Assembly holds hearing on wildfire insurance progress

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

Reform of wildfire insurance has been a high priority for state officials – both executive and legislative – for more than a year. Although the Legislature could not reach any compromises last fall, both Gov. Gavin Newsom and Insurance Commissioner Richardo Lara moved forward with administrative and regulatory actions.

Lara's goal for completing the changes necessary to improve the home insurance crisis in California is December 2024.

On May 15, Lara testified before the Assembly Committee on Insurance about these actions and noted some results have already been achieved. The Committee chair, Assemblywoman Lisa Calderon (D – Whittier) directed her initial comment to Lara.

"You've been clear and upfront about your December 31, 2024, deadline to complete your strategy, but I must state, time is running out. It's imperative that the insurance market stabilize now," she stressed.

At the end of his press conference about the May revisions to the fiscal year 2024-25 budget, Newsom announced that he planned to submit trailer bill language to accelerate the administrative actions. Lara already has expressed his agreement with Newsom.

While some public hearings are still scheduled and some rulemakings are not yet complete, Lara stated that insurance companies are already changing and modifying their insurance activities in California.

"But I can tell you that the conversations I've had with reinsurers around the world is that they're leaning into California with these changes," he announced.

On May 14, Farmers Insurance announced that it will reopen several of its commercial coverage lines, including for homeowners' associations, apartments, and condominiums in California, according to Lara. Farmers is California's largest domiciled insurance company and second largest homeowners write, he added.

In his press release, Eric Coleman, president of Business Insurance for Farmers, said. "Farmers has operated in California for nearly a century, and while challenges remain, we are encouraged by the positive changes taking place in the state's commercial insurance marketplace."

"We have been consistent in our belief that a fundamental condition for offering coverage is that rates need to reflect the risk exposure we are insuring. Fortunately, through constructive discussions with the CDI, we are now ready to take this step back into the market," added Coleman.

Lara added that CDI has approved three of Farmers' homeowners rate filings in the last year.

On May 10, CDI approved a homeowner's rate increase for CSAA Insurance Exchange. Although CSAA insures in Northern California, Lara told the Committee, "Earlier this year, my department approved a significant homeowners rate filing for Triple-A South, so it can continue to write homeowners policies throughout Southern California."

In addition, Mercury Insurance Company is working with Tokio Marine to pick up the bulk of its personal homeowners insurance business. Mercury is another California-based company that has not stopped writing new homeowner's policies.

County Health confirms no
norovirus outbreak

CORRESPONDENT

Earlier this month, some Pacific Crest Trail hikers were concerned about the possibility of norovirus infecting other hikers going north. While some posted their fears on Facebook, others contacted the Town Crier. One wrote that the outbreak was between Idyllwild and Big Bear Lake.

No evidence of a norovirus outbreak in Riverside County or locally has been identified.

"Public Health has not had any confirmations of norovirus in Riverside County," wrote Janet Zimmerman, Director of Marketing & Public Relations for the Riverside University Health System.

Further, Suzanne Avalon, owner and editor of the Town Crier, spoke to the local medical clinics, "They reported no patients coming in with norovirus symptoms. The pharmacy said no one came in needing any medication for norovirus symptoms, but that they had a number of hikers ask for the tablets that purify water."

Idyllwild Fire Chief Mark LaMont also confirmed that the Fire Department had not received any call increase due to norovirus.

Last September, about 25 hikers in the State of Washington reported acute gastroenteritis. By the end of the month, there were sufficient reports of illness that the samples were taken from two hikers.

In early October, more samples were taken at a cabin available as a rest stop, the nearby ventilated improved pit (VIP) latrines, and a stream used for drinking water.

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued these conclusions after the testing and analysis. "Norovirus was not detected in any samples. No culture-based fecal indicators, E. coli, or human-specific fecal contamination were detected in any water source. All surface swabs inside the cabin and pit latrines tested positive for human-specific fecal contamination. Despite absence of detection of norovirus from environmental sampling, symptom profiles . . . all supported the conclusion that the outbreak was primarily caused by norovirus, and that exposure to contaminated surfaces within the cabin and VIP latrines likely amplified transmission."

