Gasoline Sales Tax Rose Nearly 3% on July 1

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

On July 1, the State's excise tax on gasoline increased, 1.7 cents, from 57.9 cents per gallon to 59.6 cents per gallon. In addition, California drivers pay a federal fuel tax of 18.4 cents per gallon.

As of July 14, the average cost of a gallon of gasoline in California was $4.752 per gallon, the highest in the nation. The national average cost of a gallon of gasoline was $3.522. Both are according to the Automobile Association of America. California is followed by Hawaii and Washington. Mississippi has the lowest average price of $3.007 for regular gas.

According to the California Energy Commission, nearly half (46% of the cost per gallon) was the cost of crude oil. The State's excise tax was the second highest cost component, followed closely by the costs for distribution, marketing and profits.

For regular gas, the average cost of a gallon is about 11 cents less than a month ago and down 15 cents since July 2023.

Worrying about the cost of buying gas for the car will begin to be history, as California gradually eliminates the sale of gas-powered vehicles in favor of zero emission vehicles in the next 10 years.

The California Air Resources Board approved regulations that would prohibit the sale of new gas-powered vehicles in 2035 or later. Over the next 10 years, the percentage of new gas-powered vehicles sold in the State must gradually decline to zero in 2035.

However, gas-powered vehicles may still be owned and registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles. Only used gas-powered vehicles may be sold in 2035 and after.

The sales of new zero-emission vehicles and plug-in hybrid emission vehicles, which was 24% of new vehicles sold in California during the first quarter of 2024, must reach 35% in 2026, 68% in 2030 and 100% five years later. Nearly 2 million ZEV have been sold in California.

State Prepared for Wildfires – Staff and Equipment

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

Last week, Gov. Gavin Newsom and his State Fire Chief and emergency director gave a briefing on the State's preparation and readiness for the current fire season. The setting was Cal Fire's McClellan Air Tanker Base in Sacramento.

"The last couple years brought welcome relief for California as we saw historically low levels of wildfire," Newsom began. "This season is shaping up to be very active, bringing the threat of dangerous wildfire to many parts of our state. California is ready with the world's largest aerial firefighting fleet and new technology that helps us fight fire smarter – and we're already seeing our investments pay off."

Cal Fire Chief and Director Joe Tyler stated what many already believe, "We are not just in a fire season but in a fire year."

But officials stressed that the absence of a drought does not limit the threat or danger of wildfires. As of July 13, there have been 3,737 wildfires in California, that is nearly 575 (18%) more than the same time as last year and 83 less than the five year average through July 13.

But the 2024 fires have already burned nearly 221,540 acres. In 2023, through July 14, only 20,131 acres had been burned and the five year average of acreage burned is slightly more than 105,000 or less than half of this year's burn.

Tyler noted that in the 24 hours leading up to the briefing, 44 wildfires had been reported. "These fires started in light flashy grasses and expand to the brush and timber," he said.

"Climate change is real. Mother Nature bats last and she bats 1,000," Newsom warned. "She is chemistry, biology and physics. . . If you don't believe science, believe your own eyes."

Tyler and Newsom assured the public that Cal Fire is prepared for this year's fires. "We're fully staffed and have our fire engines, hand crews, bull dozers, air tankers and helicopters," he stressed. "The new Black Hawk helicopters are capable of night flying. The Administration has added 20 more privately owned helicopters for our exclusive use and four fixed wing aircraft."

"After I became Governor in 2018, I visited the Paradise Fire site," Newsom related. "At that time, Cal Fire had 6,700 staff. Today it is 9,700. And we've committed to an additional 2,400 over the next five years."

Nancy Ward, the State's Director of Emergency Services, stated that her agency has already pre-positioned equipment throughout the State in collaboration with their mutual aid partners.

"Most of the State is in high risk and or extreme high-risk temperatures," she warned.

Both Tyler and Ward advised residents to use www.ready.ca.gov to find information about emergencies, including preparation.

Two Missing Hikers; One deceased, one still missing

By DAVID JEROME
CORRESPONDENT

The body of a 61-year-old Chula Vista man, Hantae Kim, was recovered near mile 195 of the PCT on Wednesday, July 10 according to Riverside County Sheriff’s Office. He had been missing since Saturday. No cause of death has been released, but he was hiking on a day of record-breaking heat.

