being decided while this paper goes to press that day. We may be aware that the advocates and opponents of the sports betting propositions have spent hundreds of millions of dollars to gain their approval.

Gov. Gavin Newsom's campaign for reelection, only one year after an attempted re-call, is costing more than $14.5 million. Alex Padilla, who was appointed to the U.S. Senate after Kamala Harris assumed the vice presidency, is running for a full-term. His campaign has collected $11.8 million and spent $4.2 million through Oct. 19.

So, what could congressional or state legislative races cost? Well, locally, two races are already in the millions for both candidates.

Will Rollins, the Democrat, is challenging a 30-year veteran Congressman Ken Calvert for the newly designed District 41.

From Jan. 1, 2022, through Oct. 19, both Rollins and Calvert have raised slightly less than $3.4 million each. Calvert has spent $3 million on his reelection effort and Rollins has expended $2.6 million to try to unseat him.

Nearly $2.3 million of Rollins's contributions have come from individuals compared to $1.9 million of Calvert's. Calvert has received nearly $1 million from political committees and Rollins has received about $250,000 from groups.

For the remaining three weeks, both had about $750,000 cash available for ads and mailers. This would not include other contributions during this period.

And the new state Assembly District 47 race is highly competitive and expensive. Democrat Christy Holstege and Republican Greg Wallis are spending millions to represent the desert cities and the Hill.

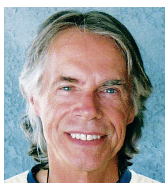

Between Jan. 1 and Oct. 22, Holstege received about $2.3 million in contributions, while Wallis received about $1.6 million. Most of the donations (about half for both candidates) came since July 1.

During that same period, Holstege's expenses totaled $2.25 million. Wallis has spent $1.6 million to defeat her. That left her cash total on Oct. 22 at $210,000 while Wallis had $145,000.

Since Oct. 22, Holstege's supporters have given another $460,000. Her contributions at this point are mainly from Democratic Party organizations, The state party apparatus has sent nearly $240,000 and local Democratic groups from Marin, Men-

Molly & Milty — A Love Story

By KEN LUBER
IDYLLWILD AUTHOR

Editor’s note: This is the first of several installments of a short story local author Kenneth Luber has written.

Hi, I’m Molly — Me-ow-lee to my two neighbor cat friends, Princess Gabriella (Gaby when you get to know her) and Chester. Princess Gaby lives in the house across the street and Chester lives in a ground floor apartment (rent-controlled) he told me, behind my backyard fence.

For the last seven birth-days, ever since I was a few weeks old, I’ve lived in Fred Duparlo’s house. I’m told by Gaby and Chester, both very knowledgeable in ark – i – tek – chure (I have trouble with that word) that this is a two story (I knew that) Tudor style house. They also told me it’s fake Tudor (that’s what I didn’t know).

Not too long ago, it was Fred and Betty Duparlo’s house. Miss Betty and I were very close. It was she who picked me up, just a kitty, out of a cardboard box in front of the post office. It was she whose lap I sat on as Fred drove us home in his foam green (not my favorite color) four door sedan. It was her lap I nestled in all those years we were together, and it was her hand that stroked my fur every night until I purred myself to sleep. So, you can imagine that when she passed away two years ago I was very upset and sad.

I’m a little lonely, it’s true, but so is Fred. He’s almost seventy. Like I said, I’m seven, slim, with a black saddle (that’s the overcoat) a white vest and white stockings. Fred is definitely not slim. He fills just about any chair he sits in and has a white fringe of hair on top of his head. My whiskers are long and magically wispy. That’s what Miss Betty told me. She called it a compliment. She used to complain to me that Fred’s short white whiskers, sitting right under his nose, were itchy. I’d laugh to myself when she’d throw the basket full of Fred’s socks into the washer, never blue or red or some pretty color, always black, just like the gray vest he always wears, with a pair of glasses sticking out of one pocket.

He and Miss Betty were married for forty-five years. Funny how cats know things, but Miss Betty would always point to the number on the cake she made every year on their special day. The last numbers were a four and a five.

Fred still comes home every evening carrying his briefcase from his downtown office. I remember Miss Betty very proudly telling me he was an accountant.

She didn’t get into details, although I thought I was a very good listener. I believe I still am. Now Fred is my sole guardian. He buys the kibble and keeps a roof over my head, but Miss Betty was my protector, defender and the most comforting lap I’ve ever sat in. Let’s just say it was purr-fect love.

I just said losing Miss Betty was the saddest day of my life, that was until six weeks ago when a big, floppy dog bounded and barked his way into my fake Tudor house. Fred hadn’t given me a heads-up, not one clue, like maybe a doggy dish next to the kitchen door or a leash draped over the back of a chair. That way I could have made a mental adjustment to the new arrival.