In the Spring of 2022, there was also an outbreak among rafters and backpackers in the backcountry of Grand Canyon National Park.

While these outbreaks may have occurred far from Idyllwild, County health officials did want to remind residents that summer is a time to be aware of and take protection from norovirus, especially when hiking and camping.

Norovirus, which causes vomiting and diarrhea, can easily spread from infected people to others on camping and river rafting trips where thorough hand washing is difficult and clean water supplies can be limited.

RUHS provided the following tips to prevent infection and protect your health:

Wash hands frequently with biodegradable soap at least 200 feet from water sources. When soap is not available, use hand sanitizer that contains 60-95% alcohol. Be aware that alcohol-based hand sanitizer

Chef Gutierrez brings much experience to The Peak

By DAVID JEROME
CORRESPONDENT

Memorial Day weekend marked the opening of Tahquitz Pines’ restaurant, the Peak, with a Santa Maria style BBQ buffet. For many locals it was their first look at the changes at what was always a church camp, but is now a resort destination with varied lodging options, event venues, and recreation facilities for guests and day-pass purchasers.

Friday was opening night for the Peak, and there we met Chef Amaro Gutierrez. He was executive chef for the last five years at the Empire Polo Grounds in Indio, which hosts Coachella Fest and Stagecoach. His work there put him in contact with many celebrity chefs. There and at Indian Ridge Country Club he got a sense of what a clubhouse can be, and says about the Peak, “it’s going to be a club house for the community.” It has two decks, one facing the entry and one in back, elevated and facing the forest. The restaurant and full bar are in a pine paneled dining room out of Idyllwild’s past. There is a large hall upstairs for ballroom dancing, karaoke, small shows and banquets. Amaro called the weekend “the beginning of the future” for the Peak, and the restaurant “the opportunity I’ve been waiting for my entire career, to come up here and partner with people who want to make things happen.” The full bar includes wines and a “killer” selection of whiskeys and scotches, “up to the 21-year marks.” “We’re going to have fun with this. This isn’t your standard sit down, same menu, one special a day. It’s going to be lot more fun.” When he first looked at the existing dining hall, Amaro thought some of the cafeteria’s style would get in the way, but then began to think outside the box, turning what might seem weaknesses at first into strengths. During the opening weekend, diners still picked up old-fashioned trays and went down a buffet line, but in the future table service will be the norm. The salad bar will stay, abut the chef has already rolled out a small dinner and lunch menu, and is dreaming of some BBQ specials, entrees like “Tomahawk” rib feasts, 18 oz bone-in ribeye steaks and more. The lunch menu includes sandwiches and lighter fair and dinner, starting at 3 p.m, includes bone in ribeye, skirt steak with an herb chimichurri, a “Kiss of Smoke” NY steak, steer steak with shiitake charred onion Demi glaze, and Norwiegan Salmon, also with a chimichurri. Expect the menu to change seasonally. “On the day-to-day menu I might bring some things I’ve learned cooking with Argentinian chefs.” Amaro loves to cook outdoors, and the grills and smoker will stay for the season, appearing on the deck at the Peak and at events on the lawn and around the premises. He pointed out the selection available that weekend: eight meats and as many vegan options available on request. “This is my jam. It’s showtime baby.” The Peak at Tahquitz Pines Retreat, 55252 South Circle Dr. Open daily 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Ashley and Shane Stewart proudly welcome their guests to the opening of The Peak on Friday night.

