Cal crime rates continue to decline; hate crimes still up since 2016

By JP Crumrine
Correspondent

At the beginning of the month, the California Department of Justice released its 2025 crime reports. Individual reports on crime and crime statistics for homicide, property crime, use of force incidents, juvenile justice, and gun crimes were all released.

In general, crime is decreasing in California. In 2025, the reported incidents of all violent crimes – homicide, rape, aggravated assault and robbery-- decreased from the number reported in 2024.

There were 292 fewer homicides in 2025, a decrease of 17.5 percent. This is the fewest number of homicides since 1987. While homicides declined from 2005 to 2014, they then began to increase, particularly during the COVID shutdowns. Last year saw the third consecutive decline and the greatest of the past three years.

In 2025, the rate of homicides was 3.5 per 100,000 individuals compared to 4.3 in 2024 and 6.0 in 2021.

"Every Californian deserves to feel safe in their community," said Governor Gavin Newsom in an accompanying press release. "These historic results show that when we invest in our communities, support law enforcement, crack down on organized crime, and expand prevention and intervention efforts, we can save lives and improve public safety."

Guns or firearms were the most common weapon used to commit homicide. In nearly 67 percent of those cases where the weapon could be identified, it was a firearm.

With respect to the relationship between the suspect and victim, a friend or acquaintance was the perpetrator in nearly half of the homicides. About a quarter were committed by a stranger. In 18 percent, a spouse, parent, or child were the suspects.

Nearly one homicide out of seven was the result of domestic violence.

Property crime—burglary, motor vehicle theft, and larceny-- also fell 14.3 percent in 2025. That number of property crimes reported was 705,925 in 2025. That is 17 percent less than 2020 and 32 percent fewer property crimes than 10 years ago. The largest decline in single category this year was 33 percent in the number of motor vehicle thefts.

"These numbers prove that the investments in community violence intervention over recent years and the commitment to effective partnerships and collaboration between federal, state, and local governments, law enforcement agencies, and community partners are working," Attorney General Rob Bonta said in his press release. "Our policing has gotten smarter, more organized, and more coordinated. We've created successful organized retail theft programs, human trafficking and fentanyl task forces, and programs targeting violent criminals."

Juvenile arrests were also down again.

However, hate crimes were not universally falling in 2025. Overall reported hate crime events have increased by 110 percent in the 10 years since 2016.

They did decline 3.4 percent in 2025 from 2024 --

Supervisors propose Ad Hoc Committee to consider oversight of Sheriff's Office

By JP Crumrine
Correspondent

At the County's July 14 Board of Supervisors' meeting, chairperson Karen Spiegel and her colleague Supervisor Jose Medina proposed that the Board establish an Ad Hoc Committee to evaluate advisory and oversight options related to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department.

In their memorandum to the other Board members, Medina and Spiegel acknowledged that the Board has previously considered whether an advisory or oversight function should be created to oversee the Sheriff's Office, but no formal Board action was taken.

But the situation has changed, they state there is greater public interest, and just last month a County Grand Jury renewed its recommendation for independent oversight of the County's Sheriff's Department.

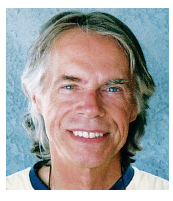

The Grand Jury recommendation [see page A5 of the June 25 issue of the Town Crier] focused on the large number of in-custody deaths, the ongoing and unresolved State review of these, and the inadequacy of the existing Sheriff's Advisory Committee, which led to the Grand Jury's recommendations.

Consequently, Spiegel and Medina state, ". . . rather than presupposing a particular outcome, it is appropriate for the Board to undertake a deliberate and comprehensive review of the available options. . ." and establishing an Ad Hoc Committee provides that opportunity.

The advocates for the Ad Hoc Committee state that the purpose ". . . is to develop a well-informed recommendation that reflects Riverside County's operational needs, governance responsibilities, and community expectations for consideration by the full Board of Supervisors."

The Ad Hoc Committee would have 180 days to formulate and submit a report of findings, recommendations, and options to the full Board. The Board members serving on the Ad Hoc Committee would be Medina and Spiegel.

Sheriff's Office awards Lifesaving medals to four RMRU volunteers

Four members of Riverside Mountain Rescue Unit recently received lifesaving medals from Riverside County Sheriff's Office for their work to save the lives of two hikers during a winter snowstorm in 2025.