Jon King, founder of the San Jacinto Trail Report (SanJacJon.com), was in contact with Kim’s family and provided some background to the Crier. He said that Kim was an experienced hiker who had hiked local sections of the PCT. Kim parked at Fuller Ridge Campground, near mile 191, set out southbound on Fuller Ridge trail, then went north towards Snow Creek. King said Kim began the route early, in a wooded and shady section of the trail, but ended up on an “extremely exposed” section of the trail at a lower elevation in the afternoon. “Even in winter it is extremely important to plan hikes, choosing route and equipment carefully. Please take heat warnings seriously.”

King also brought a second missing hiker to our attention, Robert Budinski, a Washington state resident in his 60s, who went by the trail name “Ambassador.” He has been missing since April 15th.

According to King, Budinski began the PCT at Campo on April 1, made it to Mount Laguna, and got a ride to Idyllwild. After a stay at the State Park Campground, a trail angel known as “Leo” dropped Budinski off at Black Mountain Road on April 15. Budinski was taking an alternate route to avoid snow on Fuller Ridge, and King notes that he himself hiked Budinski’s route three days later, finding the first five miles free of snow, with patchy snow on the next three before descending. Budinski was only reported missing when the “bounce box” he had waiting for him in Cabazon went unclaimed. He had hiked Southern California sections of the trail before.

Riverside Sheriff’s Office would only say that Budinski is still listed as missing. Those with information should call RSO at (951) 766-1099.

September Public Hearing for Waste Collection Rate Increase

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

At its July 9 meeting, the County Board of Supervisors set a public hearing for Sept. 10 to consider a new agreement with CCR, the waste collection service for residents and businesses on the Hill. This will also include a rate increase.

In his memorandum to the Board, Jeff Johnson, Director of Environmental Health, indicated that the rates were being adjusted for solid waste organics and recycling services.

Implementation of Senate Bill 1383, originally approved in September 2016, includes the requirement to “cut the amount of organic material going into landfills.” An initial reduction occurred in 2020. Now the County must reduce this waste going into landfills by another 75%. More of this enforcement will affect residential waste, according to Johnson.

One of the changes will be an effort to establish an edible food recovery program. Its intent is to divert edible food from waste to useful end uses. This may include “periodic waste evaluation of sampling and testing for organic residual in containers meant for the landfill, Johnson told the Board.

In order to comply and enforce the new regulations, including an increase in the oversight of the waste system, the County is proposing to increase residential waste fees on the Hill from $18 to $19.74. Commercial rates will also increase. There is no single commercial rate. They vary based on a several factors, but will also be increasing in October, the effective date for the new rates.

Pine Cove Water District Meeting Looks at the Budget

CORRESPONDENT

Pine Cove Water District’s July 10 meeting was brief. Final figures for financial year 2023-24 showed a surplus of over $100,000. President Robert Hewitt and Vice President Lou Padilla were both absent, but a quorum was made by directors Vicki Jacobac, Rose Venard and Becky Smith. GM Potter was engaged in dealing with the aftermath of a house fire, and so Office Manager Jennifer Hayes presented his operations report.

The meeting was also a formally noticed public hearing regarding the existing $30 per acre or portion thereof standby fee on undeveloped parcels. This is an annual formality, and the fee will continue unchanged.

June was the last year of financial year 2023-24, and so the annual figures were available. The district stayed within its budget, adding $111,893 to its reserves, a number Smith called “beautiful.” With income 9% over budget and expenses kept 10% under, the 12% increase in payroll, mostly salary and medical insurance, was covered. Hayes said that GM Potter will apply the reserves towards tank repair and vehicles.

The operations report showed production up a half percent over June of last year, at 3,208,711 gallons. The district’s static well #10 continued its rise from high-country runoff, up 2.48 feet to 60.62 feet.

Hayes also briefed the board on her search for options as the company that provides the district billing and front office software, UBMax, has been purchased by gWorks. The services also include public alert notices. These alert customers of shutoffs, boil alerts, emergencies like fire evacuations, and even things like lost pets. The service includes emails, calls to land lines and cell, and text messages to customers who sign up. The alerts are pinpointed by area.

Last month the board heard that gWorks will cost about $4,000 per year more than UBMax. Armed with a list of companies whose systems are compatible with their meters, she arranged three product demos. One of the companies missed their appointment and was eliminated. The other two provided plans that, although attractive, were significantly more expensive than that offered by gWorks, one in terms of set up, and the other in ongoing fees.