Life Tribute Rosalie McDonnell 1941-2024

Rosalie McDonnell passed away Saturday, May 18, 2024. She was 82 years old, and would have turned 83 on July 21. She visited Idyllwild several times to spend time with us and loved taking in the beautiful scenery of the town. Rosalie loved nature, animals, singing at church, being a caregiver, and cooking. She is survived by her son Perry McDonnell and other family, who loved her very much, as well as her blended family who came into her life more recently. She was very accepting of everyone and made us feel like she was our mother and grandmother too. Grandma Rosalie, we love you and miss you so much. We decided to do something different to celebrate your life and share this poem and prayer in your memory: “Every moment of your life is like a picture you’ve never seen, and images that will never be seen again. So, enjoy your life and make every moment beautiful.” — Unknown “May the love of God and the peace of the Lord Jesus Christ bless and console us and gently wipe every tear from our eyes: in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit.” A single tribute could never be enough. May your spirit soar in Heaven as you find peace. Love Perry, Cecilia, Beck, Jackson, Ciera, and Bailey

DEAR IDYLLWILD COMMUNITY,

On May 24th, we bade farewell to the extraordinary and resilient Class of 2024. These students entered high school in the height of the pandemic and were unable to participate in the rituals and rites of passage that mark their transition into young adulthood.

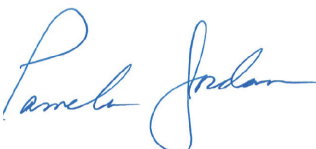

This year our student body was composed of 286 students who hailed from 35 countries. The requirements for Idyllwild Arts Academy students far exceed the requirements of a traditional high school. Our unique co-curricular program demands that students earn a High School Diploma as well as a certificate of completion in the arts. Due to the global pandemic our students had to meet these expectations with greater flexibility and more grit than any class before them. They now leave us as citizen artists, spreading across the globe to take gap years, begin professional careers, or attend some of the best conservatories and universities in the United States and abroad.

A time-honored tradition is to grant awards to students of all grades who are outstanding scholars, artists and citizens. Below is a list of the 2024 award recipients. Students referenced with an * are residents of Idyllwild.

- This year’s recipients were:
- Richard H. MacNeal Award - Devika Aggarwal
 - Valedictorian - Emma Shah Hollenbeck
 - Outstanding Citizenship Award - Julia Atanacio
 - Jon and Lillian Lovelace Outstanding Artist - Omar Andre Real

 - Outstanding 10th Grade Scholar - Sophia Dillon*
 - Outstanding 11th Grade Scholar - Elizabeth Henderson Mullaly
 - Outstanding 12th Grade Scholars - Charlotte Kogelman* & Sofiya Mityurev
 - Dance Outstanding Artist - Emma Shah Hollenbeck
 - Dramatic Arts Outstanding Artist - Keira Mireille Bertram
 - Fashion Outstanding Artist - Keiya Fujiwara
 - Film & Digital Media Outstanding Artist - Arsenii Nevzorov
 - InterArts Outstanding Artist - Remington L. Haring
 - Music Outstanding Artist - Rentso Angelov Stavrev
 - Visual Arts Outstanding Artist - Sung-Won “Lucy” Park

We are proud of all of our students and applaud the growth and accomplishments they achieved while in our care. They now join thousands of Idyllwild Arts Academy alumni who are sharing their talents to make a difference around the world. As they take their leave, we remind them of the mantra they heard every week during their time with us, “Remember who you are and what you stand for.”

In gratitude,

President, Idyllwild Arts Foundation

may be ineffective against norovirus. Boil or chemically treat water if you are worried about norovirus. Most filters do not remove viruses but can be used effectively in combination with chemical disinfection against a broad range of pathogens. Avoid sharing food. Do not eat out of the same food bag, share utensils or drink from other hikers' water bottles. Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth. If you become sick with norovirus, drink plenty of fluids and wash your hands often. Seek medical treatment, especially if you become dehydrated or the illness lasts more than a few days. Avoid contaminating common areas and surfaces. Stay home or away from others for two days after symptoms stop. If you are on the trail, make sure that you are disposing of your waste properly.