At the annual "Honoring Courage, Celebrating Commitment" awards ceremony on June 30 at Pechanga Resort and Casino Sheriff Chad Bianco recognized four RMRU members, Alex Cochran, Andy Hayt, Blake Rankin, and Richard Yocum, along with 4 members from San Bernardino County SAR teams for their part in the March 2025 rescue.

The two hikers slid 700 feet off the Tahquitz Traverse trail, suffering multiple major traumatic injuries, and had to be sustained in the field for three days until the weather allowed helicopter evacuation.

RMRU is an all-volunteer nonprofit organization trained in high angle rock and ice and snow rescue. To learn more about their missions visit rmru.org

Grand Jury Findings

Dear editor:

I found it quite telling to read last week's article about the Grand Jury findings regarding the Board of Supervisors and Code Enforcement in Riverside County's 'tourist areas'. I don't know about the wine country, but Code Enforcement has been nearly non-existent in Idyllwild for at least 10 years. Anyone who has been paying attention probably knows who the 'big donors' are that influence the BOS to put pressure on Code Enforcement to not pursue violations in Idyllwild. God bless the almighty dollar! So sad to watch the gentrification of Idyllwild become IDY and lose the Idyllic and Wild that brought most people here in the first place.

Something to Explain and Understand

Dear editor:

I have lived a long life. I feel very blessed and loved.

Heavenly Father loves everybody – and I mean everybody. We are the ones who make the separation. This has to stop!

Many things have changed. This is not my world anymore.

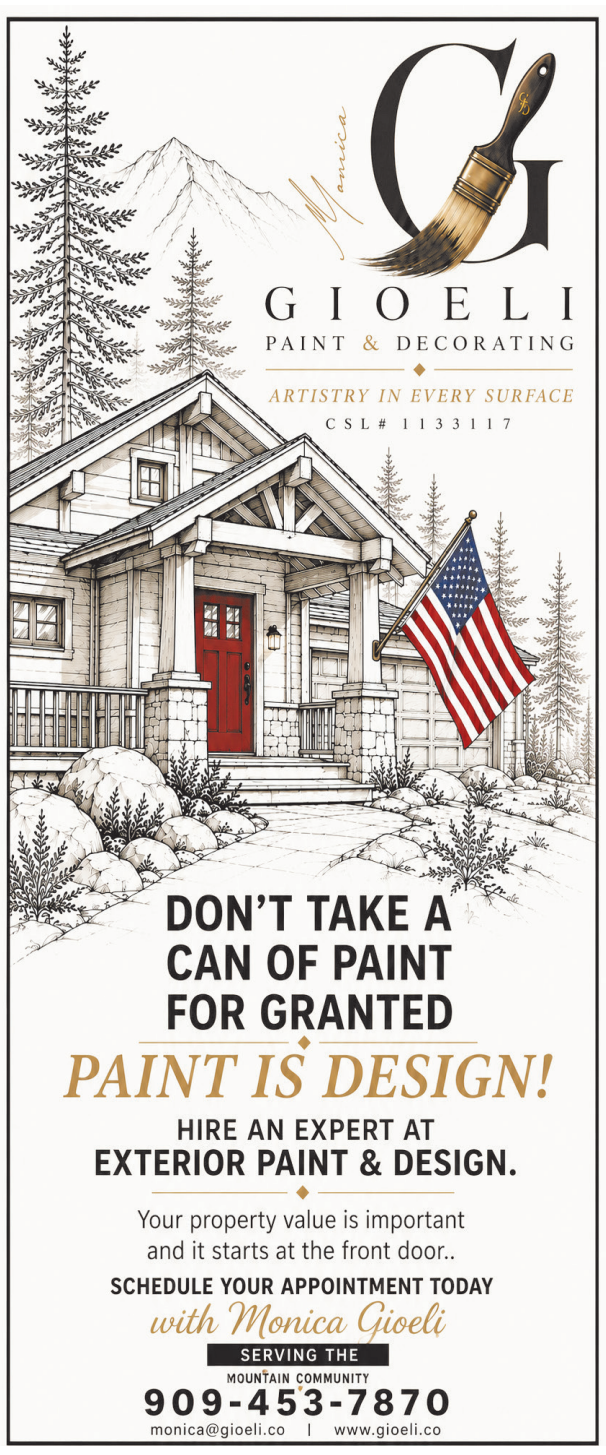

For instance, people's cell phones are number one in their lives. They would sleep with it if they could. At breakfast or dinner table there is no talk with the children. They have their own little phones to keep them quiet.