Hayes recommended that the district stay with gWorks. The board members concurred, with director Smith noting that although the board will share their opinions, this is a decision for Potter and Hayes.

The next meeting will be on Wednesday, August 14.

Riverside County’s emergency site can be accessed at rivcoready.org/.

“My plea to you is to please create a wildfire action plan that addresses escape route, meeting places, animal arrangements, and a communication plan with family and friends,” Tyler urged residents.

Both again recommended that homeowners create defensible space around structures and make home hardening improvements to reduce the risk of a fire in the house.

Newsom also mentioned that his administration requested funding to begin the use of full-time monitoring of forests with the aid of artificial intelligence. These innovations include: the establishment of the Wildfire Threat Intelligence Center, which serves as California’s integrated hub for wildfire and weather intelligence; The Fire Integrated Real-Time Intelligence System to map wildfire information in real-time; and a partnership with the Department of Defense to use satellites for mapping wildfires, as well as the use of drone technology while fighting fires.

DEAR IDYLLWILD COMMUNITY,

On Saturday, July 13, 2024, Idyllwild Arts bid farewell to 30 years of Jazz In The Pines, an adventure that began with Barbara Wood, Lin Carlson, and the vision of Dr. Marshall Hawkins.

The 2024 Jazz In The Pines Festival & Student Clinic began each week with concerts featuring Grammy winners, LA recording session players, and great Jazz practitioners from across Southern California who served on the faculty. Students also ended each week of the festival by playing in combos and big bands, and a new feature this year, Latin bands!

John Daversa’s Big Band had listeners in awe as they played the Grammy-nominated album, “Kaleidoscope Eyes: Music of the Beatles” with singer Maiya Sykes bringing down the house with her soulful voice and sheer enjoyment as a performer.

The two-week festival also featured backstories and interviews that surprised and delighted many festival-goers. Highlights included Steve Proffitt’s reading from an excerpt of Dr. Hawkins’ memoirs followed by an interview that focused more on the life of Dr. Hawkins versus his career. Also featured was John Daversa’s podcast interview with Dr. Hawkins (spoiler alert: Marshall reveals how much Miles Davis actually paid him!), and the panel discussion with Marshall and a few of his friends, where you could hear a pin drop during the exchange of these amazing musicians.

This year’s festival was dedicated to the memory of legendary guitarist Bob Boss, who passed away earlier this year. The Seahawk MoJO concert on Friday, July 12th lifted Bob in song as his family and a grateful crowd watched from the audience. Longtime favorites including singers Yve Evans and Sherry Williams, clarinetist Evan Christopher, pianist Joshua White and several others joined Seahawk to celebrate Bob’s life and incredible career. The evening concluded with a rousing rendition of “Happy Birthday” to Dr. Hawkins on the eve of his 85th birthday.

We are grateful to our sponsors who helped make this year possible: The Associates of Idyllwild Arts Foundation, Robin & William Rhoads, Heimark, LLC, La Quinta Brewing, Matin du Bois Vintners, Sparkling Ice, Corbeaux Wine & Tea House, media sponsor The Town Crier, and Premiere sponsors, Linda and Manny Rider, whose love and support of our students knows no bounds. All proceeds from the festival support Academy and Summer Program student scholarships.

The mission of Jazz In The Pines was to support and empower the students of Idyllwild Arts through an inter-generational teaching-artist model anchored in the strategies of jazz music and the artistry of its greatest practitioners. This mission will certainly live on as we continue to teach Jazz to many generations to come. As for the festival, Dr. Hawkins said it best, “Mission Accomplished!”

I extend a heartfelt thanks to the community of Idyllwild for the support that the festival has received throughout the years.

With deep gratitude,

Pamela Jordan

“ASK SPIRITUAL WORKOUT”
By Steven Morrison, M.A.

• Editor’s Note: Spiritual Workout is a practice of these 15 concepts: Be Compassionate • Beliefs Matter • Be Present • Choices Abound • Everything Is Energy • Have an Attitude of Gratitude • Intentions Matter • Judgments Separate Us • Listen to Inspiration • Mind & Body Are Connected • Take Responsibility • The Law of Attraction Is Always On • We Are All Connected • We Are Here for a Reason • We Belong to the Planet, Not the Planet to Us. More at spiritualworkout.com.