Frankly, the dog has all but destroyed my peace and solitude. You simply can’t think when a beast is barking. Even worse, he’s scared away Princess Gabriella and Chester who used to visit me on the shingle roof and in our nicely trimmed backyard on summer days.

Fred has tried to convince me that, with Miss Betty’s passing, the house is empty all day and needs some kind of protection. What am I? I thought to myself. I’ve been protecting the fake Tudor house for the last two years. Not one stranger has gotten past the front door. I’m a guard cat! And, if purrs come to paws, I have Princess Gabriella and Chester to back me up.

Then Fred played the sympathy card. He told me that the dog — Milton, that’s his name — was a rescue dog. He’d been very badly treated by the people he’d lived with and lost part of his right ear and then left to wander the streets, until the Animal Rescue truck picked him up.

I’ve got a heart. You’ll agree that his was definitely a sad story. Gaby and Chester had told me more than once of cruel animal owners mistreating their pets, doing all kinds of mean, thoughtless acts, like leaving a pet for hours in a locked car on a really hot day or flushing a turtle down the toilet to see if it could swim back up, but rescuing Milton was keeping me from some very peaceful afternoons dozing on the arm of the Lazy Boy chair and hours of silence remembering Miss Betty.

I’ve just been watching Milton chew on a leather bone, toss it from his lips to the sofa, race to the sofa and grab the bone in his mouth and start chewing it again. To me, that’s taking a lot of energy to find the same bone that he had in his mouth a minute ago. I’ll bet he doesn’t even know it’s a fake bone, just like he doesn’t know this house is a fake Tudor. What kind said Jessica Altman, executive director of Covered Cal. “The increased and expanded financial help that was extended by the Inflation Reduction Act is changing lives by helping more Californians get covered and stay covered.”

How to sign up or contact Covered Cal

Consumers may visit Covered Cal at www.covered-ca.com. There they can find out if they qualify for financial help and see the coverage options for the Hill.

The only information needed is household income, ZIP code, household size, and the number of people who need coverage and their ages. With that and the Covered Cal calculator, which is on Covered California’s homepage, health insurance options will be presented.

Free and confidential assistance from a certified enroller is available over the phone, in a variety of languages. Or visitors can request that a certified enroller call them and help them for free. The Covered Cal phone number is 1-800-300-1506.

Holiday closings

Hill businesses and institutions that will be closed Friday, Nov. 11, to observe Veterans Day are:

- Area post offices
- Fairway Market
- Fern Valley Water District
- Hemet Unified School District (also Thursday)
- Idyllwild Health Center
- Idyllwild Library
- Idyllwild Nature Center
- Idyllwild Town Crier
- Idyllwild Water District
- Pine Cove Water District
- PNC Bank
- Riverside County offices
- U.S. Forest Service

These will be open:

- Idyllwild Pharmacy
- Idyllwild Transfer Station
- Mt. San Jacinto State Park

CDC recommendations for low community levels like our Hill

The Centers for Disease Control continues to rate Riverside County as a “low community level” location with regard to COVID. So, its current recommendations for the Hill are:

“Stay up to date with COVID-19 vaccines. Get tested if you have symptoms. [TC note: Free easy-to-do home tests may still be available at Idyllwild Pharmacy.] Wear a mask if you have symptoms, a positive test, or exposure to someone with COVID-19. Wear a mask on public transportation. You may choose to wear a mask at any time as an additional precaution to protect yourself and others.”

As of Tuesday morning, Nov. 8, the Hemet Unified School District dashboard reported two students and one staff member currently with COVID from Idyllwild School, and Hemet High reported eight students and one staff member. Hamilton elementary reported no students or staff members, while Hamilton secondary reported one student and no staff members with COVID.

of protection is a dog like that going to give Fred’s house?

Milton is bigger than the dog house Fred should have bought him. His head is even with the kitchen table. Every time he runs through the house, his brown ears droop and flap, even the one that’s partly missing. Don’t ask me what he’s chasing because I can’t see anything in front of his shiny black eyes. All I see is the blur of his spotted brown and white fur, and all I hear is his big brown paws pounding the carpet and the polished hardwood floors that Miss Betty loved, and his gross panting that sounds like he’s trying to get a sock out of his throat.

Molly & Milty return next week.

Covered California

Since Covered California’s first open-enrollment period in 2013, federal data shows that California’s uninsured rate fell from 17.2% to a record low 7% in 2021, which is the largest percentage point drop for any state in the nation over this time period.