My faith is in Heavenly Father. I believe in Him and the Ten Commandments. This is all we need. So much is man-made. We must change or pay the consequences.

Jesus was a Jew. He gave his life for us. Christianity derived from Judaism. Many Christians pray to Jesus and many Christians hate Jews at the same time. Does that make sense? Think about it and change your hate to love! We must do it for our salvation. We must return his love or our time is up!

I understand all this and so can you.

State School Superintendent to lose much of their power to appointee

By JP Crumrine
Correspondent

Management and oversight of California's educational policies will soon be changing. Most of the authority for the elected state superintendent of public instruction will be transferred to a gubernatorial appointee pursuant to recently passed and signed Assembly Bill 181.

Gov. Gavin Newsom first announced this proposal in January during his "State of the State" address and his initial proposed Fiscal Year 2026-27 budget also assumed its implementation this fiscal year.

For years, this separation of both policy and management has caused confusion throughout the State and especially in local school districts. Under current law, the state superintendent has influence on educational policies, but no direct control over the budget.

The state superintendent, an independently elected official, runs California's Department of Education and serves as administrative lead for the state Board of Education. But the Governor appoints its members to four-year terms. However, the superintendent does not have a vote on the board and must follow board authority in some areas but not others.

The Legislature passes laws related to education and the governor signs or vetoes them. The governor proposes the budget for the Department of Education and all educational programs. The legislature passes the budget. There is no specific or authorized role for the state superintendent

Consequently, academics and school professionals have urged changes for years. In December, the research entity Policy Analysis for California Education made an independent effort to encourage this consolidation.

"A primary goal of this proposed model is to shift from a system in which roles and authority are unclear—leading to fragmentation and incoherence—towards a system in which every system actor is aligned around supporting districts and schools to serve students more effectively," the Report stated.

"California can no longer afford to postpone reforms that have been recommended regularly for a century," Newsom said when he signed the bill. "For too long, our state's education governance structure has divided responsibility for setting policy from responsibility for implementing it. AB 181 creates a more effective system that will help us deliver better results for students while ensuring greater accountability for the investments Californians make in public education."

About a dozen states, including California, split the authority of the state's education system between an elected state superintendent and the governor. In most states, either the governor or the state board of education appoints the top education official.

Both the State Senate and Assembly passed AB 181 last month and Newsom signed it on July 9.

The bill requires the new Education Commissioner to develop findings and recommendations for governance, consolidation and streamlining at the state level. An interim report is to be submitted by June 30, 2027. After review, consultations, a final report containing its findings and recommendations is to be submitted by Oct. 1, 2027 to the Governor and the appropriate policy and fiscal committees of the Legislature

In January, the California School Boards Association. said, "The logic behind Gov. Gavin Newsom's proposal to unite the State Board of Education with the California Department of Education and reshape the role of the state superintendent of public instruction echoes the arguments CSBA has long made for reforming the state's education apparatus to move beyond disconnected and sometimes conflicting programs, policies and budget decisions."

And last month after the Legislature moved the bill to the governor, Ted Lempert, President of Children Now, an Oakland-based research and advocacy organization said in a press release, "The approval of education governance reform, over a century in the making, is a monumental victory for California's students that finally establishes a sensible system to best support them. More than 950 diverse organizations across the state called for this reform through The Children's Movement of California, and we commend Governor Newsom for his leadership in making this much needed change a reality."

Support was not unanimous. The California Teachers Association opposes the change. In a press release, CTA President David Goldberg said, "Time and time again, voters have made it clear that they value an independent and nonpartisan advocate dedicated to strengthening public schools. If the position were to be appointed, it is subject to the political whims of the governor's office, which puts students, educators, and communities at risk."

Both candidates – Republican Sonja Shaw and Democrat Richard Barrera-- for State superintendent have expressed opposition. They are both members of local school boards, Shaw is on the Chino Valley Unified Board and Barrera serves on the San Diego Unified School District board.

Cal crime rates

from 2,023 in 2024 to 1,955 in 2025. But, reported hate crime events involving racial or ethnic bias increased by 6.2% from 1,011 in 2024 to 1,074 in 2025. "In particular, anti-Hispanic or Latino bias events increased by 30.3%, anti-citizenship status bias events increased from 16 in 2024 to 40 in 2025, and reported hate crime events involving gender bias increased by 23.8%," according to the report.