Dear Spiritual Workout:
I have some very difficult family relationships and experiences and am hearing a lot about “going no contact.” What are your thoughts about this?
One thought: intentions matter. Why would/wouldn’t you? But I want to talk more about listening to inspiration and how beliefs matter. We all know that some birth/blood families are happy, well-functioning ecosystems. For the most part, family members love and respect one another and enjoy each other’s company. They maintain ties when they are geographically apart and gather regularly when they are geographically close. Laughter and warm connections always outweigh garden variety annoyances. Some birth/blood families, however, are not like that at all. When family interactions leave one feeling hurt, sad, confused, unsafe, guilty, ashamed — and the like — the feelings themselves are evidence that something is out of alignment for that person. In virtually all such cases, beliefs like “family is everything” and “you must watch out for your sister” and “we don’t talk about that” can paralyze a person in your situation. Choosing estrangement — or no contact — is something one must decide for oneself. But getting clear about why you’d do it and, then, undoing beliefs that might be preventing it, will help that decision-making.

Dear Spiritual Workout:
I just learned that I have a serious, not-life-threatening, medical condition that will require some big changes to my everyday life. I want to tell some friends because they’ll expect me to, but I also want to preserve my privacy. It’s a small town! Thoughts?
As one who shares your small town as well as your penchant for privacy, it’s helpful first to re-affirm the choice you’ve made to live in a small town, which means accepting its charms and limitations if that’s a big part of this for you. Also, an issue underneath the issue, as I hear it, could be a desire you have to be the writer of your own narrative: to say what’s happening with you after which everyone falls in line and repeats your narrative. Good luck with that because people will universally believe what they believe whether it’s true or not. (I don’t make the rules!) So instead of trying to control an uncontrollable narrative, control what you can: intention. Spiritual Workout encourages anyone with a serious medical diagnosis/condition to create an intention for their overall health and well-being — to articulate what’s wanted. Then, talk with your friends from that position and solicit their support for it. You might say something like, “Look, this thing had me a bit freaked out at first, but now I’m on it. I am focused on living as full and happy a life as I can while I adjust to some new realities. I will readily welcome any and all energy that supports me in all of this, but I will shy away from the energies that don’t — like fear or disagreement.” This should put you in a position of strength and help you see who might/might not be of help to you.

Steven’s Note: Let’s communicate more directly! Please send your questions and comments to “dearspiritualworkout@spiritualworkout.com.” That includes any that pertain to previously-published q’s and a’s.

California AG Bonta Releases Crime Data Reports for 2023

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

Earlier this month, California Attorney General Rob Bonta released several annual reports which included various crime data and statistics. These are Homicide in California, Crime in California, Use of Force Incident Reporting, Juvenile Justice in California, and Crime Guns in California. The information contained in the reports reflects statistics and data from 2023, which multiple California law enforcement agencies and other criminal justice entities provided to the State’s Department of Justice.

“These data are considered essential for understanding, preventing, and combating crime,” according to Bonta.

“I encourage local partners and law enforcement to review the data and recommit to taking action,” he said in his press release. “. . . While crime rates remain significantly below their historical highs, there is always more work to be done to protect public safety in our communities. . . . Accurate statistics and the data in the annual crime reports are a critical part of calibrating our response, ensuring policymakers and law enforcement are able to make informed decisions.”

Each year, the DOJ publishes these reports on various criminal justice statistics in California.

Each report is described below along with some key findings:

Homicide in California 2023

In this report, data about homicides, such as demographic data of victims, persons arrested for homicide, persons sentenced to death, peace officers feloniously killed in the line of duty, and justifiable homicides, are available.

The homicide rate, defined as the number of homicides per 100,000 people in the state, decreased 15.8% in 2023 (from 5.7 per 100,000 in 2022 to 4.8 per 100,000 in 2023).

Firearms continue to be the most common weapon used in homicides. In 2023, 72.8% of homicides, where the weapon was identified, involved a firearm.

Nearly half of homicide victims were killed by a friend or acquaintance. Another 15% were killed by their spouse, parent, or child. Only 30% met their death from the hands of a stranger.

Crime in California 2023

This report includes data about a variety of reported crimes. This includes arrests and their disposition. Other related statistics, such as civilians’ complaints against peace officers, domestic violence-related calls for assistance, anti-reproductive rights crimes, and law enforcement officers killed or assaulted, are also included in this report.

The violent crime rate — i.e., the number of violent crimes per 100,000 people — increased 3.3% from 494.6 per 100,000 people in 2022 to 511 in 2023, remaining significantly below California’s historical high of 1,103.9 in 1992, nearly 30 years ago. The property crime rate decreased 1.8% from 2,313.6 per 100,000 people in 2022 to 2,272.7 in 2023.