Of the 1 million currently without health insurance, Covered Cal estimates that slightly less than half are eligible for significant financial help that will lower the cost of their monthly health insurance premiums. Already, 90% of Covered Cal’s enrollees qualify for financial help. Their financial help provides an average monthly savings of about $475 per month, Covered Cal said.

“Regardless of your income, if you need health insurance or if you’re covered directly through a health insurance company, come to Covered California to see if you can get financial help to make your insurance more affordable,”

Veterans Day events this Friday, Nov. 11

The American Legion Post 800 honors Veterans Day at 11 a.m. Friday, Nov. 11, at the post.

Post 800 Commander and U.S. Marine Corps veteran Paul White is the key speaker. Free sandwiches and refreshments will be served for lunch after the ceremony.

To show gratitude for veterans' selfless service, the U.S. Forest Service will waive standard amenity fees for all visitors to national forest and grass-land day-use areas on Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

"Many veterans spend time with their families and connect with nature while hiking, hunting, boating, and exploring the range of outdoor recreation opportunities national forests and grasslands have to offer," said Nancy Parachini, acting regional director of Public Services for the U.S. Forest Service, Pacific Southwest Region.

Making Veterans Day a fee-free day gives everyone an opportunity to reflect on the service of the nation's veterans while spending time on America's public lands. The Forest Service offers fee-free access a few times each year to encourage everyone to explore educational and recreational opportunities available on national forests and grasslands.

Campaign spending docino and San Luis Obispo counties gave her $125,000. Most the remainder was sent from political action committees and other Democratic candidates.

In the same period, Wallis's campaign has garnered about $240,000 including $90,000 from the Tulare County Republican Central Committee, $76,000 from the state Republican Party and about $20,000 from the Sacramento and Orange counties Republican organizations.

In the other local Assembly race, Democratic incumbent Eduardo Garcia's campaign chest significantly exceeds the size of Ian Week, his Republican opponent's total.

In the first 10 months of 2022, Garcia has received nearly $660,000; whereas donations to Week's campaign totaled $125,000, less than a quarter of the gifts to Garcia. Even as the election approached, contributions to Garcia, $150,000, far outstripped Week's $12,500.

Since Oct. 22, Garcia has received another $62,000. These donations have come from private corporations, such as Exxon Mobil Corp., Eastman Chemical, Golden State Water Company, Tenet Health and Uber, as well as individuals and the United Nurses Association of California.

Garcia has used his campaign chest to donate more than $225,000 to candidates in other races. This includes $30,000 to the state Democratic Party and another $18,000 to local Democratic groups. His donations to other candidates ranged from Assembly and Senate races to local school districts, recreation districts, city councils, a mayoralty race and a Superior Court judge.

And for the final three weeks, Garcia had more than $450,000 for late expenditures and Weeks had $25,000 for last minute challenges of Garcia.

The state Senate race, District 32, between Republican Assemblyman Kelly Seyarto and Democrat Brian Nash, is similar except that the money is flowing to the Republican in this race.

Since Jan. 1, his contributions have totaled slightly more than $325,000. The Secretary of State's Campaign Finance website has no data for Nash. However, on May 27, prior to the primary, he reported $330 in campaign contributions to the Riverside County Registrar of Voters. And in an email, he said he had reported a $2,000 contribution from CADEM in late July to the Registrar's Office.

Seyarto's expenditures have been about $180,000 of which nearly $60,000 have been contributions to other candidates or to the state Republican Party and another $55,000 for campaign consultants.

Life Tribute Betsey S. Whitman 1938-2022

After a valiant battle with Alzheimer's disease, Betsey S. Whitman passed peacefully Wednesday, Sept. 21, 2022.

Born Betsey Ruth Sellner in Wilmington, Ohio on April 21, 1938 to William Sellner and Beatrice Harger Sellner, Betsey always was an overachiever. She grew up in Loudonville, Ohio and attended Loudonville High School where she took part in many activities, including Scouts, band and yearbook.

It was in academics where she stood out. Just seven years after graduating from middle school, she already had a bachelors in arts from Shimer College and a masters degree from Harvard.

According to one of her best friends, Mary Jean Roach, Betsey was the brightest in her cohort and would have been valedictorian had she not left early (after three years) for college. She needed just three years to graduate college as well.

She then received the prestigious Dupont scholarship award, allowing her to attend Harvard, where she obtained her masters in education in 1959. She then began teaching at West Hartford High School in Connecticut and while teaching there met her future husband, Harrison Carlton Whitman, who also was teaching there.

They wed in 1960, moved to Gainesville, Florida, and both attended graduate school at the University of Florida and obtained masters of science degrees in mathematics.