Anti-Jewish hate crimes are more than 2.5 times greater than 10 years ago.

Sexual orientation hate crimes fell from 455 in 2024 to 295 in 2025 but have been increasing since 2020.

"There is absolutely no place for hate in California. Transparent and accessible data is a critical part of understanding where we are and how we can end hate crimes in our communities," Bonta said in his press release. "While the overall number of reported hate crime events decreased in 2025, the data makes clear that too many Californians continue to be targeted because of who they are, where they come from, how they worship, who they love, or how they identify.

Pine Cove Water District reviews last year's budget, starts rate study

By David Jerome
Editor

The directors of Pine Cove Water district reviewed the final figures for fiscal year 2025-26 at their July 8 meeting.

GM Potter's operations report showed production of 2,911,447 gallons for June, more than 7% under last year and almost 10% below 2024. The district's static monitoring well fell 1.43 feet to 104.10 feet. Potter noted that the wells nearby are being used almost daily.

Potter is expecting delivery of the new transmitters for the electronic meters this month or in August. A pilot program with ten units found they would send daily data to the office, including distant addresses on Acorn Lane. They are multi-carrier cellular technology that overcomes the limitation of the original transmitters installed with new electronic valves and meters.

Before the end of the month two new generators should be delivered. The 65kw units will allow an additional five wells to continue pumping during power failures. Potter added that, with extreme fire danger in the forecast, he expects the power to go off "as it always does."

Another smaller generator that servers the Rocky Point Communications building went "kaput" and had to be replaced. Potter said the estimate to repair the 10kw unit was $4,000, while the new one cost $5,000. The new generator has wireless monitoring capabilities.

Potter said that two water tanks will require maintenance: one on the highway will need coating inside and out, and one at Rocky Point will need only exterior coating. He said he is working on a ten-year plan that will identify such large projects.

Potter met with Mark Carey of MC Engineering Inc, who will perform a rate study for the district. Potter said that Carey was impressed with the facility, their operations, and the water quality. Additional information will be exchanged by email. A rate study will lead to public hearings before the board can vote to implement new rates. PCWD's last rate study and increase was in 2022.

Carey will also present the district with a proposal for GIS (Geographic Information System) mapping of PCWD's infrastructure. Potter said he would like to have the system correctly mapped, adding that GIS is a "new era" for water distribution systems.

During a review of the monthly financial statement director Lou Padula noted with approval that liquid assets at $953,816 were very close to the target of one million dollars.

One expense that drew questions was the annual liability insurance payment, $95,969. General Manager Jermey Potter answered that they had looked into other insurers and had found the present one to be the cheapest in a very expensive field.

The board discussed the review of last year's budget, which totaled $1,326,000. Income was 8% over the projection and expenses 5% over budget.

Income that exceeded expectations came under the categories of: property tax ($10,784 over); interest ($12,248 over); services ($26,509 over); leases ($35,315 over) and other income, mostly the sale of a used truck ($44,706 over).

Expenses above budget included insurance ($5,969 over); vehicle maintenance ($7,695 over); system maintenance ($12,522 over); legal ($8,607 over); lab-testing ($39,487 over); and utilities ($20,621 over). Potter noted that the lab testing was for new requirements, and the district is now current on all testing.

Salary and benefits were overall within budget. PERS unfunded liability ($24,782 over) and taxes ($9,335 over) were substantially over, but this was more than balanced by less part time ($19,692 under budget); lower PERS retirement ($7,971); lower worker's comp ($10,107); medical and life insurance ($9,603 under); and training ($3,092 under.)

The district spent $36,401 on capital improvements, well under the $59,710 budgeted. Equipment was $31,930 over budget due to the purchase of a 2017 Dodge RAM, which was paid for by the sale of a newer but problem-plagued truck.

The fiscal year 2026-27 budget foresees income and expenses of $1,374,250, in increase of 3.6% over last year.

California restores EV purchase rebates

By JP Crumrine
Correspondent

Rebates on purchases of electric vehicles are returning for California buyers. Previous State and Federal rebates have expired or were not renewed.

But in his Fiscal Year 2026-27 budget proposals, Gov. Gavin Newsom included $135 million to provide incentives to first-time buyers for new and used EVs. For those that qualify, it would provide $3,500 on a new EV or $1,750 off a used one. Participating automakers will match the funds.