The arrest rate increased 3% from 2,535.2 in 2022 to 2,611.2 in 2023.

Use of Force Incident Reporting 2023

This report presents a summary overview of use of force or the discharge of a firearm by a civilian, a peace officer, or both.

In 2023, there were 638 incidents that involved the use of force resulting in serious bodily injury or death of a civilian or officer, or the discharge of a firearm.

In 2023, 658 civilians – half were Hispanic, and a quarter were white – were involved in incidents that involved the discharge of a firearm or use of force resulting in serious bodily injury or death.

In 2022, 1,406 officers were involved in incidents that involved the discharge of a firearm or use of force resulting in serious bodily injury or death. Only 16% of the involved officers were injured and 0.2% died.

Juvenile Justice in California 2023

This report provides insight into the juvenile justice process. The data includes the number of arrests, referrals to probation departments, petitions filed, and dispositions for juveniles tried in juvenile and adult courts.

In 2023, more than 43,085 juveniles were referred to probation, of which half of the referrals were made by law enforcement personnel. Of more than 32,000 juvenile arrests, half were for felony offenses. Of the 48 juveniles tried in adult court, half resulted in a conviction.

Crime Guns in California 2023

This report provides data on the insight into patterns and trends relating to recovered firearms used in a crime or suspected to have been used in a crime.

Approximately 137,400 unique crime guns with identifiable serial numbers were recovered by law enforcement agencies in California. An additional, 36,000 crime guns had no recorded serial number.

The largest number of recovered crime guns was 11,800 in Los Angeles County. And San Bernardino County had about 50% more recovered crime guns than its neighbor Riverside County, which had 3,100 guns recovered, the third greatest in the State.

Of 1,597 distinct California firearm dealers, 87 were associated with roughly half of all crime guns recovered in 2023.

On average, each licensed dealer sold or transferred 21.5 firearms that were later identified as a crime gun between 2021 and 2023, which is nearly twice a month.

While law enforcement agencies across the state are in the process of transitioning to the new data collection system known as the California Incident-Based Reporting System, the format of the information made available in this year’s reports remains consistent with previous years.

Through CIBRS, policymakers, law enforcement, and members of the public will eventually have more detailed information, context, and specificity about crime in the state. To date, more than 600 reporting agencies have completed the transition and are in the process of becoming certified by DOJ, according to the DOJ press release.

In the interim, to ensure the annual criminal justice reports remain complete and accurate to the fullest extent possible, DOJ continues to accept data in both the legacy and CIBRS formats. The information made available in this year’s reports is a combination of data collected under both reporting methods.

The Homicide in California report is available at data-openjustice.doj.ca.gov/sites/default/files/2024-07/Homicide%20In%20CA%202023f.pdf.

The Crime in California report can be found at data-openjustice.doj.ca.gov/sites/default/files/2024-07/Crime%20In%20CA%202023f.pdf.

Transportation Commission Nixes Sales Tax Proposal

By JP CRUMRINE
CORRESPONDENT

In January, the Riverside County Transportation Commission released a new draft of its “Traffic Relief Plan”. The plan serves as a long-range strategy to improve transportation opportunities throughout Riverside County. Not only does it address highway and roadway changes and improvements, but the Plan includes passenger rail and bicycle prospects.

The RCTC adopted a Traffic Plan in 2020, but for a variety of reasons, such as funding, COVID and others, the Commission did not implement any of the recommendations. In 2023, since the need for transportation improvements still existed, the Commission felt it was time to revise the Plan.

The Commission also proposed to address a fall ballot measure requesting County voters to approve an increase in the sales tax by one cent to fund the projects included in the plan. Despite extensive outreach efforts in the past five months, the RCTC staff felt there would not be sufficient support to approve the tax increase and the Commission concurred.

Funding for County transportation projects is currently provided by a half of a cent sales tax. This was originally approved in 1988 when voters adopted Measure A. Before the 20-year duration of Measure A, in 2002, 70 % of County voters supported an extension of Measure A through 2039.

“While community support for funding transportation improvement is overwhelming by most standards, the support does not confidently meet the high voter-approval threshold needed to pass a new sales tax measure under the RCTC authorized statutes,” David Knudsen, RCTC’s deputy executive director, told the Commission at its July 10 meeting.