Betsey and Carl then moved to St. Petersburg, where Betsey taught for a year at Gibbs Junior College and for a year at Notre Dame High.

It was time to move again; this time the family settled in Tallahassee where Betsey and Carl both began teaching at Florida A&M University, an HBCU. They both taught there for 25 years. 1975 was a big year, for, in addition to raising four children (Bill, Eliza Jane, Harrison and Rebecca), both Betsey and Carl were to earn their doctorates simultaneously on Aug. 22, 1975.

Betsey was the department chairperson at Florida A&M for many of the years she taught there. When the department needed to expand to include biostatistics and there were not qualified candidates to teach such, Betsey took a sabbatical, returned to Harvard and obtained a masters in biostatistics.

After 22 years in Tallahassee, Betsey and Carl moved to Framingham, Massachusetts. Betsey took a professorship position teaching at Framingham State University. However, it was not long before she obtained a Fulbright scholarship to teach at Malawi University in Zomba, Malawi.

She loved teaching there, so much so that she reapplied for the scholarship and taught a second year as well. She might have continued to do so but was told by Framingham State that she had to return if she wished to keep her position. She did so, but this in no way lessened her commitment to Malawi and the people there that she had come to know. For many years following her return to the states, she and Carl would return to Malawi in the summer, to volunteer at Malawi Children's Village and to visit with friends and colleagues.

Just as was the case at Florida A&M, Betsey was the department chair for mathematics at Framingham State. Her teaching at FSU expanded into an international teaching program that had many two-week overseas assignments. Her assignments took her throughout South and Central America, Europe, Asia and to the South Pacific. Nothing surprised Betsey's children to hear of her latest travel abroad.

Betsey finally retired from teaching in 2015 after 56 years of teaching.

In her later years, she moved first to the Palm Desert area in late 2012, then in 2015 to Idyllwild where she lived for a year and a half on Tahquitz Lane. She and Carl returned to Palm Desert and lived for 20 months in an assisted living facility before returning to Idyllwild for good in 2019.

A hybrid Zoom/in-person memorial is planned for 1 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, at the home of her son Bill Whitman.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that individuals make donations to a nonprofit or faith community of their choice.

Response to: Tampons in the boys' bathroom

DEAR EDITOR:

I also was shocked when I heard one of my grandchildren come home and announce that there was a tampon machine in the boys' bathroom at Idyllwild School.

After looking into this, I found that our California governor had approved and signed this amended, repealed and added section to the Education Code, relating to menstrual products, which is a 2017 bill AB10.

This revised bill, known now as The Menstrual Equality Act for All 2021-AB367, has included free menstrual products in all girls', all gender, and at least one males' bathroom in all sixth through 12th grade restrooms in public schools. The bill says it is promoting gender equity.

The problems with this mentality of male/female anomalies getting mixed up with the gender identity equality laws and mandates are already causing problems in schools where teachers and students are being reprimanded, and suspended for voicing concerns and opinions when boys are in the girls' locker rooms because they are being allowed to play in girl sports if they identify with girls. Lawsuits are being filed against schools, and suspensions are being lifted, but not for long, especially if Title IX rewrite goes through that will allow this kind of environment.

As shocking as this sounds, children will be able to pursue chemical, and surgical alterations that have irreversible life-alterations consequences, without letting a parent or guardian even know. Cases leading up to these new regulations are in the court already, where even a suicide attempt was made by a young student in school. Gender identity ideology will be pushed on our children and we will not even know about it, or have a say in it.

July 12, 2022, the U. S. Department of Education published a notice of a proposed rewrite of the federal regulations that implement Title IX without congressional approval. This rewrite is to expand the scope of Title IX to include “discrimination on basis of sexual orientation and gender identify.” These new regulations will promote gender identity ideology in our school as mandated policy. These new regulations will have devastating effects on parental rights, children's well-being, First Amendment rights, girls' privacy, safety, religious freedoms, and sports opportunities for our children.

The public had until Sept. 12, 2022, to respond to this. I, along with 240,000 others, did respond. The Department of Education (DOE) is required to respond to each of these comments. Now, the DOE will decide on revising or putting into action. So much more is involved in this rewrite of Title IX and how it will affect parents/guardians, and according to Vernadette Broyles, president of Child and Parental Rights Campaign, the 77 million children in the U.S.

Whether you are a liberal or a conservative, you need to look at what's going on in the public school system, and the laws and mandates that are being pushed forward. They will affect our children and we will no longer be able to have a say.

Here are a few websites where you can find out more about these and other bills that affect all of us in America. Please get involved. The information provided came from these sites, too.