In 2023 and 2024, when California last offered rebates, more than 440,000 new EVs were sold. In 2025, before the federal tax rebate recission was passed, California EV sales were 408,000. With the loss of these incentives, new EV sales in the first quarter of 2026 fell to only 63,500.

The new state rebates will be applied as an instant discount at purchase. Buyers will not need to wait until tax season to receive their benefit. The California Air Resources Board is expected to finalize agreements with dealerships before rebates become available.

There are limitations to the rebate. First, buyers must certify that they have not previously owned a zero-emission vehicle.

Second, there are price limits. New EVs must have a manufacturer's suggested retail price of $50,000 or less. Used EVs must have a sale price of $25,000 or less

However, the legislation includes an exception for California-based automakers. Buyers purchasing vehicles from companies headquartered in California may qualify regardless of vehicle price.

The vehicle's weight is another limitation. The vehicle may not exceed 8,500 pounds. According to Motortrend's website, the heaviest Rivian R1S EV is about 7,100 pounds and the Chevrolet Silverado EV is about 1,100 pounds below the limit.

Popular used EVs, such as the ITesla Model 3, Chevrolet Bolt, Nissan Leaf, and the Hyundai Ioniq 5 are under the $25,000 cap and the 8,500-pound weight limit as well.

This law will expire on Sept. 1, 2031.

The OGs: Fern Valley Emporium

By Sam Markus
Correspondent/Cartoonist

Long before "vintage" became a buzzword and treasure hunting found its way onto social media, Don Zeigler and Lou Bacher were quietly building one of Idyllwild's most enduring gathering places.

For 23 years, Don has owned and operated Fern Valley Emporium in its shady corner beside Strawberry Creek, welcoming everyone from serious collectors to curious browsers looking for that one unexpected find. Lou joined the adventure 21 years ago after walking through the front door as a customer.

"I just loved the place," Lou recalls.

He kept returning until Don finally agreed to rent him a booth. One booth became two, then three, until Lou eventually filled nearly half the store. Before long, what began as a customer renting space had grown into a close friendship and a business partnership that still shapes the store today.

Today, the shop reflects both of their personalities. Don's background in Air Force electronics and decades spent repairing jukeboxes, pinball machines, and vintage audio equipment blends naturally with Lou's eye for art, jewelry, tchotchkes, and his self-described love of wheeling and dealing. The result feels less like a carefully curated antique store and more like a conversation between two old friends with different passions.

"If I played golf," Lou jokes, "it would cost me money. This way I do what I love and make a little."

The building itself has lived many lives. Once owned by Margaret and Rollin Humber, whose family helped shape Fern Valley, it began as a restaurant and still retains its original walk-in refrigerator. In 1962 it became the Black Forest Bakery before later becoming Baker in the Forest. When Don purchased the property in 2003, the building was empty, but he saw something worth preserving. Today its spacious deck overlooking Strawberry Creek remains one of the property's defining features, while the small outbuilding now houses Hidden Grotto, an herb and metaphysical shop.

Both men say the customers have become noticeably younger as vintage has grown in popularity, though traditional antiques still have their faithful audience. Don rarely has to hunt for inventory anymore. After years in business, people simply bring things to him. Lou still enjoys heading out to search for treasures himself, and you're likely to bump into him at any given thrift store or estate sale.

More than anything, though, Fern Valley Emporium has become what Don affectionately calls a social club. Their monthly barbecues regularly fill the deck with locals swapping stories. During the Art Alliance Wine Walk, Don remembers squeezing nearly 100 people onto the patio overlooking Strawberry Creek.

Over the years they've celebrated marriages, welcomed new children into families, mourned losses, and watched generations of locals pass through their doors. Through it all, Don and Lou have remained side by side, welcoming newcomers and longtime locals with the same easy hospitality. "If you find a good friend in Idyllwild," Lou says, "it's a friend for life."

As they look toward the future, both hope Fern Valley Emporium somehow continues beyond them. They've watched countless businesses come and go while the Emporium quietly endured. After more than two decades, the antiques may bring people through the door, but it's the conversations on the deck, the friendships, and the feeling that you've stumbled into old Idyllwild that keep people coming back.

Community Center Chess League: gymnastics for the mind

The next meeting for the ICC Chess League is this Thursday July 16th, 3:30pm - 6:30pm at the Community Center. The Town Crier spoke with Chess League organizer Simone Sobel, who tells us this will be their fourth meeting.