“Your staff is not confident the measure would be approved in 2024 and does not recommend seeking voter approval,” he concluded.

The RCTC staff conducted two public opinion surveys since January. In each, the initial approval was 58 to 60%. The person asking the questions then provided more information on the reason and need for the projects and the concomitant funding. In both surveys, the “Yes” percentage rose to 63%.

But current laws would require 67% percent approval, which is why the staff recommended that the Commission defer seeking any tax increase this fall.

Chair of the Commission, Lloyd White of Beaumont, lamented the outcome. He noted that the Plan identifies ways to reduce traffic congestion throughout the County.

“But timing is everything,” he lamented. “Now is not the time to seek new rate approval. We’ll look at a future election.”

“Time to work on education. Two years to educate the people about why we need this,” added Chuck Conder of the City of Riverside.

The commission vote was 28 votes in favor of adopting the plan but not pursuing any tax measures. Five members abstained. All five Riverside County Supervisors voted to defer any tax action.

In January, Fourth District Supervisor V. Manuel Perez described the plan in an email to the Town Crier. “This can include the need to expand roads and bridges, and projects such as a bypass by Morongo so the 10 freeway doesn’t get bottlenecked,” wrote. There’s also a balance here. We have to look at other ways that can reduce traffic congestion, such as how we can use rail, public transportation, rideshare programs, and active transportation projects. It’s going to require resources to expand our transportation efforts on all these fronts.”

These are the eight types of projects which are included in the TRP: highways, public transportation, regional connections, commuter assistance, active transportation, flood and blowing sand control and environmental mitigation.

The 30-year cost to implement the plan was estimated to be $125 billion. Western Riverside County’s portion of this cost was estimated to be $20 billion.

DUIs

A solo vehicle accident around 11:30 p.m. on the night of Monday, July 8, left minor damage to the Freewyld property at the corner of North Circle and River Drive. Officer Johnathon Torres of the Indio CHP described the accident as “A 2006 Ford Explorer driven by a 26 year old male versus a few small trees.” The next morning, two trees were lying by the side of the road, and another had lost a significant amount of bark. Some of the landscaping brick features were also disturbed, damage that was repaired that day. The driver suffered minor injuries and was arrested under suspicion of DUI.

On Friday, July 12, a driver eastbound on highway 74 near Pinyon Crest lost control and crashed into the mountain side. Officer Johnathon Torres of the Indio CHP provided these details: A 28-year-old male from San Diego in a white 2017 Subaru Outback failed to negotiate a curve. There were no injuries but the driver was arrested under suspicion of DUI.

Matter of Fact

The photo of the crowd at the Idy Park Lights the Night event in last week’s paper was incorrectly credited to Peter Szabadi. The photo was actually taken by Joel Feingold. We regret the error.

On July 13, 2024, at 8:37 p.m., deputies were dispatched to the 26000 block of Delano Drive in Idyllwild regarding a female reporting she had been threatened with a hatchet. The female said she was able exit the residence with no injuries, but the man was still inside and was very intoxicated. Deputies arrived, surrounded the residence, and after a few minutes of making announcements, the male stepped out and was taken into custody without incident. He was booked into a county jail for criminal threats.

Final Farwell

Dr. Marshall Hawkins' Seahawk Modern Jazz Orchestra presented the concluding headline concert of the 30th and final Jazz in the Pines Festival on Friday July 12. Idyllwild Arts Academy President Pamela Jordan dedicated the evening to the memory of the "late jazz guitar giant, our beloved Bob Boss." Jordan presented Boss' wife of 44 years, Vicki, with a plaque and a ceramic bowl normally only given to IAA faculty members.

The concert opened with elements now familiar to local audiences: an African drum solo, and pianist Joshua White performing 'Lift Every Voice and Sing.' These choices underline Hawkins' dedication to the entire heritage of jazz. As series promoter Rose Collela noted, you can hear the history of Jazz in every solo Marshall takes, and in every Seahawk MoJO concert.

Seahawk is an orchestra, combining a big band with strings and flutes, an extended percussion section, and a cast of soloists. Summer Jazz Clinic staff filled the ranks of the brass section, including John Daversa on trumpet. Locals were also happy to see, among others, Paul Carman and Ken Dahleen side by side among the saxes, Lily McCabe on violin, and Marshall's son Ray among the drummers.