Insurance

together on this project with the common goal of providing coverage for California insurance consumers," said Gabriel Tirador, Chief Executive Officer, and Director of Mercury. Lara's Sustainable Insurance Strategy includes several components. Progress is being made on each and at different rates. The incorporation of catastrophic modeling into rate making is critical for insurers. Currently California only allows historic fire costs to be used to assess rate increases. The companies want to use models that address future fires and their size and costs. In April, the CDI released a proposal and requested public comment. Lucy Wang, Special Counsel and Deputy Commissioner at the DOI, told the Committee, "In California, we are very strong on our consumer protections and we are the only state mandating where if they use this risk mitigation tool, cat modeling, they also have to make that measuring commitment to right policies in our wildfire distressed areas. "Modeling companies do not want to submit their models under Prop. 103 because it is subject to complete public transparency plus with the intervention process," Wang added. Kimberly Stone speaking for Consumer Watchdog and Intervener, said her client has "... urged the creation of a transparent catastrophe model to make sure that climate risk is incorporated into insurance rates in a way that is publicly accountable. "We're very glad to hear support from the Commissioner for that idea and urge the building of a public model as soon as possible," she added. In June, a workshop is planned to discuss the effect of these models on rate applications. At that workshop, Lara said, "We are going to be identifying wildfire distressed areas where we expect insurance companies to write more policies." The other components of the SIS include incorporating the use of reinsurance into rate making, which Lara has said is important to the industry. Lara expects to release a proposed rulemaking on this in July. Reinsurance is a critical component of how insurance companies manage their risk, and allowing these costs to be included in rate filings will support greater insurance availability. Another critical component, which is being pushed by Newsom, is improvement to the actual rate filing process. He noted in his May Revision presentation, that he planned to introduce Trailer Bill language to speed up this effort. Lara has already endorsed Newsom's efforts. Both believe that legislation is a faster means of obtaining this change than a drawn-out regulatory process. The rule filing change affects insurance companies as well as DOI. The insurers must submit a complete file, then the State has 60 days to make a decision. "So, in February, we hosted our workshop on the complete rate application, where we are for the first time in 20 years, updating what it means to have a complete rate application," Wang said. "So, there is clear direction. And that was done as a result of communications with insurance companies and our department as to what are the components needed." At this point Lara re-emphasized the need to reduce the time for approving this change. "This is why the trailer bill language we're supporting and the Governor's May Revise is critical because it holds all of us accountable. It says, insurance companies, you need to provide a complete rate file. Department, you need to get done within 60 days." Another important component is strengthening, through modernization, the FAIR (Fair Access to Insurance Requirements) Plan. Established in 1968, the FAIR Plan is a syndicated fire insurance pool comprised of all insurers licensed to conduct property or casualty business in California. Transparency and accountability is the final component of the SIS. In his conclusion, to the Assembly's Committee, Lara offered, "These are signs of progress. However, we are not going to declare success prematurely, or be reactive to every insurance announcement or headline. We are all living in a time of uncertainty. I know that this is frustrating for anyone who is trying to buy or sell a home, or worried about whether they can even afford the insurance coverage they need as we face another fire season. "Now we are facing the accumulated stress of decades of long-needed reforms and neglected decisions," Lara emphasized. During the hearing Assemblyman Damon Connolly (D-San Rafael) questioned whether wildfire mitigation efforts will likely reduce insurance policy costs and what is the actual discount policy holders may receive. "Farmers Insurance, for example, estimated that the average policyholder in an area with high fire risk would only save $42 to $75 a year for taking mitigation steps," he specifically posed to Lara. "I also have heard that multi-pane windows and no flammable structures within 30 feet of a home results in only a 0.1% discount for each." "Obviously, these policies differ from homeowner to homeowner. Cause all the residencies are different," Lara replied. "I can tell you that from what we've approved, and I can only give you the macro numbers. We've actually seen a 20% to 30% discount." He then stressed that mitigation work needs to generate a discount significant enough for the resident to make the investment in home hardening. Assemblywoman Gail Pellerin (D-Santa Cruz), then raised the issue of policy bundling. "I guess the other thing that we're hearing about is that somebody had their home insurance bundled with their car insurance. Then they get the non-renewal, and then their car insurance goes up because it's no longer bundled," she said. To which Lara agreed that is one of the most frequent questions his office receives. "... through our community meetings, which we've met with 150,000 people, if a company is no longer writing in a community, why are we letting them write auto insurance?" However, the solution is not to simply prohibit this behavior. Lara noted that auto and fire insurance are two different lines of business. "I don't want to create unintended consequences. Where now we create a crisis on the auto part," he said, explaining why this is a complex area to resolve. John Norwood spoke on behalf of the Independent Insurance Agents and Brokers of California and offered several comments. "As we look at the wildfire problem, I don't think we can suppress or insure our way out of this issue," he said to the Committee. "[I] just came from an insurance conference where reinsurers are concerned that California's still not spending enough money on fire resiliency. This is something that's going to have to be done. It's not one and done. It's day in, day out every year. That money is going to have to be put up. There are some communities that have spent thousands, and that's very positive, but it's going to have to be an ongoing commitment." As the hearing ended after Norwood spoke, the members are awaiting the trailer bill language that Newsom and Lara have promised on how to speed up the rate filing process.