Reflecting on veterans' service

DEAR EDITOR:

Veterans Day, recognized Friday, Nov. 11, represents a time for Americans to come together to celebrate and commemorate the bravery and sacrifice of everyone who has served. The holiday began in 1919 when President Woodrow Wilson proclaimed Nov.

Business ads growing

By JACK CLARK
Co-PUBLISHER

No doubt you've noticed visitors swarming our Hill again on weekends. Inns get free TCs and other TC publications for each room, by picking them up at the TC office next to the pharmacy. Off-the-Hill Members often bring their TCs with them when they come visit, but if they've left their TCs at home, they get free replacement issues at the office.

Hill businesses are advertising again. If you have a business here — an inn, a restaurant, gift shop or other — you need to get your ads in the TC along with the Idyllwild Visitors Guide, the Idyllwild Map, and the Idyllwild Phone Book.

You don't want to miss out on your businesses being in front of Hill visitors. And we remind all readers to support Hill businesses that support the TC.

Call the Town Crier office at 1-951-659-2145, for Suzanne at extension 0 (display ads) or Mandy at extension 1 (service directory, classifieds, legal notices).

11 as Armistice Day to memorialize the end of WWI and to reflect upon the heroism of those who died in our country's service.

While most people recognize veterans on this day once per year, it is important to not overlook the role veterans play each day in America. Veterans service organizations, such as the Veterans of Foreign Wars, strive to highlight the importance of veterans all year long.

This Veterans Day, we encourage you to reflect on the important contributions that veterans make both in our nation and in our individual communities. Take a moment to thank a veteran for their service or contact your local VFW Post to see how you can make a positive difference in the lives of veterans and their families. Lastly, it is important to remember that veterans should be recognized not only on this special day but every day.

Palm to Pines Golf Association update

By JIM CRANDALL
PALMS TO PINES GOLF ASSOCIATION
HANDICAP CHAIR

Idyllwild’s Palms to Pines Golf Association played its regular monthly tournament in conjunction with the final playoffs for club champion in two divisions at Hemet Golf Club Friday, Oct. 14. It was a beautiful fall day and the course was in pretty good shape.

Paul Cozens bested Pete Holzman to become the A-flight Club Champion, while Chris Kramer beat Lee Lanfried for the B-Flight Club Champ title. Both winners will go on to represent the club in the Southern California Golf Association’s (SCGA) Tournament of Club Champions (TCC) in December. The TCC features club champions from all over Southern California and parts of Nevada.

In the A-flight regular tourney, Bob Wadlow (course handicap 11) shot a net 73 for first place; Steve Olson (9) shot net 75 for second; Gary Brown (7) shot net 76 for third; Crandall (8) shot net 77 for fourth; and Cozens (4) rounded out the top five with a net 79.

In the B-Flight regular tourney, made up of golfers with handicap indexes of 19 or higher as of August, Pete Capparelli (16) and Kramer (27) tied for first place with net 74s; John King (15) shot net 79 for third; Jim Sullivan (18) shot net 81 for fourth; and Lanfried (26) shot net 82 for fifth.

Kramer (45) snot net 81 for first place; Bill Whitman (31) shot net 82 for second; King (26) shot net 83 for third; Don DePalma (51) shot net 86 for fourth; and Lanfried (23) rounded out the top five with a net 88.

The closest to the pin winners on the four par 3s were Lanfried on #4; Lee Arnson on #7; and Holzman on #14. The other par 3, #17, was unscathed.

Here are the 2022-2023 point standings for the season which runs from August through July:

A-flight (Handicap index below 19 as of August)
Place	Golfer	Points
1	Bob Wadlow	13
2	Pete Holzman	9.5
3	Paul Cozens	9
4t	Jim Crandall	8.5
	Steve Olson	8.5
6	Gary Brown	7
7t	Dennis Chavez	.5
	Chip Wilson	.5

B Flight stats (Handicap index of 19 or higher as of August).
Place	Golfer	Points
1	Chris Kramer	13
2	Lee Lanfried	12.5
3	Pete Capparelli	12
4	Jim Sullivan	8.5
5	Dan Morgan	4
6	John King	3.5
7	Lee Arnson	2.5
8	Don DePalma	1

The top eight-point finishers of the year in each division go into playoffs in August, September and October to determine the club champions. A member has to compete in at least five regular-season tournaments in order to qualify for the playoffs. The champs goes on to play in the SCGA TCC in December.

Palms to Pines Golf Association plays a tournament off the Hill once a month at a different golf course. The games are usually played on the third Friday of the month but may be adjusted for holidays.

Tournament fees range from $40 to usually no more than $75 and the fees include green fees, tournament entry fees, golf cart and range balls. Guests usually pay $10 less since they don’t compete in the tournament.