Yve Evans delivered a brief eulogy for Bob Boss while preluding at the piano, setting up a performance of one of Boss' favorite songs, "Here's to Life." The song's verse tells us "all you give is all you get, so give it all you got," a fitting tribute to Boss and Hawkins. Evans has a way of shifting from dramatic and suspenseful counter melody into a child-like matter-of-fact tone, where the most artful statement is also the most sincere. Sherry Williams delivered another song about parting from an unforgettable friend, "I'll Be Seeing You."

The first half of the concert grew from soloists to small ensembles, with the brass section waiting over 45 minutes before joining in. Marshall developed Seahawk MoJO to bring jazz to schools, and there is still a sense that it is both peerless ensemble and history lesson without words.

Jordan described Dr Hawkins as the "father" of jazz at Idyllwild arts, and the festival the "clarion call" of his beliefs about jazz. Jazz, to those who live it, is more than a style or genre of music. "Marshall expressed that jazz is about an entire experience, mindset, and way of approaching music and life."

The evening included several tributes to Dr Hawkins, Jordan noting that his 85th birthday was in two days. Pianist and composer Markus Burger played his "Marshall's Blues" with Marshall and a drummer. Casey Abrams recalled Hawkins' influence as a teacher and played his Latin-feel version of "Nature Boy." The audience sang "Happy Birthday." Guitarist and Student Clinic Director Tom Hynes noted that musicians don't express themselves primarily with words, but the best one he could find to describe Hawkins' impact was "incalculable." Jordan presented him with a plaque with his epigrammatic statement about the festival, "mission accomplished."

This year's festival, we are told over and over, will be the last. But many find that hard to believe. Certainly, the Jazz program, and the Summer Clinics, will continue to bring great musicians and talented young people here every year. And perhaps those clinic concerts will attract more attention.

Lemon Lily Festival Continues Without Lemon Lilies

CORRESPONDENT

The Friends of the San Jacinto Mountain County Parks held their annual Lemon Lily Festival at the Nature Center on Saturday, July 13. This month's record-breaking heat wave meant an early blooming season, and fewer human visitors to the event. Those who made it enjoyed crafts and games for kids, a story walk, free face painting and "bounce house," as well as food and craft vendors and live music.

FSJMCP Vice President and Nature center volunteer docent Jeff Galizio said that last year, with the wet winter, July was perfect timing for the festival, but this year the lilies bloomed early and, at least at lower elevations, were gone by the time of the festival. The blooms normally last about two weeks, Galizio said. The good news is that the restoration project near the Nature Center had more flowers than the year before.

Freemontia, the magazine of the California Native Plant Society published an article about the Lemon Lily and its festival in the December 2016 issue. The article said that the Lemon Lily "may be the only native geophyte to have its own festival." Geophytes are plants with underground storage organs, or bulbs.

The story notes that the first Lemon Lily Festival was held downtown in 2010, but it has since migrated to the Nature Center, where the FSJMSP have kept its spirit alive. Lilium parryi is one of 11 Lilium species native to California. It is also found in southeastern Arizona and Sonora, Mexico. It is a wetland plant that likes creek flood plains. Once common in our Idyllwild, the plant was a victim of its popularity with gardeners. One 1902 harvesting group took 5000 bulbs in a single season. Neither federally or state listed, it is listed by the Forest Service as a "Sensitive Species."

FSJMCP's next Nature Center event will be their August 17 Butterfly Daze, which will feature a live butterfly tent.

Summer Concert Series Continues

CORRESPONDENT

Idyllwild’s free Summer Concert Series continues its 25th Anniversary season on Thursday, July 18, with SouthBound and Company’s Classic Rock Double Shot. Locals Sandii Castleberry and Lily McCabe will open the show. Next week, on the 25th, Sharon Owens performs as Barbra Streisand, backed up by Ken Dahleen’s Big Band Staff, who will also open that show.

SouthBound and Company are one of the Inland Empire’s hardest working classic rock tribute acts, and Idyllwild will doubtless be the coolest gig they play this summer. They have appeared under various guises here, last year with their Lynyrd Skynyrd tribute, Skynyrd and Frynds.

Next week, on July 25th, concertgoers will be treated to an evening with “Barbra.” Dahleen calls Sharon Owens “one of the most sought-after Streisand tribute acts in the world.” Last year he spent 7 weeks on the road as a member of her touring band. Just this month she has performed in New York and Florida.