Sobel has divisions for kids and adults, and some of the kids stay to play against adults. "Some want the challenge." There is a point system, with every win or draw adding points to a player's score, and the kids keep beaded necklaces as they rise through the ranks, up to silver and gold.

Chess, Sobel points out, is "gymnastics for the mind." She teaches a lot online, via zoom and through chess.com, and has a website www.chessguru.us, which includes this mission statement: "I want to share my passion and experience as a chess player with my students, and through this magical game they will develop self-esteem, improve cognitive skills and learn about life."

Within her first few years of tournament-level play Sobel rose to be among the top 50 women in US Chess. We will have more to say about her story as the August 20 meeting of the Chess League approaches. Membership is $29 per year. For more information call (951) 659-2638 or email info@idyllwildcommunitycenter.org.

ICC Program Director Johnny Wilson provided the following standings for this year's participants.

JUNIOR LEAGUE (ages 5-14)
1st place: Fenn A. (53 points)

3rd place: Benjamin K. (21 points)
4th place (tie): Makai G. and Finley W. (13 points)
5th place (tie): Khyana P., Liam A., and Milo S. (6 points)

ADULT LEAGUE (ages 15 and up)
1st place: Simone S. (39 points)
2nd place: Johnny W. (19 points)
3rd place: Dan B. (12 points)
(5 points or less): Halie W., Lleyton W., Joe S., Jack A., and Michael K.

Town talk:

What does Idyllwild need more of?

(Editor's note: This week's Town Talk was prepared in a somewhat unorthodox manner by a friend of the Town Crier and sometime visitor to our office, the Idyll-Beast. The photos are characteristically blurry, the Beast's habit of inserting himself in the frame a little disconcerting, and the substitution of the outdoor area of Ferro Restaurant during the festive celebration of Marshall Hawkins' birthday for the sidewalk in front of Post Office at 4:00 p.m. may not have evinced the most sober responses to the question, but in the interest of opening an important conversation we offer the results here.)

ICC SOFTBALL: KIC Construction and Pharos Athletic Club at the Top of the Standings

By Johnny Wilson
ICC Sports Director

Idyllwild Garage started the week strong with a close game victory over Artifacts. Idyllwild Garage had the lead early, but Artifacts were making a comeback in the final innings. Despite a great effort and rally by Artifacts, it was not enough as Idyllwild Garage managed to hold them and went home with the win by a score of 21-17.

Meanwhile, KIC Construction (8-0) and Pharos Athletic Club (7-1) continue to reign at the top of the standings with dominant victories over last week's opponents.

In the middle of the pack, Santa Rosa showed that they are the better team versus BBI Construction last week in a pivotal game for third place. Santa Rosa played well after suffering a 21 - 2 loss to KIC Construction, and bounced back to defeat BBI Construction 23-9. Santa Rosa is currently 3rd in the league standings with a 5-3 record.

Only two weeks left until the playoffs in the final week of July. Which teams will earn comfortable spots in the playoff bracket? So far KIC Construction, Pharos Athletic Club, and Santa Rosa are looking good, but will they hold their positions in the standings by the time the playoffs start? Stay tuned.

Free Summer Concert Series continues with Lisa Lynn and the Broken Hallelujahs and Lily Rock Ramblers tonight, Woody and the Longboards next week

By David Jerome
Editor

Idyllwild's Free Summer Concert series continues with series favorites Lisa Lynn and the Broken Hallelujahs and their tribute to women in country music tonight, July 16. The Lily Rock Ramblers will open. The music starts at 6:05 p.m., and the headliners will play at 7:00 p.m.

Next week, July 23, the Series will welcome Woody and the Longboards, a Beach Boys tribute act. The group was founded by Mark Keating, who has moved from drums to guitar, keys and vocals. He is joined by Andy Young on keyboards and guitar. Young also sings Mike Love's bass vocal parts. Bassist Joe Manchego is also a singer who has "toured with just about every one-hit wonder from the 50's and 60's," according to the band's website. Drummer Ricky Cosentino has toured with War and Ambrosia, and contributed vocal harmonies.