The club is a SCGA member and is sanctioned to es-

Christmas tree permits available at Recreation.gov
Special holiday tradition
helps maintain forest health

The online purchase of Christmas tree permits for many national forests is underway at Recreation.gov. Visit the site for details about designated cutting areas, dates and types of trees that can be cut on national forests throughout the region.

“Many families are discovering their local forest for the first time to bring home their special holiday tree,” said U.S. Forest Service Chief Randy Moore. “These experiences help connect people to their local national forest and become treasured family memories.”

To purchase a Christmas tree permit, visit Recreation.gov and search by forest name or use the interactive map to explore locations. Be sure to carefully read the overview and guidelines prior to purchasing the permit. Visitors will need to create or login to a Recreation.gov account to complete the transaction.

Otherwise, several national forests in the Pacific Southwest Region handle Christmas tree permits directly. Visit the www.fs.usda.gov/main/r5/about-region/offices to learn more about each forest’s start dates and permit process.

“Each year, we’re excited to welcome families and friends venturing into national forests to cut their Christmas trees for the holidays,” said Nancy Parachini, acting regional director of Public Services. “This fun holiday tradition also adds to the resiliency of our national forests.”

Cutting a Christmas tree improves forest health. The permit system helps to thin densely populated stands of small-diameter trees. Local forest health experts identify areas that benefit from thinning trees, which tend to be the perfect size for Christmas trees. Removing these trees in designated areas helps other trees grow larger and open more areas for wildlife foraging.

Pile burning scheduled Nov. 9 - 11

From about 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day of Wednesday to Friday, Nov. 9 to 11, Cal Fire/Riverside County Fire Department, in cooperation with California State Parks, will burn vegetation near Saw Mill Flats Road next to Stone Creek Campground north of Pine Cove. Idyllwild Fire Department and Cahuilla Fire Department also will be in attendance.

The pile burns’ goal is to reduce dead fuels. Pile burning will occur on a plot that spans about 30 acres. Drift smoke may be visible from nearby communities but will disperse quickly and is not expected to be a health hazard, according to Cal Fire.

Favorable weather conditions and South Coast Air Quality Management District’s permissive burn days determine scheduled days.

New event program
at Nature Center

Friends the San Jacinto Mountain County Parks is having an opening for the Freshwater Pond and Biology program from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 12, at the Idyllwild Nature Center.

The event is for children ages 4 and older. It inclues microscopes, crafts and nature journals.

Ham radio exam

Pelham brings back ‘Art of the Guitar’ concert series

By DAVID JEROME
CORRESPONDENT

Editor’s note: The correspondent has worked with David Pelham for many years, first as guitar teacher and then helping him with his compositions for the guitar, and has been to Paracho, Mexico, with him.

At 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 13, Idyllwild’s “Art of the Guitar” concert series will resume. This year’s concert will feature Alberto Daniel Quintanilla (Mexico) and Aysegul Koca (Turkey.) The concert is in Idyllwild Arts Academy’s Lowman Concert Hall and is free to the public.

The concert series is the brainchild of David Pelham, whose love of the guitar and the community has shaped his busy retirement years. Pelham has become a part of the international classical guitar scene through his trips to Paracho, Michoacan, Mexico, to attend the annual Guitar Festival there and to meet the many accomplished and respected luthiers who are residents of that city.

If you or a friend has a guitar from Mexico, whether it cost thousands of dollars or a few, it most likely bears a label inside that reads “Paracho.” Factories there turn out (often very serviceable) souvenirs, and fine craftsmen practicing an art handed down through generations.

Although funding is often uncertain, a museum there is dedicated to guitar building, workshops in which visiting luthiers share their techniques to improve the state of the art and a festival that invites both builders and players to compete for honor and prizes. The guitars entered are displayed in a church where they can be tested by interested visitors, and the competition rounds are open to the public.

The Crier interviewed Pelham through phone and email about the genesis of the “Art of the Guitar” series and its mission.

TC: “How did the trips to Paracho begin? Were you going to hear concerts or talk to builders?”

DP: “I had a vague knowledge that there was a festival. ‘I primarily went because I wanted to meet some of the guitar builders. We (my wife Barb was with me) happened to arrive right on schedule for the festival by accident.’”

TC: “What inspired you to begin this project?”