Board approves salary increases for supervisors and other elected officials

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

At its May 21 meeting the County Board of Supervisors approved two ordinances which raise their salaries and those of the County’s other elected officials, e.g., the Sheriff and the County Auditor. The vote was 4-1, with Supervisor Kevin Jeffries (1st District) opposing both.

“For most of these elected officials, these ordinances were last addressed in 2014,” County Executive Officer, Jeff Van Wagenen, wrote in his memorandum to the board. “... Human Resources determined that the compensation for elected officials has not kept pace with either the salaries paid to their subordinates or to similarly situated officials in surrounding counties.”

Supervisors’ salaries have been 80% of a California Superior Court judge since 1998. This year, a Riverside County Supervisor’s salary is $190,783. However, a supervisor’s chief of staff can earn $198,561.

Proposed Ordinance 780.4 would set the Riverside County Supervisor salary at 14% greater than a chief of staff may earn rather than the current rate of 80% of a superior court judge. Thus, the new salary for Riverside supervisors will become $226,359.49.

And this was Jeffries’ point of opposition. Since judge’s salaries are set by the Legislature, tying the Supervisor’s salaries to Superior Court judges created separation between the Board members and setting their own salary. Since they are responsible for setting the pay range of their staff, going forward that decision will affect their own salaries.

“When tied to judges, my colleagues wanted an arm’s length of distance from the decision to whether the Board of Supervisors would enjoy a pay increase,” Jeffries stated. “Tacking it to another outside entity was a way to avoid self-dealing and avoid granting our own pay raise.”

While he was aware of the outcome of this recommendation, nevertheless, Jeffries believes, “This is a terrible mistake and will not sit well with the taxpayers. I caution that there is a better way to do this. And this is not the path I believe this Board should take.”

The salaries for the other elected officials have been unchanged for 10 years, since 2014. The one exception was the salary for the District Attorney, which was not changed in 2014. The Supervisors did increase it in 2018.

This was Supervisor Karen Spiegel’s (2nd District) justification for voting “Yes”. While she said she agreed with Jeffries’ points, she still felt that the justification for the increases for the elected executive officials was too strong to oppose.

“After 10 years, we have to raise their pay,” she acknowledged.

Board Chair Supervisor Chuck Washington (3rd District) described it as “... very awkward to vote on our pay.” However, he argued the Board must vote and approve county staff salaries, including agreement with labor unions and other employee associations. This is what they have do in this situation, also, despite the “optics.”

The salary differences between the levels at neighboring counties and senior staff is a disparity, according to Van Wagenen.

Ordinance 781.16 would establish the elected official’s new salary and future salaries at 14% greater than their senior staff, e.g., Assistant County Auditor-Controller or Undersheriff.

Both ordinances must be approved at two different meetings. The next Board of Supervisors meeting is June 4. If approved, the new supervisorial salaries are effective in 60 days. The new salaries for the other county officials will be effective in 30 days.

Dick’s Dogs, Idyllwild’s permanent food truck

By DAVID JEROME
CORRESPONDENT

Amy and Richard Hawley are the proprietors of Idyllwild’s only food truck, the cheerful and cheeky Dick’s Dogs. Amy sat down with the Crier to fill us in. “Both of us worked in the restaurant business up here, until with COVID, like many people, we were sent home for months. We wanted to think, ‘What would sustain us through another shutdown?’ Because of our background we were accepted among other restaurants, Ferro, Mile High, other neighbors.”