Opening for the Longboards will be TJ and the Dusty Boots, anchored by Terry Jo Stafford andLenny Hansell. Hansell explains "since last year we got ourselves a band. We have John Siroky on keyboards, guitar and vocals, and Charlie Woodburn on drums." They have upcoming gigs at all the most inclusive waterholies in town

City Beat, a 10-piece classic rock, funk and soul band, will play on July 30, with Like Minds starting the evening. August will bring South Bound Premier, a Credence Clearwater Revival tribute on the 6th , and the Bomars opening. On the 13th Series founder and producer Ken Dahleen's Big Band Staff will present their tribute to the Modernaires, the vocal group that performed with the Glenn Miller Orchestra, and they will play their own opening set. On August 20 the 1st Marine Division Concert Band will visit from Camp Pendleton, without an opening act. On the 27th the Blue Breeze Band, an audience favorite from past years, will bring their Motown review, with In The Pocket opening.

The series will close on September 3 with another big band, the Dixie and Swing Collective, with no opening band.

This is the Series' 27th year, and the concerts have had the Butterfield Amphitheater for their home since 2019. Each year, Dahleen brings the best working tribute artists from the region to Idyllwild for unforgettable summer evenings of music, and invites favorites of our local music scene to get the crowds warmed up.

The concerts are always free and open to all. They are paid for entirely by donations from local businesses and individuals. Contributions, checks payable to "Idyllwild Summer Concert Org" may be sent to PO Box 1542, Idyllwild CA 92549, or call (760) 413-4638.

Horoscopes

July 2026 — Week 3

March 21 – April 19
Don't be sheepish about asking questions and demanding answers. You not only gain needed information, you also respect your steadfast search for the truth.

April 20 – May 20
A money problem that shows up early in the week is expeditiously resolved by savvy Bovines, who know how to turn a momentary financial lapse into a monetary gain.

May 21 – June 21
It's a good time to shed negative energy-draining forces and develop a positive approach to handling current -- as well as upcoming -- personal and/or professional situations.

June 22 – July 22
Your urge to do your best on a current task is commendable, but don't let it become all-consuming. Spend some spiritually restorative time with those who love you.

July 23 – August 22
This could be a good time for all you LEOs and LEOnas to take your bows for your recent achievements. Then go off to enjoy some fun times with your prides and joys!

August 23 – September 22
A negative response to a well-intentioned suggestion could communicate a sense of distrust that you might later find hard to refute. Think carefully before reacting.

September 23 – October 22
Your loving attention comforts a family member who's feeling a bit out of sorts. But be careful to prioritize your time so that you don't neglect your work duties.

October 23 – November 21
Your curiosity might be resented by some, but those who know you will support your penchant for never settling for less than the truth. So, stay with it!

November 22 – December 21
A pesky situation from the past recurs, albeit in an altered form. Deal with it promptly before it can go from merely irksome to decidedly troublesome.

December 22 – January 19
Don't wait too long to submit your proposals after giving them a last look over. If necessary, you should be able to defend any portion that gets called into question.

January 20 – February 18
A bid to use your workplace dispute-settling skills in another situation is tempting. But be careful, as you might not have all the facts you'll need if you agree to do it.

February 19 – March 20
A sense of self-doubt is so untypical of you that you should have no qualms in shaking it off. Remind yourself of all you've done and can do, then do it again.

The Community Room at the Idyllwild Branch Library was standing-room-only for Idyllwild Area Historical Society archivist Bob Greenamyer's presentation on Filmmaking in Idyllwild. The story begins with silent films in 1914, features a posse of singing cowboys, and traces the many threads of this mountain's roles in Films including Elvis' Kid Galahad and Peter Fonda in Wild Angels. Greenamyer included clips from many of the films, including two scenes (not shot in Idyllwild) with actor and long-time Idyllwild resident Connor O'Farrell, who was present. Greenamyer will reprise the talk at the Nature Center on Saturday July 18.

AstroCamp: A place for everything and everyone

Contributed by astrocampers Ash Weightman, Andres Rodas Recinos, and Kobe Bryant

(Editor's note: This week we offer a campers-eye view of the AstroCamp experience. It turns out that journalism is also an elective camp activity.)

If you've ever driven the length of Saunders Meadow Road, you've no doubt seen the white-oranges-blues of the wooden AstroCamp sign. The name and planetary orbit logo call to mind images of the Space or Astronaut Camps across the country: telescope viewing under a star-filled sky, experiential science demonstrations, rocket building and launching (or maybe exploding?). (Editor's note: the rocket launches do not occur in our forest, but at a desert launch facility.)