DP: “Mexico has a massive classical guitar culture, with many conservatories and universities with top-level classical guitar programs. Many young guitarists that emerge from this system, with the addition of many competitions and master classes, are world-class, and deserve the attention and focus of the classical guitar world. I am happy to help with that. I began going to Paracho for the guitar festival in 2002. I have been back almost every year since. I met so many great musicians (and great people), as well as seeing a parallel with Idyllwild: Little towns in the mountains with amazing people and so many incredible musicians. Paracho is at 7,300 feet and surrounded by extinct volcanic hills. There are hundreds of guitar builders there, many world-class, and many guitarists who are Paracho natives, as well as many others who make a pilgrimage to Paracho, Capital Mundial de la Guitarra, as it has become known.”

TC: “How many times have you brought these players to Idyllwild?”

DP: “I brought Mariana Gomez and Juan Sixtos here to perform in 2017; Abel Garcia and Jaime Soria here in 2018; and Pamela Arellano and Jesus Serrano here in 2019.”

TC: “How have you chosen players for the series?”

DP: “Most of these great young guitarists I have known from childhood or at least their teenage years, and I have watched them mature from prodigious beginnings to become the mature musicians they are today. Examples would include Mariana Gomez, Juan Sixtos, Abel Garcia, Jesus Serrano, as well as this year’s performer, Alberto Quintanilla. I know many of their families, and have grown close to them over the years. And there are no shortage of more great candidates. It has been such a rewarding experience ...

“Aysegul Koca is a different case. She was certainly a prodigy and had amazing early achievements. But when I met her in Paracho she was already a visiting professor in Mexico and an invited performer at Paracho. Her Turkish and Middle Eastern background informed her unique performance of several of her pieces. I was impressed.”

TC: “What about bringing the players here; what kind of challenges have you encountered?”

DP: “The process of bringing these folk here has not been smooth. In 2017, there were no visa issues, but in 2018, one chosen guitarist, Pamella Arellano, was arbitrarily denied a visa, and had to be replaced with another, the excellent Abel Garcia, who already had a U.S. visa. In 2019, she applied again and was approved so she was able to come, and her whole family came along. Then came the pandemic, and two years of no concerts. Then in 2022, I invited two wonderful guitarists and both were denied U.S. visas without the consulate clerks even looking at their documentation. I quickly found another who had a visa, was excited to come, but he then won an important competition in Spain, and part of his award was a sponsored 20-concert world tour, so then he could not come to Idyllwild.

“My 2022 trip to Paracho focused on finding a great guitarist that had a U.S. visa, and a tip that Alberto Quintanilla had a visa paid off. About then, I had a contact from another great guitarist whom I met when she played a wonderful concert in Paracho. Aysegul Koca would be coming to New York, and would be able to add a trip to California. I had invited her early in 2018 but she was not able to come at that time. I jumped at the opportunity!”

TC: “How many guitars have you built so far?”

DP: “I have made 18 instruments including three ukuleles and one U-bass, along with my 14 classical guitars. I have sold most of them, but have saved a couple for myself, and still have a couple of them for sale.”

TC: “And about your compositions. You have put together a book of pieces that have circulated among the guitar community internationally?”

DP: “My pieces have been performed in several different cities in Mexico, here in Idyllwild and in Hemet, in Barcelona, Spain. In my early years, when I was practicing regularly, I thought I was going to be a good guitarist. I didn’t pick up on the fact that in the group I was in I was the worst in terms of speed and accuracy. But I was already composing. I still value my first few compositions; they may appear yet ...”

TC: “People can find videos of your music?”

DP: “YouTube and Spotify; Mariana Gomez playing ‘Hymn for the Earth’ and ‘Ashes and Tears’ by several different people, Jaime Soria and Edgar Camargo.”

Although reticent to talk about funding, the series has been funded by Pelham himself. When a crash ended his aviation hobby, he rolled the insurance money into starting the concert series. No donations can be solicited at the Idyllwild ARTS concert venue, but there is talk about a reception afterward and what might be needed to guarantee the continuation of this tradition.

ATTENTION CONTRACTORS

California Business and Professions Code 7071.13 reads: "Any reference by a contractor in his advertising, soliciting, or other presentments to the public to any bond required to be filed pursuant to this chapter is a ground for the suspension of the license of such contractor."

This is a contractor's responsibility, not a newspaper's, and we are not responsible for it. However, as a courtesy, we will remove references to a bond in contractors' advertising, if we notice it.

CREATURE CORNER

BY JANICE MURASKO

Last week in "Days of Our Nine Lives," discussed the change in season.

Phil: Where is everyone?

Atlas: Not sure. But I do know that this change in time is messing with me.

Don: Me, too! Why does this have to happen? I hate a change in my schedule.

Cuddles: Do you think the younger dogs and cats have an easier time?

Phil: You heard Atlas. He's young and is struggling with the time change.

Don: What about Newton? He's young.

Cuddles: You won't get an answer from Newton. He was adopted last Saturday!