Owens has been bringing Streisand to audiences since 1992. Her uncanny resemblance to Streisand, in both voice and appearance, and her impeccable showmanship, soon took her from cabarets and dinner theater shows in LA to Las Vegas and the Legends in Concert series. She also tours with “The Divas,” an all-female cast direct from Vegas.

About his band Ken says “We are all studio musicians. We all work together in different organizations and studios. They’re first call guys all over the Southern California area. They take the calls at casinos to play for major stars, we’re expected to get it right the first time.”

The concerts are all free, but donations are gratefully accepted. The funding is met through contributions from the community, and the series always starts on a wing and a prayer. The budget this year is $49,000. Contributions, checks payable to “Idyllwild Summer Concert Org,” may be sent to PO Box 1542, Idyllwild CA 92549-1542. Or call (760)413-4638.

Both shows begin at 6:05 p.m. Butterfield Amphitheater, 54201 Ridgeview Drive, access through the Idyllwild Community Center Playground Parking lot on Highway 243 just south of town.

CREATURE CORNER

Last week in Days of Our Nine Lives, the ARF cats and dogs shared ways for pets to stay cool in hot weather. Smokey: I heard someone say we are experiencing the dog days of summer. What does that mean?

Kitten a

Pepper: I know! I know! The dog days of summer are hot, sultry days. They were, according to history, the days following the rising of the star Sirius, which was known as the dog star. Stretch: Really. I didn't know this.

Kitten b

Pepper: Hellenistic astrology connected this with heat, drought, thunderstorms, lethargy, fever, and bad luck. Eeyore: You dogs should be offended by this! Henri: Well, I think we are! I'm certainly not bad luck! Pepper: It accurately describes some days of summer, especially the part about heat. Harley: Can you imagine being a feral or stray cat living outside during this challenging time of year? Whiskey: Fortunately, all of you felines are in the ARF House. Eeyore: But to be honest, I'd much rather be in a home with a family. Smokey: Regardless of the weather, a forever home is best. Eeyore: I wonder if people have stopped to understand that if we are adopted, it frees up room for more homeless cats to come into ARF. Harley: That is so very true. If we were adopted, ARF could take in more felines. That would be a win-win for all cats involved! Eeyore: Maybe this will encourage people who are considering adopting one of us to stop by to visit. They just might go home with one of us!

Creature Corner is looking for sponsors! If you'd like to be a sponsor, please contact ARF. Be sure to keep up with the animal antics of Days of our Nine Lives each week. And please stop in to say hello to the entire adoptable cast at the ARF House, 26890 Hwy 243. ARF is open Saturdays 10-3, Sundays 10-2, and during the week by appointment. Please call 951-659-1122.

HOROSCOPES

July 2024 — Week 3

March 21 – April 19

A bit of Arian contrariness could be keeping you from getting all of the facts. Turn it off and tune in to what you need to hear. It could make all the difference this week.

April 20 – May 20

Getting an answer to a vital question involving financial matters might take longer than you'd expected. A new factor might have to be dealt with before anything can move forward. Be patient.

May 21 – June 21

Use your good sense to see what really might be driving a colleague's workplace agenda. What you learn could lead to a new way of handling some old problems.

June 22 – July 22

A change of mind might once again turn out to be a good thing. True, most of your co-workers might not like the delay, but as before, they might appreciate what follows from it.

July 23 – August 22

You revel in golden opportunities this week. One cautionary note, though: Be careful to separate the gold from the glitter before you make a choice. Someone you trust can help.

August 23 – September 22

Marriage is important this week, as are other partnerships. Don't let yourself be overwhelmed by sentiment. Instead, try to steer a path between emotion and common sense.

September 23 – October 22

Dealing with someone who has let you down is never easy. But the sooner you're able to clear up this problem, the sooner other problems can be successfully handled.

October 23 – November 21

A "friend" who is willing to bend the rules to gain an advantage for both of you is no friend. Reject the offer, and stay on your usual straight and narrow path.

November 22 – December 21

After all the effort you've been putting in on the job and for friends and family, it's a good time to indulge your own needs. Meanwhile, the weekend could bring a pleasant surprise.

December 22 – January 19

You might want to do something new this weekend. Close your eyes and imagine what it could be, then do it! Or come up with the closest practical alternative.

January 20 – February 18

Your good deeds bring you the appreciation you so well deserve. But once again, be careful of those who might want to exploit your generous nature for their own purposes.

February 19 – March 20

Trolling for compliments isn't necessary. You earned them, and you'll get them. This week, concentrate on moving ahead into the next phase of your program.