Their psychedelic gift shop, Wild Idy, opened in 2017, and Dick’s Dogs in 2020. They parked the truck at various locations around town before ending up in front of Wild Idy, on North Circle downtown. Amy said, “This has turned out best; the most visibility. As an added bonus, it helps drive foot traffic for Wild Idy. Shane [Stewart] has been gracious since our planning phase.”

Amy and Richard love food truck culture and are always on the prowl for new experiences and ideas. “We went to Seattle just to eat fish on the street. It was our daughter’s birthday, she wants to be a chef, she’s 14. She wanted to go. She’s into grunge music and food. It’s a great city to eat your way through.”

They take their food seriously, if not themselves. “It’s called ‘Dick’s Dogs’ because it’s funny, not because it’s just his. It’s the antithesis of Hooters or Tilted Kilt. So many mainstream corporations have branding that exploits women.” But Dick’s Dogs is no joke: “We take our food seriously. We make from scratch our sauces, chilis, pickles; all the rubs and seasonings here are made in house.”

Regular patrons have learned the ins and outs: “Local specials are not always on the menu; the Dad Burger is not on the menu, and always sells out. It’s a double smash burger. We were the first “smash” burger in Idyllwild. Cheddar cheese, thin slice of tomato, grilled onions on Brioche, the Dad sauce is like a Thousand Island with a kick. The patty is rolled into a ball, seared, then smashed with a press to be thin like a pancake, with crispy edges.”

Hot dogs are top of the menu, and Amy loves to talk about them. “The hotdog is kind of the quintessential American street food. Ours is all beef, though we do offer a vegan dog. We have anywhere from 13 to 20 available toppings, depending on what we’ve pickled or played with on any given week. We spent the first year getting our chili recipe down and settled on a Detroit-style chili sauce that we make from scratch. We also have a vegan version, also scratch made. We have a half dozen sauces we make here in house and are working on transitioning over to in-house ketchup and relish as well.”

Not content to “smash the patriarchy one hot dog at a time” they are always looking for new specialties. “We want to roll out fried chicken box meals for Thursday night summer concerts. We are working on Midwest and Southern-style side dishes, learning how to pickle and make butter and sour cream. We made a lot of tacos before we started Taco Tuesdays.” Taco Tuesdays feature “authentic and delicious salsas and marinades and a small but mighty taco menu that typically sells out on preorder, which is very exciting for us. We start taking orders on Saturday for Tuesday, and by Tuesday morning we are usually very close to sold out if not sold out completely. We feel a huge sense of pride knowing that we are being supported so enthusiastically on a local level.”

A food truck comes with challenges: “There’s very limited space on a food truck; things are limited and sell out quickly. Most restaurants have 250 cubic feet of dry storage, let alone refrigerated and frozen. We are 12 feet total.”

Food trucks must pass all the same inspections as conventional restaurants, and the Hawleys are proud of their “A” rating, recognition that they take cleanliness and good processing seriously. The regulation of trucks is not like that for other mobile food service options. “An enclosed truck is different from the open carts you see on the street. They need a daily permit fee, and the bureaucratic process involved made it not a sustainable option for us. The property owner needs to pull a permit for vendors, ‘open air high risk vendors,’ that’s more for special events, so we went with an enclosed truck.”

The Hawleys are looking for more ways to be a part of the community. “We donate to everyone who approaches us.” They are always looking for community events to take their mobile food service to the people. “A dream of ours is to be a vendor at the big community events, particularly the concerts. We base our summer schedule around hanging out with the kids and friends. It’s a fleeting season, evenings in Idyllwild. We always tell people, ‘Come on a summer Thursday and get the real Idyllwild.’”

Dick’s Dogs is usually found at 54340 North Circle Dr. Hours are Thursday to Monday, “11-ish to when we sell out, usually around 4.” Tuesday is noon to 2 p.m., preorder recommended. Text (951) 282-1186.