Phil: Such great news. I'm always happy to hear about adoptions.

Atlas: I am happy as well, but what about this silly time change?

Pepper: I think what some humans don't realize is that dogs and cats follow their own circadian rhythms. Their internal clocks override humans' ridged time schedules.

Cuddles: I hope humans realize it's typical for pets to need a couple of days to adjust after the time change, but some take longer than others. Pets with a strong internal clock are heavily influenced by sunrise, sunset and predictable feelings of hunger.

Don: We pets are rather complex. Because we respond to human cues (the alarm clock, people getting out of bed, the sound of food being put in the bowl), our guardians can help us adapt to the change.

Atlas: It can be helpful to guardians to meet their dogs or cats in the middle as they adjust to the time change. If they can break up the hour difference and adjust the pet's schedule (walks, feeding time, bedtime and waking up) by 15 to 30 minutes each day, the transition can be nearly seamless.

Phil: Then they can count the days until the clocks go back to a sunny existence.

Creature Corner is sponsored by Sandi Mathers.

Steele to compete in Houston Open

By JACK CLARK,
PRO GOLF CORRESPONDENT

Brendan Steele will play this week in the $8.4 million Cadence Bank Houston Open on the Memorial Park Golf Course in Houston, Texas. Since 1946, the Houston Open has been won by Byron Nelson, Bobby Locke, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Payne Stewart, among other World Golf Hall of Fame members. The Houston Open makes significant charitable contributions to the Houston community through the Astros Golf Foundation.

Brendan has finished in the money in the Houston Open several times, scoring a top-25 finish in 2015. The native Idyllwilder now stands 98th in the PGA Tour's FedExCup Standings and is 113th in the Official World Golf Ranking.

B will tee off on Thursday at 9:47 a.m. PT and on Friday at 5:02 a.m. PT, playing with Lee Hodges and Calum Tarren both days.

The Houston Open will be telecast on the Golf Channel. You can follow Brendan shot-for-shot with TOURCast on the pgatour.com website or with the PGA Tour cellphone app.

Deborah Geisinger of Tree and Landscape Consulting & Care gave a presentation at the Idyllwild Rotary Club's weekly Wednesday meeting at American Legion Post 800 last week discussing the state of the forest in Idyllwild. Rotarian Les Gin thanked her with a Rotary mug.

Idyllwild School students of the week are in Mrs. Michele Wiesen's third grade class. Lucas Davis (left) is always willing to lend a helping hand, whether an adult or a student is in the class. He comes to school every day with a smile on his face and is ready to learn. Lucas contributes to the success of the school by promoting a positive school climate through his actions and words. Keep up the great work, Lucas. Bliss Ortiz is a polite, respectful and hardworking student. She works conscientiously and diligently, and always strives to do her best. Bliss always has a smile on her face and greets her teacher everyone morning with that same smile. Keep up the great work, Bliss.

HOROSCOPES

November 2022 — Week 2

March 21 – April 19
You're eager to "Ram" headfirst into that new project. But before you do, find out why some of your colleagues might not appear to be as gung-ho about it as you are.

April 20 – May 20
All that dedicated hard work you've been putting in pays off better than you expected. So go ahead, reward yourself with something befitting a beauty-loving Bovine.

May 21 – June 21
It's a good time to take on that new challenge. And if your self-confidence is lacking, instead of telling yourself why you can't do it, list all the reasons why you can.

June 22 – July 22
This is one time when you might want to put some distance between you and the job at hand. It will give you a better perspective on what you've done and what you still need to do.

July 23 – August 22
Resist that occasional lapse into Leoneine laziness that sometimes overtakes the Big Cat. Don't cut corners. Do the job right at this time, or you might have to redo it later.

August 23 – September 22
You know how you like to do things. And that's fine. But watch that you don't impose your methods on others. A current financial crunch soon eases.

September 23 – October 22
Someone might try to take advantage of your generosity. But before your sensitivity toward others overwhelms your good sense, check their story out carefully.

October 23 – November 21
Your strong Scorpion sense of fairness lets you see all sides of a dispute. Continue to remain impartial as you help each person work through their particular grievance.

November 22 – December 21
Trust your keen Sagittarian insight to help you see through an offer that might not be all it claims to be. A closer look could reveal disturbing elements.

December 22 – January 19
With the Goat exhibiting a more dominant aspect these days, you could find it easier to make your case in front of even the most skeptical audience.

January 20 – February 18
Take things nice and easy as you continue to build up your energy reserves for a big upcoming change. You'll need your strength for what lies ahead.

February 19 – March 20
Recent news from someone you trust could help you make an important decision. Also, be prepared to confront an upcoming change in a personal situation.