However, the sheer diversity of campers' interests and the staff's experiences lead to a plethora of not just scientific, but artistic, wilderness, performance, and role-playing programs. In addition, the staff also draw on their extracurricular experience to pitch an even wider variety of 90-minute elective activities. This is how today's authors --- Kobe Bryant, Andres Rodas Recinos, and Ash Weightman --- found themselves spending their elective period roaming the campground to write their very own story for The Town Crier.

Bryant set out to make a list of what campers find fun at AstroCamp. Fellow camper Lilley testified to the fun of making bracelets and another arts-and-crafts camper affirmed that making pins was also fun. Program Director Josh promoted the class he taught by discussing how fun he found mountain biking. Welding instructor Shanen went a similar route in describing the fun she had in smashing metal. Several campers and staff also emphasized the sleep-away component of AstroCamp, as many mentioned the fun they had in sleeping.

Recinos honed in on the interior lives of the staff specifically. "I'm Australian," said Summer Operations Lead Ricardo in introduction, ferrying a golf cart with Senior Instructor Jake. When Jake was asked what he does for fun in his spare time, he responded, "Pringles." When pressed on the matter, he elaborated: "Pringle duck lips." Recinos also questioned staff on employee retention, asking Scopes Director Eric what kept him coming back to AstroCamp. "I'm under contract," he responded. Josh provided a similarly insightful answer: "I live here."

The campers' investigations ended at AstroCamp's live-action role-play (LARP) area. Weightman, who had been taking photographs of several interview subjects, geared up for her final shots. When asked if anyone wanted to provide a quote, one camper was eager to provide: "The only people who have the courage to see new seas have the courage to watch the shore fade away." This line is attributed to French author and Nobel Laureate André Gide, and it's likely said camper misunderstood what the request for a quote meant.

Looking out at the LARPers embodying characters they constructed for the 90-minute session while wielding foam-tipped weapons forged by past generations of campers and staff, you can see one kind of crystallization of everything that's important about AstroCamp: a space where students and staff alike are eager to gush at any moment about how much fun their activities are, where staff members improvise the most entertaining responses at the drop of a hat to campers interrupting their day with notepad in hand, to see all the possible paths life could take a person down and to not only think fantastically beyond those bounds but to intertwine their life paths deeply with everyone they meet.

In the final minutes of the 90-minute period, Weightman compiled her photos and typed this article's last passage eagerly as Bryant and Recinos transcribed their quotes: "I have been coming to AstroCamp since I was 10 years old. I am now 14, and this is my fifth year here at AstroCamp. You may ask, 'Why do you keep coming back?' Well, no matter who the instructors are, or who my counselor ends up being, the thing that always makes me want to come back is the community and the acceptance. Each year that I come back --- no matter how much I've changed --- the community welcomes me back with smiles and open arms. It always is the best part of my summer, or maybe even my year. No matter what you like --- be it D&D, Magic: The Gathering, Basketball, Mountain Biking, or more --- there is a class you love and a new friend you'd make, because at AstroCamp, everyone has a place."

Live Action Role Playing is a popular camp activity

Creature Corner

Last week in Days of Our Nine Lives, the ARF cats had fun with the kittens awaiting their forever homes.

Pepper: More adoptions! More kittens!

Sequoia: Yes! More cat adoptions. The siblings Louie and Diamond were adopted, and Luca is now in a great home. One of our new kittens also found a home.

Pepper: Tell us about the new kittens, and which one was adopted.

Star: There are two new litters, and Seltzer, of the "beer" litter was adopted. So that leaves littermates Guinness and Corona. There is also a new litter of four, the "candy" litter. There are Nougat, Snickers, Milky Way, and Licorice.

Star: I guess we could say there is a kitten for any and every family!

Honey: ARF volunteers are busy with feeding and cleaning litter boxes, that's for sure.

Pepper: Any dogs other than you, Star?

Star: There are, but they are not ready yet to be publicized.

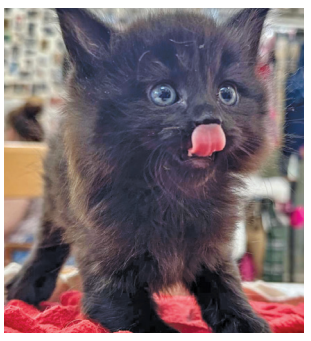

Sequoia: Timing is everything. They must see the vet, get neutered, and get settled.

Honey: I know that ARF is so careful about their dogs and cats.

Pepper: That's for certain. They want to make sure they are healthy and comfortable. And they want the same for their new homes.