As we celebrate this momentous occasion, we announce that 2024 will be the final Jazz In The Pines Festival at Idyllwild Arts. We pass the torch on to the educators and performers of The Jazz In The Pines Student Clinic as they continue to carry this beloved art form into the future for years to come. Please consider a donation during our final festival year, to support student scholarships at Idyllwild Arts. We thank our festival co-founder, Dr. Marshall Hawkins, for his vision, and for playing a vital role in helping to secure hundreds of thousands of dollars in scholarship support for deserving and talented young jazz musicians from around the world. This year’s 30th Anniversary Festival will be in memory of the late jazz guitar giant, our beloved Bob Boss.

Youth Baseball

It's hard to believe that we are already in the seventh week of ICC Youth Baseball with the season coming to an end this week. All teams have been playing hard throughout all divisions – the teams that finish the regular season with the best record will earn homefield advantage in the final championship games this week.

Here is the schedule for the remaining games:

- 4:45 p.m. Tuesday, May 28: Astros vs Padres (Minor League – regular season game)
- 5:45 p.m. Tuesday, May 28: Blue Jays vs Red Hawks (Major League – regular season game)
- 4:45 p.m. Wednesday, May 29: Golden Eagles vs Manzanitas (T-Ball League – 3rd place game)
- 5:45 p.m. Wednesday, May 29: Wildlings vs Idyll-Beasts (T-Ball championship game)
- 4:45 p.m. Thursday, May 30: Astros vs Padres (Minor League championship game)
- 5:45 p.m. Thursday, May 30: Blue Jays vs Red Hawks (Major League championship game)

Although the season seemed like it went by fast, we can see some major improvements with the players in all leagues. The Minor League teams have tremendously improved in their batting skills and infield plays, the Major League teams have excelled on the pitching mound and all aspects of defense, and the T-Ball players can hit the ball and run the bases in the correct order (now mostly without any help.) And there are some real sluggers in all divisions. Let's run through the highlights from last week.

Wednesday, May 22: T-Ball

The first game was between the Wildlings and the Idyll-Beasts. Since both teams have already locked in the top two spots in their league and are looking to play against each other the final championship on May 29, the coaches decided to each forfeit the game (resulting in a tie) and invite the parents onto the field for a day of fun: It was parents vs. children.

The children, already primed from weeks of T-Ball, were off to an early start as they were eager to show off their batting skills. The parents were struggling at bat as the tee could only go as high as their knees, plus they were not too fast at running the bases. If anyone was keeping score ,it would have been a clear victory for the children but judging by the number of laughs on each side, I'd say both teams won that day. Great job, parents! Next game: the Championship Final at 5:45 p.m. Wednesday May 29.

The second game of the day was between the Golden Eagles and the Manzanitas, who would be playing each other in the 3rd place game this Wednesday. It was a back-and-forth battle but in the final inning it was the Golden Eagles who pulled ahead and won the game 12-11.

Can they do it again this week and earn a 3rd-place finish, or are the Manzanitas going to upset the Eagles, win their first game of the season, and swoop into 3rd place last second? We will find out at 4:45 p.m. Wednesday, May 29.

Thursday, May 23: Minor League

Out of the five games between the Padres (sponsored by Idyllwild Pharmacy) and the Astros (sponsored by AstroCamp), three of them have been decided by a single run. And unfortunately for the Astros, all three of those games were in favor of the Padres. The Astros showed up last Thursday looking to turn the tables and gain some kind of momentum heading into the final week, as they still had yet to defeat their rivals. Good thing that this is baseball, where anything could happen.

The Astros were the home team this game and took the field looking sharp, focused and ready to break the Padres' five-game winning streak. With great defense lead by Brody Beneke and the Astros infielders, they managed to keep the Padres sluggers at bay and were leading 4-2 at the conclusion of the first inning. But you can't keep a beast caged for long.

The Padres went on one of their famous hitting streaks and brought in 7 runs in the second inning. Uri-ah Guy's grand slam (a homerun with the bases loaded) accounted for 4 of those runs. The Padres would gain the lead 9-6 in the second inning.

With smart batting and great fielding, the Astros managed to keep the score close. The Astros were down 11-9 heading into their final at-bat. The Padres managed to get a couple of outs, while the Astros managed to get a couple of runners on base. Only one out for the Padres to win.

But wait! Who is coming up to the plate for the As-tros? None other than "RBI-King" Caleb Marich.

Would the Padres get the last out and win the game?

Or would something incredible happen for the As-tros?

I'll let Coach Megan Berg explain: "Caleb deserves a big shout out for another multiple-RBI game, and helping the Astros notch their first win with a 3-run homer-un to win the game!"

The Astros would go on to defeat the Padres 12-11,

CREATURE CORNER

Last week in Days of Our Nine Lives, the ARF cats met five new kittens and new dog Sonny.

Smokey: Are we lucky, or what? The weather was perfect for the holiday weekend!

Pepper: It really was, and the ARF yard sale was a success.

Stretch: Any news on the adoption front?

Whiskey: No, sadly. Sales were good, but adoptions, not so much.

Eeyore: Now that the holiday weekend is finished, maybe some folks will be ready to welcome new kittens into their homes.

Pepper: Three of them are all ready to go, neutering, vaccinations, and all.

Henri: One is still a bit young to leave, but will soon be ready.

Stretch: Now that the weather is starting to act a bit more like summer, I hope pet guardians will rethink the way they walk their dogs.

Whiskey: That's right. Our poor paws can easily be burned on hot pavement.

Henri: Did you know that when it is 77 degrees out, the pavement can reach 125 degrees?

Pepper: Holy catnip! That is super hot.

Eeyore: What is a dog guardian to do if he or she wants to take the dog for a walk?

Smokey: The dog should be walked when it's cooler out, like in the morning or evening.

Henri: They should also make certain their dogs and cats have cool places to rest.

Stretch: And lots of water!

Eeyore: And your thoughts don't even touch the serious situation of dogs left in cars!

Whiskey: No kidding. A car can reach terrible, live threatening temps.

Henri: That's correct. When it's only 82 degrees out, within minutes the inside of a car can reach 109 degrees!

Stretch: What a terrible way to treat your best friend.

Creature Corner is looking for sponsors! If you'd like to be a sponsor, please contact ARF. Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of Days of our Nine Lives each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy 243. ARF is open Saturdays 10-3, Sundays 10-2, and during the week by appointment. Please call 951-659-1122.

giving the Padres their first loss of the season. Berg continued, “Walter Staff is our player of the week. Walter has a great attitude and encourages his teammates. He is one of the most improved players over the season, and during our last game, he got a hit every time he went to bat.”

Could this be the momentum change the Astros needed heading into the final week?

The Astros may have just gained the confidence they were looking for, now that they know their rivals can be defeated. And now they know that in baseball, anything is possible.

Only one more game before the final championship game at 4:45 p.m. Thursday May 30. I’ve got a feeling it’s going to be a close one.

Thursday, May 23: Major League

The series was tied heading into Game 6 between the Blue Jays (sponsored by Idyllwild Garage) and the Red Hawks (sponsored by SoCal Renovations) — both teams with 2 wins, 2 losses and 1 tie.

The Red Hawks came out swinging in the first inning with a 3-run homerun by Eli Giampa to make the score 3-0. Then, in terms of the score, not much happened until the final inning of the game.

In terms of fielding, pitching and overall defense, it was a stout stand-off between two groups of well-disciplined and talented ballplayers. You can tell that both teams are each led by an excellent coaching staff.

Then in the final inning, it was smart batting by Averi Fernandes, followed by a nicely hit double by Meadow Griffin, setting it up for Miles Sechrest to smash a 3-run homerun to extend the Red Hawks’ lead in the final inning.

Incidentally, it was Miles again — this time on the pitcher’s mound , who closed it off with a strikeout and a scoreless inning.

The Red Hawks went on to win 6-0.

Can the Blue Jays even the series once again on Tuesday?

Who will gain homefield advantage for the final championship game being played at 5:45 p.m. Thursday, May 30?

One thing is for sure, Mike Van Zee and the Idyllwild School ASB will be there with snacks and refreshments while we all watch baseball history unfold this week on Idyllwild School’s Top Field.
